Painful Accidents At Skating Rink And Factory

A group of smaller boys, including Jack Coakwell, son of Frank Coakwell, were playing hockey in one corner of the ring. Some of the older boys were having a game on the main sheet of ice. Earl Richardson skated down toward the younger boys and collided with Jack Coakwell. Richardson's face struck the boards and his nose was badly broken. Young Coakwell was thrown to the ice and his leg was broken between the knee and the ankle.

Dickie McNeil, the young son of Harry McNeil suffered a painful accident on New Year's Day. While playing hockey with a number of boys on the rink behind Trinity Church, he was struck in the mouth with a puck. He lost two lower teeth and his mouth was quite badly lacerated.

Accident at Gibbard's

On Wednesday, at the Gibbard Furniture Shops, Clarence Gordon Gilbert, as employee, who lives in Clarksville, had the four fingers of his right hand badly cut. He was working on a shaper which has several very sharp knives, and was just finishing a piece of work, when his hand came in contact with the knives. The index finger was half taken off and the ends of the other three fingers were removed. Medical attention was given by Dr. D. R. Hall and Mr. Gilbert was removed to his home. For the first few days he suffered a great deal from shock and was in considerable pain.

In the eight years that Mr. Gilbert has been with Gibbard's, this is the first time he has been the victim of an accident.

Japan's Population Growing Rapidly

Tokio. — Japan's cities continued their rapid growth this year; 33 of them have now passed the 100,000 mark as compared with only 28 when the last official census was taken, October 1, 1930. Three cities top the 1,000,000 mark, Tokio, Osaka and Kyoto, the ancient capital, which, having been injected with new industrial life, has advanced in numbers to 1,026,900.

Far in front among the cities was Tokio, the present capital, with 5,480,200 inhabitants, easily the third city of the world.

The statistics bureau estimated that the population of Japan proper excluding Korea, Formosa, Manchulien and other outlying possessions and mandates, at 67,238,600 on October 1st, an increase of 942,000 over the previous year. In 1930 the population of the entire empire was 90,-396,043.

Rev R. J. Dumbrille Made Archdeacon

Reverend Canon R. J. Dumbrille, Vicar of St. Mary Magdalen Anglican Church in Napanee received notice on Tuesday of his elevation, by the Lord Bishop of Ontario, to the position of Archdeacon of the western half of the diocese of Ontario.

Mr. Dumbrille came to Napanee about six and half years ago, from Kemptville, as successor to Archdeacon Coleman, who was transferred to Kingston. About two years ago, Mr. Dumbrille was appointed Canon. News of this additional honor, will be received with pleasure by members of St. Mary's Church and all citizens of the community.

Mr. Dumbrille will still continue to reside in Napanee and have charge of St. Mary's Church.

Pres. Roosevelt Outlines World Peace Program

Opposed to Armed Intervention

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking at the boservance of the seventy-seventh birth anniversary of the late Woodrow Wilson, said that the United States did not contemplate becoming a member of the League of Nations. Also as a definite policy it would be opposed to armed intervention in the affairs of another nation.

President Roosevelt spoke in glowing terms of the value of the League of Nations as an agency for maintaining peace. But on the other hand, political profit, personal prestige, national aggrandizement, attended the birth of the League and formed a handicap from its inception.

Outlines Peace Program

The President said the suggestions he had to make were made only after he felt sure, following a hard headed practical survey, that the temper of the overwhelming majority of men and women in his country, and in fact in the world, were in accord with the general principles he set forth.

The three-point program is given here :

The President, in outlining his own three points for a universal peace, said he had told "every nation in the world something to this effect :

"1. Let every nation agree to eliminate over a short period of years, and by progressive steps, every weapon of offense in its possession and to refrain from additional weapons of offense. This does not guarantee a nation against invasion unless you supplement it with the right to fortify its own border with permanent and non-mobile defenses; and also with the right to assure itself through international continuing inspection that its neighbors are not creating nor maintaining offensive weapons of war.

"2 A simple declaration that no nation will permit any of its armed forces to cross its own borders into the territory of another nation. Such an act would be regarded by humanity as an act of agression, and as an act, therefore, that would call for condemnation by humanity.

"3. It is clear, of course, that no such general agreement for the elimination of aggrehsion and of weapons of offensive warfare would be of any value in the world unless every nation, without exception, entered into the agreement by solemn obligation. If then such an agreement were signed by a great majority of the nations on the definite condition that it would go into effect only when signed by all the nations, it would be a comparatively easy matter to determine which nations in this enlightened time are willing to go on record as a challenge to the small minority of mankind which still believes in the use of the sword for invasion of an attack upon their neighbors."

The many friends of Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Red Wings hockey team, were delighted to hear his voice over the radio from CFRB, Toronto, on Saturday evening at 6:45. He was introduced by Wes. McKnight, and, after greeting his Napanee friends, Jack gave a short history of his hockey career.

In answer to questions asked him by Mr. McKnight, Jack said that when the Red Wings met any other team but the Maple Leafs, they figured they had an even chance.

In conclusion, McKnight told Jack that he hoped the Red Wings would win the United States section and that the Maple Leafs would win the Canadian section, and that, in the play-offs, Toronto would defeat Detroit. Jack said that if these two teams came together in the finals, the Red Wings would let them have "both barrels."

Premier Henry Issues New Year's Message to People of Ontario

To The Editor :

A new year is here. It lies, large and problematical, before us. What we, in Ontario, shall make of it depends primarily on our resourcefulness, our courage, and our pride.

With four years of depression past—the worst of it is over, I believe—the Province finds itself in a rather favored position. Though many difficulties loom ahead—and I, for one, do not minimize their complexities—our Ship of State is once more riding on even keel, with colors flying.

Our people are being fed, clothed and sheltered. None starves. Our credit is unimpaired. Our institutions, sound. There is no disorder. Little lawlessness. Throughout all our trials, the people have manifested their adherence to British tradition and to British sane thinking. By patience, perseverance, and general co-operation with those entrusted with the reigns of administration, they have proven that the welfare of a country, in times of stress, comes properly before things political and matters purely partisan.

This attitude of mind must prevail throughout 1934—if we are to come safely and securely through. There should be no place in our calculations as a Province for quack tonics and cure-alls concocted by impractical preachers and prophets. Experience is an excellent teacher; and experience, so far, has taught us that our recovery must be slow and orderly. Moving along such lines, the goal we all have long envisioned, is assured. One hasty, over-reached step, however, might spoil all.

In wishing our people a happier, a brighter, and a more prosperous New Year, let me again commend them for the manner in which they have played the game during the trying twelve months that have just ended.

Sincerely yours,

GEO. S. HENRY.
Prime Minister.

Severe Cold Weather Throughout Whole Country

Along with the rest of Canada, and the greater portion of northern United States, Napanee, experienced a severe cold spell, last week.

The weather, throughout the whole week, was cold. Following the mild weather of Christmas Eve the temperature gradually dipped, until it reached its lowest level during Thursday night. Various reports from different sections of the town were received. The lowest temperature reported was 34 degrees below zero. One reliable thermometer, at 6:30 a.m. Friday, registered 27 degrees below. The temperature all through Friday, hovered between twelve and sixteen below zero. By Saturday morning there was some relief, although a light storm and wind made travelling very uncomfortable.

Water Pipes Frozen

Many residents of the town experienced difficulty with water pipes during the cold snap. Plumbers were kept busy thawing out frozen water lines, which had caused great inconvenience in many homes.

Motorists, also, had a great deal of trouble in travelling. Cars which were left outside for any length of time, in some cases had to be towed to garages before they could be made to go.

Temperatures at Other Places

Sudbury—64 degrees below zero.
White River—54 degrees below.
Bobcaygeon—49 degrees below.
Orillia—34 degrees below.
Lindsay—33 degrees below.
Oshawa—32 degrees below.
Kingston—30 degrees below.
Cobourg—27 degrees below.
Prescott—40 degrees below.
Huntsville— 46 degrees below.
Port Arthur— 26 degrees below.
Moosonee— 46 degrees below.
Toronto— 22 degrees below.

Mrs. T.H.P. Anderson, Newburgh, Hostess At Shower

On Saturday, December 23rd, amid a decorative effect of bridal palety and Christmas cheer, a very joyous afternoon was spent at the parsonage, Newburgh, when Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson was hostess to her Sunday School class, the guest of honour being the bride-elect of the week, Miss Joy Paul.

Under an artfully arranged umbrella, a shower of gala-gifts came dripping down upon the recipient. There was plentiful advice and pointedness. Apt rhymes and quotation were rendered from a bride book and autographed, along with many useful recipes for home-making.

Merriment was advanced by a guessing contest "Cupid's pie." The spirit of good fellowship prevailed over the tea-cups and the dainty festive board.

Every moment of the informal party was diversified with surprises and fun, and throughout, Mrs. Anderson showed herself to be an understanding teacher and motherly friend.

Annual Golf Club Dance Enjoyable Event

A lovely setting was arranged for the annual Golf Club Dance, held at the Napanee Town Hall, Thursday evening. Mr. Goldwin Smith and his assistants showed cleverness and artistic taste in the arrangements of the decorations.

The platform, where the orcherta was placed, was banked on either side with tall, graceful spruce trees, with a background of black and white and striking lighting effects. The windows of the hall were covered with red and green tissue, twisted and artistically applied. Between the windows, grotesque heads of animals were attached to the walls, and colored lights reflected from large silver and gold tinsel flower holders. The ceiling lights were covered with large red and silver stars and from the lights colored streamers radiated to the walls.

The floor was in good condition and the music, supplied by Warmington's eight-piece orchestra, made dancing a real pleasure. Supper, served at the interval by the ladies of the club, helped to complete the enjoyment of the guests.

The members of the club and their guests were received by the president and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. T. M. Galbraith, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Douglas. Dr. and Mrs. D. R. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Davy and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Spencer. Possibly due to cold weather, not quite so many were present as on former occasions, but nevertheless an evening of real enjoyment was the reward of those who were in attendance.

The annual Golf Club dance affords an opportunity for the reunion of many young people who are home for the Christmas holidays, from college and other pursuits. This year many of them hailed the dance as a chance for a real get-together and their presence added much to the enjoyment of all the guests.

During the evening special prizes were awarded to Mr. D. M. Roblin, Mrs. Charles Sills, Bobby Miller and Miss Fanny Waddell.

Ontario Relief Plans Approved

Toronto. — The Ontario Government special committee on relief today approved relief works programs affecting 48 municipalities and providing for expenditure of $450,611. Of this sum $300,611 would be expended on labor.

The programs deal chiefly with roads in rural communities. North York township receiving an appropriation of $40,300 for water mains. Other municipalities whose programs were approved, are Belleville, Chatham and Peterborough.

Ontario Gov't Surplus is Nearly Half Million Dollars

Expected Deficit Turned Into Surplus

Confirming a forecast made by him some weeks ago, Premier Geo. S. Henry announced, last week that, he anticipated the Province's deficit of about three million dollars had been turned into a surplus of $478,000.

Mr. Henry said : "As disclosed in the budget speech, a deficit as between ordinary receipts and ordinary expenditures of almost $3,000,000 was anticipated. We have not only wiped out the expected deficit, but have actually a surplus, in ordinary account, of $478,000, the ordinary expenditure being $50,897,000 and the ordinary revenue $51,373,000."

Highways Revenue Higher

"To accomplish this result we spent $1,813,000 less than the forecast, and collected $1,615,000 more, chiefly through the Department of Highways, in motor vehicle licenses and gasoline tax, where the revenue was $1,968,000 more than the estimate. There was also an increase in the revenue of the Department of Lands and Forests of $339,000, and miscellaneous services of $323,000.

"On the other hand there was a decrease from the Budget figures of $419,000 in succession duties; $133,-000 in race track revenues; $48,000 in land transfer tax; and $155,000 in miscellaneous services.

"The ordinary expenditure of 1933 was $5,399,000 less than 1932, the figures being : 1932, $56,236,000; 1933, $50,897,000.

"The principal decreases are as follows : Attorney - General, $201,000; Education, $1,902,000; Lands and Forests, $316,000; Northern Development, $1,138,000; Highways $577,-000; foreign exchange, $1,026,000; departmental salaries $358,000.

"In 1932, the provincial fiscal year, departmental expenditures were decreased by $4,621,000; this year by $5,339,000—a 10 per cent. reduction. This result was accomplished by the strict supervision of all the Ministers in many matters of small detail, as well as the Budget Committee.

Relief Expenditure High

The expenditure for relief in 1933 was the greatest in about $13,000,000, in addition to the sum paid by the Dominion Government. Education cost the province nearly ten millions; health, including hospitals, accounted for nearly six millions; public welfare, including old age pensions and mothers' allowance totalled nearly four millions, and highways and roads took another three millions.

Reeve and Deputy Reeve Get Large Majorities in Napanee on Election Day

Four New Members to Sit on Council Board

The slippery surface of the roads and sidewalks, on New Year's Day, made it very difficult to get out the vote for the municipal elections. The various candidates spent a busy day arranging for cars to call for those who did not care to venture out on foot.

The vote was considerably less than at the last election two years ago. The total vote for Reeve, two years ago, was 1439, and this year 1153, a difference of 285. For Deputy Reeve, two years ago, the vote was 1393 and this year 1115, 282 less than in 1932.

The results of the voting were :—

Mayor Kimmerly's Car Found in Belleville

About 8:15 p.m., Mr. Kimmerly drove up to his store and went in, leaving the car running. As he was about to enter the store he noticed two men approaching the car. He proceeded to unlock the store door and then turned to see the car back, when he heard the noise of chains on a car, and on looking back saw his car moving away. As quickly as possible he ran to the door in time to see the car disappear around the corner toward the south. He immediately gave an alarm but the thieves got away from town before being apprehended.

The next day, Friday, word was received from Belleville that the car had been located in that city. It had apparently been abandoned by the men who took it.

Mr. Kimmerly went up to Belleville in the afternoon, to claim it, and found it had not been damaged.

THE NEW COUNCIL

In spite of one of the worst days in a winter noted for bad days, a large vote was polled, in the town, on Monday. This is the more significant as there was no election for mayor. All day long cars were busy drawing voters. An unusual interest was taken in the election of the Town Council. There was a time, a few years ago, when scarcely any effort was made to get out the vote. The interest shown on Monday, both by the candidates and the voters, indicate a growing interest which the citizens are taking in the management of their affairs.

The new council contains a sufficient number of former members to insure that continuity which is essential to efficient government. The new members have been residents of the town for many years. They will bring to bear on the town's affairs keen judgment and good sense, which they have gained through years of experience in their various lines of business.

There are many matters which will come before the Council for action and decision, this year. Economy, of course, must ever be a guiding principal in our town's management. The effort to curtail unnecessary expenses, so successfully carried on for the past few years, must be continued. The welfare of the people, however, is of greatest concern, and we look to the new council for wise and courageous leadership in all that makes for the happiness and welfare of its own citizens.

WHY NOT, INDEED ?

Why not give Canadians titles ? There is nothing human mature so rejoices in as prefixes and suffixes. Nothing makes a man a new creature quicker than a title. Mr. John Doe, sitting in his drab and dingy office all week, becomes a new personality when he takes his seat on the raised dias, robed in gowns of glorious hue and is addressed by his fellows as Grand Sir, Excellent Sir, Most Glorious, Grand Excellent, Lord or That. And Mrs. Doe, who spends her days caring for the children, bending over the tub or wash 'dish attains a new dignity when she assumes a titled position in one of the chairs of the lodge.

Gone is his air of meekness, of arthritis, when the old soldier polishes up his buttons, adorns his breast with medals and prepares for the annual turn-out, when the old boys, once more address him as "Sarg" or "Cam." or "Col." With head erect, chin down, chest thrown out, arms hanging loosely from the shoulders, little fingers in line with the seams in his pants, he strides off as young as ever he was.

What struggles we put forth by ambitious youth that they may secure the right to append a B. A., or B. D. or Bsc., or L. C. M. to their names, — long nights of arduous study, long days of scanty meals and long years of physical self-denial; while their more astute brethren for $25 and a little essay, secure from spurious colleges the right, for ever, to be Phd. and called Doctor.

Wasn't it that most colorful of recent monarchs — the Kaiser — who distributed iron crosses, which gave the proud possessor new courage and new dignity in the eyes of his fellows. Isn't it his spiritual successor, Mussolini, who does him one better ? He dresses up the soldiers in brilliant and artistic colors, doffs their caps with plumes, and plays on their love of the spectacular in a way that puts the old Kaiser quite in the shade.

Even the fiery radical Snowden, who all his life had fought sham and tinsel, walks into the upper chamber with trained grace and acquired dignity, and bows low as the flunkies, with subdued breath whisper "my Lord."

So why, in the face of all this, deny to frail Canadians the right to become Knights of the Bath, the Garter or Suspender ?

"Ye see yon birkie ca'd a Lord,
Wha struts and stares and a' that;
Though hundreds worship at his word,
He's but a coof, for a' that:
For a' that and a' that,
His ribband, star, and a' that,
The man of independent mind,
He looks and laughs at a' that."

MONEY TALKS

For the past few years leaders of social welfare organizations, educators and child workers in the United States, have been waging a continuous battle for a better type of movie. Prof. Fred Eastman of the University of Chicago, has led the offensive against the present type of picture. By questionnaires to parents, by reports on thousands of films by independent observers, and by scientific experiment, he has shown that the highly emotional and melodramatic film has a serious effect on the nervous system of young children. But every argument put forward has been met by the producers at Hollywood with the rebuttle, that no other sort than that shown could be made to pay. How tense the struggle has been is evidenced by the delay in signing the movie code. It was signed only three weeks ago and is denounced as quite unsatisfactory by those pleading for a better type of movie entertainment.

But now, where arguments have failed, box office returns have succeeded. Several good classic books have been filmed, of late. The phenomenal success, particularly of "Little Women" has surprised the movie directors, who are the first to admit their error of judgment. Their conviction now is that good books can be made into popular films. Word now comes that "Hollywood will soon be producing films from nice old books." It is cheering news to all lovers of good stories, and may create a whole new type of more entertainment. What a wealth of material lies before the energetic and imaginative scenario writer in the novels from the pens of great writers, Dickens, Dumas, Geo. Eliott, Ralph Connor, Conrad, and a score of others.

It is a great discovery when hard-headed business men learn that goodness, loveliness, and wholesome fiction can be made attractive and that they are popular with the great mass of theatregoers.

THE PRESIDENT AND PEACE

The address which President Roosevelt delivered last Thursday night, gave much needed encouragement to lovers of peace everywhere. The importance of the pronouncement was enhanced by the occasion of its delivery. It was an anniversary, celebrating the birthday of the late President Wilson, whose contribution to the cause of world peace was the crowning achievement of a brilliant career.

With such a high standard for the address on such an occasion, the President began by quoting the following sentnce from a speech given by President Wilson at Mobile, in 1913 : "Comprehension must be the soil in which shall grow all the fruits of friendship." Using that as his text, he made very clear that the policy of non-aggression, first enunciated by President Wilson, was still the policy of the United States. "Our attitude," he said, "has no further territorial ambitions."

It is rather enlightening to the average citizen to be told, as the President told them, that wars and the present world unrest were directly due to the politicians. "Ninety per cent of the countries of the world are satisfied with their present boundary limitations, and the peoples of the whole world, if they would speak for themselves, would get peace immediately." That which stands in the way is the bickering, manoeuvering and jealousies of those to whom the world has entrusted its leadership.

The President then revealed his realism, as he cut away all verbiage about peace and reiterated two very simple proposals towards its achievement. He proposed, in the first place, a gradual scaling down of all aggressive armaments, and in the second place, he suggested a solemn undertaking that no nation should allow its armies to cross the boundaries into another country. If these could be signed by all the nations of the world, a long step would have been taken to end the fear which is responsible for much of the present unrest.

It was a splendid thing, too, when the League of Nations was getting rather badly used of late, to have a champion arise from such an unexpected quarter. "The League of Nations," he said, "encouraging as it does the extension of non-aggressive pacts, of reduction of armaments, is a prop in the world structure." But in the next breath, the President hastened to say : "We are not members (of the League) nor do we contemplate membership."

The President thus made two very simple proposals which needs no new machinery, but can be effected through the ordinary diplomatic channels. He also set the mind of the world at rest in respect to their own territorial ambitions. But at this distance, it is somewhat difficult for us to harmonize these noble sentiments with the navy building programme of the United States, which calls for an expenditure of $238,000,000, this year. Nor can we blame the President for informing the nations that he has no notion of joining the League. In its present state, such action would be political suicide for the one who sponsored it. Had the United States, however, not abandoned their own child on the doorstep of European nations at the momentof its birth, it might have developed into a lusty youth, instead of a rather aneamic and handicapped invalid.

For this act of abandonment the President has no word of repentance.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

— WARS —

To The Editor of The Beaver :
Dear Sir :—

Only a few lines from a novice. When will wars cease ? Doubtless when nations earnestly and sincerely function to be exalted by Righteousness, which is simply right living. The exact or specific date as to the ultimate consumation of such a state no one knows. It almost gives one the horrors or makes one extremely pessimistic to think how seemingly remote and impossible this is. The national and international mind must undergo a radical change. Wrongs will never be made right, differences settled and war ended, by the instrumentality of force. These to be subdued temporarily, but not ended.

As I see it, the basic factor to create and perpetuate war lies in the hands of private manufacturers of war imponents. So long as "the manufacture of deadly" destructive warfare remains in the hands of unscrupulous private companies or individuals, so long will war propaganda operate throughout the nations. Take the munitions traffic and it would the sooner end if it were not for the enormous amount of money made by the selfish greed of private interests.

We are informed the largest factories of world armaments are in Germany. England stands second, United States next, then France. It is reasonable to suppose that these powerful companies, with all others who have invested their millions upon millions, will not do all in their power to create an outlet or market for their products. The merchant seeks a market by advertising his goods, the manufacturer of farm implements likewise, plus tariff laws to enhance profits; the wealthy liquor organizations are continually seeking extension of markets for their goods. Farmers, through organization and government, are seeking markets for their wheat and other produce. Markets for the world's industries constantly demanding need of all nations. It is unthinkable that the huge German Krupp Company, or the Vickers company of England with millions upon millions of dollars tied up and stored away in every bank and country possible, with the latest discoveries and inventions, especially for war purposes, would not inaugurate every possible means to create a market for the disposal of their massive products. To all such manufacturers, war must be made inevitable. Agents and agitators, working as secretly as possible, must be sent throughout the nations to create war between snarling, growling countries, surrounded with deep jealousy, and greed and war propaganda. "Chicken rover" is about all that is required to start cocks, roaring bombs and poison gas flying. Otherwise a war with out a real or supposed cause. Too often the cause is a trumped-up affair that would not get peace immediately." That which stands in the way is the bickering, manoeuvering and jealousies of those to whom the world has entrusted its leadership.

The President then revealed his realism, as he cut away all verbiage about peace and reiterated two very simple proposals towards its achievement. He proposed, in the first place, a gradual scaling down of all aggressive armaments, and in the second place, he suggested a solemn undertaking that no nation should allow its armies to cross the boundaries into another country. Editorial Comment

THE PAN-AMERCAN CONFERENCE

In its unanimous approval of Secretary Hull's proposals for reciprocal tariff and trade barriers "from the present unduly high levels to moderate and reasonable levels," the Pan-American commission of the Pan-American Conference has given the economic world recovery by international co-operation. For the first time since the depression began, the nations of the Americas has expressed a united willingness to strike at the root of the depression by tariff and trade barrier activities arrangements and to open up the channels of commerce by mutually beneficial trade agreements. The proposal of Mr. Hull is the policy laid by the Washington Government when the Economic Conference at London was hopelessly deadlocked. It contains the only remedy remaining the country can have no confidence in the security of its institutions or public services. Economically, it is bleeding to death. The trade "war" with England seems to have become a stable factor in the Free States's crazy economics; if we may judge from the speech at Mallow, recently, Mr. de Valera now holds that the British market has gone for ever. In such an atmosphere how can the bravest citizen have any hope of progress—any faith in the future of a crippled State ? — Dublin Weekly Irish Times.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

GIST OF IMPORTANT EVENTS

ONTARIO —

The Ontario Government reports a surplus of $476,000; at the same time the provincial debt increased by about $13,000,000.

Niagara fruit men are worried over their peach trees; the temperature went 15 below zero, which is supposed to be the lowest the trees can stand.

In Ottawa over 100 families, whose homes were heated by gas, have been forced to vacate, through the gas plant breaking down, with the cold weather. Repairs will be effected within a short time; in the meantime the families are staying in hotels at the company's expense.

New Toronto's municipal finances have reached such a condition, that a 40% increase in the tax rate is needed to balance its budget.

Hon. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Labor, suffered a stroke and is in a critical condition.

Hon. E. A. Dunlops, Provincial Treasurer, after a few days' illness, died on New Year's Day.

DOMINION —

The New Year holds out promise for better conditions, in Canada than existed in 1933. The new agreements have provided markets for our produce, in a world where high tariffs and quotas are the rule. Many industries were, during 1933, busier than in 1932. The chief drawbacks are low prices for farm produce, high taxes and the railway situation.

Farm prices will improve, with world conditions now on the mend. The wheat situation remains doubtful. Canada is carrying over a large amount, even with the small crop; Russia has a tremendous quantity, which may be dumped on the world's market.

Taxes are high, for federal, provincial and municipal governments that little has been done towards reduction.

The C.N.R. is responsible for a loss of $100,000,000 a year; the C.P.R. had to borrow $60,000,000 from the Dominion. Trustees have been appointed to manage the C.N.R., on an economical plan, instead of on a frivolous extravagance. Many think that an amalgamation of the two systems, whether under private or government operation, is imperative.

The financial situation, in which the banks and insurance companies play such a large part, has remained satisfactory. Information is not available as to the part taken by the federal government, in securing this result, but it certainly has not been unimportant. The central bank has promise of assistance in somewhat confusing terms; surrenders, thus helping inter-Empire trade, and in more supervision over the extension of credit by the, usual commercial banking system.

In the New Year's honors list, six Canadians received knighthoods; two with the title of "Sir" are L. P. Duff, Chief Justice of the Canadian Supreme Court, and L. Tellier, Chief Justice of the Quebec Court of King's Bench; four without the title are A. Beauchesne, Clerk of the House of Commons, R. W. Breadner, former Commissioner of Customs, T. Mulvey, former under-Secretary of State, and H. R. Rowatt, former Deputy-Minister of the Interior. Thirty two Canadian women received rank in the Order of the British Empire for social work.

Ottawa has appointed two Senators each in Quebec and and Saskatchewan; in Ontario, H. C. Hocken, of Toronto, A. E. Fripp and L. Cote, of Ottawa, were appointed.

The conference between the Provincial Governments and Ottawa, scheduled for January 17th, has been postponed until the 17th.

November was the seventh consecutive month to record advances over the previous year in Canadian bank debits ; the gain was 15.1%. The gain in business has not carried with it the same increase in employment. Stocks of retail stores are being depleted which will lead to more activity in manufacturing.

Canadian canners have increased their business to Britain, since the British Government put on a more intensive selling campaign, in that country, are being prepared.

Next year's radio licenses will allow the holder to have a radio in his house and one in his car.

Patterson, of the Dominion Meteorological Service, estimates that 100 tons of water must be precipitated for one bushel of wheat, nearly one half during the growing season.

EMPIRE —

Britain will enter the New Year with optimism. Her finances have been put into good shape by a conversion loan at lower interest rates and by reductions in the 8ole. Free trade has been replaced by a series of tra agreements and trade treaties with nations outside the Empire; beneficial results have been secured. Some difficulties remain, such as high taxes, loss of trade to nations with depreciated currencies and reduction in her shipping, on account of subsidies by other nations.

Unemployed in Britain are 500,000 less than at this time a year ago.

A bill has been introduced into the British House of Commons to make the divorce laws more in conformity with other nations; additional grounds for divorce are proposed.

Southern Rhodesia has free trade with South Africa, except on a few products, but has notified the latter that the trade treaty is to be cancelled. Negotiations for a new treaty are expected.

Gen. O'Duffy, on trial for sedition, says the "Blue Shirts" are not for military purposes.

GENERAL —

Disarmament plans have not advanced by direct negotiations between Germany and France. The subject comes up, again, before the League of Nations, late in January.

President Roosevelt, in a national broadcast, stated that his country is opposed to armed intervention in the affairs of another nation; the United States, has, however, no intention of joining the League of Nations, but is co-operating with it, on all questions affecting the good-of peoples, as contrasted with private or national desires.

The United States Government has ordered all gold — except that held by reserve banks—sent to the treasury. It is thought that this is a move towards securing for the Government, the profit in writing up the price of gold. Pressure, for the free coinage of silver at higher values, is strong in the Senate.

William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, has called for a complete boycott of all American goods. He has done so, as a protest against the German Government's suppression of labor unions.

The U. S. Government has advanced over $300,000,000 to its railroads and, this year, will have to help meet maturing railroad obligations for $2,300,000,000. Investments by the Government in the banks, approaches $1,000,000,000.

The United States navy is trying to secure authority for 102 new vessels, in addition to those covered by the approved $268,000,000 program.

A New York Board of Review chose "Topaze" as the best American motion picture for the year; others constituting the first ten were "Berkeley Square," "Cavalcade," "Little Women," "Mama Loves Papa," "The Red Piper," "She Done Him Wrong," "State Fair," "Three-Cornered Moon," and "Zoo in Budapest." The board's selection for best American films were "Hertha's Erwachen," "Tran," "M. Manenuret," "Niemansland," "Poil de Carlotte," "The Private Life of Henry VIII," "Poly Hill," "The Rome Express," and "The Blood of the Poet."

The Pan-American Conference, at Montevideo, has closed without any major accomplishment.

Bolivia, having been definitely defeated by Paraguay, a truce resulted; the League of Nations and the Pan-American Conference are taking the credit for the peace.

In Argentina, radical elements have rebelled over a considerable part of the country, the movement, by means of the military, are in control.

Cuba has decided not to pay $4,000,000 due, at the end of the year. She owes New York banks, financed an extravagant building program for the previous government.

It is reported that Japan and Germany have agreed upon a working arrangement, to effect possible results from the pact between the United States and Russia. Japan fears that Russia may be strengthened by American inventions, such as aircraft.

Germany is to reduce the number of students entering colleges; only those with superior attainments, will be allowed.

Reports say that Japan is in active process of seizing Mongolia, for addition to the state of Manchukuo.

The Chinese Nanking Government, in spite of considerable military operations, has not been able to subdue the rebellion in Fukien province. This section, on the coast, immediately north of Canton, Communistic and has strong forces.

At the opening of the all-union central executive committee the Soviet Parliamentarians declare relations exist with all nations except Germany and Japan, in which nations, active activities prevail. Russia has successfully completed the first year of the second five-year plan; attention has been given, chiefly, to heavy manufacturing, but now the consumers' immediate needs will be more of a feature; to a greater extent goods will be produced for consumption.

Russia's 1933 wheat crop is estimated at 2,300,000,000 bushels, an increase of 725,000,000 over last year.

Spain has adopted the quota system to regulate imports. It is likely that the United States will be the only nation which will have a favorable balance of trade.

Premier Duca, of Rumania, was killed by a member of the opposing political party, the Iron Guards, a supporter of King Carol in his role as absolute monarch.

INTERMARRIAGE IN THE ORIENT

Few would cantend that intermarriage between the two races constituted, is desirable. It is not only the question of the second generation, but also the fact that as adventurous youth passes, men and women tend to return to the ways of their forebears. Few Englishmen can adopt Chinese ways permanently, and few can a Chinese, either man or woman, live in the European manner, and in England, without heartickness for home ? — Hong Kong Press.

Victorian Girls Were Not So Clinging

Mrs. Oliver Strachey, the famous English publicist, derides the popular notion that the young lady of the Victorian era was but a timid, clinging, easily influenced creature. Speaking at a meeting held, declares Mrs. Strachey, there were a dozen Becky Sharps.

Mrs. Strachey was speaking at Bedford College on "Changes in women themselves during the last 100 years."

Mrs. Strachey accepted the contemporary idea of young women which holds them to be self-reliant, energetic, plucky, tough, realistic, voracious, outspoken and ambitious.

She pointed out, however, that the traditionally feminine and clinging qualities were most attractive to young men, and that Miss 1933 certainly did not evince any abatement of her charms. "On the other hand," said Mrs. Strachey, "I have failed to satisfy myself that Victorian girls were really what they were supposed to be." A study of 19th-century novels, biography and letters certainly provided no conclusive evidence. As for the tracts and admonitions for young women which had been so popular in the 19th century, all the evidence showed that the Victorian girl was wanting in those very qualities wor which she was famed. Otherwise it would not have been necessary to tell the woman about to marry : "On important matters to be imposed upon your mind is the superiority of your husband simply as a man," or: "At home if he but fitting that the master of the house should be able to enjoy every personal indulgence"—extracts from a work on "Female Duty," by Mrs. Ellis.

Romance has not changed young women," Mrs. Strachey concluded. As far as older women were concerned, however, there was no doubt at all that 100 years ago women grew old much more rapidly and suffered more extensively from ill-health than they did today.

Have You Heard These ?

"And to what do you attribute your longevity ?" he was asked.

"Your longevity," repeated the reporter.

"Oh, so far as I remember," was the reply, "I've never had it."

According to a traveller, the natives of Hawaii have no politics, never commit murder, and only marry once. Civilization, however, is sure to overtake them before long.

One London millinery firm now has a waiting room, library, and a writing room where customers can pass the time while the fashion changes.

STATE LOTTERIES

It is difficult to imagine any process of collecting money which could be more anti-social. The recipient of the prizes is debauched and often ruined by his ill-gotten gains. But it is not only the recipients of prizes who suffer. That is bad enough, but there are fortunately comparatively few of them. The subscribers for tickets are the real victims of them, perhaps a number of them, can afford the loss without any serious effect, except the encouragement of a vicious gambling capitalistic spirit. But in many cases, as in betting, the money taken for lottery tickets represents the food and clothing that the children have to go without. Gambling, like drink, is a vice that makes others suffer, and generally those others are the children. These objections should in themselves be decisive, but there may be added to them the insecurity and immorality of the State which seeks to raise its revenue by pandering to one of the worst vices of its inhabitants. State lotteries are an abomination, as they undermine the whole character of the State.—Sir Stafford Cripps, in Labour (London).

HISTORY CHRONICLED IN DOTS AND DASHES

Big events and big names in history were chronicled in the days when the telegraph was a newspaper of communication, according to P. E. Davey writing in the Christmas number of the Canadian National Railway Magazine. He notes the funeral of the Duke of Wellington, the marriage of Napoleon III and the Empress Eugenie on an official visit to London; the opening of the first Red Cross hospital by Florence Nightingale in the Crimean War; the laying of the cable by the "Great Eastern," and the opening of the first tram system in London, there was one Christmas telegram was sent between Toronto and Montreal in 1847, Mr. Davey points out, there were less than 700 miles of wire in use. In that year, the pioneer Montreal Telegraph Company, forerunner of the Canadian National Telegraphs, sent out 33,000 messages. Today, its successor has 35,000 miles of lines and more than 166,000 miles of wire. Exclusive of cables, something like 7,500,000 messages are sent out within a year.

EMPIRE DEVELOPMENT

Britain could go back to the gold standard whenever she liked to do so and still has financial power, and the Empire has financial power; and what is more, it has undeveloped resources for all its people. President Roosevelt is occupied with the task of the internal rehabilitation of his country. The British Empire now has to think of more than internal rehabilitation. It has to think of developing itself to a point never before dreamt of. That is one consequence of the failure of the World Conference. At Ottawa it was believed that later on international action would remove some of the difficulties of the British Dominions. Now, the peoples of those British Dominions know that very little, if anything at all, is to be expected from international action. Some friendly nations may come into line with the Empire, but the main work for the Empire has to be done by the Empire itself.—Spectator.

MONEY WELL SPENT

In 1928 only 72,227 tons of bituminous coal moved from Nova Scotia to Quebec, and 41,781 tons to Ontario. Federal subventions and an increase of duty against the product of U. S. mines has increased the total shipped to the two provinces ten times. In the first ten months of this year the coal shipped to Quebec from Nova Scotia totalled 894,-736 tons, and to Ontario 395,839 tons. The extension of the Nova Scotia coal market has cost the country $1,270,793 for the first ten months of this year. Its benefits have been felt by mine workers, railroad men and business generally both in the Maritimes and wherever the Maritime Provinces do business. Under the circumstances it must be felt by Canadians generally that it is money well spent.—Toronto Evening Telegram.

FUTURE OF THE FREE STATE

The present position is miserable and soon must be intolerable. Every nerve of the Free State's being is numbed by the present uncertainty of national affairs. So long as the boundary question remains a riddle, the country can have no confidence in the security of its institutions or public services. Economically, it is bleeding to death. The trade "war" with England seems to have become a stable factor in the Free States's crazy economics; if we may judge from the speech at Mallow, recently, Mr. de Valera now holds that the British market has gone for ever. In such an atmosphere how can the bravest citizen have any hope of progress—any faith in the future of a crippled State ? — Dublin Weekly Irish Times.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Winter Feeding of Market Hogs

Winter fed hogs require a dry, reasonably warm bed. Exercise is necessary in the early stages of growth. Include in the feed mixture a variety of grains such as oats, barley and shorts or middlings. Skimmilk or buttermilk should be included and must be always fed uniformly sweet or sour. Tankage may replace the milk. Do not attempt to finish too quickly or crippling may result.

Turnips For Sheep

In Canada many successful sheep raisers feed turnips to their sheep. The excellence of many pure-bred flocks in which international prize winners are reared is in great measure due to the liberal use of succulent foods, and no other green crop is so generally used as turnips in the winter season. Apart from their food constituents, turnips have a wonderful effect in maintaining a vigorous condition of the digestive organs and general system. Young lambs born in the winter or early spring are greatly benefited by liberal feedings of finely sliced turnips until grass arrives. Previous to lambing, ewes should not be heavily fed upon turnips or other roots, from 4 to 5 pounds per day being very beneficial; a larger quantity is liable to cause abnormally large, soft lambs, deficient in vitality.

Breeding Essential For High Egg Production

The average production of all the birds in the laying contest held at Harrow for the past three years is about 180 eggs per hen. It is roughly estimated that it costs about 80 to 100 eggs to feed a hen for one year. The hen which lays about 180 eggs in a year produces eight times as much profit as a 110-egg hen, less the small extra cost of feed required to produce the larger number of eggs. The moral of this story is that breeding is one great factor which governs profits, and that if the farmer has not the inclination or is unable to carry on his own selective breeding program (0 save his own flock from deterioration, he must depend on the poultryman who makes this a practice. Indiscriminate use of untested males means reversion; and it should be borne in mind that the yield of the jungle fowl, from which our high-record "egg machine" of today originated, was probably about two dozen eggs in a year.

Health of Poultry Flock

Normal health is essential in a poultry flock because illness lowers egg production and reduces weight gains.

Disease, particularly when of a communicable nature, is preventable.

Soybean Varieties Differ

Growers of soybeans should give some thought towards the selection of a suitable variety to grow in their locality. Soybeans, like other crops, show wide differences between varieties and undoubtedly a number of growers are realizing that this is an important consideration. At least it would be wise to investigate the characteristics of the several varieties available at present. The Harrow Experimental Station will be glad to assist in this matter with the results of tests carried out so far.

Soya Bean Meal as Fertilizer

A regulation under the Dominion Fertilizers Act has been established which requires a minimum of 6 per cent. of oil in the meal sold for fertiliser purposes. This guarantees to buyers that the meal has been properly processed, and indicates that it should give efficient results when used as a nitrogen fertilizer.

Soya bean meal has for many years been used as a nitrogen fertilizer in eastern countries, particularly Japan and China. While it has been officially recognized only recently as a fertilizer in Canada, Chinese gardeners in British Columbia have, during the last few years, used as fertilizer hundreds of tons of soya bean meal imported from eastern sources, principally Manchuria.

In recent years soya bean production in Ontario has made considerable progress and two factories have been established, one at Milton and one at Chatham, for the manufacture of the meal. As a result there is now a supply of domestic soya bean meal in Ontario, which is even higher in quality than Asiatic meal for feeding and fertilizer purposes.

Crop Facts

Although the volume of field crop production in Ontario this year was less than in 1932 owing to drought and intense heat during the growing season, the value of production shows an increase of nine millions of dollars or 8 per cent. over last year.

Ontario's export of apples to the United Kingdom for this season up to November 15th was 240,000 barrels. This figure exceeds the total shipments for the entire season during each of the three previous years, which were as follows: 1930—135,000 barrels; 1931—136,000 barrels; 1932 209,000 barrels. Apple exports this year promise to set a record as on November 15th 220,000 barrels of apples were still on hand in cold storage.

Greatly increased cold storage facilities erected in the last few years, now permit our growers to hold their apples and market them in the Old Country when prices are at their best.

Ontario tobacco continues to secure an increasing share of the British market, with exports for 1933 totalling over 15,000,000 lbs., or 50 per cent more than in 1932.

Loans to farmers on farm property during the past year by the Ontario Agricultural Development Board totalled $6,700,000 as compared with $5,500,000 last year.

The Canada-United Kingdom Trade Agreement that went into effect on November 15th, 1932, has resulted in numerous gains in Canadian exports in a wide range of farm commodities.

Bill of Lading Required

All truckers handling livestock are required by Government regulation, under which their licenses are issued, to furnish farmers with bills of lading on livestock shipments. Many farmers are not aware of this regulation or the protection it affords them and many cases come to light where livestock shippers have suffered loss through not insisting on a bill of lading from the trucker who hauls his stock to market.

Under the Highways Act, every trucker transporting livestock for hire is required under his P. C. V. license to furnish a bill of lading to the shipper. The Regulation affords the producer an opportunity of determining to whom his livestock is sold. In any case it assures the shipper that he will get his money and a full and correct statement from the purchaser to whom the trucker delivers his load.

These regulations do not apply to farmers transporting their own livestock nor to drovers who purchase outright from the farmer and transport their purchases to market. But if the farmer fails to insist on a bill of lading from the trucker who hauls his cattle he can have no assurance of where his livestock is sold or to whom, or at what prices and moreover, he has to accept the trucker's responsibility for returning his money.

With a bill of lading from the trucker, the farmer can make sure that his cattle are not sold direct to a Packer by whom the trucker may be employed, if he desires the open competition of the Stock Yards.

NEWBURGH W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Newburgh Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. G. M. Walker, the president, with twenty-two members and three visitors present. The conveners of relief and flowers and fruit, Mrs. George Gilbert and Mrs. Ford Shorts, gave interesting reports of their work during the month. The secretary, Miss Johnston, read many letters of appreciation from those who had been remembered, also a letter from Mrs. K. McCullough, Kingston acknowledging the receipt of the surprise box and extending good wishes for the success of the Institute.

Another letter of interest was the acknowledgment of the donation to Strathcona library, by the secretary Miss Marguerite Maguire.

After the treasurer's report, which was very gratifying, the sum of five dollars was voted for the Canadian Institute for the Blind, in Toronto.

It was then arranged that the members would meet at G. M. Walker's store on Wednesday, January 3rd, at one o'clock sharp, to go to Camden East to visit their branch. Arrangements were completed for a euchre to be held at the home of Mrs. E. Harrison on Thursday evening, January 9th.

A paper on homemaking was very aptly given by Mrs. Ed. Lochead, after which, in the absence of Mrs. Thompson, Miss Cameron read a chapter from "The Cattle in the Stall."

The Camden East branch will give the programme at the January meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Proste on the twenty-fifth of the month.

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met at the home of Miss M. Riley on Tuesday, December 19th, the president in charge. The meeting opened with hymn 234 "I love to tell the Story," and missionary prayer, in unison. Miss Cameron read the scripture lesson from the second chapter of Luke. Roll call was answered by a scripture verse containing the word "gift."

The motion of Mrs. G. Smedley and Mrs. F. Lloyd, that the officers for this year remain in office for 1934, and that Miss Riley be assistant treasurer, was unanimously carried.

The secretary was requested to write a letter to Mr. Fairbairn, expressing the appreciation of the society to him for his generosity and his many acts of kindness for the missionary work. Supply secretary, Mrs. D. Sexsmith, gave report of a bale, value one hundred dollars, which was recently packed for the northwest. A discussion followed, as to ways and means of raising allocation for 1934, but was left over until the next meeting. Mrs. Smedley reported concerning the mite-boxes, and the treasurer's report showed a splendid sum contributed for missions. Miss Riley read the story of the Eastern Division, from the study book, after the rendering of two Christmas records on the gramophone.

Hymn 109 "Blest be the Tie that binds," and prayer by the president, closed the meeting.

MORVEN W. M. S.

The W. M. S. held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. A. E. Oliver. The president, Mrs. R. W. Street, presided. The meeting opened with a Christmas hymn and prayer by Rev. A. E. Oliver. Bible reading by Mrs. Street. A reading was given by Mrs. J. P. Lake. "The Shepherd's Boy" was read by Mrs. G. E. Fralick. A splendid reading was given by Mrs. Street, entitled, "Cancelled prayers." The singing of another hymn brought the meeting to a close.

On Wednesday, December 27, there was held a special business meeting in the parsonage, for the election of the officers for 1934 with the following results:

Past President—Mrs. R. W. Street. President—Mrs. C. L. Sharp. Rec.-Secretary—Mrs. R. W. Street. Corr. Secretary—Mrs. S. A. Winters. Treasurer—Mrs. G. E. Fralick. Temperance Sec.—Mrs. E. Lund.

WEDDING BELLS

MEDD—BOSSENBERRY

On Saturday, December 23rd, the marriage took place at Forest, Ont., of Carrie Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bossenberry, of Forest, to Arthur Bruce Medd of Napanee, son of Mr. W G. Medd, M. L. A., and Mrs. Medd, of Exeter.
The ceremony was performed at 3:00 p.m., at Christ Church, by the rector, Rev. W. B. Hawkins, in the presence of about seventy-five friends of the bride and groom.
The bride was attired in a gown of ivory satin and carried an ivory prayerbook with streamers of white ribbons and valley lilies. She was attended by her four sisters, Miss Anne as maid of honour, Miss Aleen and Miss Eleanor as bridesmaids, and Miss Margaret as flower girl. The groomsman was Dr. W. J. Lawson, of Listowel, and the ushers Jack Kaiser, Detroit; and William Bossenberry of Forest. During the signing of the register, Miss Ruth Walters, of NewYork, sang "At Dawning."
Among the guests were friends from Napanee, Port Hope, Exeter, Walkerton, Barrie and Detroit.
Mr. and Mrs. Medd have taken up residence in Napanee in the home formerly occupied by the late Mrs. J. M. Parrott, corner of Thomas and John streets.

Dutch Soloist Appears In Recital at Napanee

Miss Cornelia VanGeuns, who is to give a concert under the auspices of the local chapter of the I.O.D.E. has received very favourable press and personal reports, wherever she has appeared.
She is evidently an entertainer of considerable personal charm, versatility and first class ability. Part of her numbers are given in her own Dutch costumes and interpret the folk music of her native Holland. In addition she sings operatic and classical numbers with equal brilliance.
Those who hear her on Thursday, January 11th, will be well repaid for their attendance.

The Late James Beattie

James Beattie, the father of Dr. H. J. Beattie, passed away suddenly on Friday, December 29th, in the early evening. Mr. Beattie, who was almost 84 years of age, had been in failing health for the past year. About a week before his death pneumonia developed, but the end came unexpectedly.
He was born in Scotland and came to Cobourg, Ontario, with the family when a small boy, where he remained until he grew up. When a young man he returned to Scotland for a few years and later came back to Canada. For many years he lived at Campbellford, where he followed the business of cabinet making. About twenty years ago he moved to Toronto, where he lived until his wife died about six years ago. At that time he came to Napanee, where he has since resided with his only son, Dr. Beattie.
On Saturday his remains were taken to Toronto, where the funeral was held on New Year's Day, and interment made in Prospect Cemetery, in the family plot.

Britain Leads Way In the Manufacture Of Movie Cameras

Despite the fact that Hollywood is regarded as the home of the movies, most of the motion picture cameras used there were made in scientific instruments issued today by F. W. Field, Britain's Senior Trade Commissioner.
Britain once more leeds in optical and scientific instruments, and samples of these, including balances so delicate as to be able to weigh electric light filaments to 0.0005 milligrams, as well as cine cameras for amateurs which combine camera and projector in one piece at less than half of present costs will be two of the features of the 1934 British Industries Fair opening in London on February 19th.
Britain has a big way in the making of the first good microscopes and telescopes, according to Mr. Field's statement. "In the 19th century London and England, according to a report on opticians held a commanding position in the world, but this accord . . .
But during the 19th century the making of scientific instruments was allowed to drift into the hands of the Germans, and not until the war broke out did it suddenly realized that a vital industry this was.
At once successful efforts were made to reverse it, and ever since that time the makers of precision instruments have enjoyed the fullest public support.
As a result, British scientists and skilled craftsmen now can add do make instruments serving any industry that wants them. Temperature, pressure and humidity recorders, automatic heat controllers, apparatus for spectrum analysis, fine balances, chronographs, spectrometers, electron microscopes, telescopes and all manner of optical equipment are now produced of such excellent quality that they are capturing foreign markets.

Husband and Wife Get Oxford Honors

Two Energetic and Ambitious Young Australians Help Each Other To Higher Education

Perth, W. Australia. — Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Taylor, graduates of the University of Western Australia, have each obtained first-class honors in the recent Modern Greats Examination at Oxford University, England. This is believed to be the first occasion upon which husband and wife have been successful at the same examination, each obtaining "firsts." Mr. Taylor was a very studious youngster in the Western Australian State Schools and his wife, Mabel Grubb, was an ambitious child and both were winners of Hackett scholarships here.
Dan after winning his way through the lower schools obtained a Mentorship of the Education Department. After entering the Training College he studied for his B. A. degree which he secured without difficulty.
Shortly after he reached the Old Country he learned that his friend, Miss Mabel Grubb, was also bent on taking up higher studies in England. Shortly afterwards their engagement were married. Living separately they found that funds were insufficient to carry out their college work. The latter Taylor, lost her Hackett scholarship by reason of her marriage. Dan did the housework during times and taught in London schools in vacation periods so that the home fires might be kept burning.
Notwithstanding the difficulties encountered through lack of funds these two energetic and ambitious young Australians pulled well together sharing their troubles and their joys and eventually winning through with great credit to themselves.

Number Working Continues To Rise

Ottawa. — For the eighth consecutive month a gain was shown in employment on December 1st, says a statement issued on Tuesday, December 26th, by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. The number of employed at the beginning of the month was 845,435, as compared with 845,793 on November 1st, an increase of 4,693. Reflecting this improvement the index of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on the base 1926 equals 109 rose from 91.3 on November 1st to 91.3 the highest figure in two years.
"This latest increase," said Mr. Stevens, in issuing the statement, "was particularly interesting because it reversed the downward movement which hitherto has invariably characterized the situation in the early winter.

147,000 More Workers

"During these last eight months of generally advancing activity, the 9,428 reporting firms have added approximately 147,200 persons to their staffs. The proportion of the wage-earning population included therein is large, but if data were available for all industries and all employers, the number of workers shown as having been reinstated would considerably exceed that figure.
"This improvement at the beginning of December occurred largely in logging and retail trade and highway construction. Logging provided work for an extra 13,700 men, the largest group being the largest number shown in that industry in the bureau's record of 12 years," added Mr. Stevens.

Commission on Social Order at Work in United Church

Toronto— A commission which is said to include in its personnel men of the highest ability in the fields of industry, finance, statecraft, and Church life, has been formed by the United Church of Canada in accordance with a declaration of the last General Council, held at Hamilton, Ontario, last year. Sir Robert Falconer, K.C.M.G., is chairman of the commission and Principal Walter T. Brown, M.A., Ph.D., of Victoria University, Toronto, is secretary. Advisory groups have been formed in a number of urban and rural centres. The announcement is made that a start through has been at work for many months preparing for the work of the commission, which is expected to assemble some time next Spring.
There has been prepared for the use of the commission, called the Social Order, a digest of the important utterances on economic made by the late Christian Churches during the last half century. These are said to indicate "a unity of conviction and a growing approximation to the views which have been expressed in the Papal Encyclical, at the Lambeth Conference, the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland and the General Council of the United Church." The action of the General Council creating the commission reads as follows :-
"That in regard to memorials so numerous as to be impressive and representative, we authorize the Board of Evangelism and Social Service to organize a commission in which Christian men, expert in the fields of industry, finance, statecraft and church life, will co-operate.
(a) To ascertain what are the Christian standards and principles which affect or should govern the social order ;
(b) To discover how far current acceptances in these fields are consistent with these principles :
(c) To inquire into the ways and means by which these principles may be applied to existing conditions ;
(d) To define those particular measures which must form the first steps toward a social order in keeping with the mind of Christ."
The commission, which has been appointed in terms of the above remit, will probably present a comprehensive statement to the meeting of General Council in September, 1934. Already a special sub-committee of men eminent in Biblical scholarship and church history is prepared to act in answer to the first question of the remit. Similar studies are being undertaken with regard to the remaining questions. Specialists are commissioned to prepare findings which will be referred to the advisory groups and later considered by the commission.

WE GIVE IT UP !

Montreal. — When it comes to naming towns, Wales, in Great Britain, would appear to be the limit. Not content to be a standstill, states the Tourist Bureau of the Canadian National Railways. In North Wales there is a railway station serving a town called Llanfairpwllgwyllgogerychwyrndrobwllandllysiliogogogoch.
Translated the name means "Church of St. Mary in a hollow of white hazel, near to a rapid whirlpool, and to the St. Tysilio's Church, near a red cave."
Glancing over lengthy names in Canada, a record seems to be held by Ashuspmouchoun, in the Lake St. John country of Quebec, reached by the lines of the Canadian National Railways. The Indian names are very much like the Welsh in that they are descriptive of the place to which they refer.

People would rather be amused than instructed.

IMPROVEMENT IN GOODYEAR SHOWN

Dividends Earned on Both Preferred and Common says Carlisle

"Comparing the year's operations with last year, the current year has shown a considerable improvement," says C. E. Carlisle, president of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Limited, in a letter to shareholders accompanying the cheques for dividends on the preferred and common stocks for the last quarter of the year.
Mr. Carlisle states that the dividends for the year on both the preferred and common stocks have been earned, and after making allowances for depreciation, bad debts, taxes, etc., there will be a sizeable balance to carry forward to surplus.
Following a complete audit of the affairs of the company now being made, the balance sheet and full information as to the year's operations will go forward to shareholders.
Mr. Carlisle points out that the company has not only carried and paid dividends during 1933, but each year has added to its surplus and cash position.
"I am asking you," says Mr. Carlisle, "as one the 2,447 Canadian shareholders to take an active interest in your company's affairs, such as the purchasing of your own product, your influence among your friends and in your locality. Any criticisms or comments which you may have to offer to the officers and staff will be of great assistance. We have appreciated your co-operation in the past and it has been a big factor in the building of your company. Business shows improvement, and we are looking forward to better conditions for the coming year."

Public Health Nurse Tells of Her Work

Serves Area to West of Lake Manitoba Where Struggle For Living is Hard

How a public health nurse carries on where her district covers a large area of unorganized territory, poorly served by roads, and with few habitations where she can spend the night, is revealed in reports sent by health headquarters at the Legislative Buildings, Winnipeg.
Miss Anderson is a slight woman of medium height, one of the quietly efficient kind who loves her work. She serves the area to the west of Lake Manitoba, where the struggle is hard to gain a living from the soil, and where the few settlements are linked by roads that are scarcely more than trails. During the past autumn she slept at night in her car, and not her own much of the time, upon six. She is on the go constantly bringing the message of health and hygiene to rural schools and to mothers in many isolated homes.
To quote from her report, in her superior, Miss E. A. Russell, of how she eats and sleeps out on the byways : "Cold meat and bread and boards to cover hollow part of back seat and load a small cot mattress to put over all. This gave me the full length of car and half the width for sleeping. For lunch I used heavy brown paper, lowering the window to insert it and then entire it up again. Always locked myself in at night, and lowered the windows as necessary for fresh air.
"My cooking was kept in covered cans or coolers in a wooden box— also my dishes, which were as few as possible—frying pan, saucepan used for kettle and also for cooking vegetables, coffee pot, tea pot and basin. My stove was a two-burner gasolite camp stove, which folds up like a small suitcase. It is not necessary to do a lot of cooking during mild weather, when green vegetables and fresh fruit can be had, and coffee. When I made "breakfast" I filled thermos bottle for my lunch, which consisted of a hot drink and sandwiches as noon.
"Found have the car rather crowded for washing and dressing, but could do it. If I were camping on in this way for a longer period of time would like small tent for dressing room. Many people sleep in cars or coolers in a wooden box— also my dishes, which were as few as possible—frying pan, saucepan used for kettle and also for cooking vegetables, coffee pot, tea pot and basin. My stove was a two-burner gasolite camp stove, which folds up like a small suitcase. It is not necessary to do a lot of cooking during mild weather, when green vegetables and fresh fruit can be had, and coffee. When I made "breakfast" I filled thermos bottle for my lunch, which consisted of a hot drink and sandwiches at noon.
"Found have the car rather crowded for washing and dressing, but could do it. If I were camping on in this way for a longer period of time would like small tent for dressing room. Many people sleep in cars to enjoy this, but a cup of tea, some sliced tomato and bread and butter outdoors is a treat to me compared to any meal indoors—because I like camping.
"The roads I cover are all bad, full of stones often hidden by grass, also stumps and deep ruts made in mud that is hardened like rock. I have to drive on intermediate as I can't go slow enough on high without stalling the car. It wracks the car terribly and of course tires one badly. If I had to back to a stopping place or centre each night it would have been hurled over my car and harder on gasoline. Many, many of my homes I could not have stayed in, since I had but the one room for eating and sleeping."

BOOTS FOR BEEF CATTLE

When roots are fed to beef cattle, turnips are most usually used as they fairly generally reconized that turnips are more suitable for fattening purposes than mangels, the latter being better suited for milk production. Experiments in the feeding of roots to beef cattle conducted at the various Experimental Farms and Stations of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have proved that roots have a high value for this purpose. Roots are particularly valuable when no other succulent feed is available. Pulped and mixed with cut or chaffed straw, or poor quality hay, they improve the palatability and feeding quality of these coarse roughages very much.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

Eddie Watts' juniors got knocked off in the finals of the Junior series in the Kingston Junior League on Friday night, but their defeat does not detract in the least from the honor which they have won for themselves this year. Their showing and sportsmanship throughout the series have been a source of pride to all sport lovers in Napanee.
• • •
The Chief has brought practically all of these boys right out of the minor leagues, and they are just beginning to show what class. Give them a couple of more years of experience and this bunch of kids will make any of the teams in this district step to keep on the right side of the score sheet.
• • •
Now that the Kingston League is over the boys will be able to turn their attention to the Town League which is getting away to a nice start.
• • •
The teams are all rounding into shape nicely, with a few additions. The Meneill's Wild Cats some lively contests can be expected.
• • •
Due to the severe weather the games on Thursday night had to be postponed ; neither Deseronto nor Adolphustown could make the trip and several members of the other teams seemed to be taking the night off to prepare for the holiday season. Hence a game was played as an exhibition tilt and the fans present seemed satisfied.
• • •
The schedule will be resumed on Thursday night of this week, and, no doubt, the boys will turn it on in earnest, because the schedule is short and every win counts. Hockey fans who are passing up these games are missing some of the best hockey that has been played in Napanee for years.
• • •
There has been some talk of "rough stuff" in the Town League games, but from what we have seen and cannot understand why people start such rumors. In all the games which have been played to date there has only been one flare-up, and that of a very minor nature. In fact, the games have been very much on the quiet side, and sometimes a little too quiet to suit the majority of the fans.
• • •
Hockey at its best is a rough game like other sports in which bodily contact plays a part, and a certain amount of bumping must be expected. It is not to be wondered at that occasionally temper will get the best of the boys and they will give vent to their feelings. This happens in any sport, in any league, occasionally, and as long as it is kept to a minimum it is all that anyone can ask. Some people seem to have the idea that because the Town League started off in rather a rough way last year that it is continuing to operate in the same way. This is absolutely not the fact, and all one needs to do is witness the games on any night to be assured that the above is true.
• • •
Two of our scouts have just reported that two separate stars have been signed on the Wild Cats' line-up, in preparation for the final drive for the season. The Bruisers particular speed artists are we are not at liberty to say, but let it be known that they are veterans and that they intend to stage a come-back.
• • •
When Manager McNeill finally gets all his men signed up he should have a very formidable team, providing he can get them all on the ice on the same night. It looks as though the Wild Cats are going to make things interesting for the Bruisers yet.
• • •
There is no use denying the fact that there is a certain amount of feeling between the Wild Cats and the Bruisers, and the next battle between these two clubs is bound to prove a thriller. The Bruisers managed to nose out the Towners in their first meeting, but will find them a tougher proposition the next time they hook up. However, Walt' Gerow says that his lads are ready for all comers, and so everybody is satisfied.
• • •
Tenmy Pointer received rather a bad cut in the eye during the game of last Thursday night, and the management of the Gibbard Athletics have decided to keep their southpaw star out of hockey for the balance of the season. The Bruisers have plenty of forwards, but the "Ays" only one southpaw, and it was wisely felt that there was no use taking unnecessary chances.

Bride and Groom Recipients of Shower

About fifty guests gathered at the home of Mr and Mrs. J. N. Reid on Christmas night, to bid farewell to a young couple, who were lately married at the village of Stockdale. The bride was formerly Miss Beale Shadbolt, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Shadbolt, formerly of Bloomfield and Arden, Ont., and the groom, Rev. N. W. Wager, of Napanee.
The home was nicely decorated for the occasion, and after several hymns were sung and prayer offered, the young couple were called into the dining room, where the table was well stocked with many useful gifts, on which were the names of each donor. The groom, in a short speech thanked the many friends for their kindness. The bride expressed a few words of thanks.
The shower, which was entirely unexpected, showed the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. Another unexpected part of this gathering was a grocery shower for Rev. and Mrs. Shadbolt. The esteemed pastor and his wife, of the Standard Church, Stockdale, were called to the large dining room, to find the table well filled with choice groceries, presented by the members and adherents of the church. Mr. Shadbolt, in a few words and full of feeling, thanked those who had so kindly remembered him on this occasion.
After the presentation the fifty guests joined in singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds" and buffet luncheon was served, in which all seemed to take a hearty part.
After expressions of goodwill to the newly married man and to the host and hostess the guests departed.

WEDDING BELLS

ROSECRANS — SHETLER

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, December 16th, by Rev. Walter Tildesley of Moravia, N.Y., at the Methodist Church parsonage, when Miss Olive Shetler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shetler, of Newburgh, became the bride of Albert Rosecrans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Rosecrans of Rockfellow Drive, Moravia, N.Y.

The bride was dressed in sand canton crepe with matching accessories and carried a corsage of yellow pom-poms and maiden-hair-fern. She was attended by Mrs. Alton Andrews, sister of the groom, who was dressed in blue crepe and carried a corsage of roses and maiden-hair-fern.

After a trip to Canada and the United States, the bride and groom will reside at Moravia, N.Y.

DENIZENS OF THE DEEP ON VIEW TO VISITORS

Fish that actually grunt; fish with both eyes on one side of the head; fish which, like the Chameleon, change color; fish from the vast marine life of the Sargasso Sea; the mystery continent of weedy stagnation that floats in mid Atlantic; these are among the many exhibits to be seen at Bermuda, reached by Canadian National ships sailing from Halifax and Boston.

Additionally there is displayed the beauties of Ascidians, Anemones, Algae, Corals and Sponges, in a riot of gay colorings, growing over natural settings of rockwood.

Scientists come from many lands to observe and study the inhabitants of the Bermuda Government Aquarium, for Bermuda is the extreme northern habitat of tropical marine life and rarely has such an ambitious attempt been made to give human beings a glimpse of the mysteries of the tropical deep.

PRESENTS FOSSIL PICTURE OF PAST

Almost film-like pictures of the geology of the past are to be found in the carboniferous formation of certain cliffs in Cumberland County, Nova Scotia, where inclined coal beds may be seen in unbroken order for a distance of ten miles, states the National Resources Department of the C. N. R. Fossilized tree stumps are visible, rooted in place and erect, and in some of them the presence of reptile skeletons shows that primitive lizards from the mud flats of long ago took refuge in hollow trunks. The sites of prehistoric forests are clearly indicated and the geological markings and structures are so plainly to be seen as almost to suggest that Nature had determined to show at this place a cross section of her geological processes.

Who possesses most has least appreciation.

TODAY THEY JUST BUY THEIR TICKETS

Travellers by rail in these enlightened days don't know how lucky they are. All they have to do is buy their tickets, go on board and settle down for a comfortable trip. In the sixties and seventies of the last century it was a vastly different matter, as J. E. Dobbs reveals in the December issue of the Canadian National Railways Magazine. Sometimes, he relates, "passengers would find themselves stalled miles away from a village owing to engine breakdown, or snowdrifts, and the effort to keep up steam consumed all the cordwood in the engine tender. If no wood supply was readily available, the male passengers would be handed axes and each would be expected to do his bit by felling and splitting trees. If the patrons of the railroad showed any reluctance in this process of "wooding up," the engineer and fireman would settle down for a nap until such time as the passengers took a more favorable view of the matter. Heavy snow was a serious problem in the days of the woodburners. Sometimes trains would be stuck for days, while fuel for the engine and food for the travellers ran short. The principal snow-fighting equipment consisted of shovels and the strong backs of the male passengers and the crew.

PERFUMES MUCH USED IN INDIA

Importations into India of perfumery, cosmetics and other toilet requisites, chiefly for consumption by the middle class and well-to-do Indians, as well as by the domiciled European population, are very large. There are large numbers of high-class Indians of all creeds, particularly women educated according to western standards, who, while maintaining most of their Indian customs and dress and mode of life, use extensively the toilet preparations common in occidental countries, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways.

Motion picture houses in India, along with railway stations, are the main focal point for commercial advertising. The difficulty of the advertiser in adopting usual methods is understood when it is pointed out that only 82 of every 1,000 of the native population are able to read and write. To reach the European population and the better class Indian population, newspaper and periodical space is carried but these constitute only a small percentage of the population. The census of 1931 gave the population of India as 351,450,689 with 222 languages spoken, exclusive of dialects.

THIS MOOSE HAD KEEN SENSE OF CURIOSITY

It is said that "curiosity killed the cat." It likewise killed a moose at Takonta, Alaska, recently, or at least lead to his undoing. Coming down from the hills to inspect a pair of silk panties flying on the operator's clothesline, his antlers became entangled in this piece of lingerie and this so enraged him that he wrecked the wireless station of the Washington - Alaska Military Cable and Telegraph System at Takonta. The moose put the station out of commission and Private W. H. Lehman, the operator, later had the moose put out of commission so the service considers it a standoff.

Even To The Far North

Thomas Carlyle defined genius as a capacity for taking pains. That being so, it may be said that the word may be applied to the maintenance of Canada's freedom from animal disease, because nothing escapes the vigilance of the Dominion Health of Animals Branch from the dozing of Husky dogs within the shadow of the North Pole to the treatment of suspected rabbits in the sunny south.

For years past, reports have been received from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and from other sources of occasional outbreaks of disease among the Husky or sledge dogs of the north. A severe epizootic —epidemic applies to human beings— swept along the Eastern Arctic coast during the winter and spring of 1931, and it is said that the disease at the same time caused havoc among the wild foxes. This outbreak was coincident with the fox distemper outbreak which swept through so many ranches on Prince Edward Island.

It was impossible to obtain material from the Arctic dogs to establish a definite diagnosis, but on the assumption that the disease was a form of distemper, Dr. J. R. West, veterinary inspector of the Health of Animals Branch was sent to the north with a supply of anti-distemper vaccine-virus and serum. Calls were made at various posts as far north as Ellesmere Island and preventive treatment administered. Supplies of serum were left for use in case the disease should re-appear during the following winter. It would appear that the disease occurs in cycles of about five years, says the Veterinary Director General, and attacks both dogs and foxes. During the height of the spread of the disease, he says, dogs may die in as short a time as one or two days with symptoms of the nervous form of distemper

Preying Sea Lions Raid Fishing Net

British Columbia Herring Seiners Lose Through Depredations of Greedy Ocean Mammals

Sea lions have been up to some of their old tricks in Vancouver Island waters of late, and the herring fishermen have been suffering loss as a result.

Greedy and bold, the lions have been raiding the purse seines of fishermen off the west coast of the island rushing fiercely into the nets, robbing them of herring, then making their escape. They have been present on the fishing grounds in considerable numbers and altogether they have robbed the fishermen of a good many herring, and, therefore, of dollars and cents. They are fast workers, these sea lion fellows, and even in the comparatively few minutes which are required to put out a seine from a fishing boat—"making a set," the fishermen call it— and then to haul it back on board with its load of herring, they may work a good deal of havoc. Sometimes they also do damage to the nets, although their recent raids are not known to have caused serious loss of this kind.

It is because of the harm which they do to fisheries upon which many British Columbia people depend for their living that sea lions are hunted each year on some of their rookeries by one of the Pacific coast vessels of the Dominion Department of Fisheries. The purpose of the hunt is not to exterminate the herds but to prevent them from increasing too greatly and thus to curb the menace to the fisheries.

The lions are apparently very fond of salmon, herring, etc., and they have big appetites, so that if the size of the herds were wholly uncontrolled they would wipe out an enormous number of fish every year —many of them spawning fish—and damage or destroy a good many nets. The hunt is a protection for the fishermen against loss and aids in the important task of conserving the country's fish stocks for the future.

Canadian Honey in the United Kingdom

A study of the geography of world production and consumption of honey for recent years shows that the surplus-producing countries have been largely those of the Western Hemisphere — North, Central and South America and the West Indies —together with New Zealand, Australia and Russia. The importing countries of major significance have been but two in number — Germany and and the United Kingdom. German honey imports have been furnished chiefly by the United States mainly California), Cuba, Chili, Guatemala, Haiti, Dominican Republic, Russia and Mexico. Imports of Canadian honey have been negligible, rarely exceeding 2 per cent of the total and comprising less than 1 per cent for the year 1931.

The United Kingdom ranks second to Germany as a world honey market, but from the standpoint of Canadian producers is easily the more important of the two. Honey imports by the United Kingdom have ranged between seven and ten million pounds in recent years and have not shown the drastic decline which has characterized German imports during the depression period. Until 1932, the United Kingdom drew its honey supply from three main sources—United States, British West Indies, and New Zealand. Canada, Cuba, Chili and other countries contributed somewhat smaller amounts. Within the last three years, however, Canadian honey has made striking progress on this market, taking second place among the various competing countries in 1931.

Maintenance of this favourable position, writes J. K. Galbraith in Scientific Agriculture, the official organ of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists, will require a continuance of progressive sales policy.

Bovine Tuberculosis Control

Material progress has been made in Canada in the control of bovine tuberculosis, and the encouragement in this demand for action through the adoption of more aggressive and liberal policies has resulted in the Dominion Department of Agriculture obtaining the co-operation of public health bodies, dairymen and live-stock owners. The demand for this work has increased to such an extent that in recent years this problem has been the controlling factor in regard to the personnel and expenditure of the field division of the Health of Animals Branch. The work has exceeded the resources of the Branch and it has consequently been necessary to limit the activities of the Branch in this most important undertaking.

"I desire," says the Veterinary Director General in his annual report, just issued, "to particularly point out that this work is accumulative. Herds under the single herd policies should be tested at least once annually, while, in area work, general re-tests may be deferred in areas with a negligible incidence of inspection for a period of three years but not longer.

"We cannot hope to make satisfactory progress unless careful attention is paid to re-test work. With nearly two million cattle under the policies of the Department of Agriculture, re-test work has reached large proportions, and consequently must limit materially the number of initial tests which can be undertaken with the present staff. In addition to the general re-tests in areas and the annual re-tests of herds under the accredited herd and supervised herd plans, initial tests of cattle for entry into these areas and herds must be undertaken."

"It is the people of a nation, and not its ruler, who make it great."—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Life of a Farmer

In his address to the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists at Ottawa, Sir E. John Russell, director of Rothamsted Experimental Station in England, said that even "with all the help of science and the kindly office of the extension officer and other well-wishers, life can never be made entirely easy for the average farmer. "He may be protected by quotas and tariffs and helped by scientific advise as much as you like, but he must always take risks. It is usually a choice of evils, and he has to decide between one or more courses of action, neither of which he would choose to take, but he has got to do it.

"The farmer's life is well illustrated by an incident I once met with in the west of Ireland. There was a great stir because a lady of seventy was going to marry a gentleman of seventy-one. But the motive was explained quite simply by one of her neighbours: "The winter is coming on, and the peat has to be got in for fuel, and the potatoes have to be lifted and brought in, and she is afraid of either marrying a husband, or buying a donkey." Well, that is very much the farmer's situation. He is called upon to choose between two courses, neither of which is exactly what he would like to do. Our job as agricultural experts is to give him more alternatives, to try to make the various possibilities easier for him, and the decision between them more easy."

LIME-WASHED CATTLE TRUCKS

Everybody can recognize a cattle train at sight by its distinguishing white-washed walls, but everybody does not know that this sanitary limewashing is the work of the Health of Animals Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. In the exclusion of animal disease from Canada, no preventive detail is missed. Stock car inspectors are maintained at thirty railway centres throughout the Dominion. All stock cars arriving at or passing through these points are cleaned and disinfected under supervision unless they show evidence of having been so treated.

Cards are affixed to these cars showing the date of inspection and the name of the inspector who supervised the work. Railway cars which have conveyed restricted products, such as hides and wool are also cleaned and disinfected in a similar manner before being released. All stockyards are cleaned and disinfected and maintained in a sanitary condition. In disinfecting stock cars and yards, lime-wash with an approved disinfectant in proper strength is used. During the year ended March 31, 1933, 68,046 cars were disinfected under supervision.

EGG PLANT WILT

Egg plant wilt, the prevalence of which in Southern Ontario has caused many vegetable growers to discontinue the culture of the plant, has been studied at the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, at St. Catharines, and several recommendations have been made for its control. As the fungus which is responsible for the disease also attacks many other plants, egg plants should not be planted in locations in which crops such as raspberries, tomatoes, potatoes, etc., have been grown, unless after a lapse of several years, but should follow some cereal, grass or green manure crop. All susceptible hosts, including potatoes and tomatoes as well as egg plants, should be removed and burned before the ground is ploughed, and no diseased plant should ever be thrown on the manure or compost pile as this is an ideal method of contaminating an entire farm. Seed should be obtained from disease-free plantations, and sterilized before it is planted in sterilized soil, where it will remain until it is set out in the field.—Scientific Agriculture.

TARDY LEGISLATION

So far as the legislation for the protection of sheep is concerned, we have made little or no advance for several centuries says Mr. J. H. Suencer, in "Sheep Husbandry in Canada," issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. We find that in 1648 the general court of Massachusetts made an order in which the following appears:—

"If any dogge shall kill any sheepe the owners either bring his dogge forthwith or pay double damages for the sheepe, if ye dogge hath been seen in ye course of his ad murere before, not being sett on, and the owner hath notice thereof, then he shall both hange his dogge and pay for the sheepe."

This old regulation was calculated to protect the sheep in the same way that our present game laws protect the deer, while the sheep in many municipalities are receiving a much less serious consideration. In the twentieth century it would appear as though the dog industry receives greater consideration by legislature bodies than that of the sheep.

THE RUSSET DRESS

Gillian Tate smiled with anticipation as she neared the fashionably empty windows of a small dressmaker. Her smiled deepened. Across a green and silver chair an evening wrap of soft-coloured brocade was thrown nonchalantly, as if its wearer had lately slipped it off.

Gillian began to study the wrap critically. Both the artist and the woman in her approved. If there were cloaks like that there must also be dresses. Certain to be expensive, but that didn't matter. She could easily pay up to eleven guineas.

Unhurriedly she pushed open the door, stopped a moment to accustom her eyes to the dim light of the shop, and shut it quietly behind her. After the hot pavement she was glad to tread on the thick carpet. Against the walls were wide low stools in green and silver damask.

A dark-haired, dark-eyed assistant rose from an inner room. Her painted lips shone red in the dimness. Gillian told her that she would like to look at evening dresses.

The assistant conducted her to a private cubicle and set a stool for Gillian to rest upon. The light was good; there was a full-length mirror. The assistant drew the long green curtains.

Gently and almost reverently, it seemed she began to help Gillian take off her cotton morning dress. Often, she thought, the rich who came to her for clothes were fussy simple frocks before lunch A second assistant poked for permission to enter. She set down her armful of clothes on a stool and obsequiously withdrew.

Over her well-fitting cream slip Gillian tried gold dress after gold dress—fawn gold, amber gold, beach gold. With each she thought of a string of cornelian beads.

The assistant said looking at her critically, that they were chic—very chic—these gold gowns, but if she might suggest it Madam should try on something blue. She had a model sapphire gown unpacked only that morning which would suit Madam's eyes and fair hair to perfection. Would she let her fetch it ?

The Bracken and the Tree.

"I have an appointment at twelve-thirty," she said, smiling at the assistant. "Not just now, I think. I must make up my mind between the russet and the flame now. Take the others away, please."

Tenderly she put on the first one and then the other.

"Take both, Madam," the assistant advised. "They're equally chic, and to very moderate." She almost cooed as she went on. "Only eight guineas each, Madam, and just arrived."

"They're both lovely," Gillian said, "but I really mustn't. Let me hold this against you a moment."

"Thank you," Gillian said softly. "I will take the russet."

The russet ! It made her think of those woods and the bracken where she and John used to walk so often. Bracken and russet apples! Yes, a model sapphire. . . She put her dressing from her as she slipped her simple cotton dress over her head, and took out a little comb.

"Madam will be pleased, I think," the assistant remarked, smiling complacently. "Where can I send it for you, Madam ?"

Gillian Tate took out a note-case from the breast pocket of her cotton frock. "I'll pay now," she said, "it's simpler. Two fives; have you change?" She put back a third note into the case. "I think I'll take it with me. It's not at all heavy."

The woman returned with the change and the box. She drew back in terror ! Why didn't shop assistants behave like normal beings? Of course they could—and did— in the poorer shops.

There was just time to get the russet. Where had she better go for them ? She'd get a good bronze kid that wouldn't tarnish.

The showman was unctuous. He was bald. Gillian looked with dislike at his shiny head as he bent over the shoes he brought for her inspection. She was, he had decided, a rich customer. He knew that manner. You could always tell a lady. "Three guineas, Madam," he said. "A beautiful shoe, and a bargain at that price. Just see if it is comfortable, Madam."

Twenty minutes past twelve ! Gillian looked at the clock on the Town Hall as she passed. She would be there by half-past. She felt hungry. She began to think of cool, green salads, of russet apples. John would like this dress, she was sure. She turned into Clarendon Terrace.

Gillian ran lightly up the white steps and let herself in with a latch-key. As she shut the door she could hear whistling from upstairs. John was at home.

Modern Orchard Practices

Horticultural science today is making rapid strides in the solution of the problem upon which light has long been wanting. Scientific research is unearthing a wealth of material, much of which offers practical solutions or, at least, suggestions for some of the difficulties in profitable orchard management. Pruning recommendations today are radically different from those of a few years ago, and the new recommendations are based on experimental results. The much discussed fertilizer problem is now being studied from a plant physiological and biochemical standpoint, which, together with external observations, presents this problem in an entirely new light, and although definite rules cannot, and perhaps never will, be made on account of the differences of location and types of soil, many helpful and suggestive recommendations have been the outcome.

Fruit bud formation is another phase of recent study and its close relation and interdependence upon fertilizer practice and pruning make it necessary to treat these three problems almost as one. He who would understand one must have a knowledge of the others. The day of definite instructions applicable to all districts and sets of orchard conditions has passed. The most one can hope to accomplish is to aid the orchardist to grasp the principles underlying successful orchard management and to indicate these principles by citing a few typical examples of entirely different conditions and leave to the grower himself the application of these principles to his own conditions.

A study during the winter months of bulletin 129 on modern orchards, issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, will equip the orchardist with much valuable knowledge to be put into practice in the spring.

MILK FOR MANUFACTURERS

According to the provisions of the Dairy Industry Act, no person shall sell, supply or send to any cheese or butter or condensed or milk powder or casein manufactory, or to a milk or cream shipping station, or to a milk bottling establishment, or other premises where milk or cream is collected for sale or shipment, or to any maker of butter, cheese, condensed milk or milk powder or casein to be manufactured, (a) milk diluted with water, or in any way adulterated or milk from which any cream has been taken, or milk commonly known as skim-milk, or any milk to which has been added any cream or foreign fat or any colouring matter, preservative or other chemical substance of any kind; (b) milk from which any portion of that part of the milk known as strippings has been retained; (c) any milk taken or drawn from a cow he knows to be diseased at the time the milk is so taken or drawn from her.

FARM FIELD WORK POWER

A study of tractor operation on prairie farms in Western Canada was conducted co-operatively by the Canadian Pioneer Problems Committee, the Department of Farm Management of the University of Saskatchewan, the University of Alberta and the Agricultural Economics Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture In comparison with horse costs, it was found that the cost of doing major field operations was less with tractors than with horses in 1930 By 1932, however, feed prices and labour costs had decreased so much, while cash costs of tractor operation remained practically the same, that horse-power was found to be much more economical than that of the tractor As a general rule, says the Economic Annalist, the total cost of doing field operations with horses will be less than with tractors when it requires more than two bushels of oats to purchase enough fuel to operate a three-plough tractor for an hour

"Bring the scissors, and you shall have dress.

He sat beside her on the bed. Lightly she drew back the folds of tissue paper. She lifted the dress from the white cardboard box, and held it high for him to see.

"Looks all right," he said, "but can't tell off. Put it on. It won't take you a minute. I'll be mad if here are my books or anything."

"Silly !" She took off the cotton frock for the second time that day, shook and wriggled herself into the russet dress.

"Yes, it is," John said. "Lovely ! Makes you think of those topping woods." He smiled a little wistfully.

"And now," said Gillian. "I must put it up. But lets have some food first. Christine's a lucky creature. I know it will suit her. And I'm the exact size. With the slip and the shoes there's still some money over."

"Just go and buy two eggs—there's a dear !—While I take it off . . . Oh, how I wish we didn't feed, sleep, and wash in one room, don't you ? We'll send the change by money order."

Two Roles Closed To Finnish Women

Those of Soldier and Priest—Though Seventy Women Have Now Qualified for Holy Orders

New York. The only two roles still closed to the women of Finland are those of soldier and priest, said Miss Nina Stranderg, of Helsingfors, at the Finnish consulate, recently. She is touring the United States under the auspices of the International Federation of Business and Professional women.

With all our social and political freedom, however," she said, "Finnish women prefer professional and social welfare work, rather than becoming political figures.

"There are many women doctors in our little country of only 3,000,000. Of the 440 dentists, 320 of them are women.

"It is a blanket rule that cashiers be confined only to the feminine role in banks, shops or any kind of establishment, there are few, very few, bookkeepers who are men.

"Women are street car conductors, barbers, interpreters, and in fact, almost everything except soldiers and priests.

"However," she said, "there are 70 women now striving to become priests, who have passed all examinations and received their diplomas. The ordination ceremony is all that is lacking. These women perform any function in the church except christenings, weddings or burials."

MAPLE PRODUCTS RECORD BOOKS

Every manufacturing or packing plant of maple syrup or sugar keeps a special book in which is entered the quantity of gallons or pounds for maple syrup and in pounds for maple sugar of all maple products either purchased or sold. The date of such purchase, or to whom it was sold. The name also of the railway or steamship company or other transportation agency by which the maple products are transported, is noted. In addition to these records, a record is kept of all purchases or supplies that might be used in the manufacture of products resembling maple products, showing the date of purchase, quantity, and kind, and from whom purchased. These record books are used for the foregoing entries alone.

ANCIENT AGRICULTURAL YORE

Pliny, the Roman writer of the first century, dealing with the popular agricultural lore of his times, says "Many persons, for the effectual protection of millet, recommend that a bramble-frog should be carried at night round the field before the hoeing is done, and then buried in an earthen vessel in the middle of the field. If this is done, they say, neither sparrows nor worms will attack the crop. The frog, however, must be disinterred before the millet is cut; for, if this be neglected, the produce will be bitter. It is pretended, too, that all seeds which have been touched by the shoulders of a mole are remarkably productive."

SILVER FOX IN NORWAY

The history of the development of the silver fox industry in Norway is well-known to Canadian silver fox breeders who contributed largely of their stock as well as of their experience. The industry, writes the Canadian Trade Commissioner, has become stabilized and recently the first Norwegian fur auction has been organized, the first sale being fixed at Oslo, on November 22nd.

While the first objective appears to be to afford a complete auction service to Norwegian breeders, the ultimate aim appears to be the establishment of an auction which would attract breeders from Sweden and Finland, and possibly from other Baltic states as well. The success with which this first Norwegian fur auction meets in drawing foreign buyers to its rooms during its early stages will decide the question of the desirability of further development.

Canada's First Farmers

Long before the coming of the white man, agricultural peoples organized into more or less settled communities, occupied the fertile lowland of Ontario between the Great Lakes and its continuation along the St. Lawrence Valley south of the Laurentian shield. The Iroquoian tribes who had learned in the south how to grow maize, beans, squashes and sunflowers, introduced their cultivation into south-eastern Ontario and St. Lawrence Valley, whence they spread into New Brunswick.

But the Indian methods of cultivation, says Diamond Jenness in "Indians in Canada" were exceedingly primitive. Their stone axes barely bit into hard maple or birch trees that were not first charred with fire, so that they depended mainly on burning for the clearing of their land. Long digging sticks or hoes fitted with blades of shells supplied the place of ploughs; the ripened ears of corn were gathered by hand and transported in baskets by the women to the husking shed. No tribe understood the rotation of crops, or indeed possessed the means to rotate them, and but few made any attempt to fertilize the soil. Consequently, when their plots became exhausted within ten or twelve years, the community moved away to new but unbroken ground. The exhaustion of the fuel supply in the near vicinity was also a common cause for abandonment of otherwise favourable sites.

Administrator's Sale By Auction

ESTATE WILMOT AMOS GERMAN (Deceased)

There will be sold by Public Auction at the premises, known as the Wilmot A. German farm, subject to reserve bid, on

TUESDAY, JANUARY 16TH, 1934

The North half of Lot Number 37, in the First Concession, North of the Road, in the Township of Tyendinaga in the County of Hastings, containing 100 acres more or less.

Prospective purchasers are invited, between this and the date of the sale to inspect this farm and satisfy themselves as to its merits. The farm is said to be free from herrick and wild-daisy and is one of the very choicest 100 - acre farms in the Township, its value being very much enhanced by its being one half length of the Concession and double width with a splendid land through the centre, and is all choice land and free from stone, also well watered and well drained and an shaking land. Erected on this farm is a real good brick house and very good outbuildings.

This property will be offered, subject to Conditions of Sale, which will be produced at the time of sale.

TERMS OF SALE: 15 per cent. of purchase money to be paid down at the time of sale and the balance to be paid within 10 days thereafter.

There will also be sold on the same day and hour and at the same place, a quantity of household furniture, farm stock, farm produce and farm implements. (See posters throughout district.)

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

Two cups canned tomatoes, 1 small onion, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, celery tops, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 6 peppercorns.

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in sauce pan and add onion, peeled and cut in thin slices. Cook over a low fire for five minutes and add tomatoes, sugar, salt, celery tops and peppercorns. Cover pan and simmer fifteen minutes. Rub through a sieve. In another pan melt remaining butter and stir in flour. Cook and stir until bubbly. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Season with pepper and bring to the boiling point. Boil one minute, stirring constantly. Take the sauce from the fire and add the sifted tomato pulp which has been kept hot while the thin white sauce was being made. Pour the tomatoes slowly and stir constantly. Add parsley and serve at once. This soup will separate and curdle if allowed to stand or if reheated.

Whipped cream may be served on this soup. Whip cream until firm and season lightly with salt. Pour one dessertspoonful on each plate of soup.

The Oil of Power.—It is not claimed for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil that it will remedy every ill, but its uses are so various that it may be looked upon as a general pain killer. It has achieved that greatness for itself and its excellence is known to all who have tested its virtues and learned by experience.

VINEGAR — A GOOD FRIEND IN THE KITCHEN

Vinegar is a very good friend, both in the kitchen, dining room, and the cleaning cupboard.

Rub vinegar on tannin-stained teacups and tea pots. Add some to the water when cleaning carpets and see how it brings up the color.

A vinegar compress applied to sprains is most soothing. A raw egg in vinegar is strengthening for a weak throat. Two tablespoonfuls added to the rinsing water on washing day will give a nice finish to silk stockings and underwear.

The fumes of vinegar will soften the toughest meat. To whiten artichokes and leeks, add a little vinegar to the water you plunge them into as they are scraped.

The unpleasant smell of greens cooking will be avoided if a little vinegar is added to the boiling water.

When eggs are high priced, two teaspoons of vinegar used in place of an egg will improve the lightness of a cake. Add a teaspoonful to the water in which you boil preserved eggs and they will not crack.

When dyeing colored articles, add a little vinegar to the dye, and put some in the rinsing waters. This helps to make the colors fast.

Pour a little vinegar into a discolored decanter or glass bottle; it will soon remove the fur. It is also excellent for polishing windows.

AMHERST ISLAND

The Amherst Island Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting in the Town Hall, Stella, on Saturday, December 9th, at 2.00 p. m., with nineteen present. Roll call was answered to with a recipe for candy and a sample. It was decided to send a small donation to the Santa Claus Fund in Napanee. At the invitation of Mrs. Edward McMullen, the meeting on Saturday, January 13th, will be held at her home instead of in the Town Hall. The meeting will begin at 2:00 p.m. as usual.

While the different samples of candy were tested, Miss Leech showed some pretty boxes for sending away Christmas presents and told how simply they were made. All then joined in singing "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and Mrs. Reginald Instant gave a very instructive talk on the different kinds of pneumonia and the treatment and showed the kinds of pneumonia jackets used. Misses Helen and Jean McMaster sang a duet. "The First Christmas." Just after which Mrs. W. A. Kilpatrick demonstrated the manner in which to fill a hot water bottle, and how to make a mustard plaster and a linseed poultice.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

ERNESTTOWN

Ernesttown, December 26. — The largest snow storm of the season came on Tuesday. The roads were blocked for all motor traffic and the weather registered much below zero.

The December meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at Mrs. Claude Thompson's on Wednesday, December 20th. There were twenty-two members and visitors present. The meeting opened by singing a hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mr. J. Kellar read the scripture lesson, taken from Luke. Mrs. Spring gave a report of the bazaar, and several articles had been sold since the bazaar, bringing the collections to well over $30.00. Mrs. Clarence Thompson, in a few words, thanked the members of the Aid for their loyal support in the past year and then called on Rev. NORTHBROOK

Northbrook, Jan. 2. — The New Year brought a change in the weather, but the heavy rain on the deep snow is making motoring difficult.

Road gangs continue to come and go, those lads who are dissatisfied returning to the cities, grumbling, but our boys say the camps give excellent board, the best of clean beds, plenty of hot and cold water, pleasant evenings and light work. They do appreciate the opportunity of the work.

A number of our men motored to Kingston Saturday, finding that 10 below zero there seemed much colder than 30 below here, owing to our altitude and sheltered roads.

Mr. John White of Harlowe passed away at his home Saturday morning after but a few days' illness, as he spent Christmas in the family circle. Surviving are his wife and four daughters, Mrs. I. Morey of Rochester; Mrs. R. Cuddy and Mrs. William Thompson, of Harlowe and Miss Anna at home, Mr. White has, for years, been a member of the Standard Church and will be greatly missed in the neighborhood. Rev. I. Wickware officiated, while the remains were interred in the family plot, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Hugh Hillier of Harlowe, spent the week in the village.

Rumor says a wedding soon.

Mrs. Robert Jackson and family are staying at S. G. Both's, since their home and contents were burned.

The Council Board will hold session, January 8th, with the same members as last year.

Mrs. Ernest Vanest is recuperating from a serious illness, at the home of Mrs. Sanford Thompson.

The body of Mrs. William Anderson, who died in Kingston Hospital, as the result of a broken hip at her advanced age, was met at the station Friday, and buried in the Flinton cemetery.

Mr. Ahr came to his Myer's Cave home, by plane, from Buffalo last week, and says we know nothing of the cold, down here.

Mr. Thomas Hustler has returned to Toronto after a week's vacation spent with relatives and friends.

Our thermometers registered 43 degrees below on Thursday night. The coldest on record. Many cars had trouble and two trucks and drivers were out all night in the woods, near Denbigh.

Rev. J. M. Ruthven is motoring to Fergus for a few days, when he will return and continue his successful evangelistic campaign in these parts.

INGLE

Ingle, December 30. — The severe weather of the past week has been hard on the wood pile and everyone is wishing for a quick change to more moderate weather. Thermometers in this neighborhood registered from 36 to 40 degrees below zero.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Jan. 1.—The funeral of the late Henry Davey was held on Tuesday, December 26th, when, after a short service at his late home, the remains were brought to Enterprise United Church, where the pastor, Rev. D. M. Stinson, was in charge of the funeral service. Following the service the remains were placed in the United Church vault to await interment in the spring. The deceased had been a life long resident of this community. He was eighty-four years of age. His wife predeceased him some years ago.

The dance under the auspices of St. John's Anglican Church, which was to have been held on Tuesday evening, December 26th, had to be postponed on account of the snowstorm, which made the roads almost impassable.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, a small barn situated on the property of the Whitman Creek cheese factory, in some unaccountable manner, was destroyed by fire. A sedan car belonging to H. Reynolds, who resides in the rooms in the upper part of the factory, which was stored in the barn, was also burned. Mr. Reynolds being absent at the time, the fire was unnoticed by Mrs. Reynolds until the building was almost completely burned.

Owing to the extreme cold and the unfavorable condition of the roads, the supper and entertainment which is an annual event on Christmas Day, for the United Church, was not as well patronized as in former years. However, the attendance was very good, everything considered. Mrs. Kathryn Powell of Napanee, assisted materially in the program.

There will be no election for Municipal Council in this township this year. The Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillors of the past year will again hold office for another year. Those who withdrew their names when nominated are to be commended in saving the expense of an election in these strenuous times.

Word has reached the village of the death of a one-time resident of this village in the person of Lance Tedler, who, for the past twenty-eight years has been a resident of Watertown, N.Y. Death came very suddenly from heart failure, having passed away when found by his wife when he did not appear when called for his evening meal. He was fifty-six years of age and was a son of the late George Kelber and Mrs. Hadley, who are living near Napanee. Mrs. Alonzo Wagar and Mrs. William Loucks of Enterprise, are sisters of the deceased.

A game of hockey between the Verona boys and Enterprise, was played on the local rink on Wednesday afternoon. Owing to the late arrival of the visitors, the game was called at the end of the second period, the score being 6 to 3 in favor of Verona.

Fred Gardiner of Perdue, Sask., who has been on holiday with his aunt, Mrs. W. J. Mellow, reports that conditions in the west are very bad indeed, and were it not for the carloads of food and clothing that have been sent there from Eastern Canada, many families would have been entirely destitute.

The weather during the past week has marked a record for some years, at least. The mercury reached a mark of 32 degrees below zero.

Christmas Day is generally recognized as a day of family re-unions and it is believed a record in numbers was established in this district this year, when at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, fifty-eight members of their family sat down to a Christmas dinner.

On New Year's Day a game was staged with the Moscow team on the local rink, when the Enterprise boys were victors in a score of 3 to1.

YARKER

Yarker, Jan. 1. — Happy New Year to all and may the year 1934 be one filled with good gifts to all who make their contributions to the good and welfare of society.

We are glad to report that Mrs. W. A. Martin, who has been confined to her bed under the doctor's care for some time, is much improved and is able to be about again. Mrs. Clinton Smith has been waiting on her.

Several others have been stricken with colds, but no epidemic of flu has been reported, for which we are thankful.

On Saturday of last week the funeral of the late Allison Martin, took place. Mr. Martin died Thursday morning, after an illness of two weeks and a half. He and Mrs. Martin and their daughter, Mrs. Hogle, moved to the village last fall, and were comfortably situated, when his illness came. Mr. Martin was born on the land his grandfather took up as a grant from the crown, and had lived there all his life until the time of their coming to the village. He was about the oldest resident of this community, being in his eighty-sixth year at the time of his death. There are left to mourn, besides Mrs. Martin, their daughter, Mrs. Hogle of Yarker, and Mrs. Stinson, of Montreal. The sympathy of the village and community is extended to the bereaved. The funeral was conducted from the house, and burial took place in the family plot in Yarker cemetery.

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment is recommended for sore necks, galls, distemper, callouses and spavins. Removes proud flesh and Hoof Rot. Stops bleeding instantly.

MORVEN

Morven, Dec. 30. — The young People's Society put on their concert in the Town Hall on Friday evening. The church was seasonably and artistically decorated for the occasion. The concert opened by a Christmas chorus, followed by a brief address from the chairman, Rev. A. E. Oliver. Readings and songs by young people of various age occupied the first hour. Then came the pageant entitled "The Call of the Christmas Bell," in which twenty-five young people in costume, took part. Too much cannot be said of Miss Lillian Babcock, who though unseen, presided at the organ and directed the pageant through to a splendid finish. At the close of the programme, Santa Claus continued his mission and distributed dainty gifts from the tree, after which refreshments, with a steaming cup of coffee, was served to all.

St. Thomas Sunday School held their annual Christmas tree on Wednesday evening, at which the usual good number attended. A well filled school house greeted Mrs. Denyes at her concert on Thursday evening. The children, with Mr. Earl Walmsley as chairman and Mr. W. Ball as Santa, presented a special program.

Mr. Oliver, Ottawa, and Mrs. Kelly Kingston, spent the week end at the parsonage.

The Sunday evening service was not as well attended as we would wish, but those who were there enjoyed the message and song, which was in keeping with the Christmas season.

A prosperous New Year to all the readers and staff of The Beaver

Get Rid of That Cough or Cold

For Only a Few Cents

In these days when every person counts, it's good to have a remedy like BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE, that banishes coughs and colds so quickly that the cost is only a few cents.

One dose of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE gives immediate relief. Two doses very often relieves the worst cold in the head. No matter how long your cough or cold has troubled you, BUCKLEY'S will stop it at once! That's why people say, "It acts like a Sunbeam inside the throat." Because of satisfaction, Buckley's is sold everywhere.

AFTER ACCIDENT SHE PUT ON WEIGHT

Kruschen Took It Off Again

A woman sends the following account of the consequence of an auto accident, in which she was involved: "A year ago I had a very bad automobile accident, which left me more or less a cripple. Having to lie in bed so long, and being unable to move, I began to put on flesh. When I was able to walk a little again, I found I was 144 lbs., and being just under 5 feet you may guess how I was placed. So I thought I would try Kruschen Salts, and I must say they have done me a lot of good in every way—but chiefly in keeping my weight down. In three months I lost 6 lbs. Then I left off taking the Kruschen, and I soon went up to 142 lbs. again. So at once I got more Kruschen, and am again steadily reducing. My weight last months was 134 lbs."—(Mrs.) W. H. M.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

Conway - Sandhurst

Bath, Dec. 2. — Christmas is past and with it the numerous entertainments. The snow-covered ground and bright sunshine made it a pleasant and cheerful trip for those who were celebrating the day away from home. The storm and severe cold of this week have blocked the roads until it is impossible for cars to get through. The milk for the condensery was gathered by means of teams and sleighs. The creameries have not been through as yet and many are wondering how to keep the cream as well as where the weekly supply of butter is to come from.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders of Toronto, are the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Sanders, at the parsonage.

Annual school meeting was held in the various schools on Wednesday.

Mrs. C. Hudson and daughters, of Bath, are visiting Mrs. J. Carroll, of Sandhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Henwood and family, spent Christmas the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Magee, Adolphstown.

The people of this community were shocked to hear of the sudden death on Wednesday, of Mr. J. N. Pitchett, of Sillsville. He had been nominated as councilman for South Frederickburgh for the coming election.

The milder weather of Sunday, followed by rain, makes us wonder if the ice which has been formed in the bay during the cold snap, will stay.

SHANNONVILLE

Mr. William Barber, of Toronto, has returned to his home, after spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Jas. Barber.

The many friends of Mrs. William Dean are glad to hear she is improving, after being confined to her home for some time through an infection in her toe.

Mr. Melville Wood, of Detroit, spent Christmas with Rev. W. H. Clarke, and family.

Miss Helen Clarke is spending a few days in Brighton.

We are sorry to report Mr. Price had to return to Belleville hospital again.

The Christmas entertainments put on by the Anglican and the United Church Sunday Schools on December 22nd and December 28th, were very well attended.

Miss Marie Emmons has been spending the holiday season with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kinnnerly, at Empey Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan MacDonald had a family gathering on Christmas Day.

The annual New Year's dance was held under the auspices of the Orange Lodge in their hall on New Year's Night. Owing to weather and road conditions the attendance was smaller than usual, but all there report a good time.

A number of our young men have gone to Denbigh to work on the highway there.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bateman and children of Springbrook, spent the week end at the home of Mr. A. R. Wescott.

Mr. Henry Liddle, Kenneth and Ina, spent Sunday with friends in Belleville.

Mayor George J. Tustin Stresses Need of Economy In Inaugural Address

Reviews Tasks of Various Committees

Gentlemen :—

This is the first business session of the new Council and I wish to congratulate you as the chosen representatives of our ratepayers, upon the honor thus conferred upon you by your fellow citizens and I wish also, as Mayor, to welcome you to the Council Board and, especially, I extend a welcome to those of you who sit here for the first time my heartiest felicitations. You appear to represent truly a cross-section of our people and I believe as such you will present in our deliberations in conducting the Town's affairs, a proper and well balanced regard for all our people. I trust that in all meetings we will be able to give careful consideration to the many problems that may be brought to our attention from time to time, and that we will work together unselfishly and in harmony.

I believe the Town's finances are in a sound and healthy condition, notwithstanding the strain of the past few years, and although there appear to be considerable tax arrears, as there are in practically all municipalities, I believe our position in this respect is considerably better than the majority. Our debenture debt is quite large but when we deduct our Public Utility debt, which is taken care of out of the revenues from the several utilities, our net debt is not very large, especially when we consider the high state of repair of our highways, public buildings, etc. Notwithstanding this, however, it still behooves us to watch very carefully our expenditures and not incur capital expenditures that are not immediately esiential.

Provision was made, last year, for a scheme of prepayment of taxes. I believe this has worked out satisfactorily and I suggest this matter be reviewed and extended, if possible.

I recommend that all payments made by the Treasurer, apart from directly authorized by resolution of the Council and which are contained in the pay sheet issued by the Clerk, be summarized and reported to the Council by the Treasurer at the first meeting in each month for confirmation. By doing this the Council will, at all times, be in possession of the details of all expenditures.

Our controllable expenditure is not very large and most of this is in connection with the proper repair and cleaning of streets. We must keep our streets clean and sanitary and I suggest that they be flushed regularly.

In respect to repair to streets, I would ask that the Streets Committee make a survey of the necessary requirements as early as practicable and report to the Council with an estimate of the cost.

The Fire & Water Committee have charge of the fire protection of the Town and I suggest that an early survey be made of all fire fighting appliances and that an estimate be presented to the Council in respect to any hose or other equipment that may reasonably be required. I believe we have a very efficient fire brigade and this is evidenced by the very small fire loss during the past year. I would ask, also, this committee to take into consideration the question of whether representation should be made to the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, for a reduction in our insurance tariffs.

Our Police appear to be efficient and I am in a position to congratulate ourselves on the absence of juvenile crime.

The Town Property Committee have the charge of our public buildings, including the Sewage Disposal Works, and I suggest that the committee make an early survey of these so that they may be kept in proper repair, at all times.

The Social Welfare Committee will have considerable work in looking after welfare and unemployment relief. I believe this work has been done efficiently and economically in the past, but as conditions and accounts are incurred, it is most important that the Welfare Relief Committee be given sympathetic consideration by all the members of the Council. It might be possible to suggest to the Department of Highways of Ontario, that the ditches along the Bridge Road, be filled in or graded, using county labor and thus absorbing some of our surplus labor.

In respect to our printing, I would ask that the committee having this in charge, do consider, if practicable, the matter of summarizing our financial statements for publication, with the hope of reducing our printing bills.

In respect to the conduct of our business at our council meetings, I recommend that, all the members handle themselves formally down to rules, as set out in our procedure by law, so that our business may be conducted orderly, expeditiously and harmoniously.

In conclusion, I ask that you give me full cooperation and support and in turn I promise to give all the consideration and assistance I can, at any time they deem advice from me desirable.

GEO. J. TUSTIN,
Mayor.

Serious Accidents Occur On Town's Slippery Streets

Several People Suffer Broken Bones

The continued icy conditions of the streets has constituted a serious menace to the public during the past week. Several serious accidents have occurred on the walks by citizens of the town and district.

One of the most serious mishaps was sustained by Mrs. E. McLaughlin, the local agent of the C. P. R. Ticket office for X-ray examination Friday noon, about 1:00 o'clock, when returning from her office to her home, Mrs. McLaughlin fell on the slippery pavement near Trinity Church. Medical examination disclosed that both bones of her left wrist and her left hip were broken.

Mrs. McLaughlin was assisted to her home by Percy Laidley and Hawley Steacy. The fracture of the arterial was reduced by Dr. Hall, and later Mrs. McLaughlin was taken to Dr. Hall's office for X-ray examination, where it was found that the left hip was broken. She was again removed to her home, where she is resting as comfortably as could be expected.

On Monday, January 1st, Mrs. Evans, of Centreville, mother of Mrs. Hinch, who resides on Bridge St., East, fell, in Napanee, and broke her hip. X-ray examination disclosed an impacted break and Mrs. Evans was removed to her daughter's home where she is being treated.

Mrs. Fred Blair, who lives on Robert Hill, when coming down to town, last week, fell on the slippery surface of the roadway and broke a bone in her ankle.

Mrs. Herbert File, a member of the staff of the Napanee Collegiate, while going to school Thursday noon fell and hurt her right wrist. She continued to school where she looked after her classes until school was dismissed, and returned home. When the doctor was called later, it was found one bone of her wrist was cracked. Mrs. File was able to return to her duties the first of the week, but will be unable to use her hand for some time.

On the school grounds of the West Ward School, last week, Shirley Ann, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Francis, fell on some ice and broke her leg. The fracture was reduced and the little girl is progressing favorably.

Another Newburgh Boy Made Good

An article in the "Arizona Independent Republic," tells that at a gathering of druggists of that state, the two principal speakers were Frank G. Clancy, vice-president and general manager of the California Branch of Dr. Miles' Medical Company, located in Los Angeles, and Harry S. Nott, advertising manager for a large eastern house.

Frank Clancy was born at Wesley, attended public school there and high school in Newburgh, from which he graduated. At the age of sixteen he entered the Newburgh Drug Store and after one year in Newburgh, he went to Wallace's Drug Store, Napanee. Later he went to Toronto, where he was employed by Tamblyn's and was in their employ until the Great War, when he enlisted with the Princess Pats. While training on Salisbury Plains, he had an attack of appendicitis and was operated on and when recovered he was put in charge of the drug department of the hospital, in England.

He returned home in 1919 and went west. In 1920 he returned to his home in the east, where he met and married Miss Edith Pile, of Canterbury, Eng.

He returned to Vancouver, and shortly after, went to California, where he has been with the Dr. Miles Medical Company of Elkhart, Indiana, since.

Narrow Escape From Drowning In Hay Bay

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Allison and two children of Adolphustown, were victims of a serious accident, which narrowly escaped being a tragedy, on Sunday night last.

While crossing from the north shore of Hay Bay to the south shore, the truck in which they were travelling broke through the ice, when about one hundred feet from the north shore. The presence of mind of both Mr. and Mrs. Allison in opening the doors of the cab in which they were seated, when they felt the truck going into the water, made it possible for them to escape. Mrs. Allison assisted his wife and infant daughter to safety and then proceeded to search for his young son. It was necessary for him to dive three times into the water before he finally located the boy floating at the top of the cab.

The accident occurred about opposite the home of James Robertson, where the members of the party were taken and given first aid and where they remained for the night.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison and their children were returning to their home in Adolphustown in the early evening, after spending the day with Allison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Parks, at North Fredericksburgh.

Less Unemployment In 20 Great Nations

Geneva. — Twenty nations, including the largest of the world powers, exclusive of France, showed an "encouraging decrease" in unemployment during the final quarter of 1933, the International Labor Office reported today.

The countries showing favorable employment conditions included the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Chile, Australia, Canada, Ireland and Japan.

The Labor Office announced that the United States employment index rose to 73.5 points in October, 1933, compared with 59.6 in October, 1932.

Unemployment increased in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, New Zealand, Norway, Palestine and Poland, the Office reported.

Belleville Plans New Relief Ruling

Members of the City Council will press for a 12-month residence rule for relief applicants at an early meeting, it was stated recently.

"It would greatly cut down the number of those who enter the city in the Fall of the year, keep under cover for three months, as is now stipulated, and then apply for relief," stated a Council member. He said that many make it a practice of living in the country during the summer and come to the city in winter to be kept by the municipality.

Committees For 1934 Named at Council First Session, Monday

Members Take Oath of Office

Members present were Mayor Tustin, Reeve Hughson, Deputy-Reeve Wilson and Councillors Masters, Luffman, Exley, Cowling, Topping and Morden.

The Clerk read the declarations of office to the members of the council, and they were subscribed to by the councillors before the magistrate, Mr. M. P. Graham.

Standing Committees, 1934

On motion of Reeve Hughson and Deputy Reeve Wilson, the following standing committees were named for the year 1934:—

FINANCE— Dr. C. Wilson, chairman; Dr. W. Morden, A. S. Hughson.

STREETS— Morden, chairman; B. Luffman, John Topping.

FIRE, WATER & LIGHT :— V. Cowling, chairman; J. Topping, Dr. C. Wilson.

PARKS — J. Topping, chairman; W. S. Exley, W. Masters.

Ex-Mayor Kimmerly addressed the council. He wished Mayor Tustin the same splendid co-operation from the members of the council and the press representatives, who are all interested citizens of the town, would co-operate with the mayor.

Reeve Hughson spoke in a complimentary manner of the fine spirit exhibited by ex-Mayor Kimmerly during the term of his office.

Mayor Tustin, a telegram from Deputy Minister Fullerton, advising that ten men from Napanee and the town might be sent to camp 4C2 at Kaladar for road building.

On motion of Councillors Cowling and Luffman, the matter was referred to the Social Welfare Committee, to report.

On motion, the Council adjourned until 7:30 p.m.

FIRST REGULAR SESSION

Some interesting features marked the first regular session of the Napanee Town Council, held Monday evening, at which all members were present.

Archdeacon Dumbrille of St. Mary Magdalen Anglican Church was introduced by Mayor Tustin. Mr. Dumbrille offered his felicitations to the new council, then read a passage of scripture, two prayers and the council and audience repeated the Lord's Prayer. Rev. A. J. Wilson, of St. Andrew's United Church, was also present, on the invitation of the Mayor, to address the Council.

Mr. Wilson offered his congratulations to the members of the Council and then extended a welcome. He pointed out that while it is the duty of the Council to conduct financial affairs, it is also their duty to look after the welfare of their constituents. He advised against the example of public administrators taking too narrow a view of their responsibilities and for the effect of their actions on public opinion.

Band Serenades Council

Following Mr. Wilson's address, the Napanee Band, under the leadership of Mr. A. McGregor, filed into the council chamber and played "God Save the King" and two other numbers. Mr. MacGregor briefly addressed the council and, on motion of Councillors Hughson and Wilson, a vote of thanks was extended to the speakers and the band.

A communication from Mr. A. McGregor, making application for the position of bandmaster and instrument custodian, at a salary of $100 per annum, was laid on the table for further consideration.

Application for the job of street cleaner were received from Philip Hearns, Charles Babcock, R. W. Bonner, Frank C. Babcock, Garnet Barnes, Arthur Babcock, and for steaming, from J. A. Chatterson.

It was moved by Councillor Morden and seconded by Councillor Topping, that the applications be referred to the Streets Committee with power to act, and to report action to later to the Council.

Mr. C. W. Buchanan, the recently appointed county magistrate for the Ontario Department of Agriculture addressed the Council, with the object of introducing himself. He expressed the hope that the same spirit of co-operation would continue between his office and the town, as had been shown in the past.

Memorial Planned For Noted Quaker

Toronto.—An Englishman of giant physique and scholarly attainments, Dr. Henry T. Hodgkin, became one of the pioneers of the English Friends Mission to West China and later the general secretary of the National Christian Council of China. His recent death at Pendle Hill, Pennsylvania, has led friends on both sides of the Atlantic and of the Pacific to plan a memorial for him.

The bishop of Croydon is chairman of the committee and the sponsors are from three continents and many countries. As one of his first activities in China was in connection with the West China Union University, it is intended that the memorial shall take the form of an endowment for this University.

Canada is closely related to the West China University in many personal ways. Sir Joseph Flavelle, Bart., Prof. Anderson of Huron College and Rev. Dr. James Endicott have been members of its board of governors and many Canadian Methodist and United Church missionaries have served on its senate and staff.

Application for Positions

Applications for the position of assessor were received from C. H. Laguin, R. H. Shipman and James A. Pringle. It was moved by Reeve Hughson and seconded by Deputy-Reeve Wilson, that the matter of appointment of assessor be left in the hands of the Finance Committee to report at the next meeting.

An application for the position of caretaker of the disposal works, from William Marcle, was referred to the Town Property Committee to report.

An application from Hugh Duncan asking permission to place four gas tanks, three 1,000 gallon and one 500 gallon at C. E. Duncan's residence, was, on motion of Messrs. Wilson and Morden, referred to the Streets Committee to report.

Councillor Exley reported that in the matter of sending ten fully equipped men to camp 4 C 2 at Kaladar, to work on the roads being built as a relief measure, no action was being taken until the exact work.

By - Laws Passed

Several by-laws were given their several readings and finally passed:

(1) A by-law to borrow $50,000 from the Bank of Commerce.

(2) A by-law to provide for the privilege of pre-payment of taxes to begin February 1st, on the same basis as last year.

(3) A by-law to appoint W. S. Herrington, K.C. town solicitor, at a salary of $100.00.

(4) A by-law appointing A. E. Cooke, sanitary inspector, at a salary of $100.00.

(5) A by-law appointing W. V. Webster, a member of the Board of Health.

(6) A by-law appointing J. L. Boyes, School Trustee.

(7) A by-law naming a court of revision, as follows : Mayor Tustin, Reeve Hughson, Deputy-Reeve Wilson, Councillors Luffman and Morden.

(8) A by-law providing for interim appropriations, as follows : Streets, $5,000.00 ; Fire and Water, $2000.00; Social Welfare, $5,000; Light, $3000.00; Printing and By-laws, $500.00; Parks $400.00; Town Property, $700.00; Police and Market, $1700.00; Contingent, $1000.00.

Auditors Appointed

Applications were received from Damon Garrison, George Knox and Fred Knapp, for the position of auditors.

It was moved by Messrs. Cowling and Luffman that Damon Garrison and Fred Knapp be appointed auditors, at a salary of $75.00 each. An amendment moved by Councillors Morden and Masters, naming the firm of Oscar Hudson & Co., Ltd., of Toronto, auditors, at a fee of $250.00, was carried.

Mr. Cowling asked for the yeas and nays on the amendment, which resulted as follows :—

Yea — Messrs. Exley, Hughson, Luffman, Masters, Morden, Topping, Wilson.

Nay — Messrs. Cowling and Tustin.

The necessary by-law naming Oscar Hudson & Co. was passed.

It was moved by Reeve Hughson, seconded by Councillor Topping and passed :

"That all purchases for the municipality be made through the committee named, and that all accounts be certified to by the committee before being presented to the council for payment.

Moved by Reeve Hughson and seconded by Councillor Luffman, and carried, that the Town Council request the co-operation of the County Council in endeavoring to have the fast C. N. R. trains stop at Napanee.

After the passing of accounts, Council adjourned.

Hon. H. H. Stevens Issues Annual Statement

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Dominion House, last week issued a report on Canada's trade situation, in which he sounded an exceptionally optimistic note.

In it, he said : "Recovery is, on the whole, the key word to be used in describing the economic condition of the world, toward the close of 1933."

Canada, Fifth as Export Nation

In the last completed calendar year, the Dominion still stood fifth among the nations of the world in the value of her exports, in spite of the fact that countries whose exports were of primary importance were disproportionately affected by the fall in prices which was largest in the case of such commodities. Only the four greatest industrial countries — United States, the United Kingdom, France and Germany, with populations from four to twelve times as large as ours, were ahead of Canada in value of exports, while such important trading countries as Japan and Italy fell behind us.

Increase in Empire Trade

Especially remarkable is the consistent increase in the proportion of our exports that go to the Mother Country and other Empire countries. Whereas in the fiscal year ended 1930 only 25.2 per cent of our exports of Canadian products were consigned to the United Kingdom and 34.6 per cent to the Empire, the percentages in the succeeding fiscal years have been as follows : 1931 37.4 and 36.6; 1932, 39.2 and 38.0; 1933, 38.9 and 46.9. Indeed, in November 1933 the percentages rose to 47.8 and 55.8, respectively. In other words, out of every $9 worth of products exported from Canada in November, $4 went to the Empire countries, where the markets are always open to our goods and where we enjoy preferences not accorded to us elsewhere.

In the eight-month period ended November, 1933, our aggregate favorable balance of visible merchandise trade was $143,000,000, of which only $15,225,000 arose out of our trade with foreign countries and $89,613,000 out of our trade with Empire countries.

figures of unemployment in industries, other than agriculture, reached its climax in the first quarter of 1933. Subsequent to the improvement at the end of the winter (April 1) being 76.0 The return of spring, however, brought an increase in the rate of employment which by July had assumed more than merely seasonal proportions and has continued since that time even in these latter months when the ordinary seasonal trend is downward. Altogether, the increase between the low point of April 1 and December 1 have added 147,000 workers to the staffs of some 8,400 reporting firms, and it is estimated that this represents an increase of some 300,000 employed workers in the Dominion as a whole in the last eight months.

The Scotsman was fumbling in his pocket. "You don't need to pay me my wages," says the employer. "I'm not going to," was the reply. "I'm only counting ma money before you giv me gas."

Town Welfare Committee Appeal For Used Clothing

Committee Report 52 Families on Relief

On Monday afternoon the Public Welfare Committee of the Town of Napanee, met at the Council Chamber. The members present were Miss Leamy, Mrs. R. S. Wales, Chief Watts, Dr. P. C. Wilson, V. Cowling and W. S. Exley, with Engineer Young, Dr. Morden and W. S. Exley, were also in attendance.

Relief accounts for the month of December, to the amount of $765.74 were passed. $425 of this amount was for groceries and food. Doctors' bills and medical supplies amounted to $234. Expense of food tickets, since opening on December 14th to December 31st, was $48.98. 284 meals were served at the relief kitchen.

There are at present 53 families on relief, an increase of about 12 families since the last report. The approximate total of people on relief in the town is 180.

Lack of Clothing Needed

Miss Leamy, who has charge of the issuance of clothing, reports that the supply is nearly exhausted. Clothing of all kinds, for men, women and children, is needed. A committee of women in the town have taken over any articles which cannot be utilized in the condition in which they are received, but underwear, goloshes and rubbers are also urgently needed.

As an example of the number of calls received for assistance, it is interesting to know that on Friday afternoon, no less than twenty-three people were given clothing. The relief depot is only supposed to be open two days a week, but the calls are so many and so urgent that scarcely a day passes without Miss Leamy being on the job. It may readily be seen that the supply must, in turn be constantly replenished. Citizens who have clothing they wish to donate, have only to communicate with Miss Leamy, or leave the articles at the relief depot, in the town hall, on Bridge St.

Napanee to Send Men to Relief Camp

On Monday, at the meeting of the Council, the clerk read a telegram from the Deputy Minister in Toronto, advising that ten fully equipped men could be sent from Napanee to a road camp near Kaladar. Chief Watts, the relief officer, will receive applications at his office, from any men in the town who wish to receive employment in the road camps.

Highway Traffic Rendered Difficult By Icy Surface

The highways and county roads were practically covered with a sheet of ice during the most part of last week. Motorists who found it necessary to drive, could only do so with safety by driving very slowly. One day toward the latter part of the week, five large transports were in the ditch, between Napanee and Odessa, on Provincial Highway No. 2. No great damage was done in any case.

On the county roads, milk trucks were stuck in deep snow, when they slid from the side of the roads, and had to be hauled out.

It is years since so much ice has been evident on the roads for so prolonged a period.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson Dies Suddenly

Hon. Howard Ferguson, Minister without portfolio in the Ontario Government, died suddenly at his home in Kingston, Monday morning, January 8th, at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. Ferguson was born in Kingston, 66 years ago, and was educated in the public and high schools of that city. He was a member of the Ontario Legislature from 1905 to 1911, when he was elected to the House of Commons for Kingston, which he represented until 1930. He was Premier of Ontario from 1923 to 1930, and was appointed Minister without portfolio in the Ontario Government in 1932.

Addresses Rotary and Women's Institute

At the Rotary luncheon, on Tuesday, Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief Inspector of Health for Ontario, was the speaker. His subject was the "Prevention of Crippling in Children."

Dr. McCullough considered his subject from three aspects : (1) the magnitude of the problem; (2) its causes; (3) its prevention and cure. He commended Rotarians and others for the great interest in the subject, and the remedial measures they were taking on behalf of crippled children. He deplored the ever increasing crop of cripples.

Dealing with the size of the problem, he said that in Canada there are 26,000 crippled persons. In Ontario, there are between six and seven thousand cripples. The causes of crippling are infantile paralysis, responsible for 40% ; tuberculosis, 30% ; congenital deformities, 15% and rickets, 15%.

Symptoms and Prevention of Causes of Crippling Diseases

He dealt at some length with the diseases, symptoms and treatment and prevention of the major causes of crippling in children and stressed the need for early diagnosis and careful treatment during convalescence.

Infantile paralysis is an infectious disease due to a germ, which attacks the spinal cord and destroys the cells of the front part of the cord, making the limb affected twist out of shape. In its early symptoms it is hard to diagnose. In its convalescent stage it requires most careful treatment and competent medical attention.

There are two kinds of tuberculosis which stack children and deform them, (1) tuberculosis from milk of infected cows, and (2) the human type. By pasteurization of milk and by the removal of sources of infection from humans, a great deal of prevention may be effected.

Rickets is a disease of the bones, resulting from a lack of the proper foods, and from a lack of the use of cod liver oil and irritated foods.

Great Need for Prevention

In summing up and dealing with the need for prevention, Dr. McCullough said : "Prevention is the keynote in the control of the disease which causes crippling in children. If we are content to go on in the endeavor to cure or alleviate the crippling effects of infantile tuberculosis as they arise, we shall be faced with an ever increasing expense which, sooner or later, will be beyond our means. The simpler solution is to lessen, as far as possible, the

The Late Mrs. W. F. Hall

One of Napanee's oldest and best known residents passed away Monday afternoon, when Mrs. W. P. Hall died at her home on the Newburgh Road.

Mrs. Hall had reached the advanced age of nearly eighty-nine. For the past few years she had been practically confined to her home, but had retained, in a remarkable way, the use of her faculties, a fine memory and a keen interest in all that was going on. Her last illness was of brief duration and she passed quietly away after a long and useful life.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Hall was Sarah Eliza Smith. She was one of four daughters of the late Ceo. P. Smith and his wife, Mary Ann Hupck, all of whom have now passed on. She was born in North Fredericksburgh Township and removed to Napanee with her parents when they retired, over sixty years ago.

Shortly after coming to Napanee, she married the late W. P. Hall, who at that time was secretary-treasurer of the Paper Company at Napanee Mills, now Strathcona. Later, Mr. Hall conducted an insurance business in Napanee and was interested in other enterprises. Mr. Hall died about eleven years ago.

The association of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hall with Trinity United Church was one of long and honorable standing. Their life history was closely connected with the life history of the church during more than half a century. For many years, Mr. Hall was a recording steward of the old Eastern Methodist Church, which later became Trinity United Church. For twenty-one years, Mrs. Hall was president of the Ladies' Aid Association from which she retired only eleven years ago. Their service was given in unstinted measure and was typical of service of a large group of similarly minded people, who made the building of the church possible.

Surviving are two daughters and one son; Mrs. Myers of Toronto, Miss Florence, at home; Mrs. Madden, the wife of Judge J. D. Madden, Napanee, Mrs. Challies, wife of the Hon. G. H. Challies, and Mr. Ernest, of Winnipeg, general superintendent of western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The funeral service is being conducted at the home on Thursday afternoon, with Rev. Harry Pawson, minister of Trinity United Church, in charge.

Special Lectures At Agricultural Short Course

On Wednesday, January 10th, Mr. H. L. Ford, B.S.A., Official Swine Grader, Peterboro, will give special lectures on "Markets and Marketing." "Quality and Hog Grading," and "Government Assistance to Swine Producers" at the Short Course now being held in the Agricultural classroom. Swine growers are particularly timely considering the recent controversies regarding swine marketing. A visit to this pig project are strongly advised to attend.

On Monday, January 15th, Mr. J. E. Berger, Poultry Department, O.A.C. Guelph, will discuss recent developments in feeding. Breeding and Management of Farm Poultry." The many poultry enthusiasts of this district should avail themselves of the opportunity to secure this information first-hand.

The Short Course classes got away to a good start on Monday and are being held daily, except Saturday and Sunday, meeting at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. There is a class in domestic science and home nursing for girls and in general agriculture for the men. Any further information regarding these courses may be obtained from the Agricultural Office.

Young People's Winter School

A week of special interest for young people of the Bay of Quinte Conference, will be the week from January 15th to the 20th.

At Bridge Street Church, Belleville, a week's public school will be held. A week for Bible study, methods in Young People's work, missionary study and as well as consideration of local church problems.

The week will also provide the opportunity for fellowship, fun and entertainment, under the best auspices.

Any young people who can find the time to avail themselves of this opportunity will be well repaid, as will their local church group to which they belong.

FIRE PROTECTION

The fire at John MacFarlane's on Sunday night brings, vividly to the attention of the Town, the necessity for better fire protection in the outlying areas. Had it not been that the wind, on Sunday night, was blowing in the right direction, there would have been no way of averting a very serious calamity. The whole corner of that part of the town would have been wiped out. As it was, the firemen were helpless to do other than confine the fire to the one building. No water was available. It is true they had fire extinguishers, but these small extinguishers are totally useless in face of a really big blaze.

If it is impossible to lay pipes to the town limits, at least, sufficient hose should be available so that every householder is assured of adequate protection against fire.

GOING UP !

According to a report from Rio de Janeiro, the Brazilian coffee growers are following a progressive policy of crop destruction. During the past year they have outdone all previous efforts and burned 91,806 tons of coffee. Since July 1931 they have destroyed a total of 1,715,000 tons.

The coffee growers are learning by experience what they ought to have known long ago, that the less coffee they have to sell the more they will get for it. The scarcer any article is the higher its price becomes. Take radium for example: with only a few grams in the world, it brings a nice tidy price on the market. But now, having discovered this law from actual experience, coffee growers are not slow to take advantage of its operations. If the present rate of destruction goes on, it is quite conceivable that they will destroy, in a short time, the total crop, with the exception of five pounds. This five pounds will then be sold at auction and bought by the Rockefellers, the Fords, the Mellons or the Holts, at a price which will fully re-imburse the growers. Of course, in this event, a lot of others will have to go without coffee, but that wouldn't matter. They don't need it anyway.

Perhaps, before that stage is reached, however, light will dawn and the coffee growers will see that instead of growing coffee and destroying it, they might better restrict the crop. In this way they would be saved the worry and expense of cultivation and storage. This would throw a lot of men out of work, undoubtedly, but then they can always go on relief.

IT'S A LOT OF MONEY

Al Smith, who talked flimantly about President Roosevelt's "baloney dollars" a few weeks ago, will probably revise his judgment when he has to share the expenditure of ten billion of these dollars which Roosevelt needs during the next two years. To read the staggering amounts which President Roosevelt has asked from Parliament, sounds like a fairy tale. Expenditures, in the next two years, will amount to $16,529,805,667.00; receipts are estimated at $7,234,604,234.00. This will leave a deficit, in the two years, of $9,295,000,000.00. This amount of money will have to be borrowed in order to make payments for services rendered. The total debt at the end of the two-year period will be $31,000,000,000.00.

This is a staggering amount to ask from Congress. But the lack of any vigorous or powerful opposition, shows that the people of the United States are generally in favor of the policy of the President, and why shouldn't they be ? That's the very thing that was needed. The crying shame of the last few years has been that the richest nation in the world has had millions of people who have been dependent on public charity for the bare necessities of life. It is a great thing that they now have a president who is not afraid to take courageous action. It is time the kind of action which was needed to thaw out the frozen assets from the banks and great financial institutions. There is plenty of money in the United States, but it is congealed in certain quarters, from which it cannot be freed save by some such action as that which the President contemplates.

The money will probably be received by floating internal loans. That is to say, the Government will take from those who have to help those who have not. It will be put in circulation by payment to the millions of men who are engaged in the various works programmes of the government. This money will then be spent in the stores, for food and clothing. In this way, everyone will share in the movement, and life will be made more normal and livable.

The only fly in the ointment is the danger that when the first ten billion is spent, President Roosevelt will need another ten billion to keep the ball rolling. In that case he will probably cancel the first debt and borrow more on the same terms.

GOLD FLOW PER MINUTE

To date Canada has produced over $303,000,000 in gold, and is today the world's second largest producer of that metal. At the present time the Dominion is producing approximately 3189 per minute, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

What Japan Buys

Japan's largest imports from Canada for the first nine months of 1933 were wheat, lumber, paper, lead, zinc and newsprint. Imports of wheat from Canada amounted to 3,042,275 bushels valued at 7,387,661 yen, as against 2,975,174 bushels, valued at 6,265,401 yen, in the same months of 1932, a decrease in quantity, although an increase in value. Canada's contribution, however, was 18.5 per cent. of Japan's total wheat imports, as against 15 per cent. in last year's period, against 79.5 per cent. and 81 per cent. from Australia, in the respective periods.

MILK

The situation which has developed with respect to the distribution of milk, in Chicago, is just a symptom of the general unrest among milk producers, and brings vividly before the public the unsatisfactory state of milk production. Milk is a public necessity. It is one of the goods without which life—particularly of the young and the sick—cannot be sustained. Anything that interferes with its orderly distribution is to be deplored as a public menace. There were numerous milk strikes in New York state, last year, and milk was dumped on the ground in more than one centre. The trouble has now spread to Chicago, where 18,000 milk producers are on strike and have completely tied up milk distribution in that centre. The farmers refuse to negotiate unless they are assured of $2.10 a hundred for milk. This price would seem like a fortune to our Ontario farmers, at the present rates.

The trouble arises over the manner in which the distribution has been organized. Great financial interests have bought up milk distributing agencies, watered the stock beyond recognition, capitalized them at a huge over-capitalization and erected credit structures so abnormally top-heavy, that the farmer who constitutes the foundation, is not able to carry the structure and the consumer has to pay far too much for his milk.

We, in Ontario, have proceeded further than most modern states, with public ownership. Though there has been criticism at times, the criticism has not been on the principal of public ownership, but on some phase of its administration. There is no inherent reason why Ontario should not pioneer in the public control of milk distribution, as well as in the distribution of electricity. A small, non-political commission could easily take over the distribution of milk for the public good, rather than for private profits.

Because the farmers of Ontario do not engage in strikes and in dumping, must not be taken as evidence that they are satisfied. There is more unrest among the farmers of today, because of the unfairness of the present milk arrangements than ever there has been.

IN TIME OF PEACE, PREPARE FOR PEACE

It is too late, when war breaks out, to protest against it, for then, men and nations are irrational and they are swayed by strong emotions in which reason finds little, if any place. To go contrary to the national sentiment at such a time is apt to lead to charges of as bad treason, to a term in the penitentiary or to the suppression of any publication which dares oppose the will to fight. The time to talk peace, to work for peace and to preach peace is now, when conditions are ominous and when the international situation is at a seriously nervous tension. It is almost incredible how apathetic the mass of people are in the face of a threatening crisis. It is almost unbelievable how nonchalantly the people read glowing accounts of the next war, which have made their appearance in an increasing number of magazines and papers, of late. This talk of another Great War, with its chemistry and bacteriology and air service beyond the dreams of anything that took place in the last war, is now a common topic among writers and speculators. Bit by bit the public mind is being prepared for any eventuality. The subtle suggestive progress, is designed to break down the will to peace and to create a favorable atmosphere for hostilities.

It is inconceivable for any who lived through the last war, to understand how easily men and women are once again submitting to this propaganda. Eighteen years ago, the world would have said "never again." The mothers and fathers of the ten million whose lives were snuffed out in that conflagration, constituted the great bulwark of peace. But now, a new generation of potential warriors has come into young manhood. The glamour of the uniform, the glory of the parade, blinds them to the horror and the dirt and the suffering of organized murder, of which they know nothing.

For this reason, the League of Nations Society deserves the whole-hearted support of every man and woman in our country. Beginning in a modest way, eighteen years ago, nurtured by such stalwart lovers of peace as the late Sir George Foster, it has continued to act as a centre for the dissemination of reliable news and as an educative agency in the peace movement. Beginning with the new year this society will inaugurate a vigorous and comprehensive aggressive policy. Professor T. W. L. MacDermott, assistant professor of history at McGill, has been given two years leave of absence to take charge of this organization. Hon. Ernest LaPointe, former Minister of Justice, is the president and, in announcing the appointment of Professor MacDermott, said: "The League of Nations Society is opening the new year with a vigorous drive to arouse public opinion, in Canada, to the seriousness of the national situation and the absolute necessity of joining actively with all those agencies which are now making for peace, as against war to-day."

In connection with this drive the Society has drawn up a syllabus of study for groups, which has a preliminary lecture by Hon. R. B. Bennett, W. L. MacKenzie King and J. W. Woodsworth. This will shortly be distributed to the leaders of ten thousand societies in Canada. In addition, a series of radio talks will be given and an extensive advertising campaign carried on. All this will cost something, but the cost, as compared to one day's destruction of life and property in the event of war, is insignificant.

In time of peace, prepare for peace !

NEWS OF THE WEEK

GIST OF IMPORTANT EVENTS

ONTARIO—

Premier Henry says that the seventy-year-old British North American Act must be brought up to date, although he does not consider the present time opportune. Capt. Philpott, leader of the C. C. F., heartily approves.

* * *

Liberals, in caucus at Toronto, chose Dr. G. A. McQuibban, as leader in the Ontario House. He succeeds W. E. N. Sinclair and is expected to work closer with the Progressives.

* * *

The Liberals intend to vigorously attack the surplus claimed by the present Government. Full details are not available, but bookkeeping methods were changed so that no allowance was made in expenses for relief expenditures.

* * *

D. M. Campbell, Liberal, was elected to the Provincial House, from East Kent, by acclamation; the Conservatives had offered the seat to the Liberal leader M. F. Hepburn.

* * *

Dr. A. E. Ross, M.P., for Kingston, at an address in that city, claimed that prosperity cannot return permanently, until debts are written down.

* * *

London city is trying to organize a company to operate a car ferry from Port Stanley to Erie, across the lake. This would help the municipally owned electric line from London to the Port, which has been affected by the depression and the abandonment of through freight.

* * *

The Toronto Art Gallery has on exhibit a collection of C. Krieghoff's paintings; his pictures of early Canadian life are considered of exceptional merit.

* * *

* * *

The textile strike in Hespeler, which lasted for a month, has been abandoned; several rioters are under arrest.

* * *

Hon. Dr. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Public Works and Labor, died at his home in Stratford; he suffered a stroke late in December.

* * *

Strikes in the logging camps have been settled and large scale woods operations, for export to Britain, are helping the unemployment situation.

* * *

* * *

The railways have cut in two the freight rates on cattle for export from Ontario to Montreal. The reduction applies on cattle brought from the west for fattening, in Ontario and other eastern places, and then shipped for export.

DOMINION—

Prime Minister Bennett has left for Calgary and Vancouver. He will be away until January 15th, returning in time for the conference of provinces.

* * *

Recent appointments to the Senate assure that the Upper House will be Conservative, for years to come.

* * *

Unemployment relief will be the main subject discussed at the conference, in Ottawa, of the provinces. The West is urging that the agenda include loans to the provinces by the dominion, the interest rate on such loans and reduction in the wheat acreage.

* * *

Ottawa is closely observing American action on the St. Lawrence waterway agreement. This may be approved in the States, in which case, parliament will immediately consider it.

* * *

Premier Taschereau, of Quebec, will not introduce unemployment insurance; he says that government expenses cannot be increased.

* * *

Montreal, in some court actions, is accused of unfairly giving large contracts to friends of those in control.

* * *

The three Canadian banks who loaned money to Newfoundland, in better times, have been repaid by the British Treasury.

* * *

The Saskatchewan Government is asking Lloyd's for lower insurance rates on cargoes, via Churchill; it is claimed that the Hudson Bay rates are three times those for the St. Lawrence route.

* * *

December's customs and excise duties increased by 42% over last year, to over $9,000,000.

* * *

Editorial Comment

TAKING ERRORS FOR GRANTED

It is a common statement to hear that the Church has failed to hold the people ; and it is commonly accepted as true. But as far as we can discover, it is not true. If it were true at all, it would be true of the young people ; but it's not. Dr. Sanford, member of the Religious Education Board of the United Church, told an audience, recently, in Courtenay, that there are twice as many young people in their church organizations as there were ten years ago. Our personal observation is that this is true of other churches, too. Ten years ago there were mostly gray heads in many a congregation. Today it is sprinkled with brown and black and gold.

There are so many errors we take for granted because we are too busy to question them; certainly one of them appears to be that religion is less alive than it was. The depression has made us think, and thought has brought many back into the churches.—Comox Argus.

NOT JUST BALLYHOO

With the close of the year 1933, for the first time since the depression set in, there are several reasons for looking forward to the coming year with optimism. It is no longer just ballyhoo. Most of the statistical factors useful in measuring the trend of general welfare are now at higher levels than at the end of 1932. The Bank of Montreal, in a business summary, is responsible for the statement that, measured by industrial production alone, the gain of Canada during the past 12 months is 25 per cent. Canada is given credit for making more progress than any other industrial country. The industrial production gain in the United States is set at 15 per cent. France 17 per cent, and Great Britain at 8 per cent. According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics there is strong evidence that readjustments are now being effected leading to a reversal of the downward trend which had obtained for several years.— London Free Press.

OTTAWA'S FAIR DEMAND

British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Alberta have been told that they must balance their budgets before loans will be made by the Dominion. This prerequisite constitutes a proper proposition. British Columbia has a deficit of some $3,000,000 on its last fiscal year, its revenues are down $800,000 from the previous year and it has unfunded debts of $17,000,000. Saskatchewan and Alberta are in a similar parlous state. The need for aid and the need for drastic curtailment and for effective control are all emphasized by these figures. —Toronto Telegram.

LIQUOR "BARGAINS" CRITICIZED

The action of the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission in starting a drive to gain sale of wines and liquors at this Christmas season is being strongly censured throughout the Province. This, citizens feel, is no time for bargain sales in intoxicants when money is so urgently needed for the purchase of clothing, food and fuel. The suggestion that the Commission endeavored to stage a "private" sale among a few favoured individuals does not alter the situation in the slightest degree. The undertaking was unwise and capable of causing to already severe hardships being suffered by many families.

APPRAISING WOODROW WILSON

Those to whom the memory of Wilson is as a green bay tree wait, with philosophical patience, for that day, perhaps not so far distant, when peoples of all the world will realize that they can not live isolated behind barriers which are reared higher and higher each year. We can have swung far away from the Wilson concept of international relations, but it has been demonstrated that in the process we have made the world, or any part of it, a happier or finer dwelling-place. —Washington Post.

BUY CANADIAN PRODUCTS

Attention is drawn to the inauguration of a series of "commodity weeks" under the auspices of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The idea behind this movement is to encourage the purchase of Canadian products and thereby automatically help in decreasing unemployment. Favorable results should follow, because the more goods there are produced here the more labour is employed. It is also demonstrated that in the process we have made the world, or any part of it, a happier or finer dwelling-place. —Washington Post.

No Effect on Canadian Wheat

With reference to the effect on Canada of developments in British agriculture, Sir E. John Russel, addressing the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists on the relation of agricultural services to changing conditions, said that Canada at the present time supplied Great Britain with 50 per cent of her cereal and meat imports. The fifteen per cent which the new quota gives to British farmers was not, he thought, likely to affect Canada in the slightest degree. "First of all," said Sir John, "British wheat is not the same kind as Canadian. The British wheat is a soft and not a hard red wheat, and it is coal a wheat that the British millers like to use to any great extent. Fifteen per cent is about as far as they are likely to go. A new use has recently developed for English wheat; it is found useful for poultry feeding, and it so happens that poultry are markedly increasing in Great Britain, so that 15 per cent of wheat they require—which is already considerable —is likely to increase further. I cannot, therefore, see that our wheat quota is going to injure Canada's export trade in wheat.

"You used not to send us 50 per cent of our imports of wheat, indeed you but you have increased at the expense of the United States and of Russia. It would, of course, be interesting to speculate whether either of these countries is likely to get back sufficient of their old trade to reduce your 50 per cent appreciably. I shall certainly not venture a prophesy, but I cannot see either of them doing that for some long time. Agriculture in the United States seems likely to develop along other lines than export of wheat. I went through Russia in 1930 to see what I could of the wheat position, and I am expecting to return next Easter, but it seems to be hardly apparent likely that Russia greatly will injure you as a competitor. I think, therefore, you are reasonably safe in regard to wheat."

Largest Granaries

The twin cities of Port William and Fort Arthur, hold the world's record for grain storage capacity. These grain elevators can store 92,945,000 bushels of grain, the larger part of which is stored in the granaries of Port Arthur. The total capacity of the sixteen elevators in Port Arthur is 52,400,000 bushels. Port William, with the same number of elevators has a capacity of 40,235,000 bushels. No other ports in the world can boast as many large and efficient grain-handling plants as Canada's great granary and shipping centre.

Love of Home Still Man's First Urge

Modern Tempo of Living Has Failed To Shake Fireside's Hold

"Despite much comment to the contrary, the love of family and fireside, so deeply rooted in all of us from our earliest days, is still a primary emotional force in the daily lives of the great majority of Canadian people." Such is the comment of Mr. Harry Sedgwick, Managing Director of Radio Station CFRB, Toronto, likely to affect Canada in the slightest degree. "First of all," said Sir John, "British wheat is not the same kind as Canadian. The British wheat is a soft and not a hard red wheat, and it is coal a wheat that the British millers like to use to any great extent. Fifteen per cent is about as far as they are likely to go. A new use has recently developed for English wheat; it is found useful for poultry feeding, and it so happens that poultry are markedly increasing in Great Britain, so that 15 per cent of wheat they require—which is already considerable —is likely to increase further. Welfare of Child Affected by Stress

Study Being Made Under League of Nations

Effects of the present economic conditions on the health and future welfare of children are being studied by the Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare, who note that the indices of health, or vital statistics show for last year infant mortality rate, maternal mortality rate and death rate as being lower than in previous years. There is much speculation as to whether "tightening of the belt," during hard times, with a return to "simpler and saner living" and the "toughening effects of adversity" have counteracted some of the ill effects of the shortage of regular employment. Others contend that the devotion to duty of health services and the earnestness of those administering the programs of social relief have helped to offset the consequences of economic stress. They express grave concern, however, as to the possible breakdown of these services before "better times" arrive.

Diminished purchasing power, unemployment, and altered standards of living do not seem to have been directly responsible for an increased death rate, it is pointed out, but the death rate cannot be taken as a measurement of impaired health, of actual sickness, or of decreased resistance to disease. An accurate measurement of the growth of malnutrition does not lend itself to statistical tabulation. The cumulative effect of recent trends will be seen, as in the case of the health problems of the war, five years, ten years, or even fifteen years later.

A statement issued from the Council office recounts that under the Health Organization of the League of Nations, inquiries are taking place in many countries into the effects of the depression on the health of children. In a recent study of the incidence of ill-health in Detroit, Pittsburgh and Birmingham, Alabama, carried on at the instigation of this division of the League of Nations, the significant fact was brought out that the illness rate was 60 per cent. higher among persons whose economic status had dropped from reasonably comfortable circumstances in 1929 to poverty in 1932, than it was among their more fortunate neighbors who had suffered no such drop. The extent of malnutrition in their children was twice as great as in the more fortunate families. The Council's statement avers that such facts are a warning against complacency and against any relaxation in preventive health or general relief measures.

NO FLAT TIRES FOR HIS LAD

"When I have to go places, I like to know when I'm going to start, and what time I'll get there," says Frederick Edwards in the January issue of the Canadian National Railways Magazine. "I'm satisfied if the work is left to the boys who bet on horses. I get assurance from trains . . . trains run on rails. Nobody knows where an automobile is going to run next. When you climb on a train you have in your subconscious mind a feeling of absolute safety that you can't possibly get when you squeeze into an automobile. Well, may be you can. I can't. Another thing. No engineer on any train I ever rode has yet suggested that I should leave my comfortable seat and help him fix a flat tire. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, I like to ride on trains. And I still think I'm right."

MAKING WEATHER ON RAILWAY TRAINS

Writing in the January number of the Canadian National Railways Magazine on the development of air conditioning for railway passenger cars, James Montagnes points out that railroading today is more than arranging a traffic schedule. "The builders of the early railroads did not dream," he says, "that they would have to call on chemical and electrical research engineers to devise a method so that the traveller would be accorded ideal conditions. Once it was thought sufficient to provide a fairly comfortable car and a timetable that could be adhered to. Now spring-like weather is one of the requisites to keep railroad customers, by installing the equipment for manufacturing perfect weather.

MARKING MAPLE IMITATIONS

According to the Maple Sugar Act Regulations, when a product is an imitation of, or resembles maple sugar or maple syrup, the common name of the product, together with the ingredients contained therein, shall be clearly indicated on the main panel of the main label in type of clear visibility, reasonably proportionate to the size of the package or container, and as part of the same. If in concrete form, the marking shall be stamped on each piece as moulded, but in either case the word "Maple" shall not appear thereon.

MRS BIMMY VIMMY

Viscountess Byng of Vimy, says the Gardeners' Chronicle, in a lecture to the Horticultural Club, London, England, on "The by-ways of California," told an amusing story. "At Mecca," she said, "the hotel was owned by a flamboyant looking landlady and consisted of small, individual bungalows built, it seemed to me, of cardboard, as one could push a finger through the walls anywhere. It didn't give one much sense of privacy, and the general arrangements were primitive, to say the least. As we left the dining room, after a somewhat scratch meal of sweet corn and eggs, the landlady who had evidently been studying our signatures in the visitors' book said to me, 'say, I can't make out your name.' So I told her 'Byng of Vimy,' whereupon she said brightly, 'Well, Mrs. Bimmy Vimmy, meet Mr. Erown,' a frightened spotty-faced youth who no more wanted to talk to me than I wanted to talk to him."

HOUSE CENTIPEDES

The house centipede as yet is not widespread in Canada, says the Dominion Entomologist, and the records indicate only occasional infestations. It is a curious, fragile-looking creature with long slender legs, the hind legs longer still, and very long feelers, thread-like in appearance. Specimens collected in Ontario measured over two inches long with the legs spread. The bite of this centipede is supposed to be poisonous. Otherwise, the creature may be regarded as beneficial as it is known to destroy cockroaches, house flies, and other insects.

CATTLE AUCTION SALES

Of the marketing of live stock cattle in Scotland, the Canadian Trade Commissioner says: "There are some 64 firms of auctioneers in Scotland on whom the conduct of cattle sales devolves, many of which operate in a number of marts over a wide territory. Farmers hold a considerable share in the capital of these undertakings. The auctioneer plays an important part in the grading of stock. Consignments are penned with orderly care. At store sales, whereat calves are placed to enter fattening first, followed in turn by yearlings, six-quarter cattle and two-year olds. A poor quality beast will be removed from a pen of good quality cattle and sold separately.

CANADIAN CEREALS AND HOLLAND

Of interest to Canadian exporters of cereals and flour, is a ministerial order which has been issued by the Government of Holland revising the taxes on agricultural commodities. Its most cases the tax has been increased. These include wheat, rye, barley, corn, mill offal, oats, oatmeal, hulled oats, groats, groatmeal, malt, buckwheat, macaroni, wheat flour, packed products made of cereals, etc.

At the same time Italy has increased her import duty on wheat flour.

PECULIAR POTATO STORAGE

A peculiar method of storing potatoes, said to be common in Finland, is described in La Tribune Horticole, of Brussels. This method consists of packing the potatoes in barrels which have been sunk in a trench to about half their depth. The barrels are then filled alternately with layers of damp peat and potatoes, the tubers being so arranged that they never touch each other. The last layer of peat is comparatively thick, and the lid of the barrel is first covered with tar-coated paper before being weighted down with a thick layer of earth. Another layer of earth is then laid on and covered with tarred paper. When the frosts arrive, further protection is secured by a fresh covering of earth. At the end of May, when the barrels are opened, the potatoes are said to be found in perfect condition. About 15 per cent. of the tubers may show slight markings where the natural process of decay has been arrested through the action of tannin and other organic acids in the peat.

BEEF AND PORK SALT STANDARD

The salt used in packing and repacking beef and pork inspected and branded under the Inspection and Sale Act administered by the Department of Trade and Commerce, must be clean St. Ubes, Isle of Man, Turk's Island, or other coarse-grained salt of equal quality. Every barrel of fresh beef or pork must be well salted with 75 pounds, and every tierce with 112 pounds of good salt, as aforesaid, exclusive of a sufficient quantity of pickle as strong as salt will make it; and to each barrel of beef or pork shall be added four ounces, and to each tierce six ounces of saltpetre. Each half barrel or half tierce of fresh beef or fresh pork must be salted with the same proportions of salt and saltpetre, with a sufficiency of pickle as strong as salt will make it.

COOPERATION IN PUBLIC SERVICES

The Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture and the various scientific bodies connected with Canadian agriculture, have served for many years as a pattern in coordination and cooperation for the ultimate good of the Dominion. A good example is to be found in the fine working relationship established between the Institute of Parasitology, Macdonald College, soon after the opening of that institute, and the Animal Diseases Research Institute, Dominion Department of Agriculture. One of the first acts of cooperation was the forwarding of the Dominion institute's collection of animal parasites to the Macdonald College Institute, where they were re-classified, identified, and divided into two sets, one set being retained by the Institute of Parasitology and the other by the Animal Diseases Institute. Cooperation, with the avoidance of unnecessary duplication, has been further assured between these institutes, to the advantage of both and to Canada at large.

A child who passes the entrance at 10 or 11 years of age, seems to be the generally speaking, for a breakdown of some sort before he comes of age, the report of Chief Inspector D. D. Mendizer, as indicated in the annual report of heads of departments of the Board of Education for Ontario.

Information which he sought some years ago throughout the Province of Ontario concerning the fuure progress of boys and girls who obtained entrance standing at 10 or 11, and completed their pass matriculation at 15 or 16, showed that 75 per cent of them broke down, either physically, mentally, or morally, or all three, before they reached 21 or 22 years of age, he reported. Of the remaining 25 per cent many were kept at home for a year. A few suffered no ill effects.

Suggestions and comments on general and specific problems are made by various public school inspectors. Dr N. S. MacDonald proposed that the Department of Education increase its services by organizing courses of lectures for parents in child training and pre-school education, the revision and improvement of text books from time to time —"long overdue with several of the present texts"— by "selecting" candidates from the secondary school for training in the normal schools as teachers and by making available to teachers through lectures and frequent circulars the latest ideas and movements in education.

Referring to the continuance of school from 3:30 to 4 p.m., when pupils complete work which would ordinarily be finished at home and receive help in solving the difficulties of the day, he said: "It is hoped that this plan will eliminate the assignment of any home work which might cause anxiety to the child."

In eradicating weeds it is of great importance to know whether the weeds are one-year, two-year, or many year plants.

Simple Rules Prevent WEARINESS

Do you know that there is a simple, natural way to stay young, the keynote of your health and to end those days of weariness when body and brain seem sluggish and you feel old? And it is just living right, plus being sure that you are not unnecessarily suffering from an complete elimination of body wastes.

Eat moderately. Sleep sufficiently. Get lots of fresh air, exercise and recreation. Don't worry. And make sure of complete elimination by taking a stimulating, pleasant-tasting glass of Andrews Liver Salt each morning before breakfast.

Do not make the mistake of supposing that Liver Salt is a purge. It is a tonic which puts the system functioning perfectly. It is because your eliminative organs are not functioning fully that you go through days of weariness, or suffer from headaches, biliousness, etc. Begin the twice-weekly morning glass of Andrews Liver Salt and help Nature to sustain complete elimination, and thus give you a restful sometime, and sustain you in vigorous health.

Prevention is better than cure. Begin now to observe these simple, inexpensive Andrews Rules for Health. Get Andrews Liver Salt from your druggist. In tins, 35c and 60c. Not large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: John A. Huston Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Fish Culture Establishes Game Fish in B. C. Lake Where None Previously Found

Nine-pound Kamloops trout would tickle the fancy of any angler but three of them were taken a short time ago by a sportsman fishing in Garibaldi Lake, British Columbia—and here's the point that makes the case especially noteworthy —

Until the lake, or one of its tributaries, was stocked with trout eggs by the Dominion fish culturists a few years ago, there was nary a trout in Garibaldi Lake, and, for that matter, no fish of any kind.

The case proclaims again what sound fish culture operations do toward enlarging fisheries resources. It is one case among many in Canada where federal fish culture work is carried on by the Dominion Department of Fisheries through its Fish Culture Branch. Most emphasis is placed, of course, upon work in connection with commercial species of fish but attention is given also to increasing stocks of fish and widening angling resources so that wider recreational opportunities may be provided for Canadians themselves and the tourist attractions of this country may be increased.

So far as Garibaldi Lake is concerned—a beautiful piece of water in one of Canada's national parks— a survey which was made of it several years ago, showed that it apparently contained no fish life, but that it was suitable for the introduction of Kamloops trout. In 1928 some 5,000 eggs from the Pemberton hatchery were planted by the fish culture people in Mimulus Creek, a tributary of the lake where satisfactory potential spawning beds were found. In 1929 more eggs were planted in the same locality, 12,500. Only the two plantings were made but the results have evidently justified the experiment.

The recent capture of the three 9-pounders shows that the lake now contains a supply of mature fish. Some of the parent fish have spawned, of course, and other fish are coming to the spawning stage, so that it may be expected that in due time Garibaldi will hold a generous share of big, fighting trout and one more attraction will have been added to British Columbia's recreation grounds.

Slang is "O.K." – At Times –

Anyone who thinks that the use of slang is modern, is "all wet."

Prof. G. W. Latham of the department of English at McGill, made some very definite statements in regard to the use of slang when he was shown dispatches from Toronto and elsewhere, indicating that 1933 had been a remarkable one for the coining of new words.

Back to Shakespeare

"Most people" Professor Latham stated, "are shocked when a university professor puts forth a defence of the use of slang. Shakespeare probably used more slang expressions than any other outstanding English writer. There are many slang expressions in the writings of Spencer . . . The use of slang indicates that a language is in a particularly formative period. The American tongue is if there is such, is now at about the same stage as English was at the time of Shakespeare.

"Canadians, as a whole, may be classified as purists, in the use of English. It is difficult to point to any recent slang that can be described as genuinely Canadian. That may be because Canadians have a certain ineptitude in the use of the English language. The two countries today that are the most prolific in the production of slang English expressions are the United States and Australia.

Standard Language

"In general, it may be said that there is a tendency today towards the standardization of any given language. This is because the radio and other means of national and international discourse makes it necessary for speakers and writers to express themselves so that they may be understood over a wide area."

Professor Latham does not think that slang endangers a language. Most slang expressions are dropped in a comparatively short time, he believes. Only such slang words or expressions as are peculiarly appropriate in describing a given situation or idea, remain.

As to when to use slang, the McGill savant remarked that there was no substitute for common sense. A garbage collector would not look well in a dress suit. In the same way the use of slang must be confined to appropriate times and occasions, at the option of Professor Latham.

Address on Cancer Given at Napanee By Dr. McCullough

Dr. McCullough, the Chief Inspector of Health, addressed a meeting of the Women's Organizations of Napanee and District, on Tuesday, on the subject of "Education against Cancer."

Extracts from his address are given below :—

In the campaign against cancer many things must be considered, such, for example, as centres for treatment; delay in diagnosis, follow-up of cases, methods of prevention, and research.

Centres for Treatment

In most of the countries of North America and in Europe, there are centres for cancer treatment, with well-equipped staffs of pathologists, physicists, physicians and surgeons, all trained to carry on their work with the closest co-operation. It has become a highly specialized branch of treatment.

Delay in Diagnosis

In every country there is a lamentable complaint that those of the cases of cancer some too late for effective results in treatment. This situation is being met abroad by well-trained campaigns of public education and by better training of medical students and of those proposing to specialize in cancer work.

Follow-up of Cases

Another matter of importance is the follow-up of cases. In every clinic is an elaborate record of cases should be kept in touch with patients and to bring them back to the place of treatment at intervals for years, until all possibility of the return of the disease is past.

Prevention in Cancer

Prevention in cancer is as necessary as prevention in other diseases. Much can be done in that direction by education and by periodical examination of persons after 35 years of age.

Advance in Cancer Control

During the last century, medicine has won signal victories over many diseases. Most of the victories have been in connection with germ-caused diseases. Cancer is a disease of another category. Its actual cause is unknown.

Increase of Cancer

There seems to be little doubt that cancer is on the increase, but not to the extent to which statistics point. There are a few reasons why the total increase is apparent. These are :

(1) The better record of to-day.
(2) The greater skill of diagnosis.
(3) The increase in the number of people of the cancerous age.

(4) The better education of the public in preventive medicine of all kinds, which enables the layman and woman to appreciate the earlier signs of the disease.

With an increase of, and a wide increase in public health education, particularly among children today, the future men and women will detect the early signs of cancer more readily and offer themselves to the doctor for earlier diagnosis and treatment.

Statistics of Cancer Mortality

I suppose you are not fond of statistics, and I shall burden you with only sufficient to convince you that there is an alarming increase of this affection. Beginning with 1914 the mortality rate for cancer in Ontario was 69 per 100,000 of population; in 1929 the rate was 104, and last year 109.5, an increase of 5½ per 100,000 in a single year.

During the late decade the rate of increase has been nearly 20 per 100,000 of population, or a relative increase of 31%. For certain regions of the body, the stomach, the intestine and the female organs a greater relation, the increase has been particularly marked and is in comparative accord with that found in most countries. The annual loss of life from cancer is now 3,000 males, in the aggregate now reached 3,035 and the total number of cases cannot fall short of 10,000.

The Nature of Cancer

The human body is composed of millions of cells, cells that can be seen only by magnified about 500 times, when they appear to be of the size of a small pin's head.

The cancer cell is a normal cell of the body, but for some unknown reason this cell departs from the ordinary habit, and not only divides but continues to subdivide indefinitely. Under the microscope one can observe the birth and growth of the cancer cell, can see it spread, invade and destroy the healthy tissues.

Cancer seems to be a local rebellion of a group of cells against the established order. The rebellious cells are unrestrained in their actions; they are "bolsheviste" and if the local riot is not properly checked it may develop so as to destroy life.

The cause of this untoward action on the part of the errant cell, is unknown. Cancer is non-infectious, it is not hereditary; it is not introduced from without; it is generated within the body. There is no true germ or parasite to which the growth of cancer can be ascribed. Cancer itself is a parasite grafted upon the human organism upon which it acts in a destructive fashion.

There is no true germ or parasite to which the growth of cancer can be ascribed. Cancer itself is a parasite grafted upon the human organism upon which it acts in a destructive fashion.

Pre-Cancerous Growths

In addition to the true cancer there are other forms of irregular growths that are known as pre-cancerous. These are all, more or less, associated with malignant or cancer tumours, but are comparatively harmless in themselves. There are cell processes which precede true cancer and which are known as pre-cancerous conditions. These pre-cancerous reactions of tissue cells appear to be due to the influence of some external irritant or of some internal stimulus. Some of these growths result in cancer, and most cancers develop from some such primary overgrowth of cells.

The Origin and Causes of Cancer

1. Hereditary predispositions.
2. Age.
3. Embryological faults.
4. Irritation and injury.
5. Biochemical stimuli.
6. Diet and civilization.

The Early Signs of Cancer

The early signs of cancer are frequently painless. In many there is no apparent tumour. Most of them are painless. They are painless until their size causes pressure on nerve fibres, or interferes with the function of an organ. But usually there is other signals. There is a sore, say on the lip, the tongue or inside the cheek, which fails to heal; there is the red flag of haemorrhage from the lower bowel or the internal organs of women; there is the lump in the breast, the continued hoarseness from a growth in the larynx; the protracted indigestion which fails to respond to the usual remedies. These are facts which should be matters of everyday knowledge. Any of these signs should be regarded with the gravest suspicion and every opportunity taken to prove or disprove their association with cancer.

Modern Methods of Treatment of Cancer

Of these resources, that of surgery has long held the field, and surgery remains the most potent agent of treatment, except in the stomach, of the intestines, the fundus of the uterus, and other abdominal organs, although this field is being somewhat invaded by irradiation either as an active or as an auxiliary to surgical treatment; it is still the best resource in cancer of the larynx and oesophagus, and in these fields also radium is taking a part. The treatment of cancer of the breast, surgery holds the chief place. Here again radium and X-rays are widely used in auxiliary treatment and are considered by some clinicians to be the best method.

In cancers of the surface of the body, the lips, labial cavity, the jaws and throat and the uterine cervix, radium and X-rays afford very satisfactory results. Nevertheless if cases are seen early, a requisite that widely enhances the opportunity of cure by any method. It appears therefore, that for the largest number of cancers of the human body, surgery is still the method of choice, but it is equally apparent that both radium and X-rays are powerful and effective methods of treatment, and that facilities for treatment of cases should include the best in all three lines.

Thousands of reports of cancer have been published all tending to show that this disease of human cells and X-rays are powerful and effective methods of treatment, and that facilities for treatment of cases should include the best in all three lines.

Prevention of Cancer

Prevention of cancer may be achieved to a considerable degree by the education of the public and of doctors, nurses and dentists in the early signs of the disease.

It is a lamentable fact that, all over the world, one sees the majority of cases coming too late for treatment. There is a fear of cancer. The only fear should be the fear of delay. Education in the early signs of cancer will be of service; the great hope is the public health education of the child.

British Insurance Scheme is Lauded

Ottawa—Recovery of Great Britain from the economic slump, out of which she was emerging, was due in part to the system of unemployment insurance, which not one reputable man in 20 would abandon now, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland told an audience recently.

Unemployment insurance was not the "dole," the Minister of Labour in the former Baldwin Government stated. The two were distinct, the dole having sprung from unemployment insurance and being now considered really state relief.

"There is a recovery going on in Great Britain. One reason we are coming through as we are is due, strange as it may seem, to unemployment insurance."

Among the faults of unemployment insurance were the obtaining of benefits by married women by what amounted to false pretence and the claiming of benefits by casual workers; but these anomalies had been stopped.

"I think it is infinitely better to give people work than unemployment insurance benefits. If it is work paid on a proper business system," he remarked in commenting on the charge that the scheme frequently gave money and not work to the unemployed.

Public works should be planned a long time ahead with the idea in mind that certain economic works should be available for relief of unemployed in times of economic slumps. Unless these works were planned carefully, the crisis would be over before the unemployed could be assisted. The present United States civil works program was admirable, although it was not so much a benefit to the unemployed as a means of pumping money into circulation.

He had heard the objection to unemployment insurance that it savored too strongly of governmental paternalism. "I have heard an amateur let about 'rugged individualism' in the last six weeks; the individualism may still be there, but the rugged-ness disappears as failing businesses rush to Governments for aid," he declared.

A BUSY ASSOCIATION

The district covered by the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, according to figures available Statistics (1931) was responsible for the production of 42,950,000 pounds of cheese. This constitutes 37.5 per cent of the cheese made in all Canada, 60.9 per cent of the cheese made in Ontario east of Toronto and 52.6 per cent of the cheese made in all Ontario.

Ministerial Association Meeting

The Napanee and District Ministerial Association was held in Trinity United Church, Napanee, on Monday, January 8th, at 10.00 a.m. In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Rev. R. T. Richards, took charge of the meeting.

Congratulations were extended to Rev. Archdeacon Dumbrille, who made a suitable reply. The paper of the morning was given by Rev. Harry Pawson on the subject "What do we mean by Salvation."

Those present were Revs. H. F. Sanders, Adolphustown; W. S. Smart, Bath; Dr. Fletcher and J. Griffiths, Odessa; G. T. Mackenzie, Yarker; A. D. Waite, Deseronto; James Pickell, Bay Circuit; and Archdeacon Dumbrille, Percy Scott, A. J. Wilson, Harry Pawson and R. T. Richards, Napanee.

Prairie Livestock Dying From Cold

Feed Shortage Adds to Suffering—Breeders Fearful

Winnipeg.—Severe cold and a heavy snowfall are endangering cattle and sheep on the Prairie ranges.

Alberta, reporting heavy snowfalls found 500,000 head of sheep and cattle suffering from the weather, while in Saskatchewan the severe cold had killed off some horses and brought suffering to cattle.

"Serious but not startling," was the way J. G. Robertson, Regina, Livestock Commissioner for the Saskatchewan Government, described the situation. Coupled with the severe cold was a feed shortage.

He found numerous deaths among horses in the district north of Moose Jaw and in a great area in the southern part of the province. Keeler and Cranbrook reported suffering of cattle, but in Athabaska and other districts the situation was normal.

Fodder Sent To Areas

The Saskatchewan Relief Commission was doing all possible to eliminate the feed shortage by rushing fodder supplies to the stricken areas. Reports from many of the farmers that died, would have survived a normal winter.

Many stations faced the cattle and sheep in Southern Alberta's ranges because of heavy snowfalls in some cases 36 inches deep. Coupled with the heavy snowfall were temperatures far below the usual minimum for the foothills where Chinook winds usually melt the snow and leave the feed and grass available.

So far, losses have been kept to a minimum through great care of ranch riders who have maintained a vigil during the severe weather. Unless warmer weather comes shortly, however, breeders fear their losses will become heavy. Grazing has been very slight during the winter, to date.

Spring Skirts Are to Be Ankle - Length

Before You're Bought Your Winter Clothes, Paris Starts Talking Of Spring

Paris — Heim says it's a good bunch to pin your eye on your skirt if you want to be the first to catch a chance in the spring mode. And good gracious sake, no two words enough yet to buy our winter clothes and Paris starts talking about spring. He thinks that even by mid-winter there will be a change. "Little by little," he says, "they are getting longer. The cocktail dress is responsible but even sports skirts are adding an inch or so. Our prediction is that by this time next year all dresses in town and street wear will, with the exception of the purely sports clothes, will be the same length and that this length will be to the "ankle."

Well, what do you think? Or maybe you don't rather not even think about it at all. If this is true, you have company. Personally, it seems hardly probable—that is, among women who insist upon a bit of common sense along with their fashions. Too long now we have enjoyed the comfort and practicability of the medium length skirt, and it is doubtful if the modern woman pf fashion will ever again submit to a clutter of cloth around her ankles anytime except in the evening, when the fabrics are light and billowy or, if velvet or brocade, sufficiently wide to permit freedom of movement. Some will, of course, but the majority—No.

More British Films Exhibited in Ontario

Toronto. — Market increase in British films shown in Ontario is referred to in the annual report of the Provincial Government's Board of Censors, issued by Hon. T. H. Lennox, for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1933, the number of British films shown was three times larger than the previous year. British films totalled 76 while those from United States numbered 490.

"The particularly national viewpoint of many Hollywood productions exhibited here demonstrates again the importance of a country's motion picture industry in the national life," the report states. "The extent to which this viewpoint may be carried is indicated in a Hollywood feature film where it is made to appear that the United States Navy conducted a submarine campaign in the Adriatic from an Italian base during the Great War."

More films for children are required, he report adds, referring to the Edinburgh cinema inquiry report urging "a more serious effort on the part of the cinema industry to provide pictures for its child patrons."

OBITUARY

MRS. SARAH J. SMITH

Mrs. Sarah J. Smith, aged 68, wife of William J. Smith, died at her home at Brownville, N.Y., after an illness of two weeks. Funeral services were held on Friday at 2.00 p.m. at her home, by the Rev. B. G. Miller, pastor of the Brownville Methodist Episcopal Church. The remains were placed in Dexter vault until the spring, when interment will be made at Morven, Ontario.

Mrs. Smith was born in Ernestown Out., on October 16th, 1865, a daughter of John and Catherine Gilchrist. Mr. and Mrs. Smith had resided in Brownville for twelve years and during that time had became active members of Brownville Methodist Episcopal Church.

Surviving are five sons, Ray Smith of Detroit, Mich., James Smith and Allen Smith of Watertown, N.Y., Harold Smith of Glen Park, and Day Smith of Rome, N.Y.; three daughters, Mrs. Will Maddox of Napanee, Ont., Mrs. Floyd Merritt of Watertown, and Mrs. Carl Powers of Brownville; and one sister, Mrs. Robert Masters of Deseronto, Ont.; also twelve grandchildren, also survive.

The Late Mrs. Wm. Richardson

The death occurred at her home on Piety Hill, on Thursday morning, January 4th, of Mrs. Fanny Ellen Richardson, widow of the late Mr. William Richardson. Mrs. Richardson had reached the advanced age of 82 years and three months. For the past year she had been in failing health and a week before her death, suffered a paralytic stroke from which she failed to rally.

Mr. Richardson was born in Little Holland, County Essex, England, and about twenty-five years ago came to Canada and had resided in Napanee since that time. In April, 1922, Mr. Richardson passed away. She is survived by her three children, W. E. Richardson, Stanley and Miss Carrie, as well as several grandchildren.

On Saturday, at 2.00 p.m., the funeral service was conducted at her late residence by Archdeacon Dumbrille, dean of St. Mary Magdalen Church, of which Mrs. Richardson had been a member since coming to Napanee.

The Late James A. Robinson

Death came with unexpected suddenness on Thursday evening, to James Albert Robinson. Mr. Robinson had been in ill-health for some time, but his sudden death was a great shock to his family and friends.

James Albert Robinson was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Robinson of Napanee. He was born at Odessa about 43 years ago, but when a small boy moved with his parents to Selby, where he lived until a young man. About twenty years ago he took up a homestead in the west and in 1914, after the outbreak of the war, enlisted with the 196th Battalion and trained at Camp Hughes, near Brandion, in Manitoba. In January, 1915, he went to France with the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles and took part in several battles, during the First Battle engagements, he was twice wounded and gassed, while attempting to carry a wounded comrade from the field he was buried in a shell hole, where he remained for three days, until rescued. He was the only survivor of a party of eight bombers.

Following this experience he was invalided to England, with a badly wounded arm and shoulder and suffering from shell-shock. After spending some months in English hospitals, he was returned to Canada and given honorable discharge in 1917. He was decorated for his service with the King's Medal and the Victory Medal.

After staying a short time at his father's home at Selby, he again returned to the west, where he remained until 1922, when he came again to Ontario. In 1924 he married Charlotte Bennett Williams and went to Cape Vincent, N.Y., where they resided until December, 1931, on account of ill health, he again returned to Napanee with his wife and son, and remained here until his death.

On Saturday afternoon, the funeral was conducted at St. Andrew's United Church, by Rev. A. J. Wilson, and assisted by Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh. Members of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, were in attendance and full military honors were accorded at the graveside. Interment was made at Riverside Cemetery. The pallbearers were cousins of the deceased, Jeff and Clarence Bradshaw, Albert Davis, Lamon McCrimmon, Carman Davis and Lilburn Cowling.

He is survived by his wife and young son, his parents, one sister, Mrs. Albert Martin of Napanee; a brother, Ernest, at St. Andrew's; brothers, George and Ephriam, at Selby, and a brother, Wilfred, in Cape Vincent, N.Y.

Wedding Bells

MOORE — PAUL

An interesting December wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paul at Newburgh, on Saturday, December 30th, 1933, when their daughter, Grace Joy Paul became the bride of John Stuart Moore, Cherry Valley, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson officiating at the ceremony.

The home was artistically decorated with evergreens, streamers and flowers. At two o'clock the bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Marguerite Wartman, of Newburgh, cousin of the bride. She wore a becoming gown of midnight blue velvet cut en princess lace, with trimming of cream lace and carried pink and white chrysanthemums. Miss Queenie Paul, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a long gown of burgundy crepe with trimmings of velvet, and carried chrysanthemums. Mr. Rogel Blakely of Fenelon Falls was groomsman. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Winstock Fox, of Bloomfield, sister of the groom, sang "O Perfect Love."

Mr. and Mrs. Moore left for a trip to Ottawa and on their return will reside at Newburgh.

Miss Paul has been teaching at S. S. No. 6, Athol, and on December 26, she and Mr. Moore were presented with a silver tea service by Cherry Valley community, and on Friday evening last were tendered a miscellaneous shower at Newburgh. Mr. Moore was also presented with a Bible by Cherry Valley Sunday School, of which he was treasurer for many years.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROSE BRADSHAW

Early on Thursday morning, January 4th, after a brief illness, there passed away an old and much respected citizen in the person of Mrs. Rose Bradshaw.

Deceased was in her seventy-sixth year, and lived a great number of years at Roblin. About eleven years ago, she, with her husband, the late John Bradshaw, who predeceased her over two years ago, and her son, Edward, moved to Tamworth, where she had resided ever since. Mrs. Bradshaw was always known to be a very loving wife and mother, and her genial and motherly disposition was admired by all who knew her. Surviving her are two daughters and five sons, Mrs. George Barrager, Mrs. Tom. Doline, and Hawley Bradshaw, all of Bradshaw; Mrs. Bradshaw, Tamworth, Robert Bradshaw, Rochester, N.Y., and E. Bradshaw, at home; also one sister and one brother. Also one Clare, pre-deceased her fifteen years ago.

The funeral service was held at the United Church on Saturday, January 6th, at 10.30 o'clock. Rev. M. E. Brown officiated. The choir sang "Wonderful Peace." Deceased was a member also the three hymns that were sung at the service. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Stan Hawley, Finlay Hawley, Herbert Close, W. S. Wagar, Stan Brown, and Allen Carscallen.

The remains were placed in the Tamworth vault to await interment in the spring in the family plot at Roblin.

Besides the sorrowing family she leaves to mourn her loss, one sister, Mrs. Enos Pringle, Napanee, and one brother, Mr. Ed. Thompson, Roblin.

LOCAL JOTTINGS

The regular meeting of Maple Leaf Women's Institute will be held on Thursday, January 11, at the home of Mrs. Ira Embury afternoon and January 11th, at 1.30 p.m. Roll call, "A New Year's Resolution."

The honeymoon is over when she serves him hot tongue and cold shoulder.

THE ARCTIC PRAIRIES

"Barren grounds" as applied to the far northern plains of Canada, is a misleading and inappropriate name for the reason that these tracts are far from barren. In most places the ground is well covered, often by an even luxuriant vegetation. Also beautiful blue lupines cover acres of the Arctic tundra every summer, in addition to deep carpets of reindeer moss and meadows of blue-point grass.

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. Under these conditions the best remedy that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and will grind them to atoms that pass away in the evacuations. The little sufferer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

"CARCASS OF A PIG"

According to the new order for the control of the import of bacon from countries outside the British Empire into the British market, bacon is defined in the order as meaning "the carcass of a pig or any part thereof which has been salted, pickled, or otherwise cured other than the head, feet, tail and offals." Ham is included in this order.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ADAM PARKS

Mrs. Adam Parks, who lived on Mill Street, Napanee, passed away on New Year's Day after a long illness. Mrs. Parks and her husband had been life long residents of the Hay Bay community, in North Fredericksburgh, and just a few months ago, moved to Napanee.

The deceased was a daughter of Elizabeth and Elizabeth Ann Outwater, and three days before her death, observed her 71st birthday. She had always been actively interested in the Hay Bay Church, of which she was a member, and in the Women's Missionary Society of the same church. She was highly esteemed by the people of the community where she had resided all her lifetime.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, January 3rd, and was conducted by Rev. R. T. Richards, of Grace Church, assisted by Rev. J. E. Leckie of the Bay Circuit. Mr. Richards referred to the patience with which the deceased had borne her pain and her willingness to pass on to better things.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and one sister, Mrs. E. Loyst, of South Fredericksburgh. Mr. H. Shorey of the Belleville Road is a nephew.

The remains were placed in Riverside vault, interment to be made in Parks' Cemetery, Hay Bay, in the spring. The bearers were Messrs. Willie Bell, William Nolan, John Galt, W. Dillenbeck, E. Hambly and Henry Smith.

MRS. HARRY MILLER

After an illness of years, Mrs. H. Miller passed to her eternal reward on Saturday, January 6th, at Gravenhurst. Mrs. Miller was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hicks, of North Fredericksburgh and about fourteen years ago was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Miller. For a number of years they had resided in Oshawa, but during her illness she had spent months at her home at Bethany.

Mrs. Miller who was so often known as "Kitty" Hicks, was a very pleasing personality and during the years of her suffering she was always patient and hopeful that she might become strong again to be of an affectionate daughter, a devoted wife and a loving mother.

The funeral service was held on Monday, January 8th, in Bethany United Church. Rev. J. E. Beckel, minister of the Bay Circuit, was in charge of the service. Rev. T. H. P. Anderson of Newburgh, who had performed the marriage ceremony years ago, was present and preached the funeral sermon. The choir sang several comforting messages of song. The floral tributes and the crowded church were evidences of the esteem in which the deceased was held by friends and relatives. Interment was made in Bethany Cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her father and mother, her husband, two children, Helen and Mary, and five brothers, Ben and James of North Fredericksburgh, Joseph of Detroit, Walter of New Ontario, and George of British Columbia. Another brother died in the days of the world war.

MR. ENOS SPENCER

Mr. Enos Spencer, the oldest resident of North Fredericksburgh, died at his home at Bethany on Sunday afternoon, January 7th. Mr. Spencer would have been 90 years of age if he had lived until February, and during all these years he has been a very active, hard working man.

In November he took to bed and since that time he had been in failing health. He was a member of the Bethany United Church and was always interested in the things of the kingdom of God.

The funeral service was held in the Bethany United Church on Tuesday, January 9th, at 2:30 p.m. and was conducted by his minister, Rev. J. E. Beckel. The choir sang two suitable selections and friends filled the church to pay their last respects to this grand, good old man. Interment was made in the family vault, in Riverview Cemetery, Napanee.

Mr. Spencer's wife predeceased him some years ago. Since that time he has been making his home with his son, Charles. Besides his son, Charles, he leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. Loyst of Adolphustown, and two sons, Taylor of Adolphustown and William, of South Napanee.

Card of Thanks

Mr. Adam Parks wishes to convey his thanks to his neighbours and friends, for the kindness and sympathy shown him during the illness and death of his wife. 2ap

Mrs. Robert Hodgston wishes to thank all those who so kindly remembered her while a patient in the Kingston General Hospital. 2ap

Mrs. James Robinson and family wish to thank all the friends and neighbors, who so kindly offered sympathy and assistance during the illness and death of the late James A. Robinson. 2ap

The members of the family of the late Mrs. William Richardson wish to express to their friends and neighbours, sincere thanks for kindness shown during the illness of their mother and for floral tributes received after her death. 2ap

There is a real danger to the Canadian export cheese trade in permitting the volume of cheese to decline further. Some dealers in the United Kingdom even now, question the advisability of dealing in Canadian cheese in view of the limited quantity available, and the relatively short time during which they are available.—Dominion Dairy Commissioner.

THE AMERICAN INDIAN

BY MRS. H. M. FESMIRE
8456 Frankford Avenue,
Philadelphia, Pa.

The earliest Indians were basket makers. They grew maize, squash and sunflowers. They lived in the open, in huts of mud and twigs. Caves were also occupied. They made storage places for corn or burial places for the departed. Mud plates and bowls have been found in these caves. Colored pottery was made from mud and sand. Their culture resembles that which existed in Asia and Persia around 4000 B.C. Likeness in signs and symbols give traces of civilization and links up the old races with the newer ones.

As much has been unravelled about their prehistoric towers and structure in New Mexico and Arizona as that from the pyramids in Egypt. Formerly, these old watch towers may have been used as forts for look-out purposes—where possibly sentinels kept watch for approaching enemies — or they may have been used for astronomical purposes as the sun, moon and stars play such an important part in the religious rites of the Indian. The Kivas were always adjoining the watch towers, which seems to substantiate this theory. Only men enter the Kivas. The Kivas were their churches, built under the ground, whereas Christian white men in churches above the ground. On the floor of every Kiva was found a stone covering, an opening through which, tradition has it, Nat good spirits came from the bowels of the earth to the surface, breathed the breath of life, and became men. Through these openings, spirits were called to help burn up the evils of the world. In the centre of each Kiva was a circle of stone in which a fire was kept burning — a long escape aperture was made from floor to surface of the earth to admit fresh air. To get away from earth-bound forces, the Indian men retired to these Kivas for sacred dances and services. They took with them snakes which they charmed with a feather and hagred in a leather case. The snakes assisted in their fervent supplication to their various gods who granted freedom, salvation and answer to their desires, for rain, crops or health. They remained in the Kiva, fasting and praying for eight days and then danced on the surface of the earth all day on the ninth day. Many of the old traditional customs prevail among the Indian tribes to this day and age.

There is a special fire dance held every seven years. It is a ten-day ceremony. No white men are allowed to attend the religious services. Archaeologists have, through excavations, found traces and forms of these religions. They worship many gods, such as God of Fire, God of Rain, Thunder, Earth, Germination, Healing, Wind, Sun and Lightning. All nature is their Bible and each has its potent part or paragraph therein. Their services comprise the use of sound, color and stirring of emotions and they are not easily moved nor detached from their spiritual tendencies. They use predominantly the symbolic colors, yellow, which represents North; green, the West; red, the South; and white, the East. Black represents the heavens. Their costumes are spectacular, with their color combinations. Out of nature's rocks and mud they build their homes and out of fibres of plants and skins of animals they make their clothes. Out of clay and nature they make their saleable articles. They live on corn, beans, melons and Indian herbs. Although there are government schools, nurses and doctors, they resort to their own remedies and are allowed to have their own medicine men. Soon after the girls graduate from the compulsory schools they revert to the primitive methods of living, so strong is their native characteristics. Although civilized they cling to old customs and religious forms.

Indians Pray for Rain

In such an arid region there is not sufficient rain for their crops, and the Indians hold devotional dances, imploring the gods to send rain. The story is told of the Indians when they were first approached by the Spanish priests and told about the white man's God and son Jesus and Mother Mary. The Indians implored the mission priests to allow them to take the image of Jesus out to their Rain Ceremonial. They were sorely in need of rain and the Indians won the privilege they requested. The ceremonial was that so much rain fell that it wiped out all their corn. Then they went back to the Spaniard Missionary and asked for the Mother of Jesus to be taken out to see what Her Son had done. In every pueblo home today are sacred pictures of the Blessed Virgin and Jesus. They believe, in thought, two religions, one, the Indian in picturing and one the Catholic, out-picturing religions. They speak three languages—Spanish, English and Indian.

On visiting their villages, the Hopi Indian women and children come out and make a circle around the visitors — displaying all their fine hand-and-heart-made pottery which they hope to sell to the tourists.

The Hopi Indians are rather short and stout, mirthful and congenial. They have gardens and keep their homes tidy, with great pride in their properties.

The Navajo Indians are tall and wiry and agile. They move about more and have plundered the property accumulated by the hard work of the Hopi. Therefore, these two classes or Indians are not congenial. By their dress and style they can be differentiated. The round sunshield represents the entire universe. In their dances they wear masks representing deity. The dancers dance until they are completely absorbed and transformed into the deities they represent. These deities act as intercessors between man and the higher gods. The Sun God is the all-powerful deity of Hopi mythology.

On their pottery every design has a meaning—the dots are hail, the stripes are rain, the curves are clouds, the sharp curves lightning. Then there are the rays of the sun and darkness by night. The unclosed circles represent the open life. The black pottery is symbolic of heaven. They also moulds these articles out of clay, rub and polish them with the use of a small stone and then burn over an open fire. Small children are seen with the young babies, tied on their backs. These babies are rarely employed and mothers free to continue with their pottery and weaving. In the finished product will can still be seen a tiny week-old black baby, crying and coming to its own protected brothers and sisters. The home scenes are most appealing.

The curiosity of the men travelling ahead of the women is easily explained. In times past the man went ahead, body free, to find the way and protect his family. The women carried the load as the weight of the luggage would prevent him from soldiering. As old customs are not easily changed, they travel thus, even today.

Many of their customs, signs and symbols can be traced back to the most ancient Egyptians, Mayas and races now submerged in the sea. In the Sacred Writings, at the Land of Mu, there are historic facts, which can be traced down to the present day Americans. The Red Indians have been the longest residents of America and understood and appreciated. Much can be learned from them, through their devotion to their religious ideals, reverence in the work, play and their more serious services. They form a major part in the history of America and have lived quietly and peaceably, taking no part in world competitions. They live in the world but not of the world and know how to blend sleep and mind their own. They have a natural setting around the rather inaccessable Mezas of Arizona and New Mexico—among the cotton woods, junlper and pinyon trees. No other races of men are found resembling the out-an existence in these semi-desert regions.

Long may they live in peace and plenty, and be an example to mankind who are chasing rainbows and tiring and falling in their struggles for fame and fortune.

WEDDING BELLS

IRELAND — KEENLEYSIDE

Evergreens and Christmas flowers formed an attractive background for the marriage in Grace Church-on-the-Hill, of Helen Antoinette Keenleyside, daughter of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. C. B. Keenleyside of Regina, to Mackay Ireland of Newark, N.J., son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Ireland of New York. Rev. C. E. Dixon officiated, with Miss Wilma Stevenson at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely bridal robe of ivory satin and tulle. The gown of satin, moulded to the figure, flared below the knees in a billow of ivory tulle. Tulle too, swept the floor behind the satin train edged with pearls. Pearls edged the neckline of the bodice, which was made with puff sleeves. A veil of tulle fell from a cap of pearls, covering the face. She carried Johanna Hill roses and bouvardia.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. F. J. Mallett, in saxe-green lace, a brown velvet hat fashioned in tam effect, and carried a bouquet of roses in three different shades tied with brown ribbon. Mr. F. J. Mallett was best man and the ushers were Mr. Beaufort Belcher and Mr. Paul Keenleyside.

A reception followed at the home of Mrs. F. J. Mallett, 353 Walmer Rd., the house being gay with poinsettias and Christmas greenery. Mrs. Keenleyside received with the bridal party, wearing a becoming gown of rose-beige lace, a black hat and accessories and corsage of orchids. Miss Louise Keenleyside of the groom, was also present at the reception. After a wedding trip to Georgian Bay the bride and groom Mrs. Ireland will reside in East Orange, N.J. The bride travelled in a smart dark green ensemble, becomingly trimmed with lace, a dark green hat and accessories, and a brown caracul coat.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lailey and Miss Mary Lailey, of Napanee.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. F. S. Richardson, of Napanee, and the late Mrs. A. W. Grange.

WILL MINISTER TO GOVERNMENT CAMPS

Rev. A. Mansell Irwin, B.A., B.D., of Whitby, left recently for Kenora, where he will make his headquarters and minister to the men in the government trans-Canada highway camps operating out of that town for a distance of about 100 miles.

The pastoral work among these men has been divided between the United Church and the Salvation Army, and Rev. Mr. Irwin, who resigned his charge, will make arrangements with the Army for a systematic and complete coverage of the territory. Mrs. Mr. Irwin may be gone all winter.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' FARM CLUBS

Boys' and Girls' farm club work has been aptly described as a great extension school of agriculture, in which the subjects for study are the club projects, and the pupils are the enrolled club members.

The fact that each club member must carry on the club project on the home farm is possibly one of the most important factors underlying the success that has been achieved. Primarily the work of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, the club movement has been featured by a remarkable amount of encouragement and assistance from agricultural societies, farmers' clubs, women's institutes, banks, railways and other institutions.

Open Formula Feeds

Commercial feeds are sold with the list of ingredients printed on the bag or on a label attached to the bag, this labelling being one of the requirements of the Feeding Stuffs Act administered by the Dominion Seed Branch, to regulate the quality and control the sale of feeding stuffs. It is not required by law to state the amount or percentage of each ingredient so the formula or precise composition of the feed is not divulged. This is what is known as closed formula.

Open formula feeds are those with which is shown not only the list of ingredients used in the make-up of the feed, but the actual amount of percentage of each ingredient used. In other words, the actual composition or recipe is divulged for the information of the purchasers or anyone else interested.

The practice of selling commercial feeds on the open formula basis is not yet common but, at least, one large feed manufacturing concern in Canada has adopted this policy. This plan of selling has the hearty endorsation of the leading Canadian Agricultural educationalists and authorities on live stock and poultry feeding. The control of feeding stuffs by the Dominion Government is a step in the right direction but it does not go far enough. Every farmer or "villein" may use the common and may graze his quota of 20 sheep on the stubble of the other fields as soon as they have been reaped and officially "broken" by the ringing of a bell. In addition, his 30 to 40 acres of land are divided up into about 16 portions scattered far and wide over the three open fields.

FEUDAL FARMING IN ENGLAND

It will astonish many people, says the Implement and Machinery Review (England), to learn that the feudal way of farming is still being practised in England, even in the twentieth century. Laxton, Nolinghamshire, is described as the last village in England that is still farmed on the manorial system, which reached its zenith about 1200 A.D. Here every farmer lives in the village street instead of on his holding, and his haystacks, sheds, etc., all alongside his cottage. The parish is divided into three huge open fields, each of about 400 acres, used for wheat, spring corn and dead fallow in turn, and there is also a large common. Every farmer or "villein" may use the common and may graze his quota of 20 sheep on the stubble of the other fields as soon as they have been reaped and officially "broken" by the ringing of a bell. In addition, his 30 to 40 acres of land are divided up into about 16 portions scattered far and wide over the three open fields.

VIOLET - SWITZERVILLE W. I.

The Violet Switzerville Institute met at the home of Mrs. Floyd Moore on December 21st, with a goodly number of members present. The rooms were gaily decorated for the festive holiday. The meeting was opened in the usual way and the roll call was answered by the exchange of Christmas gifts. This proved very interesting. Owing to the nearness of Christmas it was decided to omit the program and hold a short business meeting. It was moved and seconded that all bills concerning the concert, which was given in Odessa, be paid. The members decided to give the concert wherever invited. A sum of money was voted for the purpose of buying shoes and stockings for some children unable to attend school without them. All members present donated something for the Christmas dinner and one member gave toys to each child. After all business matters had been attended to, the meeting was brought to a close. The hostess and her assistants served a very dainty lunch and a social hour was spent.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Close.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

On the afternoon of January 3rd, 1934, the Busy Bee Mission Band held its first regular meeting which was in charge of the newly elected president, Jean Amey. The meeting opened with the hymn "Jesus Bids us Shine," followed by the reading of the minutes of the December meeting. The call to worship was given by the leader and was responded to in song, this being followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Marion Lasher then read the scripture lesson from Luke 15 : 11 to 24, and Vivian Craig taught the memory verse from Ephesians 5 : 32, after which Miss Rutherford read the story of "The Forgiving Father."

The offering was taken by Alice Hogeboom and Irma Lasher, after which the hymn "When Mothers of Salem" was sung, followed by the Friendship Prayer led by Muriel Craig.

The Watch Tower items were then given : Africa, by Maitland Clark; India, by Arnold Clark; China, by Sidney Wilson; and Canada, by Augusta Clark.

Mrs. Wales then conducted the study period and the hymn "God see the little sparrow fall" was sung and the meeting closed with prayer by Ralph Wilson.

The next meeting will be held at school on Wednesday afternoon, February 7th, 1934, at three o'clock.

SELBY W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the W. M. S. was held in the school room of the church on Thursday, January 4th, with the president in the chair. This was the annual business meeting, and the following officers were elected : President, Mrs. Pringle; First Vice-President, Mrs. Tate; Recording Secretary, Mrs. McLeod; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Tumpson; Missionary Secretary, Mrs. Amey; Press Secretary, Mrs. M. Windover; Associate Helpers' Secretary, Mrs. H. Windover; Christian Stewardship Secretary, Mrs. Stanley Sexsmith; Supply Secretary, Mrs. Allan Wood; Stranger's Secretary, Mrs. Ben. Dickinson; Pianist, Mesdames Tumpson and Denison; Watchtower : China, Mrs. Tate; Japan, Mrs. J. C. Hudgins; Korea, Mrs. Dudgeon; India, Mrs. Frank Denison; Africa, Mrs. J. E. Hudgins; Home Missions, Mrs. W. Prisken; Mission Band Leader, Mrs. Smith; Finance Committee, President; Treasurer, Secretary Christian Stewardship and Mrs. Frank Denison.

During the year ending 1933 the auxiliary was conducted under the management of a group system, which has proved most successful. The leaders were again elected. The auxiliary raised $287 during the year and feel that they can better that mark in 1934.

Plant Soybeans in Rows

During the past season which was notable for lack of rainfall, growers of soybeans will have noticed the value of cultivation to this crop. The practice at Harrow has been to cultivate soybeans similar to corn and a clean crop of good quality soybeans has always resulted. When soybeans are planted in rows 28 to 30 inches apart, this beneficial cultivating may be done. This distance of planting would also be an advantage over the solid drilling of the beans, in that the plants are allowed more space in which to develop and produce abundant beans of good size.

Beef Requirements

Investigations of the Ontario Department of Agriculture show that butchers, desirous of supplying customers with beef of a quality acceptable for grading according to Dominion Government standards, are looking for carcasses weighing from 450 to 800 pounds with a top of 600 pounds and carrying sufficient finish. Such carcasses come from cattle weighing 950 to 1050 pounds with a top of 1100 pounds. This covers butcher cattle, steers, and heifers.

In the fed calf and yearling class, the weight most in demand is 350 to 450 pounds, being from fed calves weighing from 600 to 800 pounds live, sufficient finished to be eligible for Red or Blue Brand Beef.

There is also a limited demand for weighty steer carcasses, from 700 to 700 pounds, to take care of the demand for more mature beef, and for supplying institutions. These should come from steers weighing 1100 to 1200 pounds.

There appears to be a vast number of beef carcasses moving into retail channels, of desirable weight but without sufficient finish for government grading. These carcasses are coming from all classes of live cattle, and it would seem that this condition is due to lack of breeding or feeding.

Keeping the Wool Clean

Woolen mill manufacturers often object to Canadian wool on account of dirt, particularly chaff and seeds. The removal of such material is expensive, which is frequently the reason for lower prices offered. A little care on the part of the farmer will help considerably in keeping the wool clean.

The construction of the feeding racks is important. Have the slats on the feeding side almost vertical and not more than two inches apart. This will prevent the hay from falling over the animals.

When feeding, fill the racks from an alley, or keep the sheep out of the pen. They should also be kept out when the bedding is being spread.

Market Your Grain by The Poultry Route

This is the time when previous crate and milk feeding tells. It makes the best turkey flesh or roast chicken. The roosters that were not ready for the Christmas market had better be given special feed for the demand that comes in the New Year.

The million pounds of Canadian turkeys that went to England for this Christmas meant slightly higher prices to growers here than were received last year, or would have been received this year.

There is no reason why more good poultry products should not be fitted for the export market. We have the stock and the cheap feed. It is the best way to get good prices for our grain; market it through the poultry route.

Bond Commission Agents

Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that under regulations of the Public Act of 1933 it will be necessary for all commission agents handling Ontario-grown fruits and vegetables to furnish security by the bond of a surety company in not less a sum than $10,000. Truckers of fruit and vegetables will not be required to furnish the bond.

The Department has been advised by the Casualty Underwriters' Association that the charge for bonds will be at the rate of $10 per thousand, in place of $20 per thousand, the former rate. The new rates will be retroactive to June 20, and apply to all bonds already written. All commission houses will be required to secure bonds in accordance with the regulations, on or before January 1st, 1934.

Electric Lights in The Poultry House

It has been proved conclusively, that, as the nights become longer, the use of artificial light in laying pens will help the winter egg production considerably. The use of lights during the winter will not influence the year's total yield to any great extent. However, they will increase production during the season of good prices and a greater profit will result. The high yields sometimes obtained in the Canadian Laying Contests, where, for the reason of uniformity and competition, no lights are allowed, compare very favourably in the total number of eggs laid in one year with similar flocks that have had the advantage of lights during the winter, but the peak of production occurs much later when no lights are used.

Ontario Apples in Britain

After a period of abnormally large shipments of Canadian apples, supplies reaching the British markets are now more moderate, and as a result prices obtained for Ontario Baldwins, Snows and Greenings have risen a few shillings a barrel. Another Fulton, the overseas fruit representative, reports that good quality Ontario Baldwins, No. 1's are making from 17 shillings and 6 pence to 22 shillings a barrel according to colour. Sizes attached to Ontario Snows made 20 shillings to 23 shillings and 6 pence. Ontario Greenings are also making better prices, ranging from 19 shillings to 22 shillings for No. 1 quality. These latter prices show how unwise it was to unload large quantities of Greenings on the British market at 12 to 14 shillings in the Fall at a time when English cooking apples were still abundant. Mr. Fulton thinks that the prospects for good coloured Ontario Baldwins and Greenings as well, are likely to be fairly satisfactory after the New Year. Ben Davis and Starks, however will have to meet competition from the later shipments of the variety coming from Nova Scotia in January and February.

Mr. Fulton again advocates that steps be taken in Canada to devise some scheme of orders shipments from all Provinces, in order to head off the rising tide of dissatisfaction on the part of British trade concerns who naturally resent having their short selling season in the fall ruined by excessive supplies of overripe apples, much of them cooking varieties.

The English growers suggest the adoption of some voluntary means of preventing gluts of apples in the British markets in heavy crop years. During 1933, for example, the British markets were continually oversupplied with apples from one overseas source or another from April to December, and during that time the season's crop of all English fruits had conveniently to be marketed at a disadvantage. Of course the Canadian fruit growers also suffer when their apples are too hurriedly dumped on markets already overstocked with supplies.

Winter Hog Feeding

Winter hog feeding requires different methods from those ordinarily found successful in summer. Stunting and crippling are common during the winter and result largely from an unsupply of heavy feeds as well as from lack of some of the vital elements. Lack of sunshine and exercise may also be contributing causes. Control measures to forestall these winter feeding difficulties are as follows : Use a variety of feeds in the ration including milk or tankage; provide alfalfa or clover hay or roots in small quantities; do not feed too heavily; allow young animals to exercise in mild weather; and keep stock should have comfortable sleeping quarters which are dry and free from draughts.

Simple Method For Treating Milking Machine Tubes

The simplest and cheapest method of controlling contamination in the milking machine rubber parts consists in using a weak lye solution, 0.4 to 0.5 per cent, for the tubes sterilized between milkings. This is particularly designed for farms lacking an adequate supply of hot water. After a cold water sustaining rinse, immediately before milking. The tubes are hung in a simple wooden rack, filled with lye solution, and left till the next milking. Full direction for the treatment and the construction of the rack may be obtained from the Division of Bacteriology, Central Experimental Farm.

Corn Varieties for Ensilage

Success in the production of corn for ensilage depends largely upon the choice of a suitable variety. According to the Dominion Agrostologist recent tests have shown the following varieties to be most suitable for Eastern Canada generally: Dents—Wisconsin No. 7, Golden Glow, Leaming and Bailey; Flints— Compton's Early, Longfellow, Salzer's North Dakota.

Dent varieties mature very little, if at all, while the flints ripen very freely. The flints usually yield slightly lower than the dents, but since they can be harvested seven to ten days earlier, they should be given preference in districts where the season is somewhat short for using the dent varieties.

IT'S for Children's Coughs and Colds As well As your Own

Mother, don't worry when the children have a bad cough or cold—just give them BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE mixed with equal parts of honey. One pleasant little dose will give immediate relief. Two doses are often all that are needed to end a bad cold.

Buckley's is absolutely safe for the smallest child, but so supremely good that it will banish the toughest adult cough or cold and it's simply wonderful for 'flu or bronchitis. Refuse substitutes. Buckley's is sold everywhere.

Tribute to Pioneer Farmers

Scientific Agriculture, (La Revue Agronomique Canadienne) for December, contains a tribute to the early farmers of Canada in the address of Sir F. John Russell, director of Rothamsted Experimental Station, Harpenden, England, to the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists at Ottawa. "Your farmers, like ours," said Sir John, "and you with them just like us, are now passing through times of great stress and great anxiety. But you can find much ground for hope if you look back and think what the farmers of bygone days had to go through when they first came here and out of the wild forests made the smiling countryside of eastern Canada, thickly set with comfortable farm houses and attractive little towns.

"These old French settlers who gave to much to Canada and the early British settlers who followed them went through vastly more suffering than anyone now is called upon to face. We do but risk money; they risked their lives. With all our financial anxiety we still possess all that has been handed down to us, and all that we have ourselves made: good roads, pleasant homes, towns, healthy surroundings, waters, electricity, and a thousand amenities of which they never dreamed.

"And it is much the same for the prairie farmers : contrast their lot now with that of the early settlers. Fortunately for us, the records of the Red River settlement were kept, so we know something of their sufferings; how in 1813 a group of Highlanders sent out by Lord Selkirk broke the ground with a hoe, and struggled with English wheats year after year, always failing, yet always starving and hoping. The first year the crop was taken by the birds, in later years sometimes by Indians, or more birds, or it failed. Finally, after six years all their difficulties seemed overcome: a rich harvest was in sight, when lo ! out from the west came a cloud of grasshoppers and devoured everything—wheat, garden produce and every green herb in the colony. The Chronicle rises to say 'This sudden and unexpected disaster was more than they could bear. The unfortunate emigrants, looking up toward heaven, wept.'

I always think it speaks volumes for their good British upbringing that they did no more than that."

WINTER - CUT APPLE SCIONS

A seasonable word of warning with reference to the selection of apple tree scions for grafting is given in bulletin 35, issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Scions should not be cut in cold weather in winter because there is less sap and their chance of drying up is greater than if they were cut in the autumn. One cannot tell very well either, in winter, whether the young wood has been injured or not. Scions should be cut from healthy bearing trees, from the most productive trees in fact. The wood of old trees is liable to be diseased, and, if diseased wood is used, it is likely to produce a diseased tree when grafted. Although autumn is the best time to cut scions, it has to be remembered also that scions which are not kept in good condition all winter are not so good as those cut from the tree early in spring and grafted at once.

GOOD-BYE FRONT AXLE

A change in design of the major variety, startling in its application and quite astonishing in its influence on riding qualities, is seen in the new models. The 1934 Silver Anniversary cars of C. G. M., with their independent front-wheel suspension, will mark the most radical departure from conventional front-end design since the industry's early days. Engineers give their word that the idea is not only revolutionary, but will take a quick hold on the affections of car drivers.

The simplest way to describe the new-style mounting, according to the president of General Motors of Canada, Ltd, is so say that automobiles have been provided with knees, which will flex as they get over the ground, without transmitting shocks to the body or chassis. The old-type front axle and the stiff front springs are gone. All the car lines of General Motors of Canada, will feature this innovation, this year.

COULD NOT REST FOR SORE BACK

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Soon Brought Complete Relief

Mr. Warner Says Six Boxes of Dodd's Made Him Feel Fine

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 9, (Special.) "My back was so bad, my spine so sore I could not rest," writes Mr. C. E. Warner, of 280 Withrow Avenue, Toronto. "My head ached all the time. I was troubled with my eyes. I bought three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they helped me so much I bought three more boxes, and now I feel fine."

Backache is Nature's warning of faulty kidney action. Never neglect it. If you fail to heed this sign that your kidneys are out of order you are taking great chances. Backache, if not corrected, is often followed by some far more serious form of kidney trouble. Do not hesitate. At the first sign of kidney trouble, such as Backache, turn unhesitatingly to Dodd's Kidney Pills, which for half a century have been recognized as the best treatment for aching back.

Superintendents of Mission Band — Mrs. H. Vine. Mrs. R. T. Richards.

Pianist—Mrs. B. M. Black.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. was held in the Sunday School room on Thursday, January 4th. Owing to the slippery condition of the walks, the attendance was small. The President, Mrs. F. L. Hooper, presided, and the meeting opened with Hymn 318, repeated in unison. Short prayers were offered by several of the members, followed by repitition of the Lord's Prayer by all.

The minutes of the December meeting were read and approved.

Two letters of appreciation were read by Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. F. Correll, which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. B. M. Black then favored us with a piano solo.

Mrs. C. Mellow gave a reading on Temperance, and Miss M. Mellow read an inspiring letter from Mrs. Street.

Two short Scripture passages were read by Mrs. Doupe and Mrs. C. Mellow.

The meeting closed with a lovely prayer read by Mrs. Hooper and all repeated the Mizpah Benediction.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ORGANIZATIONS

MORVEN Y. P. S.

Sixteen of the members of the Morven Young People's Society met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Miller for the election of officers for the coming year. The meeting opened with the hymn "What a Friend we have in Jesus." Wilfred VanSlyck read Psalm 100 and Lottie Miller led in prayer. Then followed a period of discussion of business and the hymn "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus," and the Mizpah benediction brought the devotional part of this meeting to a close.

The election of officers resulted as follows :—

Hon. President—Rev. A. E. Oliver.

President—Miss Hilda Preslar.

Christian Fellowship Vice-President— Miss Stella Craig.

Missionary Vice-President — Miss Lura Perry.

Christian Citizenship Vice-President— Miss Edna Wood.

Literary and Social Vice-President —Mr. Wilfred VanSlyck.

Treasurer— Mr. William Hunter.

Organist— Miss Lillian Babcock.

Lunch Committee — Misses Lillian Babcock and Alice Miller.

Auditors — Messrs. Richard Hill and Carl VanSlyck.

ADOLPHUSTOWN A.Y.P.S.

The regular meeting of Adolphustown A. Y. P. A. was held in the Parish Hall, on Friday evening, January 5th. The meeting came to order with the president, Lewis Robey, in the chair, and our vice-president, Harold Allison, led in prayer. Miss Betty Allison then read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved and adopted. Miss Helen Daverne read the treasurer's report.

It was decided the next meeting would be in the form of a social evening, to which the members of the parish were extended an invitation. It was also decided to hold a dance in the parish hall on Friday evening, January 12th. This was the first meeting of the new year, so the election of officers took place, by ballot. The new executive is as follows :—

President—Dick Daverne.

Vice-President—Gordon Campbell.

Secretary—Nellie Gallagher.

Treasurer—Helen Daverne.

Press Secretary—Sid Cousins.

Mr. Quarterman duly installed the new officers and the meeting was then closed with prayer.

"SIDE" APPLES SWEETER

One interesting point brought out by apple storage investigation at Ashton Research Station, England, says Mr. R. C. Palmer, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Summerland, B.C., "is that an apple developed from the central flower of a cluster has a very different chemical composition from an apple produced by a lateral blossom. Strangely enough this appears to hold true though only one apple is permitted to develop from each of a number of flower clusters. Since the apples produced by lateral flowers have been found to be sweeter, firmer, and more resistant to rots, it is suggested that it may be worth while to remove the central fruits during the operation of thinning."

As a vermicide an excellent preparation is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. It has saved the lives of countless children.

Administrator's Sale By Auction

ESTATE WILMOT AMOS GERMAN (Deceased)

There will be sold by Public Auction at the premises, known as the Wilmot A. German farm, subject to reserve bid, on

The North half of Lot Number 37, in the First Concession North of the Road, in the Township of Tyendinaga in the County of Hastings, containing 100 acres more or less.

Prospective purchasers are invited, between this and the date of the sale to inspect this farm and judge for themselves as to its merits. The farm is said to be free from herrick and whd-daisy and is one of the very choicest 100 - acre farms in the Township, its value being very much enhanced by its being one half length of the Concession and double width with a splendid lane through the centre, and is all choice land and free from stone, also well watered and well drained and no shallow land. Erected on this farm is a real good brick house and very good outbuildings.

This property will be offered subject to Conditions of Sale, which will be produced at the time of sale.

TERMS OF SALE: 15 per cent. of purchase money to be paid down at the time of sale and the balance to be paid within 10 days thereafter.

There will also be sold on the same day and hour and at the same place, a quantity of household furniture, farm stock, farm implements and implements. (See posters throughout district.)

Kellogg Company Optimistic as To Future Conditions

Plans For Intensive Newspaper Advertising Campaign

On a radio telephone hook-up from St. Petersburg, Florida, reaching Sydney, Australia; London, England; London Ontario, Mexico City, Mexico; Battis Creek, Michigan and twenty-six sales offices throughout the United States, W. K. Kellogg, President of the Kellogg Company, extended New Year's greetings to members of the Kellogg Sales Organization at home and abroad, at the same time reviewing the progress throughout the past year and outlining plans for the future.

The founder and president of the world's largest manufacturers of ready-to-eat cereals, stated that 1933 had proved an extraordinarily good year for the Company and that he expected conditions to improve. "The Kellogg Company, Mr. Kellogg stated, is employing more people, spending more money and working harder for business than at any other period in our history."

Touching on plans for 1934, Mr. Kellogg said that the company's promotional budget for the year ahead was larger than ever before and that the newspaper advertising alone would reach a new high mark in both scope and intensity.

Silver Anniversary

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. C. Paul, of Macdowall, Sask., was the scene of a very happy surprise gathering on Wednesday, Dec. 20th, the occasion of their 25th Wedding Anniversary.

Sponsors of the party entered the home at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and handed Mr. and Mrs. Paul an invitation written and edged in silver ink, after which they sang to the tune of "Smile the While", these words—

25 years they've been married today,
Still they're very young and gay.
All their neighbors are coming to say
Many happy returns of the day
Ed. and Maggie;
Wedding bells will ring so merrily
Down on Ed. Paul's Homewood
Farm,
Just wait and watch and hear them come—For the Chivari.

Just then the sound of sleighbells and tin pans was heard the ice was broken.

Mrs. Paul was asked to retire and sponsors took charge. To the already tastefully decorated rooms for the Christmas season, white streamers with bright garlands and sparkling tinsel ribbons were added.

To the strains of the old familiar tune "When You and I were Young Maggie", played by Mrs. John Paul, bride and bridegroom took their places under the arch near the bay-window which was full of lovely flowers. The bride was given away by Mr. Geo. Gleiser (in the absence of Mr. D. C. Paul) was charmingly gowned in dress of white lace, trimmed with silver rosebuds. Her veil, edged with a bright silver garland, was also trimmed with silver rosebuds.

She carried a bequet of lovely chrysanthemums from which hung two silver rosebuds.

Mrs. D. C. Paul acted as bridesmaid. The groom was supported by Mr John Paul, a nephew. The little Misses Gladys Paul, Marguerite Dowling and Agnes Paul as flower girls, added an interesting note to the party. Brides-maid and flower girls looked lovely dressed in pink and white flowers similar to that of the bride's

Before the mock ceremony took place, Mrs. Alec Paul sang a solo to the tune of "When You and I were Young, Maggie". The mock ceremony performed by Rev. Vogt caused much laughter.

After the ceremony the friends came forward offering their congratulations. Then all adjourned to the diningroom where a carefully prepared luncheon placed on the prettily decorated table which centered with a beautiful threetier miniature wedding cake await ed them.

Having sung the blessing and everyone yet standing, little Misses Marguerite Dowling and Agnes Paul brought forward a beautiful silver flower basket with yellow tulips, to present to the honored couple. Mr. S. J. Giles read the address to which the bride and groom suitably replied.

Mesdames Geo. Dowling and A. F. Paul served the guests. A toast to the bride and groom was proposed by Rev. Vogt, and in answering, both Mr. and Mrs. Paul, took the opportunity to express in a few well chosen words, their gratitude and appreciation.

Congratulations from a Distance

The bride and groom were amazed to receive telegrams carrying messages of congratulations and good wishes from friends far and near — these having responded to come to the sponsors of the party from as far east as New Jersey, and from different points of Ontario and Saskatchewan, and were brought in at intervals during the evening by little Ernest Dowling and Leland Paul acting as Telegraph boys.

All joined in the singing of a few favorite hymns, after which Rev. Vogt closed the evening with prayer.

Before going home, all joined hands with the bride and groom in the circle, and sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows".

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Giles,—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gleister, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dowling and family, Mr. and Mrs John Paul and baby, Rev. and Mrs. Vogt, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Paul and family, Mrs. D. C. Paul, the Misses Joyce Paul and Myrtle Giles, Messrs. Fred Bendle, Wm. Giles and Geo, Humes.

Over 200 prominent Ontario Drug Stores have joined up, in ope year, with the new I. D. A. (Independent Druggists' Alliance) progressive sales system. HOOPER'S, Napanee, were one of the firsts.

BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, Jan. 9. — And its another January thaw, and it's very real thawing after the extreme cold of a few days ago.

The roads are improving after the very icy conditions of the past week.

Remember the Bay East W. M. S. at the home of Mrs. Herbert Mellow, Saturday afternoon, January 11th, at 2:30 p.m.

The Gretna Ladies' Aid held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Moore on Thursday, January 4th, with an excellent attendance. The programme was in charge of the president and consisted of readings and an address. The election of officers was held and the following are the leaders for the new year: President, Mrs. Herbert Mellow; Vice-President, Mrs. Ross Joyce; Secretary, Mrs. Earl Howell; Treasurer, Mrs. Davey, and Organist, Mrs. Laura Parks. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Moore served lunch and a hearty vote of thanks was extended her. Arrangements were made to hold a social evening in January, and the regular February meeting will be at Mrs. A. Dean's.

The usual chartuar was held for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amey, one night last week. There was the usual large attendance and everybody had a good time.

The Bethany Ladies' Aid held the first meeting in the new year, at the home of the new president, Mrs. Harold Parrish, on Wednesday afternoon last, with an attendance away above the average. Mrs. J. Davis, retiring president, acted as chairman and conducted the business in her usual helpful way. A very interesting programme of readings was given. Arrangements were made to have a social programme and refreshments. The regular February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Clark. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Burtch served lunch and a most enjoyable half hour was spent.

Not often has any community been so stirred than it has been this week by the death of Mrs. Harry Miller and Mr. Enos Spencer. Mrs. Harry Miller died at Cravenhurst Hospital on Saturday morning, January 6th, and the remains were brought to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hicks, on Saturday night. She had been a long, patient sufferer for many years and had become perfect in suffering. The funeral was conducted on Sunday afternoon in Bethany Church, by Rev. J. E. Beckel, assisted by Rev. T. H. Mitchell, of Tamworth. Interment Enos Spencer, who lives on the adjoining farm, died on Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. Mr. Spencer was the oldest man in this township, and for several months has been in poor health, but his suffering was not unexpected. The funeral service was held on Tuesday afternoon, January 9th, in Bethany Church, conducted by his minister, Rev. T. H. Mitchell. Interment was made in the family vault at Napanee. The sincere sympathy of the entire community is extended to those who mourn in these two neighboring homes in North Frederick.

Mr. Harry Miller and daughters, Hilda and Ruth, are remaining for a few days visiting friends at Bethany, before returning to their home at Oshawa.

Mr. Bennett of Oshawa was among those who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Harry Miller.

The inaugural meeting of North Frederick Borough Township Council will be held in the Town Hall on Monday of this week with Reeve James Clark in the chair.

The Hay Bay Ladies' Aid would have you remember that they are holding their next meeting at the home of a social evening, at 8:00 p.m. at the home of the president, Mrs. Wilbur Bush. Good programme. Lunch. Everybody invited.

Mrs. W. B. Bell returned home from Kingston Hospital on Sunday and is convalescent at her home at Hay Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Allison and children had a very narrow escape on Sunday, when they were crossing Hay Bay in their truck, on their way to their home in Adolphstown. The truck broke through the ice opposite Mr. James Robertson's, at a place where there was eight feet of water, and but for the quick action of their little daughter managed to get out of the cab of the truck onto the ice and fortunately the little boy was missing. Mr. Allison jumped into the water and managed the little lad who was clinging to the cab of the truck nearly submerged and the horses. The time of rescuing the Allison's seem none the worse for their nerve-racking experience. At the present time of writing Mr.

MOUNTAIN GROVE

Mountain Grove, Jan. 8.—Election passed very quietly in this vicinity. Mr. Frank Smith was elected Reeve, by acclamation. The Councillors for 1934 are Messrs. Flynn, Stinson, Gillis and Stincombe.

A free dance, given by the new councillors in the Town Hall, Friday evening, January 5th, was well attended.

CROYDON

Croydon, Dec. 29.—Christmas is over and we had a real old genuine one with lots of snow and the roads covered with ice, and the cold weather still continues with the thermometer at 38 below.

The usual Christmas school concerts at Reidville, Croydon and Croydon Road, were all well attended and the different teachers and pupils deserve great praise for the way the programs were carried out.

The trustees' meeting passed off very quietly. Mr. Murney Martin was elected again for another three years.

Mr. Herb. Bawn, who has secured a position on Highway No. 7, spent Christmas with his wife and family, with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Doupe and family.

Mr. Stanley Quail, of Wampoose, is spending a couple of weeks' holidays with his uncle, Mr. Stanley Doupe and Mrs. Doupe.

Mr. Maurice Barten visited with relatives around Croydon, last week.

Mr. Robert McGregor and Mrs. McGregor and family, Miss Grace Sharpe and Sidney Griffin, spent Christmas at Mr. Ross McGregor's.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Close, Annie and Margaret Close, and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Campbell and family, of Napanee, spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Close.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Galbraith went up to Belleville to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Will Hyland.

Mr. Don. McGregor was host his brother and wife, Mr. James McGregor and Mrs. McGregor of Toronto, for Christmas and the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Doupe, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Richmond of West Plain, for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Callbreath and sons, with Mr. and Mrs. O. Wagar, Enterprise, for Christmas, and Mrs. Harold Hughes and sister, Miss Beulah Weese, with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erden Weese, Centreville.

FLINTON

Flinton, Jan. 6— The Christmas concert held in the Town Hall, on the night of December 21st, by the Sunday School, was a decided success. Much of the credit goes to the teachers of the various schools who ably helped with the programme.

Rev. W. and Mrs. Edwards spent Christmas at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, of Abbotsford, Que.

Miss Veronica Yanch and Mr. J. Ray Carwell of Toronto, spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yanch.

Mr. Gordon Moxom, of Sudbury, spent a few days visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Casey and children spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. P. Casey, of Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Lessard and family visited at Christmas time, with Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Sedore.

J. P. Davison and family were Christmas Day visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Yeomans, of Tweed.

The dance which was to be given in the Town Hall, under the auspices of the Young People of St. John's Church, on the evening of December 26th, was called due to the inclement weather.

All of the old councillors of 1932 were elected by acclamation. Ex-Reeve R. J. Campbell and Reeve C. C. Thompson were nominated for reeve, but R. J. Campbell failed to sign up; so we have the same council as we had last year.

At the school meeting which was held on Wednesday, December 27th, Joseph Lessard was re-appointed school trustee for the next year. The community should be more interested in school affairs for there were barely enough representatives to hold a meeting.

Mr. Thomas Hasler of Toronto, spent the holiday with his parents here.

Mr. William Loyst and sons, Francis and Stewart, of Lakefield, spent Christmas with Mr. W. Beatty.

Stafford Lessard has returned to Belleville to take up his studies again, after holidaying at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lessard.

Mrs. Lawrence Charlton and baby, of Lakefield, is spending a few days with relatives here.

Mr. Eugene Bouchard of Sarnia, is holidaying with friends and relatives here.

ODESSA

Odessa, January 8. — The monthly meeting of the W. A. was held on Wednesday afternoon, in the Library. The roll call was "Health Hints". The theme "Health, happiness and prosperity to everyone you meet," was given by Mrs. Shelley Dennes. There were considerable business discussed, and a committee also appointed for the relief problem. The lunch committee consisted of Mrs. Nelson Smith, Mrs. Shelley Denyes and Mrs. Courland Snider.

The annual school meeting was held on Wednesday and Stanley Sproule was re-elected for the term, at which his many friends will be pleased.

Mrs. G. W. Jones received the sad news on New Year's Day, announcing the passing of her sister, Mrs. Archibald Parker, Saskatoon.

Due to the holiday season there was a small attendance at the Y. P. meeting on Monday last.

The Continuation and Public Schools have re-opened. After the Christmas holidays Miss Blacklock, of Woodstock, is succeeding Miss Cross, who was the teacher from September until the closing of the school in December.

Miss Mildred Anglin, Principal of the Public School, and Miss Helen Sproule, assistant, spent the holidays out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fraser were the dinner guests of Mrs. Calder on New Year's night.

Harold Cairns, of Toronto, and Bruce Cairns, of Wyandotte, Mich., were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Cairns. They also attended the funeral of their grandmother, Mrs. C. Timmerman, whose death took place in the Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Cordick returned home the last of the week, after holidaying with friends in Perth and Ashton.

The regular meeting of the Odessa Women's Institute was held in the Library Hall on Wednesday, January 3rd. In spite of the terrible roads there was a goodly number of members present, and two visitors. Considerable business was dealt with and a social evening discussed, and it was decided to hold a euchre in the Library Hall every Friday evening until February 14th, on which date a euchre and dance will be held in the new Town Hall. Lunch is to be furnished by the Institute members and suitable prizes given for euchre. Mrs. Shelley Denyes gave the motto for the month in a very capable manner. Lunch was served by the committee in charge, Mrs. N. Smith, Mrs. C. Snider and Mrs. S. Denyes.

The first of a series of euchres, under the auspices of Odessa W. I., was held in the Library Hall on Friday evening. Owing to the terrible condition of the roads the crowd was not as large as expected, but a very pleasant evening was enjoyed. Euchre was played from 8.30 to 10.30 and after the dainty prizes were given to the winners, lunch was served by the committee in charge.

The Proven Asthma Remedy. — Since asthma existed there has been no lack of much heralded remedies but they have proved short lived and worthless. The ever-growing reputation of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has given it a place in the front of medicine which is based on approach. It has never been pushed by sensational methods, but has simply gone on effecting relief and making new converts.

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, Jan. 8. — Mrs. Robert McCloy has returned from Lansdowne, where she spent several weeks with her brother, Mr. Charles Dickerson.

Mrs. Charles G. Walker went to Belgrave on Friday last to attend the funeral of an uncle, Mr. John Wightman.

Mr. J. Ed. and Mrs. Shorey, George and Elmer, of Cannifton, and Miss Celia, were the dinner guests of the Misses Clara and Emma Shorey, on Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Dickerson and daughter, of Lansdowne, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dickerson, for a few days.

Mrs. George Brooks of Roblin, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Ramsay.

The Young People's Society held a meeting on Tuesday evening, January 2nd, with a fairly good attendance. Mr. Hubert Simkins was in charge of the opening, after which came the routine business. The topic "Happiness" was well given by Mr. Robin Fluke.

A very pretty house wedding took place at the home of Mr. Jos. Paul, Newburgh, on Saturday, December 30th, 1933, when Miss Joy Paul became the bride of Mr. J. Stuart Moore of Cherry Valley, P. E. County. While Miss Marguerite Warriam, assisted the bride, played suitable music, Mr. Paul conducted his daughter to the waiting wedding group. Those present were Miss Queenie Paul and Mr. Roger Blakely. The bride's pastor the Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, performed the marriage vows. After the congratulations and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Whytock sister of the groom, sang in pleasing voice "O Perfect Love." The bride was attired in midnight blue Chiffon velvet and carried a magnificent bouquet of flowers, as did also the bridesmaid, Miss Queenie Paul. Young lady friends, Miss B. Nugent, Miss M. Wartman, the bride's sister Miss Queenie Paul, arranged small tables and seated the guests, and served a delicious luncheon. The groom's father, Mr. William Moore, of Cherry Valley, with his youngest son, and Mr. and Mrs. Whytock Pox and son, motored up for the occasion. The happy couple motored to Belleville and entrained for Ottawa and other eastern cities; the bride travelling in a brown crepe dress with suitable accessories. Before leaving Prince Edward County, Mr. Moore was the recipient of a fine Bible from the Sunday School where he was secretary for some years, and a very beautiful silver tea service from friends in the community. We welcome Mr. Moore to our community and extend to him and his bride, who is one of our very best young women, our sincere wishes for a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Miss Doris N. Head, B.A., Ridgeville, Ont., spent a few days of the holiday season with Mr. and Mrs. Jason and visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wide, Mr. and Mrs. T. Wilde and Miss Wilde, of Selby, visited recently at the parsonage.

The first meeting of the United Church W. M. S., for the year, convened at the home of Mrs. Johnson, the capable treasurer of the society, last Thursday. The work of the different departments was reviewed and the treasurer's report showed a slight advance on the previous year. Looking forward, a campaign for new members was launched; a number of "Kingdom of God" cards were distributed and a "reading contest" entered upon. Books of missionary content— devotional, historical or biographical, may be included. Rev. Anderson gave a comprehensive survey of the educational work in China and present problems relative to the situation.

February 16th, the first Friday in Lent, has been chosen as the day of "World Prayer" for missionary women. The "call to prayer" has been prepared by Mrs. Robert Porgan of Edinburgh, Scotland. The program "pray for the peace of Jerusalem." was prepared by Mrs. Louis Hofmeyer, of Capetown, South Africa. We are holding the date for this interesting meeting. Arrangements will be made as in former years.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Jan. 8.— Mrs. Wagar of Hamilton, is visiting at the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Wagar.

Mr. Schuyler Palmatier, of Toronto, spent a few days recently, at the home of his cousin, Mrs. M. S. Wagar.

Mr. and Mrs. Enos Pringle, Napanee, Mrs. Sydney Pringle, Selby, Mr. Robt. Bradshaw, Rochester, N.Y., attended the funeral of the late Mrs. John Bradshaw, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wagar entertained a number of friends at a card party on New Year's night.

Mr. George Thompson met with a very painful accident on Saturday while doing his chores, when he slipped and fell, breaking his leg above the knee. Mr. Thompson has been employed on the farm of the late John E. Murphy and Mrs. Murphy for the past twenty years. Dr. F. D. O'Connor was immediately called and after giving medical attention Mr. Thompson was removed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. P. McPhee and son, Robert, have returned home after spending a few days visiting the former's mother and sister, at Orillia.

Miss M. Cole of the teaching staff here, was suddenly called to her home in Columbus on Friday, owing to the death of her mother.

Mr. Charlie Tucker is visiting at his uncle's home, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Irving, at Brockville.

Mrs. Hafley and little daughter, Merylin, left on Saturday for their home in Toronto, after having spent the past two months with her mother, Mrs. J. B. Murphy.

The annual meeting of the Tamworth United Church Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. S. White, with twenty-three members and three visitors present. After the devotional part of the meeting, Rev. M. R. Brown took the chair for the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—President, Mrs. C. Lochead; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. S. White; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. W. S. Wagar; Secretary, Mrs. W. W. Redden; Treasurer, Mrs. Adam Milligan; Convenors of committees: devotional, Mrs. M. R. Brown; parsonage, Mrs. C. Gilmore; flower, Mrs. Clare Wagar; apron, Mrs. Harold Milligan; fancy work, Mrs. E. Huffman; visiting, Mrs. M. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. B. Richardson; pianist, Mrs. Dave Rogers; auditors, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. G. Richardson. The secretary reported receipts of $77 made at the banazar, which was held before Christmas.After some discussion, it was moved by Mrs. A. Milligan and Mrs. Mark Wagar, that a winter porch be built on the front of the parsonage. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the retiring president, Mrs. A. Milligan, for her splendid efforts during the past year. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and the committee and a pleasant hour was spent. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Richardson on the first Tuesday in February.

While working in the woods at the home of his mother-in-law, Mr. Brown of Centreville, Leslie McKnight accidentally cut a severe gash in his foot with the axe he was using. First aid was given by his sister, Mrs. Brown, but before he could get to the office of Dr. Horton at Enterprise, he had lost a considerable amount of blood. He is still at the home of his sister.

The Masonic brethren of Tamworth, Lorne Lodge No. 404, held their annual installation of officers on December 27th. Owing to the bad condition of the roads there were not many visiting brethren and several of the speeches at the banquet had to be abandoned. However, those present spent a pleasant evening. The following officers were installed :— W.M., W. C. Richardson; I.P.M., J. E. Wallace; S. W., W. M. Kernary; J. W., W. Wagar, I.G., A. Hannah, O.S.G., H. Steel; Treasurer, W. B. Richardson; Secretary, W. Hinchey; S.D., A. R. Black; I.D., G. H. Richardson.

HAWLEY

Our popular teacher, Miss Galt, was in Ottawa during the Christmas holidays, visiting her uncle, Mr. Hagarty. She also attended a reunion of teachers at the Normal School.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Miller and young son, spent New Year's at Mr. Clement's. Mrs. Miller and baby, stayed for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fretts and two sons were visiting her parents at Corbyville, on Sunday.

There will be no Sunday School on Sunday. The annual meeting of officers will be held after the preaching service.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay of Newburgh are new residents in our neighborhood.

The Maple Leaf Women's Institute meets at the home of Mrs. W. G. Fretts, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cronkwright are spending the winter with their children, Mrs. Burns, at Trenton.

Mr. Dennis O'Connor, Toronto, has been visiting his son, Mr. Ed. O'Connor.

An Oil of Merit. — Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a true combination and it won and kept public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Jan. 8. — School reopened on Wednesday morning of last week, with the teacher Miss Kathleen Campbell of Glenvale, in charge. The school had been closed a week before the close of the term, on account of an outbreak of scarlet fever in the village.

Service in the United Church was cancelled on Sunday morning and throughout the whole appointment on account of the absence of the pastor, Rev. D. M. Stinson, due to the death of a relative.

George Conboy of the C. N. R. section crew, is confined to his home through an attack of scarlet fever.

EMERALD

Emerald, Jan. 7. — The Islanders are happy to know that the ice here is found and is safe for horses and cars, although there has not been much driving done, on account of the slippery condition of the roads.

We regret the passing of Mr. S. K. Tugwell at Selby, on December 23rd. He was well known here as well as the part of the Island in which he had always lived. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Nelson Instant is ailing at the time of writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jee Hart and baby son, Noel, are visiting at Mrs P. Drumgould's.

DEPRESSED BY ACUTE ACIDITY

There can surely be no doubt about the effectiveness of a remedy for acidity that can give such permanent relief as in this woman's case :—

"I suffered for many years from acidity in various forms," she writes. "At last it became so acute that every morning I woke with a gnawing pain and a great depression of spirits. I tried Kruschen Salts, and the effect was magical. The pain subsided and the depression lifted like a cloud. I have taken the daily dose of Kruschen ever since. That was about five years ago, and the Kruschen does not lose its effect"—(Miss) E. M. H.

Kruschen is so effective with acidity because it neutralises acid, takes all the torment out of it, and gently expels it from the system. And by stimulating your organs of elimination to perfect regular action, Kruschen will prevent this harmful acid from ever accumulating again. After that you'll experience no more misery after meals.

DORLAND

Dorland, Jan. 6. — On account of the unfavorable condition of the weather and roads, the Christmas service was held in the United Church. The attendance at the W. M. S. social evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Magee, on Wednesday evening, was small.

Many voters did not get out on Monday, as the roads were unsafe for unshod horses. Some were impassable for motor cars, according to report and travel of any kind was difficult anywhere.

Mr. J. W. Duffett entered the field for the first time and led the polls. Messrs. G. A. Magee, George Hested and William Reynolds are the other councilmen.

The condition of Reeve Johnston continues to be serious. He will be unable to take his seat at the council chamber for some time.

The local schools have reopened. Miss Henderson of Wolfe Island is in charge of No. 3, in place of Miss English of Kingston, who resigned.

Miss Marion Roblin has returned to Peterboro Normal School after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Roblin.

Mrs. L. F. Bogart and Louise returned to Napanee on Monday, after visiting Mrs. R. M. Roblin. Mrs. Bogart had the misfortune to fall and break her ankle, during her stay.

Miss S. Price has returned to her home at Selby after spending a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Magee.

The rain on Friday carried much of the snow and left the roads in the condition. Motorists experienced some thrilling adventures during the week due to the ice, but Friday and Saturday helped to clear up the roads considerably.

The Bay of Quinte has been frozen over and safe for skating, for more than a week. A great many have availed themselves of splendid sport.

The January meeting of the Conway Women's Institute will be held Tuesday, at the home of Mrs J. A. Young, Sandhurst.

Conway community has the pleasure of enjoying a splendid skating rink this winter. Due to the efforts and generosity of the boys and residents of that section, splendid things have been accomplished and we are sure much good will come of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders and daughter, of Toronto, who were holiday guests at the parsonage, returned to their home, last week.

Lengthy Discussion About Town Auditors

The second regular meeting of the Town Council convened at the Council Chamber on Monday evening. All the members were present and Mayor Tustin was in the chair.

Following the reading and confirmation of the minutes, the clerk read the communications.

The first was from the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities, asking the Council to answer some questions concerning new forms of taxation, the association intends discussing at a meeting to be held in Toronto, February 20th and 21st. It was moved by Deputy Reeve Wilson and seconded by Reeve Hughson, the letter be filed.

A letter was received from the Ontario Society of Social Agencies asking that the Council send a delegation to a meeting concerning the care of feeble minded children being held at Ottawa, Thursday, January 18th. On motion of Deputy Reeve Wilson and Councillor Cowling, the letter was ordered filed.

Claims for Damages

A letter was read from A. E. Wilson & Co. advising that a number of claims for damages for injuries sustained by falling on icy streets, had been received from Mrs. Shaughnessy, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Andrews. The representative of the company, Mr. McKay, will be in the town about January 21st and will investigate the claims at that time.

A letter was read from J. M. Simpson, K.C., representing Mrs. Sarah McLaughlin, advising the town that Mrs. McLaughlin intends to hold the corporation liable for injuries resulting from her fall on the icy walk, in which she sustained broken bones. The matter was referred to the insurance company.

Finance Committee Reports

Deputy Reeve Wilson reported for the Finance Committee, that a meeting had been held and recommended by Reeve Hughson, authorizing the treasurer to advance $1,000 to the school board to meet payments as required, on account of the current year's requisition. Carried.

Deputy Reeve Wilson reported the amount of insurance carried on the town property, as follows: Town Hall, $35,000, contents, $5,000; Public Library, $8,000; Electric Factory, $15,800; Fire Hall, $3,000, contents, $2,500; Fire Station, Old Home Road, $600, contents $1000; Bathing Houses, $500; Office and Weigh Scales, $1,000. Also that the insurance carried on the firemen, police officers and burglary and hold-up insurance on the town officials.

Auditors' Appointment Questioned

Deputy Reeve Wilson, as chairman of the Finance Committee, opened up the question of the appointment of the auditors of the town's books. He felt the matter had been dealt with in too hurried a manner and that the competency of the firm of Oscar Hudson & Co, to carry on the audit had not been established. He also said it was suggested that some member of the firm was related to one of the councillors sponsoring their selection.

Reeve Hughson, in speaking on the matter, said that on Friday of last week he found that the clerk had not advised Oscar Hudson & Co. of their appointment as auditors. He understood also that some doubt had been expressed as to their standing and ability to act as auditors. On Friday he wrote a letter to Mr. Ellis of the Municipal Audit Department, asking for information concerning the firm. On Monday he received a telegram in reply stating that both Oscar Hudson Co. were a reputable firm, capable of conducting a proper audit. Reeve Hughson objected to the town officials not carrying out the instructions of the council.

He said the town hall gang were trying to run the town's affairs, but that as long as he was elected to represent the people he would have something to say about it. If the town officials would not carry out the council's orders either he or they would resign. He also disclaimed any connection with the firm of Oscar Hudson & Co.

Councillor Morden said the firm had been recommended to him by his cousin, a man of good judgment and ability and that he had no interest in them in any way.

Deputy Reeve Wilson, again speaking on the question, advised the council that on Friday last a meeting of the finance committee was held, at which he was authorized to write Hon. G. H. Challies, the provincial auditor, to secure an opinion as to the standing of the firm of Oscar Hudson & So. He had done this but had not, as yet, received a reply. He could see no reason why anyone else should take up the matter, as he was quite able to look after the affairs of his committee. He felt there was no great rush concerning the audit.

Mayor Tustin ventured the opinion that, to stop all the controversy, a government audit should be requested. The general opinion of the council was that the interests of the town would best be served by an independent firm of auditors doing the work. They would help the town officials to set up new forms of bookkeeping if the present system was not deemed sufficient to give the council all the information they needed.

It was finally moved by Reeve Hughson, seconded by Councillor Morden, and carried, that the clerk advise Oscar Hudson & Co. that they had been appointed auditors of the town's books at a fee of $300.00, which amount is to incude all their expenses.

Streets Committee Report

Councillor Morden reported that the streets committe met on Thursday afternoon and recommended the following appointments: Thomas Powell as streets superintendent, at a salary of $720.00 per annum, being $12.00 per week during the winter months and $15.00 per week during the summer.

Frank Babcock, Phil Hearns and Henry Grieve as street cleaners at a wage of $10 00 per week.

Councillor Loffman, chairman of the town property reported for his committee, and recommended that William Markle be engaged as caretaker of the sewage disposal works at a salary of $200.00 per year.

Social Welfare Report

Councillor Exley, chairman of social welfare, reported that his committee had met with the central relief committee and had considered the cases of the 53 families on relief and had made the necessary recommendations. He reported that ten men had been sent to the northern road camps.

Reeve Hughson reported that he had heard that some men on relief were having difficulty in paying their rent as they were only receiving food vouchers. He had been told that two men only were getting rent assistance, and felt there should be no discrimination. Reeve Hughson was advised by the chairman of the social welfare committee, that the individual cases were considered by the central relief committee and only the rents were being paid in many cases.

By-laws Passed

A by-law appointing Thos. Powell street superintendent at a salary of $720.00 per annum, and a by-law appointing Thos. Powell as sewage disposal inspector, was given their several readings and passed.

Deputy Reeve Wilson introduced the question of passing a by-law to govern the keeping of pigs in the town limits. The matter was referred to the finance committee to confer with the clerk and prepare a by-law which should be brought before the council at a subsequent meeting.

It was moved by Councillor Morden and seconded by Reeve Hughson, and carried, that the several standing committees be authorized to purchase whatever materials were necessary to carry on the work of their committees.

It was moved by Councillor Morden and seconded by Reeve Hughson, and carried, that the sum of $15.00 be placed in the hands of the clerk, the treasurer and the tax collector, as petty cash.

Council adjourned.

Further Charges Against Napanee Youth in New York

Chief of Police Watts received a communication from Dunkirk, N.Y., last week, advising him that Maurice Sager, the Napanee boy who is being held in that town on several charges, has recently added another offence to his list.

Sager, who is wanted in Napanee for the theft of a car, belonging to Dr. D. R. Hall, and on a charge of theft of poultry, had two charges against him in Dunkirk, N.Y. (1) possession of a stolen automobile; (2)possession of a firearm. To these he has added "attempted rape."

On the night of December 30, 1933, Sager and another prisoner, located in the court cage at the county jail in Chautauqua County, N.Y., attempted to escape. They managed to wrest off an iron bar, with which they destroyed the toilet in the corner of the cage. Sager armed himself with the lead ball from the toilet and crawled through the opening previously made in the cage. He was prepared to assault the under sheriff, who was warned it time by a trusty in the corridor.

The charges against Sager will be heard before the Grand Jury at Mayville, N.Y., on Monday, February 5th.

Chief of Police Watts will attend the trial to give evidence concerning the theft of the car.

Interesting Romance Napanee Resident's Niece

Here's a most exciting romance. And, it means the engagement and almost immediate marriage of Marjorie Sinclair, well-known Toronto girl, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sinclair of Crescent Road, to Thomas Gall, of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Last summer, Marjorie went abroad. So did the young man from Santa Fe. They met on board ship, she going to London and he to Germany. At Havre they parted, but to reappear in Paris and London.

They returned together to Toronto and by that time they knew it was love—and were engaged. . . . Marjorie got her engagement ring at Christmas time in a quaint suitcase which had been the engagement ring of the groom's grandmother) and they planned their wedding for the spring. . . . However, owing to the illness of the groom's father, the young couple have decided to be wed next Saturday, in Chicago, the home of the groom's parents. . . . After the ceremony, they will leave by motor (the gift of the bride's father) for their Spanish home (the gift of the groom's father) in Santa Fe, New Mexico. . . . And, if that isn't exciting, we give up. Toronto Daily Star.

Dutch Soloist Miss Van Geuns Delights Audience

Miss Cornelia Van Geun, the Dutch singer, who appeared at the Napanee Town Hall on Thursday evening, made a splendid impression on the large audience which greeted her.

Her personality was altogether charming. Her voice was rich and sweet and showed every evidence of quality and training. Her arrangements were picturesque and together with her clever descriptive power, created a delightful setting for the numbers she sang.

Miss VanGeun sang all her songs in the original Dutch, but the descriptive preface which she gave each, made them very understandable. The story she wove around her songs provided also a brief glimpse of the history and religious life of the period which produced the song.

As a group of ancient love ballads in which Miss VanGeun accompanied herself, she created a realistic atmosphere of considerable charm. She was gowned in a full skirted white bodiced dress of black silk and wore a beautiful paisley patterned cashmere shawl and the lovely Frenched headdress. Her singing and her costume served to carry her audience back to the days when the songs were originally sung.

Miss VanGeun's costumes attracted considerable comment. She explained their origin and wore them with perfect grace and fine effect. Some samples of her own drawings which were displayed at the entrance attracted considerable attention.

Miss VanGeun was introduced to the audience by Mrs. D. R. Hall, the Regent of the U.E.L. Chapter, I.O.D.E. Mrs. E. M. Black rendered a delightful service as the artist's accompanist.

Jack Adams Spends Week-end in Napanee

Mr. Jack Adams, Napanee's most popular citizen, spent the week end in town.

Mr. Adams stopped off in Kingston for a visit to an eye specialist, on his way from Montreal to Detroit. A report that his eyesight was failing caused considerable concern to Jack's friends in Napanee, by saying he was likely to lose the sight of his eyes.

Jack advises us that he is no such good thing and has been giving him some trouble but the eye specialist assures him that he is not going blind by any means.

In all probability he will find it necessary to resort to the use of glasses in the near future, but his eyesight is not seriously impaired.

Kingston Recommends Voucher Use In Direct Relief

A number of recommendations went forward from the Public Welfare Board to the City Council on Friday last Prominent among them was the suggestion that all direct relief be by voucher and that no work be undertaken to create relief jobs unless there is reason to believe that the work will be of some use in the near future.

It was also suggested that the work at the Montreal street park be discontinued forthwith. The recommendation followed a report indicating that the 122 men employed there cost the city $3,124.80 last month, which sum was considerably greater than the 75 per cent. greater than the cost of direct relief to the same group.

The report of the Board also ensured the improvident who have an income during some months of the year, but fail to provide for the months in which they are always out of work. They should be careful to let no relief funds reach them, it was stated.

Orange Lodge Elect District Officers

On Tuesday afternoon, January representatives of the District Orange Lodges convened in the Napanee Lodge Room for the annual district meeting.

The main business transacted the gathering was the election officers. The new officers for the ensuing year are:—

District Master — Ronald Bailey, Forest Mills.

Deputy District Master — Wallace Hall, Napanee.

Chaplain — Wm. Ballance, Selby.

Recording Secretary— Charles M. Mitchell, Forest Mills.

Financial Secretary — Wm. Gordon, Bayview.

Treasurer — John McConnell, Forest Mills.

Director — Arthur Waddington, Selby.

Minister of Agriculture Hon. Robert Weir, Reviews Situation

Honourable Robert Weir, in his annual survey of the agricultural industry for the past year, said: "We have inherited from the old year several very encouraging developments which happily promise progressive expansion as this new year unfolds itself. We find ourselves, today, as an agricultural people, comparatively better off than most of our competitors in the world's markets."

Produce Prices Improve

"We find immediately behind us a year in which both farm produce indices and manufactured goods' indices show a steady, though moderate recovery from their respective lows. The point I wish to emphasize here as containing a measure of encouragement, is that, while they touched unusually low spots in 1933 relatively, farm products' prices showed more substantial improvement than those for manufactured goods. Comparing the indices for farm produce for the eleven months past of 1933 with those for 1932, we find an improvement of 2.4 per cent., whereas in manufactured goods the improvement is 3 per cent. Again, comparing the index for January with the index for November, 1933, farm produce show the substantial improvement of 10.2 per cent., as compared with an improvement of 4.1 per cent. in manufactured goods. Thus, unsatisfactory as it still is in comparison with normal times, the proportionate power of the farmer, in terms of what he has to sell, is now advancing definitely. Unfortunately, in some areas the farmer has little to sell, and except for live stock and live stock products, cash sales are hard to secure."

Empire Trade Grows

"Our exports of agricultural and animal products to all Empire countries, for the twelve months ended October 31, 1933, show a very substantial increase. Exports to the United Kingdom alone, for that period, were valued at well over $142,000,000, as compared with $129,000,000 for the period of 1932, and of the contribution to the increase in our domestic exports was of a fairly general character, the exportation of cattle, pig products, hides, wheat and vegetables, butter, eggs, bacon and canned goods, all contributing to the increase. . . . Our cattle to Great Britain, The United Kingdom last year, bought from Canada, wel lover a third of cattle. The year previous they purchased only a fifth head. Canada also exported to Great Britain in 1933, 71 millions pounds of bacon, as compared with about 41 million pounds the previous year.

Canadian Prices Better Than United States Prices

Mr. Weir also contrasted the prevailing prices for farm produce in Canada and the United States. At the time he was writing, prices at Toronto, for select bacons were $7.25 and Chicago, $3.63. Cattle, in Toronto, were $6.10 and in Chicago, $5.50. The lamb market in Canada was also higher than in the United States. Creamery butter in Canada was 23½ to 23¾ cents, while in New York it was 15½ to 16 cents.

In concluding his survey, Mr. Weir said: "We hope during this new year, to give a further lead in agriculture and to take some definite steps to improve the market situation for the producer, thereby increasing his bargaining power, and thus aid the wheels of industry elsewhere as well."

Increase in Cattle Prices Will Help Canadian Farmers

Higher prices for cattle and a shortage next spring, will mean fewer cattle for export, but more money in farmers' pockets. This is the gist of a statement by one of Canada's outstanding cattle experts, who sums it all up with: "Times are getting better; the people are buying more meat."

"About 25 per cent less winter feeder cattle were sent to Ontario for winter fattening than last year," he said. "Feed in Ontario, owing to the dry season, is much scarcer than last year. In some parts there was a fair crop of hay, but everywhere there was a light crop of corn. Barley is selling at Ontario country points at 40 cents a bushel and oats at a correspondingly high figure.

"The farmer cannot afford to buy both his cattle and his grain. Therefore as he had less grain to buy, he bought less cattle, and when grain was dear he bought every bushel he fed. The result is that a large proportion of cattle are not being fattened, but are simply being carried through the winter in a thin condition.

"With regard to the western situation, there are all short of feed and the extremely cold weather has affected the cattle seriously. The first cattle storm came October 23 and there have been storms almost without cessation ever since.

Prices To Go Up

"Therefore it is inevitable that prices both east and west will be higher. First, because of the shortage of feed. Secondly, because the farmers have been feeding cattle for a number of years at a great loss, and have become discouraged in raising them. Thirdly, a year ago hogs were 7½ cents a pound; today they are 7½, and as pork advances, the demand for beef increases, and with the demand, inevitably the price.

"It would seem therefore that the number of cattle for export would be less. Canada itself consumes some 1,750,000 cattle every year. Imports last year, as yet, are reported only 50,000 in 1933. Any slight increase in the consumption of beef tends to absorb much of the exportable surplus.

"The result is that those farmers that the efforts of Great Britain to keep out Canadian cattle and encourage home production, is an idle gesture — Canada will have few cattle to ship.

"Times are better, and that means people are buying more meat."

Province of Ontario Debenture Issue Sold

$40,000,000 Issue Taken Up in One Day

Toronto, January 15, 1934.— One of the first acts of Premier George S. Henry on assuming portfolio of Provincial Treasurer is his announcement of a new $40,000,000 Province of Ontario debenture issue, dated January 16th, 1934, and offered in three maturities, choice of which is optional with the subscribers.

1. Five-year 4½% Debentures due January 16th, 1939. Denominations $1,000, price 99 and interest; yielding 4.60% to maturity.

2. Ten-year 4½% Debentures due January 16th, 1944. Denominations $100, $500 and $1,000; price 97 and interest; yielding 4.78% to maturity.

Subscriptions for the debentures will be received at any branch of the Chartered Banks, at all branches of the Province of Ontario Savings Offices and by recognized bond dealers and stock brokers.

Chance for Small Investor

"As will be seen," said Premier Henry, in announcement issued by the press," this issue, in accordance with the policy followed on our previous issues, provides for the sale of small and varied class of investor. By the provision of denominations of $100 and $500, in addition to the usual $1,000, the small" investor, equally with the large, is given the opportunity of investment in a security backed by all the resources of the Province, and of a choice of three separate maturities is offered so as to meet the requirements of the buyer who desires to fix by maturities as well as the one who prefers a longer term.

"I question if many investments have the almost impregnable security that is contained in the assets of Ontario. In addition to this security of principal the rate of interest is very attractive. I have no doubt our citizens will realize what an opportunity this offers of constructive and profitable investment.

Purpose of Issue

"The proceeds of the issue will be used to retire short-term indebtedness incurred for capital expenditures of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission and of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission, for advances to the Agricultural Development Board and for unemployment relief. One of the issues to be retired from the proceeds of the loan is a $15,000,000 short term obligation which matures in New York late November and which was repatriated recently when funds were at an approximate parity. In view of the uncertainties of the present exchange situation it is greatly to the advantage of the Province that this obligation should be refunded here and held by our own people.

"Due to its many attractive features, I am confident that the issue will meet a ready reception from the investing public," concluded Premier Henry, "and that all who contemplate purchasing those debentures not to delay in entering their orders."

Premier Henry announced Monday evening that the 40 million dollar issue offered for sale on Monday, was completely sold up by evening of the first day.

Installation of Officers Order of Eastern Star Interesting Ceremony

Mrs. Asselstine Installed as New Matron

The Installation of the officers for 1934 of Napanee Chapter No. 151 Order of the Eastern Star, was a ceremony of considerable impressiveness, on the evening of Tuesday, January 9th. It was witnessed by a large number of the chapter's members and visitors from Belleville, Kingston and Saskatchewan and Alberta chapters.

The installation ceremony was under the capable management of Mrs. Essie Naylor of Belleville, Chapter No. 85, past worthy matron, assisted by Mrs. Taylor, Past District Deputy Grand Matron, also of Belleville, Mrs. Frank Herrington, formerly of Napanee, now of Picton, Past D. D. Grand Matron, also Mr. B. M. Black and Mr. Walter Thompson, Past Worthy Patrons of Napanee Chapter. Mrs. Russell Smith, Past Worthy Matron of Belleville, was installing marshall. Mrs. Edith Bloomfield, Provincial Chaplin, Kingston, fulfilled the duties of chaplain, Miss Marion Wheeler of Frontenac Chapter, officiated as organist and the Past Worthy Matron, Miss Edith Taverner, as Warden.

Officers Installed

Worthy Matron, Mrs. T. M. Asselstine; Worthy Patron, Mr. W. D. Pennell; Associate Matron, Mrs. Shore Loynes; Associate Patron, Mr. J. W. Thompson; Conductress, Mrs. C. M. Stratton; Secretary, Mrs. W. A. Thompson; Treasurer, Mrs. Blake Gilbert; Chaplain, Mrs. F. S. Scott; Marshall, Miss Hilda McGreer; Organist, Mrs. H. M. Black; Warden Mrs. C. L. Sharp; Sentinel, Miss Eleanor Aylsworth; Star-Points, Ada, Mrs. E. C. Hogarth; Ruth, Miss Jean Anderson; Esther, Mrs. Karl Denyes; Martha, Mrs. B. Seymour and Electa, Mrs. Ralph Hawkins.

Presentations to Officers

Installed for the year, Mrs. Asselstine looked lovely in a gown of white appliqued net with touches of silver. She carried a beautiful bouquet of pink roses and carnations, a gift from her sister, Mrs. Bloomfield and Mrs. Allison. Mrs. C. M. Stratton presented Mrs. Asselstine with a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, a gift from her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Reid.

Mrs. Asselstine's initial address from the chair was most inspiring. She thanked the members for their confidence in electing her to the office and assured them of her earnest desire to give her best service and efforts to the order.

Mrs. Loynes presented Miss Wheeler of Kingston, the organist of the evening, with a personal gift from the new worthy matron. At the installation of the Star points, the five members were presented with floral pointe. The installing officer and marshal gave to each point a beautiful charge, impressing on them the important duties of their office.

At the conclusion of the installation ceremony, the past officer's jewel was presented to the retiring worthy matron, Mrs. Fred Taverner, by her daughter, Miss Edith Taverner, also a past worthy matron.

Banquet Served After Installation

After the closing of the Chapter session, the seventy-five members and guests repaired to the dining hall, where a bountiful lunch was served by Mrs. T. H. Herrington and her committee.

The tables were artistically arranged in a color scheme of yellow and green. Yellow daffodils were placed in silver bowls; green candles in silver holders and pretty yellow and green baskets filled with candy favors. The head table was lovely with a large basket of flowers and the gift bouquets of the newly elected worthy matron.

The Worthy Patron, W. D. Pennell presided as toastmaster, and toasts were proposed to the guests, the grand chapter and past and present officers. The toasts were proposed by Mrs. F. J. Taverner, Mrs. Shore Loynes and Mrs. R. Sinclair. They were responded to Mrs. Ward of Alberta Mrs. Frank Herrington and Mr. E. S. Parrott.

During the program, instrumental numbers were played by Miss H. M. Black, Miss Hilda McGreer, Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Sinclair.

The retiring Matron, Mrs. R. E. Sexsmith, was unavoidably prevented from attending the meeting and his jewel will be presented at a later date.

10 Napanee Men Get Employment on Roads

The men equipped themselves and were given transportation to Camp 4C2, north of Kaladar. Every man is given free board and lodging and a cash payment of $10.00 per month. According to reports which have come from the camps, the board is good and the accommodations comfortable. The work is, of course, road building and consequently not light work, but the hours are not long.

Firemen Answer Call On Wednesday

On Wednesday afternoon, about 3.30 o'clock, the firemen had a run, when a call was put in from the box at Cliff's corner, on Centre Street.

Answering the call, it was found that there was a chimney fire at the home of James Hartwick, near the Napanee Iron Works.

There was no serious damage done.

Firemen Answer Third Call in Week

About 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening the firemen answered their third call within the week. The fire in this case, was in a small building near the river front, being Dennison's ice house at the foot of Robert Street. The building was used for storing furniture & ice cutting implements. The origin of the fire is unknown. The plough was saved but building and all other contents were totally destroyed.

High Quality of Cheese Made in L. & A. County

Win Third Place in the Province of Ontario

For the year 1933, Lennox and Addington held third place for quality in the list of cheese producing counties, recently announced by Joseph Burgess, chief of Division of Dairy Manufactures, Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa.

Prince Edward County attained first place and Hastings, second. The difference in the three leading counties' scores was just a fraction of a point.

	No. Boxes	Avge. Score.
Prince Edward	25,940	92.944
Hastings	61,955	92.838
Lennox & Addington	33,293	92.818
Northumberland	37,709	92.790
Carleton	46,378	92.702
Peterborough	10,975	92.659
Victoria	1,196	92.623
Frontenac	64,097	92.531
Sudbury	386	91.487
Glengarry	55,322	92.438
Grenville	31,443	92.438
Nipissing	2,463	91.413
Lanark	23,204	92.373
Dundas	54,108	92.325
Stormont	31,384	92.315
Russell	47,488	92.215
Leeds	86,779	92.244
Prescott	70,826	92.236
Renfrew	4,452	92.180

Cheese Quality Improves

The quality of the cheese produced in Canada this year is the best it has ever been since compulsory grading for export was initiated in 1925, and the Dominion has established a new record up to the end of October with 94.63 per cent. first grade cheese. This represents an increase of 1.13 per cent. over the same period of 1932, and it is also about one per cent. higher than any previous record during the past eleven years. The actual increase in the percentage of first grade cheese during this time is 16.62, but this does not tell the whole story, as the quantity of Canadian first grade cheese is of a much higher standard now than in the early years of grading. The flavour and texture of the cheese and the appearance of the shipments have much improved.

Interesting Relic Acquired by Mr. E. C. Hogeboom

Mr. E. C. Hogeboom of Conway, has recently come into possession of an interesting family heirloom. Last week he brought into the "Beaver" office a cane bearing a silver plate, with the following inscription:

It was originally the property of his maternal great-grandfather, the late William Bell, who came to Canada in the latter part of the eighteenth century, with the U. E. Loyalist settlers and took up land near Sandhurst.

The cane has a handle made from part of the horn of a deer, shot on land now owned by Geo. Gurnett, at Sandhurst. It is attached to a wooden staff of peculiar formation. It is uncertain what the wood is, but it is grooved deeply, as if it had grown with a vine tightly twined about it.

The cane was willed to Mr. Hogeboom by his uncle, the late W. W. Bell, who recently died in the southern states. Some thirty years ago, Mr. Bell was Chief of Police of Napanee.

WORTH WATCHING

One of the features of the N. R. A., which Canadians should watch with deep concern is that which emanated from Washington, a week ago. It was then announced that one of the first policies which the Government will undertake this year, is the removal of farmers from the marginal and submarginal farm lands. It is the purpose of the Government to spend about $50,000,000 for the purchase of lands in the Great Lakes area, the Appalachian and Piedmont section of the eastern seaboard and certain plains of Kansas and Nebraska. The purpose is to get the farmers off the land which is non-productive, and which, as is becoming increasingly evident, never should have been opened up for farming purposes. No definite scheme has yet been put forward as to how the people whose lands are bought, will be absorbed into productive farming. But the experts are busy and will soon make their plans known. If some sensible way is taken to get these dispossessed, the result should be worth the time and money.

We, in Canada, have a lot of lands like that. There are tens of thousands of acres that ought never to have been opened for farming. Places like the back part of our own county, where it is impossible to eke out the scantiest sort of livelihood, and where the people are necessarily forced to live in a condition of enforced poverty all the year round. The result is that these little communities, with no fresh infusion from the outside, tend to intermarry. They create a continuous social problem with which the state, some day or other, will have to deal.

Among the many daring things of the Roosevelt administration, this is one of the most daring as it involves the uprooting of numerous families and giving them a start in a new place. If he succeeds in this, he will have succeeded in one of the most difficult of all tasks.

We in Canada will watch the experiment with keen interest, and wish it well.

THE CANVASS AGAINST BEER AND WINE

Last week a canvass of the voters of Napanee, was held. All citizens over twenty years of age were presented with a card which read as follows: "To Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Premier of Ontario and Members of his Cabinet. Dear Sirs:— As a citizen of the Province of Ontario over twenty years of age, I hereby enter an emphatic protest against the proposal to permit the sale of beer ... in hotels, restaurants, or clubs, or in any other place for consumption on the premises."

A group of people among whom were a fine group of younger men, presented these to the voters of Napanee and received approximately a thousand signed cards. These have been duly forwarded to the Prime Minister.

The canvass is part of a non-political Provincial-wide campaign, planned to secure an estimate of public opinion. Five hundred thousand of these cards have been presented to the Prime Minister and his Cabinet, during the last few weeks.

One feature which is often lost sight of by the unbiased observer, in efforts of this sort, is that the temperance people who, on every occasion are in the forefront of the attack against liquor interests, are moved by nothing but the highest motives. They have nothing to gain—no financial gain—in the object they have in view. Their whole concern is in the welfare of the citizens, and particularly in the welfare of the young people who are soon to be the men and women of the country.

On the other hand, strong financial interests, who see millions to be made out of liquor are willing to spend lavishly in order to influence governments and the makers, because of the great financial returns they will secure later on. This was evident in the United States, when the movement for repeal was never seriously considered until the big financial interests began pouring their millions into it. In Great Britain, by an agreed levy on every gallon of beer that is brewed, the liquor interests have available an annual fund of $50,000,000, which is to be used for propaganda purposes to induce the selling of more beer, and thus to enrich the coffers of the brewers. The sum of $750,000 has already been placed with one advertising agency there, for this purpose.

In Canada, the same financial motive has been the driving force of the liquor interests in every attack of the temperance sentiment of the Province. The Royal Commission investigating the customs irregularities, proved that to each of the major political parties, huge gifts were given in the hope of favorable legislation. The so-called Moderation League which did so much to persuade the people of Ontario to vote against the O. T. A. in the interests of true temperance in this, their latest drive for more beer, have withdrawn the mask from their face and set forth not as the champions of temperance but as the champions, rather, of a wide-open province. It is no secret that organizations in our town have been approached for contributions to their funds with the promise of orders for commodities, if the beer policy is successful.

The temperance people have nothing like that to promise. They have no financial interest at stake. They have no great fund on which they can draw to influence the governments and deceive the electorate. There is nothing but an unselfish interest in the character of our citizens. That a voluntary canvas of the town secured a thousand signatures against any loosening up of the L. C. A. should be a fairly good hint to our leaders that we, in Napanee, do not want any more sale of intoxicating liquor than that which we now have.

A PROPHET'S VOICE

At last the Canadian institutions of wealth and business leaders have heard a word of warning. That the word was long delayed did not detract from the emphatic nature of its delivery. While Hon. H. H. Stevens gave his great speech at the Royal York, on Monday, he made history. And if the business leaders are wise, they will interpret that statement as a not too gentle warning that the days of "Laissez Faire" in Canadian business are a thing of the past, as they are in every other nation in the world. Speaking as a responsible Minister of the Government, there is no doubt but that Mr. Stevens had verified all his facts and figures. He knew full well that they would be challenged. And for that reason, he was fully prepared to stand his ground.

With a courage and fearlessness that is too often lacking in public men, he evaded the ordinary platitudes and cut at the root of the ills from which Canada, in keeping with the rest of the world, is suffering. Mr. Stevens is the first man in a responsible position in the Government, to deal realistically with the present causes of depression. Nor did he confine himself to general statements. As with the courage of a crusader, he named them and produced the evidence. Specifically, he pointed out the suffering which unfair competition entails. He scored the manufacturer's policy of selling abroad below cost of production at home. He named the newsprint industry as guilty of that. He mentioned specifically the evils contingent on mass buying by the retailer—lower wages, sweated labor, and the ruin of the appreciated human values, along with the destruction of the small independent merchant. He specified unfair tactics on the part of the shoe industry, the great shop conditions actually existing in the ladies' dress-making establishments, and the forcing to the wall of small bakers by the great national bakeries.

We, in this part of the country, are particularly interested in his condemnation of the present tactics of the big packing houses. He charges them with responsibility for the low price paid the farmer for live stock. His words are worth quoting in full:—

"I shall doubtless be challenged at once, but I recently warned the meat-packing industry that, in my opinion, they were in large measure responsible for the low price paid to the farmer producer for the beef we put on the market. I do not hesitate to say that no farmer can have funds with which to buy the things he requires with beef at 10½ cents per pound on the farm. It simply can't be done.

"The price of beef to the producers is supposed to be fixed on the livestock markets in open competition. This is decidedly not done." Mr. Stevens detailed the "direct buying" methods of the abattoirs, whose representatives go on the farms directly, and he asserted: "Between 50 and 60 per cent. of the beef and hogs go direct from farm to abattoir. It is suggested that in such a direct transaction, the producer avoids some of the trouble, risk and delay on the livestock exchange, and that he will be paid the next day's market price. It sounds all right. The result, however, is that the abattoir peas are comfortably filled and their buyer goes to the livestock market in no particular rush to bid. Why should he? In the old days buyers made the pens bang back, awaiting the initial bids of the packers as to what the market was. That fact percolates over the wires to Winnipeg—which latter market naturally follows. Fair competition goes out of existence. The stock exchange and the practice of filling abattoir pens by direct shipment destroys the reason for and function of the livestock exchanges as we have built it. We consume, approximately, 90 per cent. of our beef domestically. Surely it is within our power to raise the price to a living point for the farmers of our country?"

This speech, which must be taken to heart by our financiers and big business houses, is at once a challenge to the Government and a wonderful guide to action. These words will have ring in the ears of Canadian people as, perhaps, the turning point in the relation of Government to business.

"I am a Conservative in politics, in business, and in my general outlook. I believe very strongly in private property rights and individual initiative—which I consider the best method of handling the business of a nation. At the same time, I realize that greed, selfishness and avarice cannot rear a State, and that other delinquencies, common to human nature, will creep into any system. At the same time, I have no sympathy with the destructive arguments that, in order to correct obvious abuses within the economic system, the best way is to destroy the system. I still believe that democracy is the best system; the most enduring system, economically, socially and politically, that any country can have. I challenge the business men of this country to face some of the evils that have developed into a cancer. I warn them that, unless they are destroyed, they will destroy the system."

TASCHEREAU'S PROPOSALS

Premier Taschereau has intimated that at the Dominion-Provincial Conference, meeting in Ottawa this week, he will propose that the law against gambling be amended to permit a sweepstake to be held, each year, for the purpose of raising money for charity purposes. Every year this question of a sweepstake is debated in the House. But now that the proposal is made before a group of leaders from all over Canada, it will be taken more seriously than when it is debated in the Senate chamber.

Already, the proposal has aroused a storm of opposition. Premier Henry, Mayor Stewart of Toronto, Attorney-General Major, of Manitoba, opposing it, while the Mayor of Hamilton, the Premier of Alberta and several others have expressed themselves as in favor of it.

The arguments advanced by Premier Taschereau are that it will aid in financing relief costs, it will draw money to Canada, and is an easy way of raising funds.

Undoubtedly, each Province, separately, and the Dominion as a whole, is finding the increasing drain on the finances for relief a serious problem. Any proposal of a legitimate method of raising money will get a sympathetic consideration. There are deeper factors that should be taken into account, however, than the ease with which money can be secured. The gambling instinct, the desire to get something for nothing, the hope of securing great wealth at a single stroke, is, in itself, one of the weaknesses of human nature. Governments and social agencies should be concerned to protect people against the baser instincts, rather than to capitalize them for their own purposes. In Great Britain, where gambling is a national habit, it is regarded as well, as a national menace. The Right Hon. Ramsay Macdonald has stated his views, as follows: "Gambling flourishes with the decadence of character, with the distaste for serious effort and the spread of drunkenness, all pointing to an impoverishment of personality and bareness of the inner chambers of the mind." Sir Robert Borden, a leader in the world of commerce, claims that, "it is generally admitted that the atmosphere created by the general spirit of gambling leads to extravagance and general lessening of self-control and a reduction in individual effort to work and save. It is my conviction that even if a man gets his money by gambling, it is at the expense and possibly at the ruin of others."

It is this spirit projected into business which was a contributing factor to the crash of 1929, from which we are still suffering. It is one of the ironies of the situation that it is now proposed to sponsor another gambling orgy to cure those who are suffering from the last.

The other suggestion of Premier Taschereau is that, in future, all costs of relief should be borne by the Dominion and the Provinces, jointly. He is of the opinion that the municipalities should not be called on to bear any of the cost of relief. Last year the cost of relief in Napanee was around Ten Thousand Dollars, of this amount the Dominion paid one-third, the Province paid one-third and the Town, a third. So that the direct cost the Town was in the neighborhood of Three Thousand Dollars. If the suggestion of Premier Taschereau is that, in future, all costs of relief should be borne by the Dominion and the Provinces, jointly. He is of the opinion that the municipalities should not be called on to bear any of the cost of relief. Last year the cost of relief in Napanee was around Ten Thousand Dollars, of this amount the Dominion paid one-third, the Province paid one-third and the Town, a third. So that the direct cost the Town was in the neighborhood of Three Thousand Dollars. If the suggestion of Premier Taschereau should prevail, then the Town would save the three thousand dollars, and pass it over to the Government for payment.

At the present time, with taxes hard to collect, and every effort being made to curtail expenses, this proposal will receive favorable consideration from the municipalities. Anything which will lower the tax rate is to be welcomed.

But over against this direct saving to the town, there are other possibilities which must enter the picture. One is that it is a well known weakness of human nature to be extravagant with other people's money. So long as the municipality has to pay a share of relief, and the councils are responsible to the voter they will use every effort to keep costs to a minimum. It is quite conceivable that if the relief committee were not in any way responsible to the electors, the costs would materially increase.

In addition to that, it is a mistake to suppose that because the payment of taxes is transferred from the Municipality to the Government, that we are getting out of debt. As a matter of fact, the money would have to be raised some way or other, and finally the burden falls on the back of the ordinary citizen.

Taking a long view of it, the present arrangement seems to be the best solution for a difficult situation.

HOME OWNERS NEED HELP

Most of the homes and farms and real estate of the country have taxes, principal monies and interest or insurance premiums owing upon them. Many good citizens have already lost their homes because they were behind with their payments. A much larger number are in the position that their properties may be taken from them whenever the mortgagees like to act. Every large municipality should entrust a special committee with the responsibility of finding ways and means of assisting struggling property owners. The matter of bailiffs' fees, cost of seizures and cost of redemption of property, the fairness of assessments, desirable changes in the law affecting foreclosures and many other questions could be taken up with advantage. Taxpayers should be assured that they will not lose their property or suffer needless expense merely because of rules or technicalities.—Toronto Daily Star.

CLOSER TRADE BONDS

There is growing appreciation of the fact, constantly emphasized by the Trade Commissioners in India and Britain, that the success of the Ottawa agreements must depend largely on the extent to which fiscal advantages are followed up by energetic action by manufacturers and traders in both countries. There is also, we believe, a wider desire for co-operation in trade as in other spheres than has been evident for many years. Sir William Clare-Lees, head of the Lancashire delegation whose members made such a favourable impression during their recent visit to India, has struck the right note on his return home. "We should recognize that we cannot get unless we give," he said. "Why buy cotton from America when we can buy it from India?" That is a new spirit for Lancashire, and one to which we hope India will respond.—Calcutta Statesman.

MUSSOLINI'S FINANCING

Mussolini has done it again. Government loans of 4,000,000,000 lire, roughly $330,000,000 was oversubscribed on the opening day, a week later the entire amount had been made to keep the books open, if necessary, for a full week. The terms certainly were "out of the window" with ease.

The genuine popularity of Mussolini's regime is constantly being demonstrated, in one way or another. This time the ready support of the investor is shown, and his real confidence in Italy's future under Mussolini's "benevolent despotism." We in Canada have reason to know the power a Napoleon must feel when a great national loan is oversubscribed, even in these difficult times.—Montreal Daily Star.

WORSE THAN WARS

A return from the Home Office, made in the British House of Commons recently, gives figures showing the seriousness of the situation that has developed in England and Wales through highway accidents. In nine months, 4,688 people were killed and 231,388 injured by accidents caused by vehicles and horses in those two countries.

Comparative statistics show vividly just what a menace highway accidents have become for this day. Up to the time the return in question was made, 48,400 people have been killed and 1,350,574 injured in Great Britain, a total of 1,404,974, or 300,084 more than all the British killed in the Great War.—Montreal Star.

Defence of War Still Being Made

"Democracy and modern economic changes are two forces which have entered the scheme of world affairs, the merging of which has built up a new realistic institution exerting a driving force that is changing social conditions, and threatening to become destructive in its influence on civilization," declared Prof. Arnold J. Toynbee, director of studies in the Royal Institute of International Affairs, London, in an address on war and its consequences, at the People's Forum, Montreal.

In his research into human reactions to war Professor Toynbee finds that today there is a realistic defence of war still being made. "The traditional view of war has been to be on the defensive," he said, "but the new theory, based on experience challenges the fundamental idea that the relation of war to social life is something fixed and invariable. Looking back during the last generation upon the relation between the institution of war and general life of mankind, I think that opinion has been steadily changing its character.

Great Increase

"From the eighteenth century to the present generation one is struck and appalled by the formidable increase in intensity of war," Professor Toynbee continued. "When a nation in these times makes war it is a serious business. It is making for destruction of lives and wealth more so that any autocrat in history. In the past it was impossible for any one ambitious armies in proportion to the total population of the country to the extent to which fiscal advantages are followed up by energetic action by manufacturers and traders in both countries. There is also, we believe, a wider desire for co-operation in trade as in other spheres than has been evident for many years. Sir William Clare-Lees, head of the Lancashire delegation whose members made such a favourable impression during their recent visit to India, has struck the right note on his return home. INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JANUARY 21ST, 1934

MATTEW : 4 : .12 - 25

"JESUS BEGINS HIS MINISTRY"

When Herod Antipas heard that John the Baptist was going about the country prophesying the coming of the Messiah, he feared an insurrection of the people. For, like his father, Herod was unable to rule with any degree of success. And the country was always on the verge of revolt. When, therefore, John openly rebuked Herod for marrying his brother's wife, Herod had him cast into prison. On hearing of this Jesus, at once, took up the work that John had laid down. He made his headquarters at Capernaum and began to preach to the people to repent as the Kingdom of Heaven was nigh.

As he walked along the shores of the Sea of Galilee, he came across two fishermen, Simon Peter and his brother Andrew, casting their nets into the sea. He asked them to follow Him, promising if they did, instead of fishing for fish, they would become fishers of men. Christ's program depended for its final carrying out on a few devoted and well trained men. And thus he set to work to accomplish His purpose. Further on, he met James and John, the sons of Zebedee mending their nets in a boat. He called them to follow Him, and they left their father and followed.

The power of the spirit-filled life to attract is no better shown than in the incidents of the lesson. No argument was used, no persuasion was attempted. The compelling power of His personal attraction won them as it has always done. humble fishermen like Peter and James and John, scholars like Erasmus and Anselm, statesmen like Knox and Savonarola.

Christ makes no intellectual demands, no test of character; all He desired was their unswerving loyalty and devotion to his cause. If when they were nearing the end of their lives, then Him, Peter and Andrew, James and John, looked back over their past, what a satisfaction it must have been to them that they made this decision.

In addition to the intensive training which he gave his disciples, he began with them almost from the province in a three-fold mission, preaching, healing and casting out devils. Along with these activities he brought millions of men to the verge of repentance and healing in the midst of plenty.—Right relations will not be restored until men show a genuine sorrow for the sins of selfishness and greed which has marred our civilization.

Jesus saw, as well, the necessity of a preaching mission. It is not enough that man be taught. There will never be established a Kingdom of God on the basis of education or knowledge of the principles of the lesson. No capable of removing mountains, must be stirred into action by the power of a personal conversion.

The third phase of His ministry exemplified by this passage is that of healing. For sullen anger people blocked the roads in their desire for the healing touch of Christ. Today our hospitals, and social welfare work are an important partof our Christian program, and rightly so. Bodily healing and mental health is essential to a complete exposition of the message of the Christ to modern society.

Mangels, sugar beets and carrots should be harvested before they are touched by frost. They are injured if they are allowed to remain frozen and that the frost is allowed to come out gradually.

CHURCHES AND DEPRESSION

During the last four years our numerous types of social organizations have experienced distressing losses in membership. Boys' clubs, patriotic societies, social groups, and certain of the fraternal clubs have found it increasingly difficult to hold a substantial number of their members. Many of these clubs have suffered a shrinkage in membership of forty per cent. Yet our Protestant churches have added 1,250,000 members, net, to their rolls in the four-year period.—Arnaud C. Marts, in Current History.

NEW VARIETY OF FRUIT FOR CANADIAN MARKET

Large quantities of British Honduras grapefruit and oranges are arriving on the Montreal and Toronto markets this season in competition with the Jamaican product, and during 1934 it is hoped to double the quantity exported to Canada from British Honduras. The forecast was made by A. Leys Brown, agent in Montreal for the British Honduras Citrus Association in Belize.

Mr. Brown said the British Honduran had installed modern machinery for sorting, polishing and stamping the fruit. The origin will be marked on each skin. He told how the colony had only 25 acres under grapefruit in 1928, whereas they now have 2,000 acres under grapefruit. Some of this grapefruit are as big as a man's head.

ONE UP ON IRELAND

Ireland can claim to have no snakes but Prince Edward Island can go one better as, in addition to having no snakes there are practically no rocks or large stones. There are a few isolated granite boulders in the western part of the province, evidently cast there by the ice in a bygone age.

The soil of Prince Edward Island is very rich and supports a variety of vegetation. The average monthly mean temperature throughout the winter is 20.2 degrees Fahrenheit and throughout the summer 61.5.

He was a former Addington boy, where he has many friends and associates.

Short Courses Have Successful Week

With an average attendance for the week of twelve and thirteen respectively, the short courses in agriculture and home economics being conducted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, are away to a fairly good start. There must, however, be many boys and girls in this district who are not availing themselves of the opportunity to secure up-to-date knowledge on the theory and practice of agriculture and, as it may be some time before such a course will again be conducted in Napanee, a special effort should be made to attend. Special lecturers are present from time to time, to which the public, as well as the regular members of the classes, are invited.

On Thursday of this week, Dr. V. R. Brown, Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph, will be present to discuss the various Parasitic Diseases of live stock and poultry.

The Department appreciates the co-operation of the various organizations in its town in providing equipment and accommodation necessary for the carrying on of the courses.

Science Ministry At Ottawa Urged

Establishment of a Ministry of Science at Ottawa "to look to the general welfare of the country, and with regard to future developments," was urged by Dr. A. S. Eve, dean of the faculty of graduate studies and research at McGill University, who spoke over the radio last week on "Chance and Foresight in Nature and Human Affairs."

"It is generally admitted," Dean Eve said, "that there must be more deliberate and collective planning of a nation's economic life, and I have no doubt that once ventured to advocate a Ministry of Science, with a responsible Minister, who will look to the general welfare of the country, especially with regard to future developments.

"A Ministry of Science in the widest sense of the word, with biologists, physicists, engineers, economists and financial men who will look to the future and work solely for the good of their country. Such men there are, who could and would work cordially with a responsible Minister of Science in the Cabinet, thus giving wise and timely advice to the Prime Minister, and relieving him, whoever he may be, of a great burden of responsibility which he is neither able nor capable to sustain."

National efforts, Dean Eve pointed out, are not in themselves sufficient to bring the world back to harmony for the ultimate reason that our troubles are international, and the whole world a unit. If this is forgotten it means climbing out of one rut only to fall into another."

Germany Extends Trade Agreement With Dominion

Ottawa. — A second extension as from January 1, has been arranged between Canada and Germany for the trade treaty initially contracted a year ago. In January 1st last year Germany agreed to exempt Canadian goods from the "Obertarif" or surtax rates that were applicable to the products of countries which had not signed treaties of commercial treaties with the Reich. This agreement terminated on March 31, 1933.

As from April 1, it was renewed with Canada, according to Germany the benefits of the intermediate tariff, in return for which that country granted to Canada the "conventional" or most favored nation treatment held until December 31, 1933.

As from January 1 this agreement has been continued. It may be terminated at any time, but in the events of its being renounced, the benefits of the agreement continue for six weeks after its normal termination.

Announcement was made earlier yesterday of the extension until December 31, 1934, of the present tariff arrangements between Canada and Austria.

Made last July for a six-month period, these provisions call for "most-favored-nation treatment," on exports from Canada to Austria, which consists of the benefits of all conventional rates imposed in Austria. In return, Canada gives the intermediate rates in her schedules to goods entering from Austria by direct shipment.

Japan Guarantees To Protect Pu-Yi as Emperor, Manchukuo

Hsinching (Changchun), Manchukuo — A new constitution and an emperor appeared on the horizon for the two-year old state of Manchukuo, recently. Reliable reports said that Henry Pu-Yi, who 20 years ago was known as "Boy Emperor," would be crowned head of the state on March 1st.

Preceding his coronation, it is understood, a new constitution similar to Japan's will be promulgated after the protocol that is expected to guarantee his sovereignty and provide Manchukuo's right to defend a puppet state.

When Manchukuo was first established, the provisional constitution proclaimed on February 19th, 1932, gave Mr. Pu-Yi a title translated as "chief executive" and interim or "provisional regent," leaving indeterminate whether the state would be a republic or a monarchy.

Articles Identical

The provisional constitution was modeled on the Japanese constitution, many articles being identical. Since then, Manchukuan officials and Japanese advisers have been working on a re-draft of the constitution, and Chao Hsin-Pu, a Manchukuo official, is now in Tokio in connection with this work. Kyo Matsuli, a Japanese official, who is Commissioner to Manchukuo, is travelling in Europe, studying European constitutions.

It is expected that the Manchukuan Legation in Tokio will be elevated to the rank of embassy.

Ting Shih-Yuan, the present Manchukuan Minister here, has already indicated a desire to resign and is expected to be succeeded by Chen Jui-Lin, acting chairman of the Board of Directors of the North Manchurian Railway (the Chinese Eastern Railway), as first Manchukuan Ambassador. General Hishikari, the Japanese commander of the Kwantung army, has the rank of Ambassador to Manchukuo.

Hsinching has hopes to get new jobs in Hsinching, the capital of Manchukuo, when the Republic becomes a Monarchy, are many eunuchs, stewards, Ladies-in-waiting, cooks, and butlers, formerly attached to the Dragon Throne.

Mealy bugs rank among the most troublesome pests with which the florist has to contend.

Police Court News

John Hill of South Fredericksburgh, was arrested on Monday for having in his possession stolen goods. He appeared before the magistrate and was remanded until January 22, for sentence. In September, 1933, Hill was convicted of theft and given a two-year suspended sentence.

On January 9th, Stanley Laird of Tamworth was convicted of assault and was given one year's suspended sentence and ordered to pay the costs of the court.

Two residents of Sheffield Township were before Magistrate Graham last week and were convicted on a charge of burning without first securing a license. Each was fined ten dollars and costs.

Ottawa To Spend Own Relief Money

Officials See in Bennett Speech Intimation of Change in Plan

Ottawa. — When the Right Hon. R. B. Bennett returned to Canada, speaking in Vancouver last week, stated that the time had come for the Government to pause in handing over sums of money whose expenditure was not under its control, he was sounding a preliminary note which may have a louder expression at next week's Parliament.

According to the figures recently published, Federal assistance to the Provinces since 1930 is in excess of $140,000,000. This covers contributions to public works, direct relief of unemployables, direct relief, aid for local government purposes, especially in Saskatchewan, guarantees and miscellaneous help.

The principle has been discussed in the House with increasing view that when Federal public moneys are to be spent the Dominion should do the spending of its own part. Of course an auditor's check is kept on the outlays, but for the most part the Dominion's share is contributory with the expenditures locally directed. Mr. Bennett's latest statement is considered to confirm a deepening impression here that in future expenditures directed control will be applied from Ottawa.

Mr. Bennett's warning against large expenditures is referred to in relation to public works. At the same time, as constructed here, it meant that such a plan, if emasked on, will likely be cautious and conservative and not on wholesale lines. With so much emphasis placed on the public debt and the need of avoiding large and continuous additions to it, the belief is not entertained that the program of works will be of any large magnitude. At the same time, something along the line seems reasonably assured. It is known to the Cabinet that the future of the Canadian National, and of practically all the Government supporting in the House

The Late William Grieve

William Grieve died at the residence of his nephew, Kenneth Grieve, on Saturday last after a short illness. Although in poor health for some years, he was able to attend to his business fairly well until only one week before his death.

For the past six years he had made his home with Kenneth Grieve in Napanee. He was born in Richmond, about 79 years ago, at what is known as Grieve's Corners. He was the last member of a family of six, the children of William and Elizabeth Grieve, well known residents of Richmond Township. The late George Grieve, of Napanee was a brother.

He had never married and is survived by severa nieces and nephews.

The funeral service was conducted at the home on Monday afternoon by the Rev. A. J. Wilson of St. Andrew's Church. Interment took place at Riverside Cemetery.

The Late Walter Cranston

Mr. Walter Cranston, one of the best known farmers of the Napanee district, died at his home on the Deseronto road, on Tuesday morning. He had not been in good health since last summer, when he had a severe attack but his death came unexpectedly. He had risen, as usual, in the morning, dressed, ate his meal and had returned to bed, when he suddenly expired.

Mr. Cranston was well known to a large circle of friends. In his own neighborhood he was looked upon as one of the best of neighbors and a staunch friend. He was born sixty-three years ago in Loughboro and Township, in Frontenac, but had lived practically all his life in Lennox and Addington, where he farmed at Hawley, later at Hay Bay and for twenty years previous to his death, on the Deseronto Road. For some years past he had been particularly interested in breeding purebred Holstein cattle.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Hannah Pringle, and two daughters, Mrs. Roy McGreer of Napanee, and Mrs. Victor McGreer of Sydenham; one son died over twenty years ago. There are also two brothers surviving, Clayton Cranston of Napanee, William Cranston of Bethel and two sisters, Mrs. Ed. Ruttan of Kingston and Mrs. Ed. Works of Aurora, Ill.

The funeral is being conducted today (Wednesday) at two o'clock, at the house; Rev. R. T. Richards, minister of Grace United Church, of which Mr. Cranston was a member, is the officiating clergyman.

The pall-bearers are all neighbors, Messrs. Christie Kellar, Harold McCaul, Percy VanVlack, Harry Oliver, Claude Alcombrack and Hiram Shaver. Interment is being made at Riverside Cemetery.

Churchwoman's Guild St. Mary's Church Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the Churchwoman's Guild of St. Mary Magdalene Church was held at the home of Mrs. George J. Tustin, Monday afternoon.

Reports of the past year's work were most gratifying.

Following are the officers for the coming year:

Hon.-President—Mrs. Herbert Daly
President—Mrs. Geo. J. Tustin.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Harry Williams
2nd Vice-Pres—Mrs. Joseph Sagar.
Secretary—Mrs. Katherine Purcell
Treasurer—Mrs. J. W. Robinson.

At the conclusion of business tea was served and a social half-hour enjoyed to which Mrs. Williams added greatly by a couple of humorous recitations.

U. E. L. Chapter I. O. D. E. Meeting

The monthly meeting of the United Empire Loyalist Chapter, I.O.D.E. with the Regent, Mrs. D. R. Hall, presiding, was held in the Officers' Mess at the Armouries, on Monday afternoon, the 8th inst.

Following the routine business and interim reports, several new members made their affirmations and were welcomed into the chapter.

Nomination of officers for the coming year, took place, the following being put in the field on Monday, February 5th.

Mr. Corkill gave an interesting biographical sketch of Judge Hallbourton and read selections from "Sam Slick." A vote of thanks was extended to the speaker at the conclusion of his address.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Presentation and Address Tendered Mr. and Mrs. Shane

On Friday evening, January 5th a number of the neighbours and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Shane, to bid farewell to them before their departure for their new homein Deseronto. An address was presented to Mr. Shane and a gift presented to Mr. and Mrs. Shane.

Mr. and Mrs. Shane thanked their friends for the gifts and gave them a hearty invitation to visit them in their new home. The evening was spent in cards and dancing.

The Address of Presentation

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Shane:—

We, your friends and neighbors, have gathered here to-night to show our friendship and affection for you before the occasion of your departure for your new home. We wish to express the hope that you will keep in mind your old friends, and ask you to accept this electric heater, which we and some set, not for their value but for the love that goes with them. Whilst the gift accept our sincere wishes for a happy and prosperous new year.

Increased Circulation At Public Library In 1933

At the annual meeting of the Napanee Public Library, held Monday evening, January 15th, James W. S. Herrington, W. P. Deroche, J. W. Robinson, E. J. Walters, T. B. Wallace, Dr. T. M. Culbraith, E. J. Corbill and M. R. Reid, were made the Board of Directors for the year 1934.

The election of officers for 1934 made Mr. W. S. Herrington, who has always been so enthusiastic for the welfare of the Library, President, and Mr. E. J. Walters, Secretary-Treasurer.

The reports of Secretary-Treasurer, Auditors and Librarian, showed the Library to be in a very healthy condition.

As there are about 9,000 books on the library, a number of them worn out of considerable money value and others impossible to replace, it was decided to increase the insurance carried.

The Board is able to retain the services of Mrs. Harry Bleecker as librarian and the president expressed the sentiment of the board when he personally thanked Mrs. Bleecker for the excellent work done in arousing and maintaining interest in the library. Her personal interest and effort can always be assured to any patron of the library, who asks her assistance in finding books and her study of the books on the shelves will be able to do this to their satisfaction.

The circulation of books in 1933 shows an increase over 1931 of 8580 and of 5818 over that of 1932, which means that she issued an average of 19 more books every day during 1933 than she did in 1932. There was an increase in membership during 1933 of 72.

The organization and oversight of the reading room is also a feature in which every facility is given those who wish to read the latest magazines and papers, to do so and without charge.

The objective of the Board is to furnish the latest books to the subscribers and plans are made to carry this out, at once.

The Board thanks the Patrons of the Library for their support and would like to take this opportunity to bring to the attention of the reading public, the excellent selection of well as works of reference, provided in the library for their use.

While it may be a little out of season to think that a little advanced baseball news might interest the fans.

Several have been approaching us lately as to what will be doing when the ice and snow melts around and so we will try and keep all and sundry posted on the situation. In the first place the O. B. A. A. Executive is planning a change in its various series. Heretofore there have been three series, divided into Senior, Intermediate "A" and Intermediate "B". There is a possibility of a fourth series being created to take care of the smaller centres, and on the surface it looks as though this will be necessary in order to give all the various clubs a chance to play on Ontario championships and still stay in their own class. Formerly, there have been teams of Senior calibre playing Intermediate "A" ball, and leagus of Intermediate "A" calibre playing Intermediate "B" ball, which ruins the chances of the various clubs for whom these different series were created. More about this when something definite has been done.

The Central Ontario Baseball League, the only Senior loop east of Toronto, is having its own troubles. It is felt that a seven-team league at least is needed to keep things going, but the town holding a fifth club, namely ,Oshawa, refuses to play in the present league. This decision naturally means that Oshawa will not be allowed to play O. U. A. A. ball unless they play in the Central Ontario, provided, of course, the C. O. B. L. does not release them again this year, which is not probable. Something must be worked out to keep Senior ball alive in Eastern Ontario, and it is to be hoped that the officials will hit on a practical plan.

Up in Belleville they are quite elated at the reinstatement of Jack "Chief" Williams. Williams, who is will be remembered, turned professional some time ago, has not been playing ball for some time, but accepted his amateur card again by the A. A. U. of C., in common with a great many other professionals this month. He is now working at the Steacy Warner plant in Belleville and will no doubt, add a great deal of color to amateur ball in the parts. It is understood that the Chief is looking for the odd ball player to help bolster up the club, and we recall seeing him in action with a few crack nine men and a substitute.

The Kingston Club has re-organized and appear to be headed for a good year. They are doing little in the line of players, apparently finding it difficult to keep those that they have. Although they lost Bowen to other organizations, but apparently is still in the service of the Picton business we see his name in hockey 'lineups occasionally. It is to be hoped that Bowen and Wright of Picton for his own good as well as for that of the club.

We haven't heard anything from Brighton lately, but it is expected that they will pull some various players who joined the Belleville Nationals last year and were living in Trenton. Trenton is close to Brighton than it is to Belleville, and so Brighton will have first claim on these players, when they released last year. This should add a great deal of interest to the Brighton Club and they will bear a lot of watching next season.

It is expected that the Lennox League will operate much as in formerly years. There is also the usual rumours that some of the clubs in the vicinity intend to switch to soft ball. We sincerely hope that this is merely a false rumour and do not think that the Napanee club would consider a change of this kind for one minute.

While we have covered a lot of ground, we have said nothing about the situation with regard to the local club. That can wait for another time, although let it be said that some changes along different lines are in the air.

Likely, most of the ball fans noticed that "Babe" Ruth will have to struggle along on a salary of only $75,000 this year. This will likely mean that Mrs. Ruth will have to do some economizing since Commissioner Landis has cut the 300.00 short of what "Babe" received in 1931. Still at that he is not doing badly and hopes to be able to add a few more grand to his already sizeable fortune.

BAY OF FUNDY KNOWN FOR MANY CENTURIES

One of the oldest known bodies of water in North America is the Bay of Fundy. DeMonts and Champlain, in 1604, first gave its name recognition, but it was visited by French, Basque and Portuguese fishermen long before that time. Champlain's map of 1544 and the name, it is believed, is derived from the French word "Fond," meaning "cabin," applied on old maps to the cape now called Cape Split at the entrance to Minas Basin, at the head of the Bay of Fundy.

History of Canada's Forest

Some three centuries ago, when the French and the English settlers were building cabins along the north Atlantic coast the eastern part of North America was covered by a vast and almost unbroken forest. It extended from the prairies to the sea and from the south Atlantic coast to Hudson's Bay. It comprised hardwoods of many species with conifers on the uplands in the south and conifers with fewer species of hardwoods in the north. From the tales that have come down to us and the story revealed in the forest itself, we can guess at its composition.

White and red pine, usually mixed with balsam fir, spruce, and hardwoods, extended over an enormous area in New England and North Atlantic states, in the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and in the southern portions of Quebec and Ontario. White spruce, with red spruce in the far north, usually mixed with balsam fir and often with hardwoods, occupied parts of the one time forests. Cedar stands on the higher ground in Maine and southern Canada and stretching in scattered forests into the extreme north beyond the Arctic circle.

Balsam fir occurred largely in mixed forests, but also in pure stands on considerable areas in the higher altitudes. Jack pine grew then, as at the present time, on sandy ridges and plains, but there is probably much more of it now than there was in the primeval forest. Larch or tamarac covered swampy areas throughout the entire region, and although it did not occur in extensive forests, its total quantity must be great. The enormous Hemlock occurred mainly in mixed stands from southern Ontario and southern Quebec southward.

Black spruce, then as now, grew on bogs and wet places and in addition covered a vast belt of territory stretching across the territory now known as Northern Ontario and Northern Quebec. Cedar grew in large quantity on moist ground about the margins of lakes and streams. The hardwoods were more abundant in quantity and more numerous in species in the southern half of the territory. They occurred on the richer soils, and were, nevertheless, northward throughout the Maritime Provinces and in the southern parts of Quebec and Ontario, but only the white birch and poplars extended beyond the black spruce to about the extreme north.—Dr. J. M. Swaine, Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in "Scientific Agriculture."

The Bang Bacillus

Evolving Uniform Methods Of Control

The infectious disease in cattle, caused by the Bang bacillus, now receives more generic designation as Bang's disease, has been a topic causing much discussion in recent years, says the Veterinary Director General, in his annual report, and efforts have been made, more particularly on this continent, to evolve uniform methods for its control.

The main essential in control measures is the identification of infected animals and their proper disposal. After a trial of the difficulties, as there is no satisfactory diagnostic agent which can be practically applied in the field, We must rely upon a laboratory blood test, and while it is generally agreed that this test is a reliable one in competent hands the very nature of this test necessitates its interpretation in the laboratory far way from the animals from which the blood is obtained. This prevents of many variables entering into the proredure from the time the blood is collected in the barn until a decision is reached in the laboratory. There is also frequently a negative phase surrounding parturition which must be taken into consideration. The peculiarities of this disease and its wide prevalence necessitate the exercise of caution in the adoption of regulatory measures, as they must be reasonable, practical and consistent with the progress in the control of the disease. Federal compulsory measures would, the Veterinary Director General believes, be impractical. The optional policy of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, however, enables the live stock owner to eliminate the infection in his herd and is undoubtedly of educational value.

WHERE DO THE OLD TIRES GO ?

Have you ever wondered where the old automobile tire casings and inner tubes go? Argentina is selling rubber scrap from Canada for the manufacture of soles from the rubber for cheap grades of canvas shoes and the remaining portion of the fabric of tires for the manufacture of sleeves for blowout patches. Japan is also a large importer of old tires.

PARTRIDGE GIVES UP ITS FREEDOM FOR FOOD

A partridge which discovered that food could be obtained in the animal enclosure of the Charlesbourg Zoo, near Quebec, has surrendered its liberty in favor of permanent residence among the zoo inmates. Reports the Fish and Game Department of the Canadian National Railways. The partridge believes that there can be few cases on record of a partridge giving up its liberty, for it is one of the most easily frightened of wild birds.

Turkish Russia Producing Cotton To Supply Moscow

Tashkent, Turkestan, (Special cable to the Montreal Star and New York Herald Tribune. — Cotton is king today in Turkestan where Alexander the Great and Genghis Khan came to conquer, where Marco Polo sojourned for the season, and where Tamerlane built an empire and is buried. Soviet Central Asia, as this territory is now called, is charged with producing 80 per cent of the country's cotton crop, and today is celebrating the complete fulfillment of the 1933 growing plan.

Due largely to the expansion of cotton raising in this territory, the U.S.S.R. is now almost independent of foreign imports. Cotton which was purchased from the United States on credit in 1933 was balanced by exports of the Soviet product.

To Double Production

Of the 320,000 tons of cleaned cotton which Russia consumed annually before the Revolution, half was grown domestically and half was imported. The U.S.S.R. is now producing appreciably more than 480,000 tons, eighty per cent of it, as indicated above, in Central Asia.

It is planned to double the present production figure by the end of 1937, the final year of the five-year plan. All cotton land in Central Asia is irrigated land. Foreign engineers have taken a conspicuous part in the construction of irrigation projects which are necessitated by the program. In some cases the irrigation systems developed two thousand years ago or more, have been utilized as the foundation for the present modern projects.

THE RELUCTANT CHILD

Many of the parents who realise the importance of getting their children to bed in good time, find considerable difficulty in the doing of it. Sometimes this is because the children have already got into bad habits; sometimes it is because there are older and younger children with different bed-times.

Many children are undoubtedly allowed to stay up as late as they can. This is not surprising, as going to bed means leaving the exciting happenings of the day-time. If, when they beg to stay up later they are allowed to do so, they (efd to try the same thing again, and even though on the next occasion their request may be refused they do not give up hope because they have proved that this method sometimes works. Thus the begging to sit up later becomes a habit.

The best way of getting children to bed without any fuss is to arrange a regular bed-time and to keep to it. Even then it is wise to remind the child a few minutes before it is actually time for him to depart that bed-time is approaching, so that he may have a chance to prepare for it. He can then put away his toys just as carefully as he desires without any sense of rush, or he can finish the chapter of his book so that he does not have to leave off at the most exciting point.

Some children settle off most readily to sleep if a quiet game precedes bed-time, but for other children a game undoubtedly best brings sleep. Many mothers find a bed-time story efficacious in bringing reluctant children to an eager willingness to prepare for bed, though others find stories too exciting for bed-time. Every parent must decide the details of the preparation for bed for herself, but it is always a good thing to be sure that it is a pleasant time for the child, so that he may look forward to it. A game with the celluloid ducks or other bath toys is a great joy to the toddler; a quiet guessing game for the older child may take the place of the story if that is found too stimulating.

When there are children of widely different ages it is natural that their bed-times shall not be the same. Most children can readily understand the reasonableness of such an arrangement, but it is important that the same regularity in going to bed shall be expected of the older as of the younger children. If the younger child feels that the older ones are allowed to sit up after their proper time he may even keep himself awake to investigate the matter. Anything of this kind causes uneasiness, dissatisfaction, and may lead to jealousy.

It is not reasonable to ask the older child to go earlier than his proper bedtime in order that a younger child may be induced to go to bed. Yet that is not an uncommon state of affairs. Then the older child may feel resentful and far-reaching difficulties between the children may result.

It is important to remember that children differ considerably in the amount of actual sleep they require, but there is no doubt that every young child should have an early bed-time, even though he does not sleep at first but plays quietly with his toys.

Three Elderly Women Set Out on Perilous Expedition, Alone

Former Missionaries in China to Travel Into Bandit Infested Gobi Desert

Three elderly grey-haired women will soon leave London, Eng., and set out, alone, on a perilous expedition into the bandit-infested Gobi desert, on the borders of Mongolia and China.

They are Miss Mildred Cable and Miss Eva and Miss Francesca French who, as missionaries for nearly thirty years of the China Inland Mission, have risked death at the hands of bandits, from disease and starvation, times without number, says an interviewer.

"When one talks to Miss Eva French, it seems almost incredible that this gentle woman once led a party of missionaries through a crowd of angry Boxers, who were shouting 'Kill the foreign devils!' The fact that the Boxers thought the Bibles which the women missionaries had concealed up their sleeves were revolvers does not retract from the heroism."

A few days later Miss French was dragged by the hair from a cart in which she was travelling, by a Boxer, who brandished his sword over her. Her life was saved by the fact that her captor's eye fell on a box of silver, which he seized and made off with.

They were captured and held prisoners for months by the Chinese boy bandit, "The Thunderbolt," who at the age of 19 led a marauding army through Northwest China. When they were brought into "The Thunderbolt's" presence one of them calmly handed him a copy of the New Testament and the Ten Commandments.

Finally they escaped. They were pursued by brigands, who ultimately caught them up. "Have you a permit" asked the leader. With great presence of mind Miss Cable handed the man the credentials which every missionary carries. The brigand could not read, but he assumed that so impressive a document could have been issued by none other than "The Thunderbolt," and let them pass on.

Miller's Worm Powders do not neer the after-help of Castor Oil or any purgative to complete their thoroughness, because they are thorough in themselves. One dose of them, and they will be found palatable by all children, will end the worm trouble by making the stomach and bowels untenable to the parasites. And not only this, but the powders will be certain to exert most beneficial influences in the digestive organs.

A wee boy returning to his slum at the end of a perfect day, found a slight solace in carrying home a bucketful of sand and a little bottleful of salt water for his little sister to see what the seaside was like. The sea was like that, he explained, while she listened in awe. "only far, Far, FAR bigger!" This when she was taken to the sea a few days later she got a tremendous shock, having expected to see it confined in a far, Far, Far bigger bottle! "Oh!" she gasped, "the cork's out of it!"

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Mulching Strawberries

In many districts it is the practice to mulch strawberry plantations with rye straw which, as it is harvested early, is very free from weed seeds and this is a very important feature where it is the custom to take future crops from the plantation. If manure is used, care should be exercised in order that none will come in contact with the crown of the plant. Mulch as soon as the ground is frozen, hard enough to carry a wagon, for much damage may be caused by alternate freezing and thawing.

Order Fertilizer Early

Plants as much as animals require food. Winter is a good time to plan the summer diet for crops. Manure supplemented with superphosphate is a splendid ration for most crops. Twenty-two years of experimental work at Dominion Experimental Farms have shown that yields may be maintained by using commercial fertilizers alone. If manure is scarce, therefore, use commercial fertilizers. Decide on the kind and amount needed, then order early so as to have it on hand when work starts in the Spring.

Winter Housing of Sheep

Sheep do not require expensive and warm buildings. They do, however, appreciate a dry roomy shed well protected against winds, well ventilated and free from draughts. Do not crowd them in one pen. Twenty to twenty-five ewes do best together. Furthermore, a sheep requires from twelve to fifteen square feet of floor space and one foot of feeding space. Doors should be of good width to allow free access to and from the pens. Narrow doors are often the cause of abortion. Pregnant ewes need a yard to exercise in. Force them to walk by feeding hay outside in good weather.

Winter Hog Feeding

Winter hog feeding requires different methods from those ordinarily found successful in summer. Stunting and crippling are common during the winter and result largely from an over-supply of heavy feeds as well as from a lack of some of the vital elements. Lack of sunshine and exercise may also be contributory causes. Control measures to forestall these winter feeding difficulties are as follows: The a variety of feeds in the ration including milk or tankage; provide alfalfa or clover hay or roots in small quantities; do not feed too heavily; allow young animals to exercise outdoors in mild weather; all stock should have comfortable sleeping quarters which are dry and free from draughts.

Simple Methods for Treating Milking Machine Tubes

The simplest and cheapest method of controlling contamination from milking machine rubber parts consists in using a weak lye solution (0.4 to 0.5 per cent.) to keep the tubes sterilized between milkings. This is particularly designed for farms lacking an adequate supply of hot water. After a cold water suction rinse, immediately following milking the tubes are hung in a simple wooden rack, filled with lye solution, and left till the next milking.

Mangels for Poultry

The chief value of roots as a poultry feed lies in the fact that they can be stored during the winter months, and fed over the period during which fresh green feeds are not available. They should not be considered in any way as a complete substitute for fresh green feeds, cheifly because they are quite deficient in vitamin content. The 'anti-neuritic and anti-scorbutic vitamins are present in only the slightest traces, while the anti-rachitic vitamin is entirely lacking. In comparison, fresh clover, one of the most commonly used green feeds, contains all three in abundance. The chief function of mangels and roots in general is the supplying of succulence to the ration. It has been found that by using mangels and supplementing with a regular dose of Epsom salts, laying birds will come through the winter in fairly good shape.

The Principle of Grading

Grading is based on the principle that it is sound business to classify live stock, live stock products, and other Canadian commodities in such a way that the consumer will be able to recognize and purchase quality products and that the producer will be enabled to obtain a higher price. Experience has proved the value of this theory. The identification of top quality beef under red and blue ribbon bands, the grading of poultry, the segregation of eggs and fruit into quality grades which are known to practically every Canadian consumer and other grading activities have been a tremendous incentive to quality production with resultant benefit to producers. Grading has not only served to create better prices for quality products, but has also brought about a substanial increase in consumption. At the same time, through grading Canadian products maintain their high level of excellence in the markets of the world. In this way, the new regulations which are soon to be put in force with respect to the grading of bacon for export to the British market will solidify Canada's premier position as an Empire source of food products.

Home Cleaning of Small Vegetable Seeds

Thresh out the seed by placing the plants in a strong, closely woven cotton sack. Light flailing with a stick will liberate the seed from pods or heads.

Lettuce and carrot seeds should be rubbed out by hand, using a pair of strong leather mitts.

A coarse sieve will remove the straw and chaff. Place the seed and chaff on a fine sieve; a quick, downward, side movement repeated several times will remove the chaff and light seed. Only the large plump seed should be kept. Stand pickling will improve the sample.

Home Grown Grains for The Laying Flock

The following ration for laying pullets, composed mostly of home grown grains, is recommended by the Poultry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms: Mash — 2 parts of ground wheat, 1 part of ground oats, 1 part ground barley or corn, ½ part of ground beef and fish scrap, 2 per cent bone meal, 2 per cent cod liver oil, and 1 per cent salt; scratch grain—2 parts of wheat, 1 part oats, 1 part corn or buckwheat, 1 part barley. This ration may be varied according to what grains the farmer has available.

Canadian Grains Won

The superior development attained by northern-grown grain is nowhere demonstrated more convincingly than at the International Hay and Grain Show, held in Chicago. At the show last December, Canadian exhibits again carried off the lion's share of the Championship awards in the following classes, namely: Hard Red Spring Wheat, Durum Wheat, Medium Late White Oats (region 1), Early Oats (region 1), Trebi Barley, Two-rowed Barley, Rye Flax, Soya Beans (region 1 and 2), Large Field Peas, Small Field Peas, A.O.V. Field Peas, Alsike Clover, Timothy, Alfalfa (Western Section) and Navy Beans. In the Hard Red Spring Wheat class, Canadian entries were awarded the first 39 prizes.

In the Soya Bean class for region 1 and 2, the first six prize winners were all from Ontario, an indication of the progress made by this province in the production of this crop. In the exhibits of Alfalfa Seed for the "East", the eight winning samples from Canada were from Ontario. Seven of these were lots and included the 2nd, 4th and among the first 13 prize - winning lots.

In the class for Alsike seed, Ontario growers again demonstrated the place of this province as a leading producer of high-class Alsike seed, 14 of the 20 prizes offered being won by Ontario. The championship in this class went to an exhibit shown by Elson Richert, of Fisherville, Ont.

The splendid showing made by Canadian grain and small seeds at the International Show proves that Canada continues to produce grain of superior quality which is able to face the keenest competition in the world and win major awards with comparative ease.

DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

Prevent Goitre in Your Future Lambs

Goitre in young lambs is due to iodine Whether or not this mineral is deficient in the Ottawa district is not certain. However, quites has appeared in the Central Experimental Farm flock, and sheep owners should, therefore, plan safe and feed iodine to their pregnant ewes.

If no commercial iodized salt is available, prepare as follows: Spread on a tarpaulin 100 pounds of ordinary salt. From your druggist procure 2 or 3 ounces of potassium iodide dissolve in water and spray the solution on the salt. Mix thoroughly, keep dry and feed to the ewes during the winter. This will prevent goitre, and, when for no distinct reason lambs are born weak, flabby, it may prove beneficial.

Operating Costs of a Tractor Reduced by Increased Use

In a survey made by the Field Husbandry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms data were collected on the operation of 245 two-plough tractors in Eastern Canada, in 1930. It was found that the average total overhead cost, per tractor, was $126.18 per year. Had these tractors been used only 30 days in a year, the overhead cost would have been $4.20 per tractor per day, repairs remaining the same. Actually, however, the tractors were used an average of 82.4 days per year, the cost of draw-bar work amounting to $2.40 for overhead, $2.64 for fuel, 49 cents for oil and 6 cents for grease, or a total of $5.70 per ten hour day for a two-plough tractor, not including the wages of the operator

Buy Your Feeds on Guarantee

Do not find yourself with a "gold-brick" feed — money spent and no value in return. Oat feeds analysed in the laboratories of the Chemistry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms have had a range from 4 to 14 per cent of protein and from 10 to 30 per cent of fibre, meat meals of from 40 to 65 per cent protein and phosphoric acid from 10 to 20 per cent. Therefore, do not buy your feeds blindly but study the guaranteed analysis as printed on bags or other containers so that you know of what value the weeds are for your specific purpose, and also as compared with other feeds of the same class.

Greenhouse Grain

The winter crop of cereals sown in early October in the greenhouses of the Cereal Division at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, is rapidly coming into head and artificial hybridization will be in full swing almost immediately. The first generation from crosses made in the field last summer, is also being propagated and studied, as is certain other material which it is hoped may be of distinct practical value.

Churches Costing $200 Serve New Canadians

Winnipeg—Three churches built at a cost of not more than $200 each have been erected to serve the Hungarian settlers in Saskatchewan, according to Rev. Dr. Frank Hoffman, United Church missionary, a recent visitor.

"The settlers build the churches themselves," Dr. Hoffman declared, "and we find it necessary to buy only shingles and flooring, in addition to the glass and some hardware. These buildings serve the requirements well in the new districts."

As the only United Church missionary serving the Hungarian population in the Saskatchewan territory, Dr. Hoffman covers 40,000 square miles and visits in all 19 preaching stations. He is also attached to the staff of St. Andrew's College, Saskatchewan, where he lectures on the historical background of the non-Anglo-Saxon people found in Western Canada.

Ice Water Tie-Up, Used as a Home Beauty Treatment

An ice water tie-up helps to eradicate lines and wrinkles and is a splendid remedy for a sagging chin.

The cold water itself is helpful to dry or oily skin since it neither removes nor replaces facial oil. It is merely a stimulant and muscle tightener.

Clean your face and neck with cleansing cream. Wipe off all dirt. Apply a thick nourishing cream and pat the skin until it tingles all over. Wipe it off and put on either a skin tonic or a mild astringent. Then you are ready for the ice water tie-up.

Dip several large pieces of cotton in ice water. One of the pieces should have a large hole in it. That piece goes across your mouth.

If you feel that you must see, put two smaller holes in another piece which is to go across your eyes. However, it is better to keep the eyes covered so that they, too, may derive full benefit from the cold cotton mask. Be sure and look pleasant while you are "setting" your face in this manner.

Put one piece across your forehead and another around your throat. Cover every inch of your face and neck with the cold pads. Then take a long strip of gauze — about five inches wide — and place it under your chin. Bring the ends up to the top of your head and tie them firmly. Rub the gauze with a piece of ice for several minutes and then lie down and relax. Don't remove the mask until it is warm.

Bath Prominent In U.E.L. History

Ontario Village Saw Three Pioneer Business Ventures Started

Descendants of United Empire Loyalists who come to the Kingston area next summer to celebrate the 150th anniversary of their forefathers' landing, will find in this Eastern Ontario settlement a village of first things.

As the Loyalists established themselves in a new land Bath became the centre of pioneering in at least three phases of commercial life. Here were built the first hotel, the first brewery and the first steamboat, to operate in what was then Upper Canada. Here also was erected one of the first Anglican churches in the colony.

Built Hotel Brewery

Henry Pinkle, one of the early settlers, built the first hotel and the first brewery, about 1786. Those dates are unmarked. Location of the shipyard where the steamer Frontenac was built in 1816 has been designated for succeeding generations, as well as the spot where St. John's Church stood. The church was built in 1795.

The Frontenac—first steamboat to ply on Lake Ontario—was built at Finkle's Point and a granite monument marks the spot. New York State historians have claimed priority for their Oneida, but Henry Wheat turned out the Frontenac for the merchants of Kingston; York, now Toronto; Niagara and Kingston, a year before the American boat was built.

First Court Held

Records show that the first court sitting in Upper Canada was held in Finkle's Hotel at Bath in 1792 when a negro was sentenced to 39 lashes for stealing a loaf of bread. The Elm tree to which he was tied while the sentence was carried out stood just outside the hotel.

Bath, for some years, was the home of William Johnston, noted as a rebel during the disturbances of 1837. —Montreal Star.

AT PEACE WITH THE KITCHEN

It is very likely that cheese was man's first "prepared" food. Its origin is lost in antiquity, but tradition tells us that we owe the discovery of cheese to the fact that an Arab herdsman carried his milk, one day, in a bag made from the stomach of a young calf. At lunch time, he was sadly disappointed to find his milk separated into curds and whey. He tasted the curds and liked them and ever after Arabs and others have been making cheese.

Before a recipe for making cheese was discovered, the Arabs had to learn that it was something in the stomach of the young calf which was responsible for turning milk into cheese. We now know that this substance is rennet and that the action is due to the presence of rennin, an enzyme provided by nature for the digestion of milk.

It is hard to talk about cheese because there are so many kinds and they vary in flavor, consistency and nutritional value. The flavor depends upon the ripening process used, as well as whether or not the cheese is made from whole or skimmed milk or cream, or from cow's or goat's milk. The consistency depends upon the amount of water, whether or not most of the liquids are pressed out, and the length of ripening and kind of bacteria or mold incorporated in the ripening process.

Cheese, in general, is a concentrated food. An exception is the kind known as cottage cheese which is made from skimmed milk. If cream is added to cottage cheese, it too is a food high in calories. Cheese is classified as a building food. It contains nearly all the proteins of milk. Because of this fact, cheese should be used in menus in place of rather than combined with building foods. This does not mean that no meat, eggs, fish or milk can be served with cheese. Just do not use quite so much of these foods in the menu when cheese is added. Milk, although containing proteins, is not a concentrated food and there is little likelihood that too much of it will be included.

The minerals of cheese are important. The principal ones are calcium and phosphorus, the bone and tooth builders. The blood too, needs these minerals. They help to keep the blood neutral because they produce alkaline reactions. Cheese is one of the few protein foods which are on the alkaline side.

These are the rules for using cheese:

Add bulk to the menu Because cheese is a highly concentrated food. Select as part of the meal the foods rich in fibre such as bran, green leafy vegetables and fruits.

Reduce the other building or protein foods according to the amount of cheese used.

Follow these rules whether cheese is used in the main, salad or dessert course, in the bread or as an accompaniment. The menus will illustrate:

Cheese Souffle
Buttered Broccoli
Chopped Vegetable Salad
Whole Wheat Rolls Jelly
Spice Cake Beverage

Lima Bean Loaf
Tomato Sauce
Buttered New Cabbage
Cheese Bran Muffins Butter
Hearts of Lettuce

CHEESE BRAN MUFFINS

Two tablespoons shortening
One-quarter cup sugar.
One-third cup soft yellow cheese.
One egg. One cup milk.
One cup bran.
One cup whole wheat flour.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
Three teaspoons baking powder.

Cream shortening, sugar and cheese together. Add the egg and bran. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. To the first mixture add the milk, alternating with the sifted dry ingredients.

Pour into greased muffin tins and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes.

CHRISTMAS CHEESE SALAD

One teaspoon gelatine.
One tablespoon cold water.
One-quarter lb. pimiento cheese.
Five tablespoons cream.
Salt. Pepper.
Green Peppers. Pimientos.
Lettuce.

Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add this to the cheese which has been rubbed through grater and made smooth and moist with cream. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stuff peppers with mixture and place on ice. When very cold, slice in thin rings, top with cube of red pimiento and arrange rings on bed of crisp lettuce. Serve with French dressing.

SCOTCH OAT BREAD

Scotch oat bread is simple to make and provides a change from the usual tea menu. Mix thoroughly two cups of self-raising flour with an equal quantity of oatmeal, and then add two teaspoonfuls of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Rub in six ounces of butter or margarine. Make this mixture into as dry a dough as possible with a little water. Roll out the dough to the desired thickness and bake until crisp. The oat bread may be baked in a square tin and cut afterwards into slices, or cut out and then baked.

Serve with golden syrup.

A CARPET ECONOMY

In a large family it is a good plan during the winter months, to fix securely with drugget pins a strip of flooring felt all round the dining-room table. This not only preserves the carpet from wear but provides a smooth surface quickly cleaned with the carpet-sweeper.

PICKLING BEETROOTS

Beetroots are not difficult to pickle but the most important point, on which success or failure depends, is to see that all the utensils used are boiling hot. Bottles with rubber tops are best. Stir in an ounce to salt and four cups of sugar. Melt the sugar slowly in the vinegar and water, and, when the beets by boiling, skinning and almost at boiling point, add the boiling first. Then add two quarts of the water in which the beets were for five minutes and pour at once boiled to an equal quantity of vine- into the hot jars and seal down.

FEATHER TRAVELLER SETS MILEAGE RECORD

Dauphin, Man. — For several winters past, ptarmigan have taken extended trips on Canadian National Railways locomotives in the Dauphin district, but the little white traveller which rode with engineer Richard Smith on his last run, has set up a new mileage record.

Perching on the train at Seba, between Dudson Bay Junction, Sask. and The Pas, Man., the ptarmigan rode on the cowcatcher of the locomotive, oblivious to the shrieking whistle and clanging bell. Soon the bird began to feel the chill of the bitter wind and Smith lifted it into the engine cab.

When the train arrived at Dauphin, more than 200 miles from Seba, the plucky ptarmigan, black with grime, made no effort to leave the cab, so Smith took it home with him.

TRAVELLING 5000 MILES FOR RAREST OF BIRDS

With the aim of capturing Australia's rarest bird, the night parrot, eight scientists recently set out from Melbourne, Australia, on one of the longest journeys ever made in search of a zoological specimen. This bird flies by night and hides by day, and the scientists expect to travel 5,000 miles before they secure a specimen. The night parrot was first found by white men 80 years ago. One of the members of the expedition has been admitted a member of a native tribe whose bushcraft is tracking animals and birds is almost uncanny.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

VIOLET - SWITZERVILLE W. I.

The regular meeting of Violet-Switzerville Institute which met at the home of Mrs. W. Close, on Thursday last, was well attended. The meeting was opened by the president in the usual way. The roll call was answered by giving the recipe for a "Hot Supper Dish." This proved interesting as everyone was glad of new ideas for cooking.

The business discussion followed. It was planned to hold a series of social evenings. The first to be at the home of Mrs. E. Wright, next week. Mrs. J. Dunlop of Kingston, kindly offered to donate cards and prizes for same. Mrs. Arnold Empey provided the motto, "A Friend. What is a Friend?" and in her very interesting way gave us a good definition of what a friend is and what a friend can be. A paper on "Other days and other ways," prepared by Mrs. Fred Wales and read by Mrs. Wright, made us feel that although other days had their advantages, very few of us would like to go back to primeval times. Mrs. J. Dunlop gave a reading entitled, "Whatever is, is best," which was very appropriate as this was Grandmothers' meeting. Mrs. H. Robinson also gave a reading, "Old Times." The current events by Mrs. Floyd Moore touched on the world-wide events and problems of to-day.

The meeting was then brought to a close, after which all joined in a fish contest. Mrs. H. Robinson winning the prize. The hostess and assistants served a very sumptuous lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Hobert Empey.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The January meeting of the Napanee Women's Institute was held in the Oddfellows Hall on Thursday, January 11th. Mrs. Exley, president, occupied the chair. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. Letters of appreciation were received from members to whom fruit and flowers had been sent. The roll call was "Name in the old "Hot Supper Dishes," was large and varied; many new and easily prepared recipes were given by those present.

Mrs. James Douglas, delegate to the Kingston Convention, submitted a comprehensive report of the proceedings of the meetings, which was very interesting. A vote of appreciation was extended to Mrs. Douglas for the splendid report. Plans for county activities were then discussed. Many suggestions were made for at the present time we defend action was decided upon.

A call for discarded clothing, boots and shoes, was received from the Welfare Committee of Napanee, and all who have articles of this kind are invited to bring them to the Town Hall on Friday, January 19, 2-9:00 o'clock, when they will be a committee to receive them.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

MAPLE RIDGE W. I.

The January meeting of the Maple Ridge Women's Institute, was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Vanluven. There was a goodly number of members present, and four new members.

The meeting opened in the usual way, with the singing of the ode and repeating the creed. The roll call was answered by "New Year Resolutions." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. A number of letters of thanks were read from the Old Country boys who received gifts and Christmas cards, handed in by the sick committee, were ordered paid, and a donation was granted to the rural schools in the district for the teachers to use as they deem best. Miss Eileen Pringle was appointed assistant press reporter. Mrs. Grant Cook gave the rest of her report of the convention at Kingston, which was most interesting, and showed that she took a keen interest in what took place, that she might give a clear outline of the happenings, and one could picture very clearly in her mind, what took place, and received some very pretty gifts and suggestions and ideas of what is being done by this organization. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Cook, for such a splendid report.

Mrs. Euns, in her capable manner, gave a paper on education which was well prepared, she outlining her subject very clearly and carefully.

A few Victrola numbers were enjoyed and a contest by Mrs. Vandervoort was won by Mrs. Euns. The hostess and committee in charge served a dainty lunch and a social half hour was spent. The singing of the National Anthem brought to a close a well spent afternoon.

CAMDEN EAST W. I.

Mrs. George Black entertained the officers and members of Camden East Women's Institute on Wednesday afternoon, January 3rd, and at the meeting, members of the Newburgh branch were delightfully entertained, the visitors giving a splendid programme. With the president, Mrs. Acton Robinson, presiding, the meeting opened in the usual manner, and after the reading and confirmation of the minutes and business arising, the roll call was taken, Mrs. George Walker, president of Newburgh branch, was requested to assume charge.

Mrs. Walker, on behalf of the Institute, presented the Camden East members for their kind invitation and requested all to sing a New Year's hymn. Mrs. Gertrude Wiseman then gave a very interesting New Year's address, in which she said that the past year had been a very discouraging one. Important events which had been planned, such as the League of Nations and the Imperial Conference, had not produced the results anticipated. She stated that human distrust and selfishness has yet to be conquered. With the New Year, we should start with a clean page and make 1934 one of the best years in the history of mankind. "Misunderstanding gives rise to hard feeling and strife," said Mrs. Wiseman, and resolutions, such as "try ahrder" and "understand everyone better," should be the main attributes. "If we could understand each other, we could trust each other better," said the speaker, who closed her address with the solution "Resolve to keep the creed better, give more attention to all and understand all your friends and associates better."

The Institute stands for Home and Country and we want to put on a united front and put down the enemy. If we have homes where we can meet together, it will make our homes nobler. May the children that go out from our homes and schools have prayer and nobler lives to live, said Mrs. Wilson in concluding.

With Mrs. W. G. Paul at the piano community singing was greatly enjoyed, after which Mrs. Wilfred Wilson gave an instrumental number. A paper on "things that money can't not buy," was given by Mrs. E. Lockhead, which was very interesting. Mrs. Paul contributed an instrumental selection, after which a "health" talk was given by Miss Cameron. Mrs. Wilfred Wilson then gave an interesting reading, which was followed by an amusing contest, conducted by Mrs. E. Harrison, in which everyone had to guess the names of persons in motion, the photo having been taken when the members were preparing the dinner. Mrs. Harry Robinson, who had fifteen correct guesses out of eighteen photos submitted, was awarded the programme and Mrs. Albert Lewis on behalf of the local Institute, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the visitors for the excellence of their programme. Mrs. Robinson also rendered the wonderful thoughts which could be carried home as a result of splendid papers which had been given.

The singing of the National Anthem closed a profitable and enjoyable meeting, after which delicious refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Lewis, on Wednesday afternoon, February 7th. The roll call will be "A traffic by-law."

CONWAY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Conway Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Young on January 9th. The condition of the roads kept many regular attendants at home and only twelve were present. After singing the opening ode and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, the president, Mrs. A. Hill, read the minutes of the December meeting and the financial statement. The balance of the meeting consisted of motions for paying of all bills due to the latter part of December and the election of officers for our township grant.

In the absence of Miss M. Hambly our pianist, Mrs. Frank Ham gave a most satisfactory report of the work of the Welfare Committee. Bedding, clothing and supplies for a maternity case having been supplied a similar request will be given by Mrs. Keilar, Mrs. Edgar Thompson and Mrs. Fred Hamm. Mrs. Chaplin, in her capable manner, will conduct the games.

SILLSVILLE LADIES' AID

The regular meeting of Sillsville Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Rod Sharpe on January 9th and thirteen members and two visitors were present. The meeting opened with hymn 305. Followed by Mrs. Sharpe repeating the Lord's Prayer. The scripture lesson, the Christmas secretion from January, was read by Mrs. Sanders and hymn 334 was sung.

During the business part of the meeting, several matters were discussed. Two pressing requests came under the direction of Mrs. Rod Sharpe and the other, Mrs. McLean, proved very interesting. It was moved by Mrs. W. Young, seconded by Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Creighton helped to serve. Lunch fees amounted to $4.25.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Herb. White, late in the month.

WILTON WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. Stuart Simmons opened the doors of her spacious home on Tuesday afternoon, January 9 to entertain members and friends of the Wilton Women's Institute to the number of about thirty. The meeting opened as usual, by singing the ode and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Several items of business were dispensed with and it was decided to hold a Valentine party on February 14.

The following program was much enjoyed: Reading by Mrs. Franklin Parrott; reading by Mrs. Keith Simmons; piano selection by Miss Eleanor Emberley; reading by Mrs. Hedley Babcock; piano selection by Mrs. Delbert Hinman; current events by Miss Marion Miller; talk on "Canadian authors and Canadian books," by Mr. Fred McPherson. After the program, the exchange of New Year's gifts was made. Mrs. Oliver Henderson had charge of a musical contest of which Miss Eleanor Emberley was the winner. A vote of thanks to Mrs. Simmons, to the program and lunch committee, received hearty response.

Mrs. J. E. Miller very kindly offered her home for the February meeting.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The January meeting of Bath Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Osborne, with a good attendance. The roll call was answered by "my favorite sport"; some amusing answers were given. The business part of the meeting was dealt with; correspondence read, and a motion that all bills be paid, was passed. The proceeds from the euchre held in the library rooms, were very encouraging.

Mrs. Harry Hudson kindly offered her home for a progressive euchre to be held on the evening of Wednesday, January 17, also one at the home of Mrs. Bert Morrow on the evening of the 24th. Prizes will be given. The following program consisted of current events by Mrs. H. Collins, a reading by Mrs. H. Hudson, a demonstration "macaroni and cheese," by Mrs. Osborne; an instrumental by Mrs. H. Collins; a pie contest, under the direction of Miss Florence Morrow was won by Miss Margaret Black.

The dance held in the Masonic Hall on December 16th, proved to be a decided success. Bath W. I. are most grateful to all those who attended and helped to make this evening such a success. Another of the popular dances will be held on Friday, evening, January 26th.

ERNESTTOWN W. I.

The January meeting of Ernesttown Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Harry Mott, was of a most jovial character. Although unknown remedy for a cold was given as the roll was called. At the business session, it was decided to furnish cod liver oil for a delicate girl. Miss Mildred Seeley read a part of Dr. Helen McMurchy's biennial report, "The Child, the Mother and a New World Order," and Mrs. Wm. Keller gave splendid current events. The charades, conducted by Mrs. William Chaplin and Mrs. J. Thompson, caused roars of laughter.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Archibald and Mrs. Alex. Hagerman. The roll call will be "a funny story." The secretary will read the remaining part of Dr. McMurchy's address. Mrs. Miles Buck will give current events. Mrs. Loraine Hagerman will furnish the music and a chocolate candy demonstration will be given by Mrs. Wm. Keilar, Mrs. Edgar Thompson and Mrs. Fred Hamm. Mrs. Chaplin, in her capable manner, will conduct the games.

SILLSVILLE LADIES' AID

The regular meeting of Sillsville Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Rod Sharpe on January 9th and thirteen members and two visitors were present. The meeting opened with hymn 305. Followed by Mrs. Sharpe repeating the Lord's Prayer. The scripture lesson, the Christmas secretion from January, was read by Mrs. Sanders and hymn 334 was sung.

During the business part of the meeting, several matters were discussed. Two pressing requests came under the direction of Mrs. Rod Sharpe and the other, Mrs. McLean, proved very interesting. It was moved by Mrs. W. Young, seconded by Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Creighton helped to serve. Lunch fees amounted to $4.25.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Herb. White, late in the month.

SILLSVILLE CONWAY W. M. S.

The January meeting of Sillsville-Conway W. M. S. was held at the parsonage on Thursday, January 4, with seven members present. The meeting opened by singing hymn 581 followed by prayer. The roll call was responded to by a New Year's thought. The treasurer reported fifteen paid members, last year, $69.19 was sent to the branch. The collection amounted to $8c. After a hymn, Mrs. Wright read the scripture lesson Psalm 65 and Romans 6, 17th and 18th verses. The heralds of temperance reported and Mrs. R. Merritt gave a reading emphasizing the suffering of six intoxicants. A talk was given by Rev. Sanders, "forging and forgetting," which was most inspiring.

The meeting closed with prayer by the president.

A NAVAL RACE BEGINNING

Those who still hope for disarmament by-resolutions in the face of a rampant Germany and a defiant Japan, should take a day off from their gloomy mourning over the failure of the Geneva Conference—in spite of frequent infusions of oxygen—and consider the naval situation. An optimistic world thought that it had accomplished the limitation of naval armaments over ten years ago. It conceded that it might be difficult to secure a reduction in land armies, but the naval problem was simpler and had, indeed, been solved.

The Washington Conference adjourned and we gladly recorded a long step forward. It seemed even surer when neither Great Britain nor the United States built up to their permitted quotas. Some difficulty did arise about the number of light cruisers the British might have for the protection of their far-flung food routes, but even that was settled amicably in London. Armies might grow — forts might arise on disputed frontiers—air fleets might darken the skies. But the navies of the world had turned their prows toward peace.

Today, all is changed. Roosevelt hands over $238,000,000 to his Navy Department to build new ships. Great Britain speeds up her construction programme. France talks of increasing her fighting strength by strengthening her navy. Claude Swanson, American Secretary of the Navy, demands an orderly annual naval building and replacement programme which will shortly give the United States "a treaty navy." Japan retorts that it takes no interest in "a treaty navy," because it insists on naval equality with the United States and with Great Britain after 1936. The treaty party in Japan were only prevented from forcing a Cabinet crisis this year by the reluctant agreement of the military party to grant them a part of the budgeted vote for the Manchukuo campaign.

It is perfectly clear that the moment the Washington Treaty restrictions are removed, the world is off for a naval race—unless conditions change in the meantime. Japan will be the pace. With her new acquisitions on the mainland and her increased prestige in the Pacific world, she feels that she has a right to demand naval equality with any other Power. Unless the United States has abandoned the Philippines before that time, she will fear to fall to equality; for naval authority will put the Philippines at the mercy of Japan whenever that ambitious little people wanted to take them over.

Great Britain long ago recognized that it could not fight Japan for any possessions farther north than Singapore. Long before Japan had thrown her navy over a new Empire on the China coast, and so practically doubled our island resources, the British admitted that they could not hold Hong Kong against a determined Japanese attack by land and sea. The territory they occupied in Kowlung, on the mainland opposite Hong Kong, afforced to protect that island stronghold from effective bombardment from the shore in the old days when guns were effective at a shorter. But today, when guns could be planted behind the Kowlung hills and drop a barrage of shells on the heights of Hong Kong, the British stronghold would become untenable the moment a Japanese army had entrenched itself on the mainland opposite it.

If the United States has recovered her wealth before 1938, it is just possible that she will be willing to see her to a game of matching millions for naval supremacy. Her bold stand today may be born of a knowledge that neither the United States nor Europe is in any mood to enter such a race. But the Japanese are not easily daunted. They believe in their destiny. And the point at which they will seek expansion will not be land power—where they have no Pacific rivals—but sea power. We may get the French and the Germans to exercise a little sanity and agree to maintain their relative positions without bankrupting both of them; but we must not expect that this will scrap all armaments. The fight for supremacy at sea looks like coming back. — The Montreal Daily Star.

ZOO DRAMA ENACTED —TOUCHING EPISODES

Two touching dramas were recently enacted at the Charlesbourg Zoo, near Quebec. In one case a badger which had been maltreated by fellow badgers in captivity was returned to the zoo—but carried in a hospital, only to die of fright the minute it faced its erstwhile persecutors.

The other drama featured a mother bear and her cub. A slight indisposition landed the cub in hospital. The mother pined, lost appetite and was so overjoyed upon the return of her cub in good health that she gave it a literal "bear hug," encircling it completely, from its velvety nose to its ludicrous little tail. "Tarzan" is the youngster's name; "Mercedes" the mother's.

A RECORD IN SAFE TRANSPORTATION

One passenger killed in a train accident out of a total of 469,048,529 carried in 1933, or 66,100 miles is certainly a record to be proud of but this is what happened on Canadian and American railways in a single year, according to information supplied by the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics, which embraces all railways in North America.

This outstanding showing, Canadian National Railway officials state exemplifies the high degree of perfection which railway travel has reached and is the result of educating the employees along the lines of safety and the institution of safety devices.

ERINSVILLE

Erinsville, Jan. 13.—The numerous ice-houses are mostly all filled and the ice in Beaver Lake is of an excellent quality, being about sixteen inches in thickness. Freeman Deshane has done the greater part of the cutting, with his gasoline engine.

There is great activity in the lumbering industry and much more is anticipated. Mr. Amos Deshane of Marlbank, has secured a contract for several hundred cords of heading and all persons having this class of timber are disposing of it. There is also much demand for wood and farmers are busy hauling to the station, while the sleighing is good. With the prevalence of work in the woods and on the highway, there is no need for any unemployment.

William Hopkins, Jr., has gone to a construction camp on Lake Mannaw on the Napanee-Denbigh Highway, where he is engaged as a blacksmith.

We are pleased to see Miss Patricia Ward out again after being confined in the hospital with an infected foot.

A goodly number from here attended the old-time dance in Stoco, in Hughes' Hall, and report an enjoyable evening.

Miss Genevieve Flynn has returned home from Detroit after spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Raymond Parent (Margaret Flynn), who has recently suffered the death of her husband.

Mr. Richard Brougham is on the sick list and his sister, Mrs. Normile, of Napanee, is with him.

Drives Asthma Before It. The smoke or vapour from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy gives asthma no chance to linger. It eradicates the cause. Our experience with the relief-giving remedy shows how actual and positive is the succor it gives. It is the result of long study and experiment and was not submitted to the public until its makers knew it would do its work well.

STELLA

Stella, Jan. 12.— We are appreciating the wonderful mildness of the weather, but fear it is not very good for the ice.

Some of the Island members attended lodge in Bath, on Monday evening, January 8th.

On Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. E. Wellbanks, Stella, the W. A. of Trinity United Church held its January meeting, with Mrs. R. P. McMaster, the new president for the year, in the chair.

Several from here attended the dance and euchre in Emerald, on Friday evening.

The S. A. C. held a euchre in the Town Hall, Saturday evening.

The Women's Institute held its regular meeting on Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall, Plans are under way for a concert with refreshments, to be held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, February 2.

Miss Lulu Glenn who spent the Christmas vacation at the home of Miss Norma Scott, Mount Albert, has returned home. All are pleased to hear that Miss Scott, teacher at No. 5, who underwent an operation during the holidays, is progressing very favourably.

Miss Edith Scott is supplying for Miss N. Scott at S. S. No. 5.

Mr. Edward Fleming, who so lately came from British Columbia, to live with his sister, Miss Margaret Fleming, is very poorly at present, and is confined to his bed.

A good many visitors are taking advantage of the ice bridge to visit their friends here.

The S. A. C. deserves great credit for the splendid rink it has made. A keen interest in hockey is being taken at the present time.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Jan. 15. — The first meeting of the W. M. S. in the United Church for the year 1934, was held at the home of Mrs. Susan Jackson, Wednesday afternoon, January 10, with a good attendance of members. The first vice-president, Mrs. H. A. Carscallen was in charge and she opened the meeting with a New Year's message. "Since time, happiness is not found in dull content but in giving lives, through which the love of God may flow to others; sunshine and shadow, opportunity, responsibility, natural law, changes everywhere have brought us to a greater dependability on an understanding God." Following this message, a hymn was sung, and verses of scripture taken from the Psalms were read by the members, followed by prayer by Mrs. E. Raymond and Mrs. W. H. Varmest. The members were very pleased to have their president, Mrs. H. R. Jackson with them again, after her illness. Mrs. Jackson made a strong appeal that each member bring in a new member during the coming year. Very gratifying reports were given by the secretaries of the various departments, and the splendid report of the treasurer. During the past year several valuable members had been lost by their removal from the village. It was agreed to invite the members of the Anglican W. A. to join with the society in observing the Day of Prayer on February 16th. Following the singing of a hymn, Mrs. J. Bovaird gave a synopsis of the third chapter of the study book, bringing out the effects of Christianity in the homes of Chinese. Mrs. Loucks Looker briefly outlined Literary work in Trinity Church, Napanee. After singing another verse of "All the Way my Saviour leads me." Mrs. Carscallen, on behalf of the society, thanked Mrs. Jackson for her kind hospitality, and the meeting closed by repeating the mispah benediction.

The annual meeting of the W. A. of St. John's Anglican, Church was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Edna Clarke, on Thursday afternoon, January 11th. The meeting was opened by repeating the Lord's Prayer for different missionaries and their several stations, also blessings on the year's work and the election of officers. The Lord's Prayer was repeated and the scripture lesson was taken from Isaiah 42nd chapter, 1 to 9 verses and was read by Mrs. Guy Fenwick. The minutes of the December meeting were read and approved. Letters were read from Miss Jean Light, who was the winner in the drawing for the Afghan. A communication was read from Mr. Sam Walker, relating to his missionary work at Gipsonville, Sask., on an Indian Reserve. The report of the treasurer showed a balance on hand of $26.84. The annual report was read by the secretary and Mrs. Clarke read a short account of the many Indian missionary schools in the west, which were visited by Mrs. Bromer, showing that, while some were in prosperous condition, others were greatly in need of assistance. An invitation was read from the W. M. S. of the United Church, asking the members of the W. A. to unite with them in the World's Day of Prayer on February 16th, the 12th, "Prayer for Peace in Jerusalem." The invitation was accepted. The meeting was then opened for the election of officers for the ensuing year, Miss Clarke, retiring president, thanked the officers and members for their generous support during the past year. Mrs. Carscallen moved a vote of thanks to the president for her untiring efforts during the year and also moved that the president with the other officers, retain their present positions for another year as the membership of the society is small and the present officers seemed particularly suited to the duties of various offices. This motion was seconded by Mrs. Walter Wilson, and after some discussion the motion was carried. It was again resolved that the society carry on the work the same as last year, namely, that we meet our obligations of pledge money and affiliation fees, and prepare a bale of clothing. The president requested the secretary to write a letter of condolence to Mrs. Adams Wagar and her mother, Mrs. George Keller, in the death of her brother, Lansing Keller, of Watertown, N.Y. It was suggested that another euchre party be held at the home of Mrs. Guy Fenwick, on the evening of January 19th. The meeting was closed by the repeating of the Mizpah benediction and the members prayer. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Fenwick. The roll call will be answered by the members using the word throne. Following the meeting a very enjoyable lunch was served by the hostess, Miss Clarke, and Mrs. George Fenwick.

On Friday afternoon, January 12, Provincial Officers Mabar, of Enterprise, and Hill, of Madoc, raided the premises of Emile Deen, near the village of Marlbank, Ontario, county of Hungerford, and took possession of a complete still and a quantity of moonshine liquor. He was arrested and taken to Belleville gaol to await a hearing. Deen was released from gaol about two months ago after serving a sentence for a similar offence.

Last fall, when P. J. Murphy brought home his young cattle from his pasture ranch, about nine miles north of here, two yearling heifers were missing. This week Stafford Murphy, with some men, were repairing some fence there and the two animals were found on the shores of Slave Lake, browsing on bushes along the lake shore. How they ever managed to survive during the extreme cold weather of some time ago, without any shelter, is a mystery and with all available feed covered by snow and crust on the snow. They were brought back to the farm and seemed to be little worse for their experience.

The heavy wind on Wednesday evening of last week, filled the roads with snow, making motoring extremely difficult. The Tamworth-Kingston bus was unable to get through until late in the afternoon.

A number who attended the euchre and dance in the Parish Hall at Chisholm, experienced considerable trouble in returning home to the village, on account of the roads.

KINGSFORD

Kingsford, Jan. 12.—We have been enjoying a week of mild weather after the extreme cold during the holidays.

An enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allister on Friday last, when friends of the vicinity met in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCurry of Hamilton, who have been spending their holidays with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Melburne supplied the music.

Mrs. English entertained delightfully at dinner on Thursday evening.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mrs. Whitton, whose funeral was conducted by Rev. A. G. Cameron.

The regular meeting of the United Church W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Ross Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury have been visiting in Colebrook.

Those responsible for store breaking have been apprehended.

Mrs. Wm. Woodgate is in very poor health.

NORTHBROOK

Northbrook, Jan. 15. — The Colonization and Northern Development Department have let the new 24 ft. surface roadway construction away to a splendid start. Beginning at Kaladar, it follows through Northbrook, Cloyne, Denbigh, Griffith Bridge to Perthmoke, thus making a complete cross section connection from No. 7 highway to the trans-continental. The objective of this development is to open the lake district to tourists and relieve unemployment. Our local men are surely grasping the opportunity to earn a few dollars. It has been the duty of Reeve C. C. Thompson to spread this employment wherever most required, which even necessitated the action of relay, giving a semi-monthly pay to each family.

Municipal Council met on January 8th, at the call of the Clerk, H. Hastler, and members took the oath of office. Mr. John Baskey was appointed municipal road overseer for the year, while Mr. Bert Woodman again accepted the job of assessor, to the great pleasure of the board, as his previous years duty in this regard was very efficiently carried out. Mr. John Baker will be school officer and Mr. Harvey Champagne, weed inspector.

Capacity crowds continue to attend at the Pentecostal revival services, conducted by evangelist, J. M. Ruthven.

Those attending the night's entertainment given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Levere, in their hotel Cloyne, on Friday evening, speak highly of the new Reeve of Barrie and his capable wife as a hostess. A sumptuous lunch was served to about 140 friends. The Perry orchestra furnished the music.

Mr. H. H. Thompson and sister, Velva, spent a few days at Mr. and Mrs. H. King's, Kingston.

Messrs. Smith and MacDonald, of Temple Boulevard, Toronto, spent Friday investigating the progress at the Kaladar Lode mine, No. 1, under the management of P. Holton.

Messrs. Marshall and Lewis Vanness, being the lowest bidders, are hauling the relief wood out from the timber cuts at Kaladar.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hillier are staying with Mrs. W. Scott at Harlowe.

EMPEY HILL

Empey Hill, Jan. 15. — Mr. and Mrs. William Waddingham spent the past week with their daughter, Mrs. R. McFarlane, Shannonville.

The Tyendinaga East W. I. members met at the home of Mrs. M. P. Husband on Friday, and pieced a quilt. The next meeting will be at the home Mr. R. Tucker, on Friday evening, January 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Akey were recent visitors at Mr. Fred Husband's.

"PERSONS NOT FAT LIVE LONGEST"

Eminent Physician Declares

In a recent lecture before the American Academy of Medicine a prominent physician stated that persons who aren't fat live the longest.

Common sense confirms this. Insurance companies often reject overweight folks; or charge higher premiums on account of the risk. Fat breeds and weakens body organs. It slows you down and puts unnecessary strain on the heart. A host of ailments even rheumatism, acidity, shortness of breath and lassitude are often associated with fat.

So get rid of this dangerous, unhealthy fat. There's no reason why you shouldn't, when science has given you this safe, effective treatment—a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water first thing every morning.

This healthful "little daily dose" of Kruschen keeps your system free from harmful toxins, it helps to re-establish normal and proper body functioning—it keeps you feeling fine and fit all the time. Energetic activity takes the place of sluggish indolence all while you lose stress fat gradually and without discomfort.

STRATHCONA

Strathcona, Jan. 15.—The January meetingof the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. James Wilson on Wednesday of last week, with a good attendance. The next meeting is to be held at Mrs. George Scott's.

Mrs. Bruce Finlay and Mrs. G. R. Finlay called on their sister, Mrs. Ward Wartman, Napanee, on Friday. The many friends of Mrs. Wartman will be glad to hear that she is much improved.

We are also glad to be able to report that Mr. W. H. Hartwick is recovering nicely after a severe attack of pneumonia. He has been under the able care of Dr. Mounce.

Rev. and Mrs. Anderson, Newburgh took tea one evening recently, with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoare.

Mrs. Herbert Huffman, who has had an operation for appendicitis, is not progressing as well as was expected. Her friends and neighbors all hope for a speedy recovery to health and strength.

Mrs. W. Wilson spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Asselstine, Moscow.

Mrs. L. Best spent a day recently in Napanee.

A number attended the Quarterly Service in the United Church, Newburgh, on Sunday morning.

Mission Circle was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Uens. The February meeting is to be held at Bruce Finlay's, the first Friday evening in the month.

Mrs. George Huffman, Moscow, spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Harold Hoare.

Sunday School next Sunday at 10:30 a.m. You are invited.

YARKER

Yarker, Jan. 15.— Last week was surely women's week in this village.

On Monday night the Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Ruttan, transacted the usual business and laid plans for the new year's activities. Then on Thursday night, the Colebrook-Yarker W. M. S. met, also at the home of Mrs. Ruttan, for their regular monthly meeting. On Friday night the Women's Institute held their annual banquet in the United Church hall. A goodly number of men and women assembled to partake of the feast and to enjoy the program. The guest speaker was Mrs. Wright of Violet, who gave an address on making the home attractive. There were also local speakers.

The men, however, were not to far behind, as they had two gatherings in the hall, last week. The Telephone meeting on Wednesday, and a cheese meeting on Friday.

Last Thursday, the Tamworth bus which is due in Yarker about eight o'clock, did not make its appearance until two-thirty. Blocked roads from north of Moscow to Colebrook, was the reason of the delay. Mr. Wagar, who runs the bus and also operates a truck between Tamworth and Kingston, succeeded in "getting" the snow plough through and thus opening up the road for the bus. Now that there is a bus and the need for the accommodation of the public and the high school pupils, it seems too bad that the road cannot be kept open.

DORLAND

Dorland, Jan. 13 — Considerable excitement was aroused on Sunday evening when the news spread that Mr. Ross Allison's truck had gone through the ice in Hay Bay. Quite a few of the men from this side assisted with the work of raising it on Monday morning. Everyone is glad to know that the Allison family suffered no serious results from their icy bath.

The regular meeting of the Y. P. S. was held on Friday evening. A congregational meeting is to be held next Wednesday evening at which reports will be received from the various branches and societies of the United Church.

The public speaking contest which was to have been held last Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, was indefinitely postponed owing to the uncertain roads and weather.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake up your Liver Bile

No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of bile into your bowels, every day. Without that bile, trouble starts. Poor digestion, Slow elimination. Poisons in the body. General wretchedness.

How can you expect to clear up a situation like this completely with mere bowel-moving salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or headache? They don't make up the liver bile.

You need Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Mild. Quick and sure results. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. At all druggists.

Reeve G. L. Hawley Elected 1934 Warden By County Council

First Meeting of Council Now in Session

Mr. Gordon L. Hawley, the Reeve of Bath, was elected the warden of the County of Lennox and Addington, at the first session of the council, yesterday.

Mr. Hawley is, possibly the youngest warden ever elected in the county. He is just past 33 years. He has been Reeve of Bath for three years and a member ot the Bath Council for eight years.

He is a prosperous young farmer, living on the second farm west of Bath village. His record in the village council and the county council has been very fine.

This new honor is a mark of confidence which his associates in the county council have in him.

First Session Opens

The County Council met in first session on Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., in the council chamber at the Napanee county buildings.

County Clerk Wilfred S. Wilson was in charge of the opening proceedings. He called on Rev. R. T. Richards, the minister of Grace United Church, Napanee, to address the council and offer prayer.

The clerk read the certificates of the newly elected representatives as submitted by the township clerks. Immediately following, the business of electing the warden was proceeded with. On motion of Reeve C. G. Walker, of Newburgh, and Deputy-Reeve R. C. Wilson of Napanee, Mr. Gordon L. Hawley, Reeve of Bath, was nominated for the position. No other names being advanced, Reeve Hawley was elected as warden for 1934.

Immediately following his election, W. S. Wilson offered his congratulations to the new warden, and extended Warden J. Clarke escorted him to the warden's chair. The oath of office was administered by the county solicitor, Mr. J. M. Simpson, K.C.

Congratulations Extended

The clerk asked every member of the council to speak and each man present offered his congratulations to the new warden and pledged support for the year. Mr. W. S. Wilson, the clerk, expressed regret that Mr. J. S. Johnson, the reeve of Adolphustown, was unable to take his place on account of illness.

Ex-warden A. C. Miller, Mayor Tustin of Napanee and County Solicitor J. M. Simpson, K.C., who were in the audience, briefly addressed the council and offered good wishes to the new warden and the council, for 1934.

Warden Hawley briefly thanked the members of the council for electing him to his high office. He promised the best service he could give in the interests of the county. He asked for the same loyal support for himself as had been given previous wardens.

On behalf of the Council of 1932, the new warden presented a case to the ex-Warden, James W. Clarke, as a token of esteem and appreciation for loyal service.

A motion was moved by Reeve Frank Smith and seconded by Reeve C. G. Thompson, namely: Messrs. Cooke, Smith, Young, Black, Walker, Hawley and Thompson, a committee to strike the standing committees for 1934.

An amendment to the motion, moved by Reeve McCutcheon and seconded by Reeve Hughson, naming Messrs. Cooke, Black, Smith, McCutcheon, Young Clark and Hughson, as a committee to strike the standing committees was put to the Council and was lost. The original motion carried.

Council adjourned for the committee above to bring in a report.

Standing Committees of County Council for Year 1934.

FINANCE COMMITTEE— James W. Clarke, chairman; D. W. Young, secretary; A. R. Black, T. J. Cook, F. Smith, C. G. Walker.

RESIGNED POSITON

George Knox, who has been salesman with the J. J. Haines Shoe House for the past eleven years, has tendered his resignation. Before going with the Haines firm, Mr. Knox was for 15 years with Wilson Shoe Company. He is an old Madoc boy, and since coming to Napanee, many years ago has, by his courtesy and affable manner, made many warm friends.

Fire Destroys Store and Stock Davis & Daughter

Just at twelve o'clock midnight, on Wednesday, fire broke out in the ladies' ready-to-wear and fur store of Davis & Daughter, on Dundas St. The entire stock of the store was completely destroyed and heavy damage was done to the salesroom and dressing room sections of the building.

Mr. Zender, the manager, had been out during the earlier part of the evening and had left the Superior Restaurant, next door, about twenty minutes before the fire was discovered, and saw no indication of fire at the time. Employees of the Superior Restaurant noticed smoke coming through the dividing wall and hastened in next door to give the alarm. Mr. Zender was on the second floor, in the living apartment, baout ready to retire for the night, and made a hurried exit.

When the firemen arrived smoke was issuing from the front and rear of the building in a dense clour. They quickly had the water playing on the flames, but before they could be extinguished, the entire stock of furs and ladies' dresses and coats was absolutely ruined. The fire was confined to the shop part of the building and the living quarters, on the first and second floors, were merely damaged by smoke and water.

The stores on either side, Kimmerly's Grocery and the Superior Restaurant, were filled with smoke, while the fire was in progress.

Mr. Zender and his young son are at present at Ste. Agathe des Monts, in Quebec, where they have been staying for the past two months on account of Mrs. Zender's health.

Short Course Students Social Evening

On Wednesday evening the young people of the county, who are attending the special short courses, arranged by the Department of Agriculture, held a skating party and social evening. There were about forty in attendance; the majority combining about thirty; the instructors, the county representative and a number of friends.

Later the party returned to the class-room at the office of the department, where dancing was enjoyed for a couple of hours, and refreshments were served.

County Men Elected Cheesemakers Asso'n 1934 Executive

A special meeting of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association was held Tuesday afternoon in the City Hall, Belleville, with a representative attendance of members from throughout the district. Mr. John Finnegan, President, occupied the chair. This meeting was called for the election of officers for 1934, as an error had been made at the annual convention, December last, in naming too many Directors, and Directors are responsible for the choosing of officers.

Following the election of the five Directors for 1934, Mr. J. L. Irwin, District Cheese Grader, was called on to address the gathering. Mr. Irwin pointed out the decrease in cheese production in Ontario during 1933. Central and Western Ontario were responsible for a decrease of some 70,000 boxes, whereas Eastern Ontario had a decline of only 4,000 boxes. He urged the necessity of greater production, with the prediction that if the decline continued for four or five years more, Canada would be off the export market altogether. Ontario was producing the best quality cheese, and there was little left to be done in that line. A few factories yet manufactured poor cheese and perhaps there will always be a few of that kind, said Mr. Irwin.

He was hopeful that a "Cheese Week" would be inaugurated in Canada this year and this is under consideration now and plans were formulating. The National Dairy Council was favorable to it and he trusted the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association would make the initial formative move. It means a big thing to the cheese industry, concluded Mr. Irwin.

At an after meeting of the new Directors the following slate of officers was elected for 1934:

Hon. President—J. H. Lynn, Belleville.

Hon. Vice-President—J. P. Griffin, Toronto.

President— E. I. Babcock, Napanee R. R. No. 1.

Immediate Past President — John Finnegan, Marmora.

Vice - President — H. J. Dulmage, Picton.

Secretary—J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg.

Treasurer— Miss A. Safe, Belleville.

Directors — W. Dillenbeck, Napanee R. R. No. 5; S. Anderson, Melrose: G. Pollard, Belleville, R. R. No. 2; F. M. Little, Campbellford, R. R. No. 3.

Representatives — J. S. Cook, Belleville; S. L. Joss, Belleville; L. A. Zufelt, Eastern Dairy School, Kingston; E. V. Illsey, Manager, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville, W. H. Wiggins, Manager Royal Bank of Canada, Napanee.

For the satisfactory storage of roots, temperatures in the cellars should be maintained at between 32 and 38 degrees F.

Welfare Organizations Seek Children's Home

Corrective Institution for Mentally Defective

Mr.W illiam Barrett, the local superintendent of the Children's Aid Society of Lennox and Addington, was delegated to attend a meeting of social workers in Ottawa, on Friday, January 19th, as representative of the local association, but was unable to be present. Matters which were laid before the representatives of the government were of vital importance to the work of the Children's Aid Society and other welfare organizations.

One of the objects of the meeting which was attended by about 500 social workers of eastern Ontario, was to secure the erection, in eastern Ontario, of a home for mentally defective children. At the present time the only home in the province, for such children, is at Orillia, Ontario. It is considered entirely inadequate to look after all cases which need attention.

Mr. P. D. Ross Urges Establishment of Institution

A plea was made by P. D. Ross chairman of the Royal Commission which three years ago investigated hospital and other institutional needs in Ontario, for a "beginning to be made at once towards a new institution for the care of Ontario's mental defectives," in an address to the 500 social workers assembled.

Mr. Ross urged also that such institution should be located in Eastern Ontario.

Hon. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health in Ontario, reviewed what his department had done to implement recommendations made by the Royal Commission. He explained that the small institution in Cobourg would serve as "the nucleus of a new institution, hospital or what will look after the eastern portion of the province."

Outlines Work

Following the address of Mr. Robb in reply to the representations of the delegates, Dr. H. T. McGhie, under whom the mental hygiene program of the province is being developed, spoke briefly on the work that had been done and what was contemplated by the Department of Health.

Speaking of mentally ill persons, Dr. Robb said that with adults it is necessary to take them into the hospitals immediately whereas it was not so urgent where children were concerned. The Brockville Hospital, which serves Eastern Ontario, looks after 15 per cent of the people in the province. In this regard Eastern Ontario was well looked after and in regards the mentally defective it was in the same category as the rest of the province in having to send the patients to Orillia.

It was impossible to build two institutions for mentally defectives at the present time, he added. He outlined a plan in operation at present of placing certain classes of patients in homes where they receive proper treatment after having been trained in colony homes. Last October the question of what might be done in Eastern Ontario came up and it was practically decided to establish a colony house. On February 1, a number of the female patients at Cobourg are being moved to another hospital and a few selected cases from Orillia are being sent there to the hospital, which, he said would form a nucleus of a mental defective hospital there. In this manner it was hoped to look after the mental defectives in Eastern Ontario.

Premier Geo. S. Henry Announces Reduction In Examination Fees

Means Large Saving to the Public

Premier George S. Henry, in his capacity as Minister of Education of the Province of Ontario, announced last week, a reduction in the [illegible] examination fees.

Dollar Per Paper

"The Minister of Education announces that the fees to be charged candidates in the departmental examinations of 1934 have been reduced from $1.50 per paper to $1 per paper in the case of and from $1 to 75 cents in the provincial districts," says the official announcement.

"During the past two years the cost per examination has been greatly reduced not only by the policy of accepting the reports of teachers on the standing of pupils, but also by reductions made in the amount paid to those charged with the conduct of the examinations.

"The net cost to the Province on account of all examinations, after deducting the share of fees received in 1931 was $775,952; in 1932, $145,729 and in 1933 it was $109,096. The amount of fees received in 1931 was $129,552; 1932, $170,976; and 1933, $157,982.

Two Reasons Given

"The decrease in the amount of fees received in 1933 as compared with those of 1932, was due mainly to two circumstances, the transfer of the lower school examinations to local High School Entrance Boards, and the broader understanding of the fact that upper school certificates in all except three subjects carry with them middle school standing. Pupils can be promoted throughout the course in the schools of this Province without writing any departmental examinations.

"The local cost of examinations are paid by local Boards of Trustees, which receive the entire amount of fees paid by lower school candidates and 4 per cent of the fees paid by those of the middle and upper school. The amount received usually reimburses boards for expenditures and the cost of the larger schools where the examination halls contain a maximum number of candidates, but a "considerable balance is not unusual. The Department of Education makes a grant only where the lower school examination in any centre where receipts fall short of expenditure."

Address Given By Mr. Jack Metzler At Trinity Church

Mr. Jack Metzler, who has recently returned from a three year stay in Europe, addressed a large gathering in Trinity Church on Monday evening, on the subject "Impressions of Modern Germany."

Mr. Metzler is the son of, Mr. J. W. Metzler of Napanee. He is a graduate of Napanee Collegiate and of Toronto University. He has taken work at Cologne University, Columbia University and spent nearly three years at the University of Berlin.

While in Europe he visited, on several occasions, Italy and France, and was in Russia for six weeks. He has had unusual opportunity to get first hand knowledge of conditions in Europe.

His address dealt largely with the youth movement in the various countries he visited and particularly with that of Germany. At the close of his talk he answered questions from members of the audience. In his answers he gave some impressions of Hitler, the causes and effects of the anti-Jewish movement in Germany and other matters of especial interest.

The meeting was under the auspices of the Young People's League and was in charge of Miss Ruth Milling. Musical numbers were given by Miss Muriel Wilson, Mrs. H. B. Gaby and a group of boys. Readings were given by Miss Jean Milling and Tom Webb.

Mr. Metzler was introduced to the audience by Rev. Harry Pawson and the thanks of the organization were extended to the speaker by C. L. Graham at the close of the address.

Rev. Archer Wallace Ann'sary Preacher At Trinity Church

Rev. Archer Wallace, M.A., of Toronto, is to be the speaker at the anniversary services of Trinity United Church on Sunday and Monday, April 8th and 9th.

Mr. Wallace is the associate editor of the United Church Sunday School publications. As such, he is well known to a wide circle of church people, throughout Canada. He is a regular contributor to the Sunday school papers and, in addition, has written several books, which have had a popular reception among many readers. He is favorably known as a preacher and lecturer.

Canadian Employment Shows Increase In 1933

According to figures recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, employment in Canada steadily increased in 1933. The report gives the following facts :—

In all, 146,900 people were added to the number of wage-earners in Canada by these firms from April 1 to December 1. During that period the index number of employment (based on 1926 as 100) jumped 15.8 points, or 20.8 per cent., from the year's low of 76 to 91.8.

Trend Reversed in Spring

The first few months of the year, from January to April, were marked by declines, but from then on, the trend was reversed. So much was this the case that the upward trend was carried along into the fall months, which are usually marked by seasonal declines.

All economic areas and all main industries, with the exception of communications, shared in the upward movement. In the Maritime Provinces, payrolls were increased by 10,500; in Quebec, by 52,000; in Ontario, by 56,000; in the Prairie Provinces, by 13,600; and in British Columbia, by 13,000.

Quebec showed the largest relative gain, 36.4 per cent.; but British Columbia was a close second, with a jump of 34.1 per cent, and registered the greatest proportional gain between the year's low and high points. The Prairies brought up the rear with 14.1 per cent.

By industries, by far the largest increase was in logging. Here 36,275 workers were added to the working forces of the employers reporting, and the percentage increase in the index number was 367.7. Construction also forged ahead, due in part to the program of unemployment relief works, and payrolls increased by 46,319 workers, producing a gain in the index number of 72.9 per cent. Communications (telegraph and telephone systems) recorded the only considerable decrease, 923 workers, or a percentage drop in the index number of 4.1.

Chimney Fire in Brisco House Block

A chimney fire in the old Brisco House block gave the firemen a run on Wednesday evening. About nine o'clock, a call was put in, which proved to be merely a chimney fire. It was quickly extinguished without causing any serious damage.

SHORT COURSES PROGRESSING

There was a slight increase in attendance at the short courses being conducted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The average attendance for the week was fifteen boys and sixteen girls. The largest increase in attendance was for the special poultry lecture.

On Monday morning of this week the boys' class met in the Agricultural Laboratory at the Collegiate Institute under the direction of Dr. Morden. Some simple experiments in elementary soil chemistry were demonstrated. The latter part of the period was taken by Mr. Bruce Meld, who gave a short talk with microscope demonstrations on bacteriology.

Mr. G. W. Michael, Dominion Seed Branch, Belleville, took the afternoon session. He explained briefly, the main points of the seeds Acts under their control, stressing many practical points in seed production. He stressed the importance of demanding and getting No. 1 seed for planting in grains and small seeds. He also stressed the importance of thoroughly cleaning homegrown grains destined for sowing. He stated that any farmer can have three samples of seed tested free of charge by sending them to the Department of Ottawa.

There are two other special speakers scheduled for this week. All interested are invited to attend. There are still two weeks of the regular course and any who have not been able to attend as yet are cordially invited to drop in any or all of the classes.

On Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 24, the girls' class will be addressed by Miss Edith Elliott, lecturer and demonstrator in Fruit Branch, Ottawa. Miss Elliott will demonstrate "Fruits and Home Canning." This meeting is open to all ladies who are interested.

On Thursday, Jan. 25th, Mr. R. J. Hryden, Chemistry Department, O. A. C., Guelph, will take special classes in "Soils and Fertilizers."

On Friday, Jan. 26th, Mr. I. C. Marritt, Department of Lands and Forests, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, will conduct special classes in "Landscape Gardening and Farm Forestry."

The girls are giving an informal afternoon tea on Friday, January 26, from 3 to 5 p.m., to which invitations have been extended to the members of Napanee Institute and their friends.

Police Court News

There three charges laid against Hill : breaking and entering, theft, breaking the terms of a suspended sentence. In September 1933 Hill was convicted of theft and given a two-year suspended sentence.

He was again convicted on the recent charges and given six months definite and six months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory on the breaking and entering charge, the same sentence on the theft charge and three months on the breaking of terms of suspended sentence, all to run concurrently.

A resident of the Township of Portland, in Frontenac, was convicted on a charge of driving a motor vehicle without license markers. He was fined five dollars and costs.

Lennox Fair Association Consider the Possibility Of Holding 1934 Fair

St. Andrew's Church Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's United Church was held on Wednesday evening last. A large representation of the congregation was present when reports from all organizations were presented and the work of the church reviewed. The treasurer reported there had been several losses in membership during the year, but by strict economy the treasurer had been able to meet all expenses and had a substantial balance on current account. The givings to the Missionary and Maintenance fund were slightly below that of last year.

The managers who were elected to fill the place of those retiring were Dr. Willoughby, C. B. Creighton and R. Valkman.

In connection with the report of the Young People's Society, Mr. Gordon MacGregor, the president, on behalf of the society, presented to the church an enlarged photograph of the Rev. John Scott, the first minister. In making the presentation, he read an interesting account of Mr. Scott's pastorate and the struggles of the early days of the church.

After the business was over refreshments were served and the group enjoyed an interesting social evening.

The Late George Franklin Rooks

The death occurred at his home in Clarksville, after a few hours illness, of George Franklin Rooks, on Thursday, January 18th. Mr. Rooks had been suffering from heart trouble for some time, but was taken with a sudden attack on Thursday morning and passed away later in the day

He was born in the Township of Richmond, about 68 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abel Rooks. As a young man, he left for the northwest, where for some years he farmed. Nearly twenty years ago he returned east and took up farming in Richmond, where he remained until a few years ago, when he and his wife came to Clarksville in Napanee, to live.

He is also survived by his wife formerly Miss Alberta Loucks, who for the past two years has been an invalid. He is also survived by his brother Henry Rooks, of the Slash Road, a sister, Mrs. Scott in Frankford, and a brother and two sisters, in the west.

The funeral service was conducted on Saturday at the home, by Rev. R. T. Richards, minister of Grace United Church, of which Mr. Rooks had been a member since coming to Napanee.

Interment was made in Riverside cemetery.

Elect Officers for Year

The annual meeting of the Lennox Fair Association was held in Napanee on Thursday afternoon, January 18th. Mr. Geo H. Switzer, the President, was in the chair.

The Treasurer, Mr Harry E. Boyle, presented his report, which showed a balance on hand of $727.41. There was no fair held last year and the previous year's grant of $233.22 was augmented by the Government grant of $446.09 and other small items, which made the total receipts $690.56. From this was deducted certain small incidental expenses, amounting to $63.15, leaving the agricultural balance of over $600.00.

Fair May Be Held In 1934

Some discussion took place as to the holding of a fair in 1934. It was the general opinion of those present that a fair should be held this year, but no definite action deciding the matter was taken. There is to be a meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association in Belleville on Thursday of this week, January 25th, to which Mr. Fred H. Henderson and Mr. Robert Merritt will go, representing the local association. At the Belleville meeting the allotment of dates will be made for the fairs of the district. If a suitable date can be secured for Lennox Fair, in all probability there will be a fair in Napanee this year.

Mr. Robert Merritt and Mr. Fred Henderson were named to interview the county council at the January session with reference to a grant for the fair. Mr. W. G. Cowle and Mr. Harry E Boyle were named and a similar office with the town council.

Mr. C. W. Buchanan, the agricultural representative, who was present, addressed the meeting. The annual election of officers was the next order of business and resulted as follows :—

President— George H Switzer.
1st Vice-President— Ray Perry.
2nd Vice-President— W. G. Cowle.
Secretary— Dannel A. Garrison.
Treasurer— Harry E. Boyle.

Kingston to Mark Loyalists' Coming To Upper Canada

150TH ANNIVERSARY

Kingston. — To this centre of Loyalist settlement, where flat-bottomed river boats found journey's end 150 years ago, descendants of these who manned them will throng this year, by steamer, train and motor car.

Special observances at Kingston and surrounding communities, this summer are designed to mark the passing of a century and a half; to recall the spirit of 10,000 men and women who forsook established homes in colonies revolting against the Crown, and chose to pioneer again on Cataraqui's forested shores.

Kingston and Adjacent Adolphus Counties in Eastern Ontario were the chief areas of settlement for the Loyalists, many of who came to Upper Canada in 1784. The first contingent arrived under Captain Michael Grass, who had been a prisoner of the French years before in old Fort Frontenac at Cataraqui, now Kingston. They travelled from New York to Sorel, Que., in seven King's ships in care of a man-o'-war and covered the last 200 miles up the St. Lawrence from Sorel in bateaux.

Captain Grass was granted the first township lot, on which Kingston was founded. The second went to Rev. John Stuart, "Father of the Church of England in Upper Canada," and first rector of St. George's, Sir Campbell Stuart of the London Times is a descendant, and he maintains his forebear's grave in Kingston.

The noted Indian Chief, Brant, and his sister, Mollie Brant, widow of Sir John Johnson, Superintendent of Indian Affairs in New York before the Revolutionary War, lived in Kingston in early Loyalist days.

Of late, years "increasing interest in the Loyalists has been marked by extension of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Canada. Two years ago the Kingston Historical Society sought to have the names of Loyalist descendants in each district enrolled in preparation for the 150th anniversary celebration. The Historic Sites and Monuments Board has marked many sites dating back to pioneer days in Upper Canada.

The Captain Grass mentioned was the great grandfather of Mr. George Grass and the grandfather of Mr. William Grass, of Napanee.

Quinte District Seed Fair To be Held at Napanee

Will be Held in Town Hall March 14, 15, 16

Local representatives on the executive of the Quinte District Seed Fair Association have secured the annual fair for Napanee this year. This will be the eighth annual fair of the association. It will be held in the Napanee Town Hall on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 14th, 15th and 16th.

The Quinte District Association comprises the Counties of Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Hastings, Durham, Northumberland, and Peterboro'. The fair was held last year in Belleville, where it has also been held on several other occasions. It was held in Napanee, in the Armories, five years ago.

J. B. Elliott, President, 1933

Mr. J. B. Elliott, a well known farmer of the Hawley district, a former member of the Lennox and Addington County Council, and Warden of the County of Lennox and Addington, is president of the Association last year. Mr. Elliott, Mr. Fred H. Henderson, of the New Years district, and Mr. C. W. Buchanan, the local representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, attended a meeting of the prize list committee in Brighton, Saturday. Mr. Buchanan was appointed assistant secretary of the association, to look after local details in connection with the fair.

Plans are being made to make the fair of especial value to the farmers of the district represented. Special speakers will be secured to discuss matters pertaining to seed and demonstrations will be given, and suitable prizes will be offered for the various competitions.

More information concerning the fair will be given at a later date, when some further details have been arranged.

Program of Work To Replace Relief

Henry Satisfied With Results of Conference at Ottawa

Toronto — Substitution of a large public works programme for direct relief will be put into effect as soon as possible in Ontario this year, according to Premier Henry, who returned to Toronto from the Dominion-Provincial Conference in Ottawa.

The Premier expressed satisfaction with the conference results. "As far as unemployment relief is concerned we in Ontario will carry on as before with assurance that the Dominion Government will co-operate to the fullest extent," the Premier said.

"Direct relief in Ontario will be cut down as rapidly as possible and in its place will be an extensive program of indirect relief through public works programs," he continued. In regard to the land settlement scheme, the amount granted to each family is increased from $600 to $700 by an agreement whereby the Dominion Government contributes an additional amount. This will take care of an extra year."

Premier Henry stated that progress had been made in connection with the Companies' Act during the Ottawa Conference. He believed uniformity legislation by the Dominion would eventually result from the discussions.

THE VETERANS' PROTEST

The action of the Stratford Branch of the Canadian Legion in returning their war medals in the interests of peace has attracted widespread interest in their motives. These veterans returned their victory medals with the suggestion that they be melted down to help pay war debts. The President of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion has reprimanded the Stratford members for their action. In answering this criticism President Foot, of Stratford, says : "In this Branch we feel that the best interests of Canada and peace are served by pointed demonstration of the futility of war. The time is past when resolutions and pious references to the poets are of any avail. Today there are no enemies but greed, nationalism, armaments and war. Let us join forces to combat them by showing to the world at large that we who know war, know that the losers lose, the winners lose, and that the only beneficiaries are the armament manufacturers."

There is nothing any veteran cherishes more than his war medals. The little disc of silver or bronze represents years of service and sacrifice. Men do not willingly give these up. That the Legionaires in Stratford have parted with theirs, as they did, shows they were moved by a very powerful motive. The soldiers, they who have braved the mud, the privation and hardship unmentionable, in the face of constant threat to life, are the ones who know from experience what war means. They are not arm chair critics. They know. In the face of the power and influence of armament makers and war scare mongers, there is little that the old soldier can do to warn the present generation against its horrors. The veterans in Stratford have, at least, given a public demonstration of their faith in the futility of war to settle anything.

THE WATERWAYS PROPOSAL

The St. Lawrence waterways proposal, which, in one form or another, has been before Canada and the United States for a decade, is now definitely before the United States Senate for consideration. That which takes it out of the realm of academic discussion and gives it the prospect of practical consideration, is the fact that President Roosevelt has come out strongly in favor of an immediate beginning on the great sea way project.

As was to be expected, opposition has been strongly organized, and on every opportunity when there is a lull in the proceedings in the Senate, some Senator rises to give an address against the St. Lawrence waterways. It doesn't matter that only half a dozen senators hear the address. The reporters are there and it gets into the papers. The chief opposition comes from the great sea port cities on the Atlantic coast and cities on the lakes, like Buffalo. The cities believe that they will lose trade, as the ocean going vessels may come to the lakes, from Great Britain and Europe. The history of canals, however, does not bear out their fears. When the Manchester ship canal was built, the great opposition to it came from Liverpool, which envisioned its trade and commerce dwindling to nothing; as a matter of history, Liverpool has gone ahead in direct proportion to the increase of ocean going trade, with Manchester.

Another group from which opposition comes is the railroad group. They have seen their huge organization reduced to sore financial straits as a result of motor truck competition. And now they see another competition — the ocean to lake head steamer — which will cut, still further, into their revenue. That eventuality has to be faced. In the march of progress one form of transportation has had to give way to another: automobiles drove the horse and buggy off the roads, the trains made the stage coach obsolete, and if the motor transport has injured lines investments in railroads, they cannot legitimately be used as an argument against building a canal.

So far as this part of Ontario is concerned, we stand to gain immensely by the project, should it be approved, and work commence; thousands of men would be given employment, and towns and cities in the vicinity would benefit by the increased activity.

The problem of securing more power is not now a pressing one. But when the conditions once more become normal, the demand will increase and the only source left for the supply of that demand from natural resources, is the St. Lawrence.

Overdoing It

Sometimes the grounds presented in U. S. A. for divorce or judicial separation look a little thin to English eyes, but that objection cannot be urged in the case of a reported sensational suit by a wife who complains that her husband painted herself and their three children green in order to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. That is getting beyond the state of "mental cruelty"; there are real grounds for assuming incompatibility of temperament in the case of a husband who returned the whole family into greensunshiny ultra-Irish fervour? There is a certain amount of traditional support for the Green Man, but even in the curious and extensive lore of Irish signs there is no record of a Green Mother of Three.

Nor is there anything in the history of other observations of St. Patrick's Day that would justify such an ill-advised display of enthusiasm. There may have been patriots who felt that they were then entitled to paint the town red, but there are no precedents for also painting one's family green.

There were just as careless drivers thirty years ago, but the horses had sense.

DOMINION PROVINCIAL RESULTS

The practice which has grown out of present necessity, in virtue of which representatives of the Provinces meet with the Dominion Government representatives, to discuss common problems, has much to commend it. The Provincial Governments, separated by long distances from each other, are apt to magnify their own difficulties, and to assume they are being neglected by the central government, in their time of need. There is no better way of creating harmony, and good will among the Provinces, than for their representatives to gather together and hear each other's story.

The Conference, held last week, was fruitful in many ways. It is well known that the Western Provinces have suffered very greatly during the last few years, due not only to the drop in wheat prices, but to drought and other disasters. There has had to be heavy borrowing from the public, in order to meet current expenses. The Conference faced this issue, and decided that no province would be allowed to default in its interest payments. While this is not a Dominion guarantee, it is, at least, reassuring to those who, in good faith, bought the bonds of the Western Provinces, to know that the interest on them will continue to be paid.

In addition to this, the Conference agreed that "until such times as the large numbers of unemployed should be substantially absorbed, ... Federal assistance to the Provinces should be continued on the present basis of direct relief." This will assure that for the present year, at least, the arrangement by which Province, Dominion and Municipality each pay a third of direct relief, will stand. That direct relief is essential for the present year is quite apparent to all students of the problem, and that the present method of dealing with it is to be continued, will insure a due measure of economical distribution and an adequate care for the needy.

One of the resolutions which was passed came somewhat as a surprise in the light of the present and past policy of the Government. It was resolved : "That the time has arrived when a program of municipal and public works should be undertaken — and that any such works should be commenced in the spring." This is a good measure so long as the governments involved will be able to withstand the pressure for unnecessary public works merely on the grounds of providing work. There are many necessary public works that should be undertaken and the expenditure of money in this way will provide, not only labour on the immediate building project, but will call for increased payrolls in subsidiary organizations which will have to provide materials and goods.

The re-enactment of a Uniform Companies Act which had been widely heralded as one of the main purposes of the meeting, could not be completed. The Provinces asked for an extension of time in order to study the draft bill and to meet again on March 1st, for this purpose. This is a wise procedure; a bill of so great import needs the careful study of specially trained experts, before being submitted to the various parliaments, for approval.

Altogether, the meeting provided a great clearing house for the exchange of ideas on common problems.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Two dispatches appearing together, in a recent news despatch, deserve to be read together. The first notice was that at the meeting in Ottawa of the Provincial representatives, it would be proposed that the country adopt some form of unemployment insurance. The despatch further said that since Great Britain had a long experience with this form of insurance, their plan would probably be followed in any scheme adopted here.

The other notice was from Toronto; it said that the Ford plant on the Danforth, which had been closed since last September, would be opened and would re-employ three hundred men who were laid off, last Fall.

More than once we have expressed the opinion that unemployment insurance of some kind was an inevitability in modern society. The modern state is rapidly moving into the sphere of economics, which it evaded for a generation or more. Today, the chief burden of governments is to see that men and women have employment, or lacking that, sufficient funds to enable them to keep body and soul together. While this is true, yet unemployment insurance can never be a solution of a present social problem. The ordinary man and woman needs work, they need gainful employment, they need the concentration on creative activity, which is essential to a happy and contented society. So that at best, any scheme of unemployment insurance must be, only a make shift in a period of transition.

It is suggested that the British plan should be the model for a Canadian scheme. Under the British plan, the workman, the employer and the government, contribute to the employment fund. This scheme places an altogether too heavy burden on the government. Take, for example, the motor car industry. As it is organized to-day, it is capable, even in the best of times, to produce enough cars in eight months to supply the market for twelve. Then when the cars have been produced and placed in storage, the workmen are laid off. The business which has benefited by the labors of the skilled mechanics assumes no further responsibility for them, after the period of production is past. And they are laid off to become a care of the municipality or the state.

In any permanent solution for the problem, industry must bear a larger share of the responsibility for its workers. They must be organized with shorter hours and a year round guarantee of employment, with a living wage to all.

THE OTTAWA CONFERENCE

Our province is interested in the great majority of these questions. We hope that the Prime Minister of Ontario will be able to set aside his political partisanship, which he has never been able to shed, in order to obtain for our province the many advantages as the others. It would be unfortunate if after the conference we had just adjourned because the Premier of our province had acted provincially, instead of dealing with problems in a broad-minded way. If we express ourselves thus, it is because past experience seems to justify fears.—L'Illustration Montreal.

CONFIDENCE CONTINUES

Our Ontario neighbors have good reason to throw their chests out. Evidently much of the wailing about ruin and the impairment of the province's credit which has been going on in some quarters bears no close relation to facts. Apparently there are still some people with bank balances who believe in the stability of Ontario's credit, if we may judge by what happened when the Provincial Treasurer threw a forty-million-dollar loan on the market, a couple of days ago. In short order, by the afternoon the last dollar of it had been snapped up and lenders who had not been apy enough to get their applications in on time were left in the lurch. One thing that is greatly pleasing the Government is the justification of the policy of issuing the bonds in small enough lots to enable the man with only a few hundreds of savings to get in on it. There are apparently a large number of applications for the hundred-dollar units, a very satisfactory sign of confidence in the credit of the Province among those to whom a few hundred dollars represents the accumulated savings of years of hard work, and who in consequence do not risk it lightly.

It is a fine thing to see repeatedly evidence of the faith which our people have in the soundness of Government securities or of securities so guaranteed. Loan after loan has been taken up, in many cases largely by or in the interests of non-professional investors, backing provincial or federal credit with almost all they have in the world. The success of this latest loan issued by Ontario is most heartening. — Montreal Daily Star.

WAR AS RACE SUICIDE

Man going to war at the present time is a man fighting with his bare hands against the machine. Machine-power machine of his own making. He is comparable to the British admiral tacking a steam-roller. Logically speaking, he can do it; realistically speaking, he can't; it is beyond his nature as a human creature, and it he insists upon attempting it he can only look forward to the fate that attends a physical impossibility. It is possible to fall six feet, without serious injury. That is what Beachy Head did before gunpowder. It is possible to fall 1,000 feet. That is what Europe did a hundred years ago. It is possible for a whole family to fall from the top of its house, and some will live to tell the tale—as in 1914. But it is not possible for human beings to fall down over Beachy Head and to resolve anything except the problem of existence by so doing. Men do not fall from Beachy Head to the sands below in what war is now about. It is an act of race suicide. — New English Weekly.

GERMANY'S STAND ON DEBTS

The United States has now joined Great Britain in addressing a protest to the German Government against their policy in the matter of foreign debts. The point of the protest is not that Germany ought to be asked to pay more than she can afford ; the point is that the Germans are discriminating unfairly between their foreign creditors by keeping up full payments to Britain and France, while one denies that Germany is poor, or that there is a strong case for writing off part of her inflated capital borrowings. We ought to be prepared to meet the Germans in a generous way as soon as they are ready to talk candidly and to play fair. We are sure that they are not all inclined to do either is at the back of the British and American protests. — The New Statesman and Nation.

Brighter Golf Trophies

A gold club at Denver, Colorado, has followed the recent example of the one at Hollywood and awarded the Ryder Cup, emblematic of victory to the victor in a tournament. In this case the second and third prizes were also silver cups. The entrance fee, namely, two weeks' free medical care and hospital if "I win this."

If this system of prize-giving is generally adopted it will have to be modified. It is old-fashioned and in modern days golf tournaments are to be confined to crocks and flim stars. Even if golf has been in its hey day financially, which is by no means certain, some provision will have to be made for the happily unmarried. Your confirmed bachelor will never play his best golf if he knows all the knockers that the prize is a free divorce. It is enough to make him miss a two-foot putt. On the other hand, there is the hearty young thing who has never been ill in his life and who will go completely off his game if the thought "I shall get two weeks in hospital if I win this."

On the whole, there is much to be said for the silver cup as a golf trophy. It is old-fashioned and it needs a deal of cleaning, but, like the box of handkerchiefs at Christmas, it "blesses him that gives and him that takes." Above all it is unobtrusive while that it can be proudly exhibited to the winner's young relatives. It will probably outlast any of the present medical trophies have fallen into the limbo of forgotten things.

"Last year I was trying to believe that this was still a good world; this year I can believe it without effort."—John Erskine.

Dictionary Making

Dr. Johnson, with a few assistants, compiled his famous Dictionary in eight years. The editors of the New Oxford Dictionary spent over fifty years and had more assistance in the undertaking. But even theirs was a quick job compared with the progress of a similar work now in course of publication in Germany. In 1871, when expelled from their university chairs by the Nazis of that day Jacob and William Grimm arranged with a publisher to compile a comprehensive dictionary of the German language, which they expected would run to seven volumes and take them about a year per volume to complete. Once they got started, their ideas and material expanded to such a degree that at the end of a quarter of a century they had reached only the beginning of "p".

When they died the work was carried on by a band of scholars, and presently responsibility for the work was undertaken by the Prussian Academy of Science, yet, despite an ever increasing staff of experts, the great dictionary remains incomplete, and the latest, rather optimistic, estimate does not look for uniformity in chartering companies, was given to the provinces for consideration, before March 1st.

The Sparrow

(From Dream Tales & Prose Poems)

I was returning from hunting and walking along an avenue of the garden, my gun resting in front of me.

Suddenly he took shorter steps and began to steal along as though he were tracking game.

I looked along the avenue and saw a young sparrow, with yellow about its beak and down on its head. It had fallen out of the nest and sat, unable to move, helplessly flapping its half-grown wings.

My dog was slowly approaching it, when, suddenly, darting down from a tree close by, an old dark-throated sparrow fell like a stone right before his nose, all ruffled up and terrified, with open beak, and painful chirps it flung itself twice towards the open jaws of shining teeth.

It sprung to save; it cast itself before its nesting, but all its tiny body was shaking with terror; its note was hoarse and strange.

Swooning with fear, it offered itself up! What a huge monster must the dog have seemed to it! And yet it could not stay on its high branch in danger of a force greater than its own will, flung it down.

My dog stood still, drew back; clearly he too recognied this force. I hastened to call off the disconcerted dog and went away full of reverence.

Love, I thought, is stronger than death—or the fear of death. Only by it—by love, life holds together and advances.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JANUARY 28th, 1934

MATHEW 5 : 1 to 12; 43 to 48

"THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT"

The burden of Jesus' message from the very first was coming of the Kingdom. He went up and down the countryside urging men to prepare for the Kingdom of God. The people to whom he spoke had heard, and their fathers had heard of a Kingdom of God—a Kingdom like that of their beloved David, which would be established in Palestine, to include the chosen people and exclude all others. For the coming of this kingdom they looked, and hoped and prayed.

The nationalism at the heart of this view, Jesus had to combat. For the Kingdom which He proclaimed was based not on racial qualities nor heredity, but on certain inner conditions of the spirit. In the beatitudes He sets forth the qualifications which are necessary for admission to His Kingdom and proclaims the happiness of those who possess them. The really happy people are the poor in spirit, the mourners who in the new Kingdom will find consolation in their mourning, the meek who shall inherit the earth, the hungerers and thirsters after righteousness who shall be filled, the merciful who shall find mercy, the pure in heart, the peace-makers and the persecuted.

This was a distinctly new and divine appraisal of eternal values. The great of the earth in Christ's mind are not those of privilege, birth, wealth, lineage, or position, but those of character, the humble in spirit, the peace lover and the searchers after righteousness. In our own day when nationalism is rampant, when nations are struggling for their place in the sun, when negroes are lynched in increasing numbers, and Jews ostracised and persecuted because of an intense race prejudice, the teaching of these beatitudes is openly and wantonly flouted. Their clear and unmistaken demand is that we judge men and women on the basis of character alone.

In the last few verses of the lesson, Jesus draws the line a little closer and contrasts the righteousness which he demands of his followers. The Jewish religion was based on the Mosaic legalism, "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth" which was the direct result of their belief in a God of strict and unbending justice. Jesus taught, however, that God was not a God of Justice alone, but One whose deepest nature was love and fatherhood. His love was infinite, it shared its blessings with the just and the unjust, the good and the bad.

As a direct result of this view of God, Jesus insisted that His followers should exhibit in their lives a righteousness higher than that of the Pharisees. The Christian should love both friends and foe alike. What a difference that would make if this were done! Men will find consolation in their mourning, the meek who shall inherit the earth, the hungerers and thirsters after righteousness who shall be filled, the merciful who shall find mercy, the pure in heart, the peace-makers and the persecuted.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Jan. 22.— On Monday, January 15th, a very quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. R. A. Penny, at the rectory at Tamworth, when Miss Madeline Spratt, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Pratt and the late Andrew Spratt, became the bride of Arthur Herrington, a popular young farmer of Moscow.

On Tuesday evening, the officers and members of Red Rose Lodge, I.O.O.F., were hosts to their ladies and a number of friends, at an enjoyable social evening to commemorate the birthday of Thomas Wilder, the founder of the Order in America. The evening was spent in cards and dancing and an enjoyable lunch was served by the committee in charge.

The annual meeting of the Addington Fair Association was held in the Township Hall, Centreville, on Thursday, January 18th. W. A. Ballance, of Strathcona, was elected the president. C. W. Buchanan, agricultural representative of Lennox and Addington, was present, and addressed the meeting.

TO THICKEN LIQUIDS.

It is not easy to guess just the right quantity necessary to thicken a sauce or a gravy, and the following list will be found most useful to keep on hand for reference. Less cornflour than plain flour is required for thickening purposes. To thicken one cup-full of soup, one-third of a tablespoonful will be required if plain flour is used. Gravies and sauces require, roughly, the same amount of thickening, and one cupful of either will require two tablespoonfuls of flour or one and a half of cornflour. One tablespoonful of gelatine will thicken one pint.

Even when handled, Canadian soldiers as a rule do not bite. In any event the bite is not to be compared with that of a mosquito.

REVIEW FAVOURABLE YEAR FOR ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

STRONG POSITION MAINTAINED

Sir Herbert Holt, President, Takes Strong View That Canada Is Now Definitely on the Upgrade

Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, Reviews Strong Statement

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Royal Bank of Canada marked the close of a most successful year.

Sir Herbert Holt, President, in his address struck an optimistic note when he stated that he considered that Canada was now definitely on the upgrade. Its progress, however, was being retarded by too heavy taxation and the cost of maintaining so many Governments in the country was rapidly becoming unbearable.

Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, in his address reviewed the outstanding features of the strong statement of the Bank. The feature of paramount importance in connection with the possible formation of a Central Bank, added Mr. Wilson, would be the quality of its management.

President's Address

Sir Herbert S. Holt, President, in moving the adoption of the Directors' Report, said in part:

The 64th Annual Report and Balance Sheet submitted to you to-day, disclose the strong position of the bank. While Balance Sheet figures are somewhat smaller than those of a year ago, this reflects a falling off in international deposits rather than contraction of Canadian business. In fact, a notable feature is an increase in Canadian Demand and Savings deposits during the year. The liquid position is eminently satisfactory. As you would expect, the restricted demand for commercial loans, and the resultant increase in our holdings of less remunerative assets in the form of Dominion and Provincial Government securities, has combined with other factors to reduce profits. In April last, the dividend was reduced from 10 per cent to 8 per cent., and the last three quarterly dividends have been paid at that rate. The improvement which has taken place in business during the last six months, has already had a beneficial effect on earnings.

Referring to the situation in Canada, the President said: "I am glad to say that since we last met there has been a distinct improvement in Canadian business. We have had the opportunity of seeing this country recover from depression on various occasions during the last fifty years and the present movement appears to be taking place along the accustomed lines. As soon as world trade commences to revive there is an improved demand for Canadian raw materials, Canadian exports increase substantially, surplus inventories disappear and greater activity in the principal exporting industries provides additional employment with a consequent improvement in purchasing power and domestic trade. This has been the sequence of events in Canada during the last six months."

The Railway Situation

Dealing with the situation of the Government railways, Sir Herbert expressed the opinion that the time for half measures had passed and that bold and courageous action was required. He felt that the views expressed at the last Annual Meeting that enforced co-operation between the two railway systems would not be a satisfactory remedy had been confirmed by the experience of the past year and is still of the opinion that the maximum of economy can only be obtained by some form of administrative amalgamation.

The President made a strong demand for a reduction of Governmental debts and pointed out that 35 cents of maintaining the various governments, Federal Provincial and Municipal, was becoming unbearable. He said: "Greater activity in business will reduce unemployment, produce increased revenues, and a reduction in disbursements for public relief. Advantage should be taken of these developments to reduce debts rather than increase expenditures."

Conditions In Other Countries

In referring to conditions in other countries, he expressed the view that the low point in the depression for most of the world was reached in the latter part of 1932, and since that time there has been a general increase in international trade. Reference to the United States was made as follows:—"While business in the United States commenced to improve about the middle of 1932, it later suffered a relapse due to their banking difficulties and the hesitation and uncertainty which precede a change of administration. Since last March quite material progress has been made. It is difficult to analyze the effects of their politics and impossible to prophesy the outcome. Their central idea that an increase in the price level must be obtained is sound common sense and is now quite generally accepted as such throughout the world. At our last Annual Meeting of the last three years we have emphasized and re-emphasized the necessity for a higher price level. I see no reason why it cannot be achieved in due course."

In closing, Sir Herbert Holt said: "At our last Annual Meeting I expressed the feeling that indications pointed to the initiation of a substantial recovery in 1933. This year it is possible to go one step further and to venture the opinion that we are now definitely on the up-grade. The most intelligent study of the problems that confront us we can expect within measurable time a return of general prosperity."

General Manager's Address

Mr. M. W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, in referring to the position of the bank pointed out that liquid assets totalled $362,471,000, and were equal to 58.76% of liabilities to the public, compared with 52.86% of the previous year. A notable feature is that $4.28% of such liabilities is represented by cash and cash balances aggregating $157,699,000. He mentioned the further interesting fact that in Canada, current deposits increased about $17,000,000 during the year and savings deposits were higher by $2,000,000.

In discussing the proposed central bank, he recalled the hope which he expressed at the last Annual Meeting that the Government would see fit to have the project examined by a body of experts and said: "The Royal Commission on Banking and Currency, which was constituted last summer, could not have been better chosen. Under the chairmanship of Lord Macmillan, their sittings in all parts of the country were notable for the freedom with which all possible evidence was received and for the patience and tact displayed in dealing with the material submitted. While I do not agree with the Report in its entirety I believe that a properly constituted Central Bank can be developed as a useful adjunct to our banking system."

Note Issue

Mr. Wilson expressed the strong opinion that the recommendations in the Report with respect to the gradual withdrawal of the note-issuing privileges of the Chartered Banks, did not appear to be in the public interest. Retention of these privileges would not hamper the Central Bank in its efforts to control credit. In this connection he quoted an editorial which appeared in the London Economist to the effect that the Central Bank would not be in the least weakened by allowing the Chartered Banks to retain their present issues under the present restrictions. Mr. Wilson went on to say: "I think, therefore, that we should view the elimination of bank note issues not as a step which must inevitably accompany the creation of a central bank but as a separate matter entirely. The real question is whether the Government desire to have banking service maintained at many small points throughout the country or to appropriate the revenue of note issues for themselves. I believe that, owing to the Government would not offset the loss to the public through curtailment of banking facilities. Unquestionably there are many places which could no longer support a branch bank if note issues privileges were to be withdrawn. The operation of a number of such branches at a bare margin of profit is characteristic of banking in this country. We have a system which in many of its aspects is native to the Dominion and prudence should prompt us to be very cautious in advocating fundamental changes."

In conclusion, Mr. Wilson said: "At our last Annual Meeting I ventured to suggest that the prospect of further improvement in the coming year was very much more hopeful than it was the previous year. That prediction has been borne out by subsequent developments. For the first time in years an attitude of quiet but confident optimism is in evidence almost everywhere. Many of the lessons still have to be solved but there is full confidence in the ability of Canada to share in the continued improvement in economic conditions which I believe lies ahead of us."

Civil Servants Afraid To Contract Colds In United States

Washington—President Roosevelt's helpers, who have to work hard every day and lots of nights, seldom get colds anymore. They're afraid to.

If a hapless clerk does 'show up at any of the new alphabetical agencies with the sniffles, a sympathetic nurse doesn't send him home to rest. Instead she pushes the sufferer into a chair and:

1. Gives him a gulp of hot water in which is dissolved four aspirin tablets.

2. Sprays his throat with a mixture of one part iodine and five parts glycerine.

3. Sprays his nostrils with a one per cent. solution of ephedrin sulphate, or with a diluted solution of atropine sulphate, if his cold is extra bad.

4. Gives him a dose of castor oil. If his kicks and squirms and threatens to flee the country she relents and hands him a citrate of magnesia cocktail.

5. Administers a saturated solution of baking soda.

If the sufferer survives, his cold is likely to disappear. Another Government cold formula for helpers too busy to take the full treatment consists of:

Two aspirin tablets, a teaspoon of baking soda, a dash of aromatic spirits of ammonia and a finger of spirits of camphor, dissolved and shaken well in a wine glass of hot water.

The Public Health Service says at least 50 per cent of the sickness suffered by American citizens consists of respiratory troubles.

Survey Conducted

The service discovered these cold statistics in a cross-section survey of 8,000 families in Baltimore, Birmingham, Cleveland, Detroit, Greenville, S.C., New York, Pittsburgh, and Syracuse.

The health surveyors picked out depression-hit families wherever they could discover just what they thought they would, namely: that people whose incomes have dwindled drastically have more sickness than they used to have.

Milk is a very necessary part in the nursing son's ration. Of the various forms of milk, skim-milk is one of the best for this purpose.

MANIWAKI

An Ideal Fish and Game Country

The area lying north of the Ottawa River in Quebec, Canada, which is easily accessible from Montreal or Ottawa, is an ideal fish and game country. The charm and lure of the Laurentian hills and their nestling lakes have long been known but only a comparatively few people ever penetrated their unspoiled loveliness and they are all enthusiastic in their praises. The main drawbacks in the past have been the lack of the roads and adequate maps. Within the last few years several highways have been built either as improvements to local roads or on new locations and it is now possible to travel by motor car throughout much of the area. Quite recently also a start has been made on the preparation of new map sheets giving detailed information of the country. For this work extensive use has been made of air photographs, in fact without them it would not have been possible to accomplish as much as has been done. The Buckingham map sheet was issued last year and now the Maniwaki sheet is available. Other sheets in course of preparation include Tomassine, Larchet, Grandfonds and Mont Laurier.

The Maniwaki sheet includes an area of about 1700 square miles, the southern boundary being about 55 miles north of Ottawa. The area covers a district of typical Laurentian formation, with rough rocky hills and mountains, lakes and streams. In the valleys the soil is fertile and capable of producing excellent crops and considerable mixed farming is carried on in the better valleys.

The main resource of this country at the present time is timber and much of the area is included in timber limits either owned outright or leased from the provincial government by several large operating companies. Pine and spruce for lumber and pulp are found down the Gatineau and Lievre rivers to mills on the Ottawa while hardwood chiefly birch and maple is hauled down on the railways as these logs will not float.

The lakes throughout this area are well stocked with game fish. The smaller lakes and streams furnish excellent speckled trout fishing while the larger lakes afford good sport for lake trout. Bass are plentiful in the waters in the southern portion of the district as well as in numerous lakes and streams west and north of the Lievre river. Pickerel are found in many waters and pike practically over the district. In bush partridge, rabbits and other small game are abundant and moose are occasionally found in the more remote and less accessible districts. Exclusive hunting and fishing rights in several sections are leased by clubs or individuals but the greater portion of the territory is open to the holder of a hunting or angling license.

The area covered by this map sheet is an excellent one for the canoeist and the camper for through it run three tributaries of the Ottawa river,—the Gatineau, the Lievre and the Nation. Between the valleys of these rivers are interlacing lakes and streams on which one can paddle by day, camp at night on an island or mainland and live the free, untrammelled life of forest and stream. The canvas covered canoe is a splendid craft for these waters, but if preferred, the lighter birch bark canoe of the Indians can be used. The canoes of this type made by the Indians in the vicinity of Maniwaki have an enviable reputation for style, strength and durability.

Many non-residents, attracted by the excellent sport and quiet charm of this alluring section, have acquired property and established lodges or summer homes along its reads of waterways. The chief lines of travel are the Hull-Maniwaki highway; the Buckingham-Mont Laurier highway (these connect with Mont Laurier with the Montreal-Mont Laurier highway which in turn serves the northeastern section the Canadian Pacific Railway, Gatineau valley line, and the Ottawa and Lievre rivers Along roads, rivers or railway are located numerous "going in" points at which boats, provisions outfits and the services of guides may be procured for trips to the more virgin woods and waters.

The Buckingham and Maniwaki map sheets may be obtained from the Surveys General, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, the price being twenty-five cents per sheet.

BARK BEETLES

An extraordinary amount of injury has been caused in North American forests, particularly in the West, by the small beetles known as the bark beetles, says Dr. J. M. Swaine, of the Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Although many species of them insects occur in eastern forests only a few are of primary importance. The species in the Eastern Spruce bark beetle which is now causing extensive injury in the Gaspe peninsula of Quebec.

These brown or black beetles, one-third of an inch long, breed only in the bark of the spruce, chiefly in white spruce and red spruce. The vertical egg-galleries, four to six inches in length, are cut between the bark and the wood on the trunk of the tree. In living trees the flow of sap is generally checked and the death of the tree results very rapidly.

DISPLAY CASES

When pieces of delicate embroidery and needlework, or knitted garments of white or light colored wool are sent to bazaars and sales of work they run a great risk of being creased and soiled by handling, both before and during the sale. It is advisable to pack such goods in envelopes of stout paper before sending, so that they may be easily seen without being handled. Where considered necessary they may be lightly stitched to the bottom of a shallow cardboard box and covered with transparent wrapping instead of with a lid. The wrapping may be had from stationers, and cut and gummed to form envelopes of any size required. Cakes, pies, and so on, for refreshment stalls, should be protected by sheets of cellulose folded, over them and secured by coloured ribbon. This keeps them perfectly clean and adds to their attractive appearance.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

The Brussels lost their first game since the Town League was started last year when the Deseronto Mohawks took them for a fall last week. However, they were without the services of "Cy" Barriage and Tommy Pounter, and Fred Bentley was playing with a badly damaged arm.

It looks as though the League is going to develop into a really interesting taint, and when the Brussels get at full strength they will give the Mohawks a run for their money. Likewise, Hepburn won the first game which they have won since the League started from the Aberts, who have not taken a game this year. The fans who are passing up these games are missing some of the best hockey which has been played in Napanee in years.

Activity around the rink this season has surpassed anything that Napanee has ever seen before. The crowds are getting steadily larger and the recent innovation of 'Ladies Night" has been very popular.

The management of the rink reports that a number of the older ladies are requesting that the rink be opened in the afternoon, in order that they might enjoy a whirl when ice is not so crowded. If enough show interest in this proposition, the rink will be open one or two afternoons a week and those interested should telephone either Walter Geraw at the rink, or the Office of The Gibbard Furniture Shops, giving their name and what afternoon would be most suitable.

The Slaughter House League, at last has got under way, and the second game was played on Saturday night, when Bill Sweet's "Sheriff Eaters" took a lukhamic fast contest from Mazz Schultz's "Bone Busters". A large crowd was on hand to cheer their favorites, and judging from the enthusiasm shown it certainly ensured the red hot entertainment supplied.

These games are usually played on Saturday night from 7 o'clock to 8 o'clock, and everybody is welcome. Admission is only 10c, and it is absolutely guaranteed that better entertainment cannot be found for an hour at this price.

It is to be publicly announced shortly that the Office Staff will challenge the "Snuff Eaters", but when this game is to be played we cannot ascertain, since it is rather difficult for the Office boys to muster enough men to complete a team. However, in all probability the game will be played before long, probably next Saturday night.

A great many questions have been flying around town in connection with the local baseball club hooking up with the C. O. B. L. next season. We sent a couple of reporters to see the management of the club and the only answer which they could get was: "Nothing definite has been decided", but in all probability the Athletics will stay with the Bay of Quinte League.

A SPICE BAG

Spices and herbs are usually put into the article to be flavoured and then removed and discarded. To avoid the waste it is wise to keep a spice bag which can be used over and over again if it is dipped into boiling water and hung up to dry each time. For the bag tie up in a piece of muslin a blade of mace, two bay leaves, a dozen peppercorns, cloves and allspice berries, a sprig of parsley, marjoram, thyme and tarragon.

LOCAL JOTTINGS

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold their regular monthly meeting in Trinity School room on Wednesday, January 31st, at 3:00 p.m. The special feature will be an address on "Mexico" to be given by Miss Patterson, who has spent six years in Mexico as supervisor intendent of a British hospital, and is now home on furlough. This along with music and a short talk on Travellers' Aid work, promises to make up a good programme. Everyone is cordially invited

GERMANY IN CHAINS

BY ATERGO

In The Sunday Referee

To-day a foreigner enters Germany as a friend or enemy of the Hitler regime. From the moment he crosses the frontier he realises the existence of a social and political problem which does not admit of an objective view. Every aspect of German life, from the first "Heil Hitler!" of the Customs officers to the bewildering array of uniforms, raises a question which must be answered by a definite yes or no.

It is generally true that one believes what one wants to believe; but no amount of pre-political coloring can obscure the essential fact of the German situation — namely, that intellectual and political freedom no longer exists for the seventy million people who have in the past, contributed so much cultural wealth to the civilisation of the West.

One must grasp that fact clearly in order to appreciate the German problem. And it is a fact which cannot be easily grasped by men and women who have had no experience of a political dictatorship.

One must try to imagine a situation in Germany in which a whispered criticism of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald would lead to arrest and confinement in a concentration camp; in which it is obligatory to go through all the motions of loyalty to the dictatorship, however degrading or ridiculous, merely to protect oneself from physical assault and commercial ruin; in which men like Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells, Aldous Huxley, and Professor Eddington are in prison or exile; in which the common decent ties of friendship are constantly disrupted-information; in which to be a Jew or a Socialist means loss of employment, persecution, and sometimes death.

Uniforms Everywhere

Then imagine Britain in War time when about one man in every three on the streets was in uniform, not however, for the immediate and sole purpose of defending his country from foreign foes, but in order to exert physical and moral pressure on his own people.

You will then have formed a faint idea of the conditions in Hitlerist Germany.

I crossed into Germany through the Belgian frontier and entered a country which is pitted with delightful villages which recall the story-settings of "White Horse Inn." The Bavarian people are traditionally kind, their hospitality is famous, and among them the name of stranger is respected.

Years ago I learned to appreciate their many human qualities but political terror has obscured them in the space of a few months. The first village over the frontier shouted out that fact on a banner, hung across the narrow street, which bore the words:

Brown uniforms and swastika flags were everywhere—in shop windows, motor-cars, and on public buildings. Both the uniform and flag are artistically hideous, but it is obvious that the latter is regarded as a commercial asset, while the former is regarded in the sense that a cat-o'-nine-tails is respected.

Anti-Semitic Notices

All the villages, without exception, had anti-Semitic notices, either inscribed on banners or painted on large open boards. Certain shops also bore sirns to the effect that Jews were not welcome; but commercial rivalry was more generally expressed by a profusion of Nazi emblems. And in some villages the commercial rivalry was clearly of the cut-throat order.

At the frontier I had been unfavourably impressed by the Nazi greeting—the raised right arm and the staccato "Heil Hitler!" The customs officer who first performed it for my edification, meant business. He barked it at me and, when I gave no sign of being impressed, he barked it again. In despair to elicit a response, he turned round sharply and barked it at a colleague, a beardless hop-pole with drooping moustache, who answered in a treble which may fall to win him military glory, but which might secure him a place in the Sistine choir.

I felt slightly sick. This greeting, which links the name of a psychopath to a gesture of physical violence, appropriately expresses the Nazi regime; but when it is performed under duress by decent people, such as the proprietress of an inn where I stopped for refreshment, it is as degrading as the antics of the clown in Andreyeff's "He Who Gets Slapped."

This woman gave me a hunted look as I entered, timidly raised her arm, dropped it, raised it again, and whispered "Heil Hitler!" There was no man about the place. He was in a concentration camp.

"A few miles further on I had my first sight of one of the commonest events in Nazi Germany—the arrest of a political offender. He was already in the police station when I arrived, and the Brown Shirts were in charge of the crowd which was absolutely silent. Men and women stood about dumbly in the snow, jostled by Storm Troops.

A hundred yards down the street a woman, with her face hidden in her hands, was weeping bitterly. Above her was a banner inscribed: "No Peace without Honour."

And so through village after village the tale was repeated—uniforms and rags, fear and fear, and the inevitable chorus "Heil Hitler!"

If the villages of Germany are prisons, some of the large cities are barracks. Take Nuremberg. I arrived there on the day following the official obsequies over the body of a Storm Trooper who had been shot dead on the Austrian frontier. Hitler himself had taken part in the ceremony.

The city was packed with troops of all kinds — Storm, Stahlhelmers, and Reichswehr. Magnificent motor-cars, full of officers, shot like shuttles through the streets. In the shops and inns Nazi symbols hang in thick clusters, like cherries, and for the first time I noticed the effect of the Nazi directions regarding women's fashions. Many of the smart women of Nuremberg were hats fashioned in the shape of steel helmets and clothes which in cut and colour suggested the uniform of the Storm Troops.

It was in Nuremberg, too, that I first noted the mood of ferocity among Nazi adherents. There was a wild dog insolence about some of the troops and certain civilians in the hotel were unpleasantly aggressive. One got the impression that one was on the fringe of a row, without being at all clear as to what the row could be about.

The Nuremburg Terror

Bad things have happened in Nuremberg. The terror here, as in all the large cities, has been intensified during the past few months. Hundreds of men and women have been torn from their homes and sent to concentration camps. Trade is in a frightful condition and cannot be righted by the regular Nazi displays of force. It is no exaggeration to say of this city, which has suffered heavily from the foreign boycott, that its only hope lies in those desperate measures which are part of the stock-in-trade of Nazi rulers. Consequently, the mood of belligerence is general.

From Nuremburg I went through Wurtemberg towns and villages, seeing and hearing everywhere evidence of deepening economic impoverishment. To call at an inn for luncheon always resulted in being begged to stay for the night. Foreign visitors are rare, and the inns are innocent of guests, apart from the dwindling numbers of commercial travellers.

It was at Hall that I met one of these latter—a pleasant, intelligent man from Karlsruhe, who had lived in England before the War. He could not be drawn to discuss the Government. He said quite frankly that he was afraid. But I persisted and found that he was utterly ignorant of the general economic condition of Germany.

He voted Nazi, he said because it meant orders.

Many other Germans whom I met had more courage and were better informed. Some were workers, some were professional men, and some were intellectuals. I cannot give their names or the places in which I met them for reasons which—let us say—the German Ambassador in London will appreciate.

Demands of Dictatorship

The majority of them outwardly conformed to the demands of the dictatorship. They heiled Hitler with scorn and contempt in their hearts; but with me they talked openly and fearlessly. One man, a brilliant doctor, told me that he felt the same as Tacitus must have felt when he wrote the attack on the tyranny of Domitian in the final pages of "Agricola."

His views, summarised, are as follows: German democracy was betrayed by the Allies and by the German Social Democratic Party Hitler will never be unseated from within. France and Britain could put a stop to the intensive armament manufacture by applying sanctions. These would bring Hitler down, without necessitating the resentments and the German people, if they were accompanied by reasonable proposals to restore international dignity. The German people are backing Hitler because all previous Governments failed to do justice from the Allies by means of peaceful negotiation.

War, he went on, is certain unless sanctions are applied. Hitler will be forced into war, without necessarily willing it, by historical accumulations. The machine is already in motion, and it is grinding economic despair and moral degradation.

Financial Exactions

Wages are falling fast, not only directly, but indirectly through short time and the financial exactions of the dictatorship. The alleged decrease in unemployment was always a propagandist lie; it is now actually higher than when Hitler came to power; and with the Trade Unions out of count, there is absolutely no means of protecting the workmen from the growing demands of the big industrialists.

"There are two and a half million troops in the country. In twelve months they will be ready for professional business, and all the children are being trained both physically and psychologically for the military life.

Small boys are allowed to carry long knives inscribed with the words "Blood and Honour." One father tried to take the knife away from his young son, because he thought it a dangerous weapon; whereupon the boy, who had been taught to regard his weapon as sacred, stabbed his father to death. The Nazi Court endorsed this action as proper.

My own observations lead me to believe that the above views understate the actual condition of Germany.

Plight of Jewish Children

Anti-Semitism is as strong as ever, especially in its pressure on the professional classes; but the most heartrending aspect of this barbarism is the plight of Jewish school children, who are set apart and humiliated by lessons on the subject of race.

The children of known Social Democrats and Communists, also, are singled out for "special treatment" which characterises their parents as criminals and traitors.

In many German towns and villages which I visited, I saw bands of small children dressed in parodies of the Storm Troopers' uniforms, heiling like little automata. Their heroes are the psychopath Hitler, the degenerate Roehm, the morphinist Goering, and the mentally-crippled Goebbels.

At the French frontier, as I was leaving Germany, the French official asked me what I thought of it all. I replied that it was too big a question to discuss on a cold, dark night.

But at heart I was sure that it ought to be discussed, especially between Britain and France, before the night gets colder and darker; for these two nations hold between them the solution of the German problem.

The Late Mrs. Thos. Cleworth

Many residents of Napanee and the district will regret to learn of the death at Duluth last week of Mrs. (Rev.) Thos. Cleworth, a former resident of this vicinity.

Mrs. Cleworth's late husband was formerly a well known minister of the Methodist Church in the Bay of Quinte Conference. He held charges at Selby and Morven and retired from active work in 1894, following an accident, while stationed at Bridgenorth, near Peterboro'. At that time, with his wife and family, he came to Napanee to reside, and died here in 1905. His widow remained here for about ten years and then went to Long Beach, California, where two of her daughters were residing. She made her home there for some years, but for the past eight and a half years had lived in Duluth with her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Horr, at whose home she died.

Mrs. Cleworth, whose maiden name was Phoebe Mills, was born at Brighton, Ont., in June 1840. Although she had reached the age of nearly 94 years, she had retained until almost the end, the appearance, the outlook and the abilities of one many years younger. Her death is the first in the family since the passing of her husband nearly forty ago. Her family of seven children all survive her. They are Rev. Gilbert D. Cleworth of Hartford, Mich; Rev. W. C. Cleworth of Hampton, Iowa; Mrs. S. B. Woods, Pathlow, Sask.; Mrs. Jno. Whitaker and Mrs. A. C. Mrs. Jno. Whitaker and Mrs. A. C. Mrs. of Long Beach, Calif.; Mrs. (Rev.) C. H. Young, Bloomington, Ill.; and Mrs. W. S. Horr of Duluth, Mich.

Fulfilling an oft expressed wish on the part of their mother, three of her children, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Horr and Rev. Gilbert Cleworth, brought her body back to Napanee for burial at Riverside Cemetery, beside her husband. On arrival in Napanee the body was taken to the home of Mr. Alpine Woods.

The funeral was conducted on Saturday afternoon, by Rev. Harry Pawson, at Trinity United Church, of which Mrs. Cleworth had continued to remain a member during all the years of her absence from the town.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

On Wednesday afternoon, January 17th, the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held, with the President, Mrs. D. H. Wilson, in charge. The first meeting of the new year was opened very appropriately with the singing of the hymn "Standing at the Portal of the Opening Year." A committee was appointed to meet with similar groups from St. Andrew's and Grace Churches, to arrange for the Presbyterial which, this year, is to be held in Napanee, sometime during March. The members of this committee are Mrs. D. B. Wilson, Miss Alma Thompson and Mrs. P. Henderson. Reports covering last year's work were given by the various officers. Some departments showed slight increases over the previous year, both in attendance and financially, and while all members could have wished for bigger results, still the society feels there is some ground for congratulation to have even held its own during the most difficult year yet experienced.

The secretary of Christian Stewardship, Miss Alma Thompson, stated there was an increase in the systematic giving, which is very satisfactory to both executive and members. The reports indicated most unmistakably that the work of all branches of the auxiliary had been conscientiously discharged during the year 1933 and plans were discussed for making a special effort to increase the givings for 1934.

The president called upon Mrs. P. S. Richardson to pay tribute to the memory of Mrs. W. F. Hall, who passed away on January 8th. Mrs. Richardson was filled with deep emotion as she so beautifully dealt with the life and character of Mrs. Hall, dwelling on her strong personality and her long and useful service to Trinity Church. For sixty years, had Mrs. Hall watched the changing fortunes of the community and church life of Napanee. When her advanced years had made it necessary for her to retire from active participation in the work she loved, she had borne with patience her enforced idleness and failing sight. In May Hall has passed the last but one of the charter members of Trinity Auxiliary. Mrs. S. Gibson, of Montreal, is now the only living representative of the original organization. At the conclusion of Mrs. Richardson's tribute, the auxiliary rang very sympathetically, that great hymn "Forever with the Lord!"

The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. Caroline Miller, following which Mrs. H. Kirby sang with intense feeling, Jessie Mae Jewitt's sacred song, "Teach me to Pray," a fine climax to a meeting of unusual interest.

A resume of the third chapter of "Living Issues in China," entitled "Tampering with the Sacred Books," was given by Mrs. H. Pawson, and after the concluding hymn, Mrs Alan Davis recently returned from Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto, led in prayer of thanksgiving, which was echoed in the hearts of her listeners.

The following new members were cordially welcomed to the auxiliary by Mrs. D. B. Wilson: Mrs. Alan Davis, Mrs. H. Kirby, Miss Lauder and Mrs. Nicholson.

The convener of the programme committee for January was Mrs. H. Pawson.

SANDHURST W. A.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church, Sandhurst, held their annual meeting on Wednesday afternoon, January 17th, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Carroll. The usual business of the meeting was disposed of and committees appointed. The financial statement showed a goodly balance, despite a heavy drain all year. The meeting then took the election of officers, resulting as follows: President, Mrs. R. Wright; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Geo. Hart; Secretary- Treasurer, Mrs. H. Robinson; Dorcas Committee, Mrs. B. Morrow and Mrs. T. Gumm; Secretary for Living Message, Mrs. P. G. Whitfield. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her two daughters, Mrs. P. G. Whitfield and Mrs. Charles Hudson, and Miss Marion Whitfield.

HAWLEY W. M. S.

The new year meeting of Hawley W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. J. L. Smith, on Wednesday, January 3rd, the president, Mrs. R. Fretts, presiding. The devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. J. P. Cuthill. Readings were given by different members, on customs pertaining to the new year. The roll call was responded to by nine members, with suggestions for the new year's work, and the business part then followed. It was decided to make the New England Supper, which was such a splendid success last year, an annual affair. Mrs. R. Fretts was appointed literature secretary. A new year hymn was sung, and closing prayer was offered by the president. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith, and a vote of thanks extended by Mrs. Asselstine and Mrs. Woods.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. R. Ackerman and the roll call will be answered by a verse pertaining to peace.

MAPLE LEAF W. I.

Mrs. Will Fretts entertained the members of the Maple Leaf Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon, January 11th, with the president occupying the chair. The meeting opened with the ode followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call was responded to by giving "A New Year's Resolution." After the transaction of business, Mrs. W. Fretts gave a very concise report of the Kingston Convention, which showed a great deal of preparation and proved very interesting. Current events were read by Mrs. Bert Fretts. Mrs. Newman, a visitor from Saskatchewan, gave a short address which was enjoyed by everyone.

The meeting closed by singing "God Save the King." A very dainty lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half-hour was spent.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Carman Day, on Thursday, February 8th.

CENTREVILLE - DESMOND W.M.S.

The Centreville-Desmond Auxiliary of the W. M. S. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Roy McGill, with seven members present and two visitors, who later signified their intention of becoming members. After the worship period, the minutes of the presidential visit by Mrs. K. Weese, the roll was answered by a Christmas verse. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Arthur Switzer of Desmond, for her gift of a beautiful quilt, top, and to all the Desmond ladies for their offerings by means of the Sunshine Bags. The sum of $16 has been collected in this way, and several bags have not been returned yet.

The election of officers was then proceeded with and Mrs. J. W. Wagar voiced the appreciation of the members for the faithful work of all the officers, particularly mentioning the president, who, by her thorough preparation for every meeting and her business ability, makes an ideal leader, and Mrs. H. Even, who is an ideal recording-secretary. The 1933 officers were re-appointed with the following changes: Peace Secretary, Mrs. Wilmot Breault; Press Reporter Mrs. B. Wanamaker and Secretary of Associate Helpers, Mrs. J. W. Wagar.

The treasurer's report was heard with pleasure. While we have not reached our allocation, we have a 60% advance over last year. For our supply work, we have sent away one quilt and eight pairs of knitted mittens. A resolution was sent to Premier Henry, protesting against any freer sale of wine, beer or hard liquor. The study of the family life in China was then taken up, several ladies taking part.

Another interesting meeting which was not reported, was the annual quilting and chicken dinner, held at the home of Mrs. Robert and Mrs. Wesley McGill, when thirteen members and ten visitors were present. In the afternoon the regular monthly meeting was held, and Mrs. B. Trehack of Chumleigh, Alta., was the guest speaker. She described the town, the people, who are mainly engaged in mining, their great need, and the efforts of the local women to interest the Dominion Board. She told us of the building of the Little community house, of the growth of the work, and their hopes for the future, because of her words our auxiliary will always be interested in the Chumleigh work.

Perhaps the great event of our year was the visit of Mrs. George Swayze, 1st vice-president of Belleville Presbyterial. This meeting was held in the church and thirty-three were present, including representatives from Wesley and St. Andrew's, Reidville. An excellent programme had been prepared; the presidents of Reidville and Wesley auxiliaries assisted in the programme. Mrs. Geo. McGill contributed a vocal solo and Miss Anna Brown a sacred selection on the violin.

Mrs. Switzer gave an inspiring talk on "Service" basing her remarks on the lives of Mary and Martha.

After the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

MT. PLEASANT PIONEER W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute was held Thursday evening, December 7th, 1933 in the Institute Hall, Mount Pleasant. The President, Mrs. Fred Henderson, presided.

The meeting opened with the singing of the ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. There were seventeen members present and five visitors. The roll call was answered with a recipe for Christmas candy. This was followed by reading the minutes of the November meeting.

Two letters were read by the secretary, one from Mr. Kerr, the ex-agricultural representative of Lennox, expressing his good wishes to the Institute and one from Mrs. Fred Stafford, thanking the members for their thoughtful letter to her, while in the hospital at Belleville. It was decided to have a silver collection taken at the door for the January meeting, and have the young people of the community furnish the programme. The members of the sick committee reported the following: Mr. Doyle and Mrs. Perry had been visited by Mrs. Oliver, and Mrs. McCartney by Mrs. G. Toppings.

Mrs. G. Toppings gave an excellent report of the Kingston Convention and after this the following programme was given: A reading by Mrs. J. McGinn, "A Kiss in the Tunnel," which caused much merriment; a trio was well rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Toppings and Mr. T. Murphy. Mrs. Shetlor gave a demonstration on removing letterings from sugar sacks. Mrs. Ashley gave a reading on "Schooling a Husband."

A number of useful articles were contributed for sale, by the members from which a nice sum of money was realized.

The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close, after which refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

The January meeting of Mount Pleasant Pioneer W. I. was held on Friday evening, January 5th, 1934, in the Institute Hall. The meeting opened with the singing of the ode followed by the Lord's Prayer, in unison. There were nineteen members present and thirteen visitors. The minutes of the December meeting were read and approved.

Two letters were read, one was in reference to the provincial grant, the other on Nutrition Sheet No. 3. Mrs. Harold Putman reported re the relief needed for the Reid family. A letter of thanks was read from the little McHenry girls. This expressed their many thanks for the nightgowns sent them.

After the business was concluded the young people of the community presented a short play entitled "Leave it to Dad." The cast consisted of Misses Hester Stapley, Mary Oliver, Alice Oliver and Elsie Henderson, and Messrs. Wm. Clancy, Gerald Hawley, Fred Oliver and Edgar Oliver. Francis Murphy accompanied by Edgar Oliver on the guitar and Bert Henderson, sang between acts. The applause of the large audience, given the players when they returned to the platform at the end of the play, showed the programme to be an unqualified success.

Following the singing of the National Anthem, a sociable time was spent, after which a delightful lunch of pie and sandwiches was served by the committee.

CAMDEN VIII W. M. S.

Camden VIII W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Almore Hyland on January 4th, with an attendance of eight members. Mrs. T. M. Wilson, president, took charge of the meeting. Mrs. Murney Martin presided at the organ. The meeting opened by singing hymn 571. Mrs. T. M. Wilson then led in prayer. The devotional leaflet "Jesus of Nazareth is Passing by," was read by Mrs. Martin. The scripture lesson the fifth chapter of Luke was read in unison, and hymn 288, was read by Miss Reid. The minutes of the last meeting were read and passed.

Moved by Miss Close, seconded by Mrs. Martin, that Mrs. R. J. Wilson write Miss Martin of Camden East for a bundle of patches to be used for W.M.S. work, Mrs. R. J. Wilson then gave a splendid paper on the 4th chapter of the study book. The roll call was answered with a bible xerse by eight of the members. Hymn 641 was then sung. Mrs. R. J. Wilson closed the meeting with prayer, after which the hostess supplied a fruit lunch.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hyland. Mrs. Hyland was asked to be responsible for the 8th chapter of the study book.

Camden VIII W. M. S. held their December meeting at the home of Mrs. R. J. Wilson, with an attendance of seven members and two visitors, Mrs. T. M. Wilson, president, took charge of the meeting and Miss Edna Wilson presided at the organ.

The meeting opened with a hymn after which portions of the scripture were read in unison. Hymn 51 was sung, one verse being played softly while the members bowed in silent prayer. The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. T. M. Wilson who led in prayer for the children. The minutes were read and a letter from the Dominion Board Secretary on Prohibition was read.

Moved by Mrs. R. J. Wilson, seconded by Mrs. Copeland, that the president and sign the letter and mail it to Premier Henry.

The roll call was answered by a Bible verse. Moved by Mrs. T. M. Wilson, seconded by Mrs. R. J. Wilson, that the secretary write a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Murney Martin. Mrs. J. H. Wilson donated some cards with a verse printed on them to help the Society raise some money. Mrs. T. M. Wilson gave a splendid paper on the second and third chapter of the study book and the study leaflet was taken by Mrs. R. J. Wilson, Mrs. Fingland and Mrs. Hannah.

Hymn 288 was sung, after which Mr. Brown took charge of the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

President — Mrs. T. M. Wilson.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. A. Hyland.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. A. Fingland
Rec. Secretary and Press Reporter — Mrs. E. A. Hannah.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ORGANIZATIONS

EBENEZER Y. P. S.

A Y. P. A. was opened by singing hymn 389. The scripture was read by Mr. Willie Sexsmith, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Miss Regina Whiteman sang very sweetly "Away in the Manger." Mr. George Nobes and Russel Sexsmith gave very pleasing readings. Hymn 295 was sung and the roll call was answered by a verse from the Bible starting with the letter "L."

Miss Ella Whiteman, secretary, then read the minutes of the last meeting, after which she sang in a good voice "In the Air."

Business followed and the officers elected for the ensuing year were:—
President—Mr. George Nobes.
1st Vice-Pres.—Willie Sexsmith.
Secretary—Thelma Melburn.
Press Rep.—Thelma Melburn.
Program Committee—Bessie Mastin, Ella Whiteman, Russel and Willie Sexsmith, Hazel, Frank, Clifford Smith.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at the home of Mr. Sam Smith.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing hymn 312, and the remainder of the evening was spent in games until lunch time.

The meeting held at the home of Miss Hazel Smith opened with hymn 85, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

The scripture lesson was read by Miss Bessie Mastin, followed by reading, Miss Hazel Smith then gave a reading. Hymn 299 was sung, followed by music.

It was decided to go to Miss Bessie Mastin's home for the next meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the roll call answered.

The meeting closed by singing hymn 255.

MORVEN Y. P. S.

Morven Young People's Society met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, with thirty members present. The meeting was opened with hymn 284, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The Beatitudes were read in unison. The hymn "Work for the Night is Coming" was sung and a commentary on the hymn was read by Miss Lillian Babcock. A quartette was well rendered by Messrs. Bill Hunter, Bernard Hill, Adrian Babcock, Wilfred VanSlyck. Miss Grace Street read "Can you Say?"

Three new officers were elected, due to resignations. They were Mr. Wilfred VanSlyck, president; Miss Lottie Miller, literary and social vice-president; Miss Hilda Preslar, secretary. A reading was then given by Miss Irene Miller.

It was decided to accept the invitation of the Odessa Young People to meet with them on Monday evening, January 29th.

The meeting was closed with hymn 351 and the Mizpah benediction.

The Young People will meet next Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Miller entertained twenty-one of the Morven young people at their home on Friday, January 5th. Miss Stella Craig, who was chairman for the evening, called the meeting to order with hymn 269. Rev. A. E. Oliver led in prayer and Miss Edna Wood read the scripture reading from St. Matthew. Miss Stella Craig gave the topic, entitled "What Is Your Attitude to Poverty the Only Evil?" Here she pointed out that neither poverty nor wealth can be measured by the amount of gold which one possesses. After the hymn; 255, Miss Irene VanSlyck read a short reading. Mr. Richard Hall read a poem, the theme of which was the smile which you might have on every occasion, and Mr. Morley Lake read "The Unknown God." Miss Lottie Miller read a poem, wherein it was pointed out that your thoughts and deeds were written on your face, and it wasn't necessary for you to tell them. Hymn 246 and the Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

Mr. Wilfred VanSlyck met the members of the Executive for a few minutes, and the remainder of the evening was spent in games and music. Before the young people left for home Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Grace were given a hearty hand clap of appreciation.

Next Friday evening Miss Luvs Perry, Missionary Vice President, will have charge of the meeting at Mr. C W. Miller's. Everyone is urged to attend. Receive Monday evening, January 29th, to visit Odessa Y. P. S.

SELBY Y. P. S.

The meeting of the Selby Y. P. S. on January 12th, took the form of a combination business meeting and social evening. Several musical numbers were given by Inns and Wallace McKnight, Marion Hall, Dorland Jackson and Joe. Dudgeon.

After the business part of the meeting which included the election of officers for the coming year, a game was played and a lunch of pie and tea was served.

The officers elected were as follows:—

Secretary — Carmen Hudgin.
Treasurer— George McKnight.
Pianist — Dorothy Tunnnon.

ADOLPHUSTOWN A.Y.P.A.

On Friday evening, January 12th, a dance was held in the parish hall, under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. The hall was decorated for the occasion in the A. Y. P. A. colors of blue and white. Jack Whattam and his Rythm Kings orchestra, of Picton, furnished excellent music for dancing. Refreshments were served at midnight. Tickets were then sold on a box of chocolates, Bill Heycock of Napanee holding the lucky ticket. Dancing was resumed until 2.30 a.m. There was a large number of young people present from Picton, Bath, Sandhurst and Napanee. Everyone reported a good time.

On Friday evening, January 19th, the second meeting of the Adolphustown A. Y. P. A. was held in the Parish Hall. This meeting was in the form of a social evening, an invitation being extended to all members of the parish. Following the opening hymn, Rev. Quartermain led in prayer. The president, Mr. Dick Daverne, gave an excellent address after which the minutes were read by Miss Nellie Gallagher and were adopted. Miss Helen Daverne gave the treasurer's report, and fees were paid. It was decided to extend an invitation to Sandhurst A. Y. P. A. and Dorland Y. P. S. to attend our next meeting, on February 2nd. Rev. Quartermain and the church wardens were made honorary members for the year. A few other business matters were discussed and thirty-one members answered the roll call. The meeting closed with a hymn, after which the programme committee took charge and gave several very entertaining numbers, and the National Anthem was sung. Refreshments were served and cards and dancing were indulged in until 1 a.m.

Firestone Tire Company Name New Agent In Napanee

Mr. Robert McFarland, well known in Napanee and the surrounding country as an automobile agent and dealer, has recently been appointed the local agent for Firestone tires.

Mr McFarland has been in business in Napanee for some years and has always carried a high class line of cars and accessories. In adding Firestone tires to his list, he is but adding another nationally known product to his stock. They have, behind them, a record of excellent service and carry guarantees of satisfaction, which make them economical tires to use.

Mr. McFarland considers himself fortunate in securing the Firestone agency.

TIPPING THE EXECUTIONER

A new terror for demonstrators is suggested by the ruling of a Belgrade court that a man whose hat was shot off his head when the police fired to disperse a crowd must pay fivepence to defray the cost of the cartridge. In principle, however, such an exaction is not without precedent longer hence? When Lord William Russell was sentenced to that the usual tip was five guineas death on a charge of high treason in 1 83, he asked Bishop Burnet, who attended him on the scaffold, how much he was expected to give the executioner. Burnet informed him marking with a rueful smile that "it was a pretty thing to owe a fee to one who had his head cut off."

TO PICKLE EGGS

There are several methods of pickling eggs, but the following method is as simple as any and equally successful. First boil the number of eggs required. Boil them for fifteen minutes, and then allow them to become cold before taking off the shells. Heat a quantity of malt vinegar in boiling point and then draw off the gas to cool. When cold pour the vinegar over the eggs and tie down. Two pints of vinegar is sufficient for about eight eggs, and the eggs when pickled will be ready to use in four days. The eggs will also keep for a fairly long period.

DORLAND

Dorland, Jan. 20. Last Wednesday evening was an important time at the United Church, in the early part of the evening the Ladies' Aid held their regular meeting, when plans for a bazaar, to be held in the fall were discussed. The trustee board met at the same time. Some new members were added to replace deceased members, and a number who are unable to take an active part, owing to advanced age, but who continue as honorary members. It was decided to undertake some much needed repairs to the church and shed, at once. Later all joined together as a congregation to receive reports from the Ladies' Aid, Women's Missionary Society, Sunday School, Young People's Society and Steward and Trustee Boards. The total amounts raised by the appointment is practically the same as it was in 1932. While all would have been glad of an advance, they are gratified to find they are not going back. It is hoped that a fitting celebration can be arranged for the fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the present church, which will occur next June. A tasty lunch was served by the Ladies' Aid.

Messrs. H. John and O. Jorgson have returned after a short visit in Denbigh.

During the past week we have had typical winter weather and the men are taking advantage of the good sleighing to haul wood, etc.

SELBY

Selby, Jan. 22. — Selby has been enjoying the week of special evangelistic meetings, which ended Sunday evening. Dr. D. N. McArthur was the preacher for the first five evenings, and gave very thoughtful and searching messages. While he was here Miss Emma Meikle John, Campbellford, led the singing, and herself gave solos which were a large contribution to the message of each evening. Her visits to the sick in the village to sing to them were a thoughtful attention which gave much pleasure. The week end meetings were led by the Emmanuel College Quartette, of Toronto, each of these young men is a student for the ministry, and their addresses and personal testimonies gave a definite piece of evangelism by young men. Miss Racey and Miss Cunningham, students volunteers for the mission field, had messages of particular help for girls. The musical contribution of the quartette was outstanding. We appreciated very greatly the quality of their singing, and the wide classification of gospel music which they gave. We should like to have them all again.

The annual meeting of the Sunday School will be held in the school room Thursday evening. The members of the school are invited to attend.

Messrs. Ray McKnight, John Stinson, Harold Anderson and Robert Bates, were entertained by Clark and Mrs. Everet Price and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hudgins were guests of Mr and Mrs. Jas. Wilson, Sarthcona, on Sunday of last week.

Messrs. H. A. and John Wood, accompanied by their sister, Miss Alma Wood, visited friends in Brownsville, N.Y., last week. Mrs. Baker returned with them and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wood.

Mrs. B. F. Denison is the fortunate possessor of a pot of Amaryllis which has produced ten beautiful coral blooms during the past three weeks.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the parsonage Saturday morning, when Miss Muriel McKnight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McKnight became the bride of Mr. Charles Gray. They were attended by Miss Vera McKnight, sister of the bride, and Mr. Ernest Hawley, of Napanee. Following the ceremony the bride and groom left by motor, for Toronto and other western points. We extend congratulations.

Mrs. Leonard Hudgins is on the sick list.

Miss Jennie Reid, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lewis Innis and other friends, during the past month, returned to St. Catharines on Monday.

Don't Submit to Asthma. If you suffer without hope of breaking the chains which bind you do not put off another day the purchase of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Remedy. A trial will drive away all doubt as to its efficiency. The sure relief that this will convince you more than anything that can be written. When help is so sure, why suffer? This matchless remedy is sold by dealers everywhere.

"No," said the doctor, "I don't find much the matter with you."

"Then," retored the little man, "your opinion is quite different from my wife's."

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

You are "feeling good" when your liver is working properly. Bile from your liver should flow freely into the bowels. Digestion and elimination are both hampered, and your entire system is being poisoned.

What you need is a liver stimulant.—Something that goes farther than salts, mineral waters, laxative candy or chewing gum or roughage which only move the bowels—ignoring the real cause of trouble—the liver.

Get Dr. Chase's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. No harsh calomel (mercury). Safe, sure, but, for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c at all druggists. 4f

ARM IN SLING WITH NEURITIS

A "token of gratification" this woman says she is giving when she writes of her relief from neuritis:—

"For twelve months I have had neuritis in my arm, and up till the last two weeks have had to carry it in a sling. Since then I have abandoned my sling, am able to sleep undisturbed, and can perform household duties that previously I would not have done. These benefits I have received from Kruschen Salts. This has all happened in two weeks, and I am optimistic enough to think that in another fortnight I shall have entirely got rid of the trouble. I am glad to give this token of gratitude as I feel I cannot say enough in praise of Kruschen Salts for all. Call this a testimonial if you choose—to me it is a token of gratification."—(Mrs.) N.E.L.

Neuritis is a result of impurities in the blood. And it is impure blood, circulating all over the system and setting up inflammation in the tissues, that causes those excruciating pains. Kruschen Salts can be safely trusted to set the matter right. Because Kruschen contains just what Nature needs to persuade your internal organs back into a healthy, normal condition.

THE NECESSITY FOR GRADING HONEY

(Experimental Farms Note.)

In company with all other primary products, honey has now to be sold on a keen competitive market where quality is the order of the day, but unlike most other products, honey is seldom prepared for the market in a manner that would create an appeal equal to that of many other articles of food. Grading is a process whereby a commodity is separated in definite groups according to colour, size, weight and quality, each group being as nearly uniform as possible Each group is then labelled or branded in such a manner that it may be distinguished from every other group. Most food products are now graded and one has only to glance around the shelves of any up-to-date food supply store to verify this fact. The consumer has been taught to buy graded goods because a graded article can be ordered by its grade name with a fair degree of certainty as to the quality, for that is what grading implies. A trusted article creates in the mind of the consumer a confidence in that particular product. It does away with time-wasting shopping trips and wasted time in searching for what is desired. For the producer a properly graded and neatly packed article will command the highest market price. With an article of food such as honey that has a wide range of colour, flavour and texture, grading is absolutely necessary. The words 'pure honey," the floral source of the honey, or even its colour indicate little or nothing to the purchaser. A more accurate division than that now used is needed.

The Dominion Apiarist of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will supply a copy of grades satisfactory for honey, upon request.

LONG ODDS AGAINST LAYING

We most of us have our secret—and, alas! often unrealisable—ambitions, and one gathers from a review of Mr. Beverley Nichols' new tribute to his country cottage that he has a beauty. It is contained in the words "I have always wanted to lay an egg."

Touching isn't it — positively Barrieque and Peter-Pannish? Leda did it, of course—she laid two, from one of which emerged Helen of Troy, and from the other Castor and Pollux. But the art of egg-laying to human has been lost since those Greek and gracious days. Mr. Beverley Nichols will never do it. No—he will just have to drift around like the rest of us and content himself with dropping bricks.

Persian Balm promotes daintiness charm and beauty. Magical in its effect on the skin. There is nothing like it for creating and preserving a lovely complexion. Cooling, refreshing, it soothes and relieves all roughness caused by weather conditions. Delicately fragrant, it enhances the skin's finished appearance. Make the use of Persian Balm a regular habit. Truly a priceless toilet requisite for every discerning woman.

We expect to have an orchestra in our neighborhood soon, as a number of our young people have purchased musical instruments.

NORTHBROOK

Northbrook, Jan. 22.—Death visited our little group Thursday afternoon, taking one of our loveliest young girls, Miss Reta Vannese, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vannese. She was snatched so quickly from our midst that the tragedy hangs as a pall over every household. Though Reta was but fourteen years of age she had, for nearly two years, shouldered the care of four small children; kept house for her father on the farm, assuming its many duties and always found time to take active part in church doings, concerts, the softball team and the social life, seeming to have an intelligence far exceeding her years. On Wednesday night she sang from the Free Methodist Pulpit, "Lord I'm Coming Home." Reta had, last week, dedicated her life to her Lord's work in the Pentecostal revival which has been sweeping this place. Did she know she was soon to be exalted as she sang that last hymn, just fourteen hours before death came? She was a favorite with old and young and leaves to mourn her loss, her father, three brothers and two sisters at home, and a mother who is employed in Kingston, all of whom attended the funeral service, conducted by the evangelists, J. Ruthven and N. Haggarty, on Saturday afternoon, when crowds gathered to pay their last respects.

Ice houses are being filled from Bishop's Lake, five miles north. Cutting costs, 3c. per cake of 20-inches square and hauling by truck, 7c per cake. The ice is eighteen inches thick.

YARKER

Yarker, Jan. 22.— On Friday night of last week, the play "Three Pigs," was given in the United Church Hall, under the auspices of the Sunday school. Nine girls comprised the cast and each one took her part admirably. The play was very amusing and was well received by the audience, which was not very large due to the inclement weather. The proceeds amounted to twenty-one dollars. Much credit is due to the girls for their fine work and to Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Wright, who trained them.

On Saturday night, Miss Isabel McKenzie entertained some of her girl friends to tea and to spend the evening at the parsonage.

On Wednesday evening, Mr. Winston Holland gave a party to the young people of the village and surrounding district. He left on Friday following for Hamilton, where he will visit his brother.

A number of the men of this village were in Toronto over the week end, some of them attending the Conservative Convention.

COULD HARDLY GET UPSTAIRS FOR PAIN

Mrs. Symons Suffered So From Rheumatism

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Soon Made Her Well

Horning's Mills, Jan. 23 (Special) "My Kidneys were in bad condition and I had Rheumatism in all my joints especially at the knees," writes Mrs. Alfred Symons, a well known and respected resident of this place. "I was so bad I could hardly get upstairs, but continued taking Dodd's Kidney Pills until I had used eleven boxes, and I must say they helped me in every way. I live on a farm where there is lots of work to do, and might say that Dodd's Kidney Pills have been a real Kidney medicine in our home for years, and I highly recommend them."

Rheumatism is caused by the presence of uric acid in the blood. If the kidneys are functioning properly they will strain all the uric acid out of the blood and there can be no more Rheumatism.

Important Business Dealt with at the First Session County Council

Committees Bring in Reports

County Council met in regular session in the council chamber in the county buildings, on Tuesday afternoon, January 23rd, 1934.

The first business of the session was the election of a warden.

Rev. R. T. Richards opened the session with prayer and a short address.

Mr. Gordon L. Hawley, reeve of the village of Bath, was unanimously elected warden for 1934.

The new warden was led to his chair by the retiring warden, J. W. Clark.

County solicitor, J. M. Simpson, administered the oath of office and the newly elected warden took his seat.

A number of ex-wardens and members of council and officials, congratulated the warden on his accession to the highest honor in the gift of the council.

Warden Hawley made a fitting reply, thanking the members for their action in making him their choice as warden. Warden Hawley will be the youngest reeve elected as warden of the County of Lennox and Addington.

Warden Hawley summoned ex-warden W. J. Clark to the chair, and presented him with a gold-mounted cane, on behalf of the members.

Annual Meeting Held Trinity United Church

On Wednesday evening, January 24th, the annual meeting of the congregation of Trinity United Church, was held in the Sunday school room. Evidence of the interest shown in every department of the church work was apparent by the representative gathering of members who had assembled to hear the reports for the year 1933.

Rev. Harry Pawson, the minister of the church, was in charge of the meeting, as chairman. With him on the platform was Mr. J. E. Robinson, the secretary of the board. Following the opening exercises, Mr. Pawson gave his report, as minister. He commended the splendid spirit prevailing in all departments of the church, which had brought about remarkable success during a difficult year. He voiced his own personal appreciation of the happy relationship existing between himself and the membership. His report showed that during 1933, 29 new members had been added to the roll. The losses through death and removal were 12, leaving a net gain of 17 and a total membership of 475. Mr. Pawson recalled the passing of devoted members of the church and spoke appreciatively of the service rendered by them throughout the years.

Reports of the various organizations were given as follows:—Church Treasurer's report, D. B. Wilson; Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Blake Gilbert; Mission Circle, Mrs. William Calvert; Mission Band, Hugh Pawson; Missionary and Maintenance, C. L. Graham; Ladies' Aid, Mrs. J. E. Robinson; Sunday School, C. L. Graham; Ready Helpers' Class, Mrs. Ralph Winter; Young People's League, Gordon White; Benevolent Fund, Alpha Woods; Mid-week Class, Mr. Vandervoort.

The report of the current expenditure account showed the receipts slightly more than the expenses during the year. All other organizations reported substantial surpluses after all demands were met. The total amount raised for all purposes was over $6,000.

The meeting endorsed the recommendation of the official board appointing Mr. Stanley Hart a member of the session, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Alex. Creighton. The committee of stewards was left the same as the previous year.

Mr. C. L. Graham moved a vote of confidence in and appreciation of Rev. Harry and Mrs. Pawson, and expressed the hope hat Mr. Pawson might continue to be the minister of the church for many more years. He spoke of the outstanding work of Mr. Pawson in the pulpit, his splendid service as a pastor and the fine spirit of accord existing between minister and people. A tribute was paid to Mrs. Pawson for her unfailing interest in choir, women's organizations and Sunday school, the motion was hea y endorsed by the members present. ... Just before adjournment to the basement, for refreshments, Mr. D. B. Wilson added a further tribute to Mr. Pawson. He spoke of the care which had been exercised in choosing Mr. Pawson as the minister of Trinity Church, and said a half years ago, and expressed the ever-growing conviction that the choice had, in every way, been justified.

If deemed advisable a candidate will also be chosen to represent the Liberal cause in the next Dominion election. The delegates will meet at 1:30 p.m. and following their deliberations, the meeting will be thrown open to the general public at 7:00 o'clock, when the results will be announced and addresses by local speakers given.

In the past, Liberal candidates in the constituency have usually been selected by mass meeting but owing to the fact that Lennox has been added to the riding for both provincial and federal purposes, it is felt that more satisfactory representation will be possible through the delegate system.

Afternoon Tea Served By Young Ladies of Shourt Course

The young lady members of the special short course classes being conducted in Napanee, under the direction of the Department of Agriculture, were hostesses at an afternoon tea on Friday afternoon. The tea was arranged entirely by the girls with the assistance of the Instructor, Miss Smith.

An invitation was extended to the Women's Institute and the ladies of the district. They responded in a most generous fashion and showed their interest in the work being done by an unusually large attendance. Delicious sandwiches, cakes and tea, prepared by the girls, were served by them.

Mrs. M. Lawe, who has been instructing in home nursing, gave an interesting demonstration in bandaging, which was of practical value to all the ladies present.

Saturday's Market

Weather conditions on Saturday morning were not favorable and the market was consequently small. Buyers were, also, not very much in evidence.

An advance in price of pork was a noticeable feature. Pronts sold for 12 and blade quarters for 14 cents. Other prices were beef, 5 and 6 cents; eggs 28 cents, butter 25 cents.

Wholesale Prices

Butterfat	26 and 28c.
Eggs	23, 21, 19, and 18c.
Live chickens	7 and 12c.
Live fowl	7, 9 and 10c.

Canada's Peculiar Opportunities as Peace Mediator

Ottawa.—Six reasons why Canada has a special opportunity to contribute to the building of world peace are listed in the discussion outline of the League of Nations Society's national peace study project released yesterday. Canada is the only North British country in the League of Nations. Canada is both an Atlantic and a Pacific country. Canada is both, bi-lingual and bi-racial and her treatment of minority problems qualifies her to be of service to the rest of the world. Canada is associated with six other countries in the British Commonwealth and in a position to influence them. Canada lacks special interest in European questions and is for this reason sometimes qualified to act as conciliator. Finally, Canada possesses great resources in nickel, copper, wheat, etc. which give her power to assist both in preserving world peace and in maintaining war.

Ten Meetings Planned

The outline which has been prepared by a committee of experts in education, proposes discussions for ten meetings.

On the topic of the fifth meeting: What might happen to Canada if the collective system of maintaining world peace is abandoned, an introductory note declares that failure to maintain the system would make it necessary for Canada to re-consider the question of her own security. The possible consequences of failure which are suggested for study and discussion, include: North American isolation, an offensive-defensive alliance among the British Commonwealth countries, formation of new groups such as an Anglo-American-Scandinavian group, finally, return to the pre-war world of alliance. As for the latter the outline proposes for study and discussion: The concert of the great powers and its limitations, alliances and the pre-war arrangements for consultations, armament races, armament manufacturers, secret treaties, the Balkan war and how all this would work today.

Study of Obligations

For the study of what partnership in the collective system involves for Canada, the following topics are suggested: The security the system might provide against aggressive nations, the contribution the British Commonwealth to the system and vice versa, the cost to Canada of supporting the collective system compared with the cost of war or preparation for war, finally, the possible changes in Canadian economic policy affecting such things as, say, the tariff and nickel and the tariff which partnership in a really effective collective system might necessitate.

The outline was mailed to organizations and individuals by the staffs of the League of Nations Society and the Association of Canadian Clubs.

It doesn't take big causes to make big quarrels and big wars.

$17,000,000 Reduction Dominion Estimates

Economy Note Struck in Forecast

It is the evident intention of the Dominion Government in the session opened last week to bring before the House, all the important business as early as possible. This policy is well borne out by the bringing down of the main estimates at the beginning of the session, by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, which is considerably more or less of a precedent.

Drastic reductions in most branches of government, with increases in only two, and a total decrease of about seventeen millions dollars in the main estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1915, are the features of the estimates.

Estimated Expenditure

The grand total of estimated expenditure for the fiscal year 1934-35 is $342,648,227, compared with $360,-738,210 during the current fiscal year a decrease of $17,089,937.

The two items showing an increase are national defence and public works. For the replacement of flying machines, the sum of $295,000 is allowed. The marine department of public works is down $1,459,600 for the purpose of deepening the St. Lawrence River ship channel as a whole, though the appropriation for other public works expenditures will be decreased, the former by $370,008 and the latter by $3,295,531.

The decreases in all departments were accounted for by the principle of administration to the bone, without crippling essential services. It is understood that the proposed relief works program, in the interests of relief, will be provided for later in the session.

Main Decreases

Public works, $3,295,531; Pensions $2,980,003; National Health, $822,000; Post Office, $997,000; Trade and Commerce, $900,000; National Revenue, $845,000; Agriculture, $858,000; Miscellaneous $722,000; Civil Government, $333,000.

Due to more favorable exchange conditions, the interest on the public debt is reduced by $778,000. The ten per cent. salary cut for civil servants, members of the House and senators, instituted in the year 1932-33, will be continued another year.

A decrease of 50% in aid for cadet training in Canada, will be made this year. This brings the appropriation for the purpose, to $150,000.

Important Legislation

Notice of several bills to be introduced has already been tabled. Outstanding among these is the Bank Act. An amendment to the Insurance Act, now being brought in, will shortly by two weeks the election period. The legislation to aid the marketing of agricultural produce is looked upon as a "beginning." It is considered rather doubtful if any marketing board is set up. The facilities to be provided will likely be under the control of the Minister of Agriculture. The problem of marketing sustance is a difficult one, due to the extent which have come up over the respective authorities of Provincial and Federal Governments.

There is a suggestion that the Government's plan may follow the English marketing scheme, which rests largely upon local producers' associations. It may, however, be given a provisional basis.

Rebekah Lodge Celebrates Tenth Anniversary

Nearly 150 members and friends of the Queen of Sheba Rebekah Lodge joined in celebrating the Tenth Anniversary of the founding of the lodge in Napanee, on Monday evening, January 29th.

A programme of splendid variety and interest was arranged as a fitting celebration of the event, under the direction of the Noble Grand, Miss Irene Wagar. Mr. Alex. MacGregor acted in the capacity of chairman.

Mrs. James Douglas, one of the charter members of the lodge, gave a comprehensive outline of the history of the local lodge, since its inception. Her talk was followed by several numbers of music and recitations by young children of the members of the lodge.

An interesting item was a duet and pantomime. The songs "An Old-Fashioned Garden," and "The Old Spinning Wheel," were sung by Mrs. Bert Seymour and Miss Mildred Lemon, while Miss Josephine Strayck and Miss Jean Vanalstine, in old-fashioned costumes, acted the songs in pantomime.

Mr. John Wood Thomson contributed a reading and Miss Phyllis Richardson a vocal solo. Members of the lodge presented an amusing short play "How the Story Grew."

Following the programme the huge birthday cake, specially made and decorated for the occasion, was cut by Mrs. James Oliver. After the refreshments were served the balance of the evening was spent in dancing and card playing.

HUBERT McMECHAN MORDEN

A cable from London, England, on Thursday, brought the news of the death of Hubert McMechan (Mac) Morden. He had been suffering from Bright's disease and was thought to be improving nicely, but death came suddenly on Thursday, January 25, while he was sleeping.

Mr. Morden was born in Picton, and was the son of the late Dr. J. S. Morden. He spent his boyhood days in that town, attending Picton Public and High Schools. Qualifying as a teacher, he taught for a time in the public schools of the county.

After spending some years in the Canadian West, he enlisted with the Canadian forces in the early part of the great overseas. At the close of the war he came to Canada for a short time. Returning to England he has since been employed with the Frigidaire Co., as salesman.

Surviving are his wife, of London, England, and two brothers, Dr. G. W. Morden, Napanee, and Harold J. Morden, Winnipeg.

Interment will be made in London, England. — Quinte Loyalist.

Mr. Archie Wilson Appointed To Hospital Staff

Mr. Archie Wilson, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Wilson of Napanee, has received an appointment as house surgeon at Toronto General Hospital. Mr. Wilson has had a final year at the medicals chopl of Toronto University and expects to graduate in June.

His appointment to the staff of Toronto General Hospital becomes effective on his graduation.

Mr. Wilson's many friends in Napanee will be pleased to know of his success.

The New Warden

GORDON L. HAWLEY
Reeve of Bath

Mr. Gordon L. Hawley, the new warden of Lennox and Addington, conducted the business of the first session of the County Council for 1934 last week.

While a young man, only 33 years of age, Mr. Hawley has had considerable experience in municipal affairs. He has been a member of the Bath Council for eight years and Reeve of the Village for three years.

Grace United Church Congregational Meeting

Grace United Church annual congregational meeting was held on Wednesday evening, and was well attended by members of the congregation. The reports, given by the various representatives of the organizations, indicated that the year just closed had been most successful in every way. There has been an increase in attendance and general interest and the financial results of the year's work were very gratifying.

Rev. R. T. Richards, the minister of the church, was chairman and Mr. C. A. Wiseman, the recording secretary, was secretary of the meeting.

The minister reported that during the year thirty new members had been added to the roll and there were eleven removals by death and letter. The total membership now stands at 558. Mr. C. B. Davis was elected to the session to take the place of the late William Dunbar. The board of stewards remains the same as last year.

Mr. C. O. S. Reddick, the treasurer of the church, gave the financial statement, which revealed a small surplus in the current expense account after all demands were met. Mr. John W. Hambly reported that the Sunday School Maintenance contributions were $1318, the same amount as last year. Mr. Burton F. Elliott gave the statement of the anniversary fund and Mr. Fred Knapp presented the auditors' report. The auditors for 1933 were Mr. Fred Knapp and Mr. Ernest Osborne. Mrs. J. A. Graham's report of the woman's organization showed a year of splendid activity, which resulted in the raising of over $600 with a substantial balance on hand. The work of the Women's Missionary Society and allied organizations, was given by Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Pruden, Miss Vera Bernard and Laverne O'Connor. The total raised was $732. The review of the work of the Sunday School, by the superintendent, Mr. Gerald F. Smith, showed splendid work had been done. The average attendance was 270, a slight increase over the previous year. The offerings in the Sunday School were also better than in 1932.

Mr. Wilfred Smith gave the report of the finances of the Sunday School. Mr. Ennis Orser reported for the Young People's League.

After the balances at the beginning of 1933 were deducted and allocations considered, the total amount raised in the church for all purposes was a little over $7,800.00.

Following the business session, several members of the congregation and church board expressed their appreciation of the work done by Rev. R. T. and Mrs. Richards, and a vote of confidence was extended to them by the gathering.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and a social hour brought the meeting to a close.

No Arrests Made On Amherst Island In 40 Years

The municipality of Amherst Island can lay claim to an unusual distinction, according to a statement made last week, by J. M. Simpson, K.C., the county solicitor.

Mr. Simpson was addressing the County Council on a matter relating to the finances of Amherst Island. He said that the Reeve of the Island, Mr. Howard, claimed in one respect, at least, the Island had not cost the county much in many years—that is in the administration of justice.

Mr. Howard asserted that the last arrest made in Amherst Island was between forty and fifty years ago. This, no doubt, is a unique record in the annals of municipal history.

Parliament Opening--- Colorful Pageant at Dominion Capital

Described by Our Own Correspondent at Ottawa

(From our own Correspondent)

Ottawa, (Special to The Beaver) — With the opening of this fifth session of the Seventeenth Parliament of Canada, the prologue of our Dominion's yearly drama has again been read, and the curtain is rising on scenes which must surely be great in our national history.

Surrounded by traditional pomp and ceremony, the opening of Ottawa's day of glory, and marks not only the opening of her season of serious business but also that of her season of social gaiety. Year upon year of identical openings has not, in any way, lessened their powers of attraction, as was testified by the presence of dozens of formally attired women and girls in the corridors of the main building, as early as 10 p.m. A five-hour wait was none too long for those who anxiously made certain of seats from which proceedings might be clearly seen.

For the commoner, satisfaction was to be taken from standing many hours on the Hill and glimpsing, perhaps, but a poor view of the plumed helmets of the members of the Princess Louise Dragoons guard, as they trotted by in their pre-war uniforms—an escort to the vice-regal party from Rideau Hall. As the carriages reached the main entrance, under the Peace Tower, they were saluted by a Guard of Honour, consisting of three officers and one hundred other ranks of the Governor-General's Foot Guards and their splendid band. Nineteen guns from a battery of artillery, also made their last announcement to the city that the King's representative is about to set in motion the machinery of the country's business.

Earl Bessborough Acknowledges the Salute

As her Gracious Excellency was met at the Hall of Fame by A. F. Lascelles, the secretary of the Governor-General, the Earl of Bessborough acknowledged the royal salute from the Guard of Honour. Then, wheeling, he passed with dignity, between files of high rank officers in brilliant uniform, up the steps and into the hall. Here he was greeted by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, and the processes immediately formed.

See the picture for yourself — an orderly group of uniformed officials with the Governor-General standing in his Windsor uniform; the charming counters in her striking gown of white, shimmering satin; the two aide pages wearing white knee-breeches with coats of blue and waistcoats of red, trimmed with silver and lace; the lady-in-waiting in a gown of dark red velvet with touches of gold; and after these the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, followed by twenty or more officers of the defence forces of the Dominion—a colorful and impressive scene. Then as they passed down the pillared and arched corridors to the Senate Chamber.

Honourable P. E. Blondin, Speaker of the Senate, commanded the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod to summon the House of Commons. Five minutes later, headed by Speaker Hon. George Black, preceded by the mace, borne by J. L. Williams, Sergeant-at-Arms, and accompanied by Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, clerk of the House of Commons, and Thomas Fraser, assistant clerk, the members of the House of Commons took their stand at the Bar of the Senate chamber. The Speaker of the House of Commons delivered his bid to His Excellency, who returned the courtesy.

Speech From The Throne

The speech from the Throne was then read by His Excellency, first in English, then in French. It is remarkable that the Commons who received the words of hopefulness and encouragement embodied in the speech, include in their membership six veterans who were there in January 1909, when parliament was opened by Lord Grey. These are Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. Charles Marcil, Sir George Perley, Dr. W. J. Rhodes, and Rt. Hon. William L. MacKenzie King.

Mention was made, in the speech, of the various phases of work that must be covered in this session. A vast field it seems, and a great undertaking indeed much must be accomplished to bring Canada back to a sane and secure economic footing. The concluding paragraph, addressed to the members of both houses, read: "I invoke the Divine Blessing upon your deliberations, confident that the measures submitted for your consideration will receive your earnest attention."

The Usher of the Rod then approached the Throne, wheeled and led the procession from the chamber. At the main entrance, another royal salute greeted Their Excellencies, which

Canadian Canners Open Napanee Plant in 1934

It is the intention of the Canadian Canners, at the present time, to operate the Napanee branch factory during the coming summer. This is a decision of considerable importance to farmers and townspeople of the county. The factory was not operated last year, which meant a loss of market to local agriculturists.

The Napanee plant was established many years ago, and taken over some years later by the Canadian Canners. While not one of the largest in the country, it has supplied an outlet for much produce and provided a source of income to the farming community.

This year it is planned to use only peas and tomatoes. As there is no corn borer inspector in the district, corn can not be utilized. Mr. Vick, the manager, appeared before the County Council to ask that a corn-borer inspector be appointed. Such an appointment would not affect the decision not to can corn this year, but would make it possible to do so next year. No appointment was recommended by the County Council at their last session.

Mr. C. H. Garrison, the agent for the factory, is at the present time arranging contracts with the farmers for peas and tomatoes for the coming season.

Provincial Police Quell Disturbances At Highway Camp

Belleville. — Fifteen workers were ejected from the highway relief camp No. 4 C), near Denbigh, last week, by the Provincial Police, following allegedly disturbances on Thursday and Sunday, when numerous workers refused to resume their duties Saturday morning.

The disturbance culminated in an alleged organized demand on the workers to resume their duties on Saturday morning, when headed by Thomas Southgate, of Hamilton, Ont., the employees went on strike, demanding an increase in wages and the provisions contemplated during the cold weather. Feeling ran higher than 9 until 11 a.m. Saturday when the workers congregated in a large bunkhouse, where it is said Southgate and other workers held a meeting and drafted certain rules which they demanded to be carried out by their employers. At 11 a.m. Foreman Walsh of the camp entered the bunkhouse where the meeting was held, and instructed the men to return to their labors, with the promise of a full day's pay if they returned to their posts immediately. Forty of the fifty-five men in the camp returned to work at once.

Again on Sunday, however, another disturbance loomed when some remained away from work, and refused to allow a minister, who was endeavoring to hold a weekly Sunday religious service, to use a table that had been procured from their bunkhouse.

It was following this outbreak that the officer in charge of the camp summoned the Provincial Police to restore order.

Toronto Boys' Hike Stopped at Napanee

Two Toronto school boys, Frank Porter and Robert Stanley, aged 14 years, were apprehended on Wednesday night while passing through.

The boys had run away from their homes in Toronto and were on their way to Montreal. The police along the line had been asked to be on the look out for them. They were taken into custody and detained over night.

On Thursday, the brother of one of the boys came down to Napanee and took them back to Toronto with him.

So Ottawa again holds the stage. And perhaps as never before, will the eyes of all Canadians, of every class, be fixed upon her and her deliberations. Problems seem resistless—resigned to lengthy debates on dull topics—resigned to dry economics: discussions of a seemingly inane and the long-harangued Douglas plan—resigned, and quite confident—that each and every one of these matters does seem to have come in. To help it down to size, as we would do well to make a study of burdensome cipties. world-wide economic conditions, and foreign methods of grappling with the situation in which every nation now finds itself.

We should be a help to our Government. We could, by intelligent study, become an understanding and a thinking public, and we would perhaps, learn to appreciate the magnitude of the problems which we have set them to solve.

ANNUAL MEETINGS

The Press has been carrying, of late, the reports of church activities for the past year. In most of the large church denominations annual meetings are held early in January. At these meetings reports are read from all the organizations connected with the local church and are presented to the congregation as a whole, for consideration.

It is a remarkable tribute to the loyalty and devotion of the people of the church, that the reports which have been published, reveal a healthy state of financial support. The Church does not exist for financial gain. But finances are necessary in order to enable the churches to do their real work in the world. The interest of the membership may be fairly accurately gauged by the extent to which they give in their financial support.

There never was a time when the message of the Church was more needed than to-day; when men are bewildered, discouraged, and distracted. That tens of thousands of loyal men and women in our country have contributed liberally of their time and money, speaks well of the confidence which they have in its essential worth. While the drain on the Church in the local Community has increased with the increasing unemployment and demands for material assistance, yet the churches have not lost sight of the larger needs of their fellow men in other parts of the world. Ontario churches, for the last two years, have sent hundreds of carloads of provisions and clothing to the stricken areas in Western Canada, and the givings to missions throughout the world have diminished but little through the years of depression.

Like every other organization depending on voluntary givings, the churches have had to share to some extent, the general loss of revenue. But by careful and vital economies they have been able to continue their ministry of world-wide love with little impairment.

RELIGION AND NATIONALISM

The future of the Christian Church throughout the world, is uncertain. The battle of the reformation is once more being fought out and by a strange irony of fate, it is being fought on the same battle ground where the Reformation under Luther, was waged. The struggle now going on in Germany is the greatest crisis since the Reformation. The struggle centres round the attempt of Hitler to get control of the Church, for nationalistic ends. Shortly after he assumed office, he appointed Ludwig Muller, Reichsbishop—that is the head of the Cabinet of Bishops, in Germany. In September of last year, a conference of bishops met, under his leadership, for the purpose of making plans in the light of the new situation created by Hitler's success. At this conference two policies were proposed by Muller, which stirred up great opposition among the rank and file of the clergy. One was to the effect that no person of Jewish ancestry could be a member of the German Church; no pastor, theological student or assistant pastor would be recognized who had any semitic strain in his blood. The other was the suggestion to eliminate the study of the Old Testament in German churches and Sunday schools.

This met with the strongest opposition and a Pastors' Emergency League was formed, to which a large number of the 6,000 ministers subscribed. They demanded the resignation of certain bishops who had shown themselves favorable to Muller's proposals. Muller further alienated the support of the rank and file of the clergy by handing over the Youth Movement of the churches to the president of the Hitler Youth Movement. All Muller's cabinet of bishops but one had deserted him. Finally, a convention was called to meet at Halle, on January 5th. It seemed as though Muller would have to resign. But at that point, he received a telegram from Hitler, conferring dictorial powers, and authorizing him to discharge any clergyman who dared to criticize his actions.

Inside of twenty-four hours a notice was read in hundreds of German churches protesting against this action. It was doubtful whether, in the face of this, Hitler would force the issue, but on Sunday last Muller asserted his power and arrested the leader of the Emergency League, Rev. Martin Niemoeller. Already over a hundred other ministers had been discharged under his decree.

If Muller, who is Hitler's tool, succeeds in his present plans of subjecting the Church in Germany to the absolute decrees of the State, it will mean that the Church will be merely an arm of the Government, preaching and teaching only that of which the Government approves.

It will not be long, then, before other nations attempt similar methods. The wave of nationalism which is sweeping over the world will then have allied with it the greatest of all the powers, that of religion. Each nation will be able to call to its aid not only tariffs, national slogans and racial prejudices, but will, as well, invoke the aid of a national diety through the instrumentality of the national church.

The battles of the future may very easily become a struggle of the gods.

THE PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAMME

The Dominion Government has announced that Ontario will be granted, as its share of the fund for public works, $17,500,000. So far no definite policy has been arrived at as to the projects on which this money will be spent. The one hint given was a negative one. No part of the money, it was suggested, could be spent on housing.

It will be unfortunate if this hint should prove true. For there is no more needy nor worthy object on which a portion of that money could be spent, than on the erection of suitable dwellings of moderate cost. Even in a small town like Napanee, there are people living in houses which might better be torn down. One of our greatest needs in Napanee is for small, well built houses that would rent at about ten or twelve dollars a month. There is no reason why the money granted for public works should not be spent in some such municipal housing scheme. With costs as they are now, a number of small five or six-roomed houses could very easily be built for three thousand dollars each, or less. It is well known that it takes about ten per cent of the cost of a house to maintain it in repair, pay taxes and interest on investment. Ten per cent of an investment of $3,000.00 would be $300.00 a year, which would be too much to ask any workingman to pay. But, if on the completion of the house, the capital cost were written down to $1500.00 and the other fifty per cent absorbed by the Public Works Fund, the rent to enable the investment to pay would only be about ten or twelve dollars a month. Thus, in addition to giving men work and increasing the sale of material, the property would be a good investment for the municipality.

A CORN BORER INSPECTOR

During the meetings of the County Council, held last week, Mr. Vick, the manager of the local branch of the Canadian Canners, Limited, appeared before them. He urged the Council to appoint a Corn Borer Inspector for the County. After hearing Mr. Vick, the Council took no action in the matter. It is to be hoped, however, that when the issue comes up at the March meeting, the Council will see its way clear to make the appointment. It would be money well spent, and would bring adequate returns to the town and county, in wages and produce.

The public, during the past few years, has been educated, through continual warnings, to watch their corn for the presence of the borer. The rapid spread of this insect in Ontario and the publicity given, have made it necessary for those having corn for sale, to examine every ear offered.

So far as the canners are concerned, they refuse to can corn which they cannot guarantee free from the borer. The Government does not, as yet, insist on an inspector. But the canning factories refuse to contract with farmers for corn from the farmers, unless they have an inspector, whose work will enable them to guarantee their product.

So far as this district is concerned there was an increase in 1932. He cost the County about $400. But because of his appointment the Canning Factory was able to run five or six weeks longer than it would without corn. It is estimated that this meant $15,000.00 in wages and produce, approximately $12,000.00 of which went to the farmers and the other $3,000.00 to the fifty men and women who work in the factory.

It is necessary, before making the contract with the farmers for corn, that the company should be assured by the inspector. No inspector was appointed in 1933, with the result that no contracts were let for the 1934 corn. Consequently, the Canning Factory will be closed down five weeks sooner than it would be if corn were being canned.

The proposal before the Council is that an inspector should be appointed for this summer so that the factory will be able, in the fall, to take contracts with the farmers. This is a good corn growing area and since the corn which they sell will spend the money necessary to insure the operation of the Canning Factory for five or six weeks in 1934. It would benefit both farmers and workers at a time when they are equally need assistance.

WHY THERE IS DISCONTENT

There is every reason in the world for men who are receiving relief, and are unable to get a job of any kind, to see red, when they read some of the ways in which our present business system enables those who can work to make fabulous sums. The United States Press has been featuring two cases during the last few weeks, which are outstanding examples of the extent to which this may go. The one is the case of Mr. Charles W. Deeds who bought forty dollars worth of stock in the Pratt - Whitney Company in 1926, when he was twenty-four years of age. The shares were sold at seventy cents each, which gave young Deeds 200 shares. Shortly after there was a stock dividend declared of 70 for one. Then Pratt - Whitney shares were traded for United Aircraft. By May 1929, Mr. Deeds had made a profit of 140.600 per cent ! Mr. Deeds has, up-to-date, cash profits of $1,060,-719.00 and has shares left with a present value of $450,000.00. In addition, since 1926 he has received $142.000.00 in salary, $151,-000.00 in bonuses, and $4,380.00 in directors' fees.

At the same time, Fred R. Rentschler, a young brother of the president of the National City Bank of New York, invested $253.00, and up-to-date, has had a cash profit of $9,514,-000.00 and still holds stock worth $2,100,000.00.

Is it any wonder when men are able to do this and add nothing to the national wealth, that those who do the world's work are underpaid, and that farm produce brings starvation prices ? It is such conditions, of which the above are examples, that breed communists, and have led to an insistent demand for a change in our whole economic system, and for a more equitable distribution of wealth and money.

The New Crime

Matches are a Government monopoly in Bulgaria, and therefore automatic-lighters, it is reported, have already been made illegal. Now it is proposed that the lighting of one cigarette from another shall also be penalised and the police instructed to fine on the spot both the man who gives a light, and the man who takes one in that way.

It sounds a pretty desperate form of misdemeanour — but the good work in the matter of suppressing illicit lighting arrangements can hardly be allowed to rest there. The police will also have to peep into homes and houses in order to make sure that no one is defrauding the revenue by lighting a paper spill at the fireplace, or by following the old-fashioned method of taking a coal from the fire with the tongs in order to light a clay pipe. And if anyone in Bulgaria has mastered the primitive art of producing fire by rubbing dry sticks together, he had better avoid all public demonstrations of the knack, lest he be taken out and shot as the arch-traitor against the match monopoly. Or should he be detained, pending trial, to the top of Mount Canacaus ?—Miscellany.

A Bit of a Come-Down

It will come as rather a shock to some of us to read that Signor Mussolini has decided to change uniform to his wardrobe "for use when it is too cold to wear the black shirt in addition to it." In this thing spreads, these movements will never again be what they were. Remember, Oswald — overcoats are so suburban.—Miscellany.

VESPERS — A PARODY

(After Milne)

Gentleman kneels at the foot of his bed,
Clasps his much - advertised leonine head;
Hush ! hush ! Whisper who dares—
Ramsay MacDonald is saying his prayers.

God bless Snowden. I know that's right.
Wasn't it fun in the House tonight ?
Our feet are so cold and our heads so hot—
Oh ! God bless Thomas—I quite forgot.

If I opened my eyes a little bit more
I could see an addressing-gown hung on the door.

It's a beautiful red, but it won't do when Oh ! God bless Maxton and Wheatley too.

I've an addressing - gown which (I

NEWS OF THE WEEK

GIST OF IMPORTANT EVENTS

ONTARIO —

Hon. L. Cacaulay, Minister of Highways, says that, while sentiment is growing for the elimination of speed limits on highways, motorists are not careful enough for such freedom from control.

Hog prices, in Toronto, are the highest for three years.

Representatives of the 160,000 Jews in Canada, met at Toronto. Social and economic problems were discussed.

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, reports fewer requests for farm loans, than in 1932. The loans likewise, are for smaller amounts.

The fifth and last session of the Ontario House, opens Wednesday.

DOMINION —

On the opening of Parliament, Lord Bessborough gave the speech from the Throne, indicating major subjects for consideration. They were, banking legislation with the establishment of a central bank; gold coverage for dominion notes; steps to enforce the world agreements on limitation of wheat and on the use of silver more extensively; public works program; a marketing board for farm produce and some scheme for giving credit to farmers.

Premier Taschereau, of Quebec, advocated a royal commission to investigate the finances of the four western provinces. Ontario and Quebec contribute 80% of the federal revenue, and therefore, are greatly concerned with federal loans.

Premier Bennett proposes to make a thorough probe into the buying methods of chain stores and the operation of packing and meat companies. The investigation will be sufficiently exhaustive to bring out the real facts.

At the annual meeting of the Bank of Nova Scotia, figures were given of the debt of our governments and municipalities, as follows :—
The debt was, in 1914 $1,115,000,000
in 1919 2,630,000,000
an increase during the war of $1,515,-000,000 and since then $3,920,000,000.

Western farmers expect each will be allowed to sell only a stipulated amount of wheat, based on their crops. Canadian exports are limited to 200,000,000 bushels annually, for this and next year.

A cargo of New Zealand butter arrived at Victoria and is being held in bond; if a shortage of Canadian butter develops, it will be released.

Dr. Allan, of the University of Alberta, states that the town of Frank is threatened by a slide from the mountain, on whose side is the townsite. In 1903 the town was wiped out by a rock slide.

Quebec province may organize a provincial lottery. The question arises as to whether the federal laws can prevent it.

Both railroads report an improvement in earnings, as compared with last year. For three weeks carloadings have been greater, the major item in the increase being miscellaneous freight.

GENERAL —

The United States may repeal the Platt amendment, by which that country claims the right to enforce an orderly government in Cuba. United States, while expressing no desire for foreign territory, has financial control over a large part of the West Indies, including Cuba, and all of the Central American republics; Mexico and British Honduras are exceptions.

The Attorney-General of the States is investigating the Aluminum Company, which has a 100% monopoly. The company is owned by Mellon, ex-Secretary of the Treasury and his family.

Subscriptions for the American $1,000,000,000 loan were over 3½ times that amount. The loan is for short terms, with the interest rate varying from 1½ to 2½%.

American funds which were sent to Britain, when the pound was around $4.00, are now returning in large amounts, and are being discounted for the strength in the American dollar.

An investigation committee recommends to the American Congress, the amalgamation of all communication systems, under Government control.

On January 30th, the German Reichstag will meet, when Hitler will outline his policies and the results obtained, during his year in office.

Germany may decide against reducing her interest payments to foreigners, from 50 to 30%. Britain and United States strongly objected, but may have to admit more German goods.

Austria has officially complained to Germany, about Nazi efforts to absorb Austria. No reply has been received, but a denial of government participation is expected. Some Germans have suggested a plebiscite to determine the desire of the Austrians.

Germany and Poland signed a ten-year non-aggression pact. This should settle the difficulties over the Polish corridor to the sea, which divides German territory.

The United States intends to pass a bill closing the American money market to countries in default to the American Government. This will not affect countries whose private individuals or corporations default on securities held by Americans.

The French Government fell, due to the 440,000,000 bank scandal and its efforts to balance the budget.

Paris has rumors that a secret agreement exists between Germany and Japan; both countries have differences with Russia, with whom France has lately been quite friendly.

Editorial Comment

HOW BRITAIN DID IT

To determine the precise causes of an industrial revival is never a simple task, but, unquestionably, the policies of Britain's National Government have played a large part in her remarkable recovery. British manufacturers are certain today of the home market, and the tariffs have provided them with an extraordinarily valuable weapon of bargaining. States which only two or three years ago were hostile to Britain at the demands of British Governments and manufacturers for easier access to their tariff walls are now pleading now for a similar favour from Britain. Tariff commerce with Germany, with the Argentine and with Russia has been, or is being, brought into a state of equilibrium. The Ottawa Conference has given her a hold on the Dominions, whose attitude to British manufactures formerly had been little different from that of foreign nations; and all parties are getting solid benefits from their bargain.—Weekly Irish Times.

SUGGESTION FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

The Privy Council in 1927 decided the Labrador question in favour of Newfoundland. This gave to Newfoundland an area on the mainland of Canada and adjacent to the Province of Quebec, which was twice as large as the Island, had ample potential resources of water power and was well stocked with minerals, timber and fisheries. Some years earlier Newfoundland politicians had always claimed possession of this area, offered it to Canada for about £7,500,000. When the Labrador question was finally settled the area was said to be worth £125,000,000—It remains to be seen whether Newfoundland will try to get on its feet and resume its responsible form of government by again offering to sell Labrador to Canada.—Times of India.

WHAT IS CANADA TO DO ?

What is Canada to do in a world of economic nationalism ? There can be no doubt that our path would be easier if world trade flowed freely as of old. Failing that, we naturally place great reliance upon our association with the Commonwealth. Canada's subscription to the Ottawa agreements was her longest defensive step in an economically aggressive world. Then the question of the United States arises. The Americans, like the rest of the world, are in a mood to cultivate self-sufficiency. Can we persuade them to modify their isolationism at least so far as trade with Canada is concerned ? Our best hope, for the time being, appears to lie in special arrangements with Britain and with the United States.—Montreal Daily Star.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 4th, 1934

MATTHEW 6 : 5-13; 19-21; 31-32

"PUTTING GOD'S KINGDOM FIRST"

Each of the three sections which constitute the lesson material for this week, has its own message. In the first of these Jesus deals with prayer. In the second he deals with the transitory nature of earthly treasures and in the third he enunciates his view of God's Providence. In these emphasises what priority should be by first telling what it should not be. In order to make it very simple and clear he uses the illustration of prayer as practised by the hypocrites and the pagans. Hypocrites use prayer as a means of self adulation or self glory. They love to stand out in their own voices. They love to impress men with the sense of their own importance, and public prayer gives an unusual opportunity for that sort of thing. It is true that hypocrisy is not the only sin in the world, though many people talk and act as though it were. There are plenty of people who remain outside the church on the grounds that there are hypocrites within its membership. If we are those who were always what they seemed to be, we would be left with a very narrow circle of friends. The prevalence of hypocrisy of one sort or another does not, by any means, detract from its devastating effect on character. Jesus, all through His ministry, condemns it in harsher terms than He ever used towards what we call the more gross forms of society. He was particularly uncompromising with those who used religion for any purpose save that of rewarding the Kingdom.

Prayer, too, Jesus points out, does not depend for its efficacy on its length. The "Lord have mercy on me a sinner" of the publican was of more value than the long and measured repetition of the Pharisee. In certain parts of the world, religious people have prayer wheels as an aid to worship. The longer they turn these wheels the more prayers are ascending to the Deity. But Prayer is communion with God. It is a relationship between the worshipper and the Divine, and does not depend on length of time. Multiplying prayers in the hope of building up a reserve in heaven is a relic of outworn paganism and has no place in the Christian life.

Jesus, in the model prayer, sets the standard for Christian prayer. A simple statement of God's fatherhood is followed by a few brief petitions, for forgiveness, for the prevalence of God's will on earth, for guidance, for deliverance from evil and for food for the day. That's all.

In the second section Jesus attacks the futility of storing up for earthly riches. He doesn't say that riches or treasure are in themselves bad or good. The sin consists in the emphasis on earthly treasure, when men strive for an accumulation of wealth rather than for spiritual satisfaction. The struggle for earthly treasure leads to the narrowing down of mind and heart on perishable goods to the exclusion of permanent values, and to a persecution which has seen what it believed were securities scattered to the four winds, which has seen economic empires to which men had given their lives, topple like a house of cards, this message comes with strange and prescient power. There is only permanent and enduring things in life are the spiritual ones, love, kindness, mercy and truth. Where men live for these ends they have built for eternity.

Perhaps nothing in the whole of Christ's gospel makes such a demand on human faith and trust as His message re God's Providence. In the Kingdom which Jesus came to establish, absolute trust in God's overreaching providence—His ability to care for the needs of every human life, would prevail. Into such a world in which goods of every kind have been corralled for selfish interests, where mistrust of God, which is properly distributed, would relieve hunger and want, and where fear of poverty would no more has ended his usefulness, or even long before — the injunction, take no thought for the morrow gets little response. To guard as they may the wealth men had given their lives, topple like a house of cards, this message comes with strange and prescient power. There is only permanent and enduring things in life are the spiritual ones, love, kindness, mercy and truth. Where men live for these ends they have built for eternity.

To guard as they may the wealth men had given their lives, put life and fire into it. Only in the ideal world of Jesus' Kingdom, would the question everywhere be with no care or thought for the morrow. And yet deep in the hearts of every Christian is the faith that, somehow or other, God does care. The hymnology of the church which is perhaps the richest heart has many beautiful expressions of this faith.

"Eternal Father, strong to save,
Whose arm doth bind the restless wave,
Who dost the mighty ocean deep
Its own appointed limites keep;
O ! Hear us when we cry to Thee
For those in peril on the sea."

How can God save the sailors on the sea ? We do not know, yet we believe. Such a belief is true Christian will not lightly re-inquish. For it we will live and/in the light of it we will die.

"Men's opinions change but God's message remains."—Billy Sunday.

"All of us soon learn in life that obstacles present themselves to be surmounted, adverse conditions to be overcome."—Mary Pickford.

BETHEL

Bethel, Jan. 26.—The heavy rains on Monday night Tuesday and Wednesday stopped the ice-cutting activities for a few days, with the change for colder weather those who have not completed their task will soon complete it.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Galbraith spent Wednesday afternoon with the latter's parents, at Harrowsmith, returning home with little Marie Galbraith, who had spent the last two weeks with her grandparents.

Mrs. William Jackson spent Wednesday with Mrs. Ira Salisbury, Colebrook. The many friends of Mr. Ira Salisbury, who is a patient in the Kingston General Hospital for treatment, are pleased to hear, at time of writing, he is resting as comfortable as could be expected. A complete recovery is hoped for.

Mr. and Mrs. E. McKnight, accompanied Mrs. Emily Burtle to Kingston, Thursday evening.

Mrs. William Jackson spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Seymour Bell.

Mr. Wilbur Benn is busily engaged selling and hauling hay to Yarker. Feed is quite scarce in this community and most of the farmers are feeding very sparingly, in order to lengthen out their supply.

Mr. and Mrs. Urban Wilson of Moscow, spent Sunday night last at tea with Mr. and Mrs. H. Gilligan.

Mr. George Jackson has completed his work of painting and re-decorating the interior of the Kingsbury Beaver Parlor on Dundas St., Napanee.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Jim Hamilton is confined to his bed for a complete rest, but we hope she will soon be feeling much stronger.

Mr. Perry Alkenbrack is hauling wood from Mr. Arley Clark's swamp.

Mr. Russel Gilligan, relieving agent of the C. N. Railways, Belleville, spent last week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gilligan.

Worms are encouraged by morbid condition of the stomach and bowels and so rehaist. Miller's Worm Powders will alter these conditions allmost immediatesy and will sweep the worms away. No destructive purgative can live in contact with this medicine, which is not only a worm destroyer, but a health-giving medicine most beneficial to the young constitution, and as such it has no superior.

BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, Jan. 30. — Those suffering from influenza are improving in health. Sunday it rained and on Monday morning the thermometer ran away down below zero.

The rising prices of farm produce are a great encouragement to the farmer. In nearly every line, prices are better than they were a year ago.

Some of the places on our River Road are dangerous for motorists. On Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Vanalstine, of Napanee, were driving out the River Road, when their car struck a bad rut and plunged over the enbankment, just this side of the Parker Hill. The car plunged down about eight feet and struck a tree. Fortunately no one was injured, though the car was badly damaged.

The annual congregational meeting of the Gretna Church was held in Wednesday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce. Reports showed that $252.50 had been paid on the minister's salary; $25.0 0 was raised for the M. and M. fund; $25.0 0 was paid by the W. M. S. to Presbyterial and $177.00 was raised by the Ladies' Aid. The Sunday school reported a very successful year with all accounts paid. The following were appointed officers of the congregation and Sunday school for 1934: Church Secretary, Mr. Will Joyce; Church Treasurer, Mr. Herbert Mellow; Church Organist, Mrs. Laura Parks; Sunday School Supt., Mr. William Joyce and Mr. Arthur Dean; Sunday school Superintendent, Mr. William Joyce with Mr. Arthur Dean as assistant-Secretary, Mrs. Elmer Alkenbrack; Treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Dean; Cradle Roll Superintendent, Mrs. Herbert Mellow; Home Department Superintendent, Mrs. Wm. Joyce; Teachers, Mrs. Laura Parks, Mrs. H. Mellow, Mrs. A. Dean, Mrs. E. Alkenbrack, Miss Madge Leech, and Mrs. Wm. Joyce.

The Gretna Ladies' Aid meets this Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Dean, at 2.30 p.m. Everybody invited.

The Bethany congregational meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark on Friday evening, at 8 p.m., with a good attendance. Reports were very encouraging. This amounted and $202.2 0 in salary, $100.00 of which was contributed by the Ladies' Aid. The Sunday School balanced a substantial balance in the treasury. The officers of the congregation for 1934 are: Secretary, Mr. George Burtch; Treasurer Mr. James Clark; Organist, Mrs. Forrest Clark; Collectors, Mr. Stanley Joyce, Mr. William Goodman and Mr. James Clark. The officers of the Sunday School: Superintendent, Mr. George Burtch; Asst. Superintendent, Mr. James Clark; Secretary, Mr. Geo. Sprague; Treasurer, Mr. Harry Clark; Organist, Mrs. L. Davis; Teachers, Mrs. Stanley Joyce, Mrs. Frank Clark, Miss Laird, Mrs. E. Conner, Mr. Willard Clark and Mr. James Clark, and Mr. Stanley Joyce.

The Bethany Ladies' Aid are setting up a broadcasting station at their church on Monday evening, February 5th, at 8 p.m. The great radio artists are being represented by the young people of Bethany, under the direction of Mr. Geo. Fuscell. It is going to be most interesting to come, everyone. Refreshments at the close.

On Friday evening Miss Verna Burtch entertained a number of her friends at a birthday party. Among the out of town friends who spent the week-end at the home were Miss D. Hopkins, Miss Jean Clark, and Miss Bessie Parks.

On Thursday evening of this week, February 1st, at 8 p.m., the Hay Bay congregation will have their annual meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson. Refreshments, etc.

A very pleasant time was spent on Thursday evening last, when a number of the neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. Ezra Hudgin, to join with him in the celebration of their birthday.

Sorry to learn that Mr. E. O. Mellow was much worse over the week end. He has no remain in bed.

Mr. Fred Terry, of Belleville, has been spending a couple of weeks visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore.

Everyone in the monthly meeting of the Bond Hill Ladies' Aid this Wednesday night, January 31st, a the home of Mr. Elmer Alkenbrack, of Hay Bay at 11 a.m., at Bethany at 2.30 p.m., and at Anderson at 7.30 p.m. Subject: "Seek Ye First the Kingdom of God."

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Beckel and son, of Brantford, were recent visitors at the parsonage.

"If I hadn't a crop of failures in my harvest, I would indeed be a fool."—Sir Henry Deterding.

BETHANY

Bethany, Jan. 29.— Wood sawing is the order of the day when the weather permits.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark entertained a number of friends on Sunday last.

Bethany will be on the air next Monday evening, when a radio programme will be given in the church. Be on time to secure a seat. The entertainment is under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Those who are unable to attend, tune in on station B. L. A. at 8.00 p.m. and hear many of your favorites, such as Biddie Candler, Amos 'n Andy and others. Don't forget the date, February 5th.

Mrs. C. Burtch spent Sunday with friends at Gananoque.

The congregational meeting for Bethany was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark. A goodly number attended. The reports of the year were very favorable, both in church and Sunday School work.

Bill Conger has the honor of being first for a new baby in the 1934. While cutting ice last week he fell in and fortunately, apart from getting a good soaking, no ill effects have resulted.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis spent Sunday in Gananoque.

William Oliver is visiting friends at Bethany.

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, Jan. 29. — The Young People of the United Church held their meeting in the Sunday school room on Sunday, Jan. 28. A good attendance prevailed. After the opening exercises and business had been disposed with, a splendid programme, prepared by Hazel Winter, was given, taking for her subject "Scotch Authors." Papers on the lives of Sir Walter Scott, by Dorothy Joyce; Robert Louis Stevenson, by Louise Ramsay; Robert Burns, by Mr. Robin Price, were most interesting, and inspiring addresses on the authors by Mr. J. M. Rowell and Mr. G. A. Aylsworth, were also very instructive. Mr. Aylsworth gave a graphic description of the birthplace and home of Robert Burns, which he visited while in Scotland. A vote of thanks was tendered to all those who assisted in making the meeting most enjoyable to everyone.

LYRE BIRD PLAYS JOKE ON MOTORISTS

The mystery of the phantom motor-car driver who hoaks his horn at the heels of a party of 10 pubs outside Melbourne, Australia, has been cleared up. The heid is sharp on the road drivers to come to grief as they approach. Lately such warnings have been promptly replied to apparently from a car travelling in the opposite direction. Drivers pulled over to avoid collision only to find on resuming the turn that there was no other car in sight.

The joke proved a serious one recently along the road, was so puzzled that one day he stopped to investigate, whereupon a lyre-bird flew up from its hiding place in some bushes. It had been playing a joke on the motorists in amusing mimic of the mimicry enabling it to reproduce, perfectly the four musical notes of the service driver's horn.

OATMEAL AND THE BOY

Visitors from the south have not always been kind in their attitude towards Scottish oatmeal. Dr. Johnson and John Keats are two cases in point. Although a later visitor, William Cobbett, made amends when he declared that he "preferred Scotch porridge to any other breakfast in the world." But it has been left for an eight-year-old visitor from Wales to declare its roundabout head, to deliver the final crushing indictment on the subject. He had been given his entrée spread with a liberal allowance of jam, and having licked off every particle of the jam he returned the cake with the polite remark, "Here's your board back, Auntie."

THE SPLENDOUR OF THE PIG

(By STEPHEN LEACOCK)
in the Sunday Referee

On the same day that I read that General Goering played the piccolo I saw my favourite pig. Snout to the earth, he seemed to be in precisely the same posture as when I saw him over the farmer's wall the week previous. If anything is static in the shifting scenes of the Supreme Conjurer's scheme, it surely is the pig.

In these rural rambles on which my spirit rejoices I never pass a pig without pausing to inspect him. His self-sufficiency is superb. He is at one with himself. With sparrows by the side he appears as happy in his habitat as the reputation of St. Francis Thought he has never gorged at the sumptuous table of Mahomet Gandhi, nor smacked parched lips at the flowing foam of John Drinkwater, he nevertheless stands for satisfaction at the universe wherein he dwells.

In the cosmos he stands four-square, as sure of himself as the Bishop of Antioch or Browning, who after an abudant feast, declared that he never doubted clouds would break and marched boldly forward. Not even Edward Shanks could say more than that. And, moreover, if it is not the pig's destiny to sit up and take notice at a Guildhall banquet while the Prime Minister expatiates on unemployment, his mortal master has at least a care to keep him out of Carey Street.

• • •

I am concerned with the ample gamble pig of the English countryside, not the Bismarck pig, not those pigs of prouder pedigree which the Pig Breeders Society of Chicago rears with the B.B.C. or brought hence from Sir Baldwin. It is the pig that we have bred in dark and Shipdrench communes as comfortable as not the reverse that Tottenham Corner should be deposited in his room.

The pig is a symbol in the scheme of things, for in his stolid features, below the lineaments of sweet candour, and great beauty of the soul, the profound student will see that in the main but the Supreme Contriver has not failed. Nevertheless it is impossible quited in the shape of this impression.

Since the pig is neither progressist pantheist, nor politician, it follows that the subtleties of St. John Ervine's syntax disturb him not; and does he care like Noel Coward, whether Gwynne or no we rest upon Queen Anne. Like the Empress Maria Theresa, the pig agrees with his fellow-Canadian, the special pleading of never having been at a public school having good reason to be proud. Neither is he a particularist, for he will rest at the end of the day as contentedly in a sty shared with the same vivacious avidity as if he were let loose on a Durham miner's allotment.

• • •

This pig processes his enemies and friends in the same fashion. He eats the acorns, leaves his eloquence alone to be loved and cured for by the Lord Mayor of this year's Christmas Pud. Reformer, Jacobean humanist, Bonar Conservative, Labour Party, Liberal Nationalist, pacifist, militarist, disarmist, or Empire Crusader, he is all things to all men. Like the pig he reconciles the irreconcilable. Like him he is a born compromiser. Like him he is a confirmed bachelor, while dark malady, named them to the doorways of the Cabinet Council.

Like old Count Leo Tolstoy, who was not the President of Geneva, the pig has much in favour amongst social and moral reformers since the days of Jewish established by the great English idol Charles Dickens, who in his hour of fame and misfortune invariably smashed with powerful emphasis his solemn contracts with publisher and self.

Nevertheless, the oldest nick, appear in the works of Proto. The pig is the pig-work, life the polish of the pig-sty, needs a process of regress. Modern poetry echoes evidence of this neglect of uncertain, and the present Poet Laureate, who used to do his stuff with naked knuckles, now puts his glorious gloves on to let down his languid Alfred Austin imitations. Obliterated are those great days of Blood and Lust were won in smudge his Gethsemane garden like crimson flumks of Tasso O'Thierry. And the pig-sneers and exits at Bucking-ham Palace. The widow of the late Mr. Pooley and Bengal Pig Pox row races over her deserted grave, where weeds grow abundantly

There is a pretence that the pig is dirty rather infra dig. It is true that he is not one of those unstable companions for an archbishop to take with him as 'pet to the Lambeth party in Mayfair. His apparel is uncomplicated. He has no dinner packet. And his vocabulary is not extensive, too clamped by one cliche, for any anthology undertaken jointly by Sir John Squire and Sir Basil Foster Fraser, and annotated by Gilbert Greta Frankau Gerbo.

But there is no proof that the pig's back provided a more pregnant provision for Democritus than, say the back of Henry the VIII; and even to-day bathing is prerequisately an obsession of Bloomsbury lady novelists, as anyone may know who ever endure the odours of their confessored confessions passing as fiction which are often to "eliminate beautiful" to the eye of Mr. Gerald Gould and "strangy unforgettable" in the mind of Mr. Ralph Straus.

If the pig is dirty there are business-like stations even for the shade of cannons and bishops where the rose is more offended than in the sty; loyal homes of England as due to cathedral steps that the readers can repeat the belief and use of Pedro without as much as getting out of their luxurial quarters. And from the rostar piles and the simpler oblations of the poets and artists of pigsty are more than fond commendable with the Church Missionary Society or the League of Nations. These have just been promoted in the souls of men; but the pig has stirred only the soil of the earth.

• • •

The pig is loyal to his pen. If the circumference of his environment's boundaries hold on to his person as a portrait of cabbages when young he would not desert for the public house. He need not seek at the boy that we like to adore Lord Cowper; and since Field Flowers to Bosworth one more fondly to linger the old rose and bramble the dust old Rose Hill rather and Pen. Then he down in the sty to sleep with crystal conscience and the warm easy at his heart's corrosion.

• • •

But the pig has his duel Sword part as in his shine there is a spirit in the merry-making in his nose. For he listens and writes Sweets and Bow-wow of this year's Christmas Pud. Reformer, Jacobean humanist, Bonar Conservative, Labour Party, Liberal Nationalist, pacifist, militarist, disarmist, or Empire Crusader, he is all things to all men. Like the pig he reconciles the irreconcilable. Like him he is a born compromiser. Like him he is a confirmed bachelor, while dark malady, named them to the doorways of the Cabinet Council.

Feels 50 lbs. Slimmer

AFTER LOSING ONLY 5 lbs.

"I started taking Kruschen Salts a month ago," a young woman writes. "I have lost 5 lbs. in weight, and I feel as if I have lost 50 lbs. I am full of vigor whereas before I was listless and worried over little things. But if my troubles were doubled, they would not worry me to-day—thanks to Kruschen."—Miss V. P.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat—take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning, for "It's the daily dose that takes off the fat." When you take Kruschen daily it means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

Modify your diet, and take only exercise. The stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are tuned up and the pure, fresh blood containing the six salts in a state to every cell in the body. Then follows that Kruschen feeling of energy—health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

John McNicol, principal of the Toronto Bible College, wore a gown of brown silk velvet with hat to match and carried a bouquet of Talisman Rose buds. Miss Myrtle Summers, the bridesmaid, was frocked in rose beige crepe with brown felt hat and bouquet of Brierhill roses. The best man was Mr. B. R. Watson, of Montreal, and Mr. John McCullough and Mr. Harry Somers were ushers. Miss Margaret Sisley played the wedding music and during the signing of the register, Miss Isabel Carr, sang.

The reception afterward was held in Knox Church social room for 85 guests and later the bride and groom left for their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a costume of brown crepe with brown felt hat and a brocon coat. On their return they will live at the manse in Athelstan, Que. The groom is a graduate of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, and the bride is a graduate of the Toronto Bible College.—Toronto Mail & Empire.

MAPLE ADULTERATION

Adulteration, according to the Maple Sugar regulations, means if any substance has been mixed with maple sugar or maple syrup so as to reduce or lower or injuriously affect its quality or strength; or if any inferior or cheaper substance has been substituted wholly or in part; or if any valuable constituent has been wholly or in part abstracted; or if its strength or purity falls below the requirements of the Maple Sugar Act or Regulations.

THIS COUNTRY FREE OF MOTOR BUS COMPETITION

In Holland, apart from natural deterrents, motor buses are not permitted to compete freely with the railways and are state-owned. Narrow roads with canals on either side, broken by frequent villages with equally narrow streets with sharp turns, have not been conducive to the growth of motoring, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. In addition, the network of trains, trams and waterways covering the country is extensive and has offered good service for the conveyance of passengers and merchandise, while the bicycle is also prominently in use, it being the Hollander's favorite mode of transportation. There is one for every three of the population and they are ridden by all classes of society, from the butcher's boy to a cabinet minister or dignitary of the church. A complete absence of hills makes them easy to negotiate, and this has a tendency to restrict bus competition with the railways.

ORIGINAL MEAT SUPPLY LED TO TRADE IN WOOL

Quite often by-products of an industry become more important than the parent undertaking and greatly exceed what the originators had in mind. Such is very much the case in the wool industry of Australia. When the first fleet of settlers reached Port Jackson in 1788, a few sheep were on board the vessels, primarily as a source of fresh meat supply. Some Bengal sheep were brought in these few sheep a future wool industry and in 1797 some Spanish merinos were brought from South Africa. Three years later samples of the wool produced from these merinos were sent to England and the experts reported favorably upon the product.

The growth of the wool trade of Australia from this early beginning has been tremendous. At the beginning of the 20th century there were over 70,000,000 sheep in Australia and in 1932 the flocks had increased to over 14,000,000. Scientific breeding has played a great part in bringing about this enormous expansion. The individual sheep of today can produce more than twice the weight of fleece which sheep carried in the early days of the industry.

SOME CANADIAN PLANTS AKIN TO ANIMAL LIFE

When is a plant not a plant? There are in Canada's flora, three wild plants that are on the border line between a plant and the animal world, according to an article in the Canadian National Railways Magazine. They are the pitcher plant, the sundew and the bladderwort, the last of which consists of inlaved traps.

The pitcher plant has tubular leaves with bristles which point downwards and prevent insects from crawling out. At the bottom is a small pool of rain water into which the insects are drowned.

The sundew possess tentacles which exude a sticky liquid holding the insect fast until it dies. The tentacles secrete a juice, something like pepsin, and this helps in digesting the insects.

Bladderwort, a water plant, has bladders which are very sensitive and any aquatic prey which might happen to touch any of them is sucked into the interior of the bladder.

HAD DISTILLED SEA WATER BACK IN 1593

On the modern "Lady" liners of the Canadian National Steamships, which ply the route between Canada and Bermuda, the British West Indies and Demerara and other British Honduras, large supplies of fresh water are carried, and modern machinery is installed to replenish the supply from time to time, the apparatus being able to manufacture wholesome drinking water from sea water. One might be inclined to think that this is an achievement of our modern age, but in going back over the old records, its recorded that Sir Richard Hawkins, in a voyage he made to the West Indies from England in 1593, had on board a distilling apparatus for the same purpose and they reported the resulting water as "wholesome and palatable." One of the "Lady" liners is named "Lady Hawkins" after Sir Richard, admiral for John Hawkins, who was father of Sir Richard and both helped to write England's sea history in the West Indies.

ICE CREAM TEMPERATURES

In an effort to determine the reaction of consumers to the serving temperatures for ice cream, students made a study of the flavour and body of vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry ice cream served at 6, 10, 16 and 20 degrees, Far. The preference expressed was for vanilla and strawberry ice creams served at 10 degrees and for chocolate at 10. The chief objection to chocolate at 16 was that the flavour was too pronounced. Strawberry ice cream at 20 lacked resistance and was generally what fluffy. The general criticism for all ice creams at lower temperatures was that they were too cold and that the desirable flavour was lacking.—Ice Cream Review.

SPORT OF 1896 RECALLED IN POEM

(Written by Fletcher Loucks)

Recently, Fred S. Scott, in going through some old papers, came across some poetry written in 1896, by Fletcher Loucks. It concerns a football game played by the Napanee Collegiate team in Deseronto, in that year. We print it below because we think that many citizens of the town and those who were former citizens, will recall many of the men mentioned in the verses.

The team consisted of Walter Exley, Will Carson, Clarence Trimble (dead), Alfred Burrows (dead), Geo Leamy (dead), Will Bickwell, Bennie Haines, Fred S. Scott (Stickney), Frank Grieves (dead), Perry Wagar, Thos. Pinnington.

Of the eleven four have died and three only are still residents of Napanee. The writer of the poetry, Fletcher Loucks, is now a resident of Winnipeg, Manitoba, where he has been a prominent educationalist for many years, in that city.

"FOOTBALL"

The Football Club of Napanee,
Is there, I hear they swore
They'd have the Quinte Silver Cup
Though wading deep in gore;
In former years our Quinte team
Had given them defeat,
And even those of Queen's did deem
Them mighty hard to beat.

So they got out their men in March,
To practice on the moor;
They lumped and tumbled all about,
Till they could jump no more.
For they were bound by hook or crook
That come, whatever might,
They'd win for Napanee, at least,
The season's opening fight.

Just seven miles from Napanee
The battle would be fought,
In the little Mohawk Village
Where moccasins are wrought;
In the little saw-dust village
Where Indian maidens dwell,
The most heart-rendering, modest maids
Tween Napanee and ——?

"They are," says Grieves of Napanee,
"Of perfect form and face,
Of starlit eyes and beauteous hair
And unsurpassing grace."
"We have," quoth he, "in Napanee,
Full many a lovely lass,
But Deseronto's homeliest maid
Their beauty does surpass."

But, oh! There never could have been
An uglier lot of braves,
Than unworthy gang of scamps,
Or baser pack of knaves,
With eyes that shine forth from their brows
Their devilment and crime,
With ugly mugs that gulp the beer
And wear a tiger skin.

Who never missed a ball,
Who was a famous back, when he Could hardly even crawl,
And Wagar, who has booted ball
Some forty years or so.
The game has mighty little now,
That Wagar doesn't know.

And all the others of the team
Were famous fellows, too.
For each could do a certain thing
That others couldn't do.
Bill Rockwell then could sing so sweet,
"Twould charm a cat," 'tis said;
Frank Anderson could bike a mile
Quite handily on his head.

The teams were both lined up, at last,
A facing for the fight;
The ball was kicked, and then began
A rather thrilling sight;
For Wagar trapped up Pumpkinhorn
And Pumpkinhorn up Jones,
With such a shock, the window panes
Were shattered in the town.

Soon, McIntosh charged into Grieves
But Grieves, he wasn't there,
So McIntosh did not stop,
He circled in the air.
Then everything got much confused,
Quite badly interfered
Until a Mohawk got the ball
And sent it through the sticks.

Oh! Such a shout as then uprose
From warrior and papoose,
That one who didn't know, would think
That ——— ? had been let loose.
"Offside," cried Grieves, to Referee,
"As sure as born you're born."
"Don't know," quoth he, the Referee
"But I'll ask Pumpkinhorn."

"But I'll ask Pumpkinhorn." McIntosh
Were corkers to the core.
They charged and often rolled about
Till they could charge no more.
They fell around on Scotty's legs,
Until they broke a bone;
They walked about on Lamey, just
As if he were a stone.

They scored two goals on Napanee
Before the second half,
Our boys, would it have saved their lives,
Could not have raised a laugh;
Their hearts were gone, their luck
seemed fled,
Their legs beat on a tire,
For every time they kicked, they missed
Up to their knees in mire.

But Walter Exley came, and then
They buckled in once more.
They booted those Mohawks all about,
And waded in their gore;
But still they could not score.
They tried in vain to score;
No matter where the ball was kicked
A brave was there before.

So back they came to Napanee,
A brave but beaten team;
But not so badly flattened out—
Says Grieves—as it would seem.
For who could kick with shattered
shins,
And do ought like their best.

Control Over Key Minerals First Step To Insure Peace

International supervision of key minerals in the manufacture of steel and armaments, should be the first step to insure peace, Mrs. Alfred Zimmern, wife of the Professor of International Relationships at Oxford University, declared at a meeting of women in Saint John, N.B. She urged Canadian women to address themselves to the problem.

While commending Canada for the "stability" she said existed here, Mrs. Zimmern criticized both the Dominions and the British Empire for "timidity" in failing to take definite action in the field of disarmament. The Canadian attitude at the League of Nations tended to weaken British authority as a whole, she asserted.

Everywhere in Canada, said Mrs. Zimmern, she had found groups of people with a keen sense of responsibility and desire to prevent another war. Canada had the British quality of stability in contrast to restlessness in the United States.

That this Dominion could be leader in stopping the supply of war material was the belief expressed by Mrs. Zimmern. "You are a very spiritual nation," she said. "You may be the first to put spiritual things above material."

Women are apt to be impatient and call prematurely for abolition of armaments, she warned, adding that one step at a time was necessary. Careful revision of school text books was desirable.

Mrs. Zimmern suggested formation of an Anglo-Canadian committee to act for the people in the interests of peace.

NO CURRENCY PROBLEMS IN THIS PART OF WORLD

New Guinea is the one delectable spot in the world where there are no currency problems, according to information received by an official of the Canadian National Steamships while discharging a cargo of Canadian manufactured goods at Australia.

In the district of Kokopo, Rabaul, the currency, which is shell money, amounts to exactly $1,250,000. This currency is useful only for international commerce and is of no use for trade with white people. There is said to be a merman mysticism attached to this currency, and one of the shells having been handed down from one generation to another for centuries past. Just as the white woman goes shopping with her purse of money, the natives go on their shopping expedition with string of shells.

And who could charge with splendiferous ride
A piercing eye through their vest.
We yet believe the Quinte Cup
Will come to Napanee!
We yet believe we'll learn the best;
Their betters cannot be.
We yet believe we have the stuff
To let all comers know
That Napanee is still the place
Where football players grow.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

The first exhibition hockey game of the season is to be played on Wednesday night, when the local fans will get an opportunity to see some of the best players in Kingston. They call themselves the "North-End Team" but are not the same outfit that played in the City League.

• • •

The locals will be out in full strength and will be augmented by Thurlby of Kingston, who, with Wilson and Card will compose one forward line. It is to be hoped that a good crowd will come and see the local lads perform. Murphy, Card, Wilson and Bentley, all of whom are playing with Kingston O. H. A. teams, will be on hand.

• • •

Two teams of the local Boys' League, will perform before the feature game.

• • •

The N. C. I. basketball teams are leading their respective groups and both have a good chance to take the honors, although the juniors will need to play heads-up ball to do so.

• • •

The biggest change in recent years, in amateur sport, took place Saturday in Toronto, when all the sport governing bodies banded together to form the "Ontario Amateur Sports Federation." This newly-formed body will do what the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada should do but the latter has become so rotten with petty internal policies that it has outlived its usefulness.

• • •

This Federation will be in direct control of the various sports and will in turn be controlled by the sports' executives which includes baseball, softball, hockey, lacrosse, football, basketball, boxing, running, etc. It will be a very powerful organization and it will simply mean that if an athlete is suspended from one sport, he will be out of all sports.

• • •

A carnival is being planned at the rink for February 9th. There will be contests, contests, etc., and two door prizes. Announcements later—?

• • •

We weren't going to mention the fact that the office Ink-Slingers won the hockey match (?) from the Smith - Eaters, last Saturday night, because it might hurt the feelings of some of the boys. However, the referee didn't see two goals scored by the office boys and also ruled that the game was a 2 - all, tie.

• • •

The play - off will come any day now, and it is guaranteed that there will be no tie again.

The Late Mrs. E. L. Bedore

A death which has called forth many expressions of regret and of sympathy for the family was that of Mrs. E. L. Bedore, who died on ...day afternoon.

...rs. Bedore had been in poor health for some weeks, but it was only on Friday last that it became apparent her condition was serious, after an embolism had rendered her unconscious.

During the years she had lived in Napanee, Mrs Bedore had made many friends. Her interest in St. Patrick's Church had been very great. She was an active member of the Catholic Women's League, and the Altar Society of the church, a valued member of the Children's Aid Society of the town, of the Victorian Order, and was interested in all welfare and women's work in the town.

Before her marriage to Mr. E. L. Bedore, she was Anna Margaret O'Gorman, the daughter of the late Daniel O'Gorman and Alice Keenan, of Kingston. Until her marriage her home had been in Kingston.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband, a member of the staff of the Canadian Department Stores, one daughter, Miss Margaret; two sons, Hubert and Gerald; two sisters, Mrs. E. J. Orwell and Miss Angela O'Gorman, of Cleveland, Ohio, and two brothers, William O'Gorman of Boston and Francis O'Gorman, of Chester, Pa.

The funeral service is being held on Thursday at 9.00 a.m., at St. Patrick's Church, after which she body will be conveyed to Kingston to await burial in the spring.

The Late Mrs. McCready

The word was received in town, his week of the death at Jasper, Alta., of Mrs. Cecelia McCready, sister of the late Washburn McCready, at the age of 81 years.

Mrs. McCready was the daughter of Christopher and Mary Shorey and was born at Centreville. She was the second youngest of eight children, all of whom have now passed away. The late Cranfield Shorey of Napanee, Dr. S. J. Shorey, and the Rev. Edmund Shorey, were brothers. She married Washburn McCready of Cherry Valley, Prince Edward County, in 1877, and was left a widow in 1897 For some years past she has been making her home in Jasper, Alberta, with her only child, Donald McCready.

No details concerning her death or the funeral arrangement have yet been received by Mrs. Canfield Shorey, her sister-in-law, who lives in Napanee.

The Late Mrs. Mary A. Gibson

The death occurred at Niagara Falls, N.Y. on Sunday, January 21st of Mrs. Mary Ann Gibson, a former well-known citizen of Newburgh, Ontario.

Mrs. Gibson had been a resident of Newburgh for practically all her life until she went to live at Niagara Falls with her son, about twenty years ago. She was born, nearly 83 years ago, the daughter of Joseph and Maria Fullerton, with whom she came to Newburgh from Kingston when a small girl. She married Robert Gibson, who died about 53 years ago. During her residence in Newburgh she made many friends, who remember her for her lovely disposition and her kindly Christian character.

She died at the home of her son, Wilbert F. Gibson, with whom she had been living since leaving Newburgh. Her remains were accompanied to Newburgh by her son, and interment was made there on Wednesday, January 24th. Mr. Adam Fullerton of Erockville is the only surviving member of the family, besides her son.

OBITUARY

MILLARD SIMMONS

After a long and lingering illness, Millard Lee Simmons of Tweed passed away at his father's home, Tamworth. He was born in Tweed forty-five years ago and lived in Tweed vicinity all his life. He was a member of St. James' Church, where he was always in attendance until his illness. He was a carpenter by profession and with his quiet and sociable disposition, he made many friends. During four years ago he was taken ill and unable to work.

About fifteen months ago he was taken to Kingston Hospital, where he remained six months. Later, he was brought to his father's home at Tamworth, where he made many friends. Rev. R. A. Penny, rector of Christ Church, visited him regularly and left with him many messages of comfort. He bore his suffering with Christian fortitude and great patience and welcomed death, which came to him on Friday, January 12.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and three children, one son, Gerald, and two daughters, Fay and Ada, all at home; also his father and mother and four sisters, Mrs. G. T. O'Brien, Mrs. A. Black, Mrs. C. Richardson all of Tamworth, and Miss Myrtle of Toronto. Three brothers also survive, Roy of Bogart, Merle of Actinolite and Harry of Croydon.

His funeral, which was well attended, was ably conducted by Rev. R. A. Penny in Christ Church. Mr. Wesley Pedley and his sister, Miss Edith, sang a duet, "The Old Rugged Cross," and the closing hymn was "Abide with Me." after which the flower covered casket was placed in the vault at Tamworth to await burial in the family plot in Tweed cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. G. Richardson, T. Waters, H. Closs, A. Carscallen, E. Courney and S. Haggarty.

In Loving Memory

WAYTE. In sad but loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. James Wayte, who departed this life February 2nd, 1931.

Two loving hands are resting.
A voice we loved is still;
A mother we loved, is waiting
For us, just over the hill.
You left us all so quickly,
You never said good-bye.
But we know you are watching us mother.

"THE PARENTS' PERSONAL SERVICE"

A Unique Service Rendered by the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto

Three years ago, the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto—the pioneer hospital in Canada for children only —tentatively started a service to be known as "The Parents' Personal Service."

This means that the Hospital set aside a graduate nurse, with her stenographer, for the exclusive use of the parents, in order that they might have a direct and unbiased source of information re their children, not only as to the ailment for which they were admitted, but the little individual complaints that it is comforting to talk with, or write to, someone who has time to see and chat with their little one, and who can tell them how he looks, and answer such questions as: Is he able to be up, or sit up in bed? Does he miss us and fret? Does he play with the other children? and so on. Growing of anxious inquiries, and meaning much to the home folk. If they live in the City they may see and talk to her any hour.

To-day, the Hospital's officials regard this Service with pride, as it reveals the spirit of the Institution, supplying, as it does, the human touch that sets it apart from a mere repair factory and shows it as a house, not only of healing, but of sympathy and understanding towards the parents.

As the Hospital takes in children from every corner of Ontario, notwithstanding that some of the larger cities now have a hospital of their own, this has increased the Hospital's correspondence immensely.

A look at the file for this Service, however, shows how worth-while the experiment has proved. There are thousands of letters, literally human documents, from parents. A playwright would consider it a rich field. It contains ready-made blocks of assorted emotions for the making of dramas—love, pity, longing, anxiety, fear, faith, hope, exaltation and gratitude—all crammed between its covers.

The nurse in charge of this Service is naturally immensely popular with the children. They look to her for news from home. To the parents, she is a very real person, though they may never have seen her. They write to her after their children are home. Neither do the children forget her, as the constant correspondence in a letter from a child, home many months, shows: "I have just finished my homework, and I am very tired and I just wrote this letter to see what you are doing. Goodnight and God bless you." This letter, no doubt, was prompted by a grateful mother.

Then there is the letter of the little boy, successfully treated for Infantile Paralysis, who thought longingly of home while in the Hospital, and of his Hospital friends when discharged. "Just a line to let you know how I am. My leg is all better now. I can walk quite well now. I am glad to be home, but I am still lonesome for the Hospital. I will soon be able to walk good. How is Herby now? Is he going to Thistletown yet? This is the first time I have written a letter with a pen and ink. Write to me. I'll close now."

An institution that is not content to heal only, but feels for the distressed parents to the extent of setting aside a graduate nurse and her stenographer solely for the purpose of lightening their load, must have awaken in the hearts of all a desire to help support that Institution.

Last year showed a great increase in the number of letters received. The revenues fell far short of the actual cost. Public benevolence must make up the difference. Contributions of any amount are received with gratitude, and every donation is acknowledged by mail and published in The Evening Telegram. Send care of the Secretary-Treasurer, Hospital for Sick Children, 67 College street, Toronto 2.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Of the three elements of plant food contained in complete fertilizer mixtures the proportion of nitrogen in the fertilizer should be given special attention. If previous crops have shown too great a growth of leaf and stem with a poor grain, root, or fruit development, the proportion of nitrogen in the fertilizer mixture should be materially reduced or eliminated entirely; if the growth has been lacking in vigour and the plants pale in colour, the soil has probably been low in available nitrogen and a liberal supply of this element will probably be required for normal development.

Hogs Should Follow Steers

Hogs should follow grain-fed cattle. They will not only utilize the waste grain but will improve the manure produced. Moreover, the profit from winter-feeding beef cattle on grain under present conditions will depend very largely on the hogs which utilize the undigested feed from the cattle. The number of hogs needed to clean up after steers depends on the size of the cattle and the kind and amount of grain fed to them. More hogs per steer will thrive if the cattel are fed corn on the cob than if the corn is crushed or ground. If husked ear corn is fed to the cattle, each steer will support from one to onesand a half hogs. Of course, the heavier the steers are the faster the hogs will gain. Young pigs weighing about 100 pounds each are best to follow cattle.

Hay Shortage Experienced

A shortage is probable in the St. Lawrence counties and the Ottawa valley before spring, and this is being intensified by the early winter and extreme cold which has required heavier feeding than usual. Some farmers are reducing their herds since they are not in a financial position to buy hay and regard the outlook as poor for satisfactory prices for cattle. In the eastern part of central Ontario the hay crop was light also and farmers there realize that careful conservation of supply is necessary. Farther west, toward Toronto, the hay crop was good with plenty of alfalfa and red clover, so that on the whole there may be sufficient hay in central Ontario to meet requirements until spring. In northern Ontario, the hay market at present is quite the best demand being from the mining towns. The supply of hay in the agricultural sections of northern Ontario is believed to be sufficient for local needs.

Current prices being paid growers are: in the St. Lawrence counties, for timothy and clover mixed, $12 to $15 per ton; in central Ontario, timothy and clover mixed, $11, in the upper and lower Ottawa valleys mixed hay, $8 to $9 and in Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury and New Liskeard localities of northern Ontario, $12 to $12.50 per ton.

Time to Mate the Breeding Pen

The females that have either made good egg laying records, or that that show by their handling qualities clean cut heads and bright prominent alert eyes that they are of heavy laying type.

Choose males that have vigour, size and breed type, the sons of heavy laying dams and sires similarly bred.

Give the breeding pen roomy quarters. Don't use forcing feeds but feed generously, remembering sunlight, exercise, and that a supply of alfalfa and cod liver oil will help give good hatches.

Apple Prices Improve On British Market

The market for Ontario apples in Great Britain has improved since the New Year and prices have advanced slightly. Andrew Fulton, overseas fruit representative, reports that he has been obtaining 18 to 22 shillings a barrel for good quality, attractively-coloured Baldwins, and 15 to 17 shillings for Domestic grades of that variety. Greenings of No. 1 quality and large sizes are realizing up to 22 shillings a barrel.

Mr. Fulton's view is that the remnants for Ontario Apples on the British market during the remainder of the season are likely to be satisfactory for the shippers, and that the Ontario Ben Davis and Stark apples still remaining to be sold will realize fair prices if they arrive, as expected, in good condition. He writes: "The best piece of business carried out by the Ontario apple exporters this season, was in packing their Greenings and Starks with shredded oil paper, and placing them immediately into cold storage. This is the first season since I have been on this market that we have not received complaints from buyers about Greenings scalding early in the season. I have watched all shipments of Ontario Greenings received to date very carefully and without exception, where the full weight of a pound and a half of shredded oil paper per barrel has been used the apples have retained a clear skin without any trace of scalding. This achievement has created a very favourable impression on the buyers."

Bill of Lading Required

Every truck transporting livestock for hire is required, under his P.C.V. license to furnish a bill of lading to the shipper, reports the Ontario Marketing Board in a recent statement. Unregulated livestock trucking has resulted in hardships to the Ontario farmer and with the purpose of abolishing such a condition the Government has adopted this regulation.

Prior to the advent of the truck when livestock was generally moved by rail, the shipper's interests were protected by a bill of lading. More recently, however, with a great part of livestock shipping being effected by truck, the shipper had to depend on mere cards on the honesty of the trucker. Too often this resulted in disputes, with the shipper sustaining a serious loss.

With the bill of lading now compulsory, the shipper may designate to whom his livestock will be sold. He will receive from the commission house, or packer, a description of weights and prices paid. The issuing of a master checks is now a thing of the past. The buyer, under the new regulation, is now obliged to make out a check. less trucking charges, payable to each shipper. Such checks are guaranteed by a bonding house which still further protects the shipper.

In a word, the Regulation assures the shipper that he will get his money, and a full and correct statement from the purchaser to the trucker delivers his load. In cases where the farmer transports his own livestock or where a dealer purchases outright from the farmer a bill of lading is not compulsory the value of the Regulation is not questioned. However, to be of greatest value to the shipper, he must be thoroughly familiar with the terms of the bill of lading and insist that it be used at all times.

Time for Pruning Fruit Trees

The moderate weather now being experienced in certain localities will give the people in those sections an opportunity to get their various fruit trees and bushes pruned. Pruning can be done safely any time after the plants become dormant and all work in this line done in early winter will allow more time for the hundred-and-one jobs that turn up a-mulch-comes when the open weather arrives in March or April.

A Valuable Booklet

A very interesting booklet entitled the "Yorkshire" has recently been issued by the Ontario Marketing Board. It gives a review of the various standards and grades under which Ontario farm products are sold and an attempt is made to educate the housewife how to buy on grade. The pumphlet also measures the responsibility of both producers and consumers to a continuing agricultural prosperity in Ontario and is intended to be the first of a series discussing this subject from different angles. Copies of the booklet may be obtained from the Ontario Marketing Board, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Prevent Goitre in Your Future Lambs

Goitre in your lambs is due to lack of iodine. Rock-salt or red salt mineral is deficient in the Ottawa district is not certain. However goitre has appeared in the Central Experimental Farm flock, and sheep owners would, therefore, prey well and feed iodine to their pregnant ewes.

If no commercial iodized salt is available, prepare as follows: Spread on a tarpaulin 100 pounds of ordinary salt. From your druggist procure 2 to 3 ounces of potassium iodide, dissolve in water and spray the solution on the salt. Mix thoroughly, keep dry and feed to the ewes during the winter. This will prevent goitre, and, when for no distinct reason lambs are born weak flabby, it may prove beneficial.

Poultry Feed Facts

Completed experiments in poultry feeding show that skim-milk is an excellent protein feed, that dry clover leaves with an occasional dose of Epsom Salts may replace roots or sprouted oats, that home-mixed is as good as commercial grain, and that screenings of good quality may replace part of the good grain.

Special Dairy Course

Marked by the largest registration the class has had in some years, the annual special three months' dairy course at the O. A. C., opened the first week in January. Forty-eight students were enrolled to commence the class and it is expected that another half dozen or more names will be added. Of the 48 students listed, all but two are registered as from Ontario. The two are two men from Prince Edward Island.

Profit and Pullets

At present, prospects look bright for the poultryman and farmer who has a good flock of well-matured pullets. The cold snap will probably stiffen egg prices that are now offering a fair margin of profit over cost of production in flocks that are laying satisfactorily.

At the present prices and with better prospects in view it will pay to feed a good balanced mash ration liberally and to give sufficient grain at night to ensure a well filled crop. Plenty of fresh water, with the chill off on cold days, should always be provided. A frozen water pail, left too long, means a serious cramp in production.

Why ARE You Always Tired?

Why do you have to go through days that seem to drag on, with your energy at low ebb, seems listless and weary? Probably you will be surprised when you learn the answer.

That answer is very likely that your system is not completely eliminating all of body waste. Don't shake your head. Regularity of habit doesn't mean complete elimination. In fact, incomplete elimination troubles thousands who never suspect it because they eat regular. That is why headaches, indigestion, and drowsiness occur.

Sour, sensible habit, plus an occasional refreshing, internal bathing dose of Dr. Andrews Liver Salts will keep your system in fine tone. Try this wonderful, sleep sufficiently, take plenty of fresh air and exercise, and rest at twice each day. Then see how much more you can do, how much better you keep your system thoroughly clear of impurities.

Do these sensible things and you will feel fit. Your appetite will be good—and you will escape the dreary days of physical depression.

Get Andrews Liver Salts from your druggist today and adopt these simple precautions. It helps against the common little ailments. 75c, 35c and $1.75. Don't know Salts. Sole Agents: John A. Hostie Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Local And District News of Women's Organizations

ERINSVILLE C. W. L.

The regular monthly meeting of Erinsville sub-division of the Catholic Women's League was held on January 24th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Hopkins.

The meeting opened as usual with the President, Mrs. O'Connor in the chair. After the business of the meeting, a social evening was held with thirteen tables of cards in play. The prize winners were Mrs. James O'Neil and Mr. Edward Lacey for first and Mrs. M. J. Hopkins and Mr. Ambrose Way for travelling prizes.

At the lunch hour the drawing of the quilt donated by Mrs. Scanlin, took place, the winner being Mr. Raymond Moran of Wilkinson.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the genial hostess and host for the delightful evening.

NEWBURGH W. I.

On Thursday, January 25th, the local branch of the Women's Institute entertained the officers and members of the Camden East branch at the home of Mrs. Ford Frost.

After the roll call and the minutes of the previous meetings had been adopted, the president gave the remainder of the session to Mrs. Acton Robinson, president of the visiting branch.

An entertaining and instructive programme followed. The first number was a chorus of greeting. This was followed by a reading by Mrs. B. Yeomans, which, among other ideas, illustrated the fact that possession makes all things common. Miss Helen Williams gave an instrumental selection and Mrs. William Dunn a humorous reading, which gave an amusing glimpse of pioneer courtship. A paper was then given by Miss F. Williams in which she particularly stressed the value of eugenics and the importance of vigilance as to ones physical condition. This was followed by a recitation from Tony's scrap book by Mrs. Albert Lewis, a reminder that man is made of clay. After a solo by Mrs. Ford Scouten, all joined in community singing.

A solo was given by Mrs. Lewis and a demonstration by Mrs. E. Hamilton. A musical romance contest with Mrs. Geogre Scott in charge and Mrs. Hilton Robinson as pianist, was won by Mrs. Percy Gerow.

CLEANING CUSHIONS

When cushion covers are attached permanently to a cushion and cannot be removed for washing purposes they may be cleaned successfully in the following manner. A thick paste should be made by mixing powdered starch with a little water. Spread the paste over the cushion, rubbing well in with a circular movement. Then leave the paste to dry on the cushion in room. Finally brush off with a clean, soft brush and beat the cushion well. It will be found that any soiled patches will be thoroughly cleaned by this process. All-leather cushions may, of course, be cleaned professionally, or washed with their covers on.

An Oil that is Prized Everywhere

—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish, over fifty years ago. It was put up to meet the wants of a small section, but as soon as its merits became known it had a whole continent for a field, and it is now known and prized throughout this continent. There is nothing equal to it.

AN UNUSUAL JAM

A jam of delicious flavour and appearance can be made from carrots. To every pound of carrots allow a pound of preserving sugar, one lemon a quarter of an ounce of white ginger and one clove. Peel the carrots and cut them up into small cubes, cover with the sugar, and leave to stand for forty-eight hours. Put into a preserving-pan with the juice of the lemons. Bruise the ginger and tie it in a small piece of muslin, together with the cloves and the rind of the lemons and boil with the jam. Boil until a little of the syrup jellies when tested on a cold plate. Put into hot jars when near boiling-point, and tie down immediately.

SHORTBREAD

The secret of making successful shortbread is to add milk or water put to work the ingredients together with the hands until a smooth, pliable mass is formed. Cream four ounces of castor sugar with eight ounces of butter. Add the yolk of an egg, then by degrees a pound of sifted flour. It is necessary to knead the mixture to work all the flour in. When smooth, turn on to a floured pastry board, roll out into a round shape about half an inch thick, pinch the edges, and bake on a slightly greased tin in a slow oven until golden. It should not be allowed to brown. Before it cools cut the shortbread into triangles, and when cold store in a tin.

FACTS ABOUT HYDRO—No. 1 of a series of official announcements by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association (O.M.E.A.), representing the Municipalities who own the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario.

ONTARIO MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION

Who Owns Hydro?

The great public service enterprise known as the Hydro-Electric System, or simply as "Hydro", while operated and administered by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario acting in the capacity of trustee, with the Government of Ontario acting as banker, is the property of the people of the associated Hydro municipalities.

Hydro-Electric power is distributed, through the agency of the Hydro municipalities, to the citizens who use this low cost electric service.

The Ontario Municipal Electric Association (O.M.E.A.) is an organization constituted to represent its member municipalities—the owners of Hydro—and to make representations to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the O.M.E.A., held in the City of Toronto on October 31, 1933, a Publicity Committee was appointed "to collect and disseminate information in respect to Hydro facts". At a subsequent meeting, held on November 30, 1933, the Executive Committee individually endorsed and unanimously passed the following Resolution regarding Publicity.

WHEREAS, from time to time, statements have been made and published with respect to the Hydro System of Ontario that are not in accordance with the facts, and which, if allowed to go unanswered, tend to create doubts in the minds of the public, and more particularly that section of the public which is not sufficiently interested, or will not take the time, to look into matters carefully enough to secure the information for themselves;

AND WHEREAS the Municipalities of Ontario are the owners of the Hydro System, in which they have an investment of some three hundred millions of dollars; and anything which would create distrust in the minds of the people as to the proper and efficient conduct of this great Public Utility would tend to impair the value of the investment of the Municipalities in the Hydro System:

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: — THAT The Executive Committee of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association endorses the report of the Publicity Committee;

THAT we believe, with them, that the time is now opportune to carry out the repeated requests and suggestions which have been made from time to time by our Association;

THAT a campaign of publicity be carried on so that the people of Ontario, who have been responsible for the outstanding success of this great Public Utility during its twenty-five years of existence, shall be given from time to time all necessary information as to the administration and operation of the Hydro System and its branches in all parts of Ontario . . . . . .

In pursuance of this Resolution, the Publicity Committee of the O.M.E.A. will publish informative statements which will set forth, clearly and simply, what Hydro ownership has done for the people of this Province. The facts about Hydro speak for themselves.

The Healthy Woman Is Truly Beautiful

If you wish to be truly beautiful, get yourself in good physical condition. It is practically impossible to have nice skin, shining hair and sparkling eyes if your body is not in slip-shape conditions.

First of all, before you start to buy any creams and lotions, or go through any particular cosmetic routine, make a careful check on the condition of your body. Nearly everyone needs to be thoroughly examined by a physician at least once a year. If you have an organic ailment it is a problem for a doctor and not one which can be solved by a certain cream or lotion.

Do you get plenty of sleep and enough exercise? Remember that there are very few people who do not need, at least, eight hours sleep and real rest every night. Make sure that your bed is comfortable. Sleep with the windows open but do not have the breeze from an open window blowing directly on your head.

Walking and doing setting-up exercises each morning take about all the time which a modern woman has to devote to exercise. But don't neglect those two things.

Be scrupulously clean, of course. Cleanliness is healthy and the complexion which always looks freshly washed is the one which will win the hearts of every man.

Eat fresh vegetables and fruits and see that your diet contains foods to keep your digestive tract clear of the poisons which tend to cause skin disorders.

BURROWING FOR A LIVING

In underground burrows, hidden from view, it may be, by a mere veneer of soil or sand, dwell many strange creatures endowed with all instincts. The achievements is seen in the coiled heaps known as "worm-castings" which disfigure our lawns and make us forget that worms perform a useful service.

Much higher in the scale of life is the common eel, a remarkably expert burrower in sand or mud, almost as with most other fishes and you will see how profoundly the attenuated body has been modified for the life it leads, even to the fins, which project hardly at all.

Few substances are invulnerable where burrowing animals are concerned. The stoutest oak beams or the stone of a real-wall afford lodgment for certain creatures endowed with the necessary means of penetration. The larvae, or grubs, of the notorious death-watch beetle bore to the heart of stout rafters and multiply until the wood is reduced to dust; while molluscs of various kinds, by means of a specialised "foot," excavate galleries in submerged stonework without so much as bruising their delicate shells.

One of the most striking consequences of the subterranean life is the tendency of eyes either to become reduced in size or to disappear. Not only has an animal that lives habitually below ground little use for them, but their liability to injury makes them a possible source of danger. The eyes of the mole are minute, hidden among the fur, and quite useless, yet this animal is not by any means so highly specialised as many that could be mentioned. There are tropical lizards and amphibians, uncannily like worms in appearance, which have been so completely modified by subterranean habits that they have lost all outward trace of limbs and possess only the merest rudiments of eyes buried beneath the skin and now functionless.—Correspondent in M. G.

CANADIAN HONEY

The United Kingdom ranks second to Germany as the world's honey market. From the standpoint of Canadian bee-keepers, however, the United Kingdom is easily the more important of the two. Honey imports by the British Isles have ranged between seven and ten million pounds yearly in recent years and have shown a steady decline which characterized German imports during the depression period. Up until 1931 the United Kingdom drew its honey supply from 3 main sources: United States, British West Indies and New Zealand. Other countries contributed somewhat smaller amounts. Within the last three years, however, Canadian honey has made striking progress on the British market, taking second place among all the various competing countries in 1931. Chief among Canadian provinces to increase annually its honey export was Ontario. This Province is now shipping overseas yearly, considerably more than all the other Provinces combined.

A CUT TOWEL

Sometimes it happens that a towel gets cut with a razor which has been dried on it. The cut should not be just sewn together again, as the edges will soon pull in rushing and another tear result. The slit should be darned with thick cotton, not fluffy cotton, first tacking a square of net on the back of the towel. Darn over just left to strengthen the threads around the actual tear, and remove as much of the net as possible when the darn is complete. The area around the slit will remain strong for a long time without further trouble, if it is treated in this way.

AT PEACE WITH THE KITCHEN

WINTER COLDS

If common colds could be eliminated, what a marvelous world this would be. Nearly everybody comes in contact with this type of infection, but while one person is susceptible, another is immune. What is the reason for the apparent "bad luck" of the man, woman or child who contracts the sniffles or a cough? The answer is that his resistance is too low to throw off the unfriendly organisms.

How can such resistance be built up? First, be sure that there is no focus of infection such as diseased tonsils, bad teeth, or sinus trouble. Second, check on your food habits and be sure that you are eating an adequate diet. Third, see that you are getting enough rest. The doctor will advise you on the first two, but for the third, you personally are responsible. A tired body is unable to withstand the attack of germs and a bad cold makes it even more tired, so that the unpleasant siege may be long and difficult to conquer.

What is an adequate, protective diet? It is one which includes all the roles sufficient for the body's activities; building material for growth and repair; and minerals and vitamins for protection. This can easily be provided if the budget is ample for a choice of foods. It may be reinforced by cod-liver or haliver oil if the doctor advises.

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Whole Wheat Flakes Top Milk
Toast Bacon Cocoa

LUNCHEON
Tomato Omelet
Bran Muffins Celery
Apple Sauce

DINNER
Swedish Meat Balls
Baked Potatoes Creamed Onions
Glazed Carrots
Lettuce Salad Mocha Mousse

Mocha Mousse

One cup evaporated milk.
Three-quarters cup caffeine - free coffee.
One-quarter cup sugar.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Two cup vanilla.
One tablespoon gelatine.
Two tablespoons cold water.
Half teaspoon vanilla.
Two cups whipping cream.

Scald milk and coffee in double boiler. Combine sugar, salt and cocoanut and add to milk, stirring until smooth. Soften gelatine in cold water. Dissolve in first mixture. Cool. Add the flavoring and fold in the whipped cream. Pour into refrigerator trays and chill.
Yield: 8 servings.

Swedish Meat Balls

One pound round steak (ground very fine.
Two tablespoons finely chopped onion.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One and one-quarter cups milk.
Two eggs (beaten slightly.)
Four cups cornflakes.
One cup milk (for gravy.)

Put meat in bowl and add onion, salt, pepper, milk and eggs. Roll cornflakes into crumbs. Add to meat mixture. Mix thoroughly and form into balls. Saute slowly in butter.

Remove meat balls from pan. Add milk to the butter in which the meat has been cooked and pour it over the meat balls.
Yield: 12 small meat balls; 4 to 5 servings.

OMELETS AND BACON

A savoury omelet served with bacon makes a breakfast dish just a little out of the ordinary run, and is most delicious if flavoured with tomato. Make the omelet by whipping the white of an egg to a stiff froth. Then add a pinch of salt, a dash of herbs, the yolk of the egg, and one dessert-spoonful of water. Beat for five minutes, then stir in one skinned tomato beaten to a pulp. Fry the bacon in another pan while the omelet is cooking, and serve rolled up on top of the omelet. An omelet flavoured with minced kidney or sausage would be equally appetising served in a similar way.

WHO DISCOVERED AMERICA ANYWAY?

Just who did discover America? Christopher Columbus got away with the honor for a long time, but the claim of John Cabot cannot be set aside. Christopher Columbus discovered the West Indies but not the mainland of America, it is claimed.

John Cabot in 1497, bumped into the island of Cape Breton on the eastern Canadian shore at the tip of the province of Nova Scotia, thereby establishing a claim as the discoverer. Then along came claims on behalf of the Norsemen who also, it would appear, made landings in the province of Nova Scotia, about the year 1000 A.D., leaving behind them stones with runic inscriptions, one of which was found at the head of Yarmouth harbor, and is now seen in the public library in that town.

Now the Egyptians are being put forward, one of the basis for the claim being that when Christopher Columbus arrived he found the Indians calling the constellations of heavenly bodies by names similar to those bestowed by the ancient Egyptians. In Mexico there were pyramids, hieroglyphs and sculptures which the hair on the human figures portrayed is dressed much like that shown in Egyptian paintings. So, who did discover America, anyway?

Selby W. C. T. U.

The January meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. B. F. Denison, the president, Mrs. Melville Windover, presiding. The evangelistic superintendent, Mrs. Sidney Pringle, took charge of the devotional exercises. The subject for this month was "Evolution, Law Enforcement and Sabbath Observance."

It was noted that law stands for the protection of life and property; the guarding of our moral life, freedom, justice and peaceable possession. Based on British codes and the Law of Moses, these commands show plainly that it is not enough to have a good law, but that it is our duty to obey it. To do this, we must know what our laws are. Ignorance is never accepted as a right to break laws.

A circle of prayer followed, in which Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Windover, Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. Denison took part. The subject for special thought was "strength for the day," our White Ribbon Sisters throughout the world, the triumph of right over wrong."

Then the report of the treasurer read the correspondence received during the month. Mrs. Denison reported on the meeting in the national Sunday school contest and had forwarded the papers to the county executive. Dr. Dennis, the local president called attention to the fact that one hundred years of our united country which has a membership of nineteen, enjoyed the distinction of seven presidents writing: six more were gathered including two Roman Catholics, so that twenty-three certificates were sent for. Complimentations were extended. The clippings were most enlightening. Statements were read from many papers and people of long experience in their particular fields.

Good Investments

The following extract from an advertisement in the Vancouver Sun inserted by the Empire Brewing Co. of Nanaimo, B.C., casts a highlight on the prosperity of brewers under the system of government sale and beer parlors, and on the amount of beer sold under this system.

Do you know that a well-known British Columbia brewery paid its shareholders over seven and ten per cent. on their investment ?

Industrial alcohol is most valuable to science and commerce since there is no part in Canada that can freeze it, and consequently very preservative as well as a source of heat.

Highway accidents will be increased by drinking drivers if we have in Ontario, the sale of beer in hotels and restaurants. But what matters the destruction of life and limb, if investments in beer and beverage already pay good dividends ?

Peter Bryce, returning from a visit to Western Canada, said of women drinking in public places, the following serious words: "Women are found in these beer saloons in increasing numbers. During one year nine-ty-five young women were observed to enter one of these saloons."

Dr. Jennie Smillie, a prominent Toronto physician, gave the following verdict : "Drinking among women is on the increase in Ontario, because of the example being set in the home. The effect of this is far reaching. It not only debauches the womanhood, but enslaves it, ruins lives and destroys the morals of children."

After some discussion the meeting was brought to a close with prayer.

In order to encourage the more general use of Agricultural Limestone in sections of Ontario where a soil corrective is required, the Department in co-operation with the Pedmore Commission, the leading Railway Companies will continue for another year at least, the policy whereby substantial reductions in freight rates on ground limestone for agricultural purposes are made. This announcement was made by Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy recently.

The Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Pere Marquette, Michigan Central and associated railways are co-operating by quoting a special feight rate on Agricultural Limestone of approximately 25% below the standard rate. The Federal and Provincial Governments through a subvention policy will jointly pay 50% of the reduced freight up to a maximum combined subvention of $1.00 per ton. For example, if the standard freight tariff is $1.00 per ton, the railway reduces the rate 25c. The subvention policy pays 37½c and the farmer pays the remaining 37½c. If the standard rail tariff is $3.(0 per ton, the railways reduce the freight 90c., the subvention policy pays $1.00 and the farmer pays $1.70.

One Million Dollar Increase For Ontario' Live Cattle Export

The Ontario Marketing Board reports that during the past calendar year the Province of Ontario has sent to Great Britain were in excess of 50,000 head; more than three times the number forwarded in 1932. Ontario exported some 30,000 animals or considerably more than half the total Dominion shipments. Assuming a mean average value of $60.00 per head, Ontario's export cattle business was worth upwards of $1,500,-000 to the farmers of the Province last year, which is an increase of at least $1,000,000 over 1932.

More important to the average cattle raiser, however, is the fact that the removal of large numbers of cattle from the home market has considerably improved domestic prices. It is not an exaggeration to say that if this export trade had not developed, cattle shippers would be facing prices as low as 2c per pound instead of the prevailing quotations of around 6c per pound for top quality beef animals.

TOMASINE

New Map of Timbered Area Famous For its Fish and Game

Lying about 100 miles north of the city of Ottawa, is an area of a little over 1600 square miles, mostly in Pontiac county, of which the first accurate map that has ever been made has just been issued by the Topographical and Air Survey Bureau, Department of the Interior at Ottawa. This map is known as the Tomasine sheet of the National Topographic series and may be obtained from the above office at a price of twenty-five cents per copy. The area covered is part of the Precambrian geological formation known as the Canadian Shield. It is composed of very ancient rocks, the surface of which has been greatly modified by glacial erosion in quite recent geological time. The surface consequently is one of fairly uniform relief with low rocky hills and ridges alternating with valleys, lakes and water-courses. The western portion of this area is much flatter than the easterly portion which is rather hilly though not rugged. The drainage of this particular area is mostly to the Gatineau river, with approximately the westerly quarter tributary to the Coulonge River.

The land is all forested chiefly with spruce, balsam, jack pine, and various hardwoods, and some stands of white pine. It is practically all included in timber limits and is the source of supply for large quantities of pulpwood and for considerable lumber. Forest fire protection is afforded in the Gatineau drainage area by the Lower Ottawa Fire Protective Association and in the Coulonge drainage by the Ottawa River Fire Protective Association both of which are associations of limit holders. The locations of various supply depots are shown on the map where supplies are kept for the logging operations. They are linked up by telephone communication and serve as bases for fire protection as well as for lumbering operations.

This type of country is not ordinarily thought of as agricultural land but considerable settlement is taking place along the road which has been built northerly from Maniwaki through the valley of the Desert river. It is proposed to continue this road northerly to Amos to give another southerly connection to the gold mining fields of the Rouyn area and to the northern clay belt which is being steadily settled.

In addition to lumbering, mining and agricultural resources, the district has a strong appeal to the tourist sportsman. Thousands of lakes and streams, now accurately mapped afford inviting canoe trips reaching all sections of the district. The waters are well stocked with several varieties of game fish, including brook trout, lake trout, bass, pike and pickerel. The wild life has been practically undisturbed by hunters and consequently there is an abundance of deer, moose, bear, partridge, rabbit, and other game and fur-bearing animals. The charm of this area has already been felt by sportsmen as in the south easterly section this fish and game clubs have been established.

Persian Balm preserves and enhances women's natural heritage of beauty. For sheer feminine loveliness it is unrivalled. Tones and rejuvenates the skin, and makes it exquisite in texture. Delightful to use. Smooth and velvety, it imparts a youthful charm to every complexion. Indispensable to all dainty women. Especially recommended to make hands soft and white. Delicately fragrant. Preserves and enhances the loveliest complexions.

HAY MARKETING

Hay marketing in Western Ontario was very quiet in December but much improvement in the situation is expected before spring. The principal movement this season, has been by motor truck to the larger centres such as Toronto, and gradually this hay supply within trucking distance of these centres is being reduced. Nearly all the second-cut alfalfa has already been marketed for alfalfa meal manufacturing purposes, and the first cut is now being sold principally for the same purpose. A shortage of hay and also of feed grain is expected in Western Ontario before spring, if the extreme winter weather continues.

Current prices being paid growers are : for No. 2 timothy $5.50 to $6 per ton; mixed hay $4.50 to $5.25; alfalfa 2nd cut $9 to $10. 1st cut $7 to $8; oat straw $3 to $3.50 and wheat straw $3.25 to $3.75 per ton.

1934 Chevrolet has New Engine and Knee Action Wheels

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The Chevrolet Six for 1934, with an engine of new design delivering 80 horsepower, with knee - action front wheels, and with increased all-round performance, is considered the most extensively improved annual model since Chevrolet became a Six. The new front wheel springs are enclosed in an oil-filled housing attached rigidly to the frame, making a neat and efficient type of individual suspension. Larger and more luxurious bodies by Fisher, with improved no-draft ventilation, are offered. The picture above shows the Master Six special sedan, and below is seen one of the coupe models.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Jan. 29. — On Friday night, Jan. 19th, the young people of the United Church held their first session of Mock Parliament, with Mr. James Wallace (speaker) in the chair. There was a good attendance of members, although the leader of the opposition, Mr. Clare Wagar, was unable to be present. After the reading of the speech from the throne, Mr. E. J. Huffman, prime minister, presented three bills: (1) To continue democratic government rather than to submit to a dictator. (2) That the League of Nations, even in its present form, is the best international body for peace and must be encouraged by this government. (3) A bill to tax all bachelors over twenty-four years of age. A very lively discussion took place in which the opposition seemed to have the best of the arguments put forth. The opposition was led by Mr. Thos. Donovan. The next session will take place on February 16th.

Rev. M. R. Brown presided for the annual congregational meeting of the United Church, which was held in the R. E. Building on Monday night, January 22nd. After the usual devotional opening exercises, Mr. Brown gave a short talk on peace and harmony in the church work. Mrs. Clarence Lochhead acted as secretary in the absence of her husband, C. Lochhead. After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, reports of the various organizations of the church were read as follows: Ladies' Aid, by Mrs. C. Lochhead; Woman's Missionary Society, by Mrs. Robert Gilmore; Sunday School, by Edmund Lochhead (owing to the absence of Miss Cole there was no report given from the Young People's Union, although Mrs. Lochhead read the report from the Busy Workers' Mission Band. The report of the church finances was given by the treasurer, Mr. J. C. M. Wallace, and Mr. George Milligan gave a report of the manse funds. All reports were very gratifying and showed much labour had been put forth by the various departments in order to have the year's work so well accomplished The officials of the church were left as before, except the two retiring, Mr. Bruce Richardson and Mr. Jerry Donovan, who were replaced by Mr. Herb. York and Mr. Harry Rogers. Mr. Brown then introduced the idea of a Missionary and Maintenance fund box, to be placed in the homes and a cent a meal system be organized. It was moved and seconded that the boxes be ordered and that the Young People be responsible for looking after same The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. M. R. Brown, after which the ladies served refreshments.

Members of the Tuxis Square group held a very successful progressive crokinole contest in the R. E. building on Wednesday night. A very good attendance was on hand and everyone enjoyed the game. Master William Huffman and Mr. Don. McLaughlin were tied and on the play-off Mr. McLaughlin was successful in winning the box of chocolates. Lunch was served by the boys of the Tuxis Square.

We are glad to report Mrs. E. J. Huffman slowly improving, after having been confined to her room for the past six weeks, through illness.

A very serious accident occurred to two of Mr. William Loyst's children at Arden, when on their way home from school, they got on a sleigh loaded with logs going to the mill, and when making a turn, the load upset and the children were pinned under the logs. They were immediately brought to Tamworth where Dr. F. D. O'Connor gave them medical treatment. The little girl is recovering favorably but the boy is in a far more serious condition, as he was taken to Kingston Hospital, and it is reported that he is suffering from a fractured skull.

Mrs. Robert McLaughlin spent the past two weeks visiting friends and relatives at Belleville and surrounding district.

Miss Margaret Howes, Reg. Nurse, Kingston, spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Howes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Foster and two children, Joan and Bruce, of Toronto have spent the past week at the parsonage, visiting her sister, Mrs. M. H. Brown and Rev. M. R. Brown.

Miss Jessie Smith of Belleville, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lochhead and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Wagar.

DORLAND

Dorland, Jan. 27.— The sleighing has been poor the last few days, although some parts of the road were icy and treacherous. We hope the storm today will improve conditions as there still is a good deal of hauling to be done.

A portable saw mill owned by Messrs. Card and Card, is to be set up in H. John's field, in the near future and the large number who wish to get logs sawn would be glad to see the sleighing last for some time yet.

An oyster supper, under the management of the Y. P. S., was held in the dining room of the United Church on Friday evening. The oysters were delicious and the programme lively, adding to a most pleasant evening. An invitation was received from the A. Y. P. A. of St. Alban's Church to be their guests next Friday evening.

The February meeting of the W. M. S. will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Carr, on February 7th, instead of at the parsonage, as previously arranged. The World's Day of Prayer programme will be followed and a good attendance is looked for.

Mr. H. John is busy taking down the old Shippen's factory at Conway, which he recently purchased.

Mr. Gordon Campbell was the victim of a nasty accident while felling a tree. He was knocked against the stump by the butt, with the result that three ribs were broken and a number of cuts and bruises about his face.

Mrs. Hugh Allison is spending some time with friends in Toronto.

MORVEN

Morven, Jan. 29. — Mrs. Rupert Amey spent the past week in Kingston with her husband, who is in the Hotel Dieu Hospital.

A very successful social evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fisher, on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. John Craig has returned from spending a week with her son and his family, at Switzerville.

Mr. Clifton Withers is spending a week in the north country.

DESERONTO

Deseronto, Jan. 27. — Mr. Bruce Campbell was a recent guest at his home, here.

The first serious sleigh riding accident took place on Thursday evening, when Ralph Mitchell's arm was badly fractured, and his little brother seriously shaken up.

Mrs. J. B. Hough entertained her missionary group at a charming and successful tea on Tuesday.

Mr. Sherman Thompson of Cobourg spent last week end with his parents, here.

Mrs. G. C. Joyce entertained recently, at the tea hour.

Mr. N. Galt suffered a relapse on Wednesday, but is feeling better.

Mrs. G. Creighton and Miss Christine Gault of Hawley, were in Deseronto for the week end. Mrs. Morley Gault was the hostess for the Y. W. A. social evening.

A very successful bridge and euchre was held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Gaulin on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Ross Reddell was elected prime minister of the Y. P. S. of the United Church.

Mrs. William Carthew of Wallerville is the guest of her mother, Mrs. William Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Harvey entertained the Euchre Club on Friday evening. The preceding meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert Sager.

The congregation of the Church of the Redeemer held their annual meeting on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Robson has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, Yarker.

STRATHCONA

Strathcona, Jan. 29. — We have been experiencing some fine winter weather during the past week, and sleigh-riding and ice-cutting seem to be the order of the day. The road through the village has been very icy and both children and grown-ups have had great sport riding down hill. Walking up to get a fresh start appears to be the only drawback.

Mr. W. A. Ballance has been cutting ice and reports a very fine harvest of exceptionally clear, thick ice this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Finlay were in Kingston on Wednesday last.

Mrs. E. Hanes called on Mrs. Andy Thews, Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Mabel Tompkins, Napanee, spent Friday afternoon at home.

Several from the village attended the euchre and dance in Newburgh, on Wednesday evening, which was held under the auspices of the Young Conservative Association.

The euchre which was held on Friday evening, in the Library Hall, in aid of the Public Library, was very well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Finlay, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Finlay and Mr. Stanley Hanes, took tea recently with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoare.

Mission Circle will be held on Friday evening, at the home of Mr and Mrs. Bruce Finlay.

MOSCOW

Moscow, Jan. 27. — We are sorry to report that Mr. John Evans, who underwent an operation in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, is not doing as well as his many friends would wish.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Keech and son, Victor, also Mrs. McAdams, took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keech on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Carrie Patterson is with her daughter, Mrs. Wartman.

Miss Madeline Spratt of Enterprise and Mr. Arthur Herrington of Moscow, were quietly married by the Rev. R. A. Penny of Tamworth, on January 18th.

Mrs. Long, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. Dick Palmer, has returned to her home in Peterboro.

Mrs. Harry Albertson received the sad news of the death of her brother, Philip E. Wagar, of Duluth, Minn.

Mr. George Asselstine had the misfortune to fall and break some of his ribs. Mr. Asselstine is in his 93th year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lakens spent Sunday with her mother.

Mr. George Lakens and son, Percy, visited over the week end, at Danford Lakens'.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Jan. 29. — The passing of a former resident of Enterprise in the person of Patrick James Whelan, in Rochester, N. Y., was learned with regret. For a number of years, he was in charge of the hotel property known now as the Bell House. Later he went to Tamworth and conducted the hotel there, known as the Wheeler House. He later purchased a farm, and farmed for a number of years. He took an active part in the municipal affairs of Sheffield township and was a member of the council board for several years. Several years ago he disposed of his farm and moved his family to the United States where he was living at the time of his death. His many friends in this vicinity join in sympathy, for his bereaved wife and family.

On Saturday afternoon the third game of a hockey series, as far as Enterprise is concerned, was played on the local rink between Enterprise and Newburgh, and ended in a score of 10-1 in favor of Enterprise, The mild weather had made the ice rather slow. Jack Jackson of Enterprise scored six goals. Bill Jackson scored two and Spratt and Lavecque one each. The very mild weather made it possible for the game to be witnessed by a large number of fans. Weather being favourable, a return match will be played at Newburgh, Monday evening.

On Saturday evening the third of a series of euchres was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dagar and a very enjoyable evening was spent, with a number of tables in play. The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. C. W. Graham and the gentleman's prize went to Walter Keech. The travelling prizes were won by Mrs. George Perwick and Mr. George Richardson.

Mr. George Asselstine of Moscow, who is now in his ninety-ninth year, suffered an unfortunate accident during the past week, when he fell down some outside steps at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Asselstine of Moscow, with whom he resides and fractured several ribs.

Hugh Evans son of Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, near Moscow, has been taken to the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, and operated upon for appendicitis. Another son of Mr. and Mrs. Evans has been very seriously ill at their home with pneumonia.

Mr. Joseph Huffman of Tamworth has two interesting and historical relics in his possession—a rifle and bayonet, used by a grandparent at the battle of the Plains of Abraham when General Wolfe took Quebec.

Miss Marguerite Wagar who has charge of Desmond Public School, enjoyed several days' holidays over the week end, on account of a new metallic ceiling being placed in the school room. Hugh Ramsay of Newburgh, has the contract.

The continued mild weather has flooded the streams south of the village and a cold snap would make it possible for a large amount of wood to be cut, there.

Conway - Sandhurst

Bath, Jan. 24.—What changeable weather for January! The temperature rises and fall without notice and it leaves our roads in a slippery condition at present.

The many friends of Mr. Fred Sills will be pleased to know he is better after his recent serious illness.

On Thursday night the Young People of Grace Church, Napanee, presented their play "Windy Willows" at St. Paul's Parish Hall, Sandhurst, to a large audience.

Miss Edna Wells and Mr. E. Kearns returned from Toronto on Wednesday. While in Toronto they were the guests of the former's sister.

The regular meeting of the Conway-Sillsville Y. P. U. was held at the parsonage on Friday evening. A good attendance enjoyed a program of "Robert Burns", his life and some of his poems, being the 175th anniversary of his birth, Thursday, January 25th.

There was a skating party at the rink, Conway, on Friday evening.

A number from here attended the dance in Bath Masonic Hall on Friday night, under the auspices of the Bath Women's Institute.

Mr. G. H. Switzer of Napanee was the holder of the lucky ticket on the blanket offered by the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church.

Napanee Girl To Wed in New York

New York, Jan. 31. — Frank H. Littlefield, 67, a vice - president of Canadian Oil Company, residing at 11 Lyton Boulevard, Toronto, and Miss Lillian A. Burgess, 55, a teacher of New Rochelle, N.Y., obtained a marriage license today. They said the ceremony would be performed February 17th in St. Paul's Chapel, Columbia University, this city.

Mr. Littlefield was born in Peoria, Ill., the son of Rufus and Luginda Baylies Littlefield. He has been a widower since 1928. Miss Burgess was born in Napanee, the daughter of James and Elina Bainthwood Burgess.

Mrs. George W. Paul Opens Her Home For Church Tea

The home of Mrs. George W. Paul on Dundas Street, was the rendezvous for many of the ladies of the town on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Paul was hostess at an informal tea arranged as a benefit for the Mission Band of Trinity United Church.

From three to six in the afternoon the guests were received by Mrs. Paul, assisted by Mrs. D. B. Wilson, president of the W. M. S., and Mrs. William Calvert and Mrs. F. B. Mills, the joint superintendents of the Mission Band.

The ladies were admitted to the home by Miss Madge White, president of the band, dressed in an attractive Japanese costume and were ushered to the living room. Here they remained chatting for a while. Later, they were invited to the dining room by Mrs. W. G. Cowle and Miss Alma Thompson, where the refreshments were served.

Mrs. Amos S. Kimmerly, Mrs. B. W. Gilbert and Mrs. W. H. Coates, had charge of the tea table, which was lovely with a lace cloth and bouquets of daffodils. The guests were served at small tables by Mrs. W. D. Graham, Mrs. (Dr.) Duffett, Mrs. A. G. Taylor, Mrs. (Dr.) Beattie Mrs. William Hunter and Mrs. William Wright.

Mrs. Ralph Sills had charge of the candy table, where she sold delicious candy in dainty colored baskets. During the afternoon the visitors were entertained by vocal solos, sung by Mrs. Harry Parvson and Mrs. W. H. Gray and Mrs. Harry Williams gave two readings, which were listened to with much interest.

Besides being a profitable source of income for the Mission Band, the tea was considered by all who attended, as a delightful social function.

Accidents Result When Stoves Blow Up

A serious accident occurred on Monday morning of last week, at the home of Leonard Flynn, near Enterprise, resulting in serious injuries to Mrs. Flynn.

The water tank connected to the kitchen stove exploded with such terrific force, that a piece of the tank was blown through the ceiling, several windows were broken and Mrs. Flynn, who was near the stove was badly bruised and several bones were broken.

Mrs. Flynn was rushed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital at Kingston, where she is making a satisfactory recovery.

It is thought that during the severe cold on Sunday night, the water pipes became frozen, causing the explosion when the fire was lighted.

A similar accident occurred at the home of Edward Nugent, later in the week, but no one was near the stove when it blew up and consequently no bodily injuries were sustained.

Belleville Presbytery Meets at Napanee Next Tuesday

The Belleville Presbytery of the United Church is meeting in Napanee, next Tuesday, February 13th. The sessions are being held in Grace Church at 9.30 a.m., and 1.30 p.m.

Ontario Legislature Opened Last Week

Lieut.-Gov. Bruce Reads Speech from Throne

Time-honored observance of methods of procedure again marked the opening of the fifth and final session of the Eighteenth Legislature of Ontario on Wednesday afternoon, January 31st, when His Honor, Lieutenant-Governor Dr. Herbert Bruce, escorted to the Parliament Buildings by a detachment of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, was received by military officials, and reviewed the guard of honor, after which he proceeded to the legislative chamber, where he read the speech from the throne. Surrounded by dignitaries of the church and educational institutions, members of the judiciary, consular representatives, members of the House and their wives, the Lieutenant-Governor read his speech.

The Speech from the Throne

The speech opened with words of regret at the passing of several Members of the House, including two members of the cabinet, Hon. Dr. Monteith and Hon. E. A. Dunlop. The Lieutenant-Governor spoke of the decision between the Dominion and Provinces to continue the present agreements for relief of the unemployed and mentioned another Federal-Provincial matter, uniformity of company laws.

The speech forecasted legislation concerning the grading and distribution of farm produce and observed advances in the extension of markets in Ontario produce. Mention was made of the fact that in December last, the actual peak load, including secondary power in the history of the Hydro Commission, was reached. Work is taken as a clear indication of the improvement in general business conditions.

Lumber Camp Supervision

Reference to closer supervision of working and living conditions in the northern lumber camps was made, as follows :—

"Living conditions of men engaged in lumbering operations and boarded in camps in the north country, are such as to call for official investigation and supervision from time to time. It is hoped that proper guidance will serve to prevent the recurrence of disputes and strikes, and avoid the loss and inconvenience entailed upon all concerned."

Regarding education, the speech said there had been no interruption in services during the year. The intention was also announced of continuing adequate grants that would enable all schools to carry on. Compulsory pasteurization of milk was forecast and an extension of the facilities for the use of radium was also foretold.

Extensive Highways Work

That the Highways Department intends to embark on more extensive operations was indicated in the following clause :—

"Operations in the construction and maintenance of highways will be undertaken during the coming season on a larger scale than prevailed last year in order to provide employment. The special aid to counties and townships by the Federal and Provincial Governments, toward labor costs, will be continued."

No mention was made in the speech of any intention on the part of the Government to change the Liquor Control Act to allow the sale of beer and wine in restaurants and hotels.

District Ministerial Association Meets

The Napanee District Ministerial Association met in the chapel of St. Mary Magdalen Church on Monday morning for the regular monthly meeting. Rev. R. T. Richardson was in the chair. The other members present were : Rev. A. J. Wilson, Rev. J. E. Beckel, Rev. A. D. Wade, Dr. Pletcher, Rev. D. M. Stinson, Rev. Harry Pawson, Dr. Smith, Rev. Griffith, Rev. Perry Scott, Rev. T. H. Anderson, Rev. G. T. McKenzie and Archdeacon Dumbrille.

The paper for the day was given by Rev. A. J. Wilson, on the subject: "The Religious Background of the Psalms." The usual discussion period followed the reading of the paper.

Falling on Ice Boy's Leg is Broken

On Saturday morning, when returning from playing hockey, Herbert Bell, young son of Kenneth Bell, who lives near the C. N. R. station, fell on some ice and broke two bones in his leg, just above the ankle.

The fractures were reduced and placed in splints and the boy is progressing nicely, but will be laid up for some weeks.

Presentations Made At Closing Banquet Short Course Classes

Much Interest Shown in Work Classes

The 1934 Lennox and Addington short course, conducted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was brought to a close last week at a banquet held in the Hotel Paisley, on Friday evening.

During the month just passed, classes were held in agriculture and home economics. They were attended by thirty young people from the county and town. The home economics instructors were Miss Alleta Smith, who had charge of the household science work and Mrs. M. Lowe, R.N., of Toronto, who was instructing in home nursing. The agricultural classes were in charge of C. W. Buchanan, B.S.A., the local representative, assisted by R. A. Stewart, B.S.A. In addition, special lecturers were brought in to give instruction in some of the subjects considered.

The Banquet

The banquet held on Friday evening was attended by about 100 people; the members of the class, their parents or friends and the instructors participating in the dinner, which was served at 6:30 p.m., a program of toasts and music was presented, Hazel Baker. A tribute to the "Class in Agriculture" was offered by Grace Hume and replied to by Harold Preslar. The toast to "Our Country" was proposed by C. W. Hamby, M. L. A. and responded to by Dr. G. W. Morden, M.A., Ph.D. The last toast "Our Guests," was offered by Hilda Preslar and ably responded to by Mrs. W. B. Exley, president of the Napanee Women's Institute and Mayor George J. Tustin

Musical items were supplied by Homer Jackson and Garnet Brooks, who sang solos.

Presentation of Prizes

A feature of especial interest in the evening's program, was the presentation of prizes given in connection with the dinner, which was in the short course. To Miss Hazel Baker was presented the prize for general efficiency in the household science class, and to Miss Mabel Vankoughnet the second prize in the same class. Miss Hilda Preslar received first prize for the best notebook work in household science and Miss Elizabeth Taylor, first prize for notebook work in home nursing. In the agriculture class, first prize for general proficiency went to Garnet Dupre, and second prize to Harold Preslar.

Members of Classes

Hastings Council Name Corn Borer Inspector

Through a motion of Reeve P. C. Metcalfe, of Deseronto, Charles H. Marvin was appointed Corn Borer Inspector for Hastings district.

It was also included in the motion, which was seconded by Reeve J. L. Churcher of Tyendinaga Township, that he cover the Reserve territory as well.

Reeve Metcalf pointed out that there was no use in leaving one section isolated as an undisturbed breeding ground.

The condition of Prince Edward County was brought up and is was found that the ravages through the corn borer with parasites that the services of an inspector had been dispensed with. The work of this line can be shortly expected and the inspector will probably be more severe. Up to date the search for the corn borer has made great inroads in this district in the last few years.—Deseronto Post.

The Difference

Tennyson or Longfellow could take a worthless sheet of paper and write a poem on it and make it worth $65.000 — that's genius. There are some men who can write a few words on a sheet of paper and make it worth $5.000.— 000 — that's capital. The Dominion of Canada can take half an ounce of silver and stamp upon it a "crowned head" and make it worth 50 cents — that's money. A mechanic can take material worth $5.00 and make it into watch springs worth $1.000 —that's skill. An artist can take a 10 cent piece of canvas, paint a picture on it and make it worth several hundred dollars—that's art. A merchant can take an article worth 75 cents and sell it for $1.00 — that's business. A woman can purchase a 75 cent hat, but prefers one that costs $27.00 — that's foolishness. A ditch digger works ten hours a day and handles several tons of earth for $2.25— that's labor. The author of this can write a cheque for $90.000.000. but it wouldn't be worth a dime —that's nerve. Everybody who is posted and wants the very best, buys The Napanee Beaver — THAT'S COMMON SENSE.

Prince Edward-Lennox Liberal Convention Last Week

Thomas G. Bowerman, Reeve of Athol, and last year Warden of Prince Edward County, was selected by delegates to be the Liberal standard bearer in the next Federal election. The convention was staged in the parish hall, Picton, Wednesday afternoon, there being approximately fifty delegates from Lennox and upwards of one hundred representing Prince Edward polling subdivisions. Eleven names were placed in nomination and each in a brief address resigned in favor of T. G. Bowerman.

Those nominated were J. Grant Sprague, Homer White, Dr. Gerald Allison, Alva E. Bowerman, W. J. Benson, T. G. Bowerman, S. W. Tripp, W. S. Blakely, Dr. S. H. Roblin, James Clark (Lennox), Rev. Sharp (Lennox.)

Rev. Dr. Roblin, President of the Prince Edward-Lennox Association, ably presided with Mr. T. O. Crandell as secretary, in their remarks while tendering resignations, each of the nominees paid glowing tribute to the character and sterling worth of T. G. Bowerman. Dr. Roblin remarked that he was a little fellow, but pointed out that priceless things are usually bound up in small packages, while suggesting that it should not be a difficult task to find such a man to victory in his riding.

It was decided to withhold the selection of a candidate for the Dominion House for a later convention.

The meeting was thrown open to the general public following the decision of the delegates and the hall was filled for the after meeting which was marked by enthusiasm.

Mr. J. J. Duffus of Peterborough, President of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, was the guest speaker of the day and his remarks were heartily applauded by the large audience.

Presented Memorial To Trinity Church Last Sunday

A splendid addition to the interior furnishings of Trinity United Church, was made on Sunday, through the generosity and thoughtfulness of Mrs. Blanche Miller Haycock. As a memorial to her sister, the late Miss Jewel Miller, Mrs. Haycock presented to the church a large silver vase for flowers, to be used on the communion table.

Rev. Harry Pawson accepted the gift on Sunday morning on behalf of the church, and expressed the appreciation of the congregation to Mrs. Haycock.

The vase was filled on Sunday with a beautiful bouquet of deep rose carnations, also the gift of Mrs. Haycock.

U. E. L. Chapter I. O. D. E. Elect Officers for 1934

The annual meeting of the United Empire Loyalist Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held in the Officers' Mess at the Armouries, on Monday afternoon, the 5th inst., with the Regent, Mrs. D. R. Hall, in the chair. Twenty-five members were present.

Following the routine business, annual reports were presented, all of which showed the completion of a very successful year.

It was decided to subscribe for a series of pamphlets presenting the talks of various prominent speakers on World Peace, these to be read and discussed at Chapter meetings.

Miss W. Gordon, of Kingston, was the Chapter's nominee for National Councillor, and Mrs. F. E. Hooper, of the Peter Robinson Chapter, of Peterborough, was nominated as a Councillor of the Provincial Chapter.

Mrs. Phippen was selected to act as the Chapter's representative on the Central Council of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Five new members were proposed for membership.

Honorary Regents — Mrs. A. F. Harshaw, Mrs. W. P. Deroche.

Regent—Mrs. D. R. Hall.

1st Vice Regent — Mrs. Alpine Woods.

2nd Vice Regent—Mrs. Powell.

Rec. Sec'y—Mrs. Reddick.

Cor. Sec'y—Mrs. Jamieson.

Educ. Sec'y—Mrs. Corkill.

Echoes Sec'y—Miss D. Casey.

Immigration Sec'y—Mrs. Symington.

Treasurer—Miss Edna Richardson.

Standard Bearer—Miss J. Lalth.

At the conclusion of the business session, tea was served, with the Regent as hostess.

$2,660,000 Budget Missionary Funds Nearly Balanced

Toronto, February 5.—With a total budget of $2,660,000 in its missionary funds for 1933, the United Church of Canada finds itself with $110,000 of reaching the amount necessary to balance its books for that year and is proceeding to raise the full amount in an intensive effort. In the first eighteen days of this month an appeal is being made from coast to coast, and the Treasurer's books will be kept open until February 28th to allow these returns for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

The gap between attainment and objective is somewhat smaller than for four years past and high hopes are held by responsible church leaders that the financial situation will be further shown by substantial extra gifts to balance the budget. Expenditures were greatly reduced for 1933, following large reductions in the previous years.

A meeting at Toronto of 150 representative leaders of the United Church in Ontario and Quebec by standing vote accepted responsibility for initiating the appeal in each of the five Conferences and 39 Presbyteries in these provinces. Similar action was taken at gatherings in Regina and Saskatoon.

Givings, which during a large part of 1933 reflected the general business conditions of the country, steadily improved during the month of January, 1934.

Reports of Committees Occasion of Discussion At Council Meeting

Armouries Cannot be Used for Market

At the regular meeting of the Town Council, held in the Council chamber on Monday evening, all the members were present, Mayor Tustin presiding.

The clerk read a communication from Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, secretary of the I.O.D.E., asking that the Council remit the rental for the Town Hall, for the concert given by Miss VanGeons for the I.O.D.E.

Deputy Reeve Wilson spoke in opposition to the request. He said the matter of rental had been thoroughly gone into last year and it was found that $12.00 for the night performances and $8.00 for afternoon would just cover the cost of upkeep for the hall. He said "If you are going to make the Town Hall a community hall let everyone have it for nothing and let all the citizens pay for its upkeep through their taxes." He also said that individual committees had been approached different times, but year and had severally agreed that applicants should be given the hall free. That sort of petition made it difficult for the chairman of the Town Property to deal equitably with the matter. He felt every organization should pay for the hall regardless of whom they might represent.

Reeve Hughson said that last year he had spoken against the charges of $12.00 and $8.00 being applied in every case. He felt each case should be dealt with individually. He certainly considered the I.O.D.E. a charitable organization and told of some of the work the order is doing. He moved a motion, which was seconded by Councillor Cowling, that the rental be remitted to the I.O.D.E. When put to a vote, the motion was lost.

A letter from W. C. Mikel, K.C., was read calling attention to the 100th anniversary of the founding of Belleville, which is to be observed in March. The clerk was instructed to write a suitable letter of congratulation.

Mr. C. W. Buchanan, the Agricultural representative for the County, wrote thanking Council for the use of the Council chamber for the classes of the recent short course.

A motion by Messrs. Hughson and Toppin was passed, conveying the appreciation of the Council for the work being done in the agricultural short courses.

A letter from Mr. Alex. McGregor, secretary of the Napanee band-master and custodian of the band equipment, was laid on the table for further consideration.

A letter from the Ontario Hospital at Kingston, concerning the transfer of Edward Saunders, a patient for the last 37 years, to the House of Refuge, was left in the hands of the reeve, for further investigation.

Three bills incurred for nursing and hospital attendance, amounting to $187.50, by Russell Wagar, last summer, were referred to the Finance Committee to investigate and report, on motion of Messrs. Hughson and Wilson.

Committee Reports

Deputy-Reeve Wilson reported for the Finance Committee and gave a statement of the receipts and expenditures for January. The report showed taxes received were $1,817, and that $212.96 had been received as prepayment on taxes for 1934.

Councillor Morden reported on the street expenditure for January to be $148.65. In the matter of the application of Mr. Dobson to erect four gas pumps before his residence, the committee decided to take no action and referred the question to the Council for decision. Telephone No. 104 has been installed in the street foreman's house.

Councillor Cowling, chairman of Fire and Water Committee, reported that in January there were twelve calls answered by the fire department; ten of these were chimney fires.

Councillor Luffman brought in the Town Property Committee report. The committee recommended that R. W. Knapp be appointed custodian of the band equipment; that a grant of $250.00 be given the band, payable to Bandmaster Ist. Councillors Luffman and Exley moved the adoption of the report.

Before the motion was put, a communication from the band was read, saying that as a recent fire had occurred and was recommended as leader and custodian of the band. The recommendation was signed by twelve members of the band.

An amendment to the original motion was moved by Messrs. Hughson and Masters, that Mr. A. MacGregor be appointed custodian of the band equipment at a salary of $100.00.

Following further discussion an amendment to the amendment carried was moved by Messrs. Cowling and Morden and carried by the Council, that the matter be referred back again to the Town Property Committee for further consideration.

The Council divided on the yeas and nays, which resulted as follows: Yeas—Messrs. Cowling, Exley, Luffman, Morden, Wilson, Tustin, Topping. Nays—Messrs. Hughson and Masters.

A Tribute To E. W. Grange

By CRATTAN O'LEARY
Editor, Ottawa Journal

To the larger public Edward Grange was perhaps little known. Of the old school of impersonal journalism, he was content to work anonymously, deriving ample satisfaction, from the consciousness of work well done. Modest, almost shy, he never sought the limelight but to exploit his profession for his personal gain. Yet, Edward Grange was a competent, well-equipped newspaperman, one who whether in the Parliamentary Press Gallery or as Canadian correspondent for Reuter, was a credit to his profession, and, because of that a good servant of the public.

Personally, Edward Grange was lovable, tolerant, whimsical. A Liberal in politics, political controversy never embittered him, nor blurred his fairness; he had too much of good humor to make a difference of opinion a cause for hatred, too much of integrity to sell his profession to serve a party. Because of these things, because gentleness and character and loyalty were of the very core of him, Edward Grange will be missed, and not least by those younger newspapermen who could always be sure of his assistance and his kindness.

British Newspapers Commend Plan For Two-Way Trade

Most favorable comment has recently been made by British newspapers, concerning the two-way trade plan being fostered by the Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders, of Belleville.

Such leading papers as the London Daily Mail, the London Daily Express, the South Wales Western Mail and the South Wales Evening Post, carried on, recent dates, well displayed articles on the plan and the work of the Crusaders. The British press carried the Commerce Crusaders' slogans and special reference was made to the fact that, if suitable steamers are not available they could be constructed.

Ontario cheese is one commodity which will receive special consideration, in addition to Canadian apples and canned goods. Similar benefits, in return, are expected to accrue to the British coal mining industry.

Last year, shipments of Welsh anthracite coal to Canada amounted to more than 1,000,000 tons.

British people are assured that the most efficient machinery for the British people will result in more British coal being purchased by Canadians.

Social Welfare Work For January Reviewed

Less Expenditure for Month than Last Year

The meeting of the Welfare Committee for the town of Napanee, was held at the Council chamber on Friday afternoon. The members present were the officers in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army, Mrs. R. S. Wales, Miss J. Leamy, Chief Watts, W. S. Exley, Dr. G-W. Morden and Victor Cowling.

The work of the month of January was reviewed and the needs of the individuals on the relief list were considered. Some complaints were investigated and reported on, and adjustments made. In some instances recommendations for change of supplies were made. Families with several children are to be supplied with more milk than previously.

At the present time there are 50 families requiring relief, with a total of 225 individuals. In the same month last year there were 365 people on relief and in December there were 53 families and the month before three men got work and were removed from the list.

The total cost of relief for January was $1,628.76. This amount includes expenditures for food, fuel, rent, doctors' bills and the cost of the food kitchen at the armouries. In January 1933, the expenditure was $1,711.15, showing a decrease of nearly $700 this year.

The food kitchen, maintained for transients at the armouries, was operated at a cost of $73.23 for the month, a slight increase over last year's expenditure of $70.58. 377 transients were fed, among them three women.

The cost of supplying clothing is greatly reduced by the donations of used garments received by the committee. Each week a group of the women of the town give several hours of their time to the repair and remodelling of the used clothing, and thus save the taxpayers a considerable amount of money.

Every effort is being made to see that the needy of the town are supplied with the necessities of life.

Damaged Store And Apartment Being Re-Built

Work was started, last week, toward the rebuilding of the store and living apartment of Davis and Daughter, which were badly damaged by fire, recently.

The second floor of the building is being completely re-decorated, as it was badly damaged by smoke and water. The interior of the store part is being entirely re-built. When completed Mr. Zender expects to open up again in the same line of business as formerly carried on.

Some of the stock was salvaged, but a great deal was completely destroyed.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT

The press has, almost without exception, passed judgment on the two leaders of the traditional parties in Canada for the length of their speeches in reply to the Speech from the Throne. The pace was set by the leader of the opposition, who spoke for over four hours. The Prime Minister followed with one equally long. It is needless to point out how difficult it is for the human intellect to concentrate for anything near that time. Perhaps those listening were not intended to concentrate. It may be that the leaders were thinking more of the way in which those addresses would appear in Hansard. But reading them, even in the Hansard, is not an easy task. Undoubtedly they lose much of their effectiveness by their undue length.

In comparison to these two speeches, what was, without question, the most impressive address on the reply was given in about forty minutes. It was delivered by Henri Bourassa (Labelle). It is remarkable how little attention has been given to this independent utterance. His address throughout was a plea for the forgotten men and women of Canada. "There is one class," he said, "of which I hear very little — a class which is difficult to count, but which is very important morally, socially, and economically. I refer to the small bourgoisie, as they call it in France, the lower middle class as they called it in England years ago. They are individuals, they are not organized as a class, and cannot present their view as can the organized farmers, professional men and manufacturers. Nevertheless they constitute the mainstay of the body politic.

"What care has been taken of them during the crisis of the last five years ? I will take my native city of Montreal. There are, today, on the pauper's list of Montreal men who for twenty, thirty, or forty years, worked earnestly and honestly as carpenters, plasterers, bricklayers, masons, small contractors, and so on. Others were the small employees of great companies, the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company . . . . What is the result of their practising for forty or fifty years those social, Christian and human virtues ? They are unregarded by all authority."

In eloquent language he then pleads for co-operation between all parties in the country to take care of these forgotten men and women, those people who, for no reason of their own, have been crushed by the juggernaut of our industrial order. Money and trade may be important matters but, as Bourassa pointed out, the supreme concern of governments was for the welfare of the men and women who make up the great bulk of the population and who have no one to plead their cause.

FAIRY TALES

Last week, under the caption "Why There is Discontent," we had an article about two young men across the border who had made fabulous sums without doing anything to earn them. And now we've discovered the same thing has been going on in our own country. Mr. P. D. Ross, of Ottawa, in a little book called "Retrospects of a Newspaper Person," tells the following story about himself. It is quoted in Hansard, February 1, 1934, page 167.

Mr. Ross had once done a certain Mr. W. J. Carrique a good turn. This is Mr. Ross's story in his own words, of what happened :—

"Some little time further on, another visit came from Carrique. He laid an envelope on my desk. 'This is your share of stock,' he said. 'My share ?' 'What are you talking about ?' 'We have formed a little company—the Canadian Street Car Advertising Company.' . . . . 'But, I don't want any of your stock,' I said. 'It won't cost you anything.' returned Carrique. 'It's paid-up-paid-up stock.' 'Who paid it up ?' 'Nobody. It's just issued paid-up.' I opened the envelope. It contained a certificate for $10,300 paid-up stock in the Canadian Street Car Advertising Company, capital $60,000 paid-up . . . . 'I don't know where the rest of you fellows got the money,' I said. 'But I haven't any money to put in this. I don't want any of it. Leave me out.'

"None of us have put in any money,' Carrique returned. 'We have contracts for two or more years with each of the Montreal, Hamilton and Ottawa Street Railway Companies, we to ply certain figures for space in their cars to place advertisements in. The agreement is to pay each company so much a month. The receipts we are already getting from advertisers to put their cards in the cars are more than enough to enable us to make our monthly payments to the street car companies. That is, we are already so far ahead that we could pay a dividend on $60,000 now, and we have no liabilities to anybody.' 'Sounds like a fairy tale, Carrique.' 'It's going to be a real fairy tale,' he returned. 'I expect to Toronto and Winnipeg franchises, and if we get them it will be a gold mine.'

Mr. Ross continues :—

"I took the stock. Carrique was a wonder. Before long we had the Toronto and Winnipeg franchises, with nearly all others in Canada.'

Mr. Ross goes on to say that in the fifteen years following the formation of the company he had drawn in dividends or bonuses to the sum of $78,847, and the account continues :—

"No shareholder ever paid a dollar—not a cent—into the company. In 1919, W. J. Carrique, who was a shrewd and successful financier in other things than street railway advertising, died a near million aire. The Carrique estate and the rest of us, soon after, sold the total stock of the Canadian Street Railway Advertising Company to Senator Wilson of Montreal for $307,250. My share of the proceeds of the sale was a cheque for $88185. This with the $78,847 received during the previous years in dividends, constituted a total of $127,032, which came to me in fifteen years from the Canadian Street Railway Advertising Company. I got no stock for which I never put up a cent—never anything except a small amount of obligingness."

WHY A PLAN IS NEEDED

The need for some definite planned economy was never more clearly brought out than in a speech delivered in the House of Commons, last week, by Mr. F. W. Gershaw, of Medicine Hat. Mr. Gershaw gave a very vivid description of the hardships which the farmers in Alberta are undergoing because of conditions over which they have no control. He pointed out that the cattle growers, to-day, when the price of beef ranges from one and a half cents to three cents a pound to the farmer, is forced to pay transportation charges, stock yard charges, insurance charges, which are exactly the same as when the farmer received nine cents a pound for his cattle.

In addition to that positive injustice, Mr. Gershaw showed how impossible it was to make a successful living selling wheat at 40 or 50 cents a bushel, when it cost 60 cents a bushel to produce. He then proceeded to argue that, because of these peculiar conditions which are working against the Western Farmer, the Government should assist the growers of sugar beets, so that the farmers might find a profitable use for their land.

In 1932, Mr. Gershaw brought up the same subject, and a Committee of the House was appointed to deal with the matter. The Committee met and went into the matter very thoroughly, hearing dozens of witnesses from different parts of Canada. The Committee brought in its findings and among other things said : "The world stocks of sugar on hand are very large, and that an extended surplus of 1,000,000 tons will be carried over until next year." The report also stated that "there is sufficient canacity in the cane sugar refineries of Canada, to refine two and one half times the amount of sugar necessary to meet the demands of Canadian consumers."

Now it so happens that the great refineries are in the far west or in the far east. There is only the one important sugar beet industry in the middle west and that is near Medicine Hat. It is therefore argued by Mr. Gershaw, that Alberta and other parts of the Prairie Provinces should receive Government assistance and encouragement in growing more sugar.

While we sympathize with the plight of the Western Farmer, yet, when the sugar refineries are already able to produce two and one half times more than Canadians can use, and when there is a huge surplus stock on hand, it is sheer madness to urge that more refineries be started in certain localities, no matter how badly those localities may need the work, which the establishment of refineries would bring.

This shows the need for some planning, which will take the whole of Canada within its scope, and prevent these plans for special consideration, which so often in the past have been listened to, and acted upon, and which is one of the contributing factors to the muddle we are now in.

THEN WHAT WILL HAPPEN ?

The Bennett Covernment has won the plaudits of the whole nation, and the support of a unanimous House, when the Prime Minister announced an investigation into the whole matter of mass buying, and its ravages in employment, wages, and the small shopkeeper. Mr. Bennett said there would be no limit to the scope of the investigation.

This move was precipitated by the totally unexpected decision of the Supreme Court when Hon. H. H. Stevens gave in Toronto recently. Following that address, in which he pointed out certain results of mass buying, both Mr. Stevens and Mr. Bennett were deluged with letters and telegrams from those who were willing to prove that they were the victims of the conditions to which the Minister of Trade and Commerce had drawn attention. Hence the appointment of the committee.

This announcement gives heart and encouragement to the great number of small storekeepers who age feeling the pinch of the present depression, and it will find a ready response, too, in the hearts of most custompers. For few customers would object to paying a legitimate price for their goods if they knew that by paying the little extra they were making effective to keep off starvation wages.

But the question, after all, is not merely as to the facts, which will undoubtedly be uncovered, but the recommendations which the committee will make on future action.

It is doubtful if the government is ready to deal effectively with the situation. To do so would necessitate a totally different relationship between government and business than that which has existed heretofore, or which exists today.

The chain stores and large departmental stores are part and parcel of our modern life. They are essential to our modern methods of merchandising, and they are here to stay. Naturally, in the rapid expansion of any great venture, such as chain stores, injustices will creep in. That is not because those who are their owners wish it so, but simply because of the laws, or lack of laws, under which they operate. To effect a change which would be vital would mean a change in our whole present competitive system of buying and selling. The difficulty lies not in the chain store idea, which undoubtedly has done a great deal in lowering prices to the consumer. It lies, rather, in the unrestricted competition of our modern business organization under which they operate.

Not until the government is ready to put a definite curb on unrestricted competition — which would doubtless be welcomed by the chain stores more than by any others — will the abuses to which the Stevens speech pointed, be done away with.

We are not, perhaps, ready for that yet in Canada. But it will have to come some day, and an investigation is certainly a move in the right direction.

Editorial Comment

THE LESSER OF TWO EVILS

Facts are staring Europe in the face. One of them is that in the absence of a disarmament agreement Germany will re-arm in freedom from any restrictions — even though the Socialist party is "irrevocably opposed" to her doing so. The choice before the nation is that between regulated and unregulated armaments. The Government is devoting all its energies and all its prestige to rescuing the world from such a disaster as the second of these alternatives — London Daily Telegraph.

THE ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

If, as is expected, the Congress at Washington ratifies the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway Treaty, this great enterprise will be one of the big items of the Ottawa Federal program. The execution of this gigantic work will employ thousands and thousands of unemployed and will greatly raise the purchasing power of the citizens in the East. There can be no doubt that our farmers will benefit in turn. Our readers now whether Hon. L. A. Taschereau was appointed to deal with the matter at St. Raymond in June 1931, to the effect that his Government would co-operate with Ottawa. —L'Illustration, Monteral.

ROADSIDE BILLBOARDS

The crusade undertaken by the Minister of, Roads against advertisements along the highways in this province has produced happy effects. Nevertheless, there remain here and there vestiges of this form of publicity which obstruct the view of the landscape in many places frequented by tourists. It is to be hoped that these obstructions will finally disappear so that visitors to our Province may retain pleasant impressions of our rural scenery, instead of thinking that our commercial spirit is stronger than our aesthetic conception.—La Presse, Montreal.

HOGGING THE ROAD

Printed on one large transport are the words : "Our motto is courtesy plus traffic. Pass the road, notify this company." Many people wish that every transport and bus company would not only adopt but practice this motto. The way many of the drivers of large transports and buses hog the centre of the road is dangerous to general traffic, and those in authority should make an example of some of them in an endeavour to show that the business of pleasure, like has some rights on our highways.—Alba Craig Banner.

MUNICIPALITIES' IN DEFAULT

Municipal defaults in Ontario had occurred in communities with a total funded debt of over $75,000,000 at the end of 1933, the Financial Post is informed on good authority. The total was greatly increased when large urban municipalities bordering Toronto, such as Leaside and Mimico Falls and Sudbury, defaulted late in the year. In Western Canada municipal defaults have been scattered, but have involved large municipalities in only a few cases. Thus the defaulted debt is relatively small. In the Maritimes reported defaults involve little debt : over there, of defaults has been growing, but not as rapidly as that of Ontario, it is understood.— Financial Post, Toronto.

CANADIAN "PEACE DRIVE"

The "peace drive" which a number of leaders of public opinion in Canada have undertaken in line with the attitude the senior Dominion has habitually adopted at international conferences, at Geneva and elsewhere. With "the education of public opinion on ways of preserving peace" as the objective, the radio, the wireless, the Press, the churches universities, clubs and schools are to be the vehicles for getting the mind of the people focussed on peace. This is certainly in accord with the equal loyalty of her two races and with her historic understanding of continental fronts; but a peculiar contribution and confidence, and the campaign about, to be launched will not fail to make its impression in the United States as well as in this country and the other Dominions. If they hope to escape entanglement in a new war, it is essential that the United States should study practical means for maintaining peace. — Spectator, London.

HIGHER MATHEMATICS

Six years ago, the junior dean of a famous Quebec College, who was one of the foremost authorities on Pindaric prosody, was appointed to the board, with the ask of auditing the college accounts. He worked for three days at the bewildering task, and on each day he found a deficit of exactly $1,924. Each of his colleagues, charged with the police duty in turn, and invariably the same deficit presented itself. They were obliged to call upon the assistance of a chartered accountant. "You see," explained the latter, when he had audited their books correctly, "you added in the date."— Evening Standard (London.)

The Propitiated Cow

Dr. Alex. Carmichael draws a picture of Highland dairymaids among a fold of sixty to a hundred Highland cows and the singing of the comely milkers in unison with the movements of their hands. (This last is an interesting point.) "The cows become accustomed to these lilts and will not give their milk without them, nor occasionally without their favourite airs being sung to the Gaelic words. Hence Highland cows for music induces owners of large herds to secure milkmaids possessed of good voices and some 'go'.

The examples Dr. Carmichael gives are really charms, invoking Columba and Bride and Mary and other saints to "propitiate to me the cow of my love." Suggestion and faith are largely employed to propitiate the Highland cow. But nowadays cows may be milked, willy-nilly, by machinery !— Miscellany.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

GIST OF IMPORTANT EVENTS

ONTARIO—

Lieutenant-Governor, Dr. Herbert Bruce opened the Ontario House. In his speech he forecast legislation on: control of milk with pasteurization in cities; continuation of the existing Moratorium Act; stricter inspection and grading of farm products; more construction of roads with increased maintenance, as an employment measure.

• • •

Political parties are busy developing tactics to be used during the present session, so as to make a favorable impression on the general public and develop support, in the coming election.

• • •

At the meeting, in Toronto, of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, there were considerable acrimonious passions over alleged domination by the Hydro Commission.

• • •

President C A. Bogart, at the annual meeting of the Dominion Bank, said that it is better for the Government to amalgamate the two railroads than to, possibly, default.

• • •

Before the Legislature, Dr. H. J. Davis, Conservative, predicted a change in hog grading, to further improve Ontario's quality, which now commands premium prices.

• • •

International Nickel Company is spending $1,000,000 on additions to its smelter at Copper Cliff, near Sudbury.

• • •

Consumption of the Hydro power in Ontario, during December 1933, reached an all-time peak.

• • •

Eighteen Ontario municipalities were unable to meet their obligations, and are now managed by supervisors appointed by the Provincial Government.

• • •

The number of passengers carried by the Toronto railways decreased from last year by 9% ; this is the lowest passenger traffic for 21 years.

• • •

Ontario supplies of carrots, beets and cabbage, having become low, importations from Texas are arriving.

• • •

At London, hunters protested to the government over banning the use of dogs in the hunting season. They claim that is is done only for the benefit of the guides.

• • •

Premier Henry has ordered 5,000 copies of an abridged edition of Beverly Nichols' book "Cry Havoc," for distribution to all schools in the province. The book is an exceptionally able denunciation of war.

• • •

The Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association resolved to ask the Federal House for legislation compelling minority producers of vegetables to follow the majority in production and marketing of the product.

DOMINION—

Senator Meighen, speaking in the Senate, said that times are improving, but that, even with a return of previous activity, there will be unemployment, due to improved efficiency through labor saving equipment. He does not believe that we can insure ourselves out of adversity into prosperity, nor does he see merit in decreeing crops, with people in need. He considers a code in industry necessary, and that we cannot continue under the old principles of free competition, with its destructive effects.

• • •

Parliament unanimously endorsed the Bennett-Stevens suggested probe into the abuse of power by large organizations. A parliamentary committee—probably headed by Hon. H. H. Stevens—will employ investigators to analyse the buying practices of big retailers, the relationship between millers and their subsidiary bakeries, the prices paid by packers for meats and the financial set up of large companies.

• • •

Rev. A. E. Smith, secretary of the Canadian Labor Defence League was indicted, in Toronto, by a Grand Jury. He is accused of sedition, by speech in which he said that Premier Bennett and the Federal Government ordered the attempt on Tim Buck's life, while that communist was in the penitentiary.

• • •

Quebec estimates show a deficit for this year. Last year the provincial debt increased, nearly $17,000,000.

• • •

Quebec has approved a Bill giving municipal and provincial police authority to suppress pernicious physical contests, walkathons, dance marathons, and similar exhibitions.

• • •

Mr. S. S. Hungerford, who has been acting-president, was appointed president of the C. N. R., by the Board of Trustees.

• • •

Winnipeg has, so far this winter, fifty inches of snow, estimated to weigh 9,000,000 tons.

Prison inmates in Canada, total 4,587—2916 Canadians, 446 Russians, 288 Americans and the remainder of scattered nationalities.

• • •

The recent attempt to import butter from New Zealand, was due to the Canadian price being over 5c (the amount of the duty) higher than in other markets.

EMPIRE—

Lord Rothermere's and Sir Edward Mosley's Fascist campaign, in Britain, has not, so far, been particularly successful. Liberals, are planning for wider applications of agreements with nations to reduce tariffs; nations, in addition to the Empire countries, are desired in trade agreements to facilitate international trade.

At London, attempts are being made to revive international control of sugar production and sales.

• • •

The London committee has submitted to "the twenty-one governments, signing the wheat treaty, further proposals to remedy the world's wheat situation.

• • •

South Africa, without a destire to weaken Empire ties, is given consideration to making its own law supreme, doing away with appeals to London.

• • •

Ireland, in its trade war with Britain, is proposing the placing of quotas on imports.

• • •

Ireland has a corps of engineers examining the possibilities of locating coal and iron, thus making the Free State inrependent of other countries for two essential commodities.

GENERAL—

Disarmament discussions of recent years have produced no results and, for the moment, all proposals are deadlocked. Armaments are being increased at the highest rate in history; France, Germany, Italy, Japan and the United States being amongst the leaders.

• • •

Gold as a standard for international currency seems assured by the United States returning to it for foreign trade. Britain and France had not abandoned it, except for domestic uses.

• • •

The United States have been paying $34.45 for newly mined American gold, whereas, the world's price, in Canadian funds, was 33.50. The States has now entered the world's market, paying $35.00. Until recent months, for over one hundred years the price was $20.67 an ounce. Apparently Britain wishes the pound stabilized at $4.70 (old parity $4.86) and the States has forced it up to $5.00, thus handicapping British exports. Each country has a huge fund, which is operated secretly, to affect the exchange rate. The result of the clash in interests is of major importance. Canadian currency is following closely the American value.

• • •

The $35.00 American price for gold, as against less than $34.00 in London, is causing huge shipments to the States. Fifty million have been sent within a few days.

• • •

Roosevelt is exerting pressure for the passing of the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway Treaty, which has the support of the Canadian Government, and the majority of the provinces; Austria, if absorbed, will be the fourteenth.

• • •

Germany has denied any responsibility for Nazi uprisings in Austria and the Austrian internal situation remains unstable.

• • •

Austria is expected to, immediately appeal to the League of Nations about German inspired activities against its government. Certain Nazists have taken control of the Tyrol Province and Premier Dollfuss has presented no evidence that he represents the majority opinion in his country. From the Tyrol a determined attack was made on the Premier for abandonment of party government.

• • •

Japan's Minister of War says that his country does not expect a war with the United States; his country will not fight Russia unless the latter forces one; Japanese do not wish the Russian armistice province around Vladivostok.

• • •

Russia's Minister of War expects war with Japan, his country's efforts for peace having failed; he says that the Russian army is the most highly mechanized one in the world and superior to the Japanese. He is confident of victory, although he believes the lack of adequate transport facilities.

• • •

Thee Russian balloonists ascended into the stratosphere and radioed that they had broken all records for height. Some accident overtook their baloon, which crashed, killing them and destroying all the records.

• • •

In Cuba, further bombings have occured ; strikers prevent resoration of order and the Government only partially functions.

• • •

Governments in France are less stable than in South American countries, where an election is held in a six-shooting atmosphere. No one formed after the banking scandal is powerful, except Premier Trequier, and no one appears capable of imposing order and stability.

• • •

Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia and Rumania are to sign, within a few days, a ten-year peace pact, which mutually guarantees their territorial boundaries. It is desired to have Bulgaria and Albania as parties to the agreement, but their attitude is not disclosed.

The Law of War And The Law of Peace

Translation From
Rene Vallery - Radot

Two contrary laws seem to be wrestling with each other nowadays—the one a law of bloodshed or death, ever imagining new means of destruction and forcing nations to be constantly ready for the battlefield; the other, a law of peace, work, health, saving new means of delivering man from the scourges which beset him.

Both these laws, violent conquests, the other the relief of humanity. The latter places one human life above any victory while the former would sacrifice hundreds of thousands of lives to the ambition of one. The law of which we are the instruments seeks, even in the midst of carnage, to cure the sanguinary ills of the law of war; the treatment inspired by our antiseptic methods, may preserve thousands of soldiers.

Which of these two laws will ultimately prevail. God alone knows. But we may assert that science will have tried by obeying the law of humanity to extend the frontiers of life.

Would You End War ?

Would you end war ?
Create great peace—
Go search your heart, my country.
Turn from the machine to men;
Build while there is yet time—
A creative peace—
For if you respect great peace,
As surely as vile living brings disease,
So surely shall your selfishness bring war.

THAT REMINDS ME

A gentleman once wrote to Sir William Gilbert criticising his use of the word "mystical," and asking how anyme could be full of eye. "Really, I don't know," was Gilbert's reply; "I have the same difficulty about the word bashful. How can anyone be full of bash ?"

And with this recalls the story of the teacher who was explaining to his class that the air was full of germs full of, and he gave as an example joyous, which, he carefully explained, meant full of joy.

"Now, boys, another example."

Up went a small hand. "Please, sir, please."—From "The Choir."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 11th, 1934

MATTHEW VII : 12 - 27.

"TIMELY WARNINGS"

- In the other studies of this series, Jesus has given the general principles on which His Kingdom is founded. In to-day's lesson He gives some practical ways in which those principles are to be applied. This He does by showing (1) how people should act towards each other; (2) by showing the responsibility of personal choice, (3) by warning against false prophets, (4) and by stressing prayer, foundation.

(1). Jesus insists that a very simple test for conduct lies in doing to others as we would like others to do to us. With the increased facility for travel and communication, our world has become increasingly interdependent and with that has come increasing friction between groups of all kinds. It is difficult, often, to know how one should act in any circumstance or relationship so complex is our modern life. But if each of us, in our relationships and dealings with our fellow men would ask ourselves the question : "Would we like someone to do that to us ?" or "Would we like to be treated that way ?" and frame our conduct accordingly, this friction would soon be eliminated from our civilization.

(2) Human destiny, Jesus insists, depends absolutely on an act of the will There is no fixed or arbitrary fate. On each person rests the responsibility of determining his own future. This, Jesus illustrates by the parable of the two roads. Before each person there opens the wide and easy road, of temporary satisfactions, on the one hand, and the narrow road of self-discipline and self-restraint on the other. The responsibility of deciding which turn of the road to take rests upon each of us.

(3) In the third place, Jesus warns that the effort to follow the right road will not be without its difficulties. False teachers and prophets will offer wrong directions. They will be known by showing (1) how people should act towards each other; (2) by showing the responsibility of personal choice, (3) by warning against false prophets, (4) and by stressing prayer, foundation.

(4) We have two choices of where the foundations for our lives may be laid—on a rock or on sand. Some choose sand—it is more easily and quickly excavated than rock. While rock is harder to work, it gives more assurance of safety in the stress of wind and storm—in with life, the man who builds on Jesus builds on a rock. No matter what difficulties beset them, whether they be few or many, great or small his character is builded on a rock carried, easily he moved or swept away in any temporary storm of pessimism or temptation.

CANADIAN CHEESE PROBLEMS

The problems facing the cheese industry in Ontario today are many, says the Economic Annalist, issued quarterly by the Agricultural Economics Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Perhaps, the most important one affecting production costs is declining volume of business. In 1864 the first cheese factory is reported to have been established in Oxford County, Ontario. From then on a rapid development took place in the industry until early in this century. Since 1900-04 period there has been a gradual decline in production of cheese in Ontario (and in fact throughout the whole Dominion). In 1931, Ontario had 914 factories in which were produced slightly over 84 million pounds of cheese. This figure represents a decrease of 36.4 per cent as compared to a production of nearly 132 million pounds in the year 1900.

With the development of large urban centres and increased demand for milk for fluid consumption and for use in the manufacture of other dairy products, the production of cheese declined. Paralleling this development, came improved means of transportation, better roads, and more suitable means of handling milk, the net effect of this combination of circumstances being increased competition and declining volume of business for cheese factories. It has been difficult for operators of these cheese factories to cope with these changed conditions and thus compete with the users of milk.

Miller's Worm Powders not only make the infantile system untenable for worms, but by their action on the stomach, liver and bowels they correct such troubles as lack of appetite, biliousness and other internal disorders that the worms create. Children thrive upon them and no matter what condition their worm-infested stomachs may be in, they will show improvement as soon as the treatment begins.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Reduced Freight Rate

An important reduction in freight rates on certain export cattle from feeder points in Eastern Canada to Montreal, St. John and Halifax, announced in advices to the Ontario Marketing Board. The reduction applies only to cattle in transit, that is cattle to which the railways had previously carried to the feeder points. The rate will be cut in half and will mean a saving to the farmer shipping for example from a point in Ontario to St. John or Halifax, of approximately $30 a carload.

Choosing the Breeding Male

Where pedigree breeding of poultry is followed, the first choice male should be one that has passed through a breeding season and has thrown by the production of his daughters that he has the ability to pass on the desired characters for the high production of large sized eggs. The second choice should be a cockerel selected for vigour, size and febed type, from a heavy laying large egg dam and a sire similarly bred, whose daughters, the cockerel's sisters, have shown their ability for high production.

Where pedigree breeding is not followed, it will pay to purchase males such as these.

Reforestation Encouraged

Continuing its campaign to stimulate the reforestation of waste areas in the province and to encourage the planting of trees by farmers, the Ontario Forestry Branch announces that owing to the fact that it has on hand a surplus of trees this year, the farmers in the vicinity of 3,000 trees for reforestation purposes to one person will not be allowed to and that no charge will be made for additional quantities over this number. For windbreak purposes, however, no increase in number will be made, 500 being the limit to each applicant. It is interesting in connection to note that the Ontario Statutes declare that any part of a farm used for forestry purposes or being woodland is exempt from taxes, provided that such exemption shall not be greater than one acre in ten acres of such farm and not more than twenty acres held under a single ownership.

Choosing a Fertilizer Mixture

While in a few instances to select a fertilizer mixture which has been found specially adapted to the crop to be grown, the nature and past treatment of the soil should also be taken into consideration. For example, if the soil is of very light sandy nature the fertilizer should contain a good percentage of potash but on heavy clay loams only a small amount of this element may be required by the plant for early growth. On soils which have recently been well manured and are well supplied with organic matter, a fertilizer relatively high in phosphoric acid may be required for maximum crop production.

Fresh Lamb Season Longer As Result of Experiment

The Ontario Marketing Board states that as a result of an experiment conducted by the Dominion Government, fresh-killed lamb will be easily available to consumers throughout the remainder of the winter.

Last fall, some 3,500 lambs were brought to Ontario from Saskatchewan, and placed for finishing with 24 farmers in the vicinity of Hamilton. After making unusually great gains, these animals are now going to the killing plants, and will be placed on the market gradually during the next four or five weeks.

Being fresh-killed and finished on grain, the quality and flavour, this variety of lamb is as different from frozen lamb as a milk-fed chicken is from the ordinary variety.

Formerly, all Canadian lamb was marketed in the fall, with a limited portion held over for the Christmas trade. However, in order to spread the season for fresh lamb, and to increase the market for Ontario grain, the Dominion Government assisted in bringing these western lambs into Ontario.

Judging by the success of the experiment, this procedure will be made a regular practice in future.

Time for Farmers to Take Stock

The important work of taking stock and making a plan for farming operations during the coming crop season, should not be delayed any longer than necessary. It now does this will be able to order his fertilizers, spraying material, insecticides, etc., in good time. It will enable him to cut out unprofitable cows, and hens, and other animals, and show him where by better farming methods more adequate fertilization, etc., he can cut the costs of production.

Ship Purebred Dairy Cattle to Britain

"The Ontario Government is assisting dairymen of the Province to open the British market for pure bred dairy cattle," Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, announced recently.

"In view of the restrictions recently placed on the importation of Irish cattle into Great Britain and the greater demand for milk resulting from the operations of the British Milk Marketing Scheme, the possibilities of export from Canada of dairy cattle to England seem very considerable," the Minister continued. "And there is no reason why our high class dairy cows could not meet the demand once all the facts are known.

"Some dairy cows of grade type have been going over to Great Britain during the past few months and have had a very favorable reception from the operations of the British Milk Marketing Scheme, the possibilities of export from Canada of dairy cattle to England seem very considerable."

Percy VanVlack Vice - President Holstein Asso'n

Belleville. — The twenty-third annual meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association for this district, was held in Belleville on Wednesday afternoon, January 31st, with a representative gathering of cattlemen present. Conditions were shown to be much better than last year, with the price of purebred stock somewhat higher. The annual sale will be held in Belleville on April 4, and it is expected there will be about thirty head offered for sale. On the morning of the sale there will be a bull competition in the interest of better sires for herds, these to be sold in the afternoon. All cattle offered will be R.O.P. tested previous to the sale, and if sold a negative blood test will be given the purchaser.

The officers for the year are as follows : President, A. E. O. Butler, Brighton; Vice-President, Fred Hubbs of Bloomfield; Second Vice-President Percy VanVlack, Napanee; Secretary-Treasurer, P. B. Nelson, Campbellford; Auditors, W. C. Dempsey, Belleville, and Fred Hubbs, Bloomfield. Mr. Hubbs was also nominated as a director of the Holstein Friesian Association of Canada. James Sackrey will be ringmaster and in charge of the sale.

It was shown by P. J. Webster, Agricultural Representative for Prince Edward County, that Holsteins were the popular breed in that county, for out of 54 accredited herds 49 were Holsteins. The increase in purebred bulls from 1929 to 1933 was shown to be 50 per cent. The speaker stated that calf clubs in a district did more to stimulate the raising of purebred herds than any other agency.

Police Court News

On Tuesday, James Ramsay, of North Fredericksburgh, was convicted of obtaining relief from Thos. Holden, Officer of the Township, on false pretences. He was remanded for one week for sentence.

Clayton and Kenneth Sweet, of South Fredericksburgh were convicted on Saturday of breaking and entering and theft. They entered the home of William Cronkright and stole household articles. They were remanded until February 10th for sentence.

Three young men of Adolphustown, William Frost, Earl Gallagher and Howard Garrison were convicted in police court, on Tuesday and sentenced to jail for a month. The charge against Frost was breaking and entering and theft. Gallagher and Garrison were charged with receiving $25 and costs, a total in each case of $31.50, and were given until Saturday, February 10th to pay the fine. Default of payment will mean four months in gaol.

The assault took place on the evening of January 25th, following a dance near Adolphustown. Philip Reed was severely injured about the head and neck and chest. Evidence from several witnesses for defence and plaintiff, was taken. Mr. S. B. Herrington, K.C., was acting for the defence and Mr. Kenneth Ham for the crown.

Population of 4,587 In Prisons of Canada

Ottawa. — The prison population of Canada at the beginning of the current year numbered 4,587, according to the report on Canadian penitentiaries tabled by Hon. Hugh Guthrie in the House of Commons yesterday. Of these a total of 2,078 were Canadian born, 446 were Russians, 238 were from the United States, and the remainder were distributed in lesser numbers among other nationalities.

Nearly one-half of the prison population, or 2,052 convicts, ranged between 20 and 30 years of age. Those under 20 years numbered 467. Between 30 and 40 there were 1,027. A total of 210 were over 50.

The racial origin of the prisoners showed 4,376 whites and 66 colored. The number of Indians was 67 and 78 were of Mongolian origin.

Name C. W. Malley For Magistrate Deseronto

C. W. Malley was recommended for the position of Police Magistrate of the town of Deseronto, at a meeting of the executive of the Conservative Association, held recently.

This recommendation was forwarded to Toronto for confirmation.

Mr. Pamter, the former magistrate of the town, resigned from the position a few months ago.

The Funeral of the Late Mrs. E. L. Bedore

The funeral service of the late Mrs. E. L. Bedore was conducted at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Owing to the illness of Monsignor MacDonald, parish priest of Deseronto, celebrated the high requiem mass. Mrs. Storey, Mrs. McGraw and Mr. Gerald Gleeson sang solo parts in the service.

Pallbearers were nephews of Mr. Bedore, representatives of various women's organizations to which Mrs. Bedore belonged, and many friends of the family were present to show their sympathy to the bereaved family.

Following the service in the church, the body of Mrs. Bedore was conveyed to St. Mary's Vault at Kingston to await burial in the spring. The bearers were Messrs. F. J. Bedore, Lawrence, Terrence Brady, F. A. Correll, P. Gleeson and Ed. Embury.

Lyman M. Davis Will Burn May 24th

May 24 has been fixed as the date for the burning of the Lyman M. Davis at Sunnyside Beach. Conforming with the plans of the city authorities to make the three main holidays of the summer— Victoria Day, Dominion Day and Civic Holiday—the occasions for fireworks displays of Centennial year, the authorities at Sunnyside propose to build up gigantic events on those dates.

The burning of the old ship is planned to take place late in the evening. The Sunnyside authorities propose to invite the various aquatic clubs and associations of the city to participate in the event and make it a water carnival of large proportions.

Sunnyside authorities state: "Boat-burning has been a favorite sport at the west-end resort, but now it appears that this unique form of entertainment is about to become obsolete. The reason is not for any lack of interest indicated on the part of the public, but simply because there are no more boats for old ships. The Sunnyside authorities have gradually swept the wrecks free of old ships. Not even a hull that will float is still to be found on Lake Ontario, and until the 24th of May, when the sentence on the old Luella, there is not much prospect of another such fire."

Municipal Electric Association Issues Statement on Hydro

In view of the fact of the recent annual convention, in Toronto of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, the announcement about Hydro affairs, which appeared in last week's Beaver, is of unusual public interest.

A popular misconception about the great public utility, known as the Hydro-Electric System, or more familiarly as "Hydro," is that it is owned by the Government of Ontario, or the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Under the caption "Who Owns Hydro ?", this announcement makes it clear that neither the Government nor the Commission own the Hydro System.

Wisely operated and administered by the people acting in the capacity of trustee, the Hydro System is really owned by the Hydro municipalities who purchase power in "blocks" from the Commission and distribute it to homes and factories. The Government enters the picture only as banker for the Commission. In other words, Hydro is the property of the people of the separate Hydro municipalities represented by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

After declaring that "statements have been made and published with respect to the Hydro System of Ontario that are not in accordance with the facts," the new publication regarding publicity, embodied in the Association's announcement, says in part :

"The Municipalities of Ontario are the owners of the Hydro System, in which they have invested many millions of dollars; and anything which would create distrust in the minds of the people as to the proper and efficient conduct of this great Public Utility would tend to impair the value of the investment of the Municipalities in the Hydro System."

In the pursuance of this resolution, it is understood that the Association will publish from time to time, setting forth facts about Hydro and what Hydro ownership has accomplished for the people of Ontario

Cheese Makers Ass'n. Double Prizes For Herd Competition

A meeting of the executive of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association was held in Belleville on Friday afternoon last, at the office of J. L. Irwin, cheese grader for the district.

The main item of business discussed was the matter of a herd competition for 1934. As a result it was decided that prizes will be offered for the competition and they will be doubled over the value offered in 1933. Each of the ten districts making up the territory of the association is to raise $50 and this $500 will be supplemented by a like amount for championship prizes by the association.

Edward W. Grange Former Napaneean Dies at Ottawa

PROMINENT NEWSPAPERMAN

News of the sudden death at Ottawa, of Edward W. Grange, brother of Miss Helen A. Grange and Mrs. O. S. Lailey of Napanee, and son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Grange, was received in town on Tuesday, January 30th. Although he had not been in the best of health for some time, Mr. Grange had been at his office as late as Monday, but was taken seriously ill on that day and his passing occurred about eleven o'clock the same evening.

Outstanding Newspaperman

An outstanding Canadian newspaperman, Edward W. Grange was also widely known in the Country through his association with the great world news agency, Reuters of which he had been the Canadian manager for the past eleven years. Through him was supplied the greater part of Canadian political and other news, was widely recognized and he had enjoyed the confidence and friendship of members of successive governments in Canada, regardless of politics.

"Eddie" Grange, as he was familiarly known to his friends, was typical of the finest type of newspaperman. After completing his preliminary education in the Napanee schools, he attended Toronto University and graduated in Modern History from Victoria College, in 1899. He entered newspaper work in Toronto with the Toronto News. Later he joined the staff of the Montreal Empire, with which paper he remained until he became parliamentary reporter for the Globe, at Ottawa.

In 1917, Mr. Grange unsuccessfully contested the riding of Lennox and Addington, as Liberal candidate in the Dominion election of that year. Since joining Reuters, as their Canadian general manager, eleven years ago, he has devoted all his time and energies to that agency. In 1930, in the interests of his work, he made the round trip to England from Canada, on the airship R-100.

Born at Napanee

Edward Wilkinson Grange was 57 years of age. He was born at Napanee the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Grange and was of U.E.L. and Scottish descent. He is survived by his widow, formerly Marion McDougall, daughter of the late Lorne McDougall, first Auditor General of Canada; two sons, Alexander and Samuel, both of Ottawa; Helen A. Grange and Mrs. O. S. Lailey of Napanee; Mrs. H. B. Morin, Bath, Maine; and Miss Constance Grange of New York city. One brother, George, died about three years ago as the result of injuries received during a wartime crash, while on service with the R. C. A. F.

The Funeral Services

The funeral service was held on Friday, February 2nd, at his late residence, 407 Queen Street, Ottawa, to Beechwood Cemetery, with Rev. W. H. Leathem, minister of St. Andrew's Church, officiating.

Among those present were members of the family, representatives of the Press and business organizations, members of the Press gallery, Government officials and many personal friends. Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Opposition and a personal friend of long-standing, was also among the mourners.

TOWN COUNCIL

of Nurses. He reviewed the work of the nurse in the year. Last year she made 2079 visits, attended 114 cases, made 1097 bedside visits, of which 133 were pain visits and 135 part pain. She collected $258.00 from all visits. Her salary had been reduced 10 %, to $1350.00.

Deputy Reeve Wilson asked if the Council thought it necessary to employ a Victorian Order Nurse. He considered the work she did as excellent, but felt all there were many nurses in the town and county who did not have steady work, that one of them might be employed for the work at less money.

On motion of Councillors Cowling and Morden, the usual grant of $300 to the V. O. N. was passed.

Reeve Hutchison, chairman of Market and Police gave the report of his committee for the month 28 complaints had been investigated 11 arrests were made, 4 summons served. Police court cases 15. 203 transients had been given overnight lodging. Fines and fees paid $6.50.

The chief recommended that a dog catcher be appointed, on account of the numerous complaints received of damage done to lawn and gardens, by dogs.

The department report was adopted.

W. S. Exley presented the Social Welfare report. (Printed in another column.)

Re Stopping Trains

Reeve Hutchison introduced the matter of trying to have the fast C. N. R. trains stop at Napanee. He said that the present arrangement was very unsatisfactory and that the town and countryside were losing business as a result. The matter could be put before the Railway Board or the Minister of Railways.

Following discussion it was moved by Messrs. Hutchison and Wilson that Mayor Tustin, Reeve Hutchison and Deputy Reeve Wilson be a deputation to interview the Railway Board and the Railways Minister Motion Carried.

Vouchers were given the Treasurer for payments made by him during January.

It was moved by Councillors Cowling and Hutchison, and carried that an account be rendered J. H. Fitzpatrick for the rental fee for the town hall for the Warden's banquet.

It was moved by Councillors Cowling and Morden, Hutchison carried, that the Streets and Social Welfare Committee confer on the matter of opening the quarry again as a relief measure.

Armouries Not Available

Councillor Cowling reported that the Department of National Defence Building Committee would not be available for the use of the market. The matter was referred to Reeve Hutchison for further investigation.

A motion by Reeve Hutchison and Deputy Reeve Wilson that a grant of $15.00 be made to the I. O. D. E., to assist in the dental care of poor children, lost.

Mayor Tustin expressed the sympathy of the Council in the bereavement of Councillor Morden, whose brother recently died, and to Clerk W. A. Grange, whose cousin passed away, last week.

After the passing of accounts, Council adjourned.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

The Kingston North-End outfit, which was supposed to have played an exhibition game of hockey here on Wednesday night last, phoned at 4 o'clock in the afternoon to say they couldn't come. This is nothing new for a Kingston team—it has happened before.

However, the local management were fortunate in being able to catch Grills Garage on an open night and they came down, only to be whipped by the locals to the tune of 6-1. Out of all fairness though, it should be said that they had a gruelling game the night before and were not at top form.

The feature of the night was the all round playing of young Harry Leary. A 14 year old lad who has come up from Eddie Watts' juvenile league. Harry is developing into a clever skater, back-checks well and plays his position well. He notched a pretty goal early in the game on a solo effort that made the Belleville goalie look bad.

The schedule for the Boys' Welfare League is nearing its end and the play-offs are being arranged. The Bruins have had a good season with plenty of ice and the finals will be keenly contested.

Watch for the announcement of the games and come up and see what the future stars of local hockey look like. You'll be surprised and delighted, and see for yourself that Napanee won't lack for hockey players in the future.

The Town League winds up its schedule this week and the boys will likely jump right into the play-offs. Meakes finished in first place with the Bruisers next and then the Town "Wildcats."

The Wildcats and Britners will battle first to see who meets the Deseronto lads for the Davis Cup and the honors for the 1933-34 season. The ice is in excellent condition and some good contests are found to result before the championship is settled.

Announcements are now out for the Skating Carnival to be held on Friday of this week and a long list of events has been lined up.

A list of the events is posted at the rink and in the window of Fred Hooper's Barber Shop, where the various prizes will be displayed.

There will be two door prizes in addition to favours for the children. Mr. Epplett's Boys Band will furnish the music and a real effort is being made to make the evening a real success.

One of our operatives has just reported that a well known basketball team in town has one of the softball experts rounding up a team for him for next season. It looks as though the annual fight over signing players is starting early this year.

Balder and Better ?

It seems rather tantalising to be told, on the authority of Reuter and its leading French phrenologist," that "religious men tend to be bald" and yet to be given no reason for this unexpected sign of grace. All of the phrenologist says, apparently, is that "long and painstaking observation has convinced him that the most devout men are invariably thin on the top." He has, of course, got Balder on his side, for we know that the unfortunate infants who said "Go up, thou bald head !" touched him on a raw spot, with highly disastrous consequences to themselves. But apart from that instance there does not appear to be any specially classical authority for an assumption that can only be regarded as a response required by the French phrenologist's proposition. There is nothing in popular phrenology to support his theory. "To go bald-headed" for anything or person is not usually reckoned a sign of the virtuous life.

Perhaps the theory is regarded as a sort of compensation prize; the bald man has lost his hair but preserved, and even enhanced his reputation. But does that mean that the man with any amount of hair has lost it and is, on the evidence of his head and brain, the classed not among the balder and better sheep but the giddy and hair-infested goats ? And can a man be addicted to hair restorer and still preserve any links with the virtuous life ? The whole subject seems most embarrassing to people who are with or without a well-appointed thatch.—Miscellany

THOUSANDS OF PIECES MAKE UP THIS TABLE

Five hundred hours of patient, skillful work went into the making of an inlaid table recently completed by George Ridgway, Hamilton, Ont., crossing watchman, according to an article in the current issue of the Canadian National Railways Magazine. Ridgway used no less than 4,816 separate pieces of wood, more than 2,000 in the top alone, the surface of which is two feet square. Among the woods, all used in their natural colors and beautifully and intricately matched, are : apple, ash, beech, birch, baywood, basswood, cherry, plum, cedar, elm, fir, gumwood, ironwood, mahogany, mulberry, maple, light oak, brown oak, pine, black walnut, light walnut and satin walnut.

A Little Encouragement

"An American professor says that it is possible to sterilise milk by subjecting it to the sound waves set up by a high-pitched musical reed."

Down in the kitchen something stirred—
The voice of Mary Jane
In strains that have been often heard,
And sometimes heard with pain
But gratefully we now receive
Her vocal range and span—
We like to hear the lass achieve
The highest note she can.

For we have had, to our surprise,
A scientific tip
That high-pitched notes can sterilise
So let the music rip.
That Mary's soaring song may earn
Approval, not attack—
The milk, perhaps, is on the turn
And she may coax it back.

That benefit we might have got
By charging somewhat steep—
Refrigerators cost a lot.
But melody is cheap.
So keep it up, you maid, in top.
Improve the shining hour—
Tip us a burst of melody to stop
The milk from going sour.

Simple Rules prevent INDIGESTION

Eat in moderation; work and sleep with windows open; play outdoors; breathe fresh air, not forgetting recreation. Do not worry. Go to bed in decent time, and enjoy a sparkling glass of Andrews Liver Salt once or twice each week.

These simple, sensible rules should keep you free from indigestion and the headaches and body weariness that go hand in hand with the disorder. They will help you become and keep healthy and stay healthy, for this very natural reason.

Even though you may be regular in your habits, you are probably accumulating a trace of incomplete elimination. Thousands of people suffer from this condition and do not realize it. Others accept the fact that they do not realize that regularity alone does not mean complete functioning of the eliminative organs.

The Andrews Health Rule is to assure this complete functioning. Follow these faithfully. Go to bed early to-night after a refreshing, sparkling glass of Andrews Liver Salt or Laxative Andrews first thing in the morning. Then feel goodbye to nervousness, indigestion, headaches, and body weariness, for Andrews help Nature to purify and cleanse the whole system. All druggists sell Andrews—35c and 60c. OBITUARY

THE LATE MRS. WM. FRIZZELL

A sad gloom was cast over the neighborhood when word was received that Elizabeth Frizzell, widow of the late William Frizzell, had passed away at her home, in Tamworth, on Sunday, January 21st. Her death followed a short illness from heart trouble.

Although she was over eighty years of age, she was very active until about three weeks before her death. She leaves to mourn her loss a daughter, Annie May, of Toronto, and one son, Herbert, at home; two brothers, Elisha Rikley, of Selby, and Jacob, of Enterprise, and eight grandchildren.

Her funeral, which was held in the United Church, at Tamworth, was ably conducted by the Rev. M. P. Brown. The remains were placed in Tamworth vault to await burial in the family plot in Tamworth cemetery. The bearers were James Rowe, Way, Manson York, Wm. Dowling, Joseph Kidd, Bernard McKeown, and Robert McLaughlin.

MRS. JOSEPH LEWIS

Following an illness extending over the past eight months, the death occurred on Monday of Mrs. Joseph (Lewis, at her home on Mill street.

Mrs. Lewis, whose maiden name was Maude Bradshaw, was born at Roslin 48 years ago. She was the daughter of the late David Bradshaw, and Mrs. Bradshaw. For the last sixteen years, following her marriage to Mr. Lewis, she had been a resident of Napanee.

She was a woman of fine character and bright disposition and had made many friends, who regret her untimely death.

She is survived by her husband and three sisters, Mrs. Leonard Markle, Mrs. Allan Lewis and Mrs. Thomas Bowen; and two brothers, John and Peter Bradshaw.

The funeral is being conducted today (Wednesday) at the home with interment at Riverview Cemetery.

The Late Mrs. Henry Briscoe

The body of the late Mrs. Henry Briscoe, of Toronto, was conveyed to Napanee on Saturday and placed in the vault to await interment in the spring.

Mrs. Briscoe was the wife of Henry Briscoe, who was for some years an accountant with the Rathbun Company in Deseronto. She was the eldest daughter of the late Thomas Gibbes Pile, late collector of customs at Deseronto. She was born at Barbados, Indies, and came to Deiseronto many years ago with her parents, where she married and lived until about twenty years ago. She was a sister of the late Mrs. Hamil Deroche and of Mrs. D. W. McClew, formerly of Napanee but now a resident of Toronto.

The funeral service was held on Friday afternoon at St. Cyprian's Church, Toronto. On account of the illness of her husband and of her sister, Mrs. McClew, the body of Mrs. Briscoe was accompanied to Napanee by her niece, Mrs. Costigan and Mrs. Costigan's son, the Rev. William Costigan of Niagara Falls.

Nova Scotia Benefits By Co-operative Efforts

Rise of the co-operative movement has brought new prosperity to communities in Nova Scotia's eastern counties. Two years ago the farmers and fisherfolk of these counties faced a bleak outlook; they could find no markets for their products; food and clothing were scarce, and poverty was rampant. Today, though there is no boom, there is contentment. And the prospect is not cheerless.

Co-operation brought the change. Co-operation and the steady guidance of a far-seeing group of educators who took in the situation and set about to rectify it. Rev. Dr. M. M. Coady, director of Extension for St. Francis Xavier University, had been preaching the doctrine of co-operative efforts for years. With his assistant Director, Prof. A. B. MacDonald, he started to convert theory into practice.

Founded on Knowledge

They believed that co-operative effort, to be successful, must be founded on a knowledge of its principles. So they travelled first through the communities and established study clubs. By lamplight, in little groups, the villagers studied co-operation.

When they had grasped the ideas back of the movement, there began the real work. Co-operative stores were organized in each centre. Stores, canning plants—even saw mills—were all run by community efforts. Goods were sold, and services rendered at cost. And soon the villagers began to reap the results of their work.

Consider Little Dover, for instance. Times were hard there a couple of years ago. There were no markets for fish. There was no mill for the lobster. Even vegetables were scarce. Now Little Dover has a co-operative lobster canning factory. Its profits for last year—one year—exceeded the total paid up capital to date.

Rock Bottom Prices

The milk problem was a puzzle for a time. Cows found the grazing scant on Little Dover's rugged hills, and they were not very productive. The villagers just went ahead and brought in goats. As for the vegetable question, the whole village simply chartered a schooner and sent her to Prince Edward Island for a cargo at rock-bottom prices. The cargo was sold here at cost, and there are enough vegetables now to last the winter.

At Canso it was a question of shortage of clothing. The university's extension department formed a company to distribute second hand clothing, and set this villagers to work. Women and girls, too, were placed at work on spinning wheels. Now they turn out, tweeds, blanket material, toweling and cotton, which are sold at cost.

They are turning attention there, also, to the problem of more efficient marketing for their fish and lobsters. Demand has been voiced for government leadership in the broadening of markets, and the fishermen hope to do away with the middle-man's profits through orderly marketing.

The co-operative movement at Larry's River, started with the formation of a study club. This grew into a co-operative credit union. Funds came out of the union for a co-operative lobster canning plant now functioning. The villagers are next to establish a co-operative store.

Fort Felix already has its store, and its lobster factory, operated on the same plan as the others. A feature of the co-operative ventures is that, in every possible case, commodities are bought from other co-operatives when they are not available at home. For example, Reserve Mines study club bought 20 cases of blueberries from Larry's River villagers last year, and quantities of hay and graded turkeys from farmers co-operatives.

Better Farm Procedure

Through the farming districts of the eastern mainland counties and Cape Breton Island are scattered farming co-opratives. They operate co-operative creameries, wool-growers' associations and the like, and often at a general improvement in farm procedure.

But in both farmlands and villages, they are working towards one common object. The prosperity of a country depends in great measure on the enlightenment of its people, says one of the extension department's dictums. Prosperity is their goal, and they are working toward it, an example to Canada of what may be done by community "enlightenment" and enterprise.

Cows' Lullabies

Music "for milking-cows is, of course, no new notion, though it was always vocal music in the form of songs. If we are to take as history the case of the cat fiddling till the excited cow jumped over the moon, in the Scottish Highlands the milking-songs, or "cows' lullabies," were of a soothing character. How these Highland cows would have responded to Wagner or Bizet it is impossible to say, though two milking-cows noted by Mrs. Kennedy-Fraser show a decided leaning to syncopated rhythms. Martin, speaking in 1703 of the custom in the Western Isles of covering an ordinary call with the skin of a dead one in order to deceive the latter's mother into thinking it was her own calf when it ran to it, says that if the mother "discovers the Cheat then she grows enraged for some time, and the last remedy to pacify her is to use the Sweetest Voice and sing all the time of milking her."—Miscellany, in the Manchester Guardian.

Belleville Presbyterial Executive Meets

Despite the very treacherous condition of the roads due to the glaring ice, sixteen members of this executive ventured forth with courage and faith to attend their meeting which was held in Bridge Street United Church on January 25th. This meeting was called to pass the reports before sending them on to Branch officials and to plan for the coming Presbyterial which will be held in Napanee, at Trinity United Church, on Wednesday and Thursday, March 14 and 15.

Mrs. Corkill opened with devotions and then the president, Mrs. Anderson, presided over the two sessions. Greetings from our Branch President Mrs. W. L. Smyth, of Pembroke, were read. The various secretaries and vice-presidents gave a resume of their accomplishments during the past year. Mrs. Knox reported 81 auxiliaries, replying with a membership of 2434, meetings held 961, subscribers to Missionary Monthly 969. Christmas greetings were sent Miss Paul and to Japan. The name of Mrs. Bruce Finlay of Strathcona, was submitted as our nomination to Branch for Mission and Baby Band Secretary.

The finances are not all in as yet, but Mrs. Corkill hopes to remit to Branch fifteen thousand, six hundred dollars. She reported twelve new life members and the six baby bands rent her $12.42.

In the absence of Mrs. Street her report was read and to date she has received fifty replies on Christian stewardship.

Mrs. Palmateer has twenty C.G.I.T. groups, an increase of five, and these contributed $54.69. The Fall Rally is the big event of the year and a great stimulus to winter study.

Several members of the W.C.T.U. served a delicious luncheon, which was duly appreciated.

Mrs. Bailey reported thirty-four bands replying and urged a Conference for Band Leaders.

Mrs. Hoare has 293 Associate Helpers who take 61 monthlies and eleven have accepted active services in their auxiliaries and these women contributed $154.79. One regular meeting will be set aside in 1934 for the Associate Helpers' Department.

Mrs. Hooper told of various Auxiliaries who have staged splendid "Peace" programmes during the year and urged that a copy of "Interdependence" be purchased from the League of Nations Society, Ottawa, for a quarter. The little pamphlet "So This is Geneva," is also good.

Mrs. Kidd has received 72 replies from 72 auxiliaries, 7 Y.W.A.'s, 6 Circles, 6 C.G.I.T. groups and 19 mission bands. These organizations have sent to the 15 newspapers 1830 items of missionary news. The work is steadily growing due to the loyal press secretaries throughout the Presbyterial.

Mrs. Reddick received 79 parcels of clothing, valued at $1441.61. The need has been great. Clothing and shoes for boys and girls 7, 8, and 9 years of age will be greatly appreciated this year. Letters of appeal from local ministers are to be sent direct to Mrs. Reddick, not to the auxiliaries.

Mrs. Empey received 32 replies and a large number of strangers have been welcomed and sick visited.

Mrs. Williams received 43 replies. 109 study books taken, besides 6 C.G.I.T. and 24 Band Study Books. She outlined the new reading contest sponsored by the Branch. It was decided that our Presbyterial accept the contest and that five dollars be donated to purchase books for the award to the auxiliary with the highest percentage. Each individual member to keep tab of all missionary books read and then passed over to the literature secretary.

Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Knox were appointed to draft a resolution to Geneva.

The five Vice-Presidents all reported the various activities in their particular section.

In the absence of four secretaries no reports were heard from Temperance, Young Women's Work, Baby Bands, Missionary Monthly and World Friends.

Considerable discussion took place on various items of our work and the programme committee, composed of six members, met at the close to arrange for the Presbyterial annual meeting.

The World Day of Prayer will be held on February 16th.

There will not be any Branch meeting this year but a full Branch executive will convene early in March to close the year's work.

Members present were: Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Corkill, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Dafoe, Mrs. Switzer, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Haggerty, Mrs. Palmateer, Mrs. Reddick, Mrs. Hoare, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Empey, Mrs. MacMullen, Mrs. Knox, and one visitor, Mrs. E. Farnsworth.

Respectfully submitted by Florence M. MacMullen, Presbyterial Press Secretary.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ORGANIZATIONS

The Y. P. S. meeting of January 26th was in charge of Marion Winter the social and literary convener. As Robert Burns' birthday anniversary occurs on Jan. 25, the program was devoted to Scotch literature and music. Marion Winter read an interesting paper dealing with great Scottish writers such as Burns in particular, "Annie Laurie" was sung by Mrs. Ted Wilde, and Mr. Smith read a humorous Scotch poem.

The business of the evening was conducted and the current events were given by the president. Many interesting programmes have been planned for the coming two months. The usual recreational period was omitted.

At the close of the meeting the members and many other had a very enjoyable skating party on a large sheet of ice, east of the village.

The meeting next week will be in charge of Ida Dudgeon, the Christian Fellowship Convener.

Women's Institute Social Evening

The members of the Napanee Women's Institute were at home to about 150 of their friends on Wednesday evening, January 31st, at a Progressive euchre party in Argyll Lodge rooms.

The party was arranged by Mrs. W. E. Exley, president of the Institute, with the assistance of a committee of the members. Thirty-two tables of euchre were in play during the evening and quite a number of other guests were present who were not playing cards.

Four prizes were given. Miss Irene Wismar won the ladies' first, Stewart Sheltor, the gentleman's prize, Mr. F. A. Correll the gentleman's consolly and Mrs. Mark Graham the ladies' novelty.

Cards were played until 11 o'clock and then refreshments were served. Later, Mrs. Clarence Reid presided at the piano and played for dancing.

The members of the Institute feel very grateful for the support given by the public.

Don't demand public improvements and lower taxes in the same breath.

League of Nations Becomes World's Drug Dictator

Included among the many important functions of the League of Nations is that of "Drug Dictator." For the first time, world control of the manufacture and distribution of any product is being attempted. Under the jurisdiction of the Narcotics Supervisory Board, has been placed the world's requirements of morphine, heroin and cocaine. The needs for all nations for 1934 has been fixed at 47 tons.

Under the terms of the 1931 treaty the League was given power to limit the manufacture and distribution of drugs to "strictly medical and scientific requirements." 41 countries had ratified the treaty on January 1st of this year. The countries failing to do so are Japan, China, Russia and the Argentine.

Licensed Distribution

By means of a system of import and export licenses, it is hoped to maintain the word's output of drugs at 47 tons. Illicit manufacture, it is hoped, may be dealt with through treaties. The estimates of the requirements for 1934 cover 68 nations and 114 territories, for even in nations which failed to subscribe to the drug treaty, the League has the right to fix a quota of sale and manufacture.

Nations' Requirements

Japan, although not a signatory to the convention, submitted estimates of requirements. She asked for 37½ of the world allotment for heroin, 20% of cocaine and 10% of the morphine. Korea asked for more heroin than any other nation. Great Britain needs 3,110 lbs. of morphine 707 lbs. of heroin and 673 lbs. of cocaine. The United States wants ore-third more morphine than any other nation but no needs no heroin.

AN IMMUNE FOREST

A rather peculiar case of natural protection against forest insect pests is occurred in a larch forest north of Belleville. Every 10 years there is more than a mile long and nearly as wide, and is composed mainly of larch growing in a wet alder swamp. The water table is at the ground level throughout the year, except for a short period in midsummer, and for that reason larch sawfly cocoons have not been able to hibernate successfully. The trees vary in age in the main stand from 90 to 216 years. In surrounding areas, where attempts to completely the larch sawfly outbreaks. A similar case has been reported from Eastern Manitoba and other instances have been observed by the Lake States.—Dr. J. M. Swaine Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture in "Scientific Agriculture."

SHE COULD HARDLY DRESS HERSELF

For Pain in Back But Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Her Well.

Pembroke Lady Has Now Used Dodd's For Six Years

Pembroke, Ont., Feb. 6. (Special). "I have been a steady user of Dodd's Pills for the past six years," writes Mrs. A. F. Shultz, of this city. "I have been bothered with my Kidneys, and before using Dodd's Kidney Pills could hardly dress myself, in the morning. The pain in my back has now gone and my bladder trouble has improved 75%. I can now rest well at night."

Good Health is so important to our success and happiness that every opportunity should be taken to learn how others keep it

It was through this readiness to be guided by others that relief came to Mrs. Shultz.

When the kidneys become clogged and out of order they fail to strain the impurities and waste matter from the blood stream and sickness surely follows.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Feb 5 — A very unfortunate accident occurred Monday morning of last week, at the home of Leonard Flynn, near here, when Mrs. Flynn was very severely injured when the water tank which was connected to the kitchen stove, exploded with terrific force. Some idea of the force of the explosion can be imagined when a piece of the tank was blown through the ceiling and several windows were blown out of the house. Mrs. Flynn, who was standing near the stove received severe bruises and several broken bones. She was rushed to the Hotel Dieu at Kingston where the latest reports show she is on the road to recovery. The extreme cold weather on Sunday night is thought to be the cause of the explosion.

On Thursday afternoon the regular annual meeting of the patrons of the Enterprise Cheese Factory was held in Reech's Hall, with a very large number in attendance. Gordon Wagar acted in the capacity of chairman, with H. E. Vannest, as secretary. The report of the auditor, M. H. Switzer, was received and the returns passed off very quietly. The Enterprise Factory has a record that no other factory in Canada enjoys. It has been under the management of one family for the past sixty-three years. The late Thomas Clancy first operated the factory in 1871.

On Saturday, February 3rd, Mrs. Elizabeth Bell (Mrs. Wm Bell) celebrated her eighty-first birthday. The aged lady was the recipient of a number of birthday gifts and a very large number of friends and neighbours called throughout the day to extend their felicitations. Mrs. Bell was born and has spent her whole life in this vicinity.

On Monday evening of last week, the Enterprise hockey team journeyed to Newburgh and played a return game with the Newburgh boys, the game ending in favor of Enterprise by a score of 10-2. Newburgh were leading for the first half of the game but a rally by the Enterprise boys in the second half proved decisive. The trip was made by the Tamworth bus, about twenty fans accompanying the boys. On Saturday afternoon the Enterprise boys defeated Moscow, on the local rink, by a score of 2-0. The game was very fast and clean, only a few penalties being handed out. This win places the Enterprise team in a position for the play-offs. Bell of Enterprise and King of Colebrooke were the referees.

A very successful pie social was held in the basement of the United Church on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid.

The heavy fall of snow on Wednesday night, disrupted the service of the Tamworth-Kingston bus for several days.

Car and Train Collision Causes Death of Everton Smith

Everton Smith, a former resident of Moscow, and a brother of A. E. Smith, of Napanee, was fatally injured on Thursday, February 8th, in a collision between a C. P. R. train at Midhurst Crossing, near Barrie, and a heavily loaded truck in which he was a passenger. The driver of the truck, Herbert Armstrong of Stayner, was injured, but will recover.

Mr. Smith was on his way to Collingwood to visit a brother and was being given a ride by Armstrong. He was removed, following the accident to a Toronto Hospital where he died the next day.

The late Mr. Smith was born at Petworth, about fifty years ago. For some years he operated a blacksmith shop at Moscow, and later for a period of ten years he was on the provincial police force, stationed at Toronto and Hamilton. Two years ago his wife met a sudden death in a street car accident on Bloor Street in Toronto. His only daughter died about six years ago, leaving one small child, who lived with her grandfather, Mr. Smith, since.

During the summer of last year, Mr. Smith was in Napanee, where he was engaged in training horses at the Napanee Driving Park.

The late Mr. Smith was one of a large family, eight of whom survive him. They are A. E. Smith, Napanee; Howard, Collingwood; William, Centreville, Arthur, Port Colborne; Eugene, Odessa; Mrs. Delina Port Colborne; Mrs. Hubel, Corbyville, and Mrs. Kerr, Belleville.

The remains were taken on Saturday to the vault at Enterprise, to be interred in the spring, at which time a memorial service will be held.

Steering Gear Breaks Causing Accident On Highway

On Sunday morning about 7 o'clock one of the large Smith Transports of Colborne, met with an accident about two and half miles east of Napanee, just east of Fairview school.

The transport, driven by Charles Wagner, broke its Pitman arm, part of the steering gear and plunged through the guard rails on the roadside and landed in a field on the side.

The truck was loaded with a mixed cargo of freight, which was scattered about. Four of the guard rails on the road side were broken.

Fortunately the driver was uninjured.

Later in the day another truck came and transferred the load. It had some difficulty in getting out of the field.

Saturday's Market

Saturday's market was about the smallest of the season. Only four or five farmers braved the cold. Any vegetables that were brought in had to be covered well to prevent freezing.

Pork sold at 14 and 15c per lb. for front and hind quarters. Beef was 5½ and 6½ cents per lb. Eggs were 30c. per dozen. Butter, 27c per lb.

Wholesale Prices

Commencement Exercises At Deseronto High School

Pupils Present the Play "Mr. Bob"

As the Naylor theatre is definitely closed, Deseronto High School Commencement was held Friday evening in the White Hall. As in previous years, it attracted a large audience, although the weather left little to the imagination with regard to frigidity.

After a hearty opening chorus, diplomas and awards were presented. Mr. Arnold, chairman of the Board took charge of this part of the evening, and the presentations were made by Mr. Rendell. Mr. Stewart, Father Lacey and Rev. C. E. Radcliffe. Rev. A. G. Cameron was unavoidably absent.

Presentation of Memorial Scholarship

In connection with the Memorial Scholarship, won by Beatrice Harrold, Rev. A. D. Waite read the honour roll, and two minutes silence was observed. As valedictorian, Maurice Harrold spoke ably and convincingly from the graduating and leaving class. Tribute was paid by the different speakers to the spirit of harmony and eager co-operation which pervades the local High School.

The boys gave an interesting exhibition of pyramid work, and the girls, clothed in old-fashioned costume, danced a stately minuet, demonstrating the "winning ways of grandmother." Thomas Interpreted vividly Pauline Johnston's "Oglala," and graciously returned with a humorous encore. Isabel Sharpe contributed a violin solo.

Pupils Present Play

No Commencement is entirely complete without a play by the students, and "Mr. Bob" proved no exception. The cast consisted of Lee Rowsome, Ruth Schell, Mary Hawley, Edna O'Sullivan, Douglas Hough Murray Dimmell and Ernest Hopping, and each did his full share to develop the very amusing plot. At various times during the evening, instrumental music was provided by Arthur John, Herbert Gaulin and Arthur O'Roy.

Poultry Association Elect Officers For 1934

The annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington Poultry Association was held at the Agricultural office on Monday evening, February 5th.

A review of the year's work showed that the association had experienced a successful year's activity in 1933. Several interesting meetings had been held, at some of which outstanding speakers had been present.

Following the election of officers and the business session, refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Extreme Cold Weather Bursts Water Pipes

The cold weather experienced so far in February sets a record not surpassed or equalled in many years in Napanee. Almost every day of the month, until the last week end, the thermometer registered below zero all through the day and night.

Thermometers in various parts of the town showed considerable variation. Thursday night was—the coldest. Before Friday morning a temperature of from 30 to 40 degrees below zero was registered. All day Friday the mercury hung around 15 degrees below.

The plumbers were kept busy answering emergency calls to thaw out frozen water pipes. Many homes and stores which had never before been troubled in this way, were cut off from water supply by the frost.

Fortunately, no serious fires occurred during the extreme cold weather. On Friday evening about 10.30 the firemen answered a call to the home of Mr. Richard McNeil on Bridge Street. It was found that a chimney fire was the cause of the alarm. It was quickly put out without damage to the home. The family were put to some inconvenience through smoke, and by the extreme cold, as a result of windows and doors being opened for some time.

Derailed Freight Cause of Delay

Accident on C. N. R. at Ashtville. Slows up Aeast-West Service.

Owing to a derailment of a Canadian National freight train, near Ashtville, Ont., on the morning of February 11th, passenger trains had to be diverted by way of Ottawa, whereby considerable delay in services resulted.

Services thus affected included included train No. 5, leaving Montreal at 9.45 a.m., for Toronto and Chicago; train No. 7, in reverse direction, due Montreal at 4:15 p.m., and train No. 15, pool train leaving Montreal for Toronto and Chicago at 3:00 p.m.

Damage ensuing from the derailment was slight and it was stated by officials that no one suffered any injuries. — Toronto Globe.

Napanee Relief Costs Compare Favorably With Other Towns

In regards to necessary expenditure for relief, the town of Napanee is in a fortunate position compared to some other places.

As reported in last week's issue, the relief expenditure for January was $1,028.76, including all costs as well as the opening of the relief kitchen maintained for transients. 233 people requiring relief were on the list.

In Picton, with practically the same population, 265 persons are on relief, requiring an expenditure of $1,843.77 in January. Trenton with a population of a little more than twice that of Napanee, paid out $9,300 in January, for relief purposes.

Venerable Archdeacon Dumbrille Attends Consecration

On Friday of last week, Venerable Archdeacon Dumbrille, vicar of St. Mary Magdalen Church, Napanee, was at Kingston, where he was the special preacher at the consecration of the new St. Mark's Anglican church.

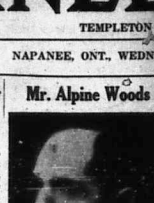
The ceremony of dedication was performed by the Bishop of Ontario, the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, in the presence of a large number of people and visiting clergy. The rector of the church is Rev. W. G. Swayne, formerly rector of the Anglican church at Bath. Other members of the Anglican clergy who were present were the rector's son, Rev. Hope Swayne of Tweed, Rev. G. G. Wright of Christ's Church, Belleville, Rural Dean A. B. Carswell of Marmora and Rev. A. S. McConnell, of Stirling.

The ceremony of consecration took place at 11:00 a.m. and was followed by the celebration of Holy Communion, administered by the bishop.

After the service, luncheon was served by the ladies of the church in the basement, for the visiting clergy and the building committee.

The church is a very attractive building, modelled on old English lines. The money for its erection was left some years ago by former parishioners, Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson. The corner stone was laid on September 30th last, under Masonic auspices, by W. S. Herrington, K.C., F.R.S.C., Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, of the Masonic Orderr.

Mr. Alpine Woods



Chairman Board of Education For 22nd Term

The honor of being elected to the position of chairman of the Board of Education in Napanee for the 22nd term is well deserved by Mr. Wood. His interest in the work of education continues to increase with each added year of service on the Board.

Premier Bennett Says Country's Credit Has Reached Limit

Canada's financial obligations are realities, not things of theory or subjects for debate, Righ Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada told the members of the Canadian Club at lunch in the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal.

It was no use thinking that the Dominion could launch into a wild program of public works in order to bring back prosperity more rapidly, Mr. Bennett said, saying the capacity of the people of Canada had reached the limit. It was useless to think of borrowing more because the people could not pay more interest.

He defended the West against charges of extravagance often heard in the East. It was true, they might have spent freely and perhaps unwisely. But it must not be forgotten that in the past decade the 2,000,000 people west of the lakes had added $10,000,000,000 of real wealth to the Dominion of Canada. "Dealing in such figures does not add wealth. Trading on margin does not create any new wealth, and these westerners were after all extravagant with their own, just as you perhaps have been with yours," he declared.

St. Andrew's Men's Club Addressed By Jack Metzler

On Friday last, the men of St. Andrew's met in their regular monthly meeting. Supper was held at seven o'clock. After supper Dr. Morden, the president, introduced Mr. Metzler. Dr. Morden paid a high tribute to Mr. Metzler's ability and ambition. Mr. Metzler, he said, had spent three years in Europe studying and observing and for that reason, was able to bring first hand knowledge out of the turmoil of that continent.

Mr. Metzler gave an informal account of the situation in Europe as he had observed it. He dealt briefly with the conditions which had led to the present turmoil in France. He was of the opinion, however, that the present disturbance is a temporary upheaval and will not sweep the country in a revolution as some are predicting. Mr. Metzler then spoke from two letters which he had received that day in which friends of his gave a vivid account of the way in which the citizens were preparing for evenhualities by tearing up the seats in parks, the trees stands and the iron rails, and with these they were barricading the streets.

The speaker when he came to deal with Germany, gave an account of the Hitler revolution, through which he had gone. He pointed out that the discouragement and disillusionment following the treaty of Versailles had, to a large extent, sapped the hope and ambition from the German people so that they were ready to follow anyone who promised better things. Hitler was a powerful orator who had the key away any group. That, with his emphasis on nationalism had given him the power he now possesses.

After the set address, Mr. Metzler gave the men an opportunity to ask questions. For half an hour he was plied with questions from those present. In this way, Mr. Metzler was able to clear up many questions in the minds of his hearers.

At the close of the meeting, Dr. Morden expressed the appreciation of the men for the informative and illuminating address.

Judge Deroche Hears Race Horse Case In Division Court

A case involving two residents of Napanee, was heard in Division Court last Wednesday, before Judge Deroche, of Belleville.

Robert Graham brought an action against Frank D. Marsh for $175.50 for horse training services. Mr. Marsh brought a counter claim against Mr. Graham for $150.20, made up of an account and entrance fees on horse races.

Mr. Graham admitted the claim for the $10.50 account, but disputed the other item.

Evidence showing that no agreement was made concerning the training of Marsh's seven horses, was accepted by Judge Deroche. A previous bargain to train a horse for half the winnings, led Mr. Graham to assume the same arrangement would hold in the case in question.

The Judge dismissed both claim and counter claim, but allowed Mr. Marsh the $10.50 account, which was not disputed by Mr. Graham.

Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., appeared for Mr. Marsh and Mr. J. W. Simpson, K. C., acted for Mr. Graham.

New Game Fish To be Reared at Glenora

Arrangements have been completed by the Department of Game and Fisheries, under Hon. George H. Challies, for the introduction to Ontario waters of the Kamloops trout and the Lake St. John salmon, or Ouananiche.

The department has already secured 20,000 eyed land-locked salmon eggs from the State of Vermont, and an equal quantity has been promised by the Fisheries Department of Quebec. Efforts to obtain a suitable quantity of eyed Kamloops trout eggs through the Federal Department of Fisheries, has also been effected.

It is the intention of the department, Mr. Challies stated, to experiment in the raising of these splendid specimens of game fish at the Provincial Hatchery at Glenora. By the end of 1937, the department hopes to be able to release quantities of fingerlings for stocking purposes in all the main inland waters of the province.

The Kamloops trout is a large-sized fish, slender in form, and related to the "steel head," though unlike the steel head it is not known to descend to the sea but remains permanently in fresh water. It is one of the most popular game fishes of the interior waters of British Columbia, and is highly regarded by the sporting fraternity.

The Lake St. John salmon, or Ouananiche, is a relative of the Atlantic salmon. It also spends its lifetime in fresh water, by choice rather than by necessity. Many anglers consider it unequalled as a game fish. In certain localities it will take the fly at any time, but the best fishing for it is reported to be late in May, when baits of various kinds may be used successfully.

Lodge "At - Home" Well Attended

Another of the series of lodge "At-Homes" sponsored by Argyll and No. 80 Oddfellows Lodges, was held in Argyll Lodge rooms, on Wednesday evening.

Notwithstanding extremely cold weather, a splendid number were present to enjoy the evening's entertainment. Thirty-five tables of euchre were in play. The winners were Mrs. Percy Huff, and Mr. Percy Huff-man and Mr. Morley Perry. The lady and gent prize was captured by Mrs. Carr.

Shannonville School Built in Year 1874, Is Prey to Flames

Belleville — Gutted by a raging fire, which blazed fiercely between floors and spread rapidly through the building early today, in spite of the efforts of nearly 100 volunteer firemen of the district to extinguish it, historic Shannonville School, of Tyendinaga School Section No. 1, is a mass of ruins. Only three brick walls are left standing of the building which was constructed in 1874. With the burning of the school, forty-five scholars are without accommodation, although it is expected that classes will be resumed in the Presbyterian Church, which stands near by.

Maurice Sager Gets Hearing This Week

Chief Watts returned on Wednesday of last week from Marysville, where he went to attend the trial of Maurice Sager, the Napanee youth who is being held on several charges by the New York police. The case will be heard immediately, but if he pleads not guilty it will be postponed until April.

Belleville Presbytery United Church of Canada Meets at Grace Church

Large-Sized Egg From Leghorn Hen

Mr. George H. Akey of Marysville brought into the office, recently, an unusually large hen's egg. It measured 8 x 6½ inches and was laid by a white Leghorn hen. The hen is one of a flock of 25 of the same breed. Mr. Akey has also 96 barred rocks. From the 121 hens he gets an average of 80 eggs per day, and all are good sized eggs.

1933 War Pensions Total $43,141,138

Ottawa. — Canada paid $43,141,138 for war pensions during 1933, according to information given in the House of Commons yesterday.

The total number of persons in respect of which pensions were paid was 240,640. The number of dependent pensioners was 18,745 and of disability pensioners, 77,967.

Witch Sets Fires, Family Believes

Odd Beliefs Revealed

Belleville. — Arrest of a 14-year-old Indian boy on the Indian Reservation in Tyendinaga on charges of arson in connection with four small fires in the room of the home of his grandparents, on Saturday and Sunday, January 27 and 28, led to the revelation of strange ideas held by some of the Indians as to the cause of the fire. The grandson told Constable John Kelly of the Provincial force, that some one had put a spell on her and an invisible witch was apparently setting the fires.

The officer found near the scene of the fire some burned matches, but could not secure what he thought satisfactory explanation from the members of the household in regard to these matches. The accused boy's police aid said on his arrest, that he had struck the matches.

Other members of the family were quite certain that no living person had been upstairs previous to either pair of fires discovered on Saturday and Sunday.

During the investigation by Constable Kelly, the grandmother of the accused produced a quart sealer purported to be a witch's bottle filled with old safety pins, small feathers, pieces of wool and other trinkets, all of which she said the officer has been placed by witches in her grandchildren's clothing for evil purpose. — The Globe, Toronto.

Year's Report Presented by Sec. J. E. Beckel

The Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada convened for its February meeting in Grace Church on Tuesday morning.

Road conditions made it impossible for some of the rural ministers and laymen to attend, but there was a fairly good representation of the members in attendance.

Rev. Robert Hall, the Chairman of Presbytery, was in the chair. Rev. James E. Beckel, Secretary, gave his report, which was accompanied by some comparisons with last year.

Secretary's Report

1. Membership. Total membership for 1933 is 19,625 a decrease of 94. 389 new members were received on profession of faith and 324 by letter. 269 were removed by death and 319 by erasing to be members. The erasing on the part of a few of the brethren is evidence that their roll is responsible, I believe, for the decrease.

2. There are 9,341 United Church families in this Presbytery, with 32,293 persons under pastoral oversight. 573 infant baptisms, 28 adult baptisms, 315 weddings, and 620 burials.

3. There are 166 Sunday Schools with a membership of 14,172, an increase in membership of 57. There are 154 through the week Religious Education organizations, of which 80 are Young People Societies, 21 Boys' Groups, 25 Girls' Groups. The membership of these groups is 4,230, an increase of 523. There are 162 Women's Missionary organizations with a membership of 3,739, a decrease of 86. There are 113 Ladies' Aids Societies with a membership of 3,318, a decrease of 3. In face of the present conditions, all our organizations are a very fine showing.

Finances. — Amount raised for ministers' salaries is $748,613.00, a decrease of $5,692.00. Amount raised for M. & M. Fund is $23,239.00, a decrease of $1,563.00 Amount raised by the W. M. S. was $16,608.00, a decrease of $872.00. Amount raised by Ladies' Aids and other Associations was $22,664.00, an increase of $2,760.00. Amount raised by Sunday Schools for all purposes was $18,572.00, an increase of $1,680.00; of this amount $2,960.00 was raised for the M. & M. Fund. Through the week organizations raised, for all purposes, $5,949.00, an increase of $1,196.00. Amount raised for Presbytery Fund was $1,681.00. All other purposes $4,268.00. Grand total raised for all purposes in Presbytery, as per line 46 was $203,296.00.

Addresses on Evangelism

Special emphasis at this session of Presbytery was laid on evangelism. With this in mind, two addresses were given in the morning on the subject, by Rev. Harry Pawson, of Trinity Church, Napanee, and Rev. H. W. Foley, of Springbrook.

Mr. Pawson said, in part:

We are being faced, as a church, by the fact that constantly we are losing members to religious organization who style themselves as representing an evangelical christianity, whereby they say we once had, but now have lost.

We can scarcely excuse ourselves for this on the grounds that such people belong to social, mental and emotional grades who find our church unconcerned, but who find in the so-called evangelical sects the thing they especially want.

The explanation we offer for this—disaffection of these folks toward our church and their consequent invitation toward "Evangel Hall" does not cover the eagerness and anxiety of those who are in the grip of the conviction of the Oxford groups. These people are of an entirely different class from the former.

These miscellaneous sects are frankly evangelical in their appeal, which stresses the personal relations to Christ.

Mr. Pawson dealt with some of the causes for the decline and neglect of the evangelical appeal. The first of these is the growth of the social consciousness, a conviction that a religion which does not strive for a revival application of religion is no religion.

In the second place, because evangelism seems to be bound up with, and too literal interpretation of the Bible. It is under the influence of other reason—evidence even in the printed subjects of sermons shows a bewildering array of sensual topics. It looks as if the pulpit is without a gospel, but is dealing only with religious ideas and is independent only a suffering God can achieve, by His cost.

The speaker dealt with the varied appeals being made in the United Church. He said more emphasis is being laid upon an intellectual interpretation of Christianity in some quarters; in others emphasis is being laid on the social application, and still in others a ritualistic service is being built up. None of these provide a complete appeal. We can find a place for them all but, where is, however, a yearning in the human heart for Christ and men and women, when that need is awakened, will go where it can be satisfied.

Mr. Foley's Address

Mr. Foley's address was of a very practical nature. He gave a resume of the way in which he interjected

St. Mary Magdalene Church Annual Laymen's Banquet

Addressed by Ven. Archdeacon Gower-Rees of Montreal

The annual Laymen's Banquet held in St. Mary Magdalen Church on Thursday evening, was an event of especial interest to members of the church, this year the church was particularly fortunate in having as their guest speaker, the Venerable Archdeacon Gower-Rees, rector of St. George's Church, Montreal. The banquet was attended by a large number of the men of the congregation and a few guests from the town.

The arrangements for the dinner were all carried out by the ladies of the church, who were present also to serve the meal. Mayor George J. Tustin, the people's warden of St. Mary's Church, was the chairman.

Immediately following the dinner a short musical program was presented. Two men's choruses were sung and Mr. Owen sang a solo. Mr. Eppes, the organist, rendered his usual efficient service as accompanist.

Rev. C. E. S. Radcliffe, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Deseronto, was one of the guests, delivered a brief address.

Archdeacon Gower-Rees Guest Speaker

At the opening of the evening, Archdeacon Gower-Rees, was introduced by the vicar of St. Mary's, Venerable Archdeacon Dumbrille. The subject of the address was "Life," a theme which the speaker was eminently fitted to deal with. His experience has been very wide. He is well known as a preacher in Canada and England. As a social worker he has had unusual opportunities for observation of the difficulties existing between labor and capital; during the war he was a chaplain who served with distinction in France.

The speaker characterized "Life" as the possibility of growth and the bringing forth of fruit. One of the prime requisites of life is faith in a creator and one of the greatest needs of the day is that youth should be trained to meet the swiftly changing times, he said that it has been claimed that the aim of modern science is to break down distance in the physical universe and made a strong plea for the breaking down of existing distances between man and man, employer and employee and between nations.

The address was filled with amusing and apt anecdotes from the speaker's personal experience, all of which went to make a thoroughly enjoyable address.

At the close of the address, Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., expressed the appreciation of the audience to Mr. Gower-Rees and moved a vote of thanks to him.

Prospects Considered Bright for Ontario Rural Fairs

Ontario Convention Attended by G. H. Switzer

Mr. George H. Switzer, the president of the Lennox Fair Association, spent part of last week in Ontario, attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibitions. A definite decision concerning holding a fair in Napanee this year has not been reached as yet. The matter will be dealt with at a later date.

Speaking at the Toronto meeting, Mr. J. A. Carroll, secretary of the Ontario Association, expressed an encouraging view of the future of agricultural societies in Ontario.

After visiting about thirty fairs, Mr. Carroll said, he came to the conclusion that the year had been a most successful one, at least 95 per cent of the agricultural societies having taken part in exhibitions.

"Notwithstanding very dry season," he continued, "the quality of the exhibits was good.

FINANCING PUBLIC RELIEF

A motion in the House of Commons last week, dealing with the financing of public relief, has received less consideration than it merits from the press of the country. The motion was introduced by Mr. Cootes, of McLeod, and read: "That in the opinion of this House, in view of the large number of unemployed and with the necessity of increasing the purchasing power of the people, it is expedient that the Government give immediate consideration to the inauguration of a large scale program of public works, to be financed by a direct issue of non-interest bearing bonds."

The important part of the motion is the final clause. And Mr. J. H. Stitt, Conservative Member of Selkirk, made this a text for one of the most constructive addresses, so far, of the session. The suggestion, of course, is not new. But that it should be sponsored by a Member of Parliament in the House, gives it added importance.

The suggestion in brief, is simply this. The Government should institute a number of public works, which, as a matter of fact, it has already determined to do. Then the Government should pay for those works with special small denomination non-interest bearing bonds. These would be a direct charge against the building or other public undertaking, and would be a credit of income which accrued after the buildings were occupied. In this way the Government would be spared the necessity of paying interest. The great financial problem which the country has to face to-day is that which centres about the payment of interest. The interest charges alone amount to $428,000,000, annually.

If the Government needs, say a million dollars to finance a public building and borrows it at four per cent. at the end of twenty years, which is the usual term of borrowing, interest charges on that have amounted to another million. Now that the people have paying twice over for the building or other public works for which the money was borrowed, once for the capital and again to the money lenders. To pay once is surely enough. To pay a second or a third time for the same thing is to change it from a public asset to a public liability.

What makes a government loan sought after, is the security behind it which comes as a result of its backing by the whole country. It seems reasonable, therefore, to argue that the Government ought to issue its own bonds and do its own financing. Such money would necessarily be in the form of small amounts which would circulate on a par with other money and could be retired as they came due. In this case, the Government would save the colossal rebate which it has to pay at the present time to the money lenders.

This has been done before. It is not merely guess work. In the Isle of Guernsey, for example, a new market hall and other public buildings were financed that way. The government issued currency non-interest bearing and secured by the value of the buildings and by the Island of Guernsey, backed up by its duty to levy tolls and collect taxes. The currency was not transferable into gold, but circulated as cash, and was retired from taxes and tolls during succeeding years. The amount issued was $400.000 and the people were saved an enormous amount in interest charges.

It is worth a try in Canada!

THE BAND

Napanee has a band of which it may well be proud. It is an aggregation of musicians, well trained and keenly interested in giving their best in public service. Much of the credit for this goes to the leader, Mr. MacGregor, who took hold of the band when it was anything but a credit to the music lovers in the community. By dint of hard work and enthusiastic love of music, he has trained capable players and developed an organization of which the town is justly proud. In addition to that, the band has won universal public support. New instruments and new uniforms have been secured. This was financed, to a large extent, by an annual grant from the Town Council, by public subscription, and by various concerts and entertainments by the Band itself.

There are rumors now, of discontent within the band. Mr. MacGregor has handed in his resignation, leaving the way open for the appointment of a successor.

It will be a distinct loss to our town should this splendid musical organization become disrupted when it is now in such a high state of efficiency, and holds the public confidence and esteem. We have desire to enter any controversy, for we have no knowledge of what is going on behind the scenes. Our desire is that everyone who is in anyway responsible for the present disturbance, should look to their personal differences for the sake of the community, which is not interested in personalities, but is supremely interested in the Band and its leadership, and does not desire to see it broken up.

A SUCCESS IN CO-OPERATION

It has often been said that the farmers cannot co-operate. They are individualists and are therefore unable to work together for the good of the whole. This is true, only, to a limited extent. There are many cases in which the farming community have co-operated and that, successfully. One of the best examples of successful co-operation, is the Beekeepers' Association. This association was formed ten years ago. Up until that time the beekeepers of Ontario had matters pretty much their own way, as there was practically no competition. But then, the West, which had been the great market for Ontario honey, became a keen competitor. The Western farmer went into the bee business and soon was able not only to supply the needs of the West but made incursions into the Ontario market, as well. It therefore became necessary for the Ontario beekeepers to organize, in order to preserve their own market, and to find an outlet for their surplus stocks.

For ten years they have carried on. They have not found the easiest ten years for a venture of this sort. The organization had to meet with changed economic conditions, increased production from all over the world, and from a rearrangement of transportation due to the lack of experience on the part of the early officers. They have surmounted all these. It is absolutely certain that, had it not been for the efforts of these men, they have continued through the years, the honey market would have been completely demoralized.

The beekeepers, during those years, have built up a modern bottling plant, a decoloring plant and a reerranulating plant. In addition, they hold a substantial share in the stock of a British bottling plant, with which they are associated.

For the first time in its history, this company is able to carry on without a loan from the bank. There have been times when they owed the bank as high as three hundred thousand dollars. This is all been paid off. At the beginning of the year the company had a million and a quarter pounds of honey in stock. This has all been liquidated. The manager of the company, in his annual letter, urges the beekeepers to raise more honey, as they can now dispose of more than they are receiving.

As an evidence of economy and co-operation, it is interesting to note that the manager is one of the directors of the company who serves without pay, except directors' fees and expenses. In spite of the general fall in prices the net amount received for honey by the beekeepers in 1933, was higher than in 1932.

This ought to be proof enough that farmers can co-operate when they make up their minds.

Canadian wheat, shipped direct to Britain, enjoys a 6c differential, according to the Ottawa agreements. This has resulted in such Canadian shipments going to Canadian ports, with much advantage to them. American grain exporting interests are still trying to divert this to American railway lines, ports and steamship companies, by shipping through customs receipts, and are hopeful of a favorable decision by Britain.

* * *

An attack was made in the House, on the Canadian Combines in the wheat market, at a surmised cost of $25,000,000. Canadian stocks of wheat are thus built up all been paid off. At the beginning of the year the company had a million and a quarter pounds of honey in stock. This has all been liquidated. The manager of the company, in his annual letter, urges the beekeepers to raise more honey, as they can now dispose of more than they are receiving.

As an evidence of economy and co-operation, it is interesting to note that the manager is one of the directors of the company who serves without pay, except directors' fees and expenses. In spite of the general fall in prices the net amount received for honey by the beekeepers in 1933, was higher than in 1932.

This ought to be proof enough that farmers can co-operate when they make up their minds.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Beaver
Denbigh, Feb. 3rd, 1934.

Sir — In last week's issue of your paper a report of the meeting of instances at Highway Camp 4C1, near Denbigh. In the recital of the occurrences on Saturday, the report was correct in the main. However, in the interests of truth it was made concerning another disturbance on Sunday and therein, it was stated "strikers allegedly refused to allow a minister, who was endeavoring to hold a weekly Sunday religious service, to use a table that had been procured from their bunkhouse."

Will you allow me to correct this statement. "Allegedly" is correct, for it is not according to real facts. The facts are these: the table had been procured by the foreman of the camp and he had a right to procure it. No objection was made to the foreman evidently. But the leader of the disturbance informed the clergyman after the table had been brought over from one of the bunkhouses and after the foreman had left. This man used abusive language and revealed himself in his real light. When he had left, and after he had been asked by the clergyman to leave the room and after the first hymn had been sung, he then had arrived, the minister asked them to call someone from the opposite bunkhouse to get their table back. Another table from another bunkhouse had been freely offered and was brought in. Thereupon, the service was held and no disturbance of any nature took place.

The Provincial Police had been called up on Saturday and their coming was, in the wise, in consequency of Sunday's disturbances.

Just one say, Mr. Editor, that the vast majority of relief workers in these camps are excellent men. They are capably managed by the foremen and they are humanely treated. That there should be inflicted upon these men some of the unruly elements at large, is unavoidable. But one they are found out, the only way to keep the camps in healthy conditions is to have those responsible for disturbance, ejected.

CANADA'S OPPORTUNITY

Nearly every Dominion except Canada has been advertising extensively in Britain. One sees attractive signs telling of Australian apples, New Zealand butter, Rhodesian tobacco, South African oranges. But practically nothing of Canada. There is a marvelous opportunity in England at the present time. Canada has a preference over her rivals out of the Empire, and the British people are looking for Imperial products. However, this market cannot take advantage from the Imperial preference. Hon. Howard Ferguson, has little or no money to spend, has already done much to promote the sale of Canadian products. With publicity such as is now proposed, he will let England know the qualities of Canadian fruits, Canadian dairy products, Canadian meats and Canadian tobacco. This is one case where economy would be a false policy indeed. — London Free Press.

CANADA LEADS THE RECOVERY

A study by the League of Nations, based on industrial production indices, places Canada in the vanguard of the march toward recovery during 1933. From November, 1932, to November, 1933, the industrial output of that country increased 16 per cent. Next came Sweden with 15 per cent, Germany with 14, Japan with 13, the United States with 12, Russia and Poland with 11, and England with 2 per cent. With all our elaborate machinery for recovery, our magic formulas and our unprecedented spending, of Government funds, the United States has not kept pace with Canada, where the Government is content to follow more or less orthodox economic paths. — Washington Post.

WAR AND PEACE

The immediately important fact is that, brguiled by feeble arguments, the British countries are being rushed into feverish preparation for a new war which nobody wants but the armament profiteers. The arrangements in all countries are substantially the same: "We want nothing so much as peace, but we are surrounded by enemies." Those who lack enthusiasm for the next war are denounced as traitors. Fear and hate line has reached epidemic proportions, a phenomenon which makes us forget that our unprecedented spending, of Government funds, the United States has not kept pace with Canada, where the Government is content to follow more or less orthodox economic paths. — Washington Post.

PLAN TO REGISTER PRODUCE OUTLINED

Toronto — A delegation of fruit and vegetable growers from all parts of Ontario will be invited to meet the agriculture committee of the Ontario Legislature on February 14, to discuss compulsory registration of their produce. This decision was reached when the committee held its inaugural session.

Under the registration scheme, all market produce would be registered with either the Department of Agriculture or the Ontario Marketing Board, so the department or board would know at any time just what quantities were coming in and could make plans for orderly marketing through advertising campaings or other means.

Packing plants were discussed briefly by the committee, which appointed a livestock sub-committee to investigate each phase of the packing industry, including transportation.

Data collected will be forwarded to Ottawa to assist Federal officials in their probe into mass buying conditions. Already the chairman of the committee, J. E. Jamieson, (Con. Southwest Simcoe), has forwarded a resolution to the Government at Ottawa, he declared.

Probe Stockyards

"We have been working with a determination to turn these stockyards upside down." Mr. Jamieson said. "Our feeding and stock-yards have been criticized by the committee for some years, particularly with reference to the prices paid farmers for their livestock."

The Scotch father said: "Now, son, start saving your pennies and put them in this yellow box, and when you get five pennies give them to me and I'll give you a dime, and you can put that in this blue box; then, when you get five dimes give them to me and I'll give you a quarter, and you can put it in this red box."

Seventeen years later the boy discovered that the red box was the gas-meter.

BRITAIN POINTING TO BETTER TIMES

Sir William Clark Tells of Improvement in Old Country

The people of the British Empire have borne with stoic patience the days of depression, have refrained from wishing and have earned every right to enjoy the fruits of recovery Sir William Clark, K.C.M.G., C.B., O., High Commissioner for the United Kingdom in Canada, told the 48th annual convention of the Engineering Institute of Canada, at a luncheon at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal.

Indicative of the turn of the tide was from about February or March of last year, were very clear, it declared. The trade-cycle which had borne Britain down was now carrying her upwards and improvement could readily be seen both in the Old Country, other Empire countries and various foreign lands as well.

Unemployment Situation.

Sir William drew attention to improvement in the unemployment situation, which showed a decrease of 670,600 for the year, with 742,000 persons either re-established, or taken into industry. Iron and steel had shown remarkable improvement, being 31 per cent. improved for 1933, over 1932. This was largely due to the domestic demand for capital equipment, for railroading, shipbuilding and the motor industry had all taken marked upward turns. The only cause for disappointment was Britain's foreign trade, for while this showed a figure to some $10,000,000 betterment over 1932, the volume of world trade, as shown by League of Nations' statistics was lower for 1933 than for 1932, with little chances of immediate betterment, due to the political unrest in Europe and the Far East. But, all in all, it was clear that the lowest point of the hard times had been reached and passed.

The speaker referred at some length to the second financial restoration of Great Britain and the hopes of the people for something to come out of the Budget speech in April. "Hope is about the only thing that is not taxed in England, today," he said, amid laughter, "and the people are hoping that something may be carried at which will reduce taxation." He also dealt tersely and semi-humorously with the immediate retaliatory effects of the adoption of a protective tariff by Britain, as contrasted with her previous vulnerable position, in regard to other countries under the Free Trade régime.

Canadian Cattle Quota Set by Britain

Calgary Cattlemen Get Official Notice

20,000 Head May be Exported From February to June

Ottawa. — Canadian exports of cattle to United Kingdom markets will be limited to 20,000 for the first month period, February to June, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce announced recently. That figure will approximate the exports in the same period of 1932.

Because United Kingdom cattle and meat markets became crowded with Canadian, United States, Argentine, Australian and New Zealand shipments, the Government began negotiating efforts to quota. The Canadian quota was set at 20,000 head.

20,000 head Quota

According to the statement from Ottawa 20,200 head of cattle will be permitted to enter the United Kingdom in the first six months of this year. In the first six months of 1933, 22,650 head left Canada, 9,667 of which came from Western Canada of which 4,796 were from Alberta.

"The proposed ruling," Byers said, "would have a disastrous effect on the Canadian market, for the continuous movement of cattle to the United Kingdom has been the sole steadying factor in the domestic situation."

Byers said the situation for the last half of this year is still obscure. Advices from the United Kingdom indicate that the quota against Irish and Canadian cattle has not had the desired effect, for British farmers' returns for home-produced beasts have not been increased, he said.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 18th, 1934

MATTHEW 9: .1 - 13.

JESUS' POWER TO HELP

Jesus' ministry was of three kinds, teaching, preaching and healing. We cannot discover which was the most important in his life by comparing the amount of time which he gave to each. Jesus had no hard and fast plan, no budgeting of His time—so much for this and so much for that. His interest was in human personality and wherever He saw that human beings were in physical suffering, or in mental anguish, or in need of clear instruction or persuading, He acted accordingly.

It has often been said and particularly in connection with the work of the foreign missionary, that it is impossible to preach to those who are in bodily suffering or in need of food. Jesus seemed to have mingled that and much of His ministry was spent in mending broken bodies or in insisting on the need for food. For this reason, modern missions have set up institutions in the foreign fields for the training and educating of nurses and doctors; for the training of agricultural experts, and for the development of engineers, who will be able to give the native population some of the benefits which modern science has made available for the care of the body, and the mind.

While this has been going on in the newer mission fields, the Church in the West had handed these functions over to the expert, and relinquished almost all responsibility. The result has been that millions out of work, broken in body and spirit, are wondering if the Church has not lost something of the spirit of its Founder. Perhaps the time has come when the Christian Church should once again study the methods of the Master in His dealings with human personality, that it might better fulfil its divine function as the Bride of Christ.

There are always those who, like the scribes and pharisees, are unwilling to believe in the reality of a spiritual experience unless it be the result of their own stereotyped methods. Had the paralytic gone to the temple, undergone the accustomed rites and sacrifices, he would have undoubtedly been received as a son of the covenant. But because forgiveness came in some other way, even though that way was by contact with Jesus, the scribes belittled it and charged Jesus Himself of blasphemy, for daring to suggest that He could forgive. They were silenced, however, when the Master turned from the spiritual healing to the bodily and sent the paralytic home rejoicing. It is always hard to estimate the worth of spiritual work. The extent of its value does not always depend on statistics or on material and visible proof. The spirit bloweth where it listeth.

Along with this in the lesson, goes the account of Jesus' touch with the tax gatherers and the sinners. Once again the good people of His day were unable to understand how Jesus could bring Himself to eat with those of a lower order of society. The answer which Jesus gave could not be lost on the Pharisees: "Those that are strong have no need of a doctor." Then He referred them to the great verse in Hosea: "I will have mercy and not sacrifice." That is to say, what Jesus would have the Pharisees, whether of His own day or ours, is that mercy and love in our fellowmen is of more value in the eyes of God than all the ceremonial of the most ornate form of worship.

The heart of our religion is that its adherents should open their hearts with pity and mercy and love to all those who are sick, either in body or spirit.

STRATHCONA

Strathcona, Feb. 12. — During the past week we had some very cold weather. Thawing out water pipes and towing cars seemed to be the order of the day. We are glad for much milder weather at time of writing.

The annual congregational meeting of the United Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Finlay on Tuesday evening, 6th inst. The pastor, Rev. Anderson, was present and conducted the meeting. Encouraging reports from the various organizations of the church were given. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Finlay served a dainty lunch.

Mr. Charlie Fox spent the past week at Eldorado.

Mr. George McGarvey, Sr., was able to return to his work on Monday, after being laid up for a considerable time, due to an accident, some time ago, which necessitated the amputation of two of his fingers.

Mr. W. H. Hartwick is also much improved and able to be around again, after a serious attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. Bruce Finlay was in Moscow on Friday last, visiting her mother, Mrs. W. J. Patterson.

Mrs. George Wartman, Newburgh, spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Finlay.

On Wednesday evening a euchre was held in the Library Hall, in aid of the Public Library.

Mr. Stanley Hanes attended the funeral of his brother's wife, the late Mrs. Albert Hanna, at Belleville, on Tuesday last. Mrs. Hanes had been in her usual good health and accompanied by her husband, Mr. Albert Hanna, had visited at his father's, Mr. Ed. Hanes' on the Sunday before her death. She suffered a heart attack on the following Saturday, which proved fatal. The sympathy of the community is extended to the sorrowing husband and family.

Sorry to report Mr. Fraser Young on the sick list.

Mrs. H. Hoare was in Moscow last week visiting her mother, Mrs. Martha Huffman.

Miss Jean Wartman, Napanee, and Miss Louise Ramsay, Newburgh, were week end visitors at Mr. and Mrs. George Finlay's.

Mr. Ralph Bell also spent the week end with his cousin, Mr. Lloyd Finlay.

Mrs. W. J. Patterson, Moscow, visited her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Finlay for a few days, recently.

The mission Circle valentine party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Finlay on Friday evening. On account of the extremely cold weather, a number were unable to be present, but those who braved the atmosphere had a very enjoyable evening at various games and contests. Refreshments were served at the close, and a hearty vote of thanks extended to Mr. and Mrs. Finlay for opening up their home for the occasion.

Sunday School next Sunday morning at 10-30. Are you interested ? If so, come !

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, Feb. 12. — Thursday morning was the coldest experienced so far in Camden East, this winter, and several thermometers recorded readings of from 40 to 45 below zero. The frigid weather played havoc with cellars in this district, freezing potatoes and turnips. On Saturday of last week the weather was much milder.

Several homes in the village are quarantined with scarlet fever.

Mr. Fred Stevens of Napanee is a guest of his uncles, Messrs. Charles and George Histed. The latter has been confined to bed for some time.

Rev. T. H. P. Anderson was visiting the sick of the village on Friday of last week.

Among those on the sick list are Messrs. James Skinner, George Histed and Mrs. M. McWilliams.

Jack Stewart had the misfortune to cut his knee with an axe which he was using.

Mrs. H. Lewis and Mrs. Geo. Babcock and Miss Mable Tomkins, called on Mrs. C. Histed.

Mrs. Sam Barr returned to her home here after spending a few days with her daughter at Kingston.

Very large numbers attended the funeral of the late George Riley, which took place from his residence Monday afternoon last week, when a large concourse of people filled St. Luke's Church for the funeral service, conducted by the rector, Rev. R. W. Spencer. A private service was held at the family residence at 11:00 o'clock, which was conducted by Rev. Spencer. The spiritual and floral tributes were many and beautiful, and testified to the high esteem in which Mr. Riley was held.

There will be a service in the United Church next Sunday morning at 10 a.m.

There will be prayer meeting held every Monday night in the United Church Hall, at 7 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Feb. 12. — The tragic death of Bernard Smith, a former resident of Enterprise, who was killed on Thursday night near Barrie when a large transport truck on which he was riding, crashed into the side of a moving C. P. R. freight, cast a gloom over the village. The deceased was on his way to Collingwood where he visited his brother Howard Smith who resides there, an employee of the Imperial Oil Company.

On March 17th, 1932, his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Nora Jackson, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jackson of Enterprise, was killed by a street car in Toronto, where she resided with friends. For several years, Mr. Smith was in charge of a blacksmith shop in this village and on receiving a position as mechanic as a provincial police officer, with his family, moved to Hamilton and later to Toronto. Following the death of his wife, he with his little granddaughter, returned to Enterprise and took up residence in his home on Main Street. Last fall he disposed of his property and went to Belleville, where he had purchased a house. His untimely death is deeply regretted.

On Wednesday afternoon the Enterprise hockey team won from the Verona boys in a game by a score of 8 to 7. A fistic encounter between several of the players was a feature of the game. The referees were Bell of Enterprise and Reid, of Colebrooke.

On Saturday afternoon the Verona hockey team defeated the Enterprise boys on the local rink, by a score of 4 to 3.

Several from Enterprise attended the oyster supper and dance in the Temperance Hall at Moscow, on Friday evening.

The weather reached a record in zero weather during the past week when the thermometer dropped to 32 degrees below zero.

The extreme cold had made considerable trouble for W. G. Peswick in charge of the creamery. While the engine is an oil burner, considerable water is necessary to keep the engine cool and to prevent the pipes from freezing. It has been necessary to keep a fire going in the mill, night and day.

The children of the United Sunday school are practicing for an entertainment which is being given in the basement of the United church on Wednesday evening, February 14th. This concert is taking the place of the usual Christmas entertainment which, on account of an outbreak of scarlet fever, had to be cancelled.

Stanley M. Wagar, while engaged with his team in drawing gravel from the pit west of the village, fell from the sleigh and dislocated his knee.

The fourth of a series of euchres under the auspices of the W. A. of the United church, Enterprise, was held at the home of Mrs. George Penwick on Saturday evening. Hugh Bell won the gentleman's prize and Mrs. George Conboy the ladies' prize. Mrs. Walter Wilson won the special of a delightful five-table bridge on Tuesday evening.

While spending the last week end in Toronto, Mr. W. D. Oliver, manager of the Royal Bank here, received a nasty fall while about to get on a street car in Toronto, on his way home on Sunday night, in which his shoulder was badly dislocated. J. Spankume of the Bredenham staff has been assisting in the office here during the past week, on account of Mr. Oliver's injury.

A number of cases of Grippe are prevalent throughout the village. Miss Dorothy Wilson and Mrs. R. H. Wagar are among the sufferers.

ERINSVILLE

Death of Mrs. Byrnes

Erinsville, Feb. 6.—Another pioneer of the district has been called to her eternal reward in the person of Mrs. Anne Byrnes. For almost fifteen years she had been in ill health, the greater portion of which she spent in bed, but she always manifested the greatest resignation. Her husband, Mr. Michael Byrnes, predeceased her some seventeen years ago. She lived on the homestead adjoining the village, with her son, Patrick, and for several years was tenderly cared for by her niece, Miss Bridget Doyle.

Deceased was formerly Miss Anne Garrett, and is survived by a large family of sons and daughters. They are William, Vincent and Michael, of Saskatchewan; Joseph of Flint, Mich.; James on an adjoining farm; Leo on an adjoining farm, and Pat, at the homestead. Mrs. Ed. McKeown of Oregon, U.S.A., Mrs. Harry Flagler of Eelleville and Mrs. Thomas Shippie of Detroit also survive. Another daughter, Mrs. James Mooney of Watertown, N.Y., pre-deceased her a few years ago.

Her funeral was held on Tuesday, February 6th to the Church of the Assumption, where the funeral mass was sung by Rev. J. A. Powell, after which the remains were placed in the vault to await burial in the early spring. The large cortege and the number of spiritual offerings testified to the place held by deceased in the hearts of her neighbors and friends. A beautiful wreath from the Company where her son Joseph is employed, was placed on the casket.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Patrick Powers, William Hopkins, M. J. Hopkins, John Neville, James Flynn and John Pickens.

Exhausted from Asthma — Many who read these words know the terrible drain upon health and strength, which comes in the train of asthmatic troubles. Many do not realize, however, that there is one true remedy which will usually stop this drain. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful check to this enervating ailment. It has a countless record of relief to its credit. It is sold almost everywhere.

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, Feb. 12. — The St. Anthony Women's League, the sub-division of Camden, held a successful progressive euchre at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sutton, on Friday evening, with an attendance of over 130. Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. E. Harrison acted as hostesses and welcomed the guests.

There were twenty tables of progressive euchre and two other tables. The lady's prize was won by Miss Snider, and the gentleman's prize by Mr. James Byrnes. The gentleman's first prize was won by Mrs. Leslie Kellar the second going to Mr. Ed. O'Connor. A dainty lunch was served after the cards and a vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Ed. Harrison for the splendid entertainment and the use of Mr. and Mrs. Sutton's home.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their regular meeting at the United Church parsonage on Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. Arrangements are made for the Men's banquet to be held on February 22nd. This event promises to be of unusual interest to all men on the circuit. Watch for announcements later.

The annual meeting of the United Church Sunday School will be held at the parsonage on Friday evening, February 16th. All officers and those interested are requested to be present.

The United Church Young People will hold their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, February 8th, with a fairly good attendance. The president opened the meeting as usual, and Miss Beatrice Wilson, made up the musical part of the programme. Several readings were given, with an address by the minister. At the close of the programme Mrs. Clark and Glendinn served a real country community lunch, which was a real treat on a cold day. The regular March meeting will be held at Mrs. F. Hartley's, at which time Mrs. Bartley will be assisted by Mrs. Stanley Joyce.

Remember it is this Friday evening, February 16th, that Bethany Ladies' Aid are having another good time in their church, beginning at 8 o'clock. A special programme is being prepared. All the ice cream and the ice cream will be served. And everybody invited.

A very unique and different programme was given in Bethany Church on Monday evening last. A group of young people, assisted by some of the older folk, presented a "radio broadcasting studio. H.I.A. Programme" opened as two folk sat "at a radio tuning in for a programme. And as they heard the various numbers on the radio, they did the audience. Mr. J. Clark, Jr., acted as station announcer. Many of the greatest artists on the radio were impersonated by the young people of the community and it was a most excellent programme from start to finish, and a great deal of credit is due all those who took part. At the end of the programme the Ladies' Aid served lunch to a crowd that nearly filled the church. A fine sum was realized for the Ladies' Aid.

Mr William Goodman was in Napanee on Tuesday, attending the annual meeting of the County Orange Association.

BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, February 12. — The intense cold weather of last week tested the heating facilities of the country homes. Many are reporting damage to vegetables, etc., stored in their cellars. Ice in shallow wells is also reported. Surely the winter of 1933-1934 will beat most records.

The writer of this column would be glad to receive by telephone, or letter, facts that would help to make this column more helpful. Remember, these Bay Circuit News are a letter from home to your friends far and near.

Mrs. Herbert Mellow returned home on Sunday, after spending a week with her mother at Camborne. Glad to report that Mrs. Mellow's mother is much improved in health.

Remember, this Wednesday night, at 7 o'clock, is the date and hour of the pan cake social, which is being held at the home of Mrs. Robt. Moore's, Gretna, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Everybody invited. Lots of pan cakes, syrup, and a good programme.

The Ladies' Aid of Bethany held one of their most largely attended meetings at the home of Mrs. James Clark, Vice President of the organization, on Wednesday afternoon last. The meeting was in charge of the President, who outlined plans that are to be used for the success of the organization this year. The programme was of an unusually helpful nature. A duet by Mrs. Stanley Joyce and Mrs. Herbert Martin, and a trio by Mrs. J. Davis, Mrs. Victor Martin and Miss E. Davis, made up the musical part of the programme. Several readings were given, with an address by the minister. At the close of the programme Mrs. Clark and Glendinn served a real country community lunch, which was a real treat on a cold day. The regular March meeting will be held at Mrs. F. Hartley's, at which time Mrs. Bartley will be assisted by Mrs. Stanley Joyce.

A play "A Peach of a Family," was given by the pupils, and medals and cards were presented to pupils attaining the highest marks in sports. A well arranged orchestra from the school, played between acts. A boys' quartette rendered several selections and Miss Jean Denyes sang very sweetly. Judging from the well-filled hall, these concerts have been very popular and the sum of $23 was realized.

A 266 lbs. MAN LOSES FAT

56 lbs. Off — Feels Better

A woman writes about her husband as follows: — "He started to take Kruschen Salts for rheumatism. His weight was then 296 lbs. He began to feel better and now he is 239 lbs. and feels better. He took half-a-teaspoonful of Kruschen in a cup of warm water every morning. People keep asking what he has done to fetch his weight down, and he always says Kruschen Salts."—(Mrs.) E. S.

Thousands of overstout men and women find in Kruschen Salts a far better means of reducing than by taking drugs. The little daily dose of Kruschen Salts keeps the organs functioning properly every day and fills you with such a feeling of radiant vitality and vigor that before you know it you are faithfully "jumping out of your skin" with energy instead of moping around— and reduction follows as a matter of course.

SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville, Feb. 12. — On Tuesday afternoon the Public School was destroyed by fire. About 2:30 in the afternoon, while the children were having recess, the fire was first noticed. It started between the ceiling and the flooring in the second story, from overheated stove pipes. Although bucket lines were formed to the biting zero weather, the fire had made too much headway and at six o'clock the flames leaped high. Only three brick walls are left standing, of the building which was built in 1874. Arrangements have been made to use the former Presbyterian Church until a new school can be built.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Sydney Fitzgerald had to return to the hospital after being home for a week. She met with an accident the first time in her life by a car, some time ago.

SOURED ON THE WORLD?—THAT'S LIVER
Wake up your Liver Bile
—No Calomel necessary

Many people who feel sour, sluggish and generally wretched make the mistake of taking pills, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage which only move the bowels and ignore the liver.

What you need is to wake up your liver bile. Start your liver pouring the daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Get your stomach and intestines working as they should work.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon fix you up. Purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Gentle. Don't be fooled by name. Refuse substitutes. Buy at all druggists. 31

Mr., Mrs. D. L. Green, Former Napaneeans Celebrate Anniversary

The following notice from a Syracuse paper, was recently received in Napanee, by friends of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Greene, former residents of the town.

The article was clipped from a paper published the day before Christmas, last year. It reads as follows:—

"Tomorrow will be a doubly joyful day for Mr. and Mrs. David L. Greene of 300 Patterson street, Ogdensburg, Besides celebrating Christmas, they will observe their 42nd wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Russell H. Kienzle, 302 Oak street.

Mr. and Mrs. Kienzle have planned a combined Christmas and wedding anniversary dinner in honor of the occasion. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock with members and relatives of the families attending.

Others who will sit at the festive board are Maude P. Greene of Ogdensburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greene; Miss Olive Liddell of Syracuse, a granddaughter; Mrs. Cora Van Order of Ithaca, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kienzle and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Kienzle.

Mr. and Mrs. Greene smiled happily in speaking of the anniversary and of the joy and good health that have been theirs during the 42 years they have been married. Neither of them show their age of more than four-score years. Both are still quite active and Mr. Greene often takes long walks. Yesterday, after reaching Ogden Park, he walked more than a half mile about the city. Cold weather and icy sidewalks do not keep him down.

Both were born in Ogdensburg. Mr. Greene was a son of James and Abigail George Greene. Mrs. Greene was a daughter of Franklin and Catherine Bangher Chapin. They were married at the home of Mrs. Greene's parents, Christmas night, 1891.

After their marriage they lived in Ogdensburg for a time, but later spent several years at Napanee, Ont., Canada, where Mr. Greene was engaged in the lumber business. They returned to make their home in Ogdensburg about six years ago when Mr. Greene retired. He spent his early life farming.

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

"The Queen and Mr. Gladstone"—Two ponderous volumes giving in minute detail the correspondence and personal letters between Queen Victoria and her celebrated prime minister.

"Oil for the Lamps of China"—By Alice Tisdale Hobart. A book that is fraught with amazing success and stresses and strains of racial traditions and customs, sex interests and manners, the vagaries of economic ages.

"The Hash Knife Outfit"—By Zane Grey. A breathless story founded upon a bloody and ruthless episode in the early history of Arizona.

"Magic for Marigold"—By L. M. Montgomery. Boys and girls will enjoy this story of a tom-boy who turns out to be a real princess.

"From Chaos to Contry"—By Norman Angell. This book is an examination of the difficulties surrounding a democratic government in a world which, including a study of Fascism and Hitlerism.

"The Call of Darwina"—By John Masefield. A novel by the Poet Laureate which moves in swift excitement from the first page to the last.

"Kerry"—A novel by Grace Livingstone Hill, which concludes as the reader would wish it for just as things seemed blackest a lost letter brings romance and love.

"Trumpeter, Sound!"—By D. L. Murray. A book for all boys who delight in the sound of the trumpet and the martial display that it calls forth.

"Rio Grande"—By Harvey Ferguson. Taking the Rio Grande which is the river for which as the central theatre, this book portrays in a series of dramatic episodes all the types of men and society that have lived there during the past thousand years.

Ontario Farmer to See Profit in 1934

A profit on 1934 crops for Ontario farmers was predicted by Col. Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, in an address to the York Board of Trade. This profit, he said, would create a purchasing power which would be reflected in other industries.

Ontario farmers faced 1934 with better prospects, he added, although in the world today basic industry is being forced to produce on a profit basis. Ontario farmers were in an unique position as they might produce all they could because Ontario had sought and found markets for surplus products.

After producing at a loss in 1931, '31 and '32, Ontario farmers had broken even last year, he continued. In 1931 it had cost the farmers $400,000,000 to realize a return of $315,000,000, a net loss of $85,000,000. These figures in 1933, because of rising prices and widened markets, had been balanced. In 1934, he believed, Ontario producers would realize between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 from their crops.

Price Spread Sift To Open Next Week

Ottawa — The inquiry into price spreads and business practices, it was definitely indicated last Thursday, will begin this week. Hon. H. H. Stevens, it is planned, will head the committee of seven members. It is expected to be so constituted that each of the nine provinces will have a representative. It is said that the four Liberal members will be lawyers.

Napanee Ministers Special Speakers in Belleville, Sunday

On Sunday, Rev. Harry Pawson of Trinity United Church, and Rev. J. Richard Graves of Bridge Street, both were in Belleville, where they were special speakers at Bridge Street United Church, which was celebrating the 112th birthday of Bridge Street Church Sunday school.

Mr. Pawson spoke at the morning service, when the Sunday school attended in a body. Mr. Richards had charge of the evening service.

In the absence of the two Napanee ministers, Dr. Semple, minister of Bridge Street Church, preached in Trinity in the morning and Grace at night.

Rev. George Williams of Toronto, spoke at Grace Church in the morning and in Trinity at the evening service, on the work of the Maintenance and Ministerial Department of the church.

Former Napanee Man To Be Married In California

Word was received in Napanee, this week, of the engagement and approaching marriage of Mr. Jack Horace Empey, of San Jose, California, formerly of Napanee, to Miss Esther Tellesop Randrup, of San Jose.

Mr. Empey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Empey, and visited with his parents to California from Napanee, some years ago. Miss Randrup is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Randrup.

The marriage is to take place on Sunday, February 18th, at the First Methodist Church, San Jose.

Number of College Women in Business To Steadily Increase

President of Radcliffe College Says Trend of Times Is to Keep Young People in School Longer

Dr. Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe College, held conclusively to the opinion that the education of women in business, in her address before the biennial Conference for College Women at the American Woolen Company, Lawrence.

Ignoring the pessimistic realities which confront college women seeking jobs today, she rather took the long view of the problem, and assured her audience that the number of graduates of business colleges would steadily increase.

"Business will be obliged to take college people for lack of any one else," she said. "The trend of the times is to keep young people in school to the age of 18 or more is definitely increasing. Business will have to accept the graduates, unless it regrets tariff barriers against them. And business, of course, will have much to gain by the services of college trained workers."

Dr. Comstock, who is a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Information, announced the Federal Emergency Administration had allotted set aside funds for the employment of 40,000 teachers in fields not covered by regular funds, such as teaching the physically handicapped, adult illiterates, unemployed professional people, and the establishment of nursery schools.

Owen D. Young, chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, said that the colleges could give more contacts with the business world for their undergraduates.

E. B. Lawton, assistant general manager of a department store, said there would be more college women in business in the future. After 13 years of experimenting with between 80 and 90 college men and women each year, he said, the executives of his company now know that what they want in college girls was:

"Quality of keenness, shrewdness, business judgment, the ability to stand up under pressure, to do hard work; the ability to make an intelligent approach to a prospective customer, a sense of manners; ability to make contacts; ability to get along with people in an executive capacity; a well integrated personality."

Scholastic Candour

Evidently yawning in the midst of one's own performances must be a little more common than is supposed by those favored observers of convention who strive always to appear interested in what they are doing:—

"Your mention in Tuesday's column of the B.E.C. yawner and others, reminds me gleefully of my student days, when we suffered a certain lecturer who invariably yawned his way through every lecture. He would begin by those halfyawns, quite hidden or suppressed by holding the lips tightly together. Such, to the novice, were no more than eloquent pauses for the "mot juste"; but the end, as we speak, was always when the student of more-listening experience would notice the lazy yawn, still partly suppressed by forcing the lips open in a particularly comical grin, and where the shoulders and three-quarters of an hour finished the yawns were the full-blooded hand and mouth-over-head threes—a indulgence of a man supremely bored by his own verbosity. Nor did he ever suspect, even, even after discovering one diligent young man plotting a graph of Minutes against Yawns and revealing a beautifully constant curve . . ."—Miscellany in the Manchester Guardian.

Husband: "Why this sudden change, dear? Only this morning you said you loved every hair on my head."

Wife: "Yes, but that doesn't include every hair on your shoulder."

Belleville Presbytery

the evangelical note into his ministry.

He said that in the first year of his ministry he had a successful series of special evangelistic meetings and had determined then, if possible, to hold a similar series every year, through his service as a minister. Often it was felt at the time for such a series was not opportune, but he had always made it his duty to make a time for them.

He spoke concerning his work along this line while at Selby. He had begun by organizing leadership training groups, where a certain spiritual foundation was laid. Then each year he had two series of special meetings, centering around the week of prayer and Passion week. He had also organized Bereans clubs for the daily reading of the scriptures.

He had made it a practice while in Selby, to tie up with any legitimate religious movement in the community and had capitalized the results to whatever extent he possibly could. On several occasions special speakers and musicians had been brought in, who had influenced the people.

During the afternoon session, a discussion on the subject of Evangelism, was led by Dr. W. S. McLachlan, of Toronto, the general secretary for evangelism and social service in the United Church of Canada.

Rev. M. C. McKinnon of Perth, the president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, visited the Presbytery in the afternoon and addressed the members briefly.

A Difficult Tribute

The burghers of Yittenberg, who, it is reported, propose to nail to the door of the Schlosskirche a copy of Luther's 95 Theses as part of the anniversary celebrations of his birthday 450 years ago, have a difficult task before them. It was on October 31, 1517, that the reformer nailed his proclamation to the door of the Castle Church of the capital of the old electorate of Saxony. In those days, however, the door was made of wood, so that Luther had no difficulty in driving a stout nail into it and it recorded that the strokes of his hammer drew around him great crowds of people. But it was the eve of the Festival of All Saints and the streets of the town were thronged with pilgrims. The door might have lasted till to-day, like the Schlosskirche itself, but in 1760, during the Seven Years' War, the Austrian besiegers burned it down, and in 1813 it was replaced by one of bronze bearing the Latin text of the Theses. It will be interesting to know how the Wittenbergers propose to drive a nail into a bronze door.—Miscellany in the Manchester Guardian.

"Are You an Aryan?"

Germany's new parlour game. "Are You an Aryan?" (and if not, why not?) is apparently spreading to the offices of the registrars of births, so that country. According to a recent message from Berlin, these officials are now crowded with people endeavouring to obtain a pedigree for themselves, in order to safeguard the rights of existence under the Nazis. These who wanted some definition of "pure German stock" have not yet been supplied with it. Here is the helpful official guidance—according to a decree of Achim Gercke, the head of the new "racial Research Bureau":

"Non-Aryan are all non-European tribes, such as Mongols, Negroes, etc. Slavs are Aryans, but there is a difference between Aryans and peoples of the Germanic race. The latter are natural-born Aryans. Their conversely not every Aryan is of the Germanic race."

So now you know, or if you don't it can be no fault of Dr. Achim Gercke who, with such intense and admirable lucidity, must surely have made his meaning perfectly clear. An Aryan is a fellow with a "pale skin" side by birth. All the rest are pretty suspicious characters.

It is a pity that it is unfortunate that a true Nazi is only asked to prove his descent so far back as a mere 1800. A certain Prague statistician recently computed that every human being had a trillion direct ancestors—going back only so far as the time of Christ. To get the number of your immediate ancestors all you need to do is to get down a digit and add on another 10 before breath runs out. "Proving" a lawful descent of this magnitude might keep most of the population of Germany happily and safely employed for quite a few years yet.

MUSK RATS IN SCOTLAND

In 1927 six pairs of musk rats were purchased by Scotland from Canada and planted in a field near Feddal, close to Brace, in Perthshire. Although part of this field was turned into a swamp by diversion into it of the water of a burn ostream, the musk rats disliked these quarters and soon hit through the low netting, and five pairs escaped. Later a male was found dead, so that the stock from which Scotland has since been populated by these animals was five females and four males. Eighty musk rats were killed by one keeper before operations were begun for their extermination. Rewards were paid to private individuals for 60 musk rats killed by them during the winter of 1932-33. Since October 1932 over 750 musk rats have been killed by the trappers employed by the Department of Agriculture for Scotland. We know, therefore, says the Scottish Journal of Agriculture, that 890 musk rats have been killed during the last three years, the descendants of the few rats that escaped in 1927.

Captain Cook made three voyages round the world. He was, however, killed during the first of these.

Wedding Bells

SEDGWICK — McTEAR

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Christ Church, Cataraqui, on Saturday morning, February 3rd, when Edith Marion, daughter of Canon and Mrs. A. L. McTear, became the bride of Mr. Robert Frederick Sedgwick, of Kingston. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of white lace, made on long simple lines, and wore a small white satin turban, with lace veil, edged with silver. Her corsage bouquet was of orchids, rose and lily-of-the-valley. The father of the bride officiated. There were no attendants.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held at The Rectory, Cataraqui, after which Mr. and Mrs. Sedgwick left for New York, from where they will sail for Bermuda.

On their return they will reside in Kingston, Ont., where Mr. Sedgwick is District Superintendent of the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

Police Court News

James Ramsay, who was convicted about two weeks ago on a charge of obtaining goods by false pretences, from the Township of North Frederichsburgh, appeared before Magistrate Graham, last week, and was given a two-year suspended sentence.

Clayton and Kenneth Sweet appeared before Magistrate Graham on Saturday for sentence, after convictions on charges of breaking and entering and theft. The former was given six months definite and six months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory. The latter is to serve three months in gaol.

Three men from the Township of Sheffield, convicted of consuming liquor in an illegal place, were each fined $10.00 and costs.

Interesting Career New President of C. N. Railways

Montreal—The Honorable Charles P. Fullerton, K.C., Chairman of the Trustees, Canadian National Railways, recently handed the following official circular:

"Mr. S. J. Hungerford has been appointed President of the National Railways, reporting to the Trustees. The appointment covers the Canadian National Railway Company and other railway and other companies comprised in the National Railways."

Mr. Hungerford has been Acting President of the Canadian National System since July 20th, 1932, carrying on, at the same time, his former duties as Vice-President in charge of operation.

Few railroad men in Canada have gone more thoroughly "through the mill" than has Mr. Hungerford. His story is one of thoroughness in his job, of learning every phase of railroading from the days when, in 1886, he trudged along with his dinner pail, to the Southeastern Railway shops in Farnham, Que. to start his railway career as an apprentice who in due time became a machinist and from that start moved steadily on until in 48 years he has become president of the largest railroad system in America. It is a story of a man earning eight cents an hour for ten hours a day—$4.80 a week— who studied at night every night and carried his books to work with him that he might study still more at lunch time when the other young fellows around the railroad shops were playing football or baseball. It is a story of learning every part of railway mechanical work from the days of the old wood-burning locomotives to their modern giant successors.

Promotion Due to Study and Mastery of Each Problem

Men who worked with him or for him in the Southeastern shops at Farnham; at Montreal; at Megantic and McAdam Junction in the east, or at Cranbrook, Calgary or Winnipeg in the west, all tell the same story. That S. J. Hungerford moved up the ladder because he studied his very job thoroughly from the time he first carried his dinner pail into the shops at Farnham, Que.

S. J. Hungerford was born at Bedford, Que., in 1872. His father died before he was through school, and at fourteen years of age, though his widowed mother urged him to continue his schooling, young Hungerford insisted that he was going out to work in the Southeastern Railway shops at Farnham provided the job. Completing his apprenticeship, Mr. Hungerford became machinist, and as such he worked at various points in Quebec, Ontario and Vermont. Then he was appointed assistant foreman and constructed and latterly fueling-president. his address has again been Montreal.

After working as a machinist, Mr. Hungerford in 1894, became Chargeman for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Windsor Street Station, in Montreal. He was then advanced to assistant foreman and foreman at various points, and in 1901 he moved to Cranbrook, B.C. as locomotive foreman. At Cranbrook he was responsible for the development of several new features of shop methods. From Cranbrook, Mr. Hungerford moved, in 1903, to Calgary, as Master Mechanic of the Western Division of the Canadian Pacific, and then a year later he became Superintendent of Shops at Winnipeg, when the Canadian Pacific Railway were planning and building their new shops, at that time.

From Apprentice to President in 48 Years

In 1910, Mr. Hungerford joined the Canadian Northern Railway at Winnipeg, as superintendent of rolling stock, and five years later he moved to Toronto in the same capacity. Two years later he became general manager of eastern lines for the Canadian Northern, and in 1918, when the Canadian National System began to take form through the joint operation of Canadian Northern Canadian Government and National Transcontinental Railways, Mr. Hungerford was appointed assistant to vice-president of operating, maintenance and construction department.

In 1919 when the Grand Trunk Pacific Railways were brought into the Canadian National fold, Mr. Hungerford was appointed vice-president, operating and maintenance department and in 1922, the title and duties of general manager were added to those he already carried. In 1923 Mr. Hungerford came to Montreal as president of the Canadian National System, and on the retirement of Sir Henry Thornton, in regard to work for unemployment relief in Richmond, at present. — Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Doyle and Winter, that the clerk be authorized to receive tenders for power to operate township machinery for 1934. Tenderer to furnish tractor, belt, fuel and oil. All tenders to be sealed and marked "Tender for Power" and to be in clerk's hands by March 3rd. Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Carried.

Council adjourned to meet March 5th, 1934.

The Late John Lucas

The death occurred at his home in Napanee of Mr. John Lucas, on Sunday, February 3rd. Mr. Lucas, who was caretaker of Riverside Cemetery, was taken suddenly ill on the preceding Friday, while helping to trim trees in the cemetery grounds. Shortly after, he was seized with a paralytic stroke and passed away on Sunday evening.

The late Mr. Lucas, who was in his 79th year, was born at Big Creek in North Fredericksburgh Township, His father, who was of English U. E. Loyalist stock, was a farmer and the son followed the same vocation for many years. A little over 19 years ago, he became the caretaker of Riverside Cemetery, a position he filled efficiently until his death.

The splendidly kept grounds reflected much credit on the care and taste of Mr. Lucas.

Mr. Lucas was twice married. His first wife, formerly Lucinda Akey, died many years ago, leaving two sons, John Jr., and Percy. Twenty years ago, Mr. Lucas married Mrs. Peter Smith, of Springbrook, Ont. To them was born one daughter, Janet, Mrs. Angus Smith, of Napanee.

Mr. Lucas was a member of the Plymouth Brethren and the funeral service was conducted on Tuesday afternoon by Mr. Hayhoe, a minister of the Brethren, from Ottawa. The pallbearers were the staff in the cemetery by Mr. E. J. Walters, Mr. R. S. Wales, Mr. Percy Vine, Mr. Angus Smith, Mr. John Lucas and Mr. Epriam Robinson.

Sudden Death Mr. John Laird

The death of Mr. John Laird, a much respected citizen of Napanee, occurred suddenly on Friday morning. Mr. Laird was apparently in his usual health during the early part of the day, but was taken with an unexpected seizure and passed away in about an hour's time.

Mr. Laird had been a resident of Napanee for more than fifty years, and for forty years was in the employ of the G. T. R. and C. N. Railways. He retired about ten years ago from active service.

Mr. Laird, an English descent, and was born nearly 79 years ago, at Bath, Ontario. Almost 58 years ago he married Catharine Phillips, who survives him. The family born to them are Mrs. J. P. Cowper, Mrs. Richard Irvine and Wilkie, of Napanee, Harry in Calgary, Miss Nellie of Montreal, Mrs. Minnie of Toronto and Sidney of Belleville. All of the family with the exception of Harry were able to be present at the funeral service, which was held on Monday afternoon, with Rev. T. T. Richards, of Grace United Church, as officiating minister.

Mrs. Laird is a Mills of Napanee and Mrs. Joseph Brown of Bath, are sisters of Mr. Laird.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL G. HOGLE

Samuel G. Hogle, well-known and very greatly respected Violet resident, passed peacefully away on Thursday, at his home in Violet, in his seventy-sixth year. Mr. Hogle had been in failing health for over three months, but his last illness was of only a few days duration.

Deceased was a faithful member of the United Church at Violet and was always interested in the things of the kingdom of God. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

His wife pre-deceased him three years ago. He is survived by one son, Ross Hogle at home, and one sister, Mrs. Lavina Wood, at Murtaugh, Idaho.

The funeral was held on Saturday, February 10th, at his home. The service was conducted by Rev. A. E. Oliver and Rev. R. W. Seymour, former pastor. The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. Spafford, T. Clancy, Geo. Hogle, J. McFarland, E. Wright, and J. Closs.

Interment was made in the family plot at Violet cemetery.

MRS. F. F. MILLER WRITES FROM INDIA

Peshawar, Jan. 20th. 1934

Dear Mrs. Templeton:—

So far we have escaped the extremely cold weather you have had, or are having in Canada, though it has been quite cold some days, with heavy frost at night. Not a sign of snow here but there is plenty at Srinagar and Gulmarg. Occasionally we have a really warm day and can sit out on the lawn from eleven a.m. until four p.m., with comfort. After that one is glad to come into the drawing room and have tea by the grate fire.

It is ages, I know, since I have written to you. In fact, I've travelled a long way on the road of good intentions the last few months and it will take me some time to catch up with my correspondence and "thank you" letters.

There has been very little going on here except dinners, teas and luncheons. About a week ago, on a Sunday there was an extra large parade of the troops, General Sir Philip Chetwode, Commander-in-Chief of the army in India, took the salute. It was a wonderfully warm day and we sat out in the open in most comfortable chesterfields to watch it. The march past was held in the road so the whippet tanks and armoured cars were out in full force. It was the first time I had ever seen either. The General, I believe, was well pleased.

New Year's Parade

The annual New Year's parade took place on the first, of course. Everyone turned out to see that also. We all went to the horse-show two days before Christmas. Nancy entered her pony, Roopla, in the children's section, and won first prize. She is a beautiful mite. Our Christmas Day was very like last year's, all meeting for Chota-Hazerie in the drawing-room at six-thirty, then emptied our stockings (which hung by the chimney with care) had our real presents from the big tree and gave the servants theirs. We had a real Hazerie while still in our kimonos. Then we dressed and went to the Anglican church service at 10:30. Any number of people came between twelve and one to wish us the compliments of the season. In the afternoon we went to a large tea at a Mrs. Orul's. There were about fifty there, half of them children, who played on the lawn until dark, after which they had in a separate room from the grown-ups. We had a large dinner party at 8:30 for the seniors and subs of the Royal Signals who were in Peshawar alone for that day. We had Brigadier-Gen. Clement Smith with us for a few days and that meant a round of dinner parties.

Miles and his wife left December 28th for Belgaum, South India, where he is attending the Senior Officers' School for a three months' course he has to take before becoming a Lt.-Colonel in 1935. They motored in the Duchess, taking the chauffeur and leaving Betty, the Ford, here for me with the orderly to drive. Miles' bearer went by train with the luggage. As they will be there so long they had to take bedding, curtains, chota-Hazerie set and their personal effects for cold and hot weather. They motored as far as Delhi together, Miles going on to Belgamur and his wife visiting friends all along the line. She was the guest of the Maharaja of Idgore and the Begam of Bopoh in Bombay. At Allahabad a state elephant was arranged for her to see the famous wella (the bathing pilgrims) early one morning. It was a wonderful sight. It was very hot in Bombay, cooler in Belgamur, but not cool enough at night to need a blanket on one's bed.

Forty - Day Fast for Mohammedans

I, of course, am in full charge here and I think at the end of the three months I'll be quite competent to be head mangeress of an hotel or at least a private house with any number of servants (Indians preferred.) All the Mohammedan servants have been on a forty-day fast. They have one meal at 4:00 a.m. and not even a drink of water between that and next morning at 4:00. All except two are Mohammedans. The Ayah is a Madrasi Hindu and the Khansama a Buddist. There are fourteen servants here now. The fast ended Tuesday night, they having seen the moon that night. All went to their mosque next morning at 5:00 o'clock. As I had visitors it was rather awkward having the Khansama wait on table. He's young and had never done it before and was terribly nervous. The Kitmagar and second man had everything ready before they went and all were back and everything working like clockwork at tiffin time. The Nole day seems to be like our Christmas and is called "Id." Last night there was a general feasting but, as the Mohammedans don't drink anything intoxicating, there were no "hanky-pankys" next morning. All the same I'm glad the fast is over. Some of them had grown very thin and their brains seem to be torpid while the fast is on.

Capt. and Mrs. Rhys-Pryce were with us the first three weeks after Christmas. They are instructors at the Staff College at Quetta, where it is even colder than it is here. He is the son of Gen. Sir Henry Rhys-Pryce, who has just landed a very "cushy" job in Delhi. I did enjoy having the Rhys-Pryces at his wife here. We went to Peshawar City one day, taking the orderly with us to look after the car while we walked around through the bazaars. There's a wonderful native market there and while we were in it six fakirs appeared from the back. They are holy men and these were very different from others I'd seen: they had plenty of clothes on (if the rags they wore could be called clothes) but their coal-black hair was in a terrible mat on top of their heads with long thin braids hanging down. Each one carried a metal begging bowl but did not stop to ask for alms — I was thankful. They had villanous faces though I expect they were as meek as lambs. One cannot take in all the streets at one visit. Each street has a certain thing to sell—slippers, and shoes, pottery, fancy wooden bowls, native-made silver jewelry, rugs, brasswire, fruits, etc.—each has its own street or streets. Captain and Mrs. Pryce took several other trips to the Kyber, etc., where I'd been before. One most interesting trip I took with them was to Shabkader Fort, which is the nearest fort to Gulmai where the fight was last summer. No person is allowed beyond the fort unless on military business, as it is tribal territory. I was quite disappointed as I'd hoped the ban would have been lifted by now. I'd been to the fort before but Commander Wood was not there and we could not go over it. This time we were more fortunate and he took us all over and had a wonderful view of the surrounding country. We were invited to go to the top of a very high, round tower but contented ourselves in seeing it all from the top of a quite high building with a good, flat roof. We had taken tiffin with us from here and ate it on the bank of the Indian River with a very dilapidated ruin of a fort as a background.

Visit to Experimental Farm

A few days later we motored to an experimental government farm, again taking our tiffin with us. We walked, it seemed to me, miles over the most interesting parts with all sorts of grain, vegetables, etc., and hundreds of orange trees, literally loaded with ripe fruit, to see. We had our lunch under an immense tree on one of the lawns, built a fire and had hot pork and beans, hot meat and pastry rolls and all sorts of cold things. Later, each one took a rug and pillow, spread them on the ground and had an hour's sleep. It was a wonderful day for me. The last few days it has been quite warm enough from 11 until four to sit out in the lawn. After that it was chilly and one is glad to have one's tea.

I had a large formal dinner for the Rhys-Pryces and for Col. Yule from Rawal-Puidi, who was staying with friends of ours. The Pryces left on Saturday and on the following Tuesday Major and Mrs. Talbot and their small son arrived, and left on Thursday. They are the cousins with whom I travelled from Montreal to Bombay. They've been stationed at Secunderabad and the Major has been transferred to Kasmark. (?) It is a very wild part of the frontier and no wives or children are allowed, so they stay at Balmu at a very nice mess and are called the "abandoned wives." Mrs. Talbot's parents live in Shedine, N.B., of which many of you have frequently heard. You can imagine how we talked.

There was a very fine fancy dress ball January 2nd. I went with the Pryces but not to costume this year. I stayed quite early indeed and sent the car back for the others. There was a children's fancy dress party at the Club a week later. Nancy went as a Kashmiri girl and David as a donkey. He rode the camel as well as anyone and was very loathe to get off. There were about a hundred children there. After a beautiful supper they played games and were given bags of sweets, and balloons, and ended the party with a truly wonderful display of fireworks. Truly I've seldom seen better.

Merchants From Thibet

For the first time since coming to India we have had merchants from Thibet come to the bungalow with all sorts of odd things to sell: rings of silver or brass, set with different tones, mostly coral or turquoise—these two and carnelians are all found in Thibet, but are not as good as those from some other countries—still they are real and very reasonable. They also have small brass articles, beads of odd shapes, etc. The first one to come was a woman, the first I'd ever seen from Thibet. She was dressed like the women of the poorer class in the bazaar, but on her head wore a cap, cloth top, embroidered in gold thread and the brim had sections of dark fur and her black hair standing in bunches between the sections of her cap brim. She was loaded with jewelry, most of which she refused to sell; she told the Ayah her husband had given them to her. Immense earrings of silver and turquoise, a silver and turquoise pendant at least three inches square, heavy silver bracelets and any number of silver and brass rings. I bought a string of very odd beads from her and an extremely odd brass ring set with turquoise, from a man from Thibet, who came later. They had very odd perfume bottles painted, in some way, inside the bottle and showing very clearly through the glass. Now these have found their way down we will likely have many more come as I'm sure they tell each other where to go.

Rumor of War

There are all sorts of rumors going around the cantonment, regarding there being another war on towards next Fall. Nothing definite, but all the officers are planning to take their short leave early in the Spring, and those promised long leave are wondering if it will be stopped. One rumor was that no long leave would be granted out of India this year, but no one seems to think that at all likely. However all may be just rumors, though no one knows from one day till the next what the savage tribes will be up to.

I must stop now as I've reached the limit for air mail and having only enough stamps for single postage—the P. O. being closed tomorrow—and mail going out to-morrow night. I don't want to risk your not getting this letter.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

MORVEN LADIES' ASSOCIATION

Mrs. John Craig and daughter were "At Home", to about twenty-five friends and members of the Ladies' Association, from two to four on Wednesday, February 7th.

The afternoon was spent in social intercourse and Miss Lillian Babcock and Miss Stella Craig contributed to the enjoyment with several vocal and instrumental numbers.

A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the number of new members enrolled. Delicious refreshments were served at the close.

ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The February meeting of the W. M. S. was held on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Carr, with an attendance of fourteen.

The meeting opened with the president in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Correspondence and discussion of business followed.

Miss Margaret Magee was appointed delegate to the Presbyterial meeting to be held in Napanee. The president, Miss A. Magee, will also be present at the sessions.

A letter was read from the Supply Secretary, stating our allocation for supply work. The treasurer's report was given and showed a balance on hand. Four membership fees were paid at this point. The roll call was answered by a verse of scripture, containing the word "Go."

The programme for the World Day of Prayer, in the Missionary Monthly, was then observed, under the leadership of the president. Prayer was offered by Mrs. W. J. Magee and Rev. Mr. Sanders. The offering was received and the meeting was dismissed, to meet in March, at the home of Mrs. John Magee.

At the close a delightful half hour was spent in social intercourse and refreshments were served by the hostess.

HAWLEY W. M. S.

The February meeting of Hawley Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Ackerman, on Wednesday, February 7th; the president, Mrs. Pretts, in the chair. The members answered the roll call by a verse on peace. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. It was decided by the members to make a contester for the allocation and to do it now while there is ample time. Mrs. Storey read a paper from the study book, on Methodist missions, which was prepared by Miss Mildred Seeley. After singing a hymn, Mrs. Wood conducted the devotional exercises.

Mrs. I. Asselstine read the scripture lesson, followed by a reading by Mrs. Woods, and short readings by various members. A hymn was sung, and the meeting closed with prayer by the president.

Mrs. Ackerman served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Storey.

All ladies are invited to the home of Mrs. I. Asselstine on Friday afternoon, February 23rd, for the World's Day of Prayer programme. The roll call will be answered on prayer.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

The regular monthly meeting of the Busy Bee Mission Band was held at the school on Friday afternoon, February 9th, with eight members and eleven visitors present. The president, Jean Amey, conducted the meeting, which was opened by singing a hymn, after which the minutes were read and approved and business was discussed.

The call to worship was given by the president and the response sung by all, followed with prayer by Sidney Wilson.

The watch tower heralds responded as follows: — India, by Maitland Clark; China, by Sidney Wilson; Japan, by Vivian Craig; Stewardship by Augusta Clark; Temperance, by George Hogeboom; Canada, by Marion Lasher; Korea, by Muriel Craig. The scripture reading was read by Arnold Clark and the memory verse was taught by Marion Lasher, followed with a story by Miss Rutherford. After singing a hymn, the offering was taken by Verna Amey and Roy Clark. The friendship prayer was led by Arnold Clark and the study period by Mrs. Wales, during which she told the story of the honourable family of Wang in which the unwelcome baby girl became a pleasure and a blessing to her people.

The meeting closed with a hymn, followed by the Mizpah benediction.

The next meeting will be held at the school on Wednesday afternoon, March 7th.

MOUNT PLEASANT PIONEER W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute was held on Friday evening February 2nd, at the home of Mrs. F. Henderson. The first vice-president, Mrs. H. Putman, presided.

The meeting opened with the singing of the ode, followed by the Institute creed, in unison. There was a good attendance of members and visitors. The roll call was answered with "simple remedies for children." This was followed by the reading of the minutes of the January meeting. The business part of the meeting was then disposed of. Letters were read from Mr. O. E. Ashley, thanking the Institute for their gifts while in the Kingston Hospital. Relief work was then discussed, the ladies were to meet at Mrs. Milton Doidge's on Thursday to quilt a quilt. The treasurer's report was then read by Mrs. Vernon Oliver. A demonstration was given by Mrs. Fred Henderson on "seven-minute icing." A reading by Mrs. Arthur Sexsmith on "Do and Don'ts for the Institute." Mrs. Harold Putman gave a demonstration on "how to make mittens out of used material." Mrs. Charlie Hawley gave an interesting address on the history of the church.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem, after which a social half hour followed and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and the ladies in charge.

What is Worth Most To Ontario, Live or Dead Attractions?

BY JACK MINER

What is worth most to the people of Ontario, live or dead attractions? Figures show that in North America, less than ten per cent of the population use a gun while the other ninety per cent want to see birds and animals alive and only shoot with kodaks.

While I am not talking politics, yet Ontario has wisely used the unemployed to build good roads through our north country or vast natural parks and I say without hesitation that one family of our big white tailed deer bounding across the highway and possibly stepping into the range of the tourist's kodak and movie cameras is worth more, to more people of Ontario, than twenty-five dead deer hanging back in the woods or even hanging dead in sight of our tourists.

Live attractions are self advertising for illustration: tens of thousands of people go to Yellowstone Park in the United States and they spend tens of thousands of dollars and all they get out of it is the pictures of the bears and other live attractions, yet these photos and movies cause thousands of more people to go and spend their money. Yet our innocent black bear of Ontario has hardly ever had any consideration, and he is one of the most attractive animals Ontario has to-day. If given a chance he would be the most picturesque animal we have in this province. Very true, he is mischievous, but no comparison to a pack of our dogs. Why bless your life, the garbage from the hotels in a small city or town in the North or even a lumber camp, can be placed to bait them where the public could picture them nearly every day in the summer. Such movie pictures would go on the screens in all the big cities at our front or side door to the United States.

These common black bear in Ontario are practically harmless to other game such as deer and moose. As proof of this, moose were so scarce in Ontario that the Government did not allow an open season on them in this province until the Fall of 1930. The bear has always been here and the moose came in and have multiplied and increased in the midst of the bear, by hundreds of thousands. There may be odd cases where a bear kills a calf moose or a sickly or weak cow moose in the spring of the year, but these are so few and far fetched that the moose themselves tell the whole truth by increasing to such numbers. At Metagama, Ontario, in 1900 there were no moose, but lots of bear. Last year Mr. M. U. Bates, in his advertisement to get hunters to come to his camp, stated that during the past three years, forty-five bears had been taken as well as seventy-four bull moose. These bull moose were alive at one time. If bear were destructive the moose wouldn't have increased to such an extent in that district.

Don't think that I am opposed to a limited amount of shooting. Far, far from it, but I do say that ninety per cent of the nature lovers that love live attractions should be considered first. We must allow other live attractions to multiply, protected by careful Government legislation and co-operation and education of the settlers and trappers, who live there.

For illustration, it was estimated that there were 20,000 American cars at my home last spring, to see the geese; I have no proof of the exact number, but we do know there were over four hundred cars parked here at once. How many cars would come to see a pile of dead geese? This what is worth most to Ontario, live or dead attractions?

Do it now, delays are dangerous. We pass this way but once.

Who abuses himself gains a lot— but it's in the cemetery.

WESLEY LADIES' AID

In January the Ladies' Aid of Wesley United Church met at the home of Mrs. Clancy for the annual election of officers. The officers elected for 1934 were as follows:— President, Mrs. Allen Moore; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Walter Clancy; Treasurer, Mrs. Ross McKeown; Secretary, Mrs. Harold R. Nugent. Rev. Anderson, who was present, spoke very kindly of the retiring president, Mrs. Walter Clancy, and on behalf of the Ladies' Aid, thanked her for her leadership of the last two years. On January 25th, the first monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at Mrs. Allen Moore's, the new president. Mrs. Moore presided. Five members answered the roll call and the usual business was dispensed with. Mrs. Walter Clancy gave an interesting reading entitled "It shows in your face." Miss Daisy Moore also gave a splendid reading entitled "The things that Haven't been done Before."

The meeting closed with the reading of a beautiful prayer.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Keeping the Lamb Flavour

Lamb does not improve by sleeping after the carcass has become thoroughly cool and firm. It requires no maturing to give tenderness, and long keeping tends to lose the delicate "lamb" flavour. Mutton, on the other hand, to be in the best condition should be "matured" on hooks for a few days or to a week or longer according to the available temperature. Well hung mutton is more tender and of better flavour than when it is eaten freshly killed. It is probably at its best at the end of from ten to fifteen days storage in a dry atmosphere at a temperature of 40 to 45 degrees.

Baling Sheep Pelts

When sheep, pelts have to be shipped a long distance to market, they should be carefully spread wool side down, paying close attention to see that all wrinkles or folds are carefully straightened out in the head, side and leg pieces. Salt—about a pound and a half to a pelt — should then be evenly sprinkled over the pelt, which is left spread out for a few days until the salt melts and soaks in. It can then be hung out to dry. Drying may be hastened if the pelts are stretched by tacking to a wall or fence in a manner similar to the practice in handling the pelts of fur-bearing animals. When the sheep pelts are thoroughly dry they may be shipped in sacks by placing one on top of the other, and baled in lots of 15 to 25 according to size and weight

Skim Milk or Meat

In order that a poultryman may get every cent of profit coming to him he must availh imself of all the means at his disposal to produce cheaply. When whole milk is sold anywhere from sixty cents to a dollar a hundred pounds, skim milk has little value; yet, if it is fed to poultry, it will bring fair returns. If skim milk were used instead of beef scraps as a source of animal feed, poultrymen would cut down on their feed bill and their cost of egg production at the same time.

An experiment conducted at one of the Dominion Experimental Stations, for five seasons, proved rather conclusively that the lot of birds receiving skim-milk laid more eggs and gained more weight than the one which was fed beef scrap, other feeds being the same. Skim-milk should always be fed sweet or always sour so as to avoid bowel troubles. Where skim-milk is not available beef scrap will have to be resorted to.

Minerals for Poultry

With regard to mineral foods for poultry, as a considerable percentage of dry matter in both egg and fowl is composed of mineral elements, it is evident the demand for food containing these elements will be urgent, particularly with a rapid growing bird or one producing a large number of eggs. Under free range conditions, these mineral elements will be obtained largely through the ordinary feeds, and the green food, insects, and grit that are picked up on the range. Where fowls are more or less closely confined, it becomes necessary to supply the mineral foods and the question of the most suitable form in which they can be obtained becomes important.

U. K. Increasingly Important As Outlet for Ontario Honey

According to George R. Paterson, Departmental official, the United Kingdom market is becoming increasingly important each year as an outlet for Canadian honey. Prior to 1928 the three principal sources of imported honeys found in the British markets were the United States, British West Indies and New Zealand. In 1931, however, Canada stood second in importance among the various competing countries.

British buyers and consumers have been favourably impressed with most Canadian honey offered. And as the average per capita consumption in Great Britain is but one-quarter pound of honey per year, there appears to be considerable room for development in this market. There is every reason to believe that, with a return purchasing power consumers will take more readily of this valuable food product.

Inasmuch as most of the Canadian honey exported is produced in Ontario, it is of vital importance that Ontario beekeepers study carefully the requirements of the British honey market.

The Poultry House

The poultry house 20 feet deep on the Experimental Station at Harrow has always shown its superiority over houses of shallower construction, particularly in exposed situations. There is a more comfortable condition, a freedom from draughts, and a higher temperature in the house of this depth, providing the north, east and west walls are tightly constructed. At this season of the year these cold winds find their way through cracks and crevices in a house which appears to be storm proof, and a check-up some cold windy night on these conditions, if they exist, is a good practice. Loose windows and doors or alley-ways on the north side are dangerous as slight colds may lead to more serious complications, and will certainly check production.

The Countryside Beautiful!

There is every evidence that Ontario has definitely passed out of the pioneer stage and is rapidly assuming the attitude and appearance of a mature country. The people of the province, rural as well as urban, are developing a sincere interest in things of beauty and this should be encouraged in every way possible.

The Ontario Agricultural College is doing all it can to foster an interest in beautifying farm homes and the countryside in general. One of its activities in this line is the conducting of free short courses at the College which are open to men and women of any age.

Beginning on February 5th there is being given a one-week short course in floriculture. This will include instruction in growing all kinds of garden flowers, as well as house plants. Then beginning on February 12th, there will be a course relating more particularly to landscape gardening including studies of all kinds of trees, shrubbery and perennial flowering plants and the proper use and arrangement of these for the best effects around farm and town homes.

This should be a real opportunity for all persons interested in developing more beautiful home surroundings and a more attractive countryside.

Marketing Weak Spot

"Unregulated deliveries to the Union Stock Yards is a definite weak spot in livestock marketing," stated Garnet H. Duncan, Livestock Commissioner, Ontario Marketing Board.

He said that, in the past, when all shipments were made by rail, offerings for the day were on the market by approximately 9.00 a.m. At that hour, therefore, buyers were aware of the amount of available stock. To-day, however, while railroad shipments remain on the same basis of delivery, truck deliveries are not at all uniform.

"In my opinion," he continued, "a definite time limit should be set for truck deliveries. In this way, uncertainty as to the amount of stock in transit would be eliminated, so that both buyer and commission man are concerned.

"The present method of making truck deliveries, during all trading hours, destroys stability in prices; curtails the usefulness of the commission man; gives an unfair advantage to the buyer, and forces the producer to assume the incidental loss.

"This condition only lends further emphasis to the fact that, if the producer is to be protected, every shipment of livestock should be made under a bill of lading, consigning the stock to a specific commission house."

Adults Require Eight Hours Sleep a Night

Plenty of sleep is necessary for clear skin. Authorities estimate that adults require approximately seven hours and fifty minutes of sleep every night and that it is better to stay up one night each week than to try and get along on six hours.

Some day when your mirror tells you that your skin has a slightly grayish tint to it, make up your mind that you will sleep nine hours that night and eight hours for the succeeding three or four nights. Then examine your skin again. The chances are that the wan look will have disappeared.

Drinking ten glasses of water a day and eating fresh fruits and vegetables help the complexion.

Circles under the eyes, small lines across the forehead or vertical ones between the eyebrows sometimes can be erased by sleep and rest.

See that your bed is comfortable and, if at all possible, don't use a pillow. Keeping your back, neck and head in a straight line while sleeping will go far toward eliminating a stiff neck.

Sleep with the windows open. There never should be a draught directly on the bed.

AT PEACE WITH THE KITCHEN

WHAT MAKES A GOOD MUFFIN

The proof of the pudding is in the eating and so it is of the muffin. Tastes differ but it is generally agreed that the good muffin is light, tender and free of tunnels, has a crisp, brown crust and a slightly rounded top without peaks. This is the standard whether for plain or sweet, bran, whole wheat, rye or rice muffins; or for those to which raisins, dates, prunes, berries, jam, olives or bacon have been added; or for those topped with fruit or nuts. By the way, even in this long list, we have not named all the variations which a good cook can think of.

After deciding what a good muffin is, how shall the cook make it? First of all, get a good recipe and follow it exactly. There is one important rule of mixing that is the secret of success—do not over-stir the batter. Do all the stirring you like before adding the flour. Then count each stroke of the spoon with an idea of using the fewest possible. Stir only until the flour is moistened and disappears.

The egg mixture is the basic recipe for all others. Raisins and other dried fruits, and nuts can be added without changing the recipe. For bacon muffins, about a third of the shortening can be omitted and a half cup of diced crisply fried bacon added. (Left over bacon is fine.) When other flours or cereals are used in place of all or part of the white flour, the recipe must be modified. It is best to use the recipes especially worked out for each kind of flour.

For bran muffins there are other secret of success in addition to the little extra liquid and shortening that is usually allowed. The crumbled or flake bran which has been thoroughly cooked and prepared as a breakfast cereal, is excellent. It will be crisp when poured from the package. It softens readily when soaked, it absorbs large quantities of moisture and swells in bulk. It is this softened and increased bulk which is largely responsible for the laxative effect of bran. And it is the soaking of the bran which gives the good bran muffin its even fluffy texture. When using bran muffins, remember both secrets for success—soak the bran, and stir the batter as little as possible.

Do you know that muffins can be mixed using only one bowl? Try the recipe for Bran Muffins or Egg Muffins, mixing as directed and surprise yourself with the few dishes there will be to wash. These recipes are so easy that you won't want to make them upon every occasion.

Egg Muffins

Three tablespoons shortening.
One quarter cup sugar.
Two eggs.
One cup milk.
Two cups flour.
TThree teaspoons baking powder.
Three-quarters teaspoon salt.

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, stirring only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full and bake in moderate oven (400 degrees F.), about 25 minutes.

Yield: 12 medium muffins.

Rice Muffins

One-quarter cup sugar.
Three-quarters cup boiled rice.
One egg.
Two tablespoons shortening (melted).
One cup milk.
Five teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
Two and one-quarter cups flour.

Mix sugar, boiled rice, egg, melted shortening, and milk. Sift baking powder, salt, and flour together and add. Bake in greased muffin pans in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 30 minutes.

Miller's Worm Powders are par excellence the medicine for children who are found suffering from the ravages of worms. They immediately alter the stomachic conditions under which the worms subsist and drive them from the system, and, at the same time, they are tonical in their effect upon the digestive organs, restoring them to healthful operation and ensuring immunity from further disorders from such a cause.

Profesor Huxley On "Ants and Men"

Professor Huxley, in a recent address, said that ever since the time of Solomon the ant had been held up to mankind by moralists as an example of virtue, and by some politicians as a warning as to what would happen if we departed in Socialism. Masterlinck had gone even further, and had said that since the ants were more clever and more successful in some ways than we were, we would have to take care lest we were outdistanced in the evolutionary race. But although I write ant was more clever than man, and ants did not control the things they did.

To explain why the evolution of the ant had come to an end, Professor Huxley offered these speculations. They were, he said, no more than speculations. The breathing apparatus of the insect organism of the adult size quite well, but was not efficient for larger creatures. An insect the size of a rat would be a problem because it could not breathe properly. If it were otherwise human beings would probably never have existed on this earth, and no vertebrates would have had a chance. The ant had reached its limit as big as terriers. Again, because of their small size, ants could live on very small brains, and therefore had no capacity to accumulate experience. Small brains led to the ants' special being on instinct, whereas mankind had specialised on experience, which gave a quicker and more rapid evolution.

Solomon's Mistake

Solomon, continued Professor Huxley, said "Go to the ant, thou sluggard." This injunction was entirely wrong. If man went to the ants he would find a rather vicious state of affairs.

"Ants, like men, have many vices. They are addicted to drink. They keep domestic animals, and have castrations of a certain type of beetle, and to obtain it they will go to any length. They sell sacrifice their own offspring; they will allow beetles to eat their own offspring, and they have been observed to rescue parasite grubs rather than their own progeny when danger threatened. Some of them are also slave-traders. Others are nomad freebooters and carry on the lives of privateers.

"They are the only creatures besides man who keep domestic animals, employ child labour, war against each other, and carry on a system of agriculture. They have an elaborate caste system. Some ants keep domestic animals and others cultivate plants."—Miscellany in The Manchester Guardian.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Feb. 12. — On Friday evening the Y. P. U. of the United Church, met in the R. E. Building and held their second session of mock parliament, which opened with a splendid address by the Rev. M. R. Brown. After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, Mr. Ferguson took the chair. The bill discussed at the previous meeting, "Resolved that all unmarried men, twenty-four and over, be taxed," past its first reading. A private members' bill was brought in by Mr. E. Bradley, opposition member. That it would be in the best interests of Canada to form official trade relations with Russia. Mr. C. L. Wagar, leader of the opposition, ably defended this bill and the prime minister, Mr. E. Huffman, defended his government on the attitude they took on this issue at the present time. After a display of oratorical skill and a late hour having been reached, the session adjourned until the next meeting on March 16th.

On Friday night, the members of the parish of Marlbank, Enterprise and Tamworth, met in the Town Hall to bid farewell to Rev. R. A. Fenner, Mrs. Fenner, and son, Edward "Ted" who are leaving this parish on Tuesday, February 13th to take up duties near Belleville, with headquarters at Maitland. During the evening a suitable address was read by Mr. R. K. Stinson, and a purse of money was presented by Mr. Thomas Young. Rev. Fenner made a very fitting reply. Games were indulged in for some time, after which a bountiful lunch was served.

Recipes That Call For The Banana

Pudding, Fritters and Toast Made With This Nourishing Fruit

The banana is a staple food, substituting for potatoes, a nourishing food. And it may be served in a variety of ways.

Here are some delicious dishes most suitable for this time of year. First, baked banana pudding.

Butter a pie dish, sprinkle it with breadcrumbs, then spread over a little raspberry jam, and arrange a layer of sliced bananas. Sprinkle with a few drops of lemon juice, then sprinkle with sugar.

Sprinkle over more breadcrumbs, dot with butter, and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Serve with custard.

Crisp Fritters

Banana fritters are deservedly popular. Prepare some ripe bananas, cut them into pieces lengthwise, making three pieces from one banana.

Place them in a shallow dish, squeeze over some lemon juice, and sprinkle with sugar.

Make a stiffish batter, by beating one egg, one tablespoonful cornflour, and a little milk, and stand for at least half an hour.

Dip the pieces well with the batter, then fry in smoking fat and drain on soft paper. Sprinkle with sugar and serve at once.

Savoury Toast

Now for a savoury snack for supper.

Peel the bananas, cut them in halves, and sprinkle with salt, pepper, and a little grated onion. Brush with egg, coat with fine breadcrumbs then fry in hot fat.

Serve on toast with a little grated nutmeg on the top.

Discomposed is how you look after you have been dead a long time.

Lady Jane Grey sat on the thorn for a few days only, and when Queen Elizabeth remarked that she was executed, she died saying if I had served you as you have served me you would have been dead long ago.

"Habeas Corpus" was a phrase much used during the Great Plague of London, and means "Bring out your dead."

THE LITTLE PIECE

BY C. GORDON GLOVER

When Mr. Hockey's voice broke with jocular hoarseness into the exhortation "Time to it now girl, we have that little piece of yours, Lily's heart seem to stop. The troubled waters of her mind sectored and smoothed, leaving it still and blank. Nobody knew, nobody, what the saying of the little piece meant to Lily. The terror of public performance assailed her night and day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hockey doted on her, of course, talked about the prizes she won at school for saying poetry, never lost an opportunity for gathering together their friends of an evening, bringing Lily down, setting her in the centre of the hearth, and bidding her recite. On these occasions the bluff enthusiasm of her father terrified her. He would wing round at his friends and say to them, "Now listen to 'er, she's a fair treat. Go on, Lil, let it go." And if she hesitated she would hear her mother say with a gentleness which was almost worse than her fathers' robust commands, "Come on, Lily there's a good girl. We're all waiting, you know." Yes, they were all waiting, all of them with their smiling faces, waiting for her to start in her thin, pipping voice.

"A number of rooks flew over her head,
Crying 'Caw, caw' on their way home to bed.
The cows in the pasture were settling to sleep
And down from the hills came the sound of the sheep.
'Baa, Baa'."

Oh, but the little piece was a nightmare.

When her father told her that his friends the Maddles were coming in after supper that night, she knew what it would mean.

The Failure

The last time the Maddles had come she had been called upon to say her little piece. Hardly had she got through the first two lines than Mr. Maddle had slapped his fleshy knees and winked as he said, "So that's what they teach 'em at school, bits about birds, eh ?" Her mother had turned on him and snapped, "Don't talk so silly, Mr. Maddle. Of on, duckie, don't mind him." But she had been unable to go on. Where the flood gates should have been was an abominable vacancy, going down, down into the pit of her stomach. "Go on, my girl," her father had commanded, and then, growing red in the face, "Go on, Lil. I said, don't stand there gaping." She was letting him down, she knew it. The faces seemed to swell before her, her mouth was dry, the hot sting of tears tinted the backs of her eyes, and suddenly she screamed, "I can't go on—I can't." And later there had been an unforgettable interview with Mr. Hockey, who demanded to know what he 'paid good school fees for, who asserted that he had been going to look a fool before the Maddles, who, in a sudden burst of uncontrolled and regrettable temper, had shaken his fist in her face and roared, "Don't you have one more of it, see—or there'll be trouble."

And now the Maddles were coming in again. Any day she tried to get off her mind, but it would not leave her alone. Lily went back to the parlour, where she bent over the reciter, clutching at the elusive phrases, which danced and sauntered before her, tossing her fingers into her ears and murmuring, the little piece over and over again, lost in the sound of her own voice echoed to her oddly. And she knew that no sooner was she on the road that evening, than her knees would go to flannel, and her mouth become dry, and her mind become vacant. She had tried so hard to explain, these unendeavouring parents of her mother and father, but they had silenced her by saying, "Don't talk so daft, Lil." They just didn't understand.

The Maddles arrived and settled themselves in. Lily sat on the window seat pretending to read a book, but her ears were listening to the talk, her whole person was tensed for that moment when Mr. Hockey would turn to his guests and say, "Well, and how about a little music-all, eh ?"—the jocular method he always employed as compared to his daughter's turn. And then, "Now, my girl, come along and let's have that little piece of yours." And her mother—"Yes, that's right, Lily, say the one about the rooks." She sat there, waiting for that blinding, choking moment when she would have to smile and stand before them all with their great ears and their senseless grins.

But Mr. Hockey and Mr. Maddle were talking of other things, and the women were disposing of a mutual acquaintance. Through some strange, inconsequence they seemed to have forgotten her entirely. The clatter of talk flowed on behind her. The little piece tumbled sickeningly through Lily's head. If only they'd hurry up before she went quite mad, forgot everything in her misery. But the talk went on, and the hands of the clock moved round, and suddenly the Maddles were rising and saying good night, Mr. Hockey was ushering them into the hall. There was the bang of the front door.

Her parents found her born with tears when they came back. She was stretched upon the window seat, rocking to the delivery of hard sobs. "Why Lil, my girl, what's up ?" demanded Mr. Hockey. Between her sobs she jerked, "You—never asked—me—to say my—piece. And I, and I . . ."

Then she was weeping passionately and Mr. and Mrs. Hockey scratched their heads and looked at one another in amazement. "And I never asked her a'purpose," said Mr. Hockey.

A correspondent says that the following advertisement appeared recently in a German newspaper: "Advertiser desires to exchange 1932 model Benz-Mercedes, good condition, for an Aryan grandmother."

STOCKING DOLLS

Every house has a supply of old stockings, and from these can be made amusing and unbreakable dolls which every children's hospital and day nursery will gratefully accept. The stockings must be of some human colour. Some sort of pink or sunburn is fine for white dolls, for Indians, or black for Topsies. If you can beg some of your old aunt's old waters of her mind sectored and smoothed, leaving it still and blank. Nobody knew, nobody, what the saying of the little piece meant to Lily. The terror of public performance assailed her night and day.

Cut off sufficient length from the top of the stocking to make the body. Remember that stuffing will shorten it. Sew or machine up the cut end tightly. Fasten off firmly. The doll will suffer great wear and tear and must start with a good constitution. Next cut out two circles to form the head. Cut two arms and two legs from the lower part of the stocking and let the fold come at the back of the leg and under the arm. The upper part of the leg should be half the width of the body, so that the two legs may fit on well. Sew or machine the leg and arm pieces, leaving them open at the top for stuffing. Join the two head pieces leaving a small opening for stuffing.

All that is left of the stocking is then snipped up and used for stuffing. Any old rags can be used as stuffing. If the supply is insufficient, a few yards of any wadding will stuff several dolls. Do not use bran, as if a hole is poked in the doll, she will have the best of intentions and nurses will not bless you.

Stuff body, head, and limbs tightly, but leave about an inch unstuffed at the top of the arm to form a flap by means of which to sew it to the shoulder and obtain a movable joint. Sew up the stuffed limbs and sew the legs to the body with strong thread. Fold the flap of the arm over the shoulder and set it firmly. By stuffing the arm thus, it will move up and down freely. Sew on the head.

The doll is now ready to be dressed, and for this you must be guided by the scraps of stuff at your disposal. If you have made a nigger baby, all that she needs is a short, full petticoat of some bright cretonne or other stuff. Her eyes you make with two little white glove buttons. Her hair is the cut strokes of scarlet wool. Sew some thick black wool in loops round her face so that they stand out and she is complete, a Topsy that can be thrown across the room without breaking.

Fair dolls can be dressed as either little girls or boys. Their faces can be made with red wool or brown stitches form eyebrows, some lines of red for the mouth, and two black buttons for eyes. Loops of brown or dull yellow wool form the hair, and must be sewn tightly to the head, which soon pick it off. The back of the head of the girl dolls is best covered with a piece of the closely round the face and lets the fringe of hair show. A bow under the chin will hide the join of head and body. Girl dolls should have an under petticoat of cotton and a bodice. Little boys are suitably dressed in knickers of velveteen or cloth and a coloured shirt. Both should have a well covered by a crocheted beret or jelly-bag cap which hides all except the fringe of hair.

More elaborate dolls can be made to this pattern, but they are of more difficult stuff. The faces in this case can be painted by means of a fine brush and water colour, or by the use of method which permits of a good deal of expression being given.

Canadian Lamb Best In The World

Canadian farmers are producing the best lamb in the world, according to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, yet we, as a people, are only recently coming to appreciate this fact. Our per capita consumption is just over seven pounds. In 1933 some 800,000 animals were slaughtered in Canada than during the previous year. Fully eighty-five per cent of our lamb crop is baby stock grown lamb produced on luscious pastures from the rockies to the ocean, east and west.

The surplus of grass grown lamba is put into cold storage for consumption during the winter and early spring months. This supply is now being augmented from the heavy slaughterings of grain fed lambs produced mainly on the prairie and foot hills country and finished in the feed lots. The sheep industry is being gradually but steadily organized so that a regular and steady supply of choice product is available to the housewife as she wants it, instead of being eaten each year, and as consumption increases there will be a corresponding increase in production to meet the demand.

The present is an opportune time for pushing the advantageously of a slight adjustment in the family budget, so as to include more lamb dishes each week. It is one of the healthiest meats for a growing family and may be served in a cold. Legs, roasts and chops provide a variety of cuts from which to select. Being a choice Canadian product that has little export outlet, increased purchases of lamb will tend to relieve pressure on the home market provided for under the Ottawa Conference Agreement.

EVOLUTION OF TRACTOR HITCHES

The success of big-scale farming depends largely upon the amount of work one man accomplishes. By the use of tractors the amount of work done is increased in proportion to the increase in the power he directs. A tractor not equipped for light, a load is not only working inefficiently but the amount of work accomplished by the operator is less than he is able to do. The purpose of the tractor hitch is to permit building up an economical load for the tractor and driver. Forced by the necessity of devising means of pulling more than one implement by tractor, many farmers in Western Canada developed many types of successful hitches which were studied by engineers towards the designing of the standard hitches now in vogue.

The Bee Cure

One of the exhibitors at the National Honey Show at the Crystal Palace, London, has raised the old point about the benefit of bee-stings to sufferers from rheumatism. He himself evidently regards them as a sovereign remedy:—

"Like all beekeepers I was stung frequently. The more I was stung the less I was troubled with rheumatism. This year I have been stung hundreds of times. My rheumatism has gone."

On his showing the jolly old bee seems a bit of an ungrateful beast—it evidently freely and firmly bites the hand that feeds it and puts up its little wooden hive. Or does it know that it is curing the Theumatics and does it bite to show its deep sense of obligation ?

And what about wasps ? They appear in most houses far more frequently than bees; therefore one may perhaps assume that they grow of the human kind more often. Are wasp stings good for anything; do they cure water on the knee, buzzing in the ears, or that feeling of fullness after meals ? If not, why not ? It seems a little unfair that bees should be the only beeholders of medicine that the people in their own best interests.

One authority says that hornet stings have the same curative effect as bee stings, because a few years ago a gentleman then living at Naples, Canada, accidentally sat down on a hornet's nest " (it would be by the way, a bold man who purposely selected such a seat) and, after recovering from the stings, was seldom troubled by the rheumatism to which he had been a victim before. So those who suffer from rheumatism and who do not "keep a bee" should perhaps go out and look for a hornet. But it would be a stern remedy to take in cold blood —even with the whole of Niagara waiting for you to jump into if the treatment seemed too intense. Perhaps a local anaesthetic would ease the situation — though the trouble would then be to get the bees, wasps, or hornets to confine their attentions to the arpoured area.

HARVESTING IN INDIA

Harvest time varies in different parts of India between March and April. The wheat is allowed to get dead ripe before it is harvested and cutting is all done by hand by means of small hooks. The cutting is generally done by labourers, on the share system, but in some parts of India the crop can be cut and tied into sheaves for a contract cash payments of approximately a dollar an acre. From the harvest fields, the bundles are brought in carts to the threshing floor where the grain is trodden out by bullocks. These bullocks are tied round a central pole to which they are tied, treading out the grain as they go round. The work is tiresome and slow. In addition to separating the grain, the action of the hoofs of the bullocks is to bruise and break up the dry straw into small fragments. This broken straw is known as bhusa and is the chief form of cattle fodder for the rest of the year. The grain is winnowed from the chaff by hand during the prevalence of hot dry west winds—
G. S. Henderson, Director of Agriculture, Bihar and Orissa, India.

Some New Varieties Of Sweet Corn

(Experimental Farms Note)

Profit in the growing of sweet corn from the market-gardening standpoint is dependent upon earliness. The very early crop sells readily at a distinct profit. The late crop is practically unsaleable. For this reason the growing of corn for market is confined to districts noted for their earliness. But this is only one factor in the production of early corn. The question of variety is also a very important consideration, and one which has been overlooked to a large extent by the majority of growers.

For many years, the variety Golden Bantam has been considered a standard. Its ear, ear, colour and outstanding quality hang it easily first as a main crop variety. It is not early. However, and plant breeders everywhere have been endeavouring to produce an early variety equal to Golden Bantam, in size and quality. Of the varieties tested at the Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, N.B., two developed by the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, have proven distinctly promising.

Banting is ten days to two weeks earlier than Golden Bantam, but may be criticized on account of size of ear, and it is only fair in quality. The variety Dorinny, under a one year's test has proven to be intermediate in season between Banting and Golden Bantam. The ear is slightly longer than that of Banting, but not as large as that of Golden Bantam. In quality, it approaches Golden Bantam.

Both Banting and Dorinny sell readily on account of their resemblance to Golden Bantam in external appearance, and, on account of their earliness, are well worthy of a trial by all market-gardeners.

ENEMY OF MAN'S SUPREMACY

Notwithstanding their remarkably interesting structure, transformation and habits, insects as a group are the most dangerous of the animal kingdom. They are, in fact, man's chief competitors for the supremacy of the earth. In the whole world over 600,000 different kinds of insects have been studied, and probably as many more distinct species await classification. Man and insects want the same things for food, and they want to occupy the same places.

Interesting Business Transacted at Session Ontario Legislature

Mass Buying Power Probe at Ottawa Commended

An attack on mass buying by department stores and radio factories was made in the Legislature by F. J. McArthur, Conservative member for Northumberland, in speaking on the Speech from the Throne debate and in which it was charged that the condition of affairs brought about the Stratford strike, necessitating to call out troops. Mass buying, he asserted, had reduced employees in Stratford factories to the position of "Egyptian slaves," and while not quarrelling with capitalism, efforts of the big buyers were forcing workingmen into the dust.

Mr. McArthur expressed the opinion that the Stevens commission at Ottawa, is one of the greatest forward steps to remove the present situation existing over mass-buying. This responsibility rests on the Conservative party, and he felt the party's shoulders are broad enough, their courage high enough, to stand up under the load and to see to it that all classes get a fair and square deal.

He also asked a fair price for the tomato growers, urging that the canners go into conference with the growers in order to arrive at some equitable arrangement. Whether this is done, he said, he intended asking for an investigation into the canning industry.

"Farmers are not complaining of their interest rates," declared Mr. McArthur, "as some would have us believe. Farmers are not asking for preferences or charity. All they want is a fair price for their commodities. If they get a fair price they will be able to pay taxes and interest rates. Governments have gone to a great deal of trouble to find markets, but of what use are markets if they bring profits to the middleman and not to the producer? I want to see the farmers get the benefit of these markets."

Compulsory Registration of Fruit and Vegetable Growers

The Agricultural Committee of the Legislature met a large deputation representing the Vegetable Growers' Council, who discussed various phases of their proposal for compulsory registration of all fruit and vegetable growers and also a licensing fee. The fee suggested was $1 to $3 depending on the amount of land being used, the funds to go to the council to directly aid marketing. A sub-committee was appointed which will later meet the Growers' Council to determine what policy should be followed and a report will be made back to the main committee.

A measure seeking to lessen divorce actions heard at the residence of the litigants, sponsored by W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal South Grey, was left on the order paper, pending a report on this and other issues such as collusion, perjury, etc., arising in divorce actions, is received by Attorney-General W. H. Price from judges of the Supreme Court. Under present conditions, many actions are taken into other municipalities rather than having them heard at the place of residence of the litigants.

Mr. Sinclair Speaks on Speech From Throne

While speaking on the debate on the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Sinclair reiterated his stand taken in 1933 when he offered assistance and co-operation to those in power in order to help the people. Mr. Sinclair said he had been charged by his Liberal colleagues with political strategy in view of this attitude, but he informed the public now that he could refrain from helping in aiding recovery to normal conditions.

"If I was misjudged, in my conscience is clear," he said. "If I erred it was because of my judgment. When the ship is in danger the condition of the sailor calls for the safety of the passengers first."

Mr. Sinclair strongly supported the inter-provincial conference recently held under premiers of Premier Bennett, at Ottawa, and including Premier Henry, declaring that results from this parley would mean the solvency of Canada being guaranteed by ensuring the solvency of the Provinces. He urged the various provincial governments of different political beliefs each assist the other in fighting a way out from financial difficulties and present conditions.

The report of the Liquor Control Board for the year that closed October 31st last was tabled by Attorney-General W. H. Price, which showed a decrease in both sales and profits, the figures being a new low in the history of the board. Sales totalled $30,143,367 including those from the six Government and Brewers' warehouses, while the profit to the board amounted to $8,421,621.

The Legal Bills Committee of the Legislature, presided over by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, heard the case made by Solicitor Ernest McCoughrin of Orillia, as to alleged "trafficking in offices," in connection with the government move to provide a compassionate $2,000 allowance to the magistrate. Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, acting as government counsel, examined several witnesses, including I. A. Humphrise, K.C., acting Deputy-Attorney-General, who disclosed that there are many re-

Weather 30 Years Ago Similar to 1934

The Beaver files of thirty years ago, 1904, reveal some interesting facts concerning the weather of January and February of that year. There was cold weather and plenty of it, that year just as there has been this year.

On January 8th, 1904 issue, it was reported the thermometer registered 33 degrees below on the preceding Sunday; 32 below on Monday and 38 below on Tuesday.

In the January 22nd issue the temperature was reported as 35 degrees below on Monday, 38 degrees below on Tuesday and on Wednesday there was a general thaw.

On January 29th, 1904, a Grand Trunk engineer is credited with the statement that it was the worst winter experienced in 32 years.

On Tuesday, February 9th, it was 30 degrees below zero at 7:00 a.m. In the week of Feb. 19th, snow blocked the roads so badly that Newburgh was cut off from communication with the outside world for three days. The thermometer registered the same week, from 20 to 28 degrees below.

The paper of the week of February 26th, 1904, said: "It rained all day Sunday and on Wednesday it dropped to 15 degrees below zero. Again the following week, there was a change in weather and on Wednesday, March 2nd, 1904, there was heavy rain accompanied by a violent thunderstorm.

Grant is Sought By Kingston Fair

Ottawa. — The claims of Kingston, Ont., Fair were urged on Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, by Hon. Duncan Marshall, K.C., on Tuesday, February 13th. The Fair does not come under the class B. definition fixed by the Federal Department, and consequently does not receive the $1,500 a year grant given to such fairs by the Dominion Government.

M. Sager Sentenced in N. Y. To Prison

Chief Watts received word, last week, from the chief of police of Dunkirk, N. Y., concerning the trial of Maurice Sager, the Napanee youth held there on three charges.

The report said that three indictments were returned on February 13 against Sager, charging unlawful carrying of weapons after a previous conviction, (2) grand larceny, (3) attempt to escape. Sager was arraigned immediately following the report of the grand jury. He entered a plea of guilty to each charge. Sentences were suspended in the charges of grand larceny and attempt to escape, but on the other charge of carrying a concealed weapon, he was given a term of not less than three and half years, nor more than seven years, in the Attica state's prison.

Legion Entertainment Successful Event

Large Attendance at Benefit Euchre-Dance at Armouries

The splendid attendance at the benefit euchre and dance held in the Napanee Armouries on Tuesday evening, February 13th, was very gratifying to the sponsors of the entertainment, the Napanee Legion Branch 137, B.E.S.L. The weather was decidedly cold and road conditions were bad, but in spite of obstacles, many people were present from some distance in the country.

About 120 people were engaged in playing euchre during the earlier part of the evening. The prizes went to: Ladies' first, Mrs. Gehan; gents' first, Mr. Hay; ladies' lone, Ethel Brown; gents' lone, B. Gilbert; ladies' consolation, Mrs. F. H. McCutcheon; gents' consolation, C. Brennan.

Later the Komedy Kids orchestra supplied music for the dancing.

"Bingo" as usual was a popular form of amusement during the evening, and the hot dog stand also did a rushing business.

A great many prizes were offered, mostly all donated by friends of the Legion. The door prizes went as follows: Washer, J. Lowry, Mowat; Dennis, electric clock, A. Wilson, Kingston; 5 lbs. Daly Tea, Miss Gonyea, Kingston; hair wave, Garnet Chatterson; 25 lbs. flour, Don. Caton. The men's step dance prize, a humidor of cigars went to Ray Maracle, Deseronto, and the ladies step dance prize to Miss Young, Napanee.

Mr. R. Carey of Napanee, won the table lamp; C. W. Buchanan, the end table; Clarence Drew, the smoker; W. Sweetman, Kingston, the card table and Miss Bernice Kaylor the 3 lbs. box of chocolates.

The proceeds of the entertainment, after all expenses are paid, are expected to amount to over $150.00.

Many Prizes Awarded At Skating Carnival

Large Number Spectators Watch Events

The carnival arranged by the management of the Napanee Skating Rink, and held on Friday night after postponement from the preceeding Friday, attracted a large number of spectators and speculators.

The long list of events were entered into with enthusiasm by young and older people. Splendid prizes had been purchased by the management and proved an incentive for keen competition. During the early part of the evening and at intervals throughout the programme, music was provided by the Boys' Band under the leadership of Mr. M. A. Epplett.

Many of the junior events had to be run off in relays, as there were so many entrants. The events and prize winners for the juniors were:—

Boys, 10 years and under — J. Holmes, Warren Gilbert.

Girls, 10 years and under — Eva Murphy.

Boys, 11 to 14 years — Dorland Barrager, Les. Woods.

Girls, 11 to 14 years — Dorothy Murphy, Margaret Young.

Boys, 15 to 18 years — Ken. Murphy, Gerald Simmons.

Girls, 15 to 18 years— Jean Gerow, Vera Simmons.

Boy Scout Special—Walter Kimmerly, Dorland Barrager.

Boys, Free-for-All — K. Murphy, T. Bentley.

Girls, Free-for-All — Jean Gerow, Margaret Gerow.

The other best fancy costumes went to Dorothy Wilson and Fern Gerow for girls twelve years and under; Ted Pyke and Jamie Fanning, son, for boys twelve years and under, and to Eva Elliott and Mrs. Schultz for best ladies' costume.

The judging of the best gentlemen skaters was a difficult task, so difficult in fact that four first prizes were finally given to Ray Walker, H. Gerow, Don. Miller and Jack Cook.

Boy Faces Charge Of Manslaughter

Inquest into Death of Everton Smith

Barrie. — Herbert Armstrong, 20-year-old truck driver of Stayner, Ont., was charged with manslaughter today in connection with the death of Everton Smith, 36, of Enterprise, Ont., killed while a passenger in Armstrong's truck, which ran into a moving Canadian Pacific train near Midhurst Station, February 9th.

The charge was placed following the inquest into Smith's death. Armstrong, when he appeared in court, was remanded for preliminary hearing until February 20th, before Magistrate Compton B. Jeffs.

In his verdict the Coroner's jury recommended "every commercial car owner be compelled to have the car equipped with an efficient electric windshield defroster." The verdict also recommended lighted signals and warning signals at the scene of the accident.

Margaret Gerow and Miss E. Jolliffe were judged the best lady skaters. The best couple skaters were Jean Gerow and D. Leary, and Jack Cook and D. Corbin.

The event for married men, partially donated by W. J. Wiggins and W. S. Wilson, provided considerable amusement and the prize of a chocolate bar was awarded to W. J. Wiggins.

Between the races and judging periods, the skaters were allowed on the ice and were also given time for skating after all the events were run off.

Two beautiful door prizes were drawn for during the evening. The ladies' prize, a walnut sewing cabinet, went to Marion Blake, Deseronto, and the men's prize, a walnut smoker was won by Mr. Kinnear, of Belleville. A special drawing for a card table resulted in D. Harvey of Deseronto holding the lucky card.

Conditions in Germany Described in Address By Mr. Jack Metzler

Dealt With Hitler's Rise to Power

Mr. Jack Metzler was the guest speaker, on Tuesday, at the regular luncheon of the Napanee Rotary Club. Mr. Metzler's Napanee friends recently returned from a three-year sojourn on the European Continent, mostly spent in Germany.

He was introduced to the Club by Mr. Harry Doyle, and following his speech was thanked by Mr. A. L. Dafoe.

Mr. Metzler's address on the "Third German Empire," is reproduced, in part, as follows:

"I shall talk, informally, of "The Third (that is the present) German Empire," which was being talked about already on my arrival to that country, in 1930, and which since then has come into being. You business men might be interested in the general state of business which I found at that time, which may help to explain the political situation.

Evidences of Poverty

"My first evening was spent in the city of Hannover, where one could scarcely cross the streets for fear of running into the bicycles coming in swarms. Where were the automobiles? I missed them; but they were there all right. They were those ting little things that require practiced arm, knee and hip movements before succeeding in fitting oneself into the slot behind the wheel. It is almost as difficult for the passenger. But they seem to like it.

"Even this first impression was an indication of the poverty of the country. One cannot afford automobiles of the usual size because the taxes are in proportion to the size, and at a very heavy rate. Knowledge of the extremity to which poverty came, was driven home in Berlin. Now the New York and Chicago panhandlers had hardened my ears to be deaf to all begging and that is the way I treated them in Berlin, even after I had learned a few words of the language. But I remember one cold, raw, wintry night, being approached by a man not wearing dressed enough even for autumn. Well, I passed him by on the other side, and as I had done perfectly twenty times that day, already; but just as I was turning into the house he cried out: "Herr, Herr, Sie won't even listen to me!" This was full of an anguish that seemed to be breaking my heart, and it touched mine, too. I made inquiries and learned that these people in the street, sometimes in whole families, were only there as a last resort; that they had come to the city from the country, where literally whole villages were at the point of starvation, and that there was no food that was never made known, because the Germans are a people who can endure without accept starvation and a quiet death, before they would beg.

Students Under-Nourished

"Even among my friends, the students, some were undernourished to a noticeable extent. A European breakfast consists merely of rolls and coffee (with marmalade or butter if one has it), but there were some who did not get that always. But most of them had one meal a day in a student kitchen, where soup was followed by a cheap cut of meat, potatoes and a vegetable. This had the saving feature that it cost a poor student only 4c. and that he could go back for a second or third helping of potatoes.

"What was the outlook for such a poverty-stricken people? Even when they had "good times," they were not as prosperous as Canada, for instance, and I never knew a time to feel the added affects of depression after the staggering blow of inflation, and being beaten and that is the only utmost tribute to France by the Versailles Treaty. It was as though the end of all had come. Losing confidence in their government, whose ablest leaders could not deal with the terrible situation, they sought a strong deliverer, who could re-awaken national self-respect and self-confidence."

Hitler Looked on as Deliverer

"This deliverer was Hitler.

In considering the rise of the Nazi Party, Mr. Metzler said:—

"Any dictatorship such as that of Hitler's Nazi party, requires:—(1) Crushing of opposition and the old; (2) Educational machinery for the new."

He said also, that Hitler had achieved his present success by means of interment camps, demonstrations, new-bathing, Boy Scouts, classes of instruction for children, led by older boys and girls, movies, church, volunteer work, etc.

In bringing his address to a conclusion Mr. Metzler said he would not be asked: "How will it come out?"

We don't know, but we can conclude them. What is being had to complete a revolution with so little bloodshed, whatever we may think of its other phases; and with them our best as a member of the family of nations."

"Years ago janitors were the only penthouse dwellers we had; now it is the popular thing." — Alfred E. Smith.

"After twenty-seven years on the stage I know as little and I'm as bewildered as the next fellow." — Paul Muni.

Driving Park Assoc'n Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Napanee Driving Park Association, Limited, was held on Thursday, February 15th, 1934, at the office of the secretary. The following were elected directors:— President — T. B. Wallace. Secretary-Treasurer — J. L. Boyes. Directors — W. H. Hunter, John S. Ham, W. A. Grange, George H. Daly, Frank D. Marsh, G. Ernest Gibbard, John W. Robinson.

The Association decided to have the usual race meet on July 22nd next and also authorized the directors to make arrangements with the Lennox Fair Society for holding the Annual Fall Fair.

Improvements Made To County Building

Considerable improvement has been made to the lighting of the Court Room at the County Building. Last fall, when the Casselman manufacturer was being tried, Mr. Justice Hope recommended certain changes, and these have been carried out. Five drop lights have replaced the central lighting fixture which used to adorn the hall. The new lights are so placed that all sections of the court room receive equal light. A desk lamp has also been placed for the convenience of the judge.

At the last session of the County Council, a contract was let for providing additional water supply as a fire precaution. On each floor there is now sufficient hose to extend to any room. This is an improvement long needed, which means protection to a fine building.

Curate Appointed To St. Patrick's R. C. Church

Members of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church in Napanee, are, this week, welcoming to their church Father Walter Healy, who has been appointed as curate. He will assist Monsignor MacDonald. Also a native of the Parish, and who succeeded some years ago, the late Father O'Connor.

Memorial Desk In Christ Church To Rev. Creegan

In Christ Church, Tyendinaga, a beautiful Litany Desk has been placed in memory of a former beloved rector, the Venerable Archdeacon Creegan, who was the Mercyman there for nearly a quarter of a century. The memorial is a quarter-cut oak, handsomely carved of Gothic design, intersected by a cross. It will be dedicated April 29th, when the Bishop of Ontario makes his annual visitation.

Judge Presented With White Gloves by Sheriff

Sheriff C. W. Vandervoort presented Mr. Justice Davis, who is presiding at Court in Napanee this week, with a pair of white gloves, as is taken of the fact that there were no cases of criminal nature to be tried.

In replying, Justice Davis congratulated the County because no crime of serious nature had been committed in the County recently.

Book 207 Years Old Found at Enterprise

The correspondent for The Beaver at Enterprise is interested in old books and has been shown some ancient volumes. Recently he saw a book in the possession of Mr. H. H. Wagar, a well known carpenter and builder, of Enterprise, which is the oldest yet shown him. It was printed in London, England, in 1727, two hundred and seven years ago, written by John Ray. Its title is "The Wisdom of God Manifested in the Works of Creation," and is reported as being very interesting reading.

Spring Session Supreme Court At Napanee

Mr. Justice Davis of the Appelate Court, presided at the Spring Sessions of the Supreme Court, in Napanee, this week.

The first case to be heard was an action brought by Laura Garratt and Caroline Mellow against Desmore Davis, as administrators of the estate of their late mother, Mrs. Davis, for an accounting by Desmore Davis of all monies and valuables held by him in joint account with his mother. The late Mrs. Davis died in 1928 leaving a will and appointing her son, Desmore Davis, as executor. The will was never probated and letters of administration have since been granted to the deceased's daughters, Mrs. Garratt and Mrs. Mellow.

J. M. Simpson, K.C., appeared for the plaintiffs and W. S. Herrington, K.C., for the defendant.

The evidence of Mr. Harry Garratt, his wife, Laura Garratt, and Mrs. Charles Mellow, showed that the late Mrs. Davis had inherited a certain sum of money in 1912, from her brother, John Elsey, in Jersey City, U.S.A. This money had been told by the mother, that she had received the money, but never told how much. She also said she was using $50.00 a month, which was not enough for all the interest. She assured them that she had a will by which the three children were to receive equal shares and that this would be plenty for each, when she was gone.

Following the death of Mrs. Davis, Sr., Mrs. Mellow had requested her brother, Desmore, to probate the will and had been advised that there was no estate and a probate would be useless expense. Later he furnished his sisters a statement showing the original amount of the legacy was $10,000.

Mr. George Nicol, manager of the Bank of Montreal and Mr. Harry Williams, manager of the Bank of Commerce of Napanee, produced records of the joint account of the late Mrs. Davis and Mr. Desmore Davis, and other documents relating to the accounts.

The defense witness, Mr. Desmore Davis, in his evidence, said the amount of money received by his mother was $34,951.25, which had been placed in a joint account in the bank, in his and his mother's name. He said he had used some of the money for his own purposes but only on the consent of his mother and that by the time of his mother's death, his account was all used up.

Mr. Simpson, the lawyer for the plaintiffs, provided cheques of various amounts, the large amount, which Mr. Davis, in some cases, could not remember, and in others said they were for purchases for things for himself or his business, which had been authorized by his mother.

Mr. Davis admitted having transferred to his wife, shortly after his mother's death, his share and the home left him by his mother and a mortgage he held. He did this because his brother-in-law, Mr. Mellow had asked for a probate of his mother's will and was afraid some trouble might follow.

Mrs. Desmore Davis also appeared as a defence witness. Her evidence was substantially the same as her husband's.

The judge reserved his decision, advising the defendant and plaintiffs to get together and settle.

Announce Dates of Departmental Exams.

Entrance Commences July 3rd

The dates for the departmental examinations for 1934 have just been announced by the Department of Education at Toronto.

The entrance to High School examinations commence for Napanee on Tuesday, July 3rd, when English composition, English spelling and arithmetic are tried; Wednesday, July 4th, English literature, English grammar and writing will be written, and Thursday, July 5th, arithmetic and geography.

The Public School exams start Monday, June 25th, and conclude Friday, July 6th.

The Upper School examinations start on Monday, June 25th, and end on Wednesday, July 11th.

Examination Dates Carefully Selected

The dates of the examinations have been carefully selected with a view to the best interests of the pupils, and in accordance with the generally expressed wishes of school boards throughout the province. Some years ago the examinations were begun on earlier dates, and the practice was continued during the war to allow students to assist as much as possible in harvesting and on the farm. Then, in response to insistent demands, the examinations were begun later, as late as June 25th in 1919. The earlier part of July, that year, was unusually hot, and reports protesting were received. The dates were then set back, but complaints were received at that time on the ground that the schools and equipment were not being used as fully as they ought to be, and that teachers were being paid for the month of June during which they received only part of the time. The examination dates are now somewhat later, and the plea of extreme heat is being used by some as an argument for earlier dates. As a matter of fact the difference in the mean temperature between the last week in June and the first week of July is very slight. The Meteorological Office furnishes the following statistics:—

Federal Income Tax Returns Lower

A statement of the federal income tax collections by districts for the ten months of the fiscal year of 1933 has recently been issued. It shows the total amount collected to be $57,157,958, a decrease of $1,351,815.

The returns of the Kingston district which Napanee is a part, were $1,650,940, an increase of $29,994 over the same period of the previous year.

The amount reported for the Kingston district is the third smallest of all the districts in Canada. Only the smallest is the Yukon territory, with a total of a little more than $11,000; Charlottetown is second smallest with $82,780 collected.

Mean temperature for the third week in June, 64.1 degrees; Mean temperature for the 4th week in June, 68.3 degrees; mean temperature for the first week in July, 66.8 degrees; mean temperature for the second week in July, 68.1 degrees.

Only 199 School Days in Year

Many do not realize how short the school year is. In the present year there are only 199 legal school days. Few who understand all the conditions under which school exercises are carried out are in favour of any curtailment of the year's work, but in order to have the results of the examinations published in sufficient time for students to get ready for the opening of the universities and schools in the fall term, it is necessary to encroach somewhat upon the legal school year. By beginning this year's examinations on June 25th, more than 7 hours per cent of all the Middle and Upper School papers will be written by June 29th, and every candidate but the very few who take Upper School German, Spanish or Greek will finish by July 6th. Every factor connected with school work and examination requirements has been carefully reviewed, and the present selection of dates for examinations is believed to be the best possible. (Dec. 9.)

King Albert of Belgium Meets Sudden Death Mountain Climbing

A Popular Democratic Monarch

Death came with tragic suddenness on Saturday, February 18th, to King Albert I, the beloved monarch of the Belgians.

The tragedy was the result of a fall, sustained by the King, while spending Saturday afternoon in his favorite sport of mountain climbing.

Alone, he had tried to climb a 200-foot cliff, the Rocher de March-les-Dames, in a deep ravine near the city of Namur, twenty-two miles south of the city of Brussells.

The King a Keen Sportsman

Early Saturday afternoon the King had started out with his valet to motor to Namur, to indulge in an afternoon's simple sport. Leaving the valet in the car King Albert had proceeded alone, and when he did not return in the early evening, the valet became alarmed and summoned search parties.

About 2:00 a.m. Sunday, his body was found, where it had fallen a distance of about 33 feet, when a piece of the cliff had given way. It is thought that if the King did not die instantly that he had not suffered long after his fall.

King Albert was a keen sportsman. In 1926 he had a narrow escape from serious injury while bobsledding at St. Moritz. Again in 1930, while mountain climbing in the Dolomites, he nearly lost his life. He was an ardent motorist and aeroplane enthusiast and was keenly interested in all sports.

A Popular Monarch

The late king who was 58 years old had reigned 25 years. He succeeded Leopold II, and will be succeeded by his son, the Duke of Brabant, who assumes the title Leopold III.

King Albert was a monarch who made a manifold appeal to the affections of his people and to the respect and admiration of peoples of all nations. The violation of the neutrality of Belgium in the Great War, by Germany, and King Albert's unyielding resistance to the invaders, seemed to be typical of the character of the greater part of the world. The consequences were terrible and the bearing of the King and his people, heroic.

A Man of High Ideals

Throughout his reign of 25 years, King Albert has endeavoured to carry out the ideals he had made on his accession to the throne of his uncle, Leopold II. His country had been freed from the atrocities in the Belgian Congo. After personal investigation the new King lived up to his promise. What the mission of colonization cannot be other than a mission of high civilization; by a policy of humanity and penetration.

King Albert was born at Brussels, on April 8th, 1875 and was the youngest son of Prince Philippe af Saxe Coburg and Gotha. Following the death of his elder brother and of King Leopold and his son, Albert ascended the throne on December 1, 1909. His queen was Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke of Bavaria. There are three children, the Duke of Brabant, successor, Prince Charles and Princess Marie Jose, the wife of the Crown Prince of Italy.

The new King will be enthroned on Friday, February 24th, the day following the funeral of King Albert.

Celebrate Anniversary of Their Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. M. Huffman, Moscow, Married Sixty-Five Years

The sixty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. M. Huffman, of Moscow, was marked in a special way by their many friends. A supper, at which all the members of the family were present, was tendered them, last week. In the evening, many of their friends in the community gathered to offer their congratulations.

A feature of special interest was the presentation to the couple of an illuminated address from the Rt. Hon. R. L. Bennett, Premier of Canada, and also the reading of letters from the Hon. George S. Henry, Premier of Ontario, and Hon. W. D. Black, M.P.P. Letters were also received from the District and Grand Lodge Officers of the Masonic Lodge of which Mr. Huffman has been a member for 58 years. He has the distinction of being the oldest living member of Victoria Lodge, Centreville, which he joined in 1876.

Church Tea Held At Deseronto

On Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 13th, a Valentine United Church tea was held by the convener, Mrs. Ross Perry, and her group, at her home, Dundas street, Deseronto. Mrs. (Rev.) Waite assisted Mrs. Perry in entertaining her many guests. Mrs. Reuben Clement invited the ladies to the tea room, which was decorated very prettily in red and white. Mrs. Howard Vandusen and Mrs. Robert Miller presided at the tea table, which was lovely, with its lace cloth and silver, flower basket of ferns and red carnations. Tall red tapers in silver holders were burning on the table and buffet. The assistants were Mrs. Arthur Randell, Mrs. A. O. Clark, Mrs. Bas. Hough, and Mrs. Thos. McWain. A hot supper was later served to the men, which proved a great success and was heartily enjoyed. A gratifying sum was realized.

NOT YET !

This has been the hardest and coldest winter that the oldest citizen on the community can remember. The old-fashioned winter we have heard so much about in the past few years has returned with a vengeance. The cold has been intense and continuous, and yet nothing has been done by those in authority in our town, to change the lot of the farmer who has to stand on the market square through zero weather in an endeavour to dispose of his produce. We make a present of being interested in the farmer, we protest our desire to bring town and county closer together, and yet we fail to implement those pious wishes and protestations.

The Napanee Armouries are available for dancing for badminton and for recreation. These are admirable uses to which the building is put. But the most imperative need at the moment, is for the Town Council or the County Council, or the Military authorities, acting singly or together, to bring whatever pressure they can to bear on the Government to make the Armouries available for the farmers on market day.

It has been argued that, if this were done for Napanee, it would set a precedent and other towns and cities would make a similar request. What if they should ? In nearly every town of any size in Ontario, the government has spent huge sums for the erection of these buildings. They have been built out of public funds. It is the people who own them. Is there any reason, therefore, why they should not be used for that most hard-pressed and most deserving of our citizens—the farmer.

THE TEMPERANCE DELEGATION TO THE PREMIER

On Thursday last a delegation of three hundred and fifty temperance workers who were in convention at Toronto, waited upon Premier Henry. They protested in sane and measured language, against any extension of the facilities for the sale of beer and wine. Already 850,000 cards, signed by those of voting age, had been sent to the Premier. These two facts, taken together, indicate a strong public opinion against any loosening up of the facilities for the sale of beer and wine.

The Premier, in his reply, stated that there was a desire for a modification of the present plan. He did not, however, indicate from what quarters the desire came. Only at one point did the Prime Minister throw any light on the probable policy of the Government. The Prime Minister indicated that if beer and wine were sold in hotels, it would be done under the Liquor Control Board.

The implication is that the plan under consideration by the Government, contemplates an extension of the present act to permit government agents to dispense beer and wine in hotels. A government appointed dispenser, in that event, would be placed in hotels, to have charge of the beer and wine; to keep adequate records and to make government returns.

Thus will the hotel once more become the centre of political patronage and intrigue; meanwhile, the government revenue grows at the expense of the youth of our province.

AUSTRIA GOES FASCIST

As the smoke of revolution blows away in Austria, one fact becomes clear. Austria' has gone Fascist. It now takes its place among Italy and Germany, as a nation with a Fascist dictatorship. The Dolfuss Christian Socialist party has been dissolved and the nation will, henceforth, be governed by a dictator. This is one of the most serious steps that any nation in Europe has taken, since the war. To understand that, it is necessary to recall the situation prior to the revolution. Vienna, which is the canital of Austria, was governed by a constitutionally elected Socialist burgomaster and council, while the rest of the country was in the hands of a reactionary party known as the Christian Socialists. Ever since the war, there had been conflict between these two. The National Government feared the power and influence of the Socialist Government at Vienna, but refused to challenge it. It was only when the Hitlerite Nazis, who were becoming increasingly strong in Austria threatened the position of the Government, that Dolfuss took action. His purpose was to subdue the Socialists and then turn his undivided attention to the threat of the Nazis. So far the plan has been successful. Dolfuss has succeeded in crushing the Socialists in Vienna. Whether or not he will be able to hold the Nazis in check, or whether he will be defeated by them, remains to be seen. One probability is that the Socialists who have suffered at the hands of Dolfuss, will join the Nazis, in opposing him, thus strengthening the Nazi position throughout the nation.

With the crushing of the Socialist movement in Vienna, the most successful experiment in social living in the world, has been stamped out. There is nothing, anywhere, to compare with the accommodations of the Viennese, since the war. They have built over twenty-five thousand apartments, which are rented to the workers for an average of $1.50 a month. They have completely changed the educational system, until today it is far in advance of anything we know on this continent. They have erected municipal bathhouses, on a scale unknown anywhere else. They have succeeded in establishing a city administration which was half way between Communism on the one hand and the ultra Conservatism on the other.

All this noble experiment and the splendid group of patriotic self-sacrificing men, who made it possible, lie crushed at the hands of the diminutive Dolfuss. What the next few months will bring forth for Austria, no one can foretell.

TWO INTERESTING NEWS ITEMS

Yesterday, two interesting news-items came to us, one from Ottawa and the other from Toronto. From Ottawa, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett divulged to Parliament, that negotiations had been going on with the United States for nine months looking to the opening up of the trade routes between Canada and our neighbour to the south. Under the present conditions, with the Empire Trade Pact only just beginning to work, it would, of course, be unwise for Canada to do anything which would in anyway, jeopardize the success of those agreements. And yet there are many products which might be traded successfully between Canada and the United States, which would, in no way, interfere with present agreements. It is about time that the nations of the world realized that balanced budgets are not the only indication of prosperity. The life of a nation depends on the exchange of commodities, and the trade and commerce which comes therefrom. Anything which will give impetus to the movement for freer trade of commodities throughout the world, is a step in the right direction.

The other news item is from Toronto. Mr. Heighington, Conservative member from St. David's, Toronto, has given notice that he will move that on the application from municipalities, they will be given the right to use relief money for the abolition of slums. We have contended, more than once, that money spent in this way would be of more permanent value than that spent in any other form of public works. But it is hoped that the motion before it is finally carried, will not limit such works to the elimination of slums. There is a desperate need, in Ontario, for small houses of four, five or six rooms, that could be rented at a moderate rentage. At the present time, about twenty-five per cent. of a person's wages are spent on rent, and another ten per cent. on fuel. It is absolutely impossible for the ordinary working man to live at all, comfortably, under these conditions, with the result that they move from one house to another in the endeavour to get something cheaper. Then the standard of living goes down, and people lose heart and courage. If the Government would only permit the erection of small houses as a relief measure. Then capitalize the investment at zero, the rent charges based on taxes, upkeep and depreciation, would probably amount to not more than four per cent. of the worker's wages.

This is one of the most needed of all public works.

"THE HOUR OF DECISION"

Oswald Spengler, the brilliant German historian, has recently issued a book with the above title. This book is a sort of handbook to his larger work, "The Decline of the West," which startled the western world, when it was published a few years ago. Events of the last few years, however, forces the thinking public to give more attention to the thesis of Spengler, than was thought necessary, when the larger work was published, a while ago. Spengler's thesis is that the western civilization, in its present form, is doomed. He maintains that the attempt to govern, by democracy has put the hands of the clock back a hundred years, and that there can be no settled condition of life in the world until the nations once more return to the strong arm methods of the dictator. A few years ago, that seemed like the ravings of a brilliant but obsessed mind. But, to-day, it is different.

About the only bulwark of democracy in Europe to-day, is France. And France is in a hopeless muddle. The riots which took place on Tuesday, February the sixth, are only symptomatic of a serious unrest and dissatisfaction with the present conditions. After the war, France endeavored to consolidate her gains by building up a group of allies, in Europe, on whom she could depend in time of trouble, but one after another, these have fallen away. Czechoslovakia is of little help to her now, because of financial difficulties. Poland is in the throes of a revolution. Poland has her own position, now, to maintain, as a buttress between Austria and Russia. In addition to the crumbling of these external friends and alliances, France is rocked with riots because of rottenness in politics and distrust in those who have been her leaders during the last few years.

While France has been thus weakened by reflections abroad and riots at home, the tension is increased by the growing strength and power of other European states. Italy is compact, strong and united. Germany is more united than she has been since the war, and has thrown off the shackles of Versailles, and is bound to find her place in the sun. Austria has been given eight days by the Nazi forces within the state to admit her representatives into the Government. Failing that, there will be further bloodshed and a dictatorship of some sort. The only thing which prevented a Fascist dictatorship being set up in France, during the recent riots, was the fact that no leadership was forthcoming. No great, strong Fascist leader had yet appeared on the horizon.

In England, the Fascists, under Oswald Mosley, are openly parading and working for a dictatorship, there. The fact that two of the great metropolitan papers have backed the movement, indicates that it must, in the future, be reckoned with.

In the face of these facts, there is more point now than seemed possible a while ago, to Spengler's prediction of the doom of western civilization.

We, in this coutry, are the spectators of a mighty drama which is being enacted on the world stage. The self-seeking, love of power, control of the governments for the money to be gained therefrom, the scandals in country after country, from which even Canada has not been free, have weakened the faith of the ordinary man in the power of democracy, and may yet spell its doom.

Editorial Comment

EMPIRE MIGRATION

We do not agree with Mr. Kenneth Lindsay that "the idea of artificial large-scale migration is a bankrupt idea"; but we do agree that the settlement of human lives requires more care than the investment of money. Mr. Lindsay himself testified to the success of the 3,000 families scheme in Canada, and experience of that scheme shows the advantage, even the necessity, of friendly support and a highly trained administration on the other side. Schemes, moreover, which aimed at settlement on a subsistence basis, might be more successful in the long run than schemes based on large scale production. We are faced with the fact that the world is suffering at the moment from a surplus of raw products; but present conditions may be presently change, and the urgent need at the present time is to prepare by careful planning for expansion.—London Morning Post.

CANADIAN NEWS CHEERS BRITAIN

There is always good news to make you forget bad news. In the Empire, Premier Bennett reports increased Canadian trade, employment, revenues. British imports have risen. Canada's exports now rank her fifth among all nations. Australia will have a large export surplus. In Britain all railways carry more traffic than internal improvement. The chairman of the Westminster Bank comes out advocating slum clearance as a national investment. The banker suggests it should be done on the lines of a public utility. Rejoice ! The light is spreading. — London Daily Express.

ARMS AND THE MEN

Dr. Addison's interesting war-time memoirs contain startling revelations of the proceedings of the armament firms in war-time. But the case for Bovernment control of this deadly industry does not rest merely on the record of the abuse of abolishing war is not in treaties and agreements and conferences, but in a tremendous will for peace in the great masses of the people. And this can be secured only through correct education in the coming generation. — Detroit News.

WAR IN OUR SCHOOL ROOMS

George S. Henry, Ontario's Premier and Minister of Education, puts into all the school histories of Ontario that tells truly the horrors of war and the heartbreaking waste of life and munition makers and militarists in promoting war. Ontario starts a true peace movement. The hope of abolishing war is not in treaties and conferences, but in a tremendous will for peace in the great masses of the people. And this can be secured only through correct education in the coming generation. — Detroit News.

PORK BARREL UPSIDE DOWN

Opposition to the construction of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty presents an unusually clear picture of the selfish opposition of conflicting special intrests fighting a project conceived in the public interest. It simply reverses the political technique of the pork barrel. Instead of a log-rolling combination in favour of a great deal of public expenditures for works primarily of local or private benefit, we have a huge league of lobbies arrayed against the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada banded together against the execution of a public improvement which each confederate deems inimical to the special interest. The porcine motive is there, even when the pork hides behind the guise of economy. The fight against the treaty is a fight to save the bacon of vested interests that levy tribute upon the incomes of the people through capitalizing natural transportation advantages which the ship canal would eliminate.— Chicago Daily News.

The Perfect Wife

She had a gay and cheerful mind,
Her clothes were neat, her heart was kind.

She never sought his soul to vex
By asking him for household checques.
She ironed his ties and darned his sox.

His buttons were as firm as rocks.
When things went wrong she held her tongue

Until he dined and felt as ease.
She revelled in his smallest jest,
She always thought that men knew best.

She never asked him where he'd been,
Or what he'd done or whom he'd seen.

Her voice was sweet; she never nagged,
None ever say her ill or fagged.
Her relatives were few but kind.
And left small legacies behind.
She died, as she had lived, with life.
The owner of this perfect wife ?

The Wrong Colour

After fifteen years of experiment bird-fanciers in East Prussia announce that they have succeeded in breeding red canaries. It sound a rash act—particularly in East Prussia, where red cannot be at all a fashionable, or even a permitted, political colouring. Had they been brown canaries which chirped "Heil Hitler !" the prospects for the new breed would have been much brighter. Fifteen years have gone into the production of these obvious birds of ill-omen; if they do not very quickly moult into a more acceptable colour-scheme they may spend the next fifteen in an internment camp. Or should the whole misguided generation be hastily shipped off to Moscow as an unsaleable "remainder."?

• • •

Mr. Euler, prominent Liberal from Waterloo, advises that Dominion, Provincial and Municipal debts have reached such an amount that the interest charges cannot be met. He considers that the budget must be balanced—a true balance including railway losses. Interest charges on the Dominion bonds should be reduced to 3% and the two railways must be amalgamated, preferably under the Government. He favors unemployment insurance and shorter working hours.

• • •

Mr. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, said that the country cannot carry on as at present, and meet its debts; reduction on the face value of the Dominion's bonds or in their interest rates could be made, but he favors a tax on wealth. He thinks that the Dominion Government should bear all relief expense and that money for relief construction should go to the erection of dwellings, rather than for public buildings and roads.

• • •

Premier Bennett, in the discussion on interest for Government bonds, stated that the rates could not be reduced, on account of the reaction on life insurance companies and banks, who hold them for their reserves.

• • •

The committee for investigation into trade practices, consists of Hon. H. H. Stevens as chairman, two conservatives, four Liberals and one Progressive. The chairman was startled by the Liberal resolution asking for Liberal legal assistance; he hoped that party politics would not be part of the committee's work.

"Archaeological Cats"

One result of Signor Mussolini's programme for clearing away litter and bringing to light as much as possible of ancient Rome, appears to have been the disturbance of numbers of cats, which are described as "archaeological cats" which have changed their ground to a good deal the annoyance of inhabitants of those quarters in which they have their homes. But despite the description it may be doubted whether any cats of modern Rome have a claim to important antiquity of descent. We might like to think that the "archaeological cats" are themselves the direct descendants of cats who sang, loved and fought when Tiberius was Emperor, but that opinion would be difficult to maintain in face of a learned note by Mr. Thomas Hood.

"The conversation (with Steenstrup) turned to the cat of the Greeks and Romans. He says that it was certainly no cat but a weasel, agreeing therein with Maskelyne, who avers that the animal represented upon an ancient gem in my possession, one clearly of the weasel kind, was the so-called cat antiquity. Our common cat appears first in the Middle Ages, but nothing is known of its origin. The Egyptian cat was a true cat, allied to our wild cat.

Or does that leave it open to catlovers to suggest that these Roman cats which seem to be unpopular have retained the less pleasant characteristics of their ancient ancestors? In any case, a number are to be transferred to the new town of Littoria, where there are rats and mice but no cats, and it remains to be seen whether the cat or the weasel in them will predominate in the new surroundings. A good deal of sad history suggests that forced migrations of animals to keep down pests have generally had disastrous consequences. A revenuous type on the part of the "archaeological cats" with a consequent plague of weasels might be highly inconvenient.

Canadian Goods For South Africa

Saint John, N.B. — Improved world conditions and benefits of the Imperial Conference agreements are reflected by the stream of Canadian commodities passing through Saint John, for South Africa, officials stated recently.

Steamer Luren Calumet, which sailed Saturday, and Beechpark, now loading here, each are taking 500 motor cars, said to be the largest automobile shipments ever to go through a Maritime Province port.

Eight thousand cases of canned fish from Blacks Harbor, N.B.—one of the biggest shipments of this kind ever to go from Eastern Canada—also is being taken by the two ships.

Another large item of freight is 1,000,000 board feet of fruit boxes for the fruit growers of South Africa. The boats are also carrying Maritime lumber for the South African building trade and a considerable quantity of Canadian newsprint.

Increase of $8,395,000 In Federal Revenue

Revenues of the Dominion for the 10-months period of the fiscal year ended January 31 last are $8,395,000 ahead of the corresponding period last year, official figures show, that the revenue for January is $5,977,000 ahead of January, 1933.

This is the first time in the past five months that the revenue figures have continued to show a decided upward turn.

Money collected in excise taxes, including the sales tax, is $17,453,000 greater than the amount collected in January of last year.

Revenues to date show that $279,463,295 have been collected by the Dominion Treasury as compared with $271,067,461 for the period of last year.

Customs, $55,352,072; excise duties, $31,454,847; excise taxes, $91,674,790; income tax, $36,193,573; Post Office $23,136,076; miscellaneous, $18,641,258 unclassified refunds, $991,222; total $279,463,295.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 25th, 1934

MATTHEW 9: 9-35; 10 : 8, 22, 23

"THE TWELVE SENT FORTH"

In this lesson Jesus definitely begins His disciples the responsibility for the carrying out of His Gospel message. Up until now they had associated with Him as helpers and pupils. They had followed Him up and down the country, observing His thoughts, assimilating His spirit, and entering enthusiastically into the life of mission. They had listened as He unfolded His message of the Kingdom; they had watched Him as He exercised His healing power on sick and diseased bodies. Now they were to take over some more definite share in the work; now they were to assume some personal responsibility for its success. They were to subject their own religion to the test of practical experience.

It is at this point the vital test of religion always lies. Men and women may feel quite sure of themselves while in the presence of Jesus, and when they are strengthened by the enthusiasm of God's people. But, it is when out on the road, among those who know Him not; it is out in the world among those who scoff, that the test of a person's religion lies. The success of our religion, under those circumstances, depends on the extent to which we have assimilated the spirit and mind of the Master. There are many people who like Peter, are strong and fearless when surrounded by good influences, but whose courage fails before the challenge of the crowd when they are forced to stand alone. This was the test to which the disciples were now being subjected. It is the test to which all followers of the lowly Nazarene must finally submit.

The immediate cause for the sending out of the disciples was Jesus' sympathy with the common people. He looked around, and saw the peasants, the villagers and townspeople, without hope, without faith — despondent, dejected and discouraged. They had nothing to live for; without leadership, they were used by the rulers, simply as a means of providing taxes and doing the nasty work. As He observed them, His fellow countrymen as "sheep without a shepherd," he was moved to send His disciples forth. It is purely national character of their mission is shown by his insistance that they confine their activities to the House of Israel and to concentrate their efforts on the towns and villages.

The method which Jesus adopted is that which has stood the test of time. If the Kingdom of God is ever to become a reality, it can become such, only through the instrumentality of men and women who have caught His spirit, have something of His profound sympathy with the down-trodden members of society and are willing to spend and be spent in the endeavor to bring them the hope, courage, sympathy and love which lies at the very heart of the gospel message.

YARKER SOUTH

Yarker South, Feb. 19.—A number of people in this village are on the sick list at present, but all are progressing favourably.

Mrs. H. Sanderson, who had a severe attack, a week ago from which it was feared she would not recover, is at time of writing, quite improved and hopes are being entertained that she will be around again.

Mrs. Leslie Card is still confined to her bed and under the doctor's watchful care, as also is little Joyce Amey, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Amey.

We are glad to report that Mr. Thomas Vincent is in a much better state of health again.

The sudden death of Mrs. Bertha Currah of Colebrooke, whose funeral was held a week ago last Sunday, was a severe shock to her many friends. The remains were placed in the vault at Harrowsmith to await burial in the spring. The sympathy of the community is extended to Miss Jenny, only daughter, who lived with her mother.

The people of this section of the township are feeling quite keenly the fact that our main roads are left in such a state of blockade, while those in the neighboring township of Portland are being kept open for motor traffic. All honour is due Mr. Wagar for his endeavour to keep the road open from Enterprise to Yarker, and surely this township ought to feel its responsibility in the matter and co-operate, at least, with from the Master's invitation "Follow Me."

The young people of the Sunday School are taking their play which they presented here in January, to Harrington on the second of March. We are hoping for better roads and weather by then.

The funeral of last night has completely closed our roads again which had been made passable for sleighs since the last storm.

Fertilizers For Pasture Lands

What Leading Authorities Say Of Nitrogenous Dressing

If the soil is fairly rich and retentive of moisture, for instance, a good loam effectively drained, it may be sufficient to apply a complete Chemiat, to log dress with a nitrogenous fertilizer such as nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia, nitro chalk, etc. This application, say, at the rate of 100 to 150 pounds per acre, may be made in the spring shortly after growth has started. If the soil is sparse and yellowish, a further and similar dressing may be given three or four weeks later. In this matter the farmer should be guided by the growth of the grass and the weather conditions. There must be a fair amount of water in the soil for the full utilization of the fertilizer by the grass. On thin and poor land, an application of say 250 pounds superphosphate and 75 pounds of muriate of potash, will in all probability prove profitable. This application may be made in the fall or very early spring.

Of importance in relation to the practice of applying fertilizers, says Professor R. Summerby, of Macdonald College, P.Q., is the length of time they are held in the soil and remain useful. Nitrogen when applied in an available form, as it is in nitrate of soda and in sulphate of ammonia, is almost all used in the first year, and little or no effect is to be expected thereafter. Phosphoric acid and potash are held much better in the soil, and, while a larger proportion may be used the first year, the effect of the application is distributed through several years, of course with a decreasing influence.

In the case of pasture lands in Ontario, Professor N. J. Thomas, of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, recommends the use of a top dressing of farmyard manure whenever possible. This could be advantageously supplemented by 300 to 400 pounds of superphosphate per acre every two or three years. In the manure should be coarse, excellent results are obtained with a ton per acre in early years of from 300 to 500 pounds per acre of 6-14-6 fertilizer on heavy soils, or 0-12-10 fertilizer on sandy soils. This will greatly stimulate clovers and legumes and enhance the feeding value of the pasture. On intensively-worked dairy farms, nitrogen, a constituting factor in the growth of grass, can be used to decided advantage. Dry matter may be sometimes more than doubled, feeding value may be increased by raising the protein content, and the length of the grazing season prolonged, this reducing barn feeding costs.

It is reported, says Lord Bledisloe, Governor-General of New Zealand and a leading practical agriculturist, that the pasture commonly predominantly of grasses, especially early grasses, responds most to nitrogen dressings while one composed mainly of clovers responds best. The yields induced by nitrogen increase proportionately with the quantity of nitrogen applied. A dressing of three cwt of nitrogenous fertilizer to the acre has been found to raise the hay crop from a normal 27½ cwt. to 48½ cwt.

BOILING AN EGG

An egg is frequently half-wasted owing to the fact that the shell has cracked when boiled and some of the white has boiled out. It will be found that a difficulty is overcome by pricking the shell at each end with a needle before boiling. It will be found that by pricking the shell in this way another difficulty is overcome at the same time, for in hard boiling an egg the yolk frequently turns black at the edges. This will never happen when the eggshell has been pricked.

Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada

THE report of the Company for 1933 is one of consistent and constructive progress. Its achievements enhance the impressive record of public service it has rendered during the sixty-three years of its existence.

In 1933, as in the preceding three years, people generally experienced exceptional anxiety, the result of incomes being either impaired or entirely cut off. At such a time the unfailing aid and security of life insurance proved of very great value.

In this service the Sun Life Company bore a worthy share. During the year it paid out (exclusive of policy loans) nearly $100,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries. Similarly, during the four years of depression it has paid out over $380,000,000.

Notwithstanding these substantial payments, the Company, during the same four-year period, increased its assets by $55,000,000—its insurances in force by over $307,000,000.

Sixty-third Annual Report—1933

ASSURANCES IN FORCE, December 31, 1933	$2,770,453,871
This large amount, the accumulating estates of nearly a million Sun Life policyholders, will become payable to them or their dependents during this generation—a stabilizing factor of great social and economic value.
NEW ASSURANCES PAID FOR	216,567,441
INCOME	152,235,821
DISBURSEMENTS	127,565,801
EXCESS OF INCOME OVER DISBURSEMENTS	24,730,020
PAYMENTS TO POLICYHOLDERS AND BENEFICIARIES
During the year 1933	97,457,059
Since Organization	800,170,033
ASSETS	624,146,035
Bonds; government, municipal, public utility and others; stocks; preferred and common; loans on mortgages; real estate; loans on Company policies; cash in banks, and other assets.
LIABILITIES	609,965,832
Almost nine-tenths of this sum represents the policy reserve—the amount set aside to guarantee all policy payments as they become due.
PAID-UP CAPITAL ($2,000,000) and balance at credit of shareholders' account	$3,342,547
RESERVE for depreciation—in mortgages and real estate	4,885,904
SURPLUS	5,951,752
	$14,180,203

The valuation of bonds and stocks has been made on the basis prescribed for all companies by the Insurance Department of the Dominion of Canada and in conformity with the basis authorized by the Departments of Insurance of the various provinces of Canada.
Policy liabilities have been valued by the full net level premium method, a standard more exacting than required under the stringent provisions of the Dominion Insurance Act.

Scenes of the Covered Wagon Re - Enacted

Colorful scenes, reminiscent of earlier days of land settlement, were recently staged, recently, when 201 women and children left Montreal by a special train of the Canadian National Railways for the Alberta area. The men of the parties had gone in advance to prepare homes for their families, and these homes being in readiness, their families went up to John Bull's ranking among the effects as they had gathered for their new homes.

The day these families left Montreal for their new homes in the north will be a memorable one, filled with the prospects of a new existence close to nature, after experiencing the hardships of unemployment in the city. The families left in a happy frame of mind. To the younger element particularly, the journey has all the appeal of an adventure as the boys discussed the prospect of sharing saddle and cowpony and enjoying themselves in their new environment. Household pets, dear to the heart of children, were in evidence, crates containing cats, dogs, rabbits, hand satchels packed with eatables, bottles of milk and in were brought to the station to complete the families.

As an extra bit of cheer, a man from Trepanier, leader of a City Council of Montreal, conceive the idea of making the children the happier by giving each of them a big handful of candies just before the train pulled out. Hon. H. Lefebvre, Minister of Colonization for Quebec, urged the wives and group members of the party to encourage the husband and fathers to remain on the farm. The families took all their household effects with them—even a piano—and many settlers being distributed between Peace River and the Edmonton district. Villiementel near Ambo; the Noranda region; and Lois, a recent parish on the Canadian National line.

On arrival the families were entertained by guests by their husbands and fathers, and a fleet of wagons covered wagons and carriers conveyed them with all of the furniture to their new homes.

TROPICAL "RECREATION"

Employment of native women and girls in West Indies countries for breaking rock and hauling coal, is so common that in an annual report of the administration of the Turks and Caicos Islands (dependencies of Jamaica) there seems to be nothing odd about the information that "females are employed within the prison on washing clothes, and other light work."

The island of St. Lucia is a coaling station where women load 100-pound baskets of fuel into freighters at dock.

Black Marble Deposit Arouses Attention

Its high quality attested by its use in the British Empire Building, Radio City, New York, and in the new Hydro-Electric building in Toronto, a black marble obtained from a recently opened quarry near St. Albert, Ontario 30 miles south west of Ottawa, is arousing considerable attention. Large samples, ready for cars or tractors, its use having been specified for several buildings to be constructed shortly, on application from the Department of Mines, Ottawa. Sound, very fine-grained, easily worked, and having a brilliant and lasting polish, the marble is available in such quantities as to warrant any possible demand with conditions particularly favourable for large scale operations low output costs.

Formine a lazy nepwork throughout most of the deposit, and quartz-like and character to the polished marble, are veinlets of grey calcite, in fact that thin veinlets rarely vary little from the blackness of the marble which viewed from a distance is a dark blue. The evident interest has prompted the trade name "St. Vernere black" to be given to the marble.

Wide spacing, and regularity of natural joints, intersecting each other at right angles, a distinguishing feature of the deposit, makes for a minimum of waste in quarry operations. Available in flat beds from 20 inches to 20 acres, the beds have a thickness of from one to four feet, and the depth of the deposit averages 55 feet. Blocks up to 20 feet in length, 6 to 10 feet in width, and 4 feet in thickness are obtainable.

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel needed

When you feel blue, have headaches, can't work or see the world, that's your liver which you're pouring the daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels.

Ontario Gov't Sales Liquor Total 30 Millions

According to the annual report submitted in the Ontario Legislature by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario turned over to the Provincial Treasurer the sum of $6,000,000 for the year ended October 31st, 1933. Profits on liquor sales amounted to $4,850,000. Permits brought in $485,000 and forfeited liquor purchased by the Board returned $65,000.

The profit from liquor last year was a little more than one half the profit of $9,200,000 of last year. The profit for the peak year of 1930 was $10,000,000. Since 1927 the Board has turned over as profits $40,735,000 and $5,333,390 from the sale of permits.

The total sales were $30,143,267 of which $18,672,046 was through the liquor stores and $11,470,201 through breweries and brewery warehouses. The total is a decrease of nearly six millions from the $36,099,502 of the previous year.

In endeavoring to account for the decrease in sales, the report reads:

Economic Conditions Affect Sales

"The world's economic difficulties continued to reflect themselves in the volume of business done by the Board; but the decrease this year, while amounting to 16.5 per cent. was not as great as in previous years, when the decrease was 21.2 per cent. There was a somewhat noticeable settlement in the falling-off of business during the latter months of the year, which, we trust is an indication that better times are in sight."

The stores operated by the Board numbered 126, with no new ones opened. The total number of breweries' warehouses remained at 162. Thirty-two breweries were retailing three fewer than in the previous year.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council met in regular session on Monday at 7:30 p.m. All the members were present, the Mayor presiding.

Following the reading and confirmation of the minutes, the Clerk read the communications.

A letter was received from the Hon. W. G. Martin, Provincial Minister of Public Welfare, concerning the cultivation of vacant lands as a relief measure. The letter contained the information that in many municipalities in Ontario, last year, considerable progress for the purpose of relief was raised on vacant lots by the unemployed, which helped supply food during the winter. On motion of Councillors Cowling and Luffman, the matter was referred to the Welfare Committee, to report.

A letter was received from W. G. Nelson advising that his wife had fallen at Wallace's Store and had sustained serious injuries. It was his intention to hold the town liable for damages. The Clerk, Mr. Grange, informed the Council that the matter had already been referred to the Indemnity Company and that he had also had a report from the Chief of Police, concerning the condition of the walk at the time of the accident.

Manufacturing Company Seeks Building

A letter from the Sobie Silk Shops of Montreal, was read. The company, which makes silk hose and lingerie, is looking for a place to locate a factory in Ontario. They employ about 120 people and their annual payroll is $50,000. The company is being communicated with, further, on the matter.

Deputy Reeve Wilson reported for the Property Committee that the matter of hospital and nursing bills for Russell Wagar, referred to the committee at a previous meeting, had been gone into. It was discovered that Wagar had entered the hospital as a semi-private patient and that nurses had been engaged by some unknown individual. It was the opinion of the committee that the municipality was not responsible for the nurses' bills. It was recommended, on motion of Dr. Wilson and Councillor Cowling, that the matter of hospital bills be referred back to the hospital, with the instruction that Wagar was an indigent patient that the town be billed accordingly. Motion carried.

The question of framing by-law re keeping pigs within the town limits, referred to the Finance Committee, had been considered and the committee recommended the matter be referred again to the Board of Health to deal with, Dr. Wilson said if the Board of Health needed a by-law to enable any action they desired to take, they could advise the Council and action would be taken.

Mayor Tustin told the Council the case causing the discussion had been dealt with by the Board of Health recently, and a letter of warning had been sent the resident concerned.

Band Committee Considered

Councillor Luffman, chairman of Town Property, reported that his committee had interviewed the band and found that the band waived to appoint its own leader. He moved a motion to that effect, seconded by Councillor Cowling that F. W. Knapp be appointed custodian of band property and that the committee meet with Mr. MacGregor and the band executive to arrange for the annual audit. The amendment was put to a vote and lost.

Reeve Hughson asked for the years and nays and the amendment was recorded: Yeas, Messrs. Hughson, Masters, Wilson, Topping, Tustin Nays, Messrs. Cowling, Exley, Luffman and Morden.

Councillor Exley reported for the Social Welfare Committee. He said no meeting of the committee had been held since the last meeting of the Council. A couple of emergency matters had been dealt with, one of which was the purchase of thirty cords of wood from Bancroft, at a cost of $8.50 per cord, laid down.

The Mayor said that the Provincial Inspector of Relief had recently been in town and complimented the chief upon the treasure on the excellent way in which the relief was being administered.

Mr. Hutchinson reported concerning Edward Sampson, a patient in the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, whose case had been referred to him. He had discovered that Sampson was admitted to the asylum in 1897, at which time certain lands and moneys had been appropriated for his keep. During the 37 years elapsed, Sampson had been a regular worker on the hospital farm, but now was unable to work. He had also found that the man never had been a member of the municipality of Napanee. On the motion, seconded by Councillor Cowling, no further action was taken.

Reeve Hughson pointed out to the Council there was certain work which might be done as a relief measure. He thought the street signs could be taken down and painted. He thought that the preparations could also be made for building a sidewalk to the Gibbard property. That stone could be got out for the work and sand could be hauled. Councillor Cowling remarked the Reeve that hauling could not be done under the heading of relief work.

Reconsider Ottawa Delegation Motion

It was moved by Councillor Cowling and seconded by Councillor Luffman that the motion re delegation to Ottawa, to interview railway authorities, be rescinded.

The Council was advised by the members of the delegation, that no action had yet been taken by them, except some communications with Ottawa, and that if the delegation went to Ottawa, it was the intention of the members not to incur any expense for the town, that each member would pay his own expenses.

The motion to rescind was lost and Councillor Cowling asked for the yeas and nays, which resulted as follows: Yeas, Messrs. Cowling, Luffman and Morden. Nays, Messrs. Exley, Hughson, Morden, Topping, Tustin, and Wilson.

Resolution re Dredging River

Councillor Exley took the chair and Mayor Tustin introduced a resolution, that the Department of Public Works at Ottawa, be petitioned to undertake the dredging of the channel of the Napanee River and make it more easily navigable for boats to bring in coal and other freight. He advised the Council that last year about 30,000 tons of coal were brought in by water, and that if the channel in the river were in better shape, that it could be used to a greater extent.

Mayor Tustin moved the adoption of the resolution, which was seconded by Councillor Luffman and carried.

Council adjourned after the passing of accounts.

The Late Mrs. F. G. Mills

The death occurred at Cleveland, Ohio, January 16th, 1934, of Mrs. Frances H. Mills, who was well known to many Napanee people on account of frequent visits to the home of her late brother-in-law, R. B. Mills. Deceased was the widow of Frank G. Mills, a native of Napanee, who died five years ago, after residence in Cleveland of forty years.

The late Mr. Frank G. Mills was enrolled with introducing to Cleveland the game of basket ball. One daughter, Mrs. Easty, is one of the leading ten-pinners of Cleveland today.

The death of Mrs. Mills occurred after only a few days' illness, at the home of her son, William, at 7323 Detroit Ave., Cleveland. Mrs. Mills was a member of the Peach Chapter, No. 2, Order of the Eastern Star and was to have been initiated as a Warder of Temple Court, No. 8, Order of Amaranth, the same week she died.

She is survived by three sons, William E. Harry and Francis B., and one daughter, Mrs. Easty, of Cleveland.

Mrs. Mills' many friends in Napanee will regret sincerely to learn of her death.

Death in Michigan of Former Resident Malcolm H. Coburn

The death occurred recen by at Scottville, Mich., of Malcolm H. Coburn, a one-time resident of Napanee. Deceased was born here and left with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. George Coburn, in June, 1880. They settled in Ludington, Mich., where the son, Malcolm, was educated, entered business, and in 1910 went to Scottville, where he became manager of the J. N. Mack Lumber and general store.

He was a man who had taken a large interest in the community life and had held positions of honor and trust in various organizations.

His funeral was held on January 31st, 1934, at the Methodist Church in Scottville. He is survived by his widow, formerly Emma Price, and three children, two daughters, Helen and Bertha, and a son, Harold.

Mrs. John Lacerider of Centreville, Ont., is an aunt of the late Mr. Coburn.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ORGANIZATIONS

MORVEN Y. P. S.

The Morven Young People met at the home of Mr. A. Bullock with twenty members present. Mr. Wilfred VanSlyck took charge and opened the meeting with hymn 46. Miss Lottie Miller led in prayer and Mr. Wilfred VanSlyck read the scripture lesson and the president had received a letter from the Belleville Presbytery announcing the Bi-Annual Convention of the Young People's Union, to be held at the Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Monday, April 9th at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. An invitation was extended to all who could attend. Hymn 263 was sung followed with a reading by Richard Hill. The topic "Faith, Hope and Love" was read by Miss Stella Craig. Other readings were given by Misses Grace Street and Grace Miller. The meeting closed with hymn 483 and the Mizpah benediction.

SELBY Y. P. S.

Selby Young People's Society held their Valentine party on Friday evening, February 16th, in the church hall, which was decorated for the occasion, in the form of a children's night and the members came dressed as children and brought their lunch in a dinner pail. There was a good attendance and the programme was under the leadership of the social convener, Miss Marion Winter.

The programme consisted of singing, readings and musical games. Each member received a home made Valentine from the Valentine mail box.

Sheep-Killing Dogs Do $20,000 Damage

Toronto.—Marauding sheep-killing dogs, prowling over Ontario's farmlands by night and leaving behind them a trail of mutilated flocks, annually cost municipalities throughout the province more than $20,000, W. R. Wade, director of the live stock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, estimated recently, in commenting on recent reports of wholesale sheep slaughters

Ottawa, and that if the delegation went to Ottawa, it was the intention of the members not to incur any expense for the town, that each member would pay his own expenses.

The motion to rescind was lost and Councillor Cowling asked for the yeas and nays, which resulted as follows: Yeas, Messrs. Cowling, Luffman and Morden. Nays, Messrs. Exley, Hughson, Morden, Topping, Tustin, and Wilson.

Kingston Appeals For New Drydock

Ottawa. — The need for a larger drydock and the claim that Kingston was the logical site for it were urged upon Hon. H. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works by a Kingston delegation on February 13. He promised to give the representations very serious consideration.

Small Damage Done By Fire on Tuesday

On Tuesday morning, a fire alarm was sounded about 11:00 o'clock and the firemen answered a call to the home of George H. Switzer, on Robinson Street. Workmen from the Hydro were thawing out the water pipes leading into Mr. Switzer's home, when a fire was started, apparently from a short circuit. The fire made very little headway and it was soon extinguished when the firemen arrived on the scene.

This has been a busy winter for the Hydro, with their pipe thawing apparatus. In all, 49 homes have had to have the assistance of electric power to thaw out water pipes.

St. Mary's Church W.A. Receive Letter of Thanks

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mary Magdalene Church received a letter from Church House, Athabasca, Alta., of the safe arrival of boxes of clothing and food sent out in December.

The letter says: "They are having very severe weather and the extra clothes had helped wherever they were sent. The groceries were of great value. Patients from the hospital were helped—their families had been living on potatoes with a flour paste over them.

"A widow, with children, was so glad to receive fruit and dried corn. She had walked thirteen miles into town for mail and brought a dressed turkey for us to give away to someone who would get no Christmas. She herself has nothing and it was a real joy to pass some on to her.

"We have had glorious illustrations of the poor keeping the poor, both east and west. We feel very much at the east, just now; mileage means nothing when hearts are glowing. The clergy are deluged with appeals for help."

Committee Named To Investigate Mass Buying Conditions

Ottawa.—The names of the eleven members who will compose the special committee of the House of Commons investigating mass-buying and various other matters, were announced recently by Premier Bennett.

The names follow: —

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce; J. L. Ralston, Cons. (Champlain); Dr. Bell, Cons. St. John - Albert; A. M. Edwards, Cons. Waterloo South; Sam Factor, Lib. Toronto West Centre; J. L. Ilsley, Lib. Hants - Kings; D. M. Kennedy, U. F. A., Peace River; W. W. Kennedy, Lab., Winnipeg South Centre; M. Senn, Con. Haldimand; E. J. Young, Lib. Wentworth.

The committee will select its own chairman, but it is altogether likely that Hon. H. H. Stevens will be appointed.

The Late Andrew Bruce McLeod

Following an illness of over nine years' duration, death occurred early on Wednesday, February 14th, in the hospital, at Stratford, of Andrew Bruce McLeod, for many years a resident of the Selby district.

Mr. McLeod, who was just past 76 years of age, was English by birth. With his parents he came to Canada seventy years ago and settled near Selby for about sixty years, where he was a prosperous farmer. His wife was Emma Wilson, a member of another well known family, who were residents of the same locality.

After giving up farming, about fifteen years ago, Mr. McLeod, with his wife and son, William, lived for a time in Toronto and Oshawa, and later settled in Napanee, where his daughter, Mrs. Kinch, resides. About nine years ago he became afflicted with arthritis, and painful though not fatal, he was a most patient sufferer.

A service was held at Stratford at the family hoodie on Friday, and the remains were then brought to Napanee, where a brief service was held at the home of Mrs. McLeod's sister, Mrs. Leah Russell, on West St., after which the body was placed in Riverside vault, to await interment in the Spring. The funeral service at Napanee, was conducted by Dr. W. E. L. Smith of Selby United Church, of which Mr. McLeod had long been a member.

Mr. McLeod is survived by his wife, his son, William, one daughter, Mrs. Kinch, and a sister, Miss McLeod, in the United States.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

There is, apparently, nothing decided officially in regard to the playoffs in the Town League, but the schedule will soon be over and it is expected that the clubs finishing second and third will meet shortly. Right now it looks like Hayburn and Bruisers.

The carnival was, apparently, not a success, since no complaints have been heard to date. The crowd was only fair due chiefly to the cold weather, which also affected the ice, the latter developing bad cracks before the evening was over.

The races created the most interest and another year the three-cornered events will be eliminated for all but children since there were no entries for these events in the older classes.

As usual, the door prizes went out of town.

The feature of the evening was the impromptu half-mile race between "Wilf" Wilson and "Bill" Wiggins, which had to be seen to be appreciated, and ended in a draw.

The skiers have taken advantage of the over-abundance of snow and while large numbers are to be found on the slopes of the south of the town, this year is not as popular as in former years, due chiefly, probably, to the lack of snow for the past three or four seasons.

Sunday, we paid an official visit to the river to inspect the new church-touted "snow-plane" in operation. "Wing Commander" Hannah and "Chief Mechanic" Hodgson were demonstrating the propeller driven craft to all comers. The first test proved decidedly the unreliability of the machine for modern high-speed transportation, due for the most part, to a tendency to change its course without considering the wishes or intentions of any of the driver. A ground crew of at least one hundred hands, under the supervision of "Gubby" Black and "Jiggy" Seymour, were required to extricate the machine every time it tried to hide in the marsh. After making a few highly technical suggestions, we left the aerodrome and felt fully convinced that the inventors would have to make some drastic alterations before their "snow-craft" would ever break anybody's neck or any non-existing world records.

Baseball news!

We hear that there is to be a new baseball club in town, this summer. There are two parks and there is a big demand for baseball but the clubs should not operate. It must be remembered, however, that before any club can be organized ball a sizeable fine incurred years ago, has to be paid.

We also received word from one of our scouts, that the Gibbard Athletics are going to find it hard to get intermediate competition this year. Why a club that could put even an average baseball team on ice is to be feared, is hard to understand. It looks as though there is a movement on foot to force the "A's" to go senior to help round out the O. B. L., which is apparently on its last legs.

cedent cases that arose as far back as 1894 during Liberal governments where civil servants occupying such positions as sheriff, crown attorney, clerk of the peace, etc., had been given such allowance by his successor in office. A sub-committee comprising Hon. Mr. McCrea, Hon. Mr. Macaulay, Dr. G. A. McQuibban, Liberal-Opposition Leader, and H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, was appointed to draw a report on the evidence. Bills will be dealt with by the Legal Bills Committee, and a report made to the House.

Facts Concerning Radium Institutes

Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, in speaking of his bill providing for establishment of a radium institute in the city of London, gave many enlightening facts as to the work being done in the clinics in Toronto and Kingston, in the government's assistance in fighting cancer. Toronto, he said, at the General Hospital, has an institute unsurpassed in the world, as to equipment, but he stressed the importance of early diagnosis and treatment in all cases. Recently the government has arranged for the four grammes of radium, known as a "bomb" to be used at the Toronto General Hospital.

"The whole secret of cancer treatment is early diagnosis and treatment," said Dr. Robb. "We have found that from the time a person notices the first symptoms, usually six months elapse before he or she sees a doctor and usually another six months elapse before the first treatment is given. The public is being educated as to the vital necessity of early treatment. Our records show that people are coming earlier for treatment than was previously the case."

Reeve Shields, (Cons. Woodbine-Toronto), in speaking on the debate of the Speech from the Throne, congratulated T. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, with having been singled out by the late Sir Adam Beck, at one time, in the House, as "the worst enemy of Hydro." Mr. Shields indicated that records would be produced to prove the allegation. Mr. Shields also charged the Opposition with unanimously donating Hydro through mud in an effort to get something on the Government.

Juvenile Court Bill

Attorney-General W. H. Price, in speaking to second reading to his amendment to the Juvenile Court bill, which covers family courts instead of just juvenile courts, declared that a most tremendous benefit to the family, the child and municipality. Raising of the juvenile age limit of 16 to 18 years has been urged. Col. Price stated, which he said is something for future consideration. Mr. Shields (Cons.) Brocton, in supporting the measure, suggested that the custody of infant children would also be brought under the jurisdiction of the court.

A reply was made to the question tabled last session in connection with agents and their commissions of distilleries who sell to the Liquor Control Board. The Board's reply was to the effect that they do not deal with agents, nor has it any knowledge of commissions. Purchase orders for Scotch whiskey are sent direct to the actual producer and payment is made likewise.

Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, gave notice that he will introduce at an amendment to the Factory Shop and Office Building Act, which will reduce the working hours per week of employees in the baking industry from 60 to 56. If they work beyond this maximum they will receive overtime pay.

MORVEN W. M. S.

The February meeting of Morven W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Ernie Miller with the president, Mrs. C. L. Sharp, in the chair. The opening hymn was followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Reports were received from the recording secretary, treasurer and the corresponding secretary. Plans were discussed re the attending of the annual Presbyterial which convenes in Napanee, this year, on March 13th and 14th. After a reading by Mrs. Rayvroft and Mrs. Withers offered prayer.

Lesson on Christian Stewardship by Mrs. W. Withers and by the Secretary, Mrs. E. Rayvroft, who presented Mrs. Winters, herald for Africa, gave a splendid reading from his Missionary Monthly.

Mrs. R. W. Street then favored with one of her splendid solos.

Medical Missions in China, as told by Dr. Retta Kilborn, was read by Mrs. George Fralick, after which a prayer by Mrs. Harry Stone brought a most profitable meeting to a close.

The prayers for this meeting were taken from the Day of Prayer programme.

BURNS' MAUSOLEUM WILL BE REPAIRED

It seems the people of Dumfries, Scotland, are complaining about the condition of the Burns mausoleum in St. Michael's church there, the mausoleum being a mecca for Burns lovers from all parts of the world. The citizens asked the council of Dumfries to do something to keep the mausoleum in good shape and the town council are taking steps to comply. It is a far cry from Dumfries to Saint John, New Brunswick, in Canada, but, notwithstanding, there is a definite link, for the man who undertook the work of erecting the mausoleum lies buried in the cemetery in that city. He was John Milligan, and he emigrated to Canada shortly after the work was completed. The mausoleum was designed by G. F. Hunt, architect, London, and the plans were approved on the 25th of April, 1815. The successful tenderer for the mason work was John Milligan.

"PREHISTORIC MONSTERS" ARE BECOMING COMMON

The appearance of "prehistoric monsters" is, apparently, becoming quite commonplace. Passengers aboard the Canadian National steamship "Prince Rupert" on a recent trip in northern British Columbia waters were quite sure they had discovered Puget Sound's famous "Caddy" making its way to Alaska. The large object which they saw floating on the surface, however, turned out to be a dead whale off which hundreds of seagulls were feasting. At a distance the seagulls looked like serrations along the back of the supposed monster.

'YOUNG TOTS TRAVEL LONG WAY TO DADDY

Two youngsters, aged four and six respectively, recently arrived at Halifax from Czecho-Slovakia, and boarded a C. N. R. train for Chatham, Ont., where their daddy awaited them. The railway arranged for a woman who spoke their language to accompany them from Halifax to Montreal.

On their way to Canada the young charges were under the care of the liner's stewardess. The last part of their journey from Montreal was in charge of the sleeping car conductor.

Stricter Sale of Native Wine Hinted By Premier Henry

Warmly denying the Moderation League were keeping him from any loosening of the Liquor Act, Premier George S. Henry yesterday addressed a large delegation from the Ontario Prohibition Union, which waited on him at the Parliament Buildings.

Members of the delegation, referring to themselves as a "parliament of moral forces," had pleaded with the Premier to forego his reported plans for extended sale of beer and wines. They pointed out the evils of liquor, and called for a plebiscite instead of summary Government alteration of the liquor laws. Spokesmen were Dr. Charles T. Scott, leader; H. T. Foster, Toronto, and Mrs. W. R. Lang, Toronto.

In reply, the Premier refused to recognize the delegation as speaking for any large section of the people; spoke of the influence which broader liquor laws in the other Provinces and in the United States must have on Ontario; gave no new information of the Government's bear intentions, but hinted at stricter sale of native wine, which he considered an outstanding cause of drunkenness, even since the permit system had been applied to it.

Never, said Premier Henry, had he been visited by Moderation League delegates and urged to loosen the law. They had sent him resolutions passed at their meetings, that was all. The hotelkeepers had waited on him eighteen months ago, and he had told them he was not in sympathy with their demands.

Recently a new factor had entered into the situation—the beer-by-the glass legislation in other Provinces and the comparatively wide-open sale in the United States. North America was a community in which influence of each other's thought, and changes elsewhere had prompted in Ontario renewed consideration of the liquor question.

Reviewing "progress" in Ontario liquor laws during the past thirty-five years, Mr. Henry called on the delegates to compare today's situation with that existing before Whitney's time. He was convinced that, after trial and error, the Ontario Government had evolved the finest statute of its kind in existence. Many he said, who had been doubtful of Government sale's effect now were convinced that the 1926 action had been wise.

In passing, he said, that statistics disproved the delegation's contention that liquor was a prime cause of highway accidents. Rather, the chief cause was a sober man's reckless endeavor to travel too fast.

Concluding, he said he realized that the delegation would never be satisfied with anything short of complete prohibition. "I hope you live to see it," he added. "But you'll have to live a long time for that."

London Business Man Claims Old Order in Europe is Passing

Revolution, disorder and charges of corruption which are flung at the heads of old line politicians in Europe are having their effect in England by strengthening support for Britain's Blackshirts — Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascists, — according to Leonard Chamberlain, young London businessman.

Mosely's platform is based on the belief that the old time politicians are unfit to take the drastic action which is necessary in these times," he said. "Mosely and all the British Fascists—I am one of them—believe that they should let younger men get into control.

70,000 Enrolled

"But how many members have you?" the reporter said.

"Our strength is greatest around London, at present," Mr. Chamberlain answered. "There we have something like 20,000 enrolled."

"But," he continued, "the average Englishman is notoriously reluctant to dress up or put on uniform. There is a positive fear of anything that appears in the least theatrical, and for that reason the figure I have quoted does not in the least show our actual number of sympathizers in London.

"Recent events in Europe have convinced many Englishmen of the fact that democratic government is decaying. Only firm rule, firm discipline can meet with success, and the fact that those countries which have assumed this type of government have improved their economic condition, is evidence which is being observed closely by people in England, who are dissatisfied with the present state of affairs."

Decline Revealed In Tourist Travel

Ottawa. During the past calendar year 2,233,418 tourist automobiles entered Canada for a period of 24 hours; 863,135 for a period not exceeding 60 days, and 333 for a period exceeding 60 days, according to a statement issued by the Department of National Revenue, recently. This showed a considerable falling-off as compared with 1932 when the total for a 24-hour period was 2,670,290, for under 60 days, 1,032,967 and for over 60 days 420.

While the tourist traffic into Canada was falling off, Canadians were travelling by motor car in other countries more extensively than the year before. The total Canadian automobiles exported for touring purposes last year was 417,132 and in 1932, the total was 376,857.

Wedding Bells

BOYES—REASON

The marriage was solemnized on Friday evening, February 16th, at 7:30 o'clock, in the chapel of St. Mary Magdalen Church, by the Venerable Archdeacon R. G. Dumbrille, of Catharine Margaret Reason and William Jason Lester Boyes.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few intimate friends and the witnesses were Mr. William Chamberlain and Mr. P. J. Boyes.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shirley Boyes, of Napanee, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Reason of London, Ontario.

FOLEY—KIRK

The marriage of Frank C. Foley, B.A., and Miss Adelaide Bowsler Kirk, B.A., took place at the home of the bride's parents at Niagara, North Dakota. Mr. Foley, after graduating from Victoria College, University of Toronto, in geology and mineralogy, in 1929, taught geology on the staff of Dartmouth College, N.H., for one year, then held an assistantship in Princeton University for three years, while pursuing his Ph.D. course for graduation next spring. He is a lecturer in geology in the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks. The bride is a graduate of her State university.

Mr. Foley is the only son of Rev. H. W. and Mrs. Foley of the Bay of Quinte Conference at Springbrook.

CASSIDY—HOPKINS

The marriage of Anne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hopkins, to Arthur Cassidy, son of Mr. William Cassidy and the late Mrs. Cassidy, took place quietly at 8:30 on Monday morning, February 12th, in the Church of the Assumption. Rev. J. A. Powell officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was wearing a navy blue transparent velvet dress with hat to match and grey shoes and gloves. She carried a white prayer book and crystal and gold rosarie, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was Miss Mae Cassidy, sister of the groom, while Mr. Edward Hopkins, twin brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. Miss Helen York, organist of the church, assisted by several members of the choir, furnished the wedding music.

Following a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy left on a wedding trip.

The bride who, for many years, had been a member of the sodality of the Children of Mary, was presented with a beautiful statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary, by the members of the Sodality and their spiritual adviser, Rev. Father Powell. The presentation was accompanied by a nicely worded address.

Fascism and Rights of Ownership

Speaking on the subject of Fascism, in London, recently, Mr. J. Middleton Murry said that perhaps the majority of people in England recognized the necessity of some limitation of individualism. Economically, it was disregarded it as a political movement, as a manifestation of moral degradation. Fascism was a movement which proposed to limit the rights of private ownership. It proposed economically to distinguish between ownership and control. At the bottom of the theory of Fascism was the belief that the rights of ownership should, in no sense, be divorced from control. In the past control had been regarded as the essential part of ownership. When ownership was divorced from control a new economic condition of things was found.

The organization of such a thing as the London Transport Board had been represented as a great victory for Socialism, but what did this London Transport Board really mean? It meant economical organization and coherence in a great industrial undertaking, the elimination of waste, rationalism. It meant also that divorce between ownership and control, of which he had spoken as a leading characteristic of the economic Fascist state. Ownership belonged to the holders of the shares and stocks of the undertaking, which were united into the London Transport Board. Control was invested practically in a public authority. I am not saying that is Fascism, because Fascism depends on the complete establishment of that kind of economy, but if you once make the mistake of imagining that control divorced from ownership is anything other than essentially Fascist, then you are moralizing in order that development into the authoritarian state." In this way was created a class which was completely functionless and which was for the first time in history completely parasitic. This state of affairs, however, could come about only by the surrender of democracy.

Mr. Murry went on to point out the necessity of workers' control of industry. The argument against it was a good argument—let them not say that Mr. Herbert Morrison did not know his business. Mr. Morrison said that if workers' control was allowed in a unit of industry it would prevent the really efficient working of that unit. The vital thing, Mr. Murry maintained, was to safeguard by democratic methods along the political field to the seizure of the whole economic system.

ICELANDERS DEMAND LONG RUBBER BOOTS

Icelandic fishermen, who for centuries have worn a traditional kind of heavy leather boot, often fitted with a thick wooden sole, are taking to the rubber boot of Canadian origin. Emily attempts to introduce boots for fishermen not with considerable opposition, because of a certain superstition in favor of the traditional footwear. The rubber boot, most in demand, is of knee height, to which the islander adds a hip top made by himself from red rubber imported in rolls and cut to suitable shape.

MORVEN LADIES' AID

The regular monthly meeting of Morven Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Ernie Miller, on Wednesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. William Withers in charge. After the opening hymn, prayer by Rev. A. E. Oliver was followed by Bible reading by Mrs. William Ball. Roll call was responded to by thirteen members and four visitors.

The membership was divided into two groups, with leaders for each group.

A short programme consisted of a reading by Mrs. E. Miller and a duet by the Misses Stella Craig and Lillian Withers, with Miss Lillian Babcock at the piano.

The offering was received and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

CANADA'S LARGEST RETAIL GROCERS

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Due to the shortage of good grain seed in many sections, Ontario farmers are advised to locate and purchase their supplies early.

Use Local Grown Oats

According to Arthur H. Martin, Deparmental. Official, it is considerably safer to sow well cleaned local grown oats, even though the quality be rather poor, than to take a chance on sowing western feed oats.

Feed oats were never intended for seed and, even when reclaimed, may contain sufficient weed seeds to seed the farm to one or more weeds previously unknown to the community.

Seed Potatoes Scarce

Inasmuch as the 1933 Ontario potato crop fell short of the demand by approximately one million bags, reports T. J. Cassin of Alliston, to the Ontario Marketing Board, there will be shortage of certified seed. This, of course, is due to the fact that much of the certified seed crop has been marketed as table stock.

Certified Ontario cobblers are scarce and seed requirements should be secured as soon as possible. While it is early in the season for setting prices, it is Mr. Cassin's view that holders of seed should not delay making contact with purchasers as they need supplies.

Strieter Dairy Legislation

New legislation for the control of market milk and the safeguarding of the milk producer and consumer, is now being considered by the Ontario Legislature. This legislation provides for compulsory pasteurization in all cities; issuance by the Government of certificates of approval to producers; licensing and bonding of distributors to protect farmers against loss, and a rigid inspection by Government inspectors of producing and distributing plants to replace the existing municipal inspection.

Compulsory pasteurization for the cities is being launched chiefly at the request of the various producers' associations in the province and on the advice of such centres as have milk wars and other milk supply problems on their hands during the last two years. Many petitions, also representations of the farmers' point of view have been received at Queen's Park from individuals for adoption of such policy.

Alfalfa Tariff Reduction Likely For United States

The Department is advised that in order that quantities of Turkestah alfalfa may be brought in from Russia, the United States Tariff Board has been considering reducing the tariff on alfalfa seed from eight cents to four cents a pound.

It is further reported that this type of alfalfa resists a disease which affects home-grown seed in certain states.

The larger alfalfa growers' organizations are strenuously attempting to prevent such a move, claiming that the United States grows sufficient alfalfa for her own needs.

Ontario Products More Popular In Britain

"Ontario products are becoming increasingly popular on the English and other European markets," Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario minister of agriculture, told members of the Fruit Growers' Association in convention, recently.

"The improvement in quality and the better pack, plays an important part. The improved export trade greatly benefitted the home market and the department is seeking to develop both," he said.

"You must always remember it is the first-class product that establishes confidence, and by improving your output at home and abroad you have done much to win greater prosperity for the industry."

Problems of Winter Feeding

Feed scarcity has become a pressing problem in Ontario. Very little concern was felt in the fall, even though hay crops had been short in parts of the province. With cattle in the stable almost a month earlier than usual and below zero temperatures in December and January, the situation is changed. Agricultural representatives in half a dozen counties report barely enough to support the animals until spring and in a few cases actual scarcity. It requires somewhat heavier feeding to enable the live stock to endure the cold and keep in condition. Purchases of hay will have to be made—twenty carloads in one district. Fortunately, there are supplies available though prices are likely to advance.

There is a better demand in Eastern Canada for fodder grains and for feeding and where the local supply is short, purchases are being made from the West.

Corn Varieties for Ensilage

Success in the production of corn for ensilage depends largely upon the choice of a suitable variety. According to the Dominion Agrostologist recent tests have shown the following varieties to be most suitable for Eastern Canada generally:— Dents — Wisconsin No. 7, Golden Glow, Leaming and Bailey. Flints — Compton's Early, Longfellow, Salzer's North Dakota.

Dent varieties sucker very little, if at all, while the flints sucker very freely. The flints usually yield slightly lower than the dents but since they can be harvested seven to ten days earlier they should be given preference in districts where the season is somewhat short for using the dent varieties.

Canadian Graded Cheese

Reports to the Department indicate that almost 112,000,000 lbs. of cheese, or approximately 93 per cent. of the total production in Canada during 1933 was graded. Of this quantity 93.75 per cent. was first grade, and was the highest percentage of the first grade during any year since grading was inaugurated. It also represents an increase of 11 per cent during the 10-year period. Each of the provinces in which cooperative facilities for cheese are manufactured, has effected improvement in quality, and the increased percentage of first grade cheese in 1932, as compared with that of 1923, represented an additional revenue of approximately $11,000 to the cheese industry, last year. In addition to the increased percentage of first grade cheese, there is also a market improvement in the appearance of shipments. The distinctive Canadian is superior to that of previous years, all of which has enhanced the relative standing of Canadian cheese in the markets of the world.

Exterminating Poultry Mites

Of all the many varieties of vermin that infest fowl, red mites are the most troublesome. One of the very best disinfectants, to use against mites, is made as follows :— Dissolve one pound and a half of concentrated lye in as small a quantity of water as possible (it will be necessary to do this two or three hours before the lye is required as it should be cold when used.) Put two gallons of raw linseed oil into a five gallon stone crock and pour in the lye very slowly, stirring meanwhile. Keep on stirring until a smooth liquid soap is produced, then gradually add two gallons of crude carbolic acid or commercial creosol, stirring constantly until the resulting fluid is a clear dark brown. Use two or three tablespoonfuls of the mixture to a gallon of water. The disinfectant may be applied with a handspray pump, or if such is not available, a brush will do, but in either case the fluid should be used liberally after the house and roosts have been thoroughly cleaned out, flooding every crack and crevice.

DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

Hatching by Incubator

Before using the incubator check it for leaks and breakages and test the thermometers. Place the machine in a well ventilated room or cellar which is kept at a uniform temperature. The eggs used should be of normal shape and appearance and at least 24 ounces to the dozen. Control the moisture according to the appearance of the eggs after they are set. On the seventh-day candle and the air cell should be about one-eighth the size of the egg and on the eighteenth day, about one quarter. The eggs should be turned twice a day. Test for fertility on the seventh and eighteenth days, closing the machine on the seventh. Above all follow the instructions given with the machine when purchased.

The Hen Will Still be on the Job

Natural incubation is still used extensively on the farm, for the hen can do good work if she is properly looked after. However, if the hen is to be used for incubation, see that she gets fair chance. Set several at a time in clean nests, preferably in a separate room or colony house. See that they are free from lice, put feed and water in the pens, and give them well selected eggs. By testing out the unfertile eggs it may be possible to transfer the remainder from three hens to two and return the third to the laying quarters. When the chicks are hatched it may be that one hen can take care of them all. Keep the mother and her brood away from the rest of the flock, in a sanitary coop on clean ground.

How Much Shall I seed per Acre ?

The following rates per acre for seeding are general recommendations based on experiments by the Field Husbandry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms Branch; Oats 2½ bushels, fall and spring wheat 1½ bushels, barley 2 bushels, mixed grain, barley 1 bushel, oats 1 bushel, peas(large size) 2 bushels, peas (small size) 2 to 2½ bushels, buckwheat 1½ to 1½ bushels, corn ½ bushel, potatoes 18 to 20 bushels, mangels 6 to 8 pounds, turnips, 3 pounds, rape 3 to 4 pounds

BEAN WEEVIL DISLIKES WINTER

The bean weevil is unable to survive when exposed to winter temperatures in Canada, says Alan G. Dustan of the Dominion Entomological Branch. Accordingly, beans should be stored in unheated granaries or seed houses where the temperature inside the building will closely approximate that outside. Infested seed should never be planted without proper treatment. If beans contain weevils, they should be fumigated with carbon bisulphide. The greatest care, however, must be exercised in the use of carbon bisulphide as the fumes are poisonous to human beings and quickly ignite and explode when brought into contact with fire in any form. Although this fumigant can be purchased at most seed houses or wholesale drug stores, its use should be confined to expert and experienced men.

Are You WEARY?

Do you find it hard to do things some days? Days when body and brain feel oppressed? Insufficient elimination of body waste is probably the reason. It is most likely the reason if you have no regular daily habit. Keep your daily habit, because regularity is no guarantee of completeness. HOW TO START KEEPING BEES

(Experimental Farms Note)

Due to an increasing demand and the good prices received for honey, many people are being attracted to beekeeping as a means of making a livelihood or of supplementing a reduced income from other sources. Beekeeping, however, like all other lines of business requires experience to make it a successful under taking, and many a beginner has finally given up in disgust just for the want of it. Details of management cannot be given in an article such as this but to gain experience in the manipulation of bees the beginner is well advised to spend, at least, one full season working with an experienced beekeeper before purchasing bees for himself. Failing this, the next method to obtain one or two colonies, a good text book and to visit nearby beekeepers as often as possible. A beginner is often mislead into buying his first lot of bees during late summer or in the fall, this is a mistake and likely to cause a lot of trouble and possible loss of the colonies. The best time of the year to start beekeeping is during the spring, for if anything is wrong with the colonies it can be rectified during the summer but not during the winter. Often bees are purchased by a beginner as a bargain when a little experience would show that they would be expensive as a gift. Never buy bees unless they are in movable frame hives of not less than ten frame size, and that they are absolutely free from disease. Furthermore, be sure that each colony is headed with a good queen. Do not buy colonies of bees from a nearby beekeeper and move them during the active season, for if you do, the field force of the colony will return to their old home and your colony will be left in a weak condition. To prevent this, the colonies should be moved for at least two miles. A new swarm can be moved anywhere. All the way through the active season there are problems of manipulation upon which almost everyone is anxious to give the beginner some advice, which, if accepted more often than not, leads to trouble. Get all the experience you can before starting, and if in doubt write to the Bee Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, for information.

TO CLEAN IVORY

Beads and pendants of carved ivory need frequent cleaning if they are in constant use. To remove the dirt which collects in the small crevices, a soft toothbrush and good dentist's plate powder mixed to a paste with warm water should be used. This treatment cleans and polishes the ivory without scrathing it, and also helps to keep it a good colour. Carved ivory boxes and ornaments may be satisfactorily cleaned in the same way. Knife handles which have become discoloured should be rubbed with half a lemon dipped in salt. Furniture cream is effective for cleaning ivory-backed brushes and other dressing-table accessories. For stubborn stains methylated spirit is the best cleanser.

POTTING PLANTS

In the care and culture of house plants the Horticultural Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture says the best time to shift house plants is in the early spring. Geraniums, begonias, coleus and similar plants that have become unshapely should be cut back at this time. Plants rarely need re-potting during the winter months. Over-potting is to be avoided. Flowering plants need to be root-bound to get flower freely. A piece of inverted crock over the drainage hole with a small amount of gravel, broken crock, or cinders is excellent. Cans or other utensils in place of pots are not recommended, but when used should have an outlet for water, at least one-half inch at the bottom. When re-potting it is well to remove a portion of the old soil and roots. Plants or cuttings should be firmly set, care being exercised that the roots are not injured. When completed, the soil should be one-half inch below the pot rim.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

CONWAY W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of Conway Women's Institute was held in the home of Mrs. W. H. Phippen. The condition of the roads made it necessary to use horses instead of cars. The gorgeous sunshine and pretty Valentine decorations added pleasure to the meeting.

After the regular opening, several motions were passed; one to allow the Sandhurst school to use money for the purchase of books instead of playground equipment; secondly to pay outstanding bills and thirdly, that we hold the summer series meeting in Sandhurst church hall and Conway branch provide the afternoon tea. It was also decided that we purchase a quilt from Conway United Church Ladies' Aid and give it to a needy family. A motion was passed to give five dollars to each of the nurses who served on the relief committee.

A report from the convener of the relief committee was read and we note with satisfaction that sheets, pillow cases, clothing, a layette, a case of vegetables and sick room supplies were supplied families who were in need.

At the conclusion of our business, Mrs. Ross T. VanDyck read a most interesting description of a trip to Australia. Miss Evelyn Ackerman, in her usual pleasant style, obliged with a pianoforte solo.

Afternoon tea was served and a social half hour was enjoyed before closing with the National Anthem.

CAMDEN EAST W. I.

Mrs. Albert Lewis entertained the officers and members of the Women's Institute at her home on Wednesday afternoon, February 7th and there was an attendance of twenty members and five visitors. After the usual opening the roll call "A Trade By-law," met with a splendid response. The minutes of last meeting was read and approved. Correspondence re the summer series meetings was read. Four branches, Moscow, Yarker, Colebrook, Camden East and Newburgh, will, as in previous years, unite, and the meeting will be held in the Municipal Hall, Newburgh, in June.

Several letters of appreciation were read from those who have been ill. Thankoffe for Institute for fruit received. A letter of appreciation was read from the Library Board, thanking the Institute for the donation of $15. The secretary was requested to write the Department, convening a three-day course in wool, by Mrs. Percival.

The business being concluded the program was proceeded with and a splendid paper on "Proper Procedure in Making a Will." was given by Mrs. A. Reid. Then followed a demonstration "Something useful and beautiful for the Home" and each member contributed to this demonstration and there was a splendid exhibit.

Current events were ably given by Mrs. W. Brown. Several portions of "Home and Country" were read by some of the members and these portions were enjoyed. A very interesting musical contest, which was prepared by Mrs. Jos. Lewis, was won by Mrs. Ed. Hamilton.

The president asked each member to bring at the next meeting a suggestion for the programme for the year 1934. This meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. W. Dunn on March 7th. After the singing of the National Anthem, refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The February meeting of the Napanee Women's Institute was held in the Collegiate rooms on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. W. Exley, president, in the chair. Owing to the congested condition of the country roads, Mt. Pleasant Pioneers W. I. who were to have been guests on this occasion, were unable to be present.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. Letters were received from members who had received fruit and flowers while ill, expressing appreciation. The report of the euchre, held on January 31st, was given and proved this venture to have been very successful. The officers wish to thank all who helped to make this undertaking profitable. The roll call "Why belong to the Women's Institute," received a splendid response expressing many benefits gained by membership.

Mrs. Katherine Powell delighted those present with several readings which were much enjoyed. Current events by Mrs. Ralph Ham were of much interest and gave evidence of much study and preparation of this number on the programme. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Ham.

The meeting closed with the National Anten, after which Mrs. J. Gehan and her committee served those present with dainty refreshments, which were much enjoyed.

WILTON WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. J. E. Miller and Marion entertained members and friends of the Wilton Women's Institute, on Tuesday afternoon, to the number of about 25. The meeting opened, as usual, and after discussion, several bills were ordered paid. The following programme, under the direction of Mrs. M. J. White and Mrs. Archie Simmons, was given : Guitar solo by Miss Eleanor Emberley; reading by Mrs. W. Simmons; piano solo by Miss Gladys Wallace; reading by Mrs. Arthur Burt; reading by Miss Helen Babcock. Current events was prepared by Mrs. C. Henderson and read by Miss Marion Miller. A vocal solo by Mrs. K. Martin, accompanied by Miss Marion Miller; a reading by Mrs. Archie Simmons, was followed by community singing. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close, after which Mrs. White had charge of a contest, of which Miss Eleanor Emberley was the prize winner.

MAPLE RIDGE W. I.

On Thursday evening, February 8, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lasher very kindly opened their spacious home to the Maple Ridge Institute, for a social evening and a most enjoyable time was spent by all. There was a good attendance of members and visitors present, in spite of the bitter cold weather. The meeting opened with the singing of the ode and repeating the creed. The roll call was answered by "A Canadian Industry and where." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Due to the cold weather some of the numbers on the programme were unable to be present, but others very kindly helped to make the programme most interesting. A paper prepared by Mrs. Garfield Sills, was given by Mrs. O. Young. We were delightfully entertained with several musical selections by Allan and Ernest Benn. A piano duet, a violin and banjo duet by Mr. Roy Croome and Allan Vandebogart, accompanied by Mrs. Croome at the piano; a banjo solo by Allan Vandebogart, accompanied by Helen Larkin. A reading by Mrs. Brown, "Names of Women," was won by Mrs. Harvey Cook. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close, after which the hostess and committee in charge served lunch. A pleasant social evening was spent in dancing and cards. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Lasher for their kind hospitality.

AMHERST ISLAND W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of Amherst Island Women's Institute was held in the Town Hall, Stella, on Saturday, January 13th, at 2:00 p.m., with ten present. The roll call was answered by giving the name of an Ontario County and its County town. It was decided to ask Dr. Hall, a speaker be sent here in the summer and plans were made for holding a social time in the near future. To add to the funds. After the minutes and the business, there was community singing, followed by a lively discussion on how to increase the membership of the Institute, and a suggestion was made that each member bring a new member during the year. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The regular meeting of Amherst Island W. I. will be held on the Town Hall, Stella, on Saturday, February 10th, with fourteen present. The roll call was answered by giving the name of a country belonging to the British Empire. It was decided to hold the tea at 4 o'clock instead of 5 o'clock. Current events was given by Mrs. Croome at the piano; a banjo solo by Allan Vandebogart, accompanied by Helen Larkin. A reading by Mrs. Brown, "Names of Women," was won by Mrs. Harvey Cook. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close, after which the hostess and committee in charge served lunch. A pleasant social evening was spent in dancing and cards. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Lasher for their kind hospitality.

AT PEACE WITH THE KITCHEN

Lyonnaise Potatoes

Lyonnaise potatoes use cold boiled potatoes to advantage. Pan-fry one medium onion which has been peeled and thinly sliced in six or three tablespoons fat. Add two cups sliced or cubed potatoes, season with salt and pepper, cover frying pan and cook slowly about fifteen minutes. Pork fat — from fat salt pork — is usually used for proper Lyonnaise potatoes. Some cooks add a few tablespoons vinegar just before the cooking is finished.

Cold boiled potatoes combined with egg make a nourishing dish. Dice potatoes and brown lightly in butter Add one or two tablespoons milk and break over one or two eggs. Stir and cook until egg is set.

Left-over mashed potatoes may be used in many ways too. Mashed potato cakes can be made a little more interesting if a little grated cheese is added to the potato before it is formed into cakes. A well beaten egg can be stirred into about 2 cups of mashed potato to make richer cakes. The little flat cakes may be rolled in flour before browning if a crisp crust is liked.

Potato puff is a more nutritious dish.

Potato Puff

Two cups cold mashed potatoes; 2 cups grated cheese.

Beat whites and yolks of eggs separately. Beat yolks with a dover beater until fluffy and lemon colored. Add with cheese to potatoes and mix thoroughly. Beat whites of eggs on platter with a wire whisk, beating until stiff and dry. Fold into mixture and turn into well buttered baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven and serve from baking dish.

Sausage Rolls

Dainty sausage rolls or meat or fish patties are light and savory, and can be served hot or cold. Half a sausage is required for each roll.

It should be placed in thin puff pastry, the edges of which should be moistened and securely fastened. Bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes. Any meat or fish in season can be used for the patties: cooked ham, chicken, veal, beef, lobster, shrimps, or a mixture like ham and chicken. The ingredients should be minced finely and well seasoned with salt, pepper, grated lemon rind, mace, and sometimes a little nutmeg and lemon-juice. Heat thoroughly, together with some gravy and a drop of milk or cream, so that the mixture is not too dry. In the meantime the pastry cases should be made separately, some small tins being lined with thin pastry. Fill the hollow with a piece of bread or cornice to keep the pastry down, put on the top cover of pastry, and bake in a hot oven. Then remove the bread and fill up the space with the minced meat. If required hot, they should be put in the oven for a few minutes, but not recooked.

Small Cakes

Small, easily managed almond macaroons, are to be preferred. An excellent sponge yet rich foundation cake is made as follows. Beat six eggs, add eight ounces of sugar, and whisk well for fifteen minutes in a bowl placed over a pan of hot water. Melt four ounces of butter and add alternately with six ounces of sifted flour. Pour into flat tins lined with buttered paper, and bake in a moderate oven for about half an hour. Part of the mixture can be coloured, and when cold cut into fancy shapes, iced, and decorated.

Marshmallow Dessert

Marshmallows are seldom used in cooking, yet delicious desserts and cakes may be made with them. Make marshmallow and peach cream by chopping a small tin of peaches with about twelve marshmallows. Heat together lightly with half a pint of sweetened whipped cream. Line individual glasses with soft lady fingers and fill up with the peaches and marshmallows. Garnish with chopped cherries and nuts. An original jelly may be made by arranging the jelly in alternate layers with sliced mixed fruit and marshmallows. When set, turn out of the mould and garnish with whipped cream and a little of the fruit which has been retained for the purpose.

CHESTNUT CREAM

A chestnut cream would be a good dish for Sunday supper. Melt quarter of an ounce of gelatine in a little lukewarm water. Beat up four egg yolks with half a pound of sugar in a saucepan, flavour with vanilla and a pinch of salt, and add a pint of hot milk. Stir until just on boiling, then strain through a sieve. Add the gelatine slowly, stirring well. Meanwhile, have ready some cooked and well-mashed chestnuts, and mix them with a couple of ounces of castor sugar. As the cream begins to set stir in this mixture slowly and finish with half a pint of whipped cream. If you want it very light, leave the cream in a cool place to set, and when it is turned out it may be decorated with more whipped cream and little fancy cakes.

If you have any difficulty in peeling and skinning your chestnuts before cooking, there is the best plan is to make a tiny slit on their rounded side and put them in the oven on a tray containing a little water, for even or eight minutes. As they peel better when they are hot it is as well only to take out a few at a time. Another way is to slit them in the same manner and to put them, a few at a time, in a frying-basket and then plunge them into hot fat. But this is rather a greasy business !

CRYSTAL

When washing crystal, the best results will be obtained by the following method :—The warm, soapy water, and line the basin with a clean duster in order to prevent the article from being scratched. Scrub it with a soft nail-brush to ensure reaching the crevices of the cut pattern. After rinsing thoroughly with tepid water, to which a touch of blue had been added, dry with a linen cloth and finally polish with a soft duster.

COMPLETE OUTPOST HOSPITALS ON WHEELS

A remarkable hospital on wheels, intended to serve the needs of outpost settlements between North Bay, Ont., and the boundary of Manitoba, is in operation along the main transcontinental line of the Canadian National Railways. It consists of a specially equipped rail car, 79 feet long, containing a four-bed ward, operating room, sleeping and living quarters and is complete in every detail, for hospital and clinical work. The operating room is 10 feet square and the operating table is so constructed as to permit of its being used as an emergency bed. There is a bathroom and kitchen in this mobile hospital, and in the kitchen, a cooking range and a refrigerator. The car is operated by the Canadian Red Cross.

AMERICAN GRUB NOW KILLS SNAKES

Cactoblastis cactorum, the little imported American grub, that has reclaimed more than 2,000,000 acres in prickly-pear-infested land in Northeastern Australia, by the simple process of eating down the pear and destroying the roots, is winning additional fame in some districts as the slayer of the Queensland adder, according to an official of the Canadian National Steamships, whose vessels maintain regular sailings between Canada and the "Antipodes. The adder, regarding the grub as a pest, eats it and dies from its diet. It is reported to be passing, along with the pear, at a surprising rate. One explanation is that the blue adder's motive for eating the cactoblastis is not hunger, but revenge. The destruction of the prickly pear cactus is robbing the snake of his shelter, and he regards the grub as nothing less than a home wrecker. The loss of his shelter has probably made the adder an open mark to emus and other birds which prey on his young and on the eggs.

New Words of the Last Half-Century

Oxford English Dictionary Supplement

The amazing novelties which have been introduced into the English tongue during the last fifty years were the subject of a speech by the President of Magdalen College, Oxford (Mr. George Gordon), at a luncheon at the Goldsmith's Hall, London, recently. The function was held to commemorate the publication of the supplementary volume of the Oxford English Dictionary.

The dictionary was begun more than fifty years ago, and the supplementary volume, which was edited by Sir William Craigie and Dr. C. T. Onions, is intended to include all the changes of meaning and novelties which have been introduced into the English tongue since the beginning of the great dictionary. In 1905 the Company of Goldsmiths contributed £25,000 towards the cost of one volume of the dictionary, and the Prime Warden (Lord Queenborough) presided at the luncheon.

The President of Magdalen, proposing the toast to the editors and staff of the supplementary volume, said that the volume provided a kind of rude and crude epitome of the strange generation to which those living to-day either belonged or had lived through. The new words which one might expect to find in such a dictionary made a fascinating list.

Here were some of them: Cubism, Futurism, Robot, Pacifism, Radium, The movies, Sex screen, Talkies, Tank, Hooligan, Loud-speaker, Lipstick, Slimming, Psycho-analysis, Fusspot, Pinhead, Profiteer, Go-ga Bubbly, Slapstick.

At a first glance the United States seemed to have an almost inordinate share in the present volume. However rude or crude were American terms, they were so expressive and impudently near the truth, that it was hard to resist them a place in any honest lexicon. Such terms were "graft", "once over," "dope," "lookout," and "step on the gas."

Honest contributions from Australia were "to make a bloomer," "barracking," and "no flies on me." A familiar and very modern phrase which he thought was of our own growth, "leaves me cold," might actually have come from Germany. The translation cited to illustrate Hitlerites and Nazis was taken from the "Times" in 1930, and read: "Herr Hitler, the leader of the victorious Nazis, has very carefully refrained from saying anything." That, Mr. Gordon commented amidst loud laughter, was a sentence that required bringing up to date.

Picture of a Generation

"How far one would like one's own generation to be represented by the supplementary volume I am not quite sure. It gives the impression of a talented, nervous, highly strung generation, terribly harassed by its pleasures and its pains, and eager to pass from one sensation to another to which it is no less equal. I find too many words expressing contempt for age—'doddered,' 'back number,' and so on. (Laughter.) There are too many words devoted to the expression of pain—'agonized' and 'agonizing' are words only heard in ordinarily analysed. No one should have had time or leisure to distinguish the fine facts of moods so clearly, I find too many ingenuities in the expression of fashion distinctions in clothes, both male and female. I find too large a vocabulary for a civil servant—delivered of a tinguish every possible kind of comfort at every hour of the day and night. The 'bedside book' and every other kind og bedside comfort is a new element in English history.

"I was startled to find the extraordinary amount of space taken up by the language of games. I am always startled by the amount of space taken up by sport in the press. Honestly I must confess that this is what I first hasten to read. "Laughter). We have another day devoted specially. That is a subject about which a philosopher might write something."

Many Uses of X-Ray Explained by Expert

Proves Valuable In Industry

Since the day in April, 1895, when Roentgen discovered the X-ray accidentally, its scope has increased enormously, ranging from the field of medicine to that of industry, according to Dr. W. L. Hitchcock, lecturer in dental and medical radiology at the Montreal General Hospital in a radio address given under the auspices of the Graduates' Society of McGill University.

Defects cracks, hidden blow holes and areas of shrinkage in various metals can now be discovered by means of the X-ray, he pointed out, and at the Boulder Dam development in the southwestern United States it was considered so important to prevent breaks in the huge penstocks that every plate was examined under the ray, the whole work necessitating the taking of 30 miles of X-ray photographs.

In the examination of old paintings, of mummies, of metals containing cavities, and accidental pearls, the X-ray is also invaluable according to the speaker.

Finally, of course, the ray serves in the examination of persons who have deep seated maladies, and it is the chief weapon of medicine against cancer.

Canned Vegetables Require Careful and Varied Seasoning

Although fresh, green vegetables are abundant in market, for many months hereafters the main source of the vegetable supply lies in the canned variety.

Vegetables are such an important factor in maintaining the family health that they must be supplied generously. Mineral salts, roughage, vitamins— these are essential in keeping the blood pure and the complexion clear, in stimulating the appetite and promoting growth.

It is only by careful seasoning and treatment that canned vegetables can be given their utmost value. Consequently, certain definite rules must be followed.

Aerate Vegetables

One of the first and most important one rules is that canned foods should be properly aerated. Practically all air must be expelled from the can during the canning process. This naturally results in a "flat" taste not uncommon to canned goods. As soon as a can of vegetables is opened it should be turned into a shallow bowl and allowed to stand uncovered for ten or fifteen minutes. In this way the vegetable comes in contact with the air and regain what they lost during the canning.

The second rule is that vegetables should be reheated in the water in which they were canned. This water contains valuable nutrition and flavor and if the vegetables are drained before reheating, many of these properties are lost. An excellent way to handle vegetables of delicate flavor is to reheat them in a shallow sauce pan, keeping the pan uncovered and stirring the food to evaporate completely. In this way the flavor and nutritive value are retained. One tablespoonful of water is enough to season invitingly.

Vary Seasonings

Always season vegetables well and do not forget to add plenty salt and pepper and butter. Lemon juice, vinegar and tomato catsup improve the flavor of many vegetables as spinach, beets and green sweet peppers. Grated cheese added to a white sauce is delicious for creamed and scalloped vegetables. Onions, celery, horseradish, parsley, chives and mint are vegetable flavoring possibilities that are well worth keeping in mind.

Butter adds a rich, mild flavor to vegetables that probably no amount of other seasoning can impart. A more pronounced flavor is obtained if the butter is melted and slightly browned before the hot vegetable is added.

I haven't any specialties—
I'm just a normal child.

Useful in Camp.— Explorers, surveyors, prospectors and hunters will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil very useful in camp. When the feet and legs are wet and cold it is well to rub them freely with the Oil and the result will be the prevention of pains in the muscles, and should a cut, or contusion, or sprain be sustained, nothing could be better as a dressing or lotion.

IS DOGGING DEER RIGHT?

(By Jack Miner)

As hunters and nature lovers of Ontario, we all want to see the deer increase. Then the first thing to be considered is the deer and not the hunter. Such being the case, is dogging deer, right?

To begin with, I want to look all people in the face and say, I know it is not the dog that is keeping the deer down on ninety per cent of this Province, for there isn't over ten percent of Ontario being hunted over here by dogmen, because of the wolf. But I do say that the use of dogs are a handicap to the deer and an assistance to the average hunter on the small portion we are hunting on. As a rule the men who are holding out the firmest for the dog are aged men like myself, but the question is, is it right?

Being a lover of dogs, deer dogs, bird dogs and everything but fighting dogs, I feel justified in expressing my views as a citizen of Ontario. In fact, as a boy, I would have my deer dog sleep on my bed if mother had allowed it, but she, dear soul, in her humorous English accent said: "No. It is not healthy for a dog to sleep in our house."

In the first place, I know it is wrong because it is taking an unfair advantage of the deer and while I know there are lots of men like myself that are thrilled when they hear the dogs coming. Personal thrills teach me this, but to-day the great majority of hunters are using the dog to get the deer. I say, leave the dog at home and let the deer alone, and we will all get our bucks the same as they do in other places, such as Pennsylvania, New Scotia and Michigan, where they don't allow dogs and have got the deer to get.

Every fair thinking hunter will admit this, that at this season of the year, every flother deer should have the quietest month of her life. If we expect them to increase. No, indeed, at this time of year especially, she should not be run until she is terrorized and nearly exhausted and eventually into the ice and lose her safety. If this is healthy for them, why do we not see, at this time of year, many does returning in this water, voluntarily? You seldom see them go in to even cross the river, in fact they will walk a mile to go to rapids where they can wade across. Yes, I will admit that the beaks will cross a lake at this season of the year, but when he does, you can depend on it that there is a doe on the other side of the lake.

On or about 1898 or 1899, deer became so scarce in Essex County through the county being thickly settled and being hunted according. The Ontario Government finally prohibited the shooting of deer for ten years, and although I don't believe there were twenty-five deer left, because I hunted foxes without dogs through this country, when I asked me to have a good idea, with the result that the deer became quite numerous, and I understand the amount of innocessary dogs, moved into the heart of this deer settlement and the deer were terrorized and driven to the ends of the earth, and the odd one would be killed within a few miles away. The last one I have any personal knowledge of, was seen out in Lake Erie, when the ice was in rouble farmers took a row boat and rope and went out and brought it ashore and placed it in a box-stall, but it died that night.

In Newfoundland the dog question is quite a serious one, so much so that in some parts of the country, no one is allowed to even keep one; the result is that the side hills are grazed off by sheep and have become perfect sheep pastures, and instead of the average settler keeping dogs, he has a small flock of branded sheep. How they winter them I do not know, but I saw them by the thousands in the months of June. In some parts, where deer are allowed, that is all they have. There are thousands of farmers in Ontario to-day that would be raising sheep were it not for dogs. Which is most valuable to a needy people — dogs and deer, or no dogs and more deer?

As far as I am concerned, as a citizen, I think that if we want our deer to increase as it has been proven they will in other States and North America where they have no wolves, no dogs, and only bucks allowed to be shot, soon or later we will copy their successful example and our children will see the day when they will neither want dogs nor want to shoot does, because they will be able to easily shoot two or three ten point bucks and be back home in a week, if they see fit, because there is a state of affairs in America with such opportunities as our Ontario affords.

Sub-Christian Psalms

It would be a mistake to suppose that the uneasiness occasioned in many churchgoers by some of the more bloodthirsty passages in the Old Testament, especially the imprecatory Psalms, is a mark of "modernism." It can be traced in the early centuries of the Church's existence, and that, too, in ecclesiastics who could at times be far from "modernistic." A notable example is St. Augustine, who, following the usage of the time, got over the difficulty not by omission but by figurative interpretation. Thus he expounds the verse, Psalm cxxxvii. 9, "Happy the daughter of Babylon . . . happy shall he be, that taketh and dasheth thy little ones against the stones," in the following manner:—"Who are the little ones of Babylon? They are evil desires at their birth. . . . When desire is born, before evil habit has gained strength against thee, while it is still small. . . . dash it. But be on your guard lest, when it is crushed, it die not. Dash it against the rock. And the rock was Christ."

WHAT IS CHARACTER?

From "Everyman" (London)

What is character? It is a word we often use, and we use it in different senses. We say a man is "a character" when he exhibits oddity of behaviour or thought. We speak of a man's character when we refer to some special trait that he has, such as generosity or quarrelsomeness or amiability. We use the word when we mean the type of man he is. We call a man full of character when he is a distinctive personality and leaves a mark wherever he goes. There are other uses of the word. I am writing away from books and dictionaries, so that I cannot refer to them all.

There is one particular meaning of the word which, according to Professor Overstreet, is peculiar to this country. It is that by character is meant "resolution, decisiveness, energy, sustained effort in the face of difficulties,—the preferring of remoter but greater goods to those that are nearer but slighter." Isn't that what we usually mean when we say of a man that he is a man of character? We mean something active, something that "carries conviction with volition," something that has to do with the tendency of the individual. In that sense, character is not merely a man's most valuable possession, it is his only one.

I was struck by the remark to which I have referred that such a meaning of the word is peculiar to England. It does not mean, of course, that character in that sense is unknown elsewhere, but that we, in this country value it specially. I believe the remark to be justified. Other peoples excel us in other respects; I do not know that any of them excel us in this. It is the quality that gives us our national position in the world, and that so long as we retain it will keep us in that position. It is more important than economic resources, or military genius, or artistic or intellectual attainments. It is more important even than a gift for religion. We are not particularly fond of thinking of the other countries of the world—I will not particularize them — in which we are left behind in one or other of these directions.

It is perhaps not important and of such special value to us, what are we doing as a nation to develop it? I would be sorry to see the gradual tendency of modern life in this country, as everywhere else, to contract its boundaries to a negation. Whatever attacks individuality, attacks it. Whatever increases standardisation is against it. The newspaper press is one gigantic effort to reduce it to nothing. Almost all the popular movements are opposed to it. If it exists, as it does, it is in spite of circumstances.

Perhaps the last remark is hardly true; for this whole subject needs more than a little thought. It needs clear thought in the atmosphere. It belongs to the very soul. It is the training of the soul that we need to consider, rather than the mere body. I should like to see a Government indiscriminately chartering additional companies to engage in the same line of effort. The result is over-production, lowering of prices under cost, cessation of the factory and about 8 per cent of total sales, Mr. Carlisle pointed out that this reservation charge constituted a formidable barrier to export trade.

"Also, that any plan unfair practices in business, and such practices, while euphemistically called unfair, are nothing short of theft from the public. The time has come when there must be such supervision as will detect these unfair practices, define them and isolate them, make them illegal and punishable. The responsibility of the Government grows, as well as the responsibility of management.

The United States Government is insisting that every branch of industry organize within itself and establish sound principles. Just not only to the industry, but just in every way to the public and to its working men. Government authority then passes upon the fairness and wisdom of these plans, and agriculture and all enterprise in the Dominion, and very seriously mortgages the competitive export position of this Dominion. On this account they are at this very time contributing importantly to unemployment. The load on the Canadian taxpayer is appalling in the neighborhood of one million dollars per week, and this has a throttling effect on business and enterprise. People of all sections and classes should resolve that Canadian railroads must get, without undue delay, on a self-supporting basis, even if to do so means a service curtailed within our means, or consolidation.

"If the present Federal System of the Dominion must be continued, surely there is some way of reducing its gigantic cost. Why should not the House of Commons and the Senate, as well as the Provincial Legislatures, be reduced in numbers to one-half or possibly to one-third of their present dimensions. No company, however large, could be properly handled with a cumbersome Board of Directors aggregating over three hundred men. Between the years 1913 and 1931, inclusive, the different Canadian Governments have expended $134.00 for every $100.00 of income, the difference being added to "Debt"; and aggregate Governmental indebtedness, not including municipalities, now amounts to some five and one-quarter billions of dollars.

"Is it too much to hope that the country get abreast of present conditions, where business in many lines has become nation-wide, and have the legislative control of that business made Federal instead of Provincial? Greater protection should be afforded the public, who are invited to purchase securities and do business with companies, in the granting and extension of powers to corporate entities. Such protection could be given much more adequately if the issuing of such letters patent and the administration of companies were vested in a single authority which should have to be served with the industry's products and at a very reasonable price. The Government may be receiving a satisfactory return in the way of taxation; labour may be casually employed at fair wages. All this picture can be changed and a healthy condition of affairs turned out, chaos by Government indiscriminately chartering additional companies to engage in the same line of effort. The result is over-production, lowering of prices under cost, cessation of the factory and about 8 per cent of total sales, Mr. Carlisle pointed out that this reservation charge constituted a formidable barrier to export trade.

"Also, that any plan unfair practices in business, and such practices, while euphemistically called unfair, are nothing short of theft from the public. CANADA MUST CUT TAXATION BURDEN

Responsibility Rests Largely on Governments, Declares C. H. Carlisle

"We don't want a Russia nor a Germany; but Canada cannot continue under the great loss we are sustaining, year by year," said C. H. Carlisle, president of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, in addressing one of the shareholders of the company, recently.

"Canada's indebtedness is between eight and nine billions, which is being added to yearly, and the bill has to be paid by a small percentage of our ten and a half million people."

Every citizen has a responsibility, perhaps greater today than ever before in history, to assist governments and see to it that they governed in such a way as to make business and living conditions possible.

Drawing attention to the fact that taxes paid by the Goodyear company in 1933 amounted to 11.3 per cent of factory sales and about 8 per cent of total sales, Mr. Carlisle pointed out that this reservation charge constituted a formidable barrier to export trade.

"Also, that any plan unfair practices in business, and such practices, while euphemistically called unfair, are nothing short of theft from the public. The time has come when there must be such supervision as will detect these unfair practices, define them and isolate them, make them illegal and punishable. MILLHAVEN

The weatherman has certainly given us plenty of snowstorms during the past week, making the roads impassable for cars.

A valentine party was held at Millhaven School on Friday and was very much enjoyed by the pupils and parents, who were invited through the kindness of Miss Mildred McLaughton, teacher.

A new family have moved into our midst in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickson.

Mr. Robert Locking visited at Almon Young's.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Milligan and baby, Elsie, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Amey, also Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wemp were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Amey.

Sorry to report Mr Harry Young on the sick list.

Miss Margaret Black is visiting her sister, Mrs. Jackson, Chatham Street, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kilganon and family, Ernestown, also Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dine of Kingston, took tea on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Almon Young.

Miss Gladys Miller is spending some time in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Babcock were recent guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. Thomas Emery, also at R. H. Rickey's.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baker and family spent an evening recently with the Misses Evelyn and Winnie Rickey.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Mount Pleasant, Feb. 17.— Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute met at their hall on Friday evening and treated the members and their family to an oyster supper. All spent an enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Toppings and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kern, were Sunday visitors at Mr. Walter Woodcock's.

Mr. Ralph Hawley is spending a few days with Mr. Charlie Melhourn.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hudson and Frank Hudson, spent Sunday at Mr.

DORLAND

Dorland, Feb. 17. — We are enjoying the bright sunshiny weather but the thermometer still hovers below zero most of the time. No motor traffic has been through since last Monday, which is quite inconvenient for the baker and cream trucks. Sleighing is good and much leaning is being done.

Mr. Ercell Foster has been busy this week, moving the silo he purchased from Mr. J. Magee. Mr. H. John assisted in lowering and taking it apart.

We were sorry to learn that Mrs. C. F. Allison is seriously ill with pneumonia, but understand that while there is not the improvement her friends wish, she is holding her own.

A number of children are also suffering from severe colds.

Mr. Lawrence and Miss A. Magee were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Pierce, North Marysburg.

Mrs. Russel Cousins entertained the Women's Institute last Wednesday afternoon.

Some very fine logs have been placed on the skids for the saw mill at H. John's.

George Withers'.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy spent Wednesday evening at Mr. C. Hawley's.

Little Miss Doris Toppings is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Woodcock.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hogeboon spent an evening recently at Mr. Frank McCabe's.

Mrs. Herb. Kimmerly is spending a few days with Mrs. H. Stafford and Mable.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hawley and Rose spent Sunday evening at Mr. W. Hudson's.

Sorry to report Mrs. J. E. Sexsmith had the misfortune to fall and break her ankle.

Miss Mary Oliver spent a couple of days with Miss Elsie Henderson.

Messrs. Aubrey and Malcolm Woodcock and Jennie Woodcock, visited at Mr. and Mrs. W. Hudson's on Wednesday evening.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, Feb. 19. — The W. M. S. meeting was held at the home of Mr. Sam Barr. The president was in the chair and the meeting opened in the usual manner. The programme of the World's Day of Prayer was used. Eleven members and four visitors were present, and each member took some active part in the meeting. Mrs. P. E. Histed sang a solo which was very much appreciated and Miss Williams took up the lesson in the Study Book. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Black.

Dr. Mounce, of Newburgh, inoculated the school children again on Friday last, for the second time. So far, no more cases of scarlet fever have broken out.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Emberly visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McCarvey on Sunday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. J. W. Galbraith, Bethel St., spent Wednesday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Burgoyne.

Assessor R. A. McGill was a caller in the village on Friday of last week.

The many friends of Mrs. Fred Buck were sorry to learn of her illness.

Everyone welcomes the milder weather of the last few days.

Dr. Whytock of Yarker, was in the village on Friday last, attending George Jeffrey, who is ill.

SELBY

Selby, Feb. 19. — Skating is the order of the day. The open air rink developed at Mr. Henry Sexsmith's, Selby West, is providing pleasure for old and young. A meeting has been arranged for Wednesday night next. Come and enjoy the frolic!

The congregational meeting held Monday evening was a splendid success, Dr. Smith was in charge of the meeting and Dorland Wood acted as secretary. The reports presented by the representatives of the various organizations were most encouraging. It was noted that in the matter of finance, nearly every department was able to report a balance on hand. At the conclusion of the business, the recording secretary, Mr. W. J. Winter, expressed to Dr. and Mrs. Smith the appreciation of the congregation for their personal work and splendid leadership during the year, to which Dr. Smith replied expressing their pleasure in the success of the work and the happy association existing between pastor and people. Following an hour spent in recreation and social intercourse, the ladies of the congregation served refreshments and a most successful meeting was brought to a close with the Mizpah benediction.

Mr. W. A. McLeod received a message from Stratford on Wednesday morning, announcing the sudden passing of his uncle, the late Mr. Andrew McLeod, who was a former resident of this community. The remains were brought to Napanee on Friday and a short service was conducted by Dr. Smith at the home of Mrs. Leah Russell, which was also attended by a number of relatives and friends of the deceased.

We are pleased to hear that Mrs. Dorland McCutcheon is progressing favorably from the effects of her recent serious operations. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Barnard Orange spent the week end with her in Kingston.

Mrs. Henry Martin is convalescing from her recent illness. Miss McAmy is in attendance.

Master Hubert Lewis spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. James McLeod, Betty and Margaret, of Belleville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McLeod for a couple of days, last week.

A very helpful and inspiring program was enjoyed by the ladies who attended the meeting Friday afternoon, for the observance of the day of prayer. Mrs. S. Pringle, president of the W. M. S. and Mrs. Melville Windover, president of the W. C. T. U. were in charge.

The Young People's League are arranging a very interesting programme for Friday evening, when a debate is to be the interesting feature. Come and encourage the Young People in their efforts to settle present day problems.

A meeting of the Mission Band will be held at the parsonage on Friday afternoon at four o'clock. All the children are invited.

WILTON

Wilton, Feb. 20. — A very fine entertainment and social was held in the Grange Hall on St. Valentine's night, in aid of Wilton W. I. Mr. Fred McPherson acted as chairman of a mixed program, and a very successful program was given.

Mrs. Arthur Davison has returned from spending last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson, Yarker.

Miss Dorothy Woods of Odessa, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Candy.

Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Hodge spent last week with their sister, Mrs. Will Stuart and Mr. Stuart.

Wilfred White of Reglopolis College, spent last week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. White.

Mr. Bert Asselstine of Napanee, was a recent visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Asselstine, here.

Many mothers have reason to bless Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because it has relieved the little ones of suffering and made them healthy.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, Feb. 19.— A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Enterprise on Thursday, February 15, at 11:00 a.m., when Eileen Nellis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris King became the bride of Lac. Reginald Gorge, son of Mr and Mrs. James Shelter, Newburgh, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. D. M. Stinson, pastor of the United Church. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents. The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, played by Mrs. W. O. Fenwick and took her place under an arch of wedding bells and flowers. Following the ceremony and during the signing of the register, Miss F. Wagar sang "Oh Promise Me." A buffet luncheon, served in the dining room, which was tastefully decorated in pink and white. The bride was becomingly gowned in royal blue crepe made in Princess style, trimmed with metallic and wore a corsage of Ophelia rosebuds, grey kid shoes with stockings to match. Her travelling dress was of baby blue crepe and navy coat with red trimmings, and blue hat. The happy couple left amid a shower of good wishes and took the bus to Napanee for Toronto and on their return will spend some days at Brighton. The groom's gift to the bride was a grey suede purse to the pianist, a silver card dish, and to the usher, a silver sandwich tray. The young couple were unattended. The bride is a popular young musician and will be considerably missed in the village, both socially and in church work, where her talents have been much appreciated.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of the Enterprise United Church was held on Wednesday afternoon, February 6th, at the home of Mrs. H. A. Carscallen, with a splendid attendance of members. Mrs. Carscallen, the president was in charge of the meeting which was opened with reading the "Call to Worship" and the hymn, "The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Elmore Raymond and was followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison and a prayer offered by Miss Carrie Jackson. Watch Tower was responded to by Mrs. J. McGregor and Miss Jackson. Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the president, Mrs. H. R. Jackson, took charge of the business part of the meeting. A letter was read from Mrs. Reddick of Napanee Presbyterial, advising us as to our year's allocation. It was decided to make a baby's layette. Mrs. E. R. Wilson was appointed to take the place of Mrs. Guthrie, on the flower committee and it was decided that each member contribute ten cents towards the flower fund. The following delegates were appointed to attend the Belleville Presbyterial—to be held at Napanee on March 14 and 15, Mrs. H. R. Jackson, Mrs. H. A. Carscallen and Miss Libbie Reid. Mrs. Carscallen read a Valentine story, the keynote of which was that you could always find something to give, if prompted by love. She also gave a synopsis of the first half of the fourth chapter of the Study Book. Mrs. E. R. Wilson kindly offered to take the remainder of the chapter at the next meeting. Mrs. F. Laughton of Napanee sang very sweetly and also chanted a prayer. Mrs. J. Bonesteel accompanied her. After a hymn, while the members were standing, Mrs. Carscallen read the scripture, after which the members sang a hymn. Mrs. E. R. Wilson was the accompanist. The meeting closed with the benediction. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clayton Brown.

Following a custom which was instituted fourteen years ago and in conjunction with women throughout all the world, on Friday afternoon, the World's Day of Prayer for international friendliness was observed in the United Church, the service being in charge of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church together with the members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Anglican Church. The prayer service, which was the product of the devoted mind of Mrs. J. W. T. Hoffmeyer, of Cape Town, was used universally on this day of international and interdenominational supplication. Prayer for the Church was offered by Mrs. H. R. Jackson; for the Christian Home, by Miss Carrie Jackson; for Legislators, Social Service and Temperance, by Rev. D. M. Stinson; the League of Nations, by Mrs. Charles Graham; for our Missionaries, Miss Edna Clarke; for Christians in other lands, Mrs. Walter Wilson. During the service, Miss Freda Wagar sang a very pleasing solo. Following the close of the prayer service, the young ladies of the community held a service worship with Miss K. Campbell as leader. Both services were very impressive. The Day of Prayer began in the early morning when the women of New Zealand lifted their voices in petition and followed the path of the sun westward, for forty hours when the women of Samoa ended the day's petition on the day's services throughout the world.

Word has reached the village of the death of Miss Annie R. Hinchey, a one time well known resident of this community. She was born at Reidville, on the farm now owned by Hugh Hoagland, a cousin of the deceased. She was a graduate of Kingston General Hospital and for several years did private duty. In 1914 she served with the First Canadian Contingent, enlisting from Kingston. During the war she was stationed at No. 2 Stationary Hospital, Boulogne, France, later going to Malitock, Bath Convalescent Hospital in England, where she remained until the summer of 1919. For the past ten years she was night superintendent of Lakeside Hospital, associated with Western Reserve Hospital, Cleveland. She died in Cleveland after a short illness. She was buried at Chatham, Ontario, on Tuesday, February 13th. A sister, May, died about a year ago. During the last summer, deceased had visited her uncle, Adam Fingland, of Enterprise and other relatives throughout this vicinity. Her charming personality endeared her to all who knew her.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. M. Huffman of Moscow, celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary. The occasion was marked by a supper which included all the members of the immediate family, and during the evening the people of the community gathered at the home, in honor of the occasion and to offer their congratulations. An illuminated address was presented to them from the Hon. R. B. Bennett, Premier of Canada, and letters from Hon. George S. Henry, Premier of Ontario and W. D. Black, M.P.P., and from District and Grand Lodge Officers of A.F. & A.M., of which Mr. Huffman has been a member for the past fifty-eight years. He was initiated into Victoria Lodge, Centreville, in 1876. He is now the oldest living member of the lodge. The whole community join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Huffman many more years of life together.

The auction sale of farm implements and stock, which was held on Friday afternoon by O. B. Jackson, was well attended and brought fairly high prices. Mr. Jackson has disposed of his farm property to Mr. Andrew Burgess, who will be taking possession the first part of March.

Among the old books which have been brought to the notice of your correspondent here, one which is in the possession of Mr. R. H. Wagar, well known carpenter and builder, is the oldest of any which has yet been examined. It was printed in London (Eng), in 1727, two hundred and seven years ago, and was written by John Ray. The book is entitled "The Wisdom of God Manifested in the Works of the Creation," and is very interesting reading.

For the first time in several winters, the road through the swamp south of the village to the Oueis Rd., is being used also for the first time in several years, crossing of Mud Lake to Desmond is now being made over the ice.

A very enjoyable Valentine concert was held in the basement of the United Church on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Sunday School of the United Church. A very pleasing program was presented and a very splendid lunch was served after the entertainment.

During the past week, the roads which were so badly filled with snow during the week end, has caused an interference in the schedule fo the Tamworth-Kingston bus service. The rest of the route to Moscow and Yarker had to be abandoned altogether for the entire week, but it is expected that service over the entire route will be resumed on Monday, as usual.

DESMOND

Desmond, February 19. — In spite of the severe cold weather, a fair number met for the Day of Prayer, in the home of Mrs. Fred T. Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. George Drew received the sad news of his sisters death at Mountain Grove. They left Sunday to spend a few days with friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cook and family, also Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wemp, were guests on Sunday of Mr. Gorge Drew's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Switzer spent Friday at Enterprise, Mrs. Switzer remaining to visit friends for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Allen and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bell, Moscow, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell.

Mr. Frank Switzer has been hauling straw from Enterprise.

We're glad to report Mrs. R. G. Quinn is improving, after her illness.

Mr. Sam Pettit has returned from the General Hospital, where he received treatments for his foot.

A new ceiling has been put in the school, which greatly adds to the comfort of the pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Hagy spent Friday with Enterprise friends.

Douglas's Egyptian Liniment relieves toothache and neuralgia. Invaluable in cases of croup, sore throat and quinsy. Keep a bottle handy.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Feb. 19. — On Saturday several members of the Tuxis Square group, with their leader, Rev. M. R. Brown, journeyed about ten miles north on here to Bass Lake, and after parking the car along the roadside, started out across snow-clad mountains, and upon reaching big Bass Lake, hiked up the icy surface of the Lake to what is known as Paradise Island. As each member of the group had donated something towards the noon-day meal, they were not long after entering the cabin in preparing a meal, well worth sitting down to. After exploring the country to some extent, the lads retraced their steps and arrived home tired, but happy, after their day's outing.

Perhaps you think we haven't had cold weather in this district. Four weeks ago, Mr. Earl Bradshaw started cutting ice in Beaver Lake, near his own home, and after cutting the supply he needed at that time, he left the space to freeze up again, and after starting his second siege of ice harvesting in the same place, he discovered a second thickness of seventeen inches of ice.

On Friday night, the members of the United Church Y. P. U. held a very successful box social. Although the night was cold, quite a large number of young people gathered at the R. E. Building for the occasion. Many of the boxes were very artistically decorated in Valentine colors and much pleasure was derived when the auctioneer, Mr. Sam Donovan, started the sale of boxes. The evening was spent in recreation and games and it was a late hour when the gathering dispersed.

On entering the R. E. Building on Friday afternoon, Sam. Richmond was surprised to find a horned owl sitting on the windowsill, enjoying the warm rays of the sun. Upon investigation, he discovered that one of the windows had dropped and left an opening at the top of about five inches, which gave evidence of how the intruder came to be there. After some difficulty, the lad succeeded in getting is cornered and, at present, the feathered creature is in the possession of Mrs. Dale Donovan.

Mr. and Mrs. Finney were guests, recently, at the home of Rev. M. R. Erown and Mrs. Brown.

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, February 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gerow, Lorna and Norma were Sunday dinner guests of her mother, Mrs. Stewart Weese.

All members, and ladies of the community are invited to attend the monthly meeting on Thursday, February 22nd, at 2 p.m., at the home of Mrs. W. P. Markle. The main subject, "Health". The convener is Mrs. Hughes. With the roll call, "Current events," for each room, reading, "Cattle in the Stall", by Mrs. A. Ramsay, and "Current Events", by Mrs. Shier.

On account of the storm a number of pupils of the High School, from the surrounding community, are not able to get to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Lockwood and Jack, and Mrs. Fred Lockwood, of Brighton, spent a few days with Mr. VanLuven and Mrs. Clarke.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shorey, of Canniton, were recent visitors with his sisters, Misses Clara and Emma Shorey.

Mr. F. C. Gerow attended the Dairy School in Kingston for three days last week.

Mr. Wesley Simkin attended a Trail Rangers' gathering in Napanee on Friday evening.

The February meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church was held at the parsonage on Wednesday evening, February 14th. Mrs. Cassada in charge. The meeting opened with a hymn and prayer. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved. The Treasurer also read. Several letters were read by the Secretary, extending thanks for remembrance when ill and flowers received. Business arranging for the banquet to be held at the church, on February 21st, in the Sunday School room. The programme, "So this is Geneva", was given by several members, which was interesting and instructive. The March meeting will be held at Mrs. Bateman's. Rev. T. H. P. Anderson closed with prayer.

At the session of the United Church Sunday School Mr. Robin Fluke gave a splendid temperance address.

Remember the laymen's banquet on the 21st. in the United Church Sunday School room. Mr. Ross Strike, Mayor of Bowmanville, and President of the Layman's Association of the Bay of Quinte Conference, will speak. Also Mr. J. M. Ronzel. A male quartette will sing, and other good musical selections will be given.

The "Day of Prayer", Friday last, was very well attended at a united service held in St. John's Anglican Church. Mrs. Alfred Ramsay, President of the W. A., presiding. Mrs. Geo. Wetman conducted the service of the Free Methodists, Miss Cameron the Presbyterian, Mrs. Lochhead the United Church. The addresses were given by Miss Cameron, Mrs. J. N. Lucas, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. A. Ramsay. About fifty women participated in this deeply spiritual service. Mrs. Bruce Purdy sang very effectively and with splendid voice, "The Garden of Prayer". This service proved a great blessing to all.

The annual meeting of the United Church Sunday School was held at the parsonage on Friday evening, February 16th, with a good attendance of officers and teachers. Rev. T. H. P. Anderson presiding. The meeting opened with a hymn and prayer. Mr. R. Fluke, Secretary, in the absence of Mr. V. Simkins, who was in Napanee attending a Trail Rangers' meeting. Minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. Splendid reports were given by the superintendent, treasurer and secretary of all the departments, the teachers and the musical director. Rev. Anderson conducted the election of officers for 1934. On Sunday next, at the evening service, the officers will be installed.

BETHANY

Lethany, February 19.—The service at Bethany on Sunday was well attended.

Mrs. Turnbull and grandson, of Richmond, spent Sunday at Mr. A. Dean's.

Say, if you know about a pie eating contest anywhere, I think Bethany should have some entries, after the way the pies disappeared on Friday evening. However, everyone enjoyed themselves very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Miller were callers at E. W. Conger's on Sunday evening.

Some from here attended the funeral of Miss Seals, at Desoronto, on Friday. The sympathy of the neighborhood goes out to Mr. Seals, who is well and favorably known here.

Mr. W. T. Huff left on Sunday night for Bradford, Penn., having received word of his sister's death. His sister visited him here last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Burtch had tea on Sunday evening at Mr. and Mrs. E. Powell's.

Mr. Wilfred Miller is sporting a new car.

VIOLET

Violet, Feb. 15.— The roads this week have been filled with snow, making almost impossible to get through with cars.

Last Tuesday, there were three services in the Standard Church, conducted by Rev. Armitage, who was assisted by Miss Hodgins of Napanee, and Rev. Pring of Kingston.

On February 8th, our village was again visited by death, which took from our midst Mr. S. Hogle. We feel the loss of a good neighbour and a wonderful friend. Much sympathy is felt for his sorrowing family.

Miss Nelle Clarke has returned to Point Anne after spending a couple of months at Mr. H. Sharpe's.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Craig spent Sunday at Mr. John Craig's, of Morven.

CANADA'S LOWEST PRICED CAR WITH INDIVIDUAL WHEEL SPRINGING

COME SEE
the Biggest Car in the Lowest-price Field!

Only Lowest-priced Car with Individual Wheel Springing . . plus Floating Power . . Safety-Steel Body . . Hydraulic Brakes

THE PLYMOUTH SIX . . . Canada's Lowest-Priced Car with Individual Wheel Springing.

YOU'VE HAD a chance to see two of the three leading low-priced cars. Now see the only lowest-priced car with Individual Wheel Springing—PLUS the other features that are vital to real car value today!

Plymouth is Canada's lowest-priced car with Individual Front Wheel Springing. This feature is on all models—even the lowest-priced.

There are no bumps when you ride in Plymouth. No jolts —no jounces — no back-seat bucking. You get an even ride over the roughest road. . . .

And you pay no price penalty to get it! Some models are $50 lower (F. O. B.) than any other car with this feature.

A Complete Ride Story

But Plymouth gives you more than one feature to insure smooth, easy riding. Every Plymouth has patented Floating Power engine mountings to put an end to engine vibration.

You can rest and relax — because with both Floating Power and Individual Springing, Plymouth gives you the smoothest ride in the lowest-price field.

Give a Thought to SAFETY

Everyone wants protection — so look at Plymouth's brakes — and Plymouth's safety-steel body.

You're safer in a Plymouth — because you ride with steel under you and around you. Plymouth bodies are built of steel reinforced with steel — then welded into one permanent piece.

And the brakes. They're all-hydraulic. No bolts, rods, cotter pins. Sure, smooth, equal action on all four wheels—because hydraulic brakes are self-equalizing.

Biggest in Size—More Power

Naturally you want the biggest car for your money. Plymouth is that — for the De Luxe Plymouth has 114-inch wheelbase.

But the important thing! — Plymouth is the only low-priced car that gives you all of these important features. In fact—no other lowest-priced car offers you more than one of them.

Go into all these points at your first opportunity. Prove that Plymouth is the best engineered car in the lowest-price field. Take a ride in it today!

ALL-WEATHER VENTILATION in De Luxe Models. The whole window can be dropped. The windshield raises by turning a crank.

INDIVIDUAL SPRINGING. This simple, rugged device enables each wheel to take its own bumps. It smooths out the rough roads.

EIGHT EXAMPLES OF QUALITY YOU WON'T FIND IN OTHER LOWEST-PRICED CARS

1. Rigid-X Box Section frame. Much stronger and more rigid than conventional types. Only one frame with this number. It makes the whole car more safe.
2. T-Slot Pistons. A rare mark of engineering care. They mean a better fit between piston and cylinder, with better compression.
3. Five Rings per Piston. The 5 would number is there. By providing an extra ring, Plymouth maintains a better compression seal and prevents power loss.
4. Engine Oil Filter. Better for lubrication—and longer life from your lubricant.
5. All-Quiet Transmission. The Plymouth is quiet in low, second, high and reverse. Gears shift easily without clashing. Particularly appreciated by women drivers.
6. Four Main Crankshaft Bearings. Instead of the usual three, Plymouth supports the crankshaft on four oversize bearings. A more massive construction.
7. Independent Hand Brake. Really an extra braking system, operating independently of the regular foot brakes. Not merely a parking brake: an extra safety feature in case of extreme emergencies.
8. Thirty Frictionless Bearings. Ball and roller bearings in a capture like jewels in a watch. Plymouth has more than 30 — more than you will find in any other lowest-priced car. Sure proof of quality.

IT'S THE BEST ENGINEERED CAR IN THE LOWEST-PRICE FIELD!

Two Civil Cases Settled at The Spring Assize

Two cases were heard at the Spring Assize of the Supreme Court held last week, in Napanee.

The first was that of Garratt vs. Davis, on which the judge, Mr. Justice Davis reserved judgment, after hearing the evidence, and advised the parties concerned to get together and settle among themselves. Acting on the advice of his Lordship, the defendant, Desmore Davis and the plaintiffs, Mrs. Harry Garrett and Mrs. Charles Mellow, came to a settlement. By the terms of the agreement, Desmore Davis is to give to the plaintiffs a deed in fee simple to the lands, known as the Centre St. property or the Davis homestead, free from encumbrances and is to assign to the plaintiffs a first mortgage on a Napanee property for an unpaid principal of $1000 and interest, and is to pay the defendants the sum of $200 for costs.

The second case heard on Wednesday by his Lordship Justice Davis, was Stratton vs. McFarland— An action brought by Charles M. Stratton, executor of the estate of the late Elina Milsap, against Earl E. McFarland, of the Township of Richmond for a declaration that the monies which were on deposit in the Royal Bank, Napanee, to the joint credit of the defendant and the said Elina Milsap, at the time of her death, were, became and form part of the estate of the said Elina Milsap and ought to be handed over to the plaintiff to be dealt with according to law. J. M. Simpson, K.C., for plaintiffs, W. S. Herrington, K. C., for defendant.

A judgment was rendered the defendant, dismissing the action with costs.

Retail Merchants To Discuss Organizing

On Friday evening, March 2nd, there will be a businessmen's dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Paisley.

The purpose of the dinner will be to organize a retail merchants' association for this town of Napanee. Mr. Owen Herrity, secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest speaker.

Every business man or woman, who is interested in the business life of Napanee is urged to be present at this organization meeting.

Tickets for the dinner are being sold at 50 cents each.

Evidence of Good Work Shown in Report of The Beaver Santa Claus Fund

Total Sum of $404.67 Contributed in 1933

"The Beaver" presents, herewith, its annual account of the work which was done for the children and needy of the town at Christmas time. This year, as the depression continued into the winter proved of unusual severity, the demands on this fund have increased proportionately. The Beaver is deeply grateful to all those who contributed money and other gifts and, to all the workers who spent their time so lavishly, and to the Rotary Club, which undertook the distribution of the goods on Christmas Eve. Especially are we grateful to Miss Leamy, to whose efficient and capable efforts is due much of the success of the undertaking.

The financial statement shows that in all $404.67 was contributed, and that, up to the time the books were closed $268.70 had been spent. The balance collected was spent in the winter in providing necessities for specially needy children.

The money collected was spent in town, the merchants co-operating in every way. In all there were twenty-five merchants from whom provisions and gifts were purchased.

The auditors have examined the books and their statement is attached.

Financial Statement

Receipts acknowledged through The Beaver, $404.67.

Expenditures

Groceries	$ 164.27
Meat	37.85
Clothing, Candies and Toys	66.48
Balance	135.47
	$ 404.67

Over 100 Donations Received

The number of individuals who subscribed to the fund and whose donations were acknowledged in The Beaver, was 67. The number of classes, groups and organizations, to make contributions, was 34.

The following is the report of the convener of The Beaver Santa Claus Fund, Miss Josephine Leamy :

The number of children who received parcels was 262. The number of adults was 92. The materials for making the stockings were as follows :—

262 Pairs socks.
100 lbs. Candies.
40 lbs. nuts.
22 Dozen oranges.
Toy for each child.
Sweaters, Dresses, Caps.
Toques, Trousers.
Mittens, Hats.

92 Christmas dinners were sent to needy families. They were made up from the following :—

475 lbs. Meat.
262 lbs. Flour.
275 lbs. Onions.
300 lbs. Beans.
92 lbs. Butter.
92 lbs. Mincemeat.
92 tins of Tomatoes.
Apples, potatoes,
and Sealers of fruit.

Thank You !

The Convener wishes to thank her committee for help rendered in preparing and packing the stockings and parcels, and all those who, in any way, assisted in the work of distributing the baskets and parcels.

JOSEPHINE LEAMY,
Convener.

Auditors' Report

This is to certify that we have audited the books of The Beaver Santa Claus Fund, checked over receipts and expenditures, and examined the bank book. We found the books accurately kept and the balance as stated in the report.

Recently Burned Store Completely Rebuilt

Citizens of the town have watched with interest the progress being made in the rebuilding of the store and apartments of Davis & Daughter, recently badly damaged by fire.

During last week, the barricades removed from the store and a modern, up-to-date store front was revealed. The long central entrance with the two display windows is a great improvement over the former front.

The interior of the store is equally attractive. Display racks have been built down each side, and the floor space increased by a new arrangement of dressing rooms. The walls have been done in a soft grey stucco and the fixtures are painted French grey with delft blue trimming. When completed the store will be a decided addition to the business places of the town.

Mr. Zender, the manager, expects to open for business within about ten days' time.

Pork on Saturday's market by the quarter was 15 and 16 cents per pound.

Hogs at the week end live weight were $8.00 per cwt.

Interesting Items About Napanee In Old Newspaper

An interesting copy of "The Saturday Globe", evidently a weekly edition of the Toronto Globe, dated Saturday, November 25th, 1893, was brought into the office last week by Mr. W. A. Grange. Mr. Grange came across the paper in the vaults of his office, where it had evidently been placed, because it contained a double sheet, featuring the Town of Napanee.

The article starts off by saying— "A glance at the engravings in this issue of "The Globe" is sufficient to convince anyone that the Town of Napanee possesses substantial business blocks and beautiful homes, while a brief survey of a map of the Province will prove conclusively, that the town has exceptional advantages as a manufacturing and shipping point."

There follows information concerning the natural physical advantages of the town, its transportation facilities, and a description of its conveniences, such as water works system and good lighting service. The business establishments, fine buildings, schools, and churches are mentioned in a general way, and, later, described in detail.

Personnel of Council and School Board

The Town Council was composed of Dr. Leonard, Mayor ; Reeve, John Carson ; Deputy Reeve, Thos. Symington ; Councillors, East Ward, S. C. Warner, Dr. Ward, Richard Potter ; Centre Ward, J. P. McAllister, Dr. Ming, Ezra Pringle ; West Ward, Thomas Anderson, Charles Stevens, Wilbur Daly. Municipal Clerk, Jas. Herring ; Treasurer, Robert Mill ; Assessor, J. C. Huffman ; Chief-of-Police, Jeremiah Storms ; Tax Collector, Thomas Empey.

The School Trustees were : H. M. Deroche, Chairman ; Asst. Henry Walter—Coxall, A. W. Grange, W. S. Herrington, John Coates, W. P. Hall, Jas. McCay, H. V. Ross, Dr. Ming, Henley, Wm. Templeton, and T. S. Henry.

The business firms featured were those of Charles Stevens, The Gilbard Furniture Company, Finch & Co., The Paisley Hotel, Lahey & McKenty, The Napanee Agricultural Works (John Herring & Sons), The Big Mill (operated by J. R. Dafoe), M. S. Madole' Hardware, and C. W. Hulett, photography studio. There are several large cuts of town scenes, including the Post Office, Collegiate, the Big Mill, Gibbard's Factory, business blocks, the Foot Bridge, the Falls, the West Ward School and the homes of Charles Stevens and S. C. Warner. Pictures also appear of the Mayor, Dr. R. A. Leonard, M. S. Madole, Charles Stevens, and Ogden Hinch.

Used Clothes Needed For Relief Work

Never throughout the winter has there been such a demand for assistance made on the Social Service Committee as during the past few weeks. The extremely cold weather has contributed largely to the distress of the needy people of the town, and daily, Miss Leamy and her assistants are being asked for warm clothing.

Just at the present time the supply of clothing is very depleted. On Monday, while the committee was working at the Town Hall, there was an unusual number of applicants for help.

Any article of used clothing that are clean and capable of being used or made over, will be gladly received by the committee. Warm underclothing, dresses, shoes, hose, coats and all sorts of clothing for men women and children are needed.

There is an urgent need for a coat for a girl of seven years. All that is necessary is to phone Miss Leamy and she will arrange to have clothing called for.

Tamworth Family Overcome By Gas Fumes

Four members of a Tamworth family were overcome by coal gas fumes, last week. Early Thursday morning, Mrs. Charles Hannah was awakened by a feeling of suffocation. She tried to rouse her way downstairs, but before being able to do so fell unconscious, overcome by coal gas fumes, which were escaping from a defective stove.

Mrs. Hannah's son, Edward, heard his mother fall and attempted to go to her aid, but was overcome also by the fumes. His brother, John also tried to get help and was, in turn, rendered unconscious. Finally, the third brother, Bill, managed to reach the door and procured assistance.

Dr. F. D. O'Connor was called and restored the stricken members of the family to consciousness.

Former Resident Recalls Napanee Fifty Years Ago

Thoughts of People and Events of Fifty and More Years Ago.

Newport, Oregon.
15th February, 1934.

To The Napanee Beaver :—

WHO CAN REMEMBER ?—

When the small children attended school in a small house a short distance west of the Methodist Church at the corner of John and Bridge Streets. I wonder often, how many of us are still living. We must have been very hardy to have survived.

I can just recall being taken to Church England when it stood just east of the grade crossing east of the Court House. We sat in the balcony.

What a thrill passed through us when we played around the old cannon and sighted it so many times at a point on the elevation on the south side of the river.

The dread which passed through us as we walked around the walls of the jail and admired the hangman's door at the back.

How often we climed to the top inside the dome on the Court House, just so we could get a better view of the surrounding country. I suppose.

The building and, later, operation of the glass works by the late John Herring. Mr. Alex. Roe was later connected with it, if my memory serves me correctly. Who remembers when one of the mixtures turned out to be brown glass and was a total loss, not only in dollars and cents, but it also forced a shut down? This was attributed to sabotage. I believe ! I will always remember Mr. George Herring for his kindness in giving the writer entrance to the works at all times. The friendships cultivated with the gatherers and blowers, among others Geo. Hahn, and Jim Duffy. Hahn was known as the most expert handler of a blow pipe among the many. The souvenirs in the form of glass trumpets and vari-colored canes the men made for us and how we used to try and become glass workers at home with small tubing and a gas jet.

With what interest we watched the laying of the gas mains and building of the plant. The drilling and blasting in the streets when the trenches ran into hard rock was always an interesting sport and second and later smell when leaks in the mains, undiscovered before the trenches were filled in, and had to be located by much hard work. One of the drillers gave me my first introduction to chewing tobacco but without much success, as this is an accomplishment I have never been able to master.

Baldy Pralick who, I believe, married one of the Caton sisters; Jack Griggs and his trick dog. Handy Andy and his headless rooster, the Methodist and the hotel. Ages and her marvelously small waist, the Paisleys and their hotel and later Parry, Gates and Charley Mersh Madole and Pinky Perry the hardware merchants; Arthur Brown, who had such a fine boat and boathouse; Tom Diamond and his sailing "Ship-Jack." Here just a few of the many names come to mind.

We have, out here, a Mr George McLaughlin, born near Forest Mills, out beyond Sleby, and it has been a pleasure in going over, with him, events of the early days. He is over eighty and would like to know whether his sister still is living, although he has forgotten her married name.

Yours very truly,

F. A. McGUIN.

Child Welfare Laws Discussed in Legislature By Ontario Minister

Propose Child's Bill of Rights

In a measure known as the Dog Tax and Sheep Protection Act, introduced by Hon. Thos. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture to the Ontario Legislature, provision is made for areas of sheep in unorganized territory to be placed on the same footing as is provided where there is municipal organization in connection with responsibility of dog - worrying of sheep.

Under the present act, where there is municipal organization and the municipality has paid damages for sheep worried by dogs, the municipality is entitled to recover from the owner of the dog, without proving that the dog was vicious or accustomed to worrying sheep. In the portions of the province where there is no municipal organization, a sheep owner can only sue the owner of the dog for any damages sustained through sheep worrying, and he is still subject to the common law rule. The new act provides that the owner of the dog shall be liable to the owner of the sheep for amount of damages, and it will not be necessary in any action to recover such damages to prove that the dog was vicious or accustomed to worry sheep.

Co Kennedy also introduced the Community Hall Acts, which provides that where the Legislature has assisted a municipal corporation to build a community hall or establish an athletic field that such hall or field shall not be sold without the approval of the provincial secretary. As act now stands, such hall or field may be sold without consent of the government and it is felt some check against this should be made.

Sportsmen Make Appeals

The committee on Game and Fish under chairmanship of Coulter McLean, Cons. Eglington-Toronto, divided its sessions into different subjects. The anglers petition for greater propagation of the muskinonge, asking that a full time biologist be appointed to study the problem. It was also asked that the province be divided into zones as to fishing periods.

Various hunters associations were heard on the question of use of the dog in deer hunting. Divided opinions were heard both for and against the issue, but it is likely to be brought into the House through a bill to be introduced by D. J. Taylor, Prospective, North Grey. Baiting of ducks and geese was strongly opposed, while a fifteen day period for partridge shooting for deer hunters, was also asked for.

A request for a government investigation into abuses in the building and construction industry, was made to the Legislature, by Russell Nesbitt, K.C., Conservative member for Riverdale. Metallic tubing used Mr. Nesbitt termed "infernal" and "criminal" in connection with certain general contractors. He asked that the labor committee of the Legislature be called to probe existing conditions which he claimed were responsible for pushing sub-contractors into bankruptcy, throwing men out of employment and generally creating chaotic conditions. The practice of the large bulk contractors in "peddling" contracts was criticized and he also urged a minimum wage law in the building industry.

Child Welfare Laws Discussed

Ontario's child welfare laws were discussed by Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, who expressed the hope to the Legislature that they would not be far distant when these laws would be consolidated into a Children's Charter or Bill of Rights. Hon. Mr. Martin gave a comprehensive picture of the province's social welfare legislation, pointing to the Children's Protection Act, under which since 1893, $2,000,000 had been paid to needy wards of Children's Aid Societies and under the Adoption Act 9,000 children had been adopted into fine Ontario homes and given full legal status with the families. Under the Unmarried Parents Act in 1921, about $1,000,000 had been collected for the support of these infants, thus relieving the municipalities and philanthropic societies to a large extent.

Mr. Martin expressed opposition to the suggestion that the juvenile court age be increased to 18 years, pointing out that while there is much to be said in favor of this move, yet at the present time the Industrial Schools of the province have no provision for the segregation of these older offenders. Consequently, Mr. Martin opposed raising the present limitation age until there is provision for the segregation of those who have reached the sixteen, from children of tender years.

Ontario's social services, he pointed out, are maintained at almost $120,000,000 had been available to the people.

Indian Tribe Honors Napanee School Teacher

Mrs. Celia File Becomes Member Cayuga Tribe

An unusual honor was last week conferred on Mrs. Celia B. File, Napanee, of the teaching staff of the Collegiate Institute, when she became a member of the Wolf Clan of the Cayuga tribe of the Six Nations Indians.

The ceremony by which Mrs. File became a member of the tribe took place on Friday at the Cayuga Long House, near Caledonia, Ontario. She was given the name Ka-nohn-kwa, meaning "Loving Heart".

Six Day Festival

The ceremony of giving names was part of a six day religious festival, beginning on the Sunday following the last moon in February. On Sunday and Monday was the ceremony of bringing the paddle over. Tuesday was given over to chants. Wednesday was a day of intermission, when the scrubbing of the Long House took place. Thursday, there was the great Feather Dance. Friday, the skin covered Drum Dance and the giving of names, and Saturday, the burning game, which has a religious significance.

The creed of worship, of which the ceremonies of last week forms a part, was given in the 18th century by the Seneca Chief, "Handsome Lake", as received by him from the Great Spirit in a dream,

While the ceremonies are non-christian, they have much in them that resemble christian customs. At this festival, members of the tribe had gathered together to give thanks to the Great Spirit for all things the tribe had received in the past year, and to pray for a continuance of the blessings until the green corn festival.

"The Ancient Long House"

The festival was held in the ancient "Long House", in which are two stoves, one at each end, and benches on each side, on which, at night, sleep members of the tribe. Mrs. File had her first introduction to this Long House last summer when she was taken there by Bernice Loft, a member of the Iroquois Club. Miss Loft, who is a student in Napanee in a recital in the early Spring, is called "Dawendine", the dawn. She is the daughter of one of the 50 Sachems of the Six Nations, a direct descendant of Joseph Brant on both sides of her family.

At the time of her first introduction to the Cayuga Long House, Mrs. File told the members of the tribe that she had previously been given the name Ka-noc-rohn-kwa, by the Mohawks of the Deseronto Reserve, but had not been made a member of the tribe, since there was no Long House on the Mohawk Reserve. She at that time expressed the hope she might be made a member of the Cayuga tribe and was finally granted her. It carries with it the privilege of attending any ceremony in the Long House, and every Indian of the Six Nations will look upon her as a sister and is bound to help her.

Mrs. File had the privilege of addressing the tribe, the first woman for fifteen years to do so, and the third person in that length of time. Mr. Jacobs Gibson, the Mohawk Re-eve, one of the principal "keepers of the faith", was instrumental in finally persuading the tribe to admit Mrs. File to membership.

Mrs. File's Interest in Indian Lore

Mrs. File's interest in Indian history started during the six years when she taught at the Central School on the Mohawk Reserve near Deseronto; she has done considerable research work on the customs of the Indians, particularly the religious ceremonies, the ritual of the long house and their legends and folk lore. While preparing for her M.A. degree, which she took at Queen's in 1930, she wrote a thesis on the life of Molly Brant.

Mrs. File's intimate knowledge of the Indians and her long association with them, has won for her their confidence and great respect. On her part, Mrs. File has a high regard for her Indian friends and is anxious to help them in any way possible.

Belleville Presbyterial To Convene at Napanee

The Eighth Annual meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Presbyterian Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, will be held in Trinity United Church, on March 14th and 15th. The Presbyterial is especially privileged in having as guest speakers, Mrs. C. E. Crowe, Guelph, President of the Dominion Board, and Miss Isabel Griffiths, Toronto, Travelling Secretary for Young Women's Work.

All interested in missionary work are cordially invited to be present.

(Mrs. (Rev.) T. H. P. Anderson, of Newburgh, is President of the Presbyterial, and Mrs. D. B. Wilson, Napanee, is Recording Secretary.

Another Large Egg Production of Leghorn Hen

Two weeks ago we reported having been shown a Leghorn hen's egg measuring 8x6½ inches, produced by a hen belonging to George H. Akey, of Marysville.

Last week we were shown an egg slightly larger than the one laid by Mr. Akey's hen. This latter egg is 8x6¾ inches, and it also was laid by a Leghorn hen, owned by Harold Preslar.

The number production seems to be the slogan of the Leghorn family.

Put on Burlesque at Kingston

During the past week a remarkable come-back was staged in the realm of sport by a number of local men. The gentlemen concerned to are by no means in the old-man class. But each and everyone has passed his first youth and has assumed positions which have prevented the pursuit of the active sport of hockey as a winter pastime. It is absolutely certain that in no case has lack of wind or an increased rotundity of figure been the cause of their inability to do with the cessation of interest in the sport. On Wednesday and Friday nights, they showed the youth of the town just how it was done. The casualties were remarkably light and the next day these staid business men were able to take their places behind the counter or in the office, with nothing more than a few stiffened muscles to show—for their unaccustomed exercise.

The Game Thursday Night

On Thursday night a game of hockey was played between the Napanee business men and the Kingston police. The crowd were delighted to see such famous stars back on the ice as George Tustin "Puss" Laidley, Art. Kimmerly, Harry Goodfellow, Babcock, Eddie Watts, Harry Skitch, Jim Naphin and Freddie Huffman.

Some of the newer players were "Bill" Wright, Jack Andrews and Charley Gates and Fred Bedard who can scarcely be called an oldtimer. These stalwarts were up against a picked team from the police force of Kingston : Sheriff Vair and Constables Cunningham, Fitzgerald, the two Brennans, Fowler, Browne and Ready, all pretty husky fellows.

The score was held down to 3-1 in favor of Kingston. "Walt." Gerow refereed and the goal umpires were experts, Harry Boyle and Ed. Hogarth.

George Switzer's exhibition of fancy skating was a classic. It was an example of what training and practice can do.

Friday Night's Game

The real game of the season was on Friday night, but it unfortunately was played in Kingston. So only about forty or fifty local people were privileged to witness it. On the occasion of the Kiwanis Carnival the Kingston Gananoque Rotary Club challenged the Napanee Rotary Club to a game of hockey !?!.

The resulting game quite overshadowed the fancy skating exhibition by the Toronto Skating Club, as the event of the evening. The Napanee team was composed of "Walt." Gerow, Frank Mills, Charlie Knight, Harry Scott, George Tustin, "Puss" Laidley, Mac Mackinnon, Max Epplett, Doug. Mayhew, "Art" Kimmerly, Eddie Watts, Jack Cook and Harry Card. Quite a line-up, no doubt !, but in this particular game numbers counted. All the players were on the ice at once, but sometimes one or two of the Napanee men were shooting for Gananoque, which led to the way at all affected the score, which turned out to be 0-0. Possibly a slight handicap resulted from the rather unusual hockey costumes. The Napanee men looked particularly chic in what "the early days of 1910" used to wear. Evidently the Gananoque team felt they might have to retire at any time, as each one appeared in his pyjamas. The football used as a puck was no easier for the players to tell where they should be.

Harry Card's work as goal-tender deserves especial mention. His costume was that of a road mender. The goal posts were two nail kegs, and when the players approached the Napanee goal Harry displayed a large poster labelled "Stop! Detour!" and waved a red lantern as a signal. It proved quite effective and no goals were registered against him. The game ended in a free-for-all fight, the winners of the fight were some small boys of the city of Kingston, who successfully made way with eight of the hockey sticks belonging to the team.

The Napanee team came home with a nice silver cup engraved, "World's Hockey Champions, 1934, as did also the team from Gananoque.

PAGE THE ONTARIO PRESS

On Sunday last a letter was read in all the churches under the jurisdiction of Archbishop Georges Gauthier, of Montreal. In this letter the Archbishop condemns the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, because it is Socialism. Such a pronouncement might well have merited the attention of the daily press, but we have listened in vain for the voice which would rise in protest against a leader in religious work making pronouncements in political matters.

Last June, when the Toronto Conference of the United Church gave a reasoned statement on the social conditions of the day, a torrent of vituperative editorial verbiage was poured out in the Ontario press, condemning clerics for daring to interfere in matters, which were quite outside their jurisdiction; and now that an archbishop makes a similar incursion into politics by means of a parochial letter, which was read in every church in the diocese, not a sound is uttered—not a voice of protest is restrained by any of our great moulders of public opinion.

The Archbishop was right. It was quite within his duties to make pronouncements on anything which affects his people. He has good precedent for his action. In 1891, Pope Leo XIII, issued his famous encyclical "Rerum Novarum," which the present Pope, Pius XI, has summarized as follows: "It is our right and duty to deal authoritatively with social and economic problems. The Church can never relinquish her God-given task of interposing her authority; not indeed in technical matters for which she has neither the equipment nor the mission; but in all these matters have a bearing on moral conduct." This status of the Church demands — "That both social and economic questions be brought within our supreme jurisdiction, so far as they refer to moral issues.

Pope Leo declared that the right to possessions is and has been subject to constantly revised definition; but always with the reservation that surplus income cannot be regarded as left to one's own arbitrary disposal; but rather that wealth which is socially produced, ought to be distributed for the common good. "In the future," he says, "there is just share of the wealth produced can be allowed to pass to the wealthy. Living wages —being wages adequate to maintain a family in decency—must be assured in all, and if this will call for far-reaching changes in the social order. Primarily it requires new definitions of the sphere of the State, which must interfere wherever the unbridled play of competition works against social good."

We are not here discussing the merits of these pronouncements, but we are pointing out that any Church which has the welfares of its people at heart is perfectly within its right to express an opinion on the social and economic conditions under which they live. If the United Church desires to express its view with respect to abuses of the present order, as it sees them, it has a perfect right to do so, and if Archbishop Gauthier wishes to warn the people against a political party that, is his privilege and duty.

The silence of the Press on this present issue cannot but leave the impression, that, what was protested against last summer was not so much the interest of the clergy in social and economic matters, as against the views they expressed.

THE MERCHANTS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN TO MEET

The merchants and professional men of Napanee are meeting on Friday night of this week. At this meeting it is hoped a free and frank discussion will take place concerning the necessity for some permanent organization, embracing the business and professional men of the community. It is desirable that all who can, should be present so that the whole proposition can be thoroughly discussed.

For some years there has been in existence a chamber of commerce. But of late it seems not to have fulfilled the expectations and hopes of those who sponsored its formation. Its meetings have been infrequent, and its influence has somewhat waned. So that it would appear, the way is clear for an organization of some kind, by the merchants and professional men, whose interests are so intimately bound up with the community life.

The purpose of such an organization has, nowhere, been clearly stated. No one can tell us definitely what its functions will be. But its success will depend, in a large measure, on the sanity and common sense manner in which that purpose is stated, and the diligence and care with which it is pursued.

One thing essential to success is, that any organization of business and professional men, must keep close to reality and keep its feet on the ground. A great many organizations such as that proposed, have been started with the sole and avowed purpose of trying to entice industries into the community. The task of carrying out this purpose is usually left to a small committee, who write letters and sometimes get answers. When the committee fails to get the industries, the organization loses heart and dies. Every community thinks its problems would be solved if it had a few more industries. Probably they would. But any organization which has that as its sole object, is doomed to failure.

As we see it, the first problem which a business and professional men's organization must face, is to foster and build up a good esprit de corps among the merchants of the town, and mutual confidence and good will between town and county. This is not as easy as it might seem. It is a real job for any organization and the success with which it is accomplished will depend, to some extent, on the personnel first chosen to direct it. Its leaders must be those who have the confidence of all members of the community, and who are willing to work, day and night, to establish mutual trust and good will among the varied members of the town.

Its success will depend, even more, on the active co-operation of every business and professional man in the community.

INCOME TAX

The National Revenue Review for February carries a synopsis of the income tax returns, by districts, for the months of the fiscal year, January 1933 - January 1934. For purposes of income tax returns, the Dominion is divided into nineteen districts; ten of these show a decrease in income tax returns for the past year as compared to the preceding year, while nine show increases. Those districts which paid more income tax last year than in 1932, were Charlottetown, Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Ottawa, Kingston, Belleville, Regina and Vancouver, those which showed decreases were Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, London, Fort William, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, and Vancouver. The total paid in 1932 was $59,009,774.14 and the total in 1933 - 4 was $57,157,958.61, a total decrease of $1,851,815.53.

It is interesting to note that the décreases were in the larger cities, while the increases were in the smaller districts. The Kingston district, to which Napanee belongs showed an increased tax return.

We would like to know how much of that was due to a boost in salaries and how much was due to Premier Bennett's check up on bearer bond coupons.

Editorial Comment

IS CONSTITUTIONALISM DOOMED?

If the political philosopher surveys the world he finds reason to believe that popular government is making its last stand in the ancient stronghold. A generation ago constitutionalism would have been described as that inevitable end towards which all nations were hopefully progressing. That complacent optimism no longer inflates democracy. The disillusioned turn in crowds—and in whole nations—from its shrines. It is a spectacle which alarms us, and we confess to a hope that it also alarms our politicians. For the political leader has only one sure way of preserving the system in which he lives, and that is by showing himself a better map and providing a better government than your dictator.—London Morning Post.

MARRIED WOMEN AS TEACHERS

No instance has been quoted, from the experience of these last six years, of any ill-effect arising from the employment of married teachers. No argument has been raised which was not raised unsuccessfully six years ago. The general principles that "woman's place is in the home," that two wages should not go into one house, that work should be found for unmarried and unemployed members are what the majority of the Committee rely upon. All the concrete facts which have been brought to light are on the other side.—Manchester Guardian.

"NOT A FOREIGN COUNTRY"

More telephone calls per capita were completed in Canada last year than in any other country in the world, though the Dominion's lead over the United States in this respect was slight. Canada leads the United States in domestic use of electricity and is second only to this country in use of automobiles. These are just instances of the close approximation of the Canadian way of living to our own. Describing the national highway now under construction from the Texas border to Mexico City, a writer said it would give Americans the opportunity to visit a foreign country by automobile. Canada, he added, is not a foreign country. A true saying, and it is unfortunate that legislative action in both countries is tending to build up trade barriers when so little else separates these two sections of the North American Continent.—Albany Knickerbocker Press.

EDUCATION

There are two sorts of education. There is the education where you get your knowledge and the education which is equally important, of friction with other human beings and that you cannot get as long as you sit by yourself in your lodgings. You only get it through rubbing your brains with those of other people. You get the corners knocked off you learn toleration and you emerge an infinitely better fellow, able to get at views of more among your fellow men. Work will be infinitely better done if you have gone through this process of friction and massage with other human minds and men.—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin.

BOOKS AND CAREERS

Books have done more in molding the careers of great men and women than this world imagines. It is astonishing how many persons consider books a kind of "second mother" to them. Lloyd George tells that his college was the cobbler shop in his little village of Wales, where he learned from his uncle, the cobbler, and a few really worth while books. These books, wisely selected and systematically read gave Lloyd George his start.—Indianapolis Public Library.

WHAT IS "A SENSE OF HUMOR"?

Count Hermann Keyserling, in his article on "Genius Loci" in the September Atlantic Monthly, explains precisely what he means by the term "sense of humor." Here is his definition:—

"He only has humor in the real sense who knows how to give expression to a profound and even tragic opposition from the point of view of a benevolent and serene mind. His is the quality of divine laughter of the man inwardly superior to those things ordinary people take with such fearsome seriousness. Humor is, therefore, the highest possible quality of humor unless intellectual understanding acts as the keynote. This is why certain Chinese humor must be appraised as the highest mankind has as yet produced

We are sorry to report Mrs. W. S. Dies on the sick list.

WORLD FAMOUS NICKEL AREA

The Sudbury district of northern Ontario may be regarded as one of the most important mining areas in the Dominion. Its mineral-bearing rocks contribute millions of dollars annually to the national wealth of Canada, and reserves of proved and undeveloped ore are estimated to provide for the world's requirements of nickel for many years to come. Nickel and copper are the chief products of the mines of this area. The output of nickel from the Sudbury mines places the Dominion to the fore as the chief producer of this commodity in the world, and these mines also provide practically all Ontario's output of copper.

Added to the regular service of the United Church, last Sunday night was an interesting event, when the pastor installed the officers of the Sunday School, Ladies' Aid, Women's Missionary Society and the Young People's League organizations for the ensuing year.

Mr. Kenneth Liddle of Roslin visited his grandfather for the week end.

about 1,650 square miles including the city of Sudbury and town of Copper Cliff, Coniston, Capreol, Chelmsford and Cartier. It was prepared from vertical air photographs and shows detailed information of the water areas, cleared land, buildings, roads, railways, telephone, telegraph and power-transmission lines, also township subdivisions. Being a provincial edition it does not show contour lines, but a great many spot elevations above sea level appear.

World Famous Deposits

Within the mapped area occur the largest and most important known deposits of nickel-bearing ores in the world. These deposits are associated in origin with a body of norite and micropegmatite which has a width of about two-and-a-half miles wide. The longer dimension of this body lies in a northeast-southwest direction from the township of Dryden to Wanapitei Lake. The ore bodies lie either along or close to the outer basic margin of norite and contain nickel, copper and sulphur, with smaller quantities of gold, silver, platinum and palladium.

The Sudbury deposits were first noted in 1856 but did not attract attention until 1883-4, during the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, when a cutting was made through a small hill on which the Murray mine was afterwards located. During the first years the deposits were developed for their copper content alone; not until 1887 was the presence of nickel determined and the true value of the ores known. Two companies now operate mines and metallurgical plants in the area. The International Nickel Company of Canada at present works the Frood, Creighton and Garson mines and conducts smelting operations at Copper Cliff and Coniston, all shown on the Sudbury map sheet. The Falconbridge Nickel Mines operate the Falconbridge mine, a few miles east of the city of Sudbury, and smelt the ore at a plant near the mine.

The general character of this area, as shown by the new topographical map may be described as that of an uneven and undulating rocky plain with a gradual slope to the southwest. Although much of the district is rocky, there are some areas of agricultural land which are filling up with settlers. This is particularly true of the country between Chelmsford and Capreol, which is well settled. The proximity of the great filling camps is of much assistance to the agricultural community, as there is a steady demand for all farm, dairy and garden products, and a ready market for wood, both as fuel and for mine purposes. THREE ROUSING CHORES

BY WEARE HOLBROOK
in the Herald Tribune Magazine.

The latest innovation in alarm clocks is a tickless timepiece which permits the sleeper back to consciousness by easy stages. First it purrs gently. Then, if not attended to, it begins ringing loudly and insistently. But the third step in the process is omitted. It does not explode with a deafening detonation which overturns the bed and knocks the plaster from the walls. Hence it stops just short of perfection.

The average, or three-alarm, sleeper needs something more than mere auditory stimulus to bring him to his senses. He can get up, turn off the alarm and crawl back into bed without opening his eyes. Such distractions from the main business of sleeping become automatic with him, especially if he happens to be a father. The parents of small children even develop a sort of voluntary somnambulism which enables them to perform various small tasks unconsciously. Mrs. Milfret reports that her husband, aroused before one morning by simultaneous outbursts from Junior and the alarm, got up, twisted a button off Junior's pajamas, poured a glass of water into the alarm clock and climbed back into bed without missing a wink.

Of course parents actually have very little use for alarm clocks anyhow, Longfellow was right when he placed The Children's Hour "between the dark and the daylight," but it is doubtful whether he would have written so enthusiastically of "the patter of little feet" if he had felt them on his chest at 5:30 every morning. Ask Dad—he knows.

Waking up has been a troublesome and ever-recurring problem for man since the beginning of time. It is an ordeal which he is obliged to face every twenty-four hours unless he acquires an overdose of trypanosomes or a Vice-Presidency. And so far, science has failed to devise a means of awakening which will insure before-breakfast cheerfulness. Such homeopathic revellies as bells, whistles and shouts from below stairs are unreliable— and the surefire methods, which involve cold water, pinning pajamps and applying lighted matches to the soles of the feet invariably sour the disposition of the victim.

In every family there is one member who is the official awakener. This person wakes up early with malice aforethought and wages a vicious campaign against the unfaithful household from the horizontal to the vertical. She—it usually is she—combines the punctuality of Paul Revere with the self-righteousness of Benjamin Franklin.

She feels excessively virtuous, and this virtue is her only reward, for the position of unofficial bearer is a thankless one. Before going to bed the other members of the family may limit the duty they wish to be awakened at a certain hour, willy nilly — but that Spartan resolution is forgotten overnight. Next day she comes and rouser attempts to carry out their orders her name promptly becomes Natashema, the Mud. They blink balefully at her and then burrow deeper into the blankets again. If she persists—and a good rouser always persists—she may bring them to a sitting position, but she is only doing her duty. But even then their gratitude will be imperceptible to the naked eye.

Substitutes for the alarm clock are many and various. In the Orient coos place sticks of lighted punk between their toes when they go to sleep. This not only keeps away insects, but guarantees a prompt awakening before the last half-inch of punk is consumed. In the northern countries the natives often hang shallow bowls heaped high with ice above their beds before they retire. The ice melts slowly during the night; by morning the bowls are overflowing, and they are awakened by the gentle drip of ice-water.

In our own country we have elaborate waking devices as found in college dormitories, inspired by the ingenuity of attendants at the asylums after 3 o'clock poker seminars. The simplest of these devices — in point of sense, that is — is a Freshman who, under threat of prolonged paddling, is compelled to perform the rites of the rouser.

But what rouses the Freshman? It is here that human ingenuity obtains the fullest flower. A string tied around the big toe is the favorite hook-up.

There are some delicately attuned mortals who boast that they can wake up without the aid of any time. This is mere bluff. They do not wake up at the given time; they are awake already. If they are ready to rise at 7:30 they wake up at 7 and spend the remaining two hours and a half playing peekaboo with the clock. Then at 7:30 they leap out of bed, like startled horses from the barrier.

But even these human alarm clocks do not trust themselves when travelling. They always leave a call with the porter. And of all rousers the Pullman porter has the most subtle technique. It consists in bumping the curtain on the berth-a movement indistinguishable from those made by the stout gentleman across the aisle when he bumps his head on the shoes, or by the conductor when he goes through the car looking for the party who got on at Schenectady. Consequently the timid traveller who has asked for a wake-up call invariably responds to the cry of "Wolf! Wolf!" so often that when 6:45 really does come he refuses to budge.

In the days of our youth the most effective way to bring a sleeper to consciousness without actual harm was to lift the foot of the bed the short distance from the floor and then let it drop. This accompanied effectively easy in the ornamental Iron Age and also in the Age which provided the knobs didn't come off. But it is impossible to lift up a modern bed without a derrick.

There are two standard similes for sleeping: one is "like a dog," and the other "like a log." Neither comparison is especially flattering. The dog sleeper, or slumber-jack, sounds like a busy day at a sawmill, and the "top" sleeper, or dozing dervish, spends his bedclothes making him until he resembles something to be called for by the Salvation Army.

Most of the life-like attitudes of sleepers display when awakened may be traced to an inferiority complex. They know they look like fools. Even movies the heroine always sleeps face up, with her hair neatly laid out on the pillow, affecting only a gentle smile on her lips. And when she is awakened she does not grunt and yawn prodigiously before coming up. She sits up promptly, her starry eyes opened wide and every curl in place.

It makes a pretty picture, but it isn't life. For actual slumber the most comfortable position is a crablike sprawl, with the mouth open and one foot dangling over the edge of the bed. Most of us when wrestling in the arms of Morpheus look as if we had just been dropped from a vast height.

This sense of inferiority, coupled with the suspicion that we may have to explain where we were the night before, often impels us to postpone the hour of rising as long as possible. Like ostriches, we bury our heads beneath the covers in the hope not to think of our imminent plunge into the waking world.

In such moments of stress an alarm clock may be an ally rather than an enemy. The mechanism can be done to the average alarm clock each night to prepare it for its morning hullabaloo. First, it must be wound up, then it must be set, and then the switch at the top must be moved from "off" to "on." Omit any one of these bedtime rites and the clock will remain as silent as milady's wrist watch.

Thus you have, thanks to modern mechanical genius, the option as to oversleeping in the morning. You can go to sleep with a lullaby or wake up with an alibi. But don't forget to forget.

PINEAPPLE MERINGUE

Pineapple is a palatable and wholesome fruit. The juice of raw pineapple has been found efficacious in severe indigestion, affections, and at all times it is cooling and delicious. The following excellent dessert may be made with the canned fruit.

Mix in a saucepan a dessertspoonful of butter and the same quantity of flour and stir in lightly about two tablespoonfuls of milk and some of the pineapple juice. Allow to cook, stir and cool. Beat up two yolks of eggs and stir into the pan, mixing well. Pour the pineapple chunks and their syrup into a pie-dish and cover with the egg mixture. Bake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes. Then cover with a meringue made by the beaten egg whites and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Put back into the oven to brown, and serve with chopped glace cherries and little strips of angelica.

FROM COCO PALMS TO OIL

By Charles W. Geiger and Ruth Sabichi, in The Scientific American

Copra, the dried meat of the coconut, has figured in the romance of world trade since the days of Magellan. The story of the coconut is the story of the economic progress of the Philippine Islands, to which it has contributed more than any other product, with the possible exception of hemp. Few plants, if any, are as serviceable to primitive man as is the coconut. The nut meat is eaten as food; the oil is useful in making edible fats and soap, and is also used for illumination; the fresh roots provide a dye, and the trunks, building material; the leaves are employed for thatching roofs; the midrib of the leaf is used for making baskets, brooms, and brushes; the fibre from the nut husk is woven into ropes and mats; and the nut shells, in addition to providing fuel, are shaped into cups ladles, spoons, and other utensils.

Under primitive conditions, the product of coconuts, copra and cocoanut oil, has contributed to the prosperity of wild palms that skirted tropical shores. These wild or uncultivated palms, however, constituted a precarious source of supply when the market price is sufficiently attractive to the native to induce him to climb trees and now cultivated like any other staple agricultural product Large plantations are to be found throughout the tropics, for supplying the international trade in copra and coconut oil.

Domestic Cultivation

In domestic cultivation, it is customary to set out trees in rows about 30 feet part, giving room for about 48 to the acre. Crops of about 50 nuts per tree, or about 2,400 nuts per acre, are usually grown between the rows. During the fifth or sixth year, the trees begin to bear and after the seventh year the plantation can reap an annual harvest of 15 or more nuts from each tree. The trees reach maturity at the age of 10 years, when about 70 nuts per tree are collected annually. In rare instances, as many as 500 nuts have been harvested from a tree during a single tree, and trees have been known to continue to produce after reaching an age of 100 years.

The native pick or shake the nuts from the trees and gather them open with a machete. The broken nut meats are then placed in the sun to dry, or, alternatively, the nuts pieces are placed on drying racks under which coconut husks are burned to speed the drying process. The resulting smoke-colored copra is called "smoke-dried" to distinguish it from that which has been sun-dried. The fine-drying method is used in regions where excessive rain makes natural drying impossible. Mechanical driers are employed on some of the larger plantations, but the practice has not become prevalent.

Mature nuts yield copra of the best quality, but it is customary for the natives to harvest the nuts before they are ripe on the ground. Copra made from immature meat has a tendency to be wash-and-moisture, the

CANNED FRUIT

In many homes where large quantities of canned goods are used, it is often difficult to remember which were those most recently bought. To avoid any difficulty of this kind it is a good plan to keep a box of small gummed name-labels at hand. Each time a new tin of meat or fruit is bought one of the labels should be stuck on top with the date inscribed. In this way the tins will be used strictly in rotation and there will be no fear of tin being kept for an indefinite period.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED
Wake up your Liver Bile
—No Calomel necessary
For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour into the bowels 2 pints of liquid bile every day. Without that bile, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Poisons in the body. General sluggishness. You feel "all-in." Your skin may break out. Then you need those gentle, yet thorough liver stimulants, Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. And they cost but a penny each. Insist on Carter's Little Liver Pills. Refuse substitutes. At all druggists. 26

Mourn the Passing of Mrs. E. B. Cooke

Word was received on Saturday of the passing on February 17th, of Mrs. (Rev.) E. B. Cooke, wife of Rev. E. B. Cooke, pastor of Cannington United Church and the pastor of Tweed United Church from 1928 to 1930. Mrs. Cooke had been ill but not been in the best of health for just before Christmas suffered an attack of influenza which left her in a weakened condition and aggravated an old trouble. About two weeks ago she was taken to the hospital in Toronto for an operation which, however, could not be performed owing to her weakened heart condition. Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin of Union ville, her husband and one daughter.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, in Cannington United Church and was conducted by Rev. Roy Rickard of Oakwood, Chairman of the Bloomfield Presbytery, Rev. Dr. Holling, Ex-President of the Bay of Conference gave the address. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives at the obsequies indicating the very high esteem in which the late Mrs. Cooke was held. Thirteen Ministers of the United Church took part in the service.

Mrs. Cooke was extremely popular with the congregation of Tweed United Church during her husband's pastorate here and many expressions of regret were heard when the sad news of her death was received. The sympathy of the community is extended to Rev. Cooke and Miss Eileen in their bereavement.—Tweed News.

Rev. E. B. Cooke was minister of the United Church at Selby for some years, a few years ago.

Presentation and Address For Mr. and Mrs. E. Dowdle

On the evening of February 19th, a number of friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Dowdle, Selby West, to spend a social evening before moving to their new home at Ebenezer.

During the evening an address was read by Desmond Wood and a beautiful leather chair presented by Edgar Bevins and Willie Bell to Mr. Dowdle, in a few well-chosen words, acknowledged the gift. A delicious supper was spent, followed by refreshments.

Following is a copy of the address: Dear Sir and Mrs. Dowdle and Family:—

Learning of your intention to soon leave our midst, we, your relatives and neighbours, have gathered in this manner to spend at least one more social evening before you leave us. During your short stay among us we have learned to love and respect you for your kindness and generosity as a neighbour.

We feel sorry indeed, Mr. and Mrs. Dowdle, at losing you, but realize tat our loss is others' gain.

We ask you to accept this chair as a small gift, not for its intrinsic value, but as a mark of esteem in which you are held by your friends in the vicinity.

We sincerely hope success and prosperity will be your lot in your new place of abode.

Signed on behalf of the surrounding community.

ELDON HEWITT.

Birthday Surprises Arranged for Mr. William Vandusen

On the evening of February 8th, Mrs. William Vandusen of South Napanee was the hostess at a party arranged on the occasion of Mr. Vandusen's birthday.

The party was arranged as a surprise to Mr. Vandusen. Even greater surprises were given him when he was presented with a gift from the friends who were present, and the gift of a cheque for three hundred dollars from his mother-in-law, Mrs. James Vine.

Cards were played during the evening and refreshments served by the hostess brought to a close a thoroughly enjoyable social time.

Local Man Retires From Active Business

William M. Holmes, who for the past fourteen years has been connected with the Acme Farmers' Dairy Company, Limited, of Napanee, has tendered his resignation. Mr. Holmes has spent practically fifty years in the milk business and before coming to Napanee was associated with the Nettles Lord people, at Chesterville.

Previous to that time he was in the grocery and butter business for a number of years and was awarded several prizes on both, one being a silver prize for the highest grade export cheese at the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, New York, in 1901.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes expect to remain in Napanee.

Attended Funeral of Great War Nurse

Miss Eva Herrington, Anderson, returned from Chatham on Thursday, where she attended the funeral of her friend, the late Miss Annie Reaby Hinchey, whose death occurred on February 10, at the Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, of which deceased had been night supervisor for the past ten years.

Miss Hinchey was a graduate of Kingston General Hospital. When war broke out in 1914, she joined with the first contingent, from this R. M. C. and enlisted for overseas duty. During those trying years, she was attached to the staff at No. 3 Stationary Hospital, Boulogne, in France. She was one of the forty who were decorated with the Mons Ribbon, being also received four other decorations, for service.

Her remains were laid to rest with semi-military honours in the Maple Leaf Cemetery, Chatham.

Important Position Acquired by Former Napanee Student

The following article taken from the MacLean's Weekly, concerns Aubrey Hughes, who, at one time, was a student at the Napanee Collegiate Institute.

The information was forwarded to us by E. L. Hughes, of Toronto:—

"Aubrey D. Hughes, who has been associated with the Business Newspapers Division for the past three years, sails for London, England, next week, where he is joining the staff of Lord Beaverbrook's paper, the Daily Express. Although planning to reach London at the latter part of February, a cable received, asking him to endeavour to report on February 15, if possible, caused a hasty change in plans which enabled him to sail on the Bremen, from New York on February 11th.

Mr. Hughes was first connected with the Maclean Publishing Company in 1926 as a reader in the Press Clipping Department. He later spent two years at the staff of the Dominion Bank, after which he joined The Financial Times, returning to the MacLean Publishing Company in 1929.

During the four years in which he has been connected with the company he has done editorial work on Hardware Metal, General Merchant of Canada, and Bookseller and Stationer and edited Dry Goods & Stylewear Review. For the past year he has been connected with the advertising department, Business Newspapers Division, in addition to carrying on review work in connection with the Financial Times.

Mr. Hughes' connection with the Express was made when Ralph Blumenfeld, formerly of the Express, and "Dean of Fleet Street" visited Canada before Christmas. Lord Beaverbrook, formerly Max Aitken, publisher of the Daily Express, as well as the Sunday Sun group of papers, is a former Canadian and is well known to be particularly partial to Canadian journalists. We are sorry to lose Mr. Hughes but we are delighted to know that a member of our staff has been selected as the latest addition to the staff of the Daily Express, and a host of friends will wish Mr. Hughes God-speed and the best of success in his new work."

Sanctuary

Up in Muskoka, in the land of sparkling lakes and pines, there is a sanctuary for the consumptive. On the banks of the Muskoka River, between Toronto and Queen Mary Hospitals have been built cottages for those who have been stricken with consumption.

Here, in the healing air, live scores of men and women and little children who have found the end of despair have turned to them as a last resort. They have not been disappointed.

The fight against an unseen foe until victory has been won, is a long and tedious one. They must have help. Not for riches but for the pleasure in the ever-growing chance to get well is all they ask.

For making it easier on this great life-saving work, these hospitals are largely dependent upon the gifts of warm hearted friends. The good work is carried on through the generosity of the public.

Will you send your gift to George H. Gooderham, Treasurer, 220 College street, Toronto?

Former Napaneeans Guests of Honor At Dinner

An enjoyable evening was spent by the Toronto Theatres Institute, Inspectoral District No. 2, at the Granite Club on the occasion of their fourth annual dinner, concert and dance. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers. In honor of Mr. Valentine, on each table was a heart with small boldings a heart in its beak, and printed on its side the name of Mr. Valentine. Carriers were to occupy the tables. This design was originated by Mrs. Somerville and Mrs. Glover of Queen Alexandra school.

Dr. T. W. Martin, president of the Institute, was chairman. Guests of honor included Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Goldring, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Principal Dr. and Mrs. F. F. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Wiseman, Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard. The guest speaker was Mr. W. R. Cockburn. Miss Betsy Pritchard rendered three vocal solos. The remainder of the evening was spent in bridge, in charge of Mr. Hannah, and in dancing.—Toronto Star.

Trinity Young People Successfully Present Humorous Play

Last Friday night, Trinity Church Sunday School room was the scene of a most successfully presented play entitled "Her Honor the Mayor," sponsored by the Young People's League, whose president is Mrs. Douglas Grafton.

The theme was the coming into power of the ladies of the town, in local administration, with the consequent delegation of the town mailes to domestic service.

The personnel of the play was excellent and through their clever and humorous characterizations, the audience was amusingly entertained as one laughable situation after another developed.

Miss Blanche Raymond was a charming and imperious chief official as Her Honor the Mayor, the town mayor.

Doris Denton as fire chief was convincingly and skilfully dilineated by Mrs. F. B. Mills.

Bonnie Myers, a lady agent from a chocolate maker, dealing with the town's mayor, was portrayed with much humorous appreciation by Mrs. William Calvert.

The characters, Mrs. McNabb, a spinster, the town jailer and a militant suffragette and Eliza Goober, the scrub woman, promoted to the dignity of chief of police, were parts most realistically acted by Miss Muriel Webster and Miss Jean Milling.

Tom Webb, as young Clarence Greenway, wooed and almost won by the lovely Mayor, Miss Raymond, great merriment, which Mr. Limbert Graham, as Lester Parmenter, the harassed husband of her honor the mayor, and Jack Metzler, as Hon. Miles McGoon, but now in the new order of things, working as cook in the Parmenter household, most amusingly completed the humorous picture of the domestic arrangements left under male supervision.

The work of the evening reflected much credit on both the players and the management.

Grace Church Debaters Win First Round In Series

On Monday evening of this week, debating teams from Grace United Church League of Napanee, and Selby United Church League, met in the first round of a debating contest in Grace Church school room.

The debate is one of a series being sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Conference Young People's Association. They are carried on first in districts, then in the Presbyteries and finally in the Conference, where a cup is given to the winners.

The subject of the debate at Grace Church was "Resolved that Women should give up their business careers to help out the present depression situation."

Milton Martin and Miss Marion Whitter, of Selby, defended the affirmative side of the question and Miss Vera Lemmon and Miss Mildred Loucks the negative. A decision was given by the judges in favor of the negative team. The judges were Dr. W. E. J. Smith of Selby, Ernest Osborne, Napanee and C. W. Buchanan of Napanee.

About seventy-five young people formed the audience, of whom about thirty-five were from Selby. During the debate, the members of the Grace League served refshments.

The second debate in this series in the Napanee section, will be between the Grace Church team and the winners of the debate held on Monday evening between Odessa and Wilton. It will be remembered, "Resolved that crime news should not be published in newspapers," and will likely be held in Grace Church, on Monday, February 12th.

N. C. I. Boys Lose To Queen's Jr's In Basketball

The first of the final games for the Eastern Ontario Basketball Association Junior Championship, was played on Monday night at the Napanee Collegiate gymasium. The opposite teams were Queen's Junior team and the Napanee Collegiate team.

The game resulted in a win for Queen's on a score of 29-22. The championship is decided on points of home and home games, so the Napanee boys will have another chance, when they meet the Queen's team in Kingston, on Friday night of this week.

The game on Monday night was well played by both teams, but the Queen's boys were slightly more experienced than the home team.

Callaghan and Garrett, playing defence, put up a good stamp and to Callaghan go the honors for scoring most of the points. Howitt, at centre, and Cooke and Cook on the forward lines, gave good account of themselves and made the Queen's players work for their win. White and McCracken were efficient subs.

The Queen's team was made up of Bews at centre, Simmons and Thompson on the forward lines and Crawford and Stevens on the defence. The former three players were exceptionally keen.

What is a Gentleman ?

It is not at all surprising that Bernard Shaw should throw defiance at the term gentleman. He detests pretence—anything that stands in the light of truth. But, after all, a gentleman is a gentleman. I am far beyond that! he is reported to have said. What he could have meant was that he was not a gentleman in the devalicized sense of that term.

What, then, is a gentleman? To say that a gentleman is a man at the front is to beg the question.

There are three elements which go to the making of a gentleman. Regard for self, regard for others, regard for authority. A person who has all three is not a gentleman; a person who is overbearing is not a gentleman; a person who is disloyal is not a gentleman.

Were I called upon to offer a handy serviceable definition I would say that a gentleman is a man to who knows his place. Learning does not make a gentleman, or title or affluence. They help but do not make. A sense of fitness is necessary.

Dr. Johnson, gentleman at arms, poets, even distinguished members of church dignitaries who were not gentlemen. On the other hand we have met with taxi drivers, butchers, bartenders and others who struck me as gentlemen.

Why did the people of Wiesbaden speak of the departing British soldiers as an army of gentlemen? It cannot have been for not going—for the term as defined above they were their place.—Gabriel Wells in The N. Y. Times.

How To Pay Debts

Finland is the one good little girl amongst Uncle Sam's kindergarten of debtor nations, and consequently is being rewarded with a treaty of friendship and commerce. Alone amongst the nations, Finland has paid her instalments on war debts to the United States in full—handing over $230,000 last December, for example. And now Finland gets her medal, while the others are subtly told to feel ashamed of themselves.

Nothing should be said to detract from Finland's fine record in meeting her obligations. But we may well seek to learn the secret of her success. In 1922 Finland imported 42-779,000 worth of goods from the United States and sold to the Americans in return $9,000 to the value of more than $20,000,000. The one answer—a handsomely favourable balance of trade out of which semi-annual instalments of some $230,000 can be paid without undue embarrassment. Granted such favourable balances of trade with the United States, other debtor nations, even Britain, might be very glad to meet war debt payments in full. All they have to have maintained they could pay, provided that the United States would buy their goods and sell to them. The Finnish exception reinforces their point.—Montreal Star.

GOOD QUALITY LAMB

Meats of all kinds vary in quality according to the breeding of the animals and the care with which they have been fed. This is as true of lamb as of other meats, and the housewife who wishes to have good quality lamb should take pains to know the characteristics of good lamb. Early or winter spring lambs are entirely milk-fed. The carcasses are light in weight, hence the cuts are small and the meat of a very choice quality. The bone is relatively soft and of a bright pink colour. The Head weight of regular lamb carcasses is about 36 pounds. Good lamb carcasses, however, may be found of a weight ranging from 30 to 45 pounds. The meat in the cuts is fine-grained and firm, and is accompanied by a covering of fat that gives a desirable finish. The bones are relatively small and soft and have a distinctively red-dish tinge. The meat of all the cuts is juicy and tender. The meat from lambs that have been winter-fed is a little firmer in texture. Yearling lamb meat is dry in texture. Immature lamb meat is soft.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

We sincerely hope that the public will hie themselves in large numbers to the rink on Friday of this week, to witness for the first time, three exhibition hockey matches between two teams in each of the three leagues in the Napanee Boys' Welfare League.

The League is completing its fourth year and it is time that the town as a whole, turned out to see the results obtained and how the lads are progressing.

Even though everyone is not a hockey fan, almost everyone is interested in Boys (with a capital B) and knows that they seldom get in trouble when provided with clean, healthy sport. The almost total absence of juvenile crime in Napanee, during the last two or three years, testifies to the tremendous value of the work which Chief Eddie Watts and his helpers are doing.

While it is usually left to a few to provide this recreation which plays such a large part in the training of future citizens, it is a duty of the town, as a whole, to lend its support when such is asked.

So when the boys come around, this week, to sell their tickets, don't just turn them away without a thought, but help along this cause which is a worthy one. And what is more, if you buy a ticket, use it. Let's pack that old ring as is has never been packed before and believe me, the boys will do their part toward making it a real evening.

This is the first time any attempt has been made to charge for these games or that the citizens have been asked to contribute to this end. It is to be hoped that the response will show that Napanee is truly a real "sporting" town.

There are a great many hockey fans who go to Kingston to see City League and O. H. A. games, and some who travel all the way to Toronto and back to see the Pro games. Surely they will drive to the other end of the town to see the results O. H. A. and Pro. stars in the making. It is in such leagues as this in Toronto, Regina, Winnipeg, Montreal, Ottawa and other towns, that such stars as "Chuck" Conacher, "Busher" Jackson and Ashley Sikore Andy Aitkenhead and all the rest of them got their start.

So come up and see for yourself what real athletes — and what is more important, sportsmen — are being turned out.

Let's give the boys a break — a break to learn a healthy sport — a break to build a physique that will be necessary later on — a break which means so much to them and yet costs each one of us who are older, so little.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Grace United Church, in Hamilton, February 12th, by the Rev. A. T. Stapleton, uncle of the groom, when Jessie Mattie, second daughter of Mr. Wallace Marsh, and the late Mrs. Marsh of Toronto, formerly of Napanee, became the bride of Mr. Reward Stapleton, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stapleton of 105 Roslin Avenue, Toronto.

After a wedding supper at the home of the groom's uncle, the happy couple left for Toronto, where they will reside at 22 Belsize Drive.

SHETLER — KING

A very pretty wedding took place on Thursday, February 15th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. King Enterprise, when their only daughter, Eloleen Nellie, became the bride of James Stafford Shetler, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shetler, Newburgh. the ceremony being performed by the Rev. D. M. Stinson, pastor the United Church.

Promptly at 11:00 a.m., to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus played by Mrs. W. G. Penwick, the bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The nuptial vows were received beneath an arch of wedding bells and flowers. Following the ceremony and the during the signing of the register, Miss Freda Wager sang "On Promise Like Thine."

A buffet luncheon was served in the dining room, which was tastefully decorated in pink and white.

The bride was a picture of loveliness in her wedding gown of royal blue silk crepe, made in princess style, trimmed with metallic and wore a corsage of Ophelia rose buds, grey kid shoes and hose to match. Her travelling dress was of baby blue crepe and navy coat with metal trimmings and blue hat. The happy couple left amid a shower of good wishes and took the bus at Napanee for Toronto, and on their return will spend some days at Brighton.

The groom's gift to the bride was a grey suede purse; to the pianist, a silver cake dish, and to the soloist, a silver sandwich tray. The young couple were unattended.

The bride is a talented young musician, and will be considerably missed in the village, both socially and in church work, where her talents have been much appreciated.

OBITUARIES

MISS ANNIE B. HINCHEY

Miss Annie Reable Hinchey, who was born at Chatham, Ont., on February 13th, was born at Reidville, on the farm now owned by Hugh Fingland, a cousin of the deceased.

She was a graduate of Kingston General Hospital and for a few years did private duty. In 1914 she served with the First Canadian Contingent, enlisting from Kingston. During the war she was stationed at No. 2 Stationary Hospital, Boulogne, France, later going to Maltock, Bath, Convalescent Hospital, in England, where she remained until the summer of 1919. For the past ten years she was night superintendent of Lakeside Hospital, associated with Western Reserve Hospital, Cleveland.

She died in Cleveland after a short illness. A sister, Mae, died about a year ago. During the past summer, deceased had visited her uncle, Adam Fingland, of Enterprise, and other relatives throughout this vicinity.

Her charming personality endeared her to all who knew her.

ROBERT JAMES BLACKADDER

Slumping in his seat on a Bloor Street car, near Dundas St., on Tuesday morning, February 20, Robert James Blackadder, 60 years of age, of 68 Kennedy Avenue, Toronto, died before medical aid could be summoned.

Born in Lennox County and a resident of Toronto since October, 1918, deceased was an employee of the Liquor Control Board and was on his way to work, when stricken.

He is survived by his widow, Mary Elizabeth Blackadder; two sons, Herbert J. and W. Curtis Blackadder, all of Toronto; also one sister, Mrs. W. Ruttan, of South Fredericksburgh and a twin brother, William Blackadder, near Napanee.

The funeral was held on Thursday at 2:00 p.m., from the family residence. Interment was made in Westminster Memorial Park. The service was conducted by Rev. A. J. Paul, former minister of College St. Methodist Church.

The large number of floral tributes sent to the bereaved family, bore testimony of the esteem in which he was held by all who know him.

The Late Mrs. J. Caldwell

Seldom has a death in the community elicited such widespread sorrow and sympathy as that of Mrs. J. Caldwell on Wednesday last. Mrs. Caldwell was strong, active and, apparently in the best of health until within a week of her passing, when she caught a cold. This cold contracted on Thursday, rapidly developed into pneumonia and on the following Wednesday she succumbed to its ravages, in spite of every possible effort of nurses and doctors.

Mrs. Caldwell leaves to mourn their loss her husband, Mr. J. Caldwell and a family of small children, Barbara, Bruce, John Allen, Susan and Jane. In addition to these are left four sisters, Mrs. Dennison of Montreal, Mrs. Miller of Pointe Claire, Montreal, Miss Davis, Lakeside, Montreal; Mrs. White, of Toronto, and one brother, Mr. Allen Davis, of Montreal.

Mrs. Caldwell was formerly Pearl E. Davis, daughter of the late J. and Mrs. Davis, of Lakeside, Montreal. There she received her early education and business training. Before coming to Napanee she held a responsible position with a large commercial concern, in Montreal.

In 1923 she came to Napanee as a bride and took up residence on the old McGreer homestead on the Desoronto Road, which they purchased. There she continued to reside until the time of her death. Though coming from the city and totally unacquainted with farming, she soon adjusted herself to its varied and exacting conditions. Besides her home duties she found time for many outside interests. She was an active and dependable worker in St. Andrew's Church, and a member of the Daughters of the Empire. She took a keen and sympathetic interest in the life of the town and community. Her genial manner, fine, courageous spirit and hopeful optimism, won her the admiration and respect of all who knew her.

The funeral was held on Friday. After a brief service at the home, the cortege proceeded to the church where a public service was conducted by the minister, Rev. A. J. Wilson. Following the service at the church the remains were taken by train to Montreal, where the funeral was held from the home of Mrs. J. Caldwell, mother of Mr. Caldwell, on Saturday. Interment took place at Lakeview Cemetery, Pointe Claire.

Among those present at the funeral in Napanee, were Mr. James Caldwell, Miss Davis, Mrs. Dennison and Mr. Allen Davis, all of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. White, and Mrs. Jamieson, sister of Mr. J. Caldwell and her husband, Mrs. Charles Jamieson, of Toronto.

The Late Mrs. J. Schermerhorn

After being in ill-health for the past year, Mrs. John Schermerhorn passed away at her home in Odessa, on Sunday evening, February 26th.

Mrs. Schermerhorn, who was the widow of the late John Schermerhorn, was formerly Ida Elizabeth Madden, daughter of Mr. Robert Madden, and the late Mrs. Madden. She was born on the Madden homestead, about three miles from Napanee on the Kingston Highway. Her girlhood was spent at her father's home, and after her marriage to Mr. Schermerhorn about forty years ago, she went to Odessa to live, where she had remained practically ever since.

She is survived by her aged father, Mr. Robert Madden, who still shortly celebrate his 97th birthday; by her sister, Mrs. Pitts, of Hamilton, and three brothers, Percy on the Kingston Highway, John in Washington state and Norman.

For many years Mrs. Schermerhorn was an active member of the Odessa United Church. The funeral was conducted on Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Dr. Fletcher of Odessa, and the remains were brought to the vault in Napanee, to await burial in the spring.

The Late Dr. Ephraim Wagar

Dr. Ephraim Wagar, a member of a well-known family of Adolphustown, died in his 72nd year, at the home of Martin H. Garrison, his brother-in-law, near Sillsville, on Tuesday, February 20th, after an illness of some duration. Dr. Wagar was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Wagar and was one of a large family of whom the only remaining member is Mr. Michael Wagar of Sillsville.

He received his early education at Sillsville and the Napanee Collegiate. After graduation from High School he taught at Sillsville and Bay Bay and later entered Queen's University where he took his doctor's degree in 1886. For a short time he was associated with the late Dr. Lapum in Napanee. After his marriage to Miss Garrison, he went to Coe Hill where he practiced his profession for some time. Nearly thirty years ago they went to North Dakota, where for some years the doctor practiced at Bijou Hills. In 1926, owing to the ill-health of the Doctor, he and Mrs. Wagar returned to Canada, and took up residence with Mr. Garrison, at Sillsville.

The funeral service was held at Vankleek & Wartman's undertaking parlor in Napanee, on Friday afternoon, with Rev. Harry Pawson of Trinity United Church as officiating minister. The body was placed in Riverview Cemetery vault and interment will take place in the spring.

Dr. Wagar is survived by his wife, now, and also two daughters, who reside in South Dakota.

The late Mr. Allan Wagar and the late Dr. Nelson Wagar of Napanee, were cousins of the deceased.

Simple Rules for LOSING FAT

Common sense will do far more for you than any so-called panacea for taking off unhealthy extra fat. Just live sensibly. You don't need to starve yourself. Eat enough to satisfy the demands of your body, but don't overload it. Cut out pastry, starchy foods, and reduce sweet desserts, fat meats, etc. And, above all be sure of complete elimination of body wastes.

Don't just take it for granted that there's nothing wrong with your eliminative system because your habits are regular. Regularity deceives thousands who, if they only realized it, could enjoy perfect health and proper weight all the time.

Make sure, each week enjoy a bracing, sparkling glass of Andrews Liver Salt. Andrews will help Nature to effect complete elimination, and so will help your body to throw off unwanted and unhealthful weight.

The unusual and sparkling action of Andrews Liver Salt will purify and invigorate your whole system and ward off the "little ills." It will prevent the dark of beauty body weariness and certainly attacks of headaches and indigestion. And it will help Nature bring you down to your proper weight.

Try this common-sense way to get rid of surplus body-wasting fat. Eat moderately and take Andrews occasionally. Ask your druggist for Andrews Liver Salt. In tins. 30c and 60c. New Size, 75c. To be Agents John A. Hutton Co., Ltd., Toronto. 6

A MACARONI DISH

This is a most appetising method of serving macaroni. Boil the required quantity of macaroni in stock instead of water for half an hour. Fry some lamb's liver lightly, using an ounce of liver to two ounces of macaroni, and mince it. Then fry two chopped onions until brown, and place the macaroni liver, and onions in a dish in layers. Thicken and season the stock in which the macaroni was boiled, and pour it into the dish. On the top place some bread-crumbs, grated cheese, and small pieces of butter or dripping, and brown in the oven.

EBONY

Ebony ornaments, hair-brush backs and dressing-table accessories tend to lose their black lustre through constant use and become brown and patchy. Their appearance may be much improved if they are carefully washed with warm soapy water, left to dry thoroughly, and then coated with black shoe stain such as is used for suede shoes. When the stain is perfectly dry a little furniture cream should be rubbed over the ebony and polished off with a soft cloth.

LEFT-OVER POTATOES

Left-over potatoes can be utilised in a variety of dishes, but, unfortunately, even after one night in the refrigerator they present a sadly unappetising appearance owing to the fact that they have become black and discoloured. This discoloration can, however, be avoided. As soon as they are placed in the refrigerator the basin containing them should be tightly covered with a piece of thick white muslin. Keep the muslin in place by slipping a rubber band over the basin. It will be found that the potatoes keep as white as when they were first cooked, and can even be mashed and steamed up again.

Japs Building Cars To Retail at $300

Durban. — The prospect of Japanese cars being sold in South Africa at £20 ($300.00) is causing alarm among motor dealers.

There is a Japanese two-seater known as the "Convinvible," having electric starting, lighting balloon tires, four-wheel brakes and independent spring.

Every respect, which could be put on the market for £60. Motor cycles and motorcycle delivery outfits are also available, the cheapest ranging from about £15.

Even these prices are nothing compared to those for wireless sets and electrical equipment. Agents for Japanese goods in Durban say that they can sell a cabinet model 6-valve wireless set for £8, table models for £2 and valves, exact replicas of famous makes, for 12s 6d a dozen.

These and an immense variety of other articles, will be put on the market in South Africa as soon as it is known definitely whether, during the coming session, Parliament intends imposing new duties against Japanese imports.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Planting Early Cabbage

Early cabbage is a very good money -crop. More money may be obtained from an acre of it than from the same area devoted to many other crops. Seed sowing should be done early in March and the plants grown in flats or thumb pots and later put in four inch pots. Hardening off before planting in the field is very important. This will make the plants front hardy. As soon as the plants show signs of growth in the open field, apply a side dressing of nitrate of soda.

Time to Castrate Pigs

The early castration of market pigs has many advantages which should not be overlooked by breeders.

Young pigs are easily handled, suffer very little and heal quickly, with a small percentage of losses, if the operation is properly performed and necessary precautions are taken to prevent infection.

At the Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head, pigs for market purposes are castrated previous to weaning time. Pigs to be weaned at six weeks are castrated at one month of age or if weaned at three or four weeks they are castrated when about six weeks old. Experience at this Farm has shown that nursing pigs suffer less set-back and heal more rapidly, with a smaller percentage of losses, than older pigs.

Cuts Hog Costs

While hogs have been climbing to the best price reached since 1931, Clark Young of Milliken, Ontario, has been busy establishing a world's record for cheap production. He reports a hundred pounds gain for every 381 pounds of feed used, which is eight pounds better than the record of the Indian State College previous holder of the record. Authorities at the Ontario Agricultural College consider one pound of pork gain for every four and one half pounds of feed decidedly above the average. Mr. Young gives his total cost per hundred pounds of pork for the entire six months feeding period at $4.78 which represents more than $13.00 net profit per 200 pound hog at present prices. Not only have Mr. Young's hogs been fed cheaply and quickly they were marketed at six months but the quality according to the grading at Toronto and the bacon reports from Great Britain where the pork was marketed, has been the best. Mr. Young figures his costs from weaning to six months as follows: 2,050 pounds of mixed home grown grain, 400 pounds of shorts, 1,650 pounds of skim milk, 100 pounds of special hog concentrated feed, total cost $69.57 or one lot of eight hogs.

Proper Finishing Will Repay Ontario Shippers

"The cattle feeder who ships only properly-finished cattle," said Dr. Bennett H. Duncan, livestock investigator, Ontario Marketing Board, "is very definitely helping himself.

"The liquidation of unfinished cattle will meet a poor sale, under present conditions. This is due chiefly to the fact that packers have such quantities in storage. On the other hand Ontario has considerably less cattle feeding than normal consumption demands.

"The rise in hog prices will reflect itself on cattle prices, and finishing cattle properly will repay the feeder, and reduce this excess storage of beef.

"The result of marketing unfinished cattle at present will be an increase in the storage supply. Further than this, feeders will find themselves with no cattle to ship when prices advance.

"In my opinion, the wise shipper will feed to finish his stock, and distribute the supply over the next few months."

The Mutton Sheep

The production of mutton has become largely a question of furnishing lambs to the markets. As in beef or pork, the demands of the market call for young meat and comparatively light weights in carcass. The premium paid for baby beef and bacon hogs applies with even greater force to sheep. Thick, fleshy, but rather light joints are what the cook calls for whether for the home table or the restaurant. The tastes of the consumer have been cultivated to discriminate in favour of the lamb, tender, lamb until we find that from 70 to 80 per cent. of the sheep that reach the market are less than one year old. The age of heavy mutton is passed—a condition much favourable to the sheep raiser, who is thus enabled to reap quick returns from his flock. The increasing demand for lamb mutton this season augurs well for the future of the industry, provided care is taken to keep up and improve the grade of the product.

Winners in Bacon Competition

In the 1933 Bacon Litter Competition there were 133 entries, and 69 completed and qualified. The Province is divided into districts, and the highest scoring litter of the competition was owned by Grant Summers & Son, Aylmer, winner of district number 2 who marketed 11 pigs grading 10 selects and 1 bacon, scoring 2270 at 171 days. In district number 1 W. E. Sonley, Port Perry, was first with 11 pigs grading 10 selects and 1 bacon. Winner of number 3 district was B. T. Bolton, Delhi, who had 11 pigs, all selects. Mr. Bolton has been a winner in the past five competitions. The 45 litters in the prize money graded 70.9 per cent. selects and the average weight was 203.1 pounds, and the average age per little 183 days. The previous high grading percentage was 64 per cent. selects.

In awarding the prizes carcasses are graded on the rail, the length, back fat, character of belly and firmness of fat all being taken into consideration.

Prospects Bright For Ontario Honey Trade

"1934 should be a prosperous season for Ontario honey producers" says Dr. E. J. Dyce, head of the Department of Apiculture at O.A.C. and secretary of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association, and he continues:—

"Canada is now a large exporter of honey, standing second in amount supplied to the British market. It is not many years since Canada's honey export was practically nil, but in recent years it has advanced with a strong position and all signs point to still further increase in the trade. Ontario's honey export for the past year amounted to about one-quarter of her total production and her honey is advancing in popularity on the British market.

"The export demand together with the high price of sugar eliminated congestion on the home market and there is at present in the hands of producers and dealers less than the normal amount for this season of the year. With these small stocks on hand it is likely that all honey will be sold before the 1934 crop comes on to the market. Then, the recent reports of dry weather in New Zealand indicate that the honey crop at present being gathered will be cut in that country is likely to be short.

"For these and other reasons, Ontario beekeepers may look forward with reasonable assurance to good prices for the coming season's crop providing they give close attention to business and produce high quality honey."

ELECTRIC SHOCKS FOR THE UNWILLING MULE

An experimental consignment of mules, intended for the Italian army, was loaded on shipboard with the aid of an electric shocking device attached to the end of a fishing pole. When the mule hesitated, it was touched on the flanks or quarters with a piece of weakly electrified wire, a proceeding which greatly facilitated loading.

During the Great War, the Italians learned that the mule was more sure footed than the horse and 20,000 army horses are to be replaced by this hybrid animal.

The loading was done at Saint John, New Brunswick, by trained mule-handlers.

BARBADOS THE "LOVELY ISLAND"

The lovely island of Barbados is becoming more popular as a winter resort for those fortunate individuals who spend their winters in a warm climate, states the Canadian National Steamships. Barbados is the most easterly of the West Indian Islands lying in the Caribbean Sea, right in the track of the north-west trade winds. The island has a winter temperature of 70 degrees F. and a climate that is undoubtedly one of the finest on earth.

Barbados is often called "Little Britain" because of its unbroken connection with the British Crown for over 327 years, the English character of the scenery, and inhabitants who are very hospitable and fond of sport of all kinds. A very potent factor in the popularity of this island to the winter resident is the low cost of living and hospitality.

There is a wonderful water supply, electric light and gas, and over 430 miles of excellent motor roads. For invalids or convalescents, a more ideal spot can be selected. There are excellent medical doctors, and plenty of sane, healthy, happy social life and amusements.

JELLIED DISHES

In individual paper cases place first some ham cut into small cubes, then thinly-sliced tomato, then hard boiled eggs. Cover with good gravy in which some gelatine has been dissolved, when nearly set place half a stoned olive or a piece of pimiento on top. Serve with vegetable salad and thin slices of brown bread and butter These dishes are well worth the trouble of preparation, as they are inexpensive and appetising.

Orange Creams

Orange creams are delicious in flavour and decorative in appearance, as they are served in the skins. To four large oranges, one egg, a quarter of a pint of milk and cream one ounce of sugar, and half an ounce of gelatine are required. Cut the oranges into halves and squeeze out the juice, which should be warmed with the gelatine until the latter is dissolved. Then beat the egg with the sugar, add the milk, and stir over gentle heat, preferably in a double saucepan, until it thickens. Whip the cream and gradually mix this with the juice and the custard. Remove the pulp from the orange skins, and before the mixture is quite set, fill the skins with it. Any which is left over should be piled on top when set. Decorate with angelica and chopped pistachio nuts.

CANADIAN QUALITY WOODS

Wherever wood is used, either in the manufactured or the unmanufactured state, a physical characteristic, a mechanical property, or a combination of the two, as a rule influences its selection. Some of the physical characteristics of wood, such as colour, figure and grain, may be readily ascertained by visual inspection. For the more complicated physical properties such as shrinkage, specific gravity and moisture content, and for all mechanical properties, tests of a different character are necessary, and an effort to supply means of measuring these qualities has been made in the Forest Products Laboratories operated by the Canadian Government. These tests have been carried out over a period of sixteen years, and the data secured represents approximately 100,000 mechanical tests and physical determinations on small, clear specimens of Canadian woods. Approximately one hundred species are represented in Canada. Tests have been made on forty-nine of these, twenty-nine broad-leaved species and twenty conifers. With the exception of a few of the woods native to Western Canada, these forty-nine species include all Canadian species that are at present of commercial importance in the woodworking industries. All the broad-leaved species tested and ten of the conifers were obtained in Eastern Canada (including Manitoba), and are representative of the predominating trees of that region. The remaining ten conifers are Western Canadian woods from British Columbia and Alberta.

Hardness is one of the qualities which has been tested in the Government investigation. Other properties subjected to experiment are bending, compression, shearing, cleavage and tension. From the results of the tests in static bending and compression the maximum temporary and the maximum permanent loads that a timber of the given species will bear may be calculated. The figures for impact bending indicate its ability to withstand suddenly applied loads. Shearing tests indicate the power of a wood to withstand action that would shear the wood apart lengthwise. In tests for cleavage the force was measured that would split the wood in the direction of the grain.

Variation in Properties

Some difference in regard to various properties of wood is found according to whether it is the end surface of the wood that is being subjected to test or the side surface: and again, where the saw has passed right through the centre of the log when cutting the wood, as in "quarter-cut" oak, the piece being tested may give results somewhat different to those given by a piece where the saw passed at some distance from the centre. The former is said to be a "radial cut" and the latter a "tangential cut." Furthermore, where a green condition may test differently from that in the air condition, that is, seasoned out of doors and not in a dry-kiln.

As regards the end surfaces, shagbark hickory, both green and air-dry, comes ahead of any other Canadian wood in hardness. On the tangential surface, that is, on the side of the grain, the majority of boards, shagbark hickory is the hardest when air-dry, but is slightly surpassed by rock elm when green. On the radial surface, air-dry shagbark hickory again comes to the top, but in the green condition rock elm is almost identical with the shagbark in hardness. At the other end of the scale, among the trees tested in the radial direction, Western red cedar is shown to be the softest of Canadian woods when green. Eastern white pine and balsam fir are also soft, amabilis fir, balsam fir and white spruce all these species being softer than large-toothed aspen, the "hardwood" that gives the lowest result in this test.

The forty-nine species showed wide variations in strength. In addition to the variations between species, there were within the same species, considerable differences in the strength of specimens from different trees, and also from different parts of the same tree. The values given in the report of the investigation, which has been issued by the Forestry Branch of the Interior Department of the Interior, for each strength function of each species are therefore, the averages of a large number of individual tests. The procedure in the selection of timber and the methods followed in testing it are similar in all major details to those adopted by the Forest Products Laboratories of Great Britain, India, Australia, New Zealand and the United States.—Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of Bath Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wilmot Hoselton. There was an attendance of eighteen, and another new member was added to the roll.

The meeting opened in the usual manner and the roll call was responded to with a Valentine verse. Business was dealt with and bills were ordered paid. The programme followed, consisting of a reading by Mrs. O. Stevenson; a splendid talk by Mrs. Clarence Mott, on the Communist situation As it is to-day and its relationship to the present depression. Current events, Mrs. H. Collins. A contest by Miss Florence Morrow was won by Mrs. George Stevenson.

After a very pleasant meeting, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Clarence Hegadorn.

The March meeting of the Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Mott.

PIONEER W. I.

Friday evening, February 16th, was a notable one for the members of the Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute. On that evening, in the Institute Hall, Mount Pleasant, the members provided a banquet for their husbands. This banquet took the form of an oyster supper supplemented with many and such varied delicacies as would tempt the appetite of the most fastidious. After enjoying the banquet, the president, Mrs. Fred Henderson, as toast mistress, proposed the toast to the King. This was heartily responded to by the singing of the National Anthem.

"Home and Country was proposed by Mrs. Harold Putman and responded to by ex-Reeve Harry Oliver, Mrs. Putman stressed the value of a home and was very thankful that Canada was not troubled with alarming war conditions or disorders as European countries were. Ex- Reeve Harry Oliver complimented the members on their successful work since organization.

The toast to "The Women's Institute" was proposed by Mrs. O. E. Ashley and responded to by Mrs. A. J. Alkenbrack. Mr. Ashley also complimented the members of the Institute on the success of the banquet and also on the work that was being accomplished. Mrs. Alkenbrack responded to the toast and gave examples of work being accomplished and urged the members to consider providing music for the young people. She appealed to the men to organize and thus get benefits in their departments of work. The next toast "To our Husbands" was proposed by Mrs. Harold Grooms and responded to by Mr. Vernon Oliver. Mrs. Grooms stressed that while the Mount Pleasant Pioneer Institute was such a success, a great measure of the success was due to the co-operation of the husbands.

Mr. Oliver responded and stressed that while the men were not considered actual members he thought they were associate members, for it was necessary for them to attend every meeting to bring their wives and also to assist with functions. Of course this was not an impossibility but a pleasure as the men were anxious to have some part in the uplift of the community.

This part of the programme was concluded by singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

The committee, Mrs. Milton Doidge, Mrs. Thos. Murphy, Mrs. Charles Hawley, are to be complimented on the success of the evening.

The members are grateful to the committee for their services and to the donors for their contributions. Some time was spent in a social manner after which the meeting closed, everyone pleased with the success of the evening.

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

On Wednesday, February 21, the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held and opened with the singing of the hymn "Almighty Father, Who dost give Unto Each Gift of Life to all who Live. Immediately following the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report, the President, Mrs. D. B. Wilson, called the attention of the meeting to the fact that the Belleville Presbyterial would be held in Trinity Church on March 14 and 15, and asked for all those who could, entertain delegates to signify their willingness. A large percentage of names for the visiting delegates were arranged for and further business regarding the Presbyterial, consummated.

The next item of business was the discussion of final details in connection with the birthday party to be held on Friday evening, March 2. The members are looking forward to a very delightful and remunerative evening.

The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. James B. Miller, after which she led in prayer. Mrs. W. R. Gray and Mrs. Nicholson, contributed an appropriate duet and Mrs. George Baughan gave a synopsis of the fourth chapter of "Living Issue in China."

The meeting closed with the singing of hymn "His Name Forever Shall Endure."

TRINITY W. M. S. STUDY GROUP

The fourth meeting of the Study Group was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Miller with eleven members present. The first meeting, a in previous years, was held at the home of the president, Mrs. D. B. Wilson, when "Living Issues in China," was given an extremely interesting introduction by Mrs. George Switzer, whose enthusiasm for this work contributes in no small measure to its success.

The second meeting took place at the home of Mrs. H. B. Beattie, when Mrs. D. B. Wilson gave a comprehensive review of the second chapter. For the third meeting, the group was invited to the home of Mrs. George Paul, when the third chapter, "Tampering with the Social Foods," was reviewed by Mrs. H. Pawson. Mrs. Couch, of Odessa, mother of Mrs. Duffet, was a visitor at this gathering and her knowledge of and enthusiasm for missionaries and their work, added materially to the success of the meeting.

At the last meeting on Monday afternoon, the fourth chapter was synopsized by Mrs. B. Gilbert and with everyone present contributing to the current events from various parts of the world, a very profitable afternoon was spent. Delightful refreshments were served at the close of each meeting.

Mrs. George Baughan very kindly invited the group to her home for the next meeting, which will be held on March 5th, instead of March 12th.

EDEN AND PARADISE BOTH IN NOVA SCOTIA

If you should be looking for perfection in this year 1934, you can find both Paradise and Garden of Eden in Nova Scotia, according to the Tourist Department of the Canadian National Railways. The state of the places is no guarantee, but the names are.

Paradise is located at the junction of the Paradise and Annapolis Rivers along the northwest shore of Nova Scotia. It is an early French settlement. Garden of Eden is just 25 miles from New Glasgow, a coal mining centre. Garden of Eden had its Adam who lived to a great age and near the community are to be found Mount Adam and Eden Lake, their Wives and also to assist with functions. Of course this was not an impossibility but a pleasure as the men were anxious to have some part in the uplift of the community.

The committee, Mrs. Milton Doidge, Mrs. Thos. Murphy, Mrs. Charles Hawley, are to be complimented on the success of the evening.

ALL TRADES JACK'S DAY DRAWS NEAR

(By an old Public Schoolboy)
(In the Daily Sketch, London

"Jack of all trades, master of none," was the byword of the last decade. That wisecrack, like a good many more of grandmother's words of wisdom, is dying a natural death.

A public schoolboy who has specialized in a job is by no means "inland to get on" nowadays. Far too often it happens that he finds the profession for which he has been trained overcrowded and hopeless as a means of livelihood.

An engineer may have an alphabet of letters after his name, but they are of little use to him if there are no bridges to build.

This is the age of the "Jack of all trades."- The proof is to be seen everywhere. A knowledge of Euclid puts no fire into a boy's manners. The laughings of Greek is meaningless to the man at the door.

I may state my own case. The headmaster of my "prep" school saw in me a thrusting, fairly soundly, quite quickly, in his opinion, he advised the discipline of the Navy.

I liked it excellently. I was quite unprepared for a roomful of Admirals, and my knees knocked.

The next best thing for me was the Mercantile service. I never wanted to go to sea. My observation, at the end of three years, would not have warranted my taking a barge from Penge to Mortlake.

But that was my fault. The school did the best possible. I was just unprepared. I was trained for the sea. I was sent to sea. And I ran away from it. I'm a very disgraceful and wicked thing to do, and nobody missed an opportunity of letting me know it.

I admit the sin, but I realize my good luck. At the age of sixteen I precipitated myself all unwittingly into chaos.

I left a job for which I had no interest, and ploughed the fire much hotter than the frying pan.

But I maintain that I was lucky. I found out in extern that most boys hit with a bump at twenty. I drifted from job to job for twenty-five, and that is far better than drifting from twenty-one to thirty. It is that drift in my twenties, the world that starts a new and necessary education.

Sometimes the bump is very hard. Fortunately, I bounced. I became a "Jack of all trades." I did a bit of everything, from scrubbing decks to keeping ledgers, from selling tyres to designing advertisements. My education progressed rapidly.

It is, of course, impossible to understand the ways of the world until you have sampled them. But the period of preparation can be a lot of improvement.

Youth should be permitted to peer over the school walls; to see a little of what is going on in the fields it will enter to-morrow. There should be brought more into line with hard facts. "Then will the two ends be joined in reality. It is bad enough to bark up the wrong tree, but it is better to be able to choose another tree than to bark at the void.

In these times of uncertainty, the so-called "Jack of all trades" is to be envied. He learns the thrill of independence. He learns to form opinions and to defend them.

If he hears of a job of laundry forman, why? he is just the man for the job. And what chief master to him if the laundry peters out? There is a baker's shop on the next turning. The baker doesn't know what he doesn't know about baking—if he doesn't tell him!

He learns to take the knocks of life as they come. He learns not to talk about his troubles. He learns to laugh when he is broke. That is the greatest of all accomplishments.

He learns things that cannot be taught in theory. It teaches him the value of money. It fosters a sense of humor and optimism. Armed with those weapons, the world becomes a good place to live in.

Youth should be given more courtesies, so broke that the smell of cooking from an hotel fanlight caused internal agonies. But I have also earned the pleasure of living at five hundred a year.

I have slept in Grosvenor House and in the crypt, and the latter has taught me to appreciate the former. Being broke is no longer a novelty. It is not pleasant, but it is an invaluable experience.

I can recall one memorable night when I played billiards with a millionaire without the bus fare home in my pocket. I walked seven miles, and made some good resolutions.

This age, like any other, is bristling with opportunities. The only difference is that everyone has an equal chance today.

There is too much of this public school eyewash. It may go down well in the drawing-room, but it is fast on the sensible business man. And, after all, that is what counts.

I have no time for the person who, seeing a "public schoolboy" carrying a pile of dishes, exclaims, "Poor fellow, what a shame."

Why should he be pitied? He should be envied. He is doing a job of work, and the odds are that he will not be carrying dishes for long. Those dishes will teach him quite a lot of useful things about life.

No job is too poor for any man who has grit and guts. What does it matter to you if your friend sees you sweeping a street? If he is a friend he will admire you. If he sees something interesting in a shop window, he will say, "I'll go back and get a job." Ask yourself. Is he a friend?

Several of my "friends" snubbed me when they saw me in the box office of the local cinema. From that moment I found pleasure in selling them tickets!

I am a "public schoolboy"—or was. But I have never tried to use that fact as a lever.

On one occasion I was compelled to give it as reference, and I was turned down, good and hearty. But again that was my fault. I ran away from set ten years previously. I don't blame the headmaster for not shouting about my exemplary conduct!

I thank him from the bottom of my heart. Had I been a model pupil I might perhaps have been gracing or disgracing an office stool today.

More by luck than good management I am not. I do not entirely advocate my line of action. There are better ways of starting a career as Jack of all trades. And it is a good career!

I am a farmer, well digger, cinema manager, shop assistant, salesman, pilot, chauffeur - cum - gardener, writer. I am a Jack of all trades.

If the well-digging industry suffers a relapse, well, there may be a boom in advertising. Not every "profession" can go to the dogs at the same time.

FIRST NEWSPAPER IN CANADA PUBLISHED 1752

The first newspaper in Canada was the Halifax Gazette, first published in 1752, which preceded the first printing press by one year, installed also in Halifax. Quebec City has the distinction of having the second oldest newspaper, The Quebec Gazette, started 12 years later. The province of Nova Scotia has the honor of having many "first" things in Canada, some of which were the first in North America. The first stationary steam engine in Canada was installed at Albion mines in Stellarton, N.S., in 1827. The first highway in North America was that at Port Royal, now Annapolis Royal, N.S. in 1605. The first wireless station in America was at Glace Bay, N.S., in 1903.

CHESNUT RECIPES

CHESNUT SOUP. — Peel and skin half a pound of chestnuts, and simmer all but one or three with a chopped onion lightly browned in butter in a pint and a half of stock seasoned with salt, pepper and a little ground mace. They will take about an hour. Meanwhile coarsely chop the nuts you have kept aside and brown them lightly in the butter you have used for the onion. Drain them and keep them aside. When the other chestnuts are soft enough to rub through a fine sieve, do so; warm up the puree and add half a pint of milk. Correct the seasoning, and serve with the chopped chestnuts as garnish. You can replace the milk, or some of it, by cream if you like, and add a little sugar if you prefer your soup to be sweetish.

Chestnut Stuffing for Chickens

Roast, peel, skin, and cut up some small chestnuts. Pound them in a mixing bowl and mix them with parboiled liver and a quarter of a pound of lean ham or bacon. Pound these together and season them with plenty of finely chopped parsley, sweet herbs, a little mace, salt, pepper, and nutmeg. Stuff the chicken with this mixture and roast it.

Chestnut Puree

Peel and skin the nuts and cook them in enough white stock to cover them, adding half a stick of celery and half an ounce of sugar for every pound of chestnuts. Pass through a fine sieve, moistening as required with the stock they have been cooked in. Serve with roast chicken or rabbit.

CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS FORM A PROVINCIAL ORGANIZATION

Ontario's Cheese Patrons who have been organizing themselves, county by county, during the past two years and who became federated into a Provincial Association last June, became an actual operating association a few days ago as the result of a conference of the directors with Colonel, the Honourable Thomas L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. The policy and programme presented by the executive was officially presented and full approval of the program was given by the Minister.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture, through Mr. Barr, Director of Dairying, has agreed to assist the association financially to get started. By the time the cheese season gets under way it should be self-financing. Mr. S. J. Joss, well known Central and Eastern Ontario cheese man has been engaged as secretary-treasurer of the association. A representative is later to be sent to the United Kingdom.

A financial programme for the new association was presented by R. H. Mayberry, Ingersoll, who enumerated the costs of the programme to be undertaken. A levy of five cents per thousand pounds of milk (or ½ cent per 100 pounds) turned in at all cheese factories as a fund out of which to finance the county associations and the Provincial organization was decided upon. Other figures were submitted to show the deduction would average a little over $1.50 per annum per patron deducted in small amounts of a few cents from his milk cheque month by month. Twenty-five per cent. of these funds is retained for County Association purposes, and seventy-five per cent. levoted to the general promotional and sales effort.

Exporters to Co-operate

The Montreal Export Cheese Trade have announced their willingness to co-operate with the patrons to bring about any needed reform and to adopt a uniform set of rules and regulations for cheese board and cheese purchase operations. The trade recognizes that anything done to correct the situation is to their advantage.

At a recent conference in Montreal where was represented over 90 per cent. of the handlers of Canadian cheese exported the trade went on record as being willing and anxious to co-operate with the patrons in their move for reorganization of the marketing system in the cheese industry.

The aims of the new organization are outlined below :—

1. To re-organize the present cheese boards with a view to stimulating competition in cheese prices.

2. To develop and increase the domestic markets for cheese as the consumption of cheese in Canada is very low compared with some other countries—only 3½ lbs. per capita—while in Great Britain it is three times that.

3. To impress on the Dominion Government the necessity of establishing consumers' grades for cheese in Ontario. Nearly all other agricultural products are retailed on a graded basis and the cheese factory patrons feel they should receive some share of the better prices received for cheese sold on domestic markets.

4. To consider the advisability of the provincial association establishing selling agencies or other commercial organizations to undertake domestic cheese marketing.

5. To make every effort to establish greater confidence in the minds of cheese merchants in Great Britain respecting the fine quality of Ontario cheese, especially the cheese made in the late fall and winter months.

6. To consider the advisability of establishing central grading, weighing, and storage stations in different districts at suitable points with a view to having cheese graded and weighed before it is offered for sale, and sell the cheese on score instead of on grade.

7. It is contended that the cheese patrons' associations will be a powerful factor in improving production and in bringing about herd improvement and arranging for centrally located factories to operate the year round to manufacture the farmers' milk into whatever product is the most in demand.

8. To give the county associations assistance in transportation problems, purchasing supplies and reducing operating costs.

9. It will be a great advantage to the industry to maintain a commercial representative in the British market for the general purpose of promoting a better demand, at higher prices, for export cheese. Such a representative will keep the patrons and factories advised of market conditions and help in reducing the spread in price fluctuations.

County Representatives

When completely organized the Ontario Cheese Factory Patrons' Association will represent twenty counties where cheese-making is a most important branch of their farming operations.

Each county will have a representative on the Directorate of the Provincial Association.

The executive committee and the districts covered by each man are given as follows :—

S. H. Marjerison, Apple Hill, Ont., responsible for the district included in the Counties of Glengarry, Prescott and Russell.

A. McIntyre, Pinch, Ontario, responsible for the district included in the Counties of Stormont, Dundas, Grenville and Carleton.

G. VanVolkenburg, Hastings, Ontario, responsible for the districts included in the Counties of Peterborough, Northumberland and the north part of Hastings.

S. M. Nicolson, Belleville, Ontario, President of the Association and responsible for the district included in the Counties of Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, and South Hastings.

R. H. Malberry, Ingersoll, Ontario, responsible for the district including the Western Ontario Counties of Oxford, Middlesex, Perth and Elgin.

A Shaken Land

Those "dreaming spires" of Oxford are evidently a thing of the past; day after day they are now roughly shaken out of any slumbers they may have once enjoyed. Sir Michael Sadler has just explained that within the next two years we will be issued "the most alarming results of an interesting scientific inquiry into the effect of motor traffic in the High Street upon the ancient and beautiful buildings which line that thoroughfare." Without waiting for the issue of that report he added that a profound earthquake in the North Sea, which was strong enough to shake ornaments on mantelpieces in Oxford, left a mark on a seismograph chart that was a straight line in comparison with the "Alps and Andes" fluctuations achieved by the passage of heavy traffic down the main street.

Nor, of course, is Oxford the only place which so suffers; its case is of special importance only because it possesses so many "dreaming spires" and ancient memorials that can be made to rock on their previously firm foundations. We do not get instant and conspicuous earthquakes as known to Japan and the Pacific coast, but all day long (and night as well, if the road happens to be used by long-distance commercial traffic) many English townships and hamlets that were once buried in more or less undisturbed country, are now full of, if rather mild, unwanted, artificial earthquake is now well acclimatised in our midst. But let us look on the brighter side. Not even modern traffic has succeeded in bringing an artificial volcano into eruption.

A Train Hold-up

Everybody knows those jesting fables about the meandering "slow local" — or is it an old-time excursion train? — which pulls up so often and for so long that the passengers descend and pick flowers from the neighbouring meadows. It looked almost as if the legend had come to life when one read of a recent prosecution at Daresbury, near Warrington, England, of an engine driver and fireman who left their train and went and helped themselves to potatoes from a neighbouring field. And when a policeman gave chase they ran back to their engine and fled.

But it was not an excursion train that they deserted. It was a goods freight train which they had left standing in a siding while they went to gather the potatoes in that district were free from Colorado beetle and fit for eating purposes. They told the police they took the potatoes "to roast on the engine," but that Bench was unimpressed. The little sally from the siding cost each of the culprits $4.30—which is a big price to pay for potatoes, even though they are free from the Colorado beetle.

"Carpe Diem"

It must be admitted, of course, that no one ought to raid potato patches from a freight train or any other vehicle; it looks like carrying the smash-and-grab raid system from the town into the agricultural areas. Nor should locomotives of the Railway Company be turned into baked-potato cans; it is a little destructive of their true dignity and importance. It is impossible to avoid a touch of sympathy for the culprits. Theirs seems an exploit so unexpected and pastoral, so richly endowed with all the poetic associations which poets have built up round the idea of collecting garden produce while the going is good :

Gather 'taters while ye may;
The train will soon be flying,
And spuds you might have speared to-day
Neglected will be lying.

It is not robbery under arms but robbery under steam—but steam that has become leisurely and truly rural, "tasting of Flora and the country green." Certainly the practice must be discouraged. But when drivers and firemen can pull up their trains in order to cull potatoes ("Convey, the wise it call") to cook on the engine —well, we cannot all be victims of this modern mania for speed at any price.

STRANGE HOSPITAL FOR SICK PLANTS

At Australia's Federal Capital, Canberra, there exists a remarkable hospital for the treatment of sick plants. Complete with operating theatre, surgical and medical wards, isolation blocks, etc., it has been established to save the country hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, states an official of the Canadian National Steamships.

The "wards" are glass houses screened against summer sun and warmed against the winter frosts. In one, lie the incurably anaemic plants. At night, they need, the help of a huge electric lamp of many hundreds of candle power. Their wasted cells cannot absorb sufficient nourishment during the daylight hours.

Through the glass walls of the "ward" next door can be studied exactly the progress of disease upon the leaves and even roots of a number of infected plants in enormous tubes. Next door, again, are cereals growing in beds equipped with a complex system of warmth to adjust the ground temperature.

In the operating theatre, stems, buds and seeds are dissected to ascertain why fruit refuses to set, why it is small and deformed, or why crops are light. In the dietitian's department the effects of fertilizer are noted. In the bacteriological laboratories cultures are growing of the germs which attack plants. Even the consequences of late autumns, mild winters and early springs upon the yield of fields and orchards are the subject of continuous intensive study.

Darwin invented the theory of revolution.

Alphabetical Order

A claim to the invention of the menu, or bill of fare, is put forward by a Bavarian professor on behalf of the fifteenth-century Duke Henry of Brunswick, a sample of whose "List of dishes to be served," dated 1497, has been unearthed at Regensburg. But according to Montaigne one of the Roman emperors, if ignorant of the menu-card, anticipated it by devising an order for serving dishes which enabled him roughly to foretell what was coming, and so avoid the embarrassment of eating too much of one item and leaving no room for another he liked better.

"Cetia the Roman," says the essayist, "would have all his messes or dishes served in at his table orderly according to the first letters of their names: as, for example, all those that began with P, as pig, pie, pike, puddings, pancakes, etc., were all served together; and so of all the rest."

If he began with apples, apricots, and artichokes, and then worked steadily onwards, he must have been fed up in more senses than one by the time he reached the soup and the (elder salmon) which ordinarily begin our modern banquets.—Miscellany.

For loosening a dry, hard, bronchial cough, REXALL BRONCHIAL SYRUP is a splendid preparation. In large 50c bottles, AT WALLACE'S money refunded if not satisfactory.

Socrates was poisoned by an overdose of wedlock.

BEEF GOULASH

A Goulash of Beef has an added warmth given to it by the flavour of paprika. Cut about three pounds of lean beef, rump steak would do, into cubes of about an inch wide and fry them with half a pound of coarsely chopped onion in a quarter of a pound of lard till the onions are golden. Add a teaspoonful of salt, a pound of peeled and quartered tomatoes, a good teaspoonful of paprika, or even more and a teacupful of water. Cover and cook in the oven for an hour and a half. Now add another teacupful of water and a pound of smallish raw potatoes peeled and cut in quarters. Put into the oven again and cook, stirring now and then, for about 1 hour, or until the liquid has almost disappeared. Serve in the earthenware casserole in which it was cooked.

Beef Stew

Here is a simple method of stewing a steak. The steak should be about an inch and a half thick, and should be scored across lightly. Rub into the cuts some seasoning made as you wish; for instance, chopped onion and parsley, pepper, and salt and fry the steak on each side for about ten minutes. Now put it into a casserole with enough good gravy to cover it, close the dish and simmer in the oven for a couple of hours.

THE DEMAND FOR FOOD

"So I say again, let us not dream of talking at the present time of overproduction of food, and that the farmers of the world have come to the limit of what they can be called upon to supply. The demand for food, if people can be enabled to get the kind of food that they would like to eat, has practically only been scratched; it is almost infinite from our present point of view. Therefore, I may be bold and prophesy— not with the slightest hope of seeing the prophecy realized ultimately this year next year, or so on, but I am quite certain it will be ultimately realized —that the cure for agricultural depression is not restriction of production, but the starting up in the world at large of the wheels of trade and exchange."—Sir A. Daniel Hall at the World's Grain Conference.

CANADIAN PIONEER PROBLEMS

Towards the establishment of the science of settlement and development, the Canadian Pioneer Problems Committee is making some considerable progress. The old homestead policy and its near associates as practised by the land and development companies have been subjected to the scrutiny of the historian and the agricultural economist. A new land policy which will at least avoid the glaring errors of the old, can be evolved from the findings of the committee. Many of the traditional attitudes respecting land ownership and farm tenancy are undergoing change and the new agricultural boom when it comes, as come it will, may find people with a saner attitude on land prices, perhaps a saner attitude towards land ownership. The Committee, which has been at work for several years, has presented the necessary data for the beginning of a "Science of Settlement" in a concise form in nine volumes now going to press.—Professor R. W. Murchie.

EDIBLE PARTS OF LAMB

Lamb yields a number of edible parts which are inexpensive and can be cooked into delicious combinations as a change from the regular meal cuts. The following are suggestions by the Dominion Live Stock Branch for the use of these parts. Tongue. Jellied lamb tongue is delicious served cold. Cook at moderate temperature. Brains make an excellent omelet, and may also be scrambled, creamed and fried. Heart boiled or stewed. Cook at a moderate temperature. Liver, which is usually fried with bacon may be prepared in various ways. One recipe for what is known as Florentine tongue of lamb or mutton is as follows :— Slice five or more lamb or mutton tongues in a kettle, cover with boiling water, and simmer until tender. Take tongues from water and remove skins. Place in deep pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper, surround with one quart of spinach, peas or beans, cover with boiling water or stock, cover closely and bake until vegetables are tender. Serve on platter with thickened sauce.

A CHESTNUT SALAD

Salads are rather expensive at this time of the year, but chestnuts are plentiful and cheap, and a delicious salad may be made with them for a supper dish. The chestnuts should first be boiled or roasted according to taste, and arranged on a bed of fresh watercress. Pour a selected plain dressing over the chestnuts, such as one composed of oil and vinegar and sweetened to taste, and then garnish with quarters of grapefruit or orange and sprinkle with assorted chopped nuts.

BRUSHES

It does not take long to convert an ordinary cleaning brush into something good to look at. Once a brush is bought, all that is needed is a scrap of brocade, a piece of gold gimp or coloured braid, brass nails, and some glue. Cover the top of the brush with the brocade, stretched tightly and fastened round the sides with a few fine nails. Now glue on the gold braid round the side, and finish the end neatly by turning it in, and fastening it with a small brass nail.

These brushes make good presents, or are splendid "best sellers" for bazaars.

COLEBROOK

DEATH OF MRS. B. CURRAN

Colebrook, February 24 —A very sad death occurred in our village on Friday morning, February 16th, when Mrs. Bertha Curran passed away suddenly. Deceased had arisen and had finished dressing for the morning meal when the messenger came. She was sixty-eight years of age and was one of our most highly respected residents. She will be greatly missed both in social and church work. Deceased had not been in good health since the death of her husband, the late Hugh Curran, who pre-deceased her by about six years. Mr. and Mrs. Curran retired from farming several years ago, and purchased the F. S. Wartman residence here.

She is survived by one daughter, Jennie, at home; one son, Roy died about twenty-five years ago.

The funeral service was conducted at the home by her pastor, the Rev. Mr. McKenzie. The bearers were: Messrs. Hicks, Ball, E. D. Shantz, H. M. Woodruff, N. Boyce, E. J. Purcell, Alfred Galbraith.

DORLAND

Dorland, February 24. — The frequent snow storms and high winds keep the roads very heavy. Many places had to be shoveled out this morning. The mailman was unable to make the return trip.

The Ladies Aid meeting announced for last Wednesday, was postponed in hopes of more favourable weather and better roads.

The March meeting of the W. I. S. will be held at the home of Mrs. John Magee.

Those who were reported ill last week are convalescing, but Mrs. W. E. Buck and Miss Ethel Bruce are both suffering from heavy colds.

The farmers have another problem to solve. That is accommodation for their horses when in Napanee. Not all have cars and, owing to the severe weather and the condition of the roads those who own cars cannot drive them this winter. It is not always convenient to take feed from home and as shelter for the horses is necessary, farmers are compelled to take their business where they can get accommodation.

ERNESTTOWN

(For Last Week.) — The February meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Joel and Willie Kellar on February 21st.

We are all sorry to report Mrs. Alex. Hagerman ill, at time of writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Thompson, spent Thursday evening at Mr. J. Rogers.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. George Spring in her recent sad bereavement in the loss of her brother, Mr. William Closs, of Winnipeg.

The Institute meeting had to be postponed on account of weather conditions.

Mrs. Ed. Smith spent a few days with Mrs. F. Montgomery of Odessa.

Mr. Sterling Ross of Vancouver, B.C., visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. M. and J. Rogers.

Miss Mona Thompson and Mr. Henry VanDusen spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson.

We are sorry to report Mrs. Martin Wiseman on the sick list at time of writing. We hope to soon see her out again.

The euchre and dance on Tuesday evening was very well attended. Mrs. H. Kilgannon was the lucky person. Claude Thompson the gentlemen's prize and Miss E. Mills and Mr. A. Hare, the consolation prizes.

There will be a euchre and dance in the Institute rooms every Tuesday evening.

February 24. — The Aid meeting on Wednesday, at Mrs. Joel and Willie Kellar's, was well attended, considering the condition of the roads. The meeting opened with the president in charge. A few verses of scripture were read, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Owing to illness of Mrs. J. Chaplin, a pianist and a first vice-president had to be elected. Mrs. Chaplin having previously filled both positions. Mrs. Joel Kellar was nominated as first vice-president and Miss Mona Thompson as pianist. Mrs. Irwin Miller kindly offered her home for the March meeting. This being the month we always hold our apron contest. It was decided that the members donate anything they wish instead of the usual aprons. Lunch was served by the hostess and a good collection was taken.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, February 26.—We are enjoying bright, sunshiny weather, but the thermometer still hovers 30 below zero most of the time. No motor traffic has been through for a few days. The condition of the roads make it most inconvenient for the bakers and cream trucks. There was a very small attendance at the services on Sunday.

The township road work was finished on Saturday night of last week, for a while.

R. Saul called on Geo. Histed on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Histed is confined to his home.

Mrs. E. Goodwin of Toronto, returned to her home on Friday of last week, after spending a few days at the home of her father, James Skinner, who is ill, but is improving at time of writing.

Dr. Mounce, of Newburgh, was in the village on Friday and inoculated the school children for the third time, against scarlet fever. Several homes in the village are still quarantined.

Mrs. D. B. Amey and Mrs. P. E. Histed called on Mrs. Martha Switzer and Mrs. Peterson, on Friday of last week.

Mrs. John Tipson called on Mrs. R. Oster, recently.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their March meeting in the United Hall on Thursday, March 1st, at 2 o'clock. All ladies of the congregation are cordially invited to attend.

Persistent Asthma. A most distressing characteristic of this debilitating disease is the persistence with which recurring attacks come to sap away strength and leave the sufferer in a state of almost continual exhaustion. No wider precaution can be taken than that of keeping at hand a supply of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, famous as the most potent remedy for eradicating the disease from the tender air passages.

Mrs. H. Mott and son, Emerson, Mrs. A. Back of Bath, spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Kellar.

Mr. Morley O'Neil spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Norman Hamm.

Mrs. Ella Thompson and Miss Jessie Thompson visited recently at Mr. Arnold Baker's.

SELBY

Selby, February 26.— Weather — We have had all kinds of it during the past week. Just now we are forcibly reminded of the truth contained in the old proverb, "when the days begin to lengthen the cold begins to strengthen."

In a letter received last week from Mr. C. W. Lunan of Oakland, Calif., he reports that business is improving. When driving through the country he noticed that the grain was coming up nicely and the fruit trees are all in blossom. In conclusion, he said: "How I should like to step in and see you all." We are confident that in the event of his coming, Mr. Lunan would be accorded a hearty welcome from his many friends, but let us hope that, for his sake, it will be in the summer time.

A much enjoyed carnival was held on the ice on Mr. Henry Sexsmith's flats, last Wednesday evening, to which skaters came from all quarters. A platform and ship-lo lock the village people, and sleighs and cutters came along from every direction. A good supper had also been used their skates for a number of years, put them on for the occasion and acquitted themselves nobly. The management had cleared a good area and had, also, made a circular rink from the centre for those who wanted distance and scope. An improvised band had been arranged to accommodated the weary, while stove and bonfires gave warmth to the chilled. Tall flares made a splendid light for skating and with red flames, shadows, and moving figures, it made an attractive picture. Indeed, Cupid at the end of the evening, the various competition events were run off and a number of prizes were awarded. A few of the recipients are as follows: Costume, Mr. Albert Bensmith; couple, Miss Ines McKnight and Carman Dudgins; Lady, Miss Vera McKnight; Gentleman, Dr. Smith. The younger people, especially the children, enjoyed a wonderful time and it was noted that Pern Faulds and Burton Hudgins were the youngest couple on skates. Before leaving the ice the management called for a line-up and served sacks of popcorn and candy to the hungry multitude.

The shareholders and management desire to express their appreciation of the generous patronage of the whole section, who supported them in their efforts and the people say: "it was a good carnival, let's have another."

The hockey match between Selby and Moscow, which was arranged for Saturday afternoon, was postponed to a later date.

We were sorry to hear of Mrs. F. Smith's misfortune in breaking her wrist.

Mrs. George Robinson and Frances spent Wednesday evening with Mrs. W. L. McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denison spent a couple of days, last week, in Switzerville, the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Craig.

Mr. O. Seales is preparing to move in his new home in Five Corners.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Windover spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. D. Wess.

Owing to the severe weather the meeting of the Y. P. S. was withdrawn, last Friday evening. The committee in charge of the program have arranged that the debate will be held Friday evening, March 2nd. Come out in good numbers and enjoy a profitable evening.

Prayer service will be held in the Sunday School Hall Tuesday evening when the pastor will be in charge. Dr. Smith delivered a splendid sermon Sunday evening, on "Penitence and Humility."

Everybody in the first Sunday in March, the hour of service shall be 7:30. Next Sunday evening, the sacrament will be observed and Dr. Smith's subject will be "Reverence."

Mrs. Dorland McCutcheon returned from the hospital on Sunday afternoon. We are pleased to hear she has made satisfactory progress from her recent operation.

Mrs. Henry Martin has slightly improved. The nurse is still in attendance.

The committee was shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. Cooke, wife of the Rev. E. B. Cooke, a former pastor of the circuit.

MILLHAVEN

Millhaven, February 21.—The roads in this vicinity have been blocked for a few days, owing to the recent snow storms and winds. Shovels have been busy and trying to make the roads passable for cars.

A number of persons from this district gathered together, Tuesday evening and enjoyed a pleasant sleigh ride to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker, Ernestown, where a very enjoyable evening was spent in playing cards and dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Amey are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Amey.

Rev. and Mrs. Kingston, visited recently with his sister, Mrs. Cecil Wemp and Mr. Wemp.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickson visited at Edward Baker's.

Misses Helen and Roma Locking, Ernestown, have been spending a few days with Kathleen Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Babcock, Bath, visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sams.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, February 26.—The Busy Workers' Mission Band held a very successful progressive cookinole party in the R. E. Building, on Saturday night. This was to have been a driving party, but owing to the bad roads, driving was impossible, therefore a large number of the children and young people enjoyed the evening inside.

Owing to the bad condition of the roads, Rev. E. B. Cooke was unable to make his usual trip to Marlbank on Sunday.

Mr. Rutland, Public School Inspector, visited the village, last week, and it is understood that he is leaving shortly for a visit to the West Indies.

Owing to the severe snowstorm, last week, the Tamworth-Kingston bus has not been able to make a trip, all week.

BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, February 26.—North Fredericksburgh has experienced some cold winters and bad storms, but none worse than the one of Friday and Saturday of last week. A strong north west wind blew and the snow into such hard drifts that it was most difficult to dig a way out of it. Roads were blocked for several days, and in some places the only road available is through the fields. Shoulders and shovels have been much in use especially in assisting motorists to get their cars through the drifts. This winter of 1933-1934 is making a record for itself, which will be very hard to beat.

The mailman, Mr. Frank Herndon has had a real struggle to get the mail around. He even delivered mail on Sunday in order to keep it from piling up too far. These are difficult times for mail drivers and often we forget to appreciate the special efforts made to get mail delivered in these wintry days.

Owing to storm and condition of the roads, no preaching services were held on this circuit on Sunday. The intense cold made it nearly impossible to heat church buildings.

One of the real problems of the farmers in these days is the lack of feed. And stock seem to eat more straw and hay in cold weather. Many farmers are forced to buy feed and the price is nearly prohibitive. Lots of snow is a sure sign of good crops next year. So carry on, there are better times ahead.

Those suffering from the epidemic of mumps at time of writing are slowly improving. It is a very painful disease but not serious.

Mrs. Herbert Mallow received word on Saturday, that her mother, Mrs. Fred Sine, is ill at Cambellford, for Camborne, to be with her mother.

It is expected that the Gretna Ladies Aid weather the storm and hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. William Hambly on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. All ladies invited.

Your correspondent was just thinking how difficult it would be to get a doctor out on the circuit, when Dr. Dafoe arrived at the sweet cheer changes.

Mr. W. T. Huff, who was in Bradford, Penn., last week attending the funeral of his sister, returned home on Friday.

The Bethany Ladies' Aid have decided to postpone their "Hard Time Social," until a later date. Their regular monthly meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Hartley on Wednesday afternoon, March 7th, at 2:30 p.m. The president is anxious that all ladies will attend.

Mr. W. E. Nolan's condition is somewhat improved though it will be some time before he will be able to undertake heavy work again. Your correspondent joins with others in hoping that his recovery may be speedy and permanent.

Thursday evening, February 22nd, will be a date long to remember by those who attended the Hay Bay Ladies' Aid regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Huyck. In spite of the weather, the attendance was good. The programme was a very helpful one. The lunch was much enjoyed by every member present. Future plans were readily arranged, such as the finishing of the autograph quilt, and the holding of the next meeting in the evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Parks. That which made the evening memorable to some was the effort to get home. With the aid of shovels and team and muscular power the cars managed to get through the drifts which would pile up as fast as they were dug out. Some would readily say "we didn't get home until morning." But it was all in a lifetime and will be forgotten when the sun shines on the Bay next July.

Mr. and Mrs. John Funnell are beginning to move to their new home this week. Mr. Funnell has rented the Metzler Farm, at Bahd Hill.

The condition of Mr. E. O. McCabe continues unchanged. He has been confined for a long time.

Unless another severe storm strikes the neighborhood, Sand Hill Ladies' Aid are planning to hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Huffman on Wednesday evening, February 28th, at 7:00 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baird are moving this week to their new home about one mile southeast of Morven Brick Church. Their many friends wish them success and happiness in their new home.

The Anderson Young People's Union held their semi-monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baird, on Tuesday evening last. In spite of the weather and roads, there was a fair attendance. In the absence of the president, Mr. Rockwell Parks took charge and a very helpful programme was given. Games followed, which were enjoyed by all. Later on in the evening, lunch was served and a vote of thanks were extended to the members of the household for their entertainment.

Word was received, this week, of the illness of Mr. Sidney Parks of Odessa. Mr. Parks' many friends at Anderson will be sorry to hear of his illness, and hope for his speedy recovery.

Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Beckel spent a day this week with friends in Napanee.

Services will be held on the Bay Circuit, this Sunday, March 4th, at Hay Bay at 11:00 a.m., at Bethany, at 2:30 p.m., and at Anderson, at 7:30 p.m. Hitch old dobbin to the sleigh and come along!

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

Mr. R. F. Bell has returned home after having spent a few days at Dresden, attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, the late Mr. W. Stinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Wilson and daughter, Dorothy, of Enterprise, were Sunday visitors at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hymer's.

Members of the Young People's Society are very busy rehearsing a play "My Gypsy Rose," which they will produce in the near future. Everyone will do well to reserve Saturday, March 17th for this entertainment.

YARKER

Yarker, Feb. 26. — Blocked roads again. The school bus, driven by Clarence Kennedy, was unable to return from Napanee last Friday night and is there yet. The school pupils were taken on the train which arrived at 11:30, about three hours late. Arrangements have been made to have the Frontenac plough come over to plough the road from Yarker to Napanee. And had it not been for the bad storm, the plough would have been through on Saturday, but now that there is so much more work to be done in Frontenac, we do not know just when the plough will be here. We are hoping it will soon get here as the high school pupils who depend on the bus to take them to Newburgh and Napanee, will lose time until the road is opened.

We regret to report that Miss Alice Porter was taken to the hospital on Friday night. Dr. Whytock took her in and experienced much difficulty in getting there that he would not undertake to come back at night and remained in Kingston until the following day. Miss Porter's case is not considered serious, for which we are thankful.

The patients who have been confined to their homes for some time are much improved and will soon be up and around again. Little Joyce Amey is pneumonia case, is in a fair way to recovery.

Whytock was called out last night, to a home near Harrowsmith.

Dr. Oldham was called to see Mr. Ann Huffman one day last week.

Mr. Donald Huffman, wife and family, are home from Island Falls in Northern Ontario, visiting the parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Huffman, of Huffman Street. They intend remaining this week.

Many of the children have been inoculated for Scarlet Fever, which it is feared, might come this way. We trust the inoculation will prevent any serious outbreak.

Talk about long sermons! The preacher in the United Church last Sunday night, held forth until 12:20 o'clock, by the church clock. Tha must not occur again.

Everybody try to keep well until the

Mrs. James B. Miller, Napanee, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller.

Mrs. Harry Stone underwent an operation in Kingston Hospital, on Monday.

The Y. P. S. will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Craig on Friday evening. Programme in charge of Miss Stella Craig.

WORK IS EASIER NOW FAT HAS GONE

"I was so stout about 11 months ago," a woman writes, "that I became a burden to myself. This muscular inconvenience into my joints, and I had to go on sticks for some time. Then I started to take Kruschen Salts, and I am overjoyed with the results I have derived from them. Honestly, I had no idea one could feel so different in such a short time. Since taking Kruschen, I have lost nearly 28 lbs. of superfluous fat. I can now run about as well as when I was 20, cook, work, and attend to seven growing children."—(Mrs.) G. H.

Unlike certain drastic drugs, Kruschen does not aim to reduce by rushing food through the body; its action is not confined in a single part of the system. It has a tonic influence upon every organ of elimination, every gland, every nerve, every vein. Gently, but surely, it rids the system of all fat-forming refuse, and of those other harmful acids which give rise to rheumatism, digestive disorders, and many other ills.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. Get a bottle from your chemist at once and follow the directions. Then if you do not say it is easy for you to prove our claims for yourself, return the empty bottle to us and we will refund your money. (Signed) E. Griffiths Hughes, Ltd., Manchester, Eng. (Sgd.) E. ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, February 26.—On Monday afternoon, death claimed an old and much respected citizen of this locality in the person of Truman Jackson, who passed away suddenly with heart failure, following a slight stroke of apoplexy. Deceased who was in his eighty-ninth year, had lived in this vicinity all his life, being born on the farm just across the road from where he had lived since his early married life. He was a United Empire Loyalist descendant, his father being one of the first to settle near this village. In his early life Mr. Jackson was several of his brothers, was in the lumbering business for several years and following this, took up farming and became one of the most prosperous farmers in this vicinity. His early life being connected with the early pioneers, made him a most interesting conversationalist. His funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, when, following a short service at his late home, the remains were taken to the Enterprise United Church, where the pastor, Rev. D. M. Stinson, officiated. The large number of relatives and friends which attended the service, showed the esteem in which the deceased had been held. Interment was placed in the United Church vault, to be interred in the spring. Four children survive, Elmore on the farm at Bonne, Mrs. Andrew Craig, Mrs. W. S. Lockwood and Mrs. D. B. Wagar, all of Enterprise. Seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, also survive.

On Monday morning of last week our local undertaker, S. D. Wagar, was called to Croydon to take charge of the remains of John Mellon, an aged resident of that locality who had passed away. Owing to the terrible condition of the roads it took four hours to make the trip to and from Croydon, a distance of about six miles.

Work in the gravel pit west of the village, which for the past few weeks has been in operation as a relief measure for the unemployed, was brought to a close at the week end, pending the decision of the next meeting of the Township Council on Monday, March 4th.

The snowfalls and heavy winds of the past week have put the roads in such a condition that motor traffic is at a standstill. The Tamworth Kingston bus has not been able to make its regular trips during the past week, at all.

Mrs. Byron Cronk has been a sufferer for the past week with a severe attack of Grippe.

Chelsea Lell spent the last week end in Toronto, where he attended a Good Roads Convention.

George Nelson who, for some time, has been seriously ill, is now able to be out again.

Mrs. W. J. Mellow has returned to her home here following an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. D. Moore, Belleville-Trenton Road.

Mrs. Arthur Switzer of Desmond, has been visiting friends in the village for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGregor, on Friday, February 23rd, each celebrated a birthday. Their many friends wish them many more anniversaries.

The road conditions are the cause for worry as far as Dr. Horton is concerned. He is now making his trips by snow-mobile, in charge of our local garageman, E. R. Wilson.

HAWLEY

Hawley, February 23. — A most successful Ladies' Aid and W. M. S. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ackerman, in spite of the severe weather. The Aid decided to hold an afternoon tea in March and Mrs. Storey thoughtfully offered her home for the event. Rev. Mr. Smart will take charge of the service. Mrs. Wood will take the review of a chapter in the study book. The roll call will be answered with a scripture verse relating to prayer.

Mrs Mary McMullen, Switzerville, spent the week end visiting a day with her sister, Mrs. Storey.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Pretts spent Sunday evening visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sills, Greins.

Mr. Ed. O'Connor was recently operated on in Hotel Dieu, Kingston. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Miss C. Galt spent the week end at her home in Deseronto.

Public School Inspector Reid spent a day at our school recently.

Relief Expenditure For Month February Less than Last Year

Sixty Families Require Assistance

The Welfare Committee of the Town of Napanee met in the Council Chamber at the Town Hall, on Friday afternoon, to pass accounts and investigate complaints and new applications.

Total payments for the month of February amounted to $1,045.71, which is just 50% of $2091.00, the sum expended last year for the same month. The expenditures for 1934 include the following items: Food kitchen $82.34; rents $72.60; carters $98.50, doctors $97.50, fuel $296.50, food $498.38. In Feb., 1933, the cost of the food kitchen was $69.09, and 726 meals were served, whereas this year, 630 meals were given at a cost of $82.23. The cost per meal in 1933 was 9.5 cents and this year 12.8 cents.

Chief Edwin Watts has been administering the relief during this winter but for the month of March, Walter S. Exley, chairman of the Welfare Committee for the Napanee Town Council, will have charge of the issuing of relief. He will be in the council chamber, each day, from ten to twelve a.m., and from two to four p.m.

There were, in February this year, 60 heads of families, with a total number of persons on relief, of 239. Last year there were 80 families, with a total membership of 340 families requiring aid.

A large part of the difference in the relief expenditure in the two years, is accounted for by the fact that in 1933 the sister city was being operated as a relief measure. About 70 men were employed at weekly allowances varying from $5 for single men to $6 to $9 for married men, according to the number in their families. The allowances were not paid in cash, but in orders for food, rent, fuel, and other necessities.

Returns by Governments

The return by the Federal and Provincial Governments of 20% of the funds of the amount spent for relief in the municipality, and 50% of all matters chargeable for food. When the percentage for food falls below the required figure, the return by the Government is cut, in proportion.

League Calls Parley of Nations on Sugar

Would Raise Prices and Limit Production

Geneva.—The League of Nations has invited the United States, Great Britain and Russia to a conference in the Chadbourne plan to meet at London on March 5 for a conference to raise the price of sugar and limit production, it is learned here. The conference, following the wheat negotiations held by the League with the World Economic Conference plan of circumventing economic nationalism by means of inter-governmental agreements regarding "key" commodities.

Acceptances of the League's invitation have not yet been received, but American participation is expected, since President Roosevelt, league quarters indicate, was represented in preliminary discussions by Prentiss Gilbert of the American consular staff here, and reserved the right to fix sugar quotas for the Philippines, Hawaii and Cuba, as a condition of America's entering an international sugar conference.

Recent steps by the United States and Great Britain to solve their internal sugar problems are regarded here as having been taken in anticipation of the London meeting.

Give $500,000 More To Cause of Education

The famous Mayo brothers have given a fortune to medical science because they believe that riches in private hands often spell ruin for coming generations.

Drs. William J. and Charles H. Mayo, surgeons, gave $500,000, recently to the University of Minnesota. They said the money will help the sick "and we believe it ought to return to the sick."

"How many families," they added, "have we seen ruined by money which has taken away from the younger members the desire to labor and achieve and has introduced elements into their lives whereby, instead of being useful citizens, they have become wasteful and sometimes profligate."

Rotary Club Sponsor Crippled Children Clinic

Dr. C. Stewart Wright, an orthopedic surgeon of Toronto, conducted a clinic for crippled children, at the Napanee Town Hall, on Friday, as previously arranged.

Dr. Wright was brought to Napanee by the Crippled Children's Committee of the Rotary Club. He dealt with six cases for the Rotary Club and two private cases. Arrangements had been made for several other children to come in for examination, but on account of the almost impassable condition of some of the country roads, they were unable to attend. Another clinic will be held in the town early in June.

Members of the Rotary Club cases, were those which had been given previous care. In all cases there was marked improvement in condition and some were discharged as completely cured.

Remarkable Cure Effected

The crippled boy for whom the Wonderisand benefit was arranged New Year's Day has made splendid progress. A new cast was placed on his hips and he is in a fair way to being permanently cured.

One little girl who has been under the care of the Rotary for three years, was made happy by having an iron brace removed, which she has been wearing for a year. She had been suffering from a bone infection from the ankle to the hip and in the three years had undergone thirteen operations. The day of the clinic the doctor pronounced her case absolutely cured and she was able to leave off her iron brace and walk away under her own strength, with only a slight limp, which will likely disappear. For some months she has also been able to attend school and stood at the head of her class in recent examinations.

Argyll Lodge No. 212, I.O.O.F. Social Evening

The members of Argyll Lodge, No. 212 I. O. O. F. again proved themselves to be splendid hosts at their social evening on Wednesday, February 28th. More than 125 members and their friends were present and thirty tables of euchre were in play during the evening.

Mr. C. N. Loucks was chairman of the committee in charge of the entertainment and Mr. Cecil Joyce was secretary. Mr. Earl Deline was convener of the card committee and Mrs. Reynolds, was convener of refreshments.

The prize for ladies' high score went to Mrs. Auhmire Pybus, and gentlemen's high score to Ray Reynolds and the door prize was awarded to Mrs. Ralph Sexsmith.

After refreshments were served, music for dancing was provided. Novelty prizes for single couples went to Betty Webster and Jack Sooks, and for married couples, to James Douglas and Mrs. Reginald Douglas.

Later in the season, the Lodge expects to put on another social evening.

Silk Factory Advises Napanee Town Council Have Decided Location

Routine Business Dealt with at Regular Session

At the regular session of the Town Council on Monday evening all the members were present and Mayor Tustin was in the chair.

The Clerk read a communication from the Federal Minister of Public Works, concerning the resolution which had been forwarded to him from the Council about the dredging of the Napanee River. The minister said the matter was being given consideration, but he was unable to say if the project could be included in the program of works this year.

A letter was received from Louis Vanvolkenburg, advising that he intended to hold the town responsible for damage done his basement and contents from water backing up from the streets. On motion of Reeve Hughson and Councillor Topping, the matter was referred to the Streets Committee to investigate and report.

Finance Committee Report

Deputy Reeve Wilson, reporting for the Finance department from January 1st to March 1st, showed that taxes received amounted to $3,151.00 ; prepaid taxes for 1934 $5,590.00. Amount spent for Social Welfare $2,617.00 ; for Streets, $775.

A motion was passed by which a voucher was given the Treasurer for expenditure made by him since the last Council meeting.

Deputy Reeve Wilson reported receiving information that in 1932 there had been $974.00 charged to the town for indigent patients in the Kingston General Hospital. Of this amount $117.00 had been paid. Later in the meeting the matter was discussed, and on motion of Councillors Luffman and Cowling it was left in the hands of the Finance Committee to investigate.

Councillor Morden, chairman of Streets, reported that expenditures for week ending February 16, were $1,289 and for week ending March 2, $14.80.

Councillor Luffman moved a motion, which was seconded by Councillor Exley, that Mr. Fred Knapp be appointed custodian of the Band property, and that the Band be appointed to his own leader. Motion carried.

Reeve Hughson, chairman of Market and Police, reported that 251 licenses had been issued by the Town Hall, in February. The Chief of Police had 3 court cases, had 25 complaints and had found the Brine had been left unfastened and that $15 in fines and fees had been collected. The Royal Welfare Fund were given by the chairman complete report in another column.

Councillor Exley said that his committee had inspected the old gas house building and another building at the station, with the idea of using one of them to store wood for relief purposes, but found neither fit to be used.

Silk Factory Already Located

Councillor Morden reported that the Soble Silk Shops, in Montreal, had been communicated with concerning available buildings for their factory in Napanee. In reply, the company stated the town that they had already selected a location in the province of Quebec.

Deputy Reeve Wilson and Councillor Luffman moved a motion which was later carried, that the Napanee Public Library Board be the usual grant of $700 and that the money be paid at once, as the Library needed the funds at this time.

Reeve Hughson reported for the deputation appointed to interview railway officials (report printed in another column). He advised the Council, in addition, that he had learned a train was to be run from Napanee at 4:10 p.m., to connect with the fast train leaving Toronto at 5:00 from the east and west, and that a good service was assured.

A motion was made by Reeve Hughson and Councillor Topping, that Councillor Morden and Exley be appointed to the Industrial Committee for the year 1934. Motion carried.

A motion was moved by Reeve Hughson, seconded by Councillor Luffman, and carried, that the Clerk be instructed to write the local member of the legislature and the minister of northern development, to urge that the road from Napanee to Kaladar be improved to serve as a link with No. 7 Highway.

Passing of Accounts

Some of the accounts presented for payment occasioned considerable discussion.

An account for $4.00 from Dr. Tindall, of Flinton, for services rendered Wilbur Vanvolkenburg, was sent from Napanee to one of the relief road camps in the north, was referred to the Finance Committee to investigate and report. Doubt was expressed by the members of the Council as to the claim being a resident of the town.

As a result of the discussion of the above matter, a motion moved by Councillor Luffman and Reeve Hughson, was passed, advising the chief of police to see that transients were not allowed to linger unnecessarily in the town.

An account for $70.00 for 35 years snow shovelling at $2.00 per year, was presented by B. S. Vanalstine, of Clarksville. The matter was referred to the Streets Committee to investigate and report.

Accounts for $418.00 each were presented by Mayor Tustin, and Reeve Hughson, for expenses to Montreal, in connection with their interview with the railway officials. Councillor Morden moved the accounts be paid, but, as there was no seconder, the motion was not put. Deputy Reeve Wilson said he had supported the motion at the last meeting of Council, naming the members of the Council to act as a deputation in the matter, on the understanding that each member was to pay his own expense. He could not now support payment of their expenses by the Council.

A few other small accounts were passed and Council adjourned.

Relief Camp Worker Killed Instantly At Denbigh

On Friday, Provincial Constable F. W. Barrett and Coroner Dr. D. R. Hall were called to Denbigh to investigate the sudden death of one of the camp workers in Relief Camp 4-C, situated four miles northeast of Denbigh.

Alfred Wilkinson, aged 34 years, of 38 Third Street, New Toronto, was killed instantly by a blast of dynamite. Wilkinson was assistant to the powder man. About 11:45, he lit a fuse connected with a charge and for some unknown reason returned to the fuse, apparently to see if it was burning. As he approached the fuse, the blast was set off and he was killed instantly.

The Coroner and Constable Barrett conducted an investigation on arrival at the camp and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The Department of Northern Development took charge of the body and arranged for the funeral and burial, which took place at Denbigh.

Wilkinson was a former Dr. Barnardo Home boy and was a veteran of the Great War. He was unmarried and had no known relatives in Canada.

Napanee Boys Lose In Queen's

The Napanee Collegiate Basketball team met the Queen's Junior team in Kingston on Friday night in the second game of the finals for the Eastern Ontario championship. Queen's won the game with a score of 50 to 21, and also won the championship, which was decided on points in home and home games, with a total score of 79 to Napanee's 43.

During the first half of the game the play was fast, with both teams seemingly unable to score, until Queen's play started to click and they began to run up a score, despite the one-sided score, of 27-9 in the first half the game was interesting to watch.

From the beginning of the second half Queen's continued to score, but Napanee began to find Queen's baskets and pushed up their score total. Play throughout was rough, with both Queen's, Simmons and Thomson were the stars. Napanee's team all put up a good game, with Mercer, Bowen and Callaghan scoring the most points.

Queen's is undoubtedly a more experienced team, used to playing in a larger arena, and, although Napanee went down to defeat, they have done well in the series and will profit by their experience.

Players for Queen's were : Young and Simmons, forwards ; Bews, centre; Stephens and Gurnsman, defence ; with Carmichael, Crawford, Ward and Thomson as subs.

The Napanee team was made up of : Cowle and Cooke, forwards ; Howitt, centre ; Callaghan and Garrett, defence ; and McCracken, Coons and White as subs.

C.N.R. Revenue Shows Increase for January

Montreal, Feb. 27.—Gross operating revenues of the all-inclusive Canadian National Railways System for the month of January, 1934, were $11,962,577, an increase of $1,838,968 over the gross revenues for January, 1933, it is shown in the monthly report of revenues and expenses, for the National System, issued on February 27th. Due to weather and other uncontrollable factors, operating expenses for the month, which totalled $12,371,543 showed an increase of $740,530 over those of January, last year. In January, this year, the System had a net revenue deficit of $408,966, which was, however, a betterment of $1,098,457 as compared with January 1933, when there was a net operating revenue deficit of $1,507,423.

The judges will be Prof. Squirrell and W. J. W. Lennox.

Employment Gains 3.1 P.C. In January

Nearly 26,000 Added to Staffs of 8,463 Firms Reporting

Ottawa. Decided recovery from seasonal unemployment losses is reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. On February 1, the largest employment gain on that date since 1921 was noted. The increase in staffs of the 8,463 firms reported for the five quarters for January 1, was 25,945 or 3.1 per cent. The reported staffs aggregated 846,843 persons.

The improvement on the last date was substantially more than seasonal and the bureau reports, it compared favorably with declines recorded at the beginning of February in 1931, 1932 and 1933. The index based on the 1926 average as 100, stood at 91.4 on February 1, 1934, compared with 88.6 on Jan. 1 and 77.0 at the first of February, last year.

60th Anniversary of Marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Windover

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Windover, South Napanee, was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday evening, March 2nd. The occasion was the celebration of the 60th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Windover, both of whom passed their 80th birthday in the fall of 1933.

During the evening members of the family, the son and two daughters and their children gathered together to bring felicitations to the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Windover were married on March 3rd, 1874 at the Methodist Church parsonage at Forest Mills, by the late Rev. Thos. Clarke, minister of the Roblin Circuit. Mrs. Windover was Charlotte Pennell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fennell, whose home was in Richmond Township, near Kingsford. Her grandfather came from England and settled on a farm, part of which is now Riverside Cemetery, at Napanee. She was one of eleven children, all of whom have passed away, except Mrs. Windover.

Mr. Windover is the son of the late Chancey Windover, who was born at sea, when his father and mother were making the voyage from Holland to Canada. They settled in Napanee, on the farm for which the family held a crown deed for three generations. Mr. Windover was also one of a family of eleven children, of whom only he and one sister survive.

An interesting fact in conenction with the Pennell and Windover families is, that three of the Pennell sisters married three of the Windover brothers.

Farmed for 40 Years

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Windover took up farming, on part of the farm Mr. Windover had increased their holdings until they had acquired a farm of 375 acres. They continued to farm it for forty years and came to Napanee to retire twenty years ago. Mr. Windover still owns seventy-five acres of the farm, which he uses as pasture land. In addition to running his farm, Mr. Windover was, for some time, a foreman on the Canadian Pacific Railway, when it was being built through Roblin. He was, at various times, a road and bridge contractor. Since coming to Napanee, for some years he was engaged as a carpenter.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Windover have been life-time members of the former Methodist Church and the United Church. Mr. Windover is a member of the official board of the church at Selby and of Grace Church, Napanee since he was seventeen years of age.

Their family is all living. There are ten sons, living here and in Selby, Percy in Alberta, Mrs. James Booth at Selby and Mrs. Gaspar in Napanee. They have also, eighteen grand-children and fourteen great-grandchildren.

School Boys' Band Sponsor Fine Concert

Benefit for the Rotary Crippled Children's Fund

The concert sponsored by the Boys' Band of the Napanee Collegiate Institute, held on Wednesday evening in the school auditorium, in aid of the Rotary Crippled Children's Fund, was an interesting musical event.

Quite a number of people were in attendance and many others who were unable to be present, showed their interest in the cause by buying tickets.

In the absence of Mayor George J. Tustin, chairman of the Rotary Club, Mr. Wilfred S. Wilson, assumed the duties of chairman.

The Boys' Band opened the programme by playing "O Canada." followed by the march "On Parade." A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. M. A. Eppiett, and Mrs. F. Cameron Wilson played a violin number. Mrs. Mackinnon was accompanist for Mrs. Eppiett and Mrs. Wilson for Mrs. Cameron.

During the intermission, Mr. Wilson, the chairman, addressed the audience on the work among crippled children, carried on by the Rotary Club. He said the work was started seven years ago, as the major welfare activity of the club. A large sum of money is required, each year, and during the years of depression, the demands have been even greater. He thanked the audience for the splendid support given the various appeals by the club, for assistance.

Fine Season's Sport Just Concluded by Boys' Welfare League

Closing Games Keenly Contested on Friday Evening

On Friday night last, the boys of the town wound-up their hockey schedules. The season has been the most successful which the boys clubs have so far experienced. The continued cold weather enabled them to get all their games played on time, and the capable officers, Douglas Howe, president and Robert Paul, secretary, gave the leadership necessary to sustain the interest through the year.

There have been thirteen teams in the Boys' League during the winter, and the ages ranged all the way from seven to seventeen years. The smaller boys played their scheduled games on a Saturday morning and the older boys played in the afternoon, after school. In all, over a hundred boys took part in the sport.

The idea of organized the boys for sport originated with Chief Watts, himself a player who, along with the Cook brothers and other well-known professional and amateur players, received their training in hockey as boys in Kingston. After a year's experiment in Napanee., the Welfare League of the Rotary Club, of which W. J. Wiggins is chairman, took hold of the organization, and for several years has spent time and money to make it successful.

During the summer the boys are organized for softball and in the winter, for hockey. The aim of the sponsors is to keep the boys off the streets and to teach them true sportsmanship. In this, they have been so successful that juvenile delinquency is practically unknown in Napanee.

Improvement Shown by Teams

Contests were close in each section of the hockey league. The senior cup was won by a team entered by Anthony Cook, as captain. This team consisted of: L. Louie, D. Holmes, R. Evans, H. Seary, J. Simmons, Bob Barnard, Vic. Barnard, Vick. These boys showed splendid improvement in the latter part of the season and the team is perhaps the strongest which ever played in the league.

In the intermediate section, the team captained by Byron Perry won the cup. Members of the team were: R. Seary, E. Green, R. Richmond, A. Wartman, M. VanLuven, J. Holmes, G. Coons, E. Graham, C. Russell. Several players in this section showed remarkable improvement and will be promising players in senior ranks, next year.

No section showed more satisfactory results than the junior team which was won by Kenneth Johnston's team. The players on this team were: J. McKee, R. Mack, G. Babcock, B. Cronin, H. O'Connor, D. McCracken, A. Loucks, C. Baldwin, B. Buchanan, J. Manser, and D. Blakely, A. Babcock, J. Huston, B. Thompson, G. Pearson, C. Jackson, R. Vanvolkenburg, A. Coons, Kimmerly, Johnston's team won in a score of 4-0.

The intermediate game was particularly interesting as it produced the deciding game for the winter's cup in this division. Byron Perry's team, consisting of L. Gray, E. Gray, R. Richmond, J. Holmes, M. VanLuven, J. Holmes, G. Coons, Graham and Russell, defeated Miles Vine's team, composed of H. Vine, B. Waitson, R. Thompson, H. McFarland, R. Norris, R. Robertson, S. Sedore, L. Markle, in a score of 3-0 and will hold the cup for the next year.

Despite the slower ice for the senior game, the boys gave a display of fast hockey. Anthmire Curry's team of the following boys, L. Lousie, R. Paul, D. Davidson, J. Clubine, F. Barrett, A. Leary, J. Simmons.

Business Men's Dinner To be Held On Thursday

The Business Men's dinner called for last Friday, had to be postponed on account of the illness of the speaker. It has been arranged that the dinner will be held on Thursday night of this week, in the Paisley House, at 6:00 o'clock.

The speaker will be Owen Herity, secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. All the business and professional men interested in the business life of the town are invited to attend.

Tickets will be 50c for the dinner.

The first number on the second part of the programme was a group of selections by the Junior Boys' Band. The personell of the Junior Band is mostly younger boys, who are just learning to play. They played well their numbers, evidence of splendid training and musical ability.

Stanley Roney and Frank Armitage played cornet duets, "An Old-Fashioned Spinning Wheel," and "Easter Parade," accompanied by Miss Doris Knapp at the piano. A very pleasing number was the singing by the N. C. I. Girls' Chorus, who rendered "Sylvia" and "Sweet Genevieve." The concluding musical numberwas a selection by the Boys' Band.

Before the singing of God Save the King, Mr. Jamieson, the principal of the school, spoke briefly. He commended Mr. Eppiett, the leader of the band and also the members of the band, for their interest and achievements. He said he would like if possible, to have interscholastic competitions in music, as well as in sports.

Intermediate Schools May be Introduced By Boards

Boards of Education are permitted to establish "intermediate" schools under legislation introduced at Queen's Park yesterday by Premier George S. Henry. The new institutions are intended to round off the education of pupils not destined for a professional career, nor for a university education. It is expected that in the larger municipalities of the Province will avail themselves of the enabling legislation. County pupils would be admitted on the same basis as to high schools.

The student who attends the intermediate school will leave public school without trying high school entrance examinations, and his tuition subsequently will be along the lines of the first two years' work in the present high schools.

This legislation was the most important Item in a list of School Act amendments which Mr. Henry presented for Parliament's consideration. Other clauses provided : That a School Board may prevent enrolment of junior pupils at any period other than the beginning of the school year ; discontinuance of lower school courses in a high school in the case of agreement by public and separate school boards to establish an intermediate school ; purchase of textbooks for needy pupils with optional collection of the cost from parents or guardians at a rate not exceeding 35 cents per month ; two-year terms for Trustees if so desired by the municipality, and continuance of Scott Act areas in 1935 at the same rate as this year.

Envelope Preserved Seventy Years

Mr. A. C. Parks brought into The Beaver Office, this week, an interesting old envelope about seventy years old. It was addressed to his father, the late Milo Parks, Esq. and bore the advertising stamps on its face of "J. Gibbard & Son," furniture manufacturers and funeral directors, the originators of the present Gibbard Furniture Shops. The letter bore no stamp but was marked postage paid.

On the reverse side of the envelope was a clever advertising idea. It was divided into small ads for various business places in the town. Included were: J. W. Powell, photographer ; Judd, watchmaker ; Warner and Bro., grocers; Boyle & Wright, hardware; C. Wiegands & Son, furniture manufacturers; E. Hooper & Son, dry goods; Campbell House ; A. McNeil; J. Gibbard & Son, D. A. Waddell, saddler; J. C. Parks, grocer; G. M. Woods, tobacconist; J. C. Huffman, druggist; S. E. Clements, dentist; Stevenson & Bro., dry goods.

KEEPING THE BOYS BUSY

A splendid piece of community work which receives less public support than it merits, is the work of the Boys' Welfare League. This league is carried on under a committee of the Rotary Club, of which Mr. W. J. Wiggins is chairman. Mr. Wiggins and Chief Watts have been putting in their work for the boys. The success of the Softball Club in the summer and the Boys' Hockey League in winter, is almost entirely due to their interest and enthusiasm.

During the past winter, over a hundred boys have been lined up in a hockey league, the smaller boys playing every Saturday morning and the older boys, two afternoons each week. The Welfare League provides the covered rink for them and supervises the games and schedules. The organization is largely self-governing, the boys electing, each year, officers from among their own number.

The most valuable part of the work, from the point of view of the community, is the effect it has on the future citizenship. The emphasis is placed, altogether, on the character building possibilities of sport. Each boy is trained to play the game, to forego selfish ambition and to develop team work. Even minor infractions of the rules are penalized. A fine spirit of sportsmanship is thus developed. The boys are, in this way, kept off the streets; the gang instinct so tenacious at a certain age in every boy's life and which, left undirected leads so often to petty infractions of the law and other depredations, is thus capitalized for his own and the town's good. The spirit of keen competition provides all the zest and excitement which the nature of the growing boy craves.

The result is that juvenile delinquency is practically unknown in Napanee, a record which would be hard to duplicate in Ontario. No one can possibly estimate the far-reaching effects on the future of our town, of this constructive piece of work for the boys.

GOOD NEWS FOR TRAVELLER AND SHIPPER

A few years ago Napanee had the finest railroad service in Ontario. Several trains, a day, stopped here. We had grown used to the finest accommodation and took it for granted. But since the pooling of the trains, the situation has been reversed. Our service now is inadequate and unsatisfactory in every way. Since the first of the year the business has picked up considerably, in spite of this handicap. For January the passenger service, out of Napanee, was fifty per cent above January 1933, and February showed a substantial increase over that of last year. This, probably, had something to do with the kindly way in which the delegation from the town was received, last week, by the management of the Canadian National Railways.

After hearing the delegation, composed of John A. Weese, M.P., Charles Hambly, M.P.P., Mayor George Tustin, Reeve Capt. A. S. Hughson and E. Gibbard, they promised immediate improvement in accommodation. They gave assurance that a connection with the fast train would be established at Belleville, so that passengers coming from Toronto would be in Napanee about fifteen minutes after the fast train had passed through.

In addition, the Management has promised the inauguration of a pick-up freight service. This has been experimented with in a few large centres and has proved successful. Now it will be tried out in Napanee. Under the pick-up system, the C. N. R. will call for freight and deliver it, with no extra cost to the customer. This will tend to meet the competition of the transport service, which has cut, so seriously, into the freight revenue. It will be interesting to watch how this works out in a small town. With fast freight and free delivery, the merchants will find it just as convenient and as cheap, to deal with the railroad as with the motor trucks.

The town owes a debt of gratitude to those who went to Montreal and succeeded in securing these much needed improvements. We are all grateful, as well, to the management of the C. N. R., who listened so kindly and acted so promptly on the suggestion of the delegation.

THE TRAGEDY OF PU YI

The eyes of the world have been lifted, this week, from the threatening condition in Europe to the scene enacted in the Far East, where a young man, merely by the accident of birth, becomes the titular hear of thirty million people. Modern history shows no more pathetic picture than that of the twenty-nine year old Pu Yi, who was enthroned on the throne of the new Empire of Manchukuo on Thursday. On the death of his uncle, the last Emperor of all this, on November 14, 1908, the young boy then only three years of age, ascended to the throne under the title of Hsuan T'ung, with two "Grand Guardians of the Heir" Youan Shih-K'ai and Chang Chih-Tung. After the revolution of 1911 the young Emperor was removed from the throne and given living quarters in half of the forbidden city, Peking. In 1924, the fortunes of war made his position, in Pekin, untenable, and he escaped through the stratagem of his British tutor and friend, R. F. Johnston. He was given temporary shelter in the Japanese Legation, in Pekin, from whence he made his way to Tienstin.

THE END OF "LAISSEZ FAIRE"

Yesterday, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in the longest speech he has given since he took office a year ago, reviewed the achievements of his administration. Speaking before 4,000 representatives of all the classes of the community, he not only gave a resume of the past year's activities, but, speaking in characteristically Rooseveltian fashion, made it perfectly clear that the end is not yet. When he came into office a year ago, the unbridled competitive system had brought the greatest democracy on earth to the verge of collapse. The banking system had broken down; millions of people were out of work; the leaders of industry and business were openly acknowledging their inability to cope with the situation; a spirit of defeatism was abroad in the land. It is safe to say that with the possible exception of Lincoln, no man in the United States ever faced a more difficult situation nor faced it with greater courage, confidence, and ability.

President Roosevelt, on Monday, allayed the fears of those who believed that his policy is leading toward Socialism, Communism, Dictatorship or Fascism. He made it clear that, what he was aiming to do, was to make democracy work. For a decade, it had broken down, due in some degree, to the apathy of the public. The result had been government by special groups for selfish interests. This had led to the increasing power of the few and the distress of countless thousands, who were their helpless victims. Mr. Roosevelt maintained—what has been almost universally neglected—that the government in a democracy must ever act as the unbiased guardian of the interest of all the people, with special privileges and favors to none. This had been the aim of his administration.

President Roosevelt pointed out that ninety per cent of the goods produced in the United States is consumed by the people themselves. Sixty per cent of the goods sold there is consumed by those earning less than $2,000 a year. Therefore, if the wheels of industry are to be kept turning, that group must be given adequate purchasing power. Codes had been set up in every industry, by which the industry was to govern its activities. Under these codes wages had been set, hours of labor had been agreed upon, and millions of men put to work. Democracy among the industrial workers had been achieved by the Government insisting on the right of the worker by "free choice" to organize and to bargain collectively.

The President indicated that, after eight months' experience with the codes, most of them had set out to do had been accomplished. He urged, however, an immediate ten per cent increase in wages and a ten percent decrease in working hours for the laborer. He likewise insisted that the price of commodities shall be as low as possible, while permitting these conditions of labor and remuneration. This, of course, means the end of unrestricted competition and cut-throat methods.

He concluded with these words, which leave no room for doubt as to the permanency of his policy: "The reorganization must be permanent in the end or our lives in this land never again will we permit the social conditions which allowed the vast sections of our population to exist in an un-American way, which allow a mal-distribution of wealth and power."

Now that a year has passed in which it is possible to trace the trends of Roosevelt's programmes, it is seen to be a desperate effort at Government regulation of industry within the present profit-seeking order. Capitalism in the United States is having its last chance. Whether or not it shall continue depends on the clearness with which the leaders of business see this and submit to the curtailment of their unbridled lust for power. Up until now they have shown a commendable desire to co-operate with the Roosevelt administration, for the common good.

The United States has chosen the way of Government regulation rather than Government ownership. On every hand there is evidence of progress—employment is increasing, wages have been restored, consumption of goods has been accelerated, the banks are in a healthy state, and a spirit of hopefulness prevails.

We, on this side of the border, are watching with growing concern the noble experiment which, because of our proximity to the great republic, is bound to have an effect on our life. Whatever happens, it is now clear that the United States can never go back to the old days of unrestricted competition. Should it not succeed to the extent its sponsors hope for, complete government ownership is the next alternative.

Here, he was content to live the life of a private citizen, until last year. When the Japanese seized Manchuria, they spirited the young Pu Yi away from Tienstin and kept him in Mukden. There, last Thursday, he was enthroned with great pomp and ceremony as the Emperor of the New Empire, taking the name Kang Teh.

There is no attempt, anywhere, to cover up the real situation as it now exists in Manchukuo. The Japanese have seized a country with a population of 30,000,000, one of the most prosperous and wealthy sections of all China. They have selected their own emperor. The ceremonies were arranged by the Japanese; Japanese soldiers guarded the streets during the processions, and Japanese diplomats control and guide the policies of the New Empire in the interests of Japan.

What the effect of this will be on the world situation, is hard to foresee. For one thing, it has alienated, for all time, Chinese co-operation. The new China, learning its lesson of extreme nationalism from its Western tutors, will never submit to the dismemberment of the empire in the fashion already begun by the Japanese. The Chinese memory is long. The Japanese have succeeded, so far, in taking the three eastern provinces from China, but they have also succeeded in laying up for themselves and perhaps for the rest of the world, a great source of discontent and contention.

In all this, the tragic, frail, black-haired Pu Yi, plays a strange and sinister part, not of his own making.

Editorial Comment

NO NEUTRALITY FOR BRITAIN

What, then, should British policy be? Short of attempting suicidal isolation or of relapsing into specific alliances and international rivalry in armaments, I am persuaded that there can be no British foreign policy worth speaking of, nor security for the British Commonwealth, until this country has made its mind not to be neutral in favour of the assailant, actual or prospective, of the world's peace, be that assailant strong or weak, and to take the lead in organising the forces of peace on this basis. We cannot police the world alone. As our armaments now stand and in the absence of a foreign policy, we might not even be able to police the British Commonwealth in the sense of defending it successfully against attack. But in taking the lead of the nations that hate war, and may in time learn to love peace, Great Britain could and should save Europe and the world from the threat embodied in the consistent policy of Nazi Germany, and bring that policy to naught. — Wickham Steed, in The Contemporary Review (London).

CANADA AND RECIPROCITY

Canada's two leading political parties shape policies favourable to reciprocity agreements with the United States. That in many respects is a matter of issue between them, but their differences will be in methods rather than in objectives. Indeed the Minister Bennett lately assured the Canadian House of Commons that his Administration was exerting itself to improve trade relations with the United States and its efforts had been hindered only by the fact that President Roosevelt lacked the necessary authority to negotiate. In these times of troubled international affairs, the prospect of better relationships between these two great democracies of the North American Continent is encouraging. It is significant that one of Premier Bennett's political opponents expressed himself as favourable in the matter of reciprocity, adding this fine sentiment: "Neither God nor nature ever intended the people of the United States to be separated commercially." — Detroit News.

DOMINIONS AND IMMIGRATION

The colonization scheme proposed by the Empire Development and Settlement Research Committee seems to us worthy of very serious consideration. The proposed Charter-Settlement Society, supported financially by the British Government, would go some way to meet the difficulties in the way of the emigration that have revealed themselves in recent years. But the assent and co-operation of the Dominion Governments would, of course, be essential. And the difficulty here is that the change in world economy, which is throwing out of business the great food-producing provinces of the Dominions, is bringing the Dominion Governments face to face with the necessity of persuading the great urban centres of their own people—Until they see their way to settling that problem there is little prospect of add a new one to it. But there seems no reason why the new settlers should not be self-supporting, and surely for such there must be ample room in the still very lightly populated Dominions.—London News Chronicle.

REGULAR HABITS

An eminent Spanish physician has just declared that one, at any rate, of the secrets of health and long life is to have regular habits. This dictum has come as something of a shock to those who have painfully schooled themselves to live by the clock, and it must be questioned whether the unhappiness than happiness has not been created by a possibly casual observation. Regular habits are good enough and even with anxiety, to preserve health; whereas those who have no regular habits at all are of the happy-go-lucky disposition that pays little heed even to the most distinguished physicians' advice, is a natural value on longevity.—London Times.

WHAT IS A HIGH BROW?

The real high brow is one who adopts an attitude of superiority to the lower herd of men and women, who looks down on all of us, who despises what we know and like; yet he stands precariously and knows that, at any moment, his support may be kicked from under him, and he may be shown up. His highbrow is a sort of mask.

For there is this much to be said for the high brow: he is not a sheer fake. He has some knowledge. He has a certain amount of taste and certain interests which are really does like (a little) what the average man finds incomprehensible. A few grains of light do shine in the darkness. He is not wholly in darkness. That is why he is unfrom and unhappy. Let him put out. That is why he hates to be called what he really is.—Everyman.

TEACHING TO THINK

"It is the purpose of higher education to unsettle the minds of young men, to widen their horizon, to influence their intellects. And by this series of mixed metaphors I mean to assert that education is not to teach men facts, theories or laws..... It is not to reform them or to amuse them, or to make them good citizens in any field. It is to teach them to think, to think straight if possible, but to think always for themselves." — Robert M. Hutchins, President University of Chicago.

PREJUDICE

Some of the darkest and most dangerous prejudices of man arise from the most honorable principles of the mind. When prejudices are caught up from bad passions, the worst of men feel intervals of remorse to soften and dispose them; but when they arise from a generous though mistaken source, they are hugged closer to the bosom.—Lord Erskine.

MAN'S GENIUS HELPS PRODUCE NEW FRUIT

Montreal. — "Should the name of ugli fruit be changed to a more beautiful one?" "That is the question bothering certain importers at the moment. Meantime, a shipment of 2,500 fine specimens of ugli fruit was landed at Halifax fromBritish Honduras and Jamaica aboard the Canadian Mail steamship "Lady Drake" and "Cathcart" and rushed to the Montreal market.

The exceptional interest over ugli fruit, which is one of those exotic, recent fruits, partly the product of the tropical climate of Britain's Caribbean colonies and partly of man's genius. It is a cross between an orange and a grapefruit. Importers explain. They predict a great future for it on the Canadian market because of its especially intriguing flavor.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 11TH, 1934

MATTHEW 13: 31-33; 44-52

"PARABLES OF THE KINGDOM"

The central theme of Jesus' message was the "Kingdom of God." It was, by no means, a new theme. The writers and prophets of the Old Testament with few exceptions had spoken of a Kingdom of God, and looked forward to its coming. Where Jesus differs from Old Testament writers, was in the new content which he gave to the familiar theme. While he said much more of the Kingdom of God than of any other subject, He never, at any time, attempted to define it. Instead, with incomparable language and story He tells what the characteristics of the Kingdom would be. By studying these parables which tell what the Kingdom is like, we are able to discover its true nature.

The Kingdom of God is like a mustard seed which is exceedingly small but which produces a plant often ten or twelve feet high. The Kingdom beginning in a small way has continued to spread rapidly, until it arrives at maturity. "First the seed then the ear, then the full corn in the ear." The growth of the Church or the Fellowship of Christians, described, like the growth of the seed, on its inner vitality. It is the life within which holds the power of expansion. All that is needed for its growth is that it should be placed in the right environment.

Jesus, as a boy, had often seen His mother making bread. He had watched her put the yeast into the flour, had stood by with wonder as He saw the bubbles rise, and the whole become leavened. As He grew to maturity, He saw in that an example of the Kingdom, growing silently but continuously by the contagious power of its own inherent life. One loving heart setting another heart on fire, until the whole world was ablaze for God. It is the silent and quiet forces in life which are the most effective. The earthquake or the storm works a sudden havoc, but the silent corroding movement of winds and tides are the more powerful in their ultimate effect. The snow which balks the mightiest efforts of mechanical contrivances, submits to the thawing rays of the spring sun. "A soft answer turneth away wrath."

Again the Kingdom is like the hidden treasure or the pearl of great price. During its long history, Palestine had been the buffer state between great contending empires, Assyria and Babylon on the north and Egypt on the south. The opposing armies had, for centuries, trampled through little country and the Hebrews knew only too, well the devastating effect of such alien occupation. Hence the value to money and other valuables was the first concern of the man with possessions. Some, to define it. Instead, with was killed after burying his treasures and the secret of its hiding place died with him. The finding of it later, by a stranger, was not an unusual experience. The Kingdom, says Jesus, is like that. Unexpectedly, without plan, or conscious endeavor, a man stumbles on it. The discovery gives him a joy of priceless possession, like nothing else in the world. The pearl merchant, on the other hand, had made it a life's business to know pearls and to trade them. In the course of his search, he discovers one pearl of the most attractive loveliness. At once he sells all his others in order to secure the one of matchless charm and worth. So is the Kingdom. It may, in some cases, be stumbled upon by accident; in others, come as the result of a life long search. In either case the possession brings joy and happiness untold.

The Kingdom again is like the net thrown into the sea. In it are gathered all sorts of fish—the buffer large, some small, some edible, some poisonous. They are this all brought together before they can be sorted and classified. So is the Kingdom. Within its scope there is room for all, good and bad, old and young, earnest and indifferent. This all inclusive character of the Kingdom is a challenge to bring within the scope of Christianity, every type and class, and every form of organized life.

So the Kingdom having its roots in the past, must have its harvest and fruit in the present. It is like the householder who brings what is new and old out of his stores. It takes the best of the past and reinterprets it in the light of changed and changing conditions in a new day.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Mellow and Mr. and Mrs. Opie Barker, spent a week end recently at Syracuse, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hegadorn and baby are moving to their new home near Odessa.

Miss Carrie Davy was successful in obtaining honors in both junior counterpoint and pedagogy, at the recent Toronto Conservatory of Music examinations, held at Kingston.

Word has been received here of the death, at Herton, N.Y., on Wednesday, February 28th, of Mrs. Louise Rorke, in her 87th year. Deceased was spending the winter with her niece, Mrs. Thomas Lewis and had been fairly active until the last few months. She was formerly Louise Chinnery and had resided with her brother, near Millhaven, for many years. Upon their retirement from the farm, several years ago, they had resided here. Since the death of her brother a few years ago, she had lived alone. Besides her niece, she is survived by a nephew, also of Watertown, N.Y. The funeral was held on Friday, March 2nd and the remains will be brought here in the spring. Deceased was held in high esteem by all who knew her, and they will regret to learn of her passing.

NORTHBROOK

Northbrook, March 5.—Recent rains have reduced our snow banks and made motoring difficult.

Dr. D. R. Hall and Prov. Police Barrett, of Napanee, rushed to Camp 8C1, north of Denbigh, Friday night when Alfred Wilkinson of New Toronto, was instantly killed by a dynamite explosion. He was seen to light the fuse and remain looking at it for some unknown reason. The remains were interred in Denbigh cemetery. Alfred was a boy from a Barnado home in England and was well liked in camp.

One of our oldest residents at Harlowe, Mr. William Miller, died very suddenly. He did the regular barn work, came to the kitchen and collapsed, without speaking. He had for years, suffered from a weak heart. He will be missed in the home, neighborhood, Orange Lodge and the church, in each of which he was interested.

Mr. Ryerson Delves, employed in J. Grey's Camp at Lake Mazinaw, lost one of his hands on Friday, while handling dynamite caps.

Messrs. C. C. Thompson and H. Hastler are in Toronto, on municipal business.

Mr. Andy Armstrong is very ill. He recently broke his leg and the shock added to his previous illness, is seriously impairing his recovery.

One of our aged residents, Mr. William Kennelly, died Wednesday, at the home of J. Kennelly. The remains were left in the Roman Catholic vault, in Flinton, after Rev. Father Kinlin preached the funeral service.

Word from Mr. and Mrs. George Salmond, who are enjoying Florida sunshine, makes us hope for summer.

Mr. Colin Campbell has returned to Boston Creek after a short visit at home.

Mr. Armstrong of Camp Borden Flying Squadron, motored to his home in Plevna.

Mr. F. Hindson of Toronto, spent the week end at C. C. Thompson's.

NEWBURGH

Miss Alma Briscoe returned after spending a couple of months in Galt and Toronto.

Mrs. Anderson is attending the branch executive meeting in Petersborough, this week.

Be sure to plan to attend the W. M. S. Presbyterial Annual Meeting held in Trinity Church, Napanee, next week. Mrs. Crowe, Dominion President, will address the Convention on the evening of the 14th. Mabel Griffiths, secretary of Young Women's work, will be in attendance throughout the convention and assist in many parts of the programme.

The Young People's League was held on Tuesday evening, February 27th, with a good attendance. Rev. Anderson, presided. After the usual opening exercises, the scripture reading was taken by Mrs. Binnt Moore, followed by a solo by Mrs. Willis Galbraith. An interesting debate, resolved "That Wealth causes more crime than Poverty," was keenly contested For the affirmative, Miss Queenie Reid and Miss Gwen Switzer were most convincing, and Hubert Simkin and Miss Eileen Milligan gave an equally strong argument. The debate was exceedingly close, both the affirmative and negative sides presenting and proving their points, making it most difficult for Messrs J. M. Revel, W. F. Markle and G. A. Aylesworth, who were the judges, to make a decision. During their consideration, Miss Hazel Winter rendered a piano instrumental which was much appreciated. The judges finally awarded the decision to the negative side and complimented the debaters on the excellence of their argument. The meeting was largely attended.

Mrs. A. Walker of Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. L. Huff.

Mr. D. Dennison attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Henry Martin, at Selby, on Sunday last.

Rev. T. H. P. Anderson attended the Ministerial Association, in Napanee on Monday, also was in Belleville on Presbytery work.

The W. C. T. U. meeting for February, was held at the home of Mrs. George Wartman, last Wednesday, with a good attendance. A well-planned program, devotional and instructive, on "Temperance Work" was presented by the members present. It was "Frances Willard" Day and a fine paper on her life and work, was given.

Newburgh High School Literary Society held its fourth literary meeting of the year, on Friday afternoon, February 23rd. The meeting opened with the president, Ralph Bell, in the chair, and the singing of "O Canada," followed by the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting by the secretary, Miss Lorraine Alcombrack. The programme, which was sponsored by each form, in turn, was under the supervision of Form III. The opening number on the program was a reading of the legend on St. Valentine by Miss Laura Alkenbrack, followed by the reading of the schoolpaper, the N. H. S. Review, by the editor, Miss Hazel Wager. The Review though still in the making (this being the first year of its publication), has shown considerable improvement during the term and goes to show what the pupils can do when called upon to prepare articles both interesting and humorous. Such articles as "The Geography of Money" "The Centenary of the City of Toronto," The Life of Johnson," the writer of that famous old song "When You and I were young Maggie," describing the selling and the conditions under which the song was written, were exceptionally well written, and were read by Donald Switzer, Floyd Finlay gave a dramatic presentation of the poem "The Charge of the Light Brigade, in a humorous manner. These numbers were interspersed with music by Messrs. Ralph and Howard Bell, on the piano, guitar and mouth-organ. Mr. Gould, the Principal, then led the school in singing for a short time and the programme concluded with the critic's report, by Alfreda Milligan.

The editor and the saff of The Review were congratulated on the splendid manner of its corporation. Miss Milligan also stated that the paper was rapidly increasing in merit. The meeting, on the whole, was of a higher standard than formerly and she expressed her opinion that if the literary work continued in its present state of perfection, the school would be proud of its pupils' literary trend. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

MARLBANK

Marlbank, March 5.—Owing to the great depth of water in the basement of the United Church, there was no Sunday School or church on Sunday last.

EAGLE COLLECTS RABBIT TRAPS

Nine rabbit traps found in the nest of an Australian eagle told a story of the bird's part in eradicating the national rabbit pest, according to information reaching an official of the Canadian National Steamships.

The wedge-tailed eagle of Australia is one of the largest of the species, with a wing spread of ten feet or more.

Ministerial Association Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Napanee District Ministerial Association was held at St. Andrew's Church on Monday morning. In the absence of the President, Rev. D. M. Stinson, of Enterprise, Rev. R. T. Richards, the Vice-President, presided.

The other members who were present were Reverends A. J. Wilson, Harry Pawson, R. T. Richards, T. H. P. Anderson, J. E. Beckel, A. D. Waite, Griffiths, W. S. Smart, and Dr. Fletcher.

The address was given by Rev. W. S. Smart, of Bath, and the usual discussion period followed.

Review of The Week's Work in Ontario Legislature

In the first division of the session, the Henry Government was sustained by the house majority vote of 76-30 in approving adoption of the Address from the Throne, thus affirming the sub-amendment of Premier George S. Henry. The sub-amendment John read cordially in the hope expressed by Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant Governor, in the Throne Speech, that our country will soon be on the road to "enduring prosperity." By the same majority; Dr. G. A. McQuibban, Liberal House leader, accepted defeat to his amendment which criticized the Government.

Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, concluded the debate on behalf of the Government, scoring in marked fashion on the Opposition members, and making a particularly withering attack upon M. F. Hepburn, Provincial Liberal Leader, who, he charged, has allied himself with the private interests of Quebec in order to defeat the St. Lawrence seaway project.

While the Government had been blamed, 18st year, for low prices of farmers' products, Mr. Macaulay felt that new prices are where the Government should be given credit for the advances.

Mr. Macaulay showed that prices of steers, as of February 24th, were $6.25 in Toronto and $6.25 in Chicago; butter, Toronto 28½ c. Montreal 29½c, and Chicago 23½c; eggs, Toronto 39c, Chicago 16½c, and bacon hogs, Toronto $9.75 off cars, and Chicago $4.50.

Immense Investment in Highways

Dealing with administration of his own department, Mr. Macaulay pointed out that in County, Township and Provincial Highways, over $300,000,000 invested, exclusive of Northern Ontario and trans-Canada highways. While construction work has been reduced, the program in Northern Ontario has been advanced as relief unemployment measures. In the last four years, there has been spent $115,000,000 on various roads, including $30,000,000 for maintenance. This work has provided over 9,000,000 man days per year on a basis of 200 days per year per man, highway improvement activity has provided steady employment to over 45,000 men.

Hydro, he contended has prospered under the guidance and support of various Conservative administrations. The Gregory Commission, appointed by the Drury Government, he said, was intended to dismiss Sir Adam Beck after serving years without salary.

"It was nothing more nor less than a piratical expedition to pull down and wreck the Hydro," charged Mr. Macaulay. "Under any standard of judgment of human affairs, it must be admitted that Hydro has had long, continuous, successful, honest and capable administration and loyal enthusiastic support from the Conservative party."

Predicts Victory in Election

Pointing to victory for the Government in the forthcoming election, Mr. Macaulay said that if the record of the Government for the last four years is examined, it will be found that every minister has been bending his energies night and day, to the best task of public peace, to-day, thinking, planning legislating, administering for the improvement of conditions of the farmer, the laborer, the producer, the merchant everywhere in the province.

"These facts are that we have been spending whether of capital or current account," said Mr. Macaulay, "have been spent in an effort to help the sick, care for the poor, find employment for those out of work, pensions for the aged and generally to make lighter and more bearable the conditions of all classes of men and women in our province. When the time comes, as come it will, to appeal to the electorate for a renewal of the mandate they have given to this party, I feel sure that as to the result there can be no doubt. This government will be asked to continue the work in the brighter and better days ahead, which it has carried on in the four strenuous years now closing."

An amendment to the Assessment Act, introduced by W. E. N. Sinclair, South Ontario, permitting municipalities to put up land for sale in classified lists where tax sales were held, instead of putting up all the lands in arrears of taxes, was referred to the municipal law committee, after receiving second reading.

Minimum Wage Board Report

The annual report of the Minimum Wage Board indicated that an amendment will be introduced, protecting women workers against girls and boys being brought in by employers to take their places at lower rates of pay. Length of hours in which wage arrears may be collected and the hours for which rates are fixed under board orders must be paid, will also be subject to legislation.

Attorney-General W. H. Price indicated that steps will be taken to wipe out an alleged insurance policy racket that has been operating in various parts of the province, whereby people in unfortunate circumstances have been deprived of actual values of established insurance policies. The method had been to secure these policies by making a small payment, and then holding over their heads when which wage arrears may be collected the hours for which rates are fixed under board orders must be paid, will also be subject to legislation.

The method had been to secure these policies by making a small payment, and then holding over their heads with the company. Legislation will be introduced to prevent such practices.

To Aid Slum Removal

The House approved the resolution of Wilfrid Heighington, Cons., St. David's, which gives endorsation to a policy to distribute relief monies to municipalities who might join in a policy of removing slum areas and building low rental accommodations. Premier Henry endorsed the move, pointing out that if the municipalities and boards of health concerned, should be made so that they will be able to proceed with such programs. The Premier indicated the Government would move in this direction by providing there is sufficient demand from municipalities for the setting up of such policies, and also if the Federal Government was inclined to include the proposal under works relief construction.

Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S. Convention Programme

The Eighth Annual Meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church will convene in Trinity Church, Napanee, on Wednesday, March 14th, for a three days' session. About 125 delegates from Prince Edward, Hastings, and Lennox and Addington counties, are expected to attend.

The sessions will be presided over by Mrs. (Rev.) T. H. Anderson, of Newburgh, the president.

The first session will be on Wednesday at 2:00 p.m., when delegates will register. At 2:30 p.m., there will be the formal opening of the Presbyterial by the president, which will be followed by the worship service to be conducted by Mrs. Harry Pawson and Mrs. R. T. Richards.

Mrs. D. B. Wilson, the president of the W. M. S. of the Convention church, will give the address of welcome and Rev. Robert Hall of Belleville will bring greetings from the Belleville Presbytery. At 4:00 p.m., a consecration service will be conducted by the three ministers of the United Churches in Napanee, Rev. Harry Pawson, Rev. A. J. Wilson, and Rev. R. T. Richards.

Supper Meeting for Band Workers

At 5:00 p.m. there will be a conference for young Women's work, conducted by Mrs. W. S. Gordon of Tweed, Mrs. A. J. Painsten of Colborne, at which Miss Isabel Griffiths, of Toronto, will give the main address. Supper will be served at 6:00 p.m. in the main dining hall of the church and at the same hour there will be a supper and conference for mission band workers in the primary room of the Sunday School, presided over by Mrs. H. Bateman, of Madoc.

The feature of the evening session will be addresses by Mrs. C. R. Crowe of Guelph, the president of the Dominion Board of the W. M. S., and by Miss Isabel Griffiths, the traveling secretary for Young Women's Work.

Sessions on Thursday

Thursday morning, the meeting will open at 9:30 o'clock, when there will be the reports of the department secretaries, the election of officers and the ceremony of installation of officers, conducted by Mrs. Albert Lewis of Camden East. Mrs. (Rev.) E. J. Pyman will have charge of a memorial service for members who have passed away during the year, and Miss L. Gandier of Napanee will conduct a devotional meditation period.

Lunch will be served at 12:30 o'clock and at 1:30 p.m., the final session will commence. Mrs. (Dr.) Hooper and Mrs. J. Moore, of Belleville, will be in charge of the devotional period, which will have as its theme: "World Peace." The remainder of the afternoon will be taken up with the balance of the departmental reports and other items of business.

Supper and lunch will be served to others, besides delegates who wish to attend, at 25c. per meal.

Council Deputation Napanee, Interviews Railway Officials

The following information was supplied by A. S. Hughson, Reeve of Napanee, one of the members of the delegation appointed to interview Railway officials.

"On the 28th February, a deputation, consisting of the Federal Member, John A. Wesse, Provincial Member C. W. Hamblyn, Reeve George Tustin, the Reeve, Capt. A. S. Hughson and E. Gibbard of the Gibbard Furniture Company, representing the Town of Napanee, held a conference with the Assistant to C. P. Fullerton and Mr. Hungerford of the Canadian National Railways, in Montreal, with reference to the improvement of the railway service, including passenger and freight, in Napanee.

While the Railway officials would not promise that trains Nos. 6 and 15 would stop at Napanee, at present, arrangements would be made for a new one at Napanee between Napanee and Belleville, making close connections with these two trains, so that Toronto passengers would be in Napanee within fifteen or twenty minutes after the fast train passed through. A new schedule is promised to Napanee that patrons of the railway will be satisfied with.

The freight service will also be taken up with the officials, and a pick-up freight, to and from the points to Toronto and West, will be inaugurated immediately.

There is no doubt, but that action is being taken, as within twenty-four hours after the return of the deputation, Railway officials from the freight and telegraph departments were in Napanee, investigating conditions, etc., here."

Trinity Church W.M.S. Birthday Party

The members of Trinity Church Women's Missionary Society were at home to a large number of their friends at a birthday party on Friday evening.

Invitations had previously been issued, accompanied by small silk bags in which the recipients were asked to place as many cents as they were years old by way of admission fee. In spite of the terrible condition of the streets and the downpour of rain on Friday evening, the room was well filled. As the guests arrived they were assigned to groups, arranged according to the months of their birth. Each group was gathered around a tea table decorated to represent some outstanding day or event of the month. Very clever and novel ideas were carried out in the decorations and every table, with its fancy cloths and silver service, presented a most attractive appearance.

A program of excellent readings and music was given after Rev. Harry Pawson, who acted as chairman, had welcomed the guests on behalf of the Society. The program consisted of a reading by Mrs. Ross Baughan; a reading by Miss Jean Milling; a group of songs by Mrs. Harry Pawson; a reading by Miss Muriel Wilson; a vocal duet by Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Gray; readings by Mrs. Harry Williams, and a group of vocal solos by Mrs. H. B. Kirby.

Following the program, refreshments were served by the hostesses of the various groups to their guests

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor of The Beaver,
Dear sir:—

It was interesting to note the comments of the local "Lou Mattch" in a late issue of The Beaver.

Evidently "Lou" requires some enlightening on one or two points.

In the first place, this much touted "dream craft" is not a snowplane but an iceplane, for use on ice, exclusively. In the second place, in experimenting and building this type of machine, suggestions are welcome but technical suggestions, particularly from persons who don't even know the simplest most suitable—well it's just so much wind.

Come on down "Lou" (unofficially, after a freeze up.

Collegiate Pupils Literary Society On Friday Last

At the Literary Society of the Napanee Collegiate Institute on Friday afternoon the pupils of Fourth and Fifth forms presented the program, under the direction of Mrs. File.

The programme was in the form of a radio broadcast from station CNCI, with Leslie Taylor announced. Piano solos given by Doris Knapp and Gerard Doyle were used to illustrate poems, parts of which were read. Jim Roney and Frank Armitage played a trumpet duet, and a group of girls of fourth form sang two choruses "Sylvia" and "Sweet and Low." Selected pupils from the different forms in the school sang as choruses "Out of the Dusk" and "Song of Mine," and a chorus of fifty voices rendered Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory."

Jean Wartman gave a reading and Gussie Boyes read the class prophecy concerning the present upper school pupils, as they will be in 1954, as predicted by Dolly Chapman. Bobby Templeton, in the role of a scientist and globe trotter, granted an interview to the announcer.

A short play entitled "Under the Desert" was presented by Kenneth Mackenzie, Frank Cook and Ross Deroche, who took occasion to urge upon the Minister of Public Works the desirability of retaining the lobster hatchery at Bath as a location. He had heard that there was pressure from several quarters to choose a site in some other part of the capital, or to place the monument in some city other than Ottawa.

The plans and specifications sent out to those who competed in the international contest to secure the best design gave a complete description of Connaught Place as a guide to the artists and the successful competitor had made a special visit to Ottawa to study the site.

If the monuments were placed elsewhere than on the original site it would lose some of its value, apart from an artistic standpoint. Mr. King declared. He had been so advised by the artist. Furthermore he believed the Government bound to retain Connaught Place as all money voted for the purpose since 1924 had been on that understanding.

Hon. H. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works, admitted there had been representations made to the effect of another site and a committee of the Cabinet had been appointed to deal with the question. He thanked the Opposition leader for his suggestions and said they would be given serious consideration.

Canada's National Memorial, Ottawa, To Cost $240,000

Ottawa, Canada's national war memorial, originally intended to be placed in Connaught Place in the capital, will cost $240,000 when finished and is still on the course of construction, the House of Commons was informed last week.

When the House was asked to vote $100,000 toward the memorial Right Hon. Mackenzie King took occasion to urge upon the Minister of Public Works the desirability of retaining the lobster hatchery at Bath as a location. He had heard that there was pressure from several quarters to choose a site in some other part of the capital, or to place the monument in some city other than Ottawa.

The plans and specifications sent out to those who competed in the international contest to secure the best design gave a complete description of Connaught Place as a guide to the artists and the successful competitor had made a special visit to Ottawa to study the site.

Birthday Party

On Monday evening, March 5th, Mrs. Fred King and Mrs. B. Calder arranged a surprise birthday party for Mrs. and Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick, to celebrate both their birthdays. About twenty-five friends and relatives were present.

The table was prettily decorated in pink and white and centered with a dainty birthday cake, lighted with candles.

The evening was spent in games and music, after which all dispersed to their homes, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick many happy returns of the day.

Although taken by surprise, they thanked their friends for the lovely gifts received.

BASEBALL NEWS
G.E.BIBBARD

Several matters of interest to local fans were dealt with at Saturday's meeting of the O.B.A.A. executive.

Three transfers were granted to Napanee: Hughie Brennan, from Toronto, George "Udy" Blanetich from Welland and Toronto, and Reg. Dorey, from Gananoque.

The application of "Cy" Barriage, who was here early in the year, was withdrawn, since "Cy" went back to Belleville to play junior hockey.

Hillard St. Louis was transferred from Carleton to Kingston, although no other player was accepted from the St. Lawrence League. This addition to their pitching staff should strengthen the Ponies considerably.

* * *

Murney Green, formerly of Point Anne and Belleville Nationals, was granted a transfer to Picton, where he has been playing hockey all winter.

* * *

Three players have moved to Belleville. Bob Greer from Wellington, a combo star; Jack "Chief" Williams from Verona and an infielder by the name of Little, from Toronto, all three should add the cause of the Nationals, very materially.

* * *

The various clubs will be glad to learn that in all probability they will not be required to take out amateur cards, as in former years.

* * *

In the shuffle which will likely take place in the Intermediate Leagues, this year, our guess is that the Bay of Quinte loop will be placed in Intermediate "A" along with the Kingston and District, while the Lennox County will remain in "B."

Chef Finds Life Worth Living Now

Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Him Feel and Look Better

Mr. Glover Recommends Dodd's To All Other Sufferers

Toronto, Ont., Mar. 6, (Special) —"After using one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills I felt and looked fast better than in the past five years," writes Mr. Lawrence Glover of 934 Gerrard Street East, Toronto. "I was rather a hard one to convince before using them as I had paid three different doctors in the past five years and the only result was prescriptions while did not do me any good. At the cost of two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I find life is worth living once again. I am 5 chef, and have many friends in Toronto who will gladly back up my statement. I feel it my duty to write these few lines as I am sure there must be some poor sufferers that have the same idea of medicines that I had before using Dodd's Kidney Pills."

PASSENGER RECOVERS HER LIFE SAVINGS

After taking out certificates and documents worth over $5,000 from a safety deposit box at her bank, Miss Rose Anne Laverriere of Biddeford, Maine, a passenger on the C. N. R., left the packet containing them on the ladies' waiting room of a junction station. She, reached home before missing the parcel and had then no idea where she could have left it.

Fortunately, the packet was noticed by a railway porter and ultimately restored to its distressed owner.

The documents represented all her savings, without which she would have been practically destitute.

STRANGE CARAVAN TO CROSS THE ROCKIES

Vancouver. — One of the strangest caravans to cross the Canadian Rockies since the days of railway construction is now in course of planning, states the Tourist Bureau of the Canadian National Railways.

Author of the plan is Charles F. Bedeaux, wealthy French sportsman whose home is the Chateau Conde. No stranger to Canada's big game lands, Mr. Bedeaux has made an excursion into the territory north-west of Edmonton in the Fall of 1932. So attractive did he find the hunting he began arranging the elaborate excursion that is set for August, this year.

Instead of the traditional mountain pony train, Mr. Bedeaux will use five specially constructed vans to cross the backbone of the continent. Most likely route to be followed is from Edmonton, Alta., over the Northern Alberta Railways to Fort St. John, thence across the Rockies to Telegraph Creek and down the Stikine River, which leads to Wrangell, Alaska.

Auxiliary to the tractors will be heavy draught horses and ponies. A crew of men will be carried—camp helpers, guides, horse wranglers and axe-men to cut a road for the tractors. Supplies have already been contracted for. An airplane will survey the route and be used as a transport while the expedition is on.

Whatever the success of the novel experiment, en route the party will pass through superb game country and find shots galore for camera and gun.

OBITUARY

THE LATE THOS. F. DIAMOND

The passing of Thomas F. Diamond, Toronto, Ont., reminds us, that another descendant of the old United Empire Loyalist family of Diamonds, who located on the shores of Hay Bay many decades ago, has gone over to his reward.

"Tommy," as he was better known, was born at Hay Bay, being the son of Barnabas and Elizabeth Diamond. He received his education at Hay Bay and Napanee, afterward taking up residence in the U. S. A., where he was engaged, for many years, in the fabrication of cloth materials, by The Riverside Woolen Mills Co., of Providence, R.I.

In 1900 he resigned his position to take over a very successful insurance business with The Metropolitan Insurance Company, However, in 1920 he heard the call from his native land, (Canada), and moved to Toronto, with his sister, the late Mrs. Helen Robertson, and purchased a thriving rooming house business, which he carried on successfully until four years ago, when Mrs. Robertson passed on. "Tommy" sold out his business when his sister passed on and lived retired, in Toronto.

It was while he was visiting his nephew, Mr. Walter A. Diamond of No. 3 Baylis Ave., Yorkville, N. Y., that he contracted a severe cold and passed away from a heart attack in the hospital there on the eighteenth of February last.

"Tommy" was a Methodist in religion, a Conservative in politics, regardless of the many years he spent in the U. S., he remained true to the principles of his U. E. L. ancestors and retained his Canadian citizenship. He had a wonderful personality, and was a keen business man. One could not realize that he had passed his allotted time of three score years and ten.

One sister survives, Mrs. Arthur Rendell, of No. 9 South Pelham St., Rhinelander, Wisc. After a service at the home of his nephew, Mr. Walter A. Diamond, the remains were placed in the Yorkville, N.Y., vault, to await interment in the family plot at Sandhurst, Ontario, in the spring.

Empress-Designate Is Both Beautiful And Intelligent

The wife of the emperor-designate of Manchukuo is both beautiful and intelligent, says Mrs. William Mayer, author for two years instructed her in English.

"She is very, very beautiful," said Mrs. Mayer. "Beautiful, judged by any standards. She also is very intelligent and developed a remarkably large English vocabulary during the time I taught her."

Mrs. Mayer, who was reared in Peking, is the wife of Captain William Mayer of the United States Army Field Artillery. She began teaching the empress in 1922. At that time, her 15-year-old pupil was betrothed to Henry Pu-Yi, who was later enthroned as Emperor of Manchukuo.

The empress, whose maiden name is Hsiao Hua, continued her English lessons until the day before she was married.

She did not seem particularly excited," Mrs. Mayer said in response to a question. "She took it very philosophically, although she realized that in becoming the wife of the emperor and entering the forbidden city her life would be limited. At the same time, she realized it was the greatest honor that could be bestowed on a girl of her nationality."

Mrs. Mayer explained that her pupil had never seen the emperor, nor had he seen her. The marriage was arranged by the court and by relatives.

Two weeks after the wedding, the empress resumed her English lessons and continued them until November.

IMAGINARY TOUR OF BRITISH WEST INDIES

Montreal— An audience in the McGill Union Hall at Montreal was told, recently, how a simple carpenter laid down his tools to suddenly become Bermuda's first governor, in the early days of the interesting things concerning Bermuda and the British West Indies.

The speaker, Stanley H. Marsh, told the McGill Spanish Club about Britain's Caribbean possessions, brought close to Canada by the Canada-West Indies Trade agreement and the consequent establishment of liner and freighter service by Canadian National Steamships. He said Bermuda, Britain's oldest colony is, though semi-tropical, too far north to be properly considered a part of the British West Indies.

In Bermuda's crystal caves, 90 feet deep, stalactites and stalagmites are numerous. Mr. Marsh said the icicle like formations grew at the rate of an inch each thousand years; he also revealed that mace is a spice secured from a lace-like growth round the nutmeg, which abounds in certain colonies of the Lesser Antilles.

He told his audience, in fancy right down to the jungles of British Guiana.

And tell him that we miss him so.

PU YI

EMPEROR OF MANCHUKUO
His Ancestors and Their Achievements for China

BY E. M. GALL,
in Manchester Guardian

When on Thursday last, Pu Yi ascended the throne of Manchukuo, as stated in the title Kang Teh, he was not, as might be supposed, promoting himself. He used to be an emperor, Emperor of China, Hsuan Tung, and though in reassuming the imperial title he is not becoming what he was, he is recovering, in the country which bred them, the titular status of predecessors who constituted the Ching dynasty and ruled China from the middle of the seventeenth century down to 23 years ago.

He became Emperor of China when a boy in the terms and largely in virtue of a decree issued by that great personality the Empress Dowager Tse Hsi. It ran as follows:

"The Emperor Tung Shih (who ruled over China from 1861-1875), having died with no heir, we commanded to issue a decree to the effect that he soon as a child should be born to his Majesty Kuang Hsu that child would be adopted as heir to the Emperor Tung Chih. But now his Majesty Kuang Hsu has ascended on high, dragon-horse, and he also has left no heir. I am, therefore, now obliged to decree that Pu Yi, son of Tsai Feng, the "Prince consort during the Government" i.e. Kuang Hsu's brother, Prince Shun—shall become heir by adoption to the Emperor Tung Chih, and that at the same time he should perform joint sacrifices at the shrine of his Majesty Kuang Hsu."

Pu Yi's great grandfather, the Emperor Tao Kuang, who ruled China from 1821 to 1850, traced his descent in direct line from the first Emperor of the Ching dynasty, Shung Chih, who when placed upon the Chinese throne as a boy of six was the Khan of the Manchus. The Empress Dowager Tse Hsi's family was one of the oldest of the Manchu clans and traced its descent in direct line to Prince Sangkuma, whose daughter married Nurhachu, the first direct ancestor of the Ching Emperors. Thus Pu Yi, though he came to the Chinese throne by a process which was at once novel and arbitrary and has now resumed a title which China dissociated from its political system by revolution in 1911, is the representative, not merely of an ancient tradition, but of a stock which is famous in history for the uses with which it maintained and revivified the tradition.

The Manchus

The world is apt to think of the Manchus and of the dynasty which they established in China in terms of the decadence which characterised its closing period, a tendency strengthened by the circumstances in which China was governed by the Western mind during that time. These, from about 1800 onward, showed her, first of all, in an attitude of hostility towards Western things and ideas; then, in impotence to resist them, characterised by ineffectual emulation. So when the revolution of 1911 came and the dynasty was brought to an end, it passed with little regret, except of a sentimental kind.

People were and still are, inclined to forget the achievements of the emperor and entering the forbidden city her life would be limited. At the same time, she realized it was the greatest honor that could be bestowed on a girl of her nationality."

Mrs. Mayer explained that her pupil had never seen the emperor, nor had he seen her. The marriage was arranged by the court and by relatives.

Two weeks after the wedding, the empress resumed her English lessons and continued them until November.

The United States Leads World In Navy Additions

London, Eng. — The United States leads the world in cruisers building and projected, it was shown in an official Admiralty return issued this week, while Japan is building cruisers of unusually heavy armament and Britain is completing the biggest and most powerful fleet of destroyer flotilla leaders.

As battleships remain at fixed limits under the Washington Treaty, it is the activities of the naval powers in these auxiliary classes that is arousing attention. The returns, incidentally issued not long after Chancellor of the Exchequer, Neville Chamberlain had declared, "we have reduced our defences to a dangerously low level," revealed these facts:

Construction Details

The United States has 11 cruisers building, and six more projected; the British Commonwealth has 10 building contracts, three of which have as yet been awarded, and six more projected. France and Italy each have six building, while Japan has two building and two more projected.

50 British Cruisers

In completed cruisers the British Commonwealth has 50, maximum accepted under the London Naval Treaty, but to maintain this figure it has to keep at least 10 over-age ships. Her building is for replacement only, and has lagged behind. The United States has 21, including one over-age; Japan 31, Italy 24, France 15, Russia six and Germany eight.

Japan's two cruisers under construction are of a new type, the Mogami and Mikuma, of 8,500 tons displacement they travel at 33 knots and carry 15 6-inch guns, eight 5-inch anti-aircraft guns and 12 torpedo tubes. The two projected are of the same displacement and, presumably, will have the same armament.

Armament Heavy

The Japanese armament compared with a maximum of eight main guns in corresponding British 6-inch gun vessels. The Japanese ships were responsible for alterations in the British replacement programme a few weeks ago, whereby two heavier cruisers were substituted for three lighter ships.

France Has New Type

France, the return further shows, has developed a type of destroyer flotilla leader of faster speed, more heavily-armed than any in the British navy. She has 24 of these vessels built and seven building. They range between 2,400 and 2,600 tons, with a speed of 36-37 knots, and carry guns of a maximum calibre of 5.5 inches.

Corresponding British flotilla leaders built, total 18. They are armed generally with four or five 4.7-inch guns, and mostly have a speed not exceeding 35½ knots.

Miller's Worm Powders are complete in themselves. They not only drive worms from the system, but repair the damage that worms cause and so ameliorate the constitution that it speedily recovers from the disorders of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasite intruders. They do their work thoroughly and strength and soundness follow their use.

In 1768 Burma was forced to sign a treaty of friendship and tribute with China and to agree to pay a triennial tribute to the Court at Peking. In 1885, before the 19th of the century the Dalai Lama of Tibet appealed to the Emperor for help against the Gurkhas. They had defeated the Chinese troops on the Tibetan borders. A large army was despatched. The Gurkhas were defeated, and their country became, nominally at all events, a tributary State. Thus at the end of Chien Lung's reign Manchu power was supreme from Mongolia to Chohin China and from Formosa to Nepal, and an enormous population of 400,000,000 lived, on the whole, contentedly under a centralised rule which acted through localised authorities allowed a large measure of freedom and initiative.

The secret of the Manchu success lay in the fact that, though they entered China as invaders, they had been long under Chinese influence and entertained a great admiration for her. The secret of their ultimate failure, apart from their failure to continue to produce men of the requisite calibre, was (though this is a generalisation open to dispute) their inability to appreciate early enough the significance of Western pressure.

ORIGIN OF "UNDERWRITER"

There is little apparent romance in life as we live it to-day. In our hurry to get ahead of the next fellow, we are apt to take things for what they are and not for what they were. And yet most commonplace things have a story behind them that somehow makes them seem a little less stereotyped. And so it is with the word "Underwriter."

Back in the eighteenth century, the famous old Lloyd's Coffee House was the rendezvous for ship-owners and merchants who made it a custom to record the values of the cargoes at sea upon the Coffee House blackboard. Capitalists of the time speculated upon the safety of cargoes and guaranteed the owners against loss for a consideration. When they had made a decision to cover a risk they wrote their names on the blackboard beneath the cargo in question. In this way it became known that so and so had underwritten such and such a cargo. In time, "Underwriter" became synonymous with "Insurer," and to-day is generally applied to all types of Canadian Underwriter.

Dread of Asthma makes countless thousands miserable. Night after night the attacks return and even brief respite is given. The mind is still in torment from continual anticipation. Dr. J. D. OUR STRANGE LANGUAGE

When the English tongue we speak,
Why is "break" not rhymed with "freak"?

Will you tell me why it's true
We say "sew" but likewise "few"?
"Beard" sounds not the same as "heard"?

"Cord" is different from "word";
"Cow" is cow, but "low" is low.
"Shoe" is never rhymed with "foe."
And since "dew" is rhymed with "say"
Why not "paid; with "said." I pray?

And in short it seems to me
Sound and letters disagree.

THE WILLOW PLATE

The tradition on which the design is founded is a Chinese romance. A wealthy Mandarin had an only daughter, Lichi, who fell in love with her father's secretary, Chwang, who lived in the island home shown in the top of the design. The father overheard them, avowing their love under the orange tree and sternly forbade them having anything to say to one another. But the lovers decided to elope, and hid for some time in the gardener's cottage, thence making their escape in a boat to the young lover's island home. The enraged Mandarin pursued them with a whip to beat them to death, but the gods rewarded them for their faithfulness to one another by turning them into the turtle-doves shown at the top of the plate.

It is called the willow pattern because it is a tale of disastrous love, and because they eloped when the willow began to shed its leaves.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Huge Market Reported For Ontario Soya Beans

Canadian Soybeans Limited, of Milton, Ont., reports to the Ontario Marketing Board that there is a definite market for at least 250,000 to 300,000 bushels of Ontario-grown soya beans, exclusive of the export demand.

How Much Shall I Seed Per Acre?

The following rates per acre for seeding are general recommendations based on experiments by the Field Husbandry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms Branch: Oats 2½ bushels, fall and spring wheat 1½ bushels, barley 2 bushels, mixed grain, barley 1 bushel, oats 1 bushel, peas large size 3 bushels, peas small size 2 to 2½ bushels, buckwheat 1¼ to 1¾ bushels, corn ½ bushel, potatoes 18 to 20 bushels, mangles 6 to 8 pounds, turnips 3 pounds, rape 3 to 4 pounds.

1934 Plowing Match

Accepting the invitation of York County plowmen, the recent convention of the Ontario Plowmen's Association decided to hold its annual match at Maryvale next October. It was stated that the first plowing match in the York district was held exactly one hundred years ago. The site will be the 350-acre farm, "Maryvale," owned by F. P. O'Connor. Hundreds of plowmen, including many with international reputations will participate in the contests, which will include every class of tractor and team plowing.

Care of the Hen

Natural incubation it still used extensively on the farm, for the hen can do good if she is properly looked after. However, if the hen is to be used for incubation, see that she gets a fair chance. Set several at a time in clean nests, preferably in separate room or colony house. See that they are free from lice, put feed and water in the pens, and give them well selected eggs. By testing out the unfertile eggs it may be possible to transfer the remainder from three hens to two and return the third to the laying quarters. When the chicks are hatched it may be that one hen can take care of them all. Keep the mother and her brood away from the rest of the flock, in a sanitary coop, on clean ground.

Tobacco Committee

The spread between the price paid for tobacco in the leaf and tobacco from the retailer will be examined by a sub-committee of the Agricultural Committee of the Ontario Legislature now in session. It was pointed out by those requesting a special enquiry that, while raw tobacco prices have maintained a steady downward trend, the only reductions in retail prices has been forced on last year's cut in the excise tax.

Cleaning and Grading Fibre Flax Seed for Export

When cleaning tall fibre flax seed for export the greatest care should be taken to see that the seed is not only cleaned up to standard grade but is entirely free from noxious weed seeds. The elimination of broken, shrunken and diseased seeds greatly increases the germination percentage and improves the appearance so that a much better price is received on the export market.

Ontario Pastures

Over twenty-three per cent. or one acre out of every four of the improved acres in Ontario is in pasture, says Prof. N. J. Thomas of O.A.C. The estimated total returns on pasture in the form of live stock and their products from the month of June to October is approximately $40,000,000. Of this, $34,000,000 is derived from dairy produce. Results of experiments have shown that by proper management and improving the fertility of the soil, returns can be increased from 100 to 200 per cent on a very large proportion of pastures.

Abortion in Cattle

It is possible that some farmers are having trouble about this season with cases of bovine infectious abortion in their herds. If so they should write to the Health of Animals Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for Bulletin No. 150, N.S., on this subject, which gives the latest information regarding the disease, and offers the assistance of the Department in its eradication.

All Dominion Experimental Farm herds are now practically free of this dread disease and allied troubles as a result of the application of the blood test and isolation or elimination of reactors as recommended in this bulletin.

Hog Producers Organize

Representative swine raisers from all Ontario counties west of Lennox and Addington met in Toronto recently and undertook the formation of an Ontario Swine Producers' Association. Officials state the organization is purely for the benefit of hog raisers themselves and the organization will be entirely in the hands of the farmers.

Aims of the association are to encourage the production of high quality market hogs, to endeavor to stabilize production and marketing throughout the year and over periods of years and to promote better marketing conditions.

Mr. W. P. Watson, Livestock Branch, has been loaned to the association to do organization work. It is planned to hold meetings in each hog producing county for the purpose of forming local associations.

Re-Organize Cheese Production

Announcement has recently been made by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, that a general Ontario Cheese Factory Patrons' Association is now being formed which "promises to restore our cheese exports and largely increase domestic consumption and production."

Mr. Kennedy said that the new organization has the support of the Government, which will aid it financially in its early stages. The movement, he added, would be backed by the whole energy of the Ontario Marketing Board and the Dairy Branch of the Department.

Central offices of the association, he said, would be established in Belleville. He declared that about 20 Ontario counties have committed themselves to the scheme.

Feeding Opportunity

According to A. A. MacMillan, Dominion Live Stock Branch, there is an excellent opportunity for groups of farmers in the vicinity of Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Regina, Prince Albert, Calgary and Edmonton, if they could be interested in lamb feeding.

At these points a supply of feeder lambs is readily available each year. If groups of farmers undertook lamb feeding, the freight from stockyard or abattoir to the feed lot would be reduced. The making up of carloads of finished lambs would be easy, and each group of farmers could benefit by the experience of neighbors. Thousands of sheep raisers, in both eastern and western Canada, could increase returns from lambs by resorting to careful selection at weaning time, marketing only those that are finished and of desirable weight, and putting the balance into the feed lot for a short-term feeding period.

Cheapest of All Oils.—Considering the qualities of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil it is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. It is to be found in every drug store in Canada from coast to coast and all country merchants keep it in stock. So being easily procurable and extremely moderate in price, no one should be without a bottle of it.

DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

Early Tomato Production

The best prices for tomatoes are paid for early ripe fruit, but the grower must consider the question of having the plants cost more than is reasonable.

The Dominion Horticulturist recommends early sowing coupled with the use of early maturing, good varieties. The sowing should be made just early enough to have stocky, well grown plants in bloom and ready for planting out at the sign of settled weather.

Soils unduly rich in nitrogen tend to promote rank wood growth and a small amount of fruit. Low in nitrogen, high phosphoric acid and a medium amount of potash are essential to good results.

Choice of Variety

Before deciding definitely upon the varieties of grain they will sow this spring, farmers are urged to consult their nearest Experimental Farm or Station. These institutions, at which many varieties are under test annually, are in an exceptional position to offer suggestions of value.

Spring Drainage Observations

Inspect field areas while the spring flood water is still high. Study the course followed by surface waters with a view to improving the surface drainage and preventing soil washing or erosion. Inspect little drains, manholes and outlets for defects and mark all needed repairs for repair before seeding. The Field Husbandry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms offers the following suggestions: Draw a plan of your farm. Sketch and write your drainage observations on the plan this spring.

Concentrated Fertilizers

The use of highly concentrated fertilizer mixtures has increased considerably of late. This is due, in part, to the increased production of high grade superphosphates and ammonium phosphates. The chief advantage in using these concentrated mixtures is the saving of freight and handling charges.

High death rate in baby chicks is due to inferior or diseased breeding stock, faulty incubation, poor brooding facilities or improper feeding.

AT PEACE WITH THE KITCHEN

A Winter Dinner

Cut into small pieces a pound, or as much as is required, of beef. The cheapest cuts can be used, such as skirt or shin, as if carefully followed the method of cooking makes the meat tender. Slice thinly two large onions, a carrot, and a turnip, and fry in a little dripping. First the vegetables then the meat for a few minutes, until light brown. Put meat and vegetables into a casserole, then cook a tablespoonful of flour in the frying-pan until brown. Add a cupful of water and boil until thick and smooth. Season well and pour over the meat and vegetables. Cover the casserole closely and stew gently for two to two and a half hours. The meat must not be allowed to boil fast, or it will be tough.

Another excellent dinner is boiled brisket of beef. The meat can be eaten hot or cold, and the liquid in which it is boiled provides delicious stock for soup. Have the meat (which should not weigh less than three lbs.) rolled, rolled, and tied into shape. Cover it with boiling water, and add a sliced carrot, turnip, onion, parsnip a stick or two of celery, a few peppercorns, and cloves if desired, pepper and salt. Bring to the boil and skim until clear. Then simmer gently for three hours, keeping the pan closely covered. On no account should it be allowed to boil rapidly.

A Successful Meringue

Many people complain that the meringues on top of their desserts are not a complete success. They are frequently soft and shriveled. The secret of making a really successful meringue is to make sure that it is cooked in only a slow oven. It will then become crisp and golden brown slowly. A dash of sugar over the top of an uncooked meringue always helps to give it a glossy professional appearance.

Chicken a la Francaise

A French method of cooking a chicken is to put it in a casserole with plenty of butter, salt, pepper and any other flavouring that may be desired. For a quarter of an hour the casserole is left open and the chicken is what amounts to neither more nor less than fried until it is a perfect golden brown. The real process begins after this. The casserole is shut up hermetically for about an hour. Before this a little water is added—about an eighth of a pint perhaps—and this, becoming steaming and being completely contained by the casserole, reduces the chicken to a softness and moistness which are delicious. The difficulty about ordinary stoves, and particularly about mechanical stoves such as electricity or gas, is that it is difficult to modulate them sufficiently. As the chicken remains in the casserole for an hour after being shut in, it must cook very slowly indeed, just as it cooked quickly while it was being browned. An asbestos mat is a help in slowing down cooking, but is not always adequate, and in many cases it becomes necessary to stand the casserole in a dish filled with warm water, even though it is not in the oven.

PORK PIE

Put a pound of flour into an earthenware pastry-bowl, add half a teaspoonful of salt, and whisk well with a wire whisk. Boil six ounces of lard with quarter of a pint of water, for five minutes. Allow it to cool a little, then add it to the flour and mix and knead thoroughly. Put the bowl containing the pastry into a warm, not hot, place, and let it remain for half an hour.

Prick with a strong darning needle a new-laid egg at both ends so that it may not become discoloured in cooking. Boil for twenty minutes plunge into cold water, and remove the shell. While the egg is cooking cut up one and a half pounds of pork into small pieces. Place on a paper seven inches in diameter into a tin to fit. Having put aside a quarter of the pastry for the lid work the remaining pastry to an even thickness over the bottom and up the sides of the lined tin. When the pie crust is beginning to take its proper shape put in half the pork and then the egg, sliced. Finish working up the sides of the pastry and put in the remaining meat. Knead the pastry for the lid to fit the pie, moisten the edges, press into position. Cut a hole in the top and put a small skewer into the hole to keep it open. The round, the tin two inches of brown paper, raised deeper than the tin, and put a sheet of white paper over the top. Bake in a moderate oven for two and a quarter hours. Remove the skewer, and when the pie is cold, fill up with seasoned jelly stock flavoured with onion. The pie improves with keeping for a day or two.

SOAP—SIX DRY USES

1. Drawers which are difficult to open and shut may be made to run easily if they are well rubbed at the top and bottom with hard soap.

2. If soap is rubbed into the hinges of creaking doors it makes them work silently.

3. A leaking gas-pipe may be temporarily stopped with a plug of soap.

4. If soap is rubbed round the finger-tips and into the nails, before any sort of rough work is done, it will protect them from dirt and stains.

5. Before ironing is begun the hot iron should be rubbed quickly over a cake of hard soap and polished on an old cloth. It will then run smoothly and will not stick to starched things.

6. When tacking is made up into cases for feather pillows or cushions it should be rubbed with soap on the inside. This glazes it so that the feathers are prevented from working their way through.

ANGELSKIN SILKS

To obtain the best results when washing angelskin silk, the silk should never be hung out to become bone dry before it is ironed, thus necessitating "damping down." The angelskin silk should be rolled tightly in a thick towel and left for several hours as soon as it has been washed. Then iron the silk on the wrong side with a warm, not hot, iron. Wash the angelskin silk in the usual way in several bowls of warm, soapy water, but add a small pinch of borax to the final rinsing water.

DELICIOUS

Oven-poached fish fillets make a very tasty dish, and what's more, a dish that is simple and easy to prepare. Here's the way to make it, as outlined by the cookery specialist of the Dominion Department of Fisheries:—

Take from one to two pounds of fillets, which may be cut into portions of three to the pound or left in the strip as desired, and place them in an oiled glass or earthware oven dish. Sprinkle salt and pepper and two tablespoons of lemon juice over the fillets and put dots of butter on top. Then put the dish into a medium oven, 350 degrees, and allow the fish to poach gently for from fifteen to twenty minutes, according to the thickness of the fillets. Then the fish is ready for the table—tasty, easily digested, healthful, healthful both because it is so easily digested and because fish foods contain vitamins and other substances which the human body needs.

Oven-poaching is really oven-steaming and it has this advantage, among others, that it involves no waste of the flavouring juices of the fish such as occurs when steaming is done over a kettle of boiling water. The juices flow out into the cooking dish and make a gravy in which the fillets may be served, or the gravy may be used in making a fish sauce. —Fisheries News Bulletin.

BOSTON BAKED BEANS

Boston baked beans are a nourishing and satisfying food that make a well balanced meal if served with brown bread and a crisp salad of cabbage or greens.

BOSTON BAKED BEANS — Two cups pea beans, 1-3 pound salt pork, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, ½ teaspoon powdered mustard, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 small onion, 1 cup boiling water.

Pick over and wash beans. Cover with cold water and let stand over night. In the morning drain and cover with fresh water. Bring slowly to the boiling point. When water begins to boil, drain and rinse beans in cold water. This prevents them from becoming broken and mushy during baking. In the bean pot put a thin slice of the salt pork and place the onion, peeled but not cut on the pork. Add half the beans. Cut remaining pork in pieces every half inch, making cuts one inch deep and put on top of beans.

Add remaining beans, leaving the rind of the pork exposed. Mix salt, pepper, molasses and sugar with boiling water and pour over beans. Add enough more boiling water to cover beans in bean pot and bake in a slow oven for six hours, removing the cover for the last hour of baking to allow the rind to become brown and crisp. Serve from bean pot.

Boston brown bread always is steamed rather than baked. Raisins may be added to suit the modern taste, but the original "Boston Brown" was made without them.

Local And District News of Women's Organizations

SANDHURST W. A.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's, Sandhurst, met at the home of Mrs. Frank Han, for their monthly meeting, on February 20th. Devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. Robt. Wright, in a manner dispensed with the business part of the meeting. It was decided, owing, to unforseen circumstances, to let the remaining meat bale for Alert Bay, British Columbia, till the March meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Hamilton, at Conway.

The meeting occupied the remaining moments, after which lunch was served by the hostess.

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, which was held at the home of Mrs. Guy, was well attended despite the bad condition of the roads. The meeting opened with the singing of the Doxology and the repeating of the Missionary Prayer in unison.

The president, Miss Cameron, gave a report of the missionary meeting held at Gananoque. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

After the scripture reading, which was taken by Mrs. F. Lloyd, the roll call was responded to by the repeating of a Bible verse on "Peace."

The program for the World Day of Prayer was followed throughout, led by Miss Cameron, Mrs. Robert Lewis and Mrs. Albert Lewis. Each leader gave an address and offered prayer. Mrs. Joseph Lewis, in her usual good voice, sang very effectively "Peace, Wonderful Peace."

Before the dismissal prayer, an expression of sympathy was extended to Mrs. D. Sexsmith and Miss M. Riley in their recent bereavement, and the secretary was requested to write a letter extending the sympathy of the W. M. S. to the other two members of the family, Miss Marion of Ottawa, and Mr. Charles Riley, Guelph.

The meeting closed with prayer in unison.

Religious Services Conducted in The Catacombs, Rome

It is not generally known that a regular underground religious life goes on in the ancient Christian catacombs on the outskirts of Rome, where Masses are said, sermons delivered, Communions given and other religious services held, just as in the days when the Early Christians sheltered in them from the Roman persecution.

The catacombs of St. Callixtus, which are among the most important in Rome are in the care of the Salesian Fathers, whose founder, Don Bosco, will be canonised next Easter Sunday. The Fathers have just put forward an ambitious scheme in honour of the canonisation, suggesting that search be made for the great underground basilica (or church) known to exist in one of the unexplored or excavated passages of the catacombs of St. Callixtus.

This basilica was built by St. Damascus (A.D. 367 - 384), one of the greatest of the early Popes. St. Damascus was a Spaniard by birth and the Salesians have appealed especially to Spanish and South American Catholics for funds to enable the excavations to be proceeded with.

Meanwhile, to celebrate the canonisation of Don Bosco, the Salesians have built a new altar in the crypt of the Popes in the catacombs. In this crypt nine Popes of the third century were buried. Most of them were martyrs for the faith.

The catacombs of St. Callixtus have been visited by many thousands of visitors and pilgrims this Holy Year. From the beginning of Holy Year, up to the end of December last, 3633 Masses were celebrated many by Cardinals and Bishops. More than 40,000 persons received Communion in this period, while the total number of visitors was 300,000.

One of the hopes of the Salesian Fathers is to persuade the Pope to visit them in the catacombs and say a Mass there.

Canada Unable to Compete with Dutch In Rose Production

Ottawa. — Canadian nurserymen will never be in a position to compete with the Dutch in the production of roses, H. Freeburne, of Freeburne's, Limited, Waterdown, Ont., told the Tariff Board, recently. The climate of Holland was so agreeable and its nurserymen had developed such a high efficiency in growing that Canadians, with their severe climate, would never attain a competitive position.

The Board was hearing an application of the Canadian Horticultural Council for an upward revision of the tariff on nursery stock. The Council proposed a tariff of three cents British preference, six cents Intermediate and seven cents general on rose bushes, deciduous shrubs and vines, not otherwise provided for.

Mr. Freeburne objected to this proposal. Canadians wanted rose-bushes and Canadian nurserymen would never be able to supply the whole market of about 1,500,000 bushes a year. Once that area was, it struck Mr. Freeburne as ridiculous that a tariff should be imposed, the effect of which would be to shut out Dutch imports without the compensation of Canadian wants being supplied from domestic sources.

WESLEY LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid of Wesley United Church held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Sexsmith. Mrs. Allen Moore, the president, presided. Mrs. Clancy Moore led the meeting in prayer, after which Mrs. Howard R. Singer read a passage of scripture, taken from Revelation. The minutes were read and adopted. Miss Dulcie Moore gave a beautiful reading "He Keeps the Key." Business was then discussed and the treasurer, Mrs. Ross McKeown gave her report for 1933, stating that $41.16 had been realized by the Ladies' Aid for that year and that the total expenses were $35.35. On February 2nd, 1934 a social was held in Wesley United Church, at which $9.00 was made. Mrs. Hubert Weese then gave a very interesting reading, after which Miss Ellen McKeown gave a reading, entitled "Faith." It was suggested that the roll call for the March meeting be responded to by a verse of scripture, pertaining to Easter. Prayer, by Mrs. Moore then brought the meeting to a close.

COUNT THESE VALUES!

6 Revolutionary Advancements . . . And only in Chevrolet do you get them ALL combined!

ADVANCED NEW ENGINE DESIGN. Features an entirely new and exclusive development—the Blue Flame cylinder head. Scientifically designed to permit the gasoline mixture to burn evenly, without waste—this new head gives more horsepower, speed and smoothness with lower cost for gasoline and oil.

STRONGER "YK" TYPE FRAME

Strongly braced with girder-like steel sections. This new frame gives far greater resistance to twisting, wrenching strains that cause squeaks and rattles in the chassis and body. Proof against sagging. The "YK" construction actually represents "a frame within a frame".

KNEE-ACTION FRONT WHEELS

Most important of the revolutionary features contributing to the FLOATING RIDE. "Knee-action" wheels rise and fall like knees over uneven road surfaces—without transmitting bump or bounce to the frame or body of the car. Steering is easier. Tire wear is reduced.

STURDIER, ROOMIER FISHER BODIES

Thanks to the advanced front end design, and redistribution of the new car's weight, Fisher craftsmen have been able to lengthen and widen the new bodies considerably. Interiors are roomier and complete with many fine appointments. Improved Fisher No-Draft Ventilation is a feature.

BIGGER, SAFER BRAKES

The new brakes are larger, more powerful, more positive in action. They require less pedal effort, yet bring the car to a smooth, silent stop much quicker than before. Machined cooling fins on the drums and wider linings reduce the need for adjustment and increase brake life.

AUTOMATIC STARTERATOR

Pioneered by Chevrolet in 1931, improved on the new models, this device does away with all the "acrobatics" of starting the car. With Starterator, you simply turn the ignition switch, press lightly on the accelerator pedal, and the engine starts. Stalling is abolished.

In Other Words—

"Break Glass, Pull Knob. Wait Engine," is a glorious example of plain speaking, writes Mr. H. T. Stretton in the Times. Your income-tax clerk would probably have worded it thus: "In case of the event of information having come to the knowledge of any person or persons with regard to a fire having broken out, or in any way being, according to such information, said or thought to have broken out, the person, or persons, to whom such information shall have or may have come, shall assume the assistance of a fire engine by pulling the knob, said person or persons having broken the glass, through which said knob may be observed but the existence of which unbroken presents an obstacle to the pulling thereof, the latter action to take place subsequently and in no case previously to the former, whereupon and as a result thereof, the fire engine thus summoned by the action or series of actions on the part of the person or persons aforementioned, shall be awaited by the said person or persons whose action it was, said by no other, at or near the spot where the action or actions before described as having caused or having been intended to cause the arrival of the fire engine, were carried out or otherwise executed, and in no case elsewhere, such waiting to be subsequent to and not in advance of said action or actions."

THE MEANEST FLOWER THAT BLOWS

BY WEARE HOLBROOK
In The New York Herald Tribune

Some say it is the goldenrod; others accuse the rose. Still others, with no eye for esthetic possibilities, blame the humble ragweed. But the original scapegoat has been absolved from all responsibility. After much painstaking research, scientists have discovered that it is quite possible to have hay fever without hay.

In a synthetic age which rejoices in caffeinless coffee, nicotineless tobacco, non-alcoholic vermouth, fireless cookers and skinless frankfurters, this is not surprising. It provides another illustration of the adaptability of mankind.

With the recent disappearance of the horse (I am referring not to the milkman's horse that wakes you up with a tap dance on the pavement at 5 o'clock in the morning, but to the species in general) and its chief article of diet, hay fever addicts were left temporarily without a raison d'etre. But they soon adjusted themselves to their hyper-civilized environment. They began sneezing at airedale dogs, whisk brooms, motor fumes and plain ordinary dust.

And today, with the nearest livery stable twenty miles away, they can suffer as acutely as they did before the dawn of the Gasoline Era. Their fever is hay in name only.

Yet in spite of all the modern improvements fostered by science, the gentle goldenrod still gets the credit for most of the midsummer sneezing and wheezing. It has an international reputation as a pollen scatterer; no substitutes can lower its prestige.

It is easy to recognize the hay feverish at this time of the year; by their snoots you shall know them. They may be divided into two classes: the early blooming noses and the late blooming noses. (There are the hardy perennials, too, but they are a cultivated variety resulting from auburn or moonshine; in fact, they are usually hybrid types, produced by crossing Scotch with soda or gin with orange juice. Hay has nothing to do with them, although corn may.)

The early blooming noses make their first appearance in June, and if tended carefully they may last all summer. Their brilliant coloring is accentuated by white flannels and straw hats and by the paller of the as-yet-untanned cuticle which surrounds them. They grow rapidly—or at least feel as if they do—bursting into full flower overnight and attaining heroic proportions as the season advances. The "Cyrano de Bergerac" is an imported variety which has become very popular in this country.

But the late blooming noses are more common and no less colorful. There are three types: the ordinary bulb (achnozzelia vulgaris), the rambler (schnozella fugitatis) and the ever blaring (schnozella klaxonia). The bulb type is the most satisfactory, and it is the kind that most of us have.

Rambler noses are extremely sensitive, and so are their owners. Usually these exotic blooms are hidden behind handkerchiefs and the only way you can identify them is by the faint sniffling of the wind as it soughs among the membranes.

The ever blaring type is both visible and audible. It is similar to the bulb in appearance and to the rambler in action, but its sound effects are much more elaborate. They range from a gentle chugging (tem.) like a distant locomotive, to a violent tooting (masc.) like a near-by factory whistle. The latter requires years of cultivation and reaches its maximum resonance among the middle aged.

Occasionally a man is able to develop two or three distinct toots of different tones, which become a sort of personal theme song by which he can be recognized miles away. They say that although he never heard of Wagner, Uncle Amariah Thatch, of East Teabone, can play the motif of the Valkyries" with his nose, with nothing but a bandana handkerchief. His acoustics are phenomenal.

Ever blaring noses may be found in the greatest profusion in theatres and auditoriums. Any dramatic hush in the course of a play or a symphony is a signal for blasts from the orchestra seats that would, if anything. If all the tenors and basses in the audience could be grouped together we might hear some charming antiphonal harmonies; or if they could be moved out in to the alley we might hear what is going on on the stage.

Although they are not organized, there is a sort of free masonry among hay fever sufferers. Mutual misery binds them together. A handkerchief in their emblem and a sneeze their salute.

But their sufferings lack the epical quality. Hay fever is neither contagious nor catastrophic. It excites a great deal of advice and hardly any sympathy; the people who have it are too busy with their own troubles, and the people who haven't, don't care. Yet it has one peculiar virtue which, by no other, at or near the spot where the action or actions before described as having caused or having been intended to cause the arrival of the fire engine, were carried out or otherwise executed, and in no case elsewhere, such waiting to be subsequent to and not in advance of said action or actions."

AIMS IN READING

BY HELEN M. JOHNSON
In Journal of Nat. Ed. Association

In these days of the child-centered school with its vitalized and enriched curriculum, and the great need for well established reading skills, reading activities and reading aims more than ever must challenge the interest and active attention of the teacher. Children are not expected to have the attainments of adults but it has been ascertained that the individual who does not read for both information and pleasure who does not habitually use books effectively and independently in the solution of problems, who does not know the up-to-date library and who is not skilful in the use of its aids, suffers a great loss. What aims, then, must the teacher have as his goal and what objectives must he try to realize if reading is to function vitally and fully in the lives of the children he is teaching?

One of the major aims in reading is to provide opportunities for a rich and varied experience. This objective will be realized as reading and study it suggests the up-to-date, classified school library where the pupils not only come in contact with juvenile fiction and literary masterpieces, but where varied and interesting materials in the fields of science, travel, biography, history, civics, invention, etc., suited to their age and development, are revealed to them. What a variety of experiences come to a child who has access to a delightful library trip through China by way of books! What a little time and chance to travel in reality but by means of such journeys he becomes well acquainted with the world and its people. Did you ever visit an elementary school library where a fascinating table of books, pamphlets and pictures would take you on a long cruise ? One reading trip of this type with its host of experiences leads to another.

The school should cultivate the desire for good reading. Too many adults, to-day, lack the reading habit. Is the school responsible for this ? Has reading been a distasteful school subject to the child ? Has there been a serious breach between the teaching of the mechanics of reading and the functioning of reading in the understanding of history, geography, arithmetic, etc., and the enjoyment of a good story ? Have the kindergarten child may be taught that the book contains the story that he wants to hear or the information that he needs.

If adults are to be socially serviceable they must be interested in reading the current events of the day and books of genuine worth. Fortunately the school is awake to its failure in the past; materials and methods are being used which make the child aware of the values to be derived from reading. The second grade child knows where to secure reading material which will help him construct his Eskimo hut. The older child consults various references in the solution of his self-adopted problems. May we not be optimistic and hope for a better realization of this aim?

Reading instruction should develop desirable attitudes, habits, and skills if it is to function as a tool. Not only is it essential in the functioning of reading as a tool subject but without its accomplishment all other reading aims would prove a failure. Entire books have been written upon this subject, yet reading is so diversified and complex a process that no complete classification of habits, attitudes, and skills has yet been made. It is my purpose to mention only outstanding objectives and to classify them in three groups.

"Learning to read—developing the fundamental reading habits" is primarily the problem of the primary grades. In days past, even though reading was the most important subject in the curriculum, much less was accomplished in the fulfillment of this aim than today. In those days reading was largely oral and frequently meaningless and boresome. Today, the psychologist, the reading diagnostician, and the trained teacher have established the individualization of reading instruction to the end that the following attitudes, habits and skills have become goals:

1. Children should desire to read because reading is meaningful from the outset.

2. The habit of reading silently before reading aloud should be formed.

3. New words should be attacked independently.

4. Reading should be for a definite purpose.

5. Reasonable fluency in silent and oral reading in which accurate recognition of words, phrases, and sentences with rhythmical sweeps of the eye across the page may be expected.

6. "By the end of the third grade children should have a hearty interest in the liking for books, a permanent interest in recreational material, and a definite recognizable ability to use books to answer their questions." (Yoakam in Reading and study.)

The intermediate grades should make provision for "wide reading to extend and enrich experience and to further important reading attitudes, habits, and tastes."

1. The fundamental reading habits should be mastered in this grade and responsibility should be individualized to meet needs.

2. The dictionary habit should be established.

"There should be wide reading of the recreational and the work type; reading should be in every field of learning: biography, geography, history, etc. Factual material should be stressed.

4. Reading should be for a definite purpose — to get the main thought, to answer a definite question, to follow directions, to judge the value of material, to locate a reference, to outline selections, to appreciate the thought or to interpret a passage.

5. Skills acquired should be applied in the various content subjects and training exercises conducted in those subjects. For example: in solving arithmetic problems, in finding history references, in securing the answers to geography problems, etc.

6. The habit of using the library or dictionary whenever appropriate as well as for pleasure should be established. This involves skill: in locating books, catalogues, in using books and placing books on shelves, in using tables of contents and indexes of books in connection with problem study, in making bibliographies on definite topics.

By the end of the sixth grade children should have the reading habit fairly well established. For many children school life ends at this time and they must be prepared for the reading needs of life.

Grades seven and eight represent the period when reading attitudes, habits and skills developed in the intermediate grades should be refined and extended. The ultimate reading goal of these grades is independence and efficiency in reading within the school and in life situations without the school.

1. Reading technics should be consciously improved through individualized instruction.

2. Experiences should be greatly extended by wide reading of books, periodicals, newspapers in connection with the content subjects.

3. Standards of taste should be developed in selecting materials to read.

4. Permanent interests in current events and matters of civic interest should be inculcated.

5. A high degree of skill should be developed in the use of books and library aids, and efficiency secured made in locating, collecting and organizing material for various purposes.

Are the reading aims which have been stated the true aims ? Are they justifiable in that, they enable children to engage in school activities and life activities better to-day than in the past ?

In conferences with more than nine hundred adults, Gray, Parsons and others found "that intelligent reading is a most significant means of familiarizing adults with current events; and with significant social

THE HOUSEHOLD
— OF —
HENRY YE EIGTH
(From The Countryman)

By the kindness of the Duke of Montrose we have had the opportunity of looking through an old scrap book, lately discovered in the library at Buchanan Castle. Among its contents are these sapient directions for the Household of Henry Ye Eight, beginning with one for country house visits :

"His Highness's attendants are not to steal any Lock or Keys, tables, forms, cupboards, or other furniture, out of Noblemans or Gentlemans Houses where he goe's to visit.

"Master Cooks shall not employ such scullions as go about naked, or lie at Night on the ground before the Kitchen fire.

"No Dogs to be kept in the Court, only a few spaniels for the Ladies. Dinner to be at ten, and Supper at four.

"The Officers of his Privy Chamber shall be loving together — no grudging, nor mumbling; nor talking of the King's Pastime.

"The King's Barber is enjoin'd to be cleanly, not to frequent the Company of misguided Women, for fear of danger to the King's Royal Person.

"Coal only to be allow'd to the King's, Queen's and Lady Mary's Chambers.

"The Brewer not to Put any Brimstone in the Ale.

"Among the fishes for the table, the Porpoise, if too big for a Horse-Load an extra allowance to the Purveyor.

"Order'd that all Noblemen and Gentlemen at the End of the Sessions of the Parliament, depart to their several Counties on Pain of the Royal Displeasure."

And here is an entry of a much later date :

"Mrs. Montagu, disputing with Mr. Fox, who was at one of her Parties, concluded with telling him that she did 'not regard him three skips of a louse,' on which he took up the Pen, and wrote the following Epigram :

"A Lady once told me, and—in her own house,
That she did not regard me "three skips of a louse.'
I forgive the dear Creature, whatever she said,
For Women will talk of—What runs in their head."

"IT'S REALLY FALSE ECONOMY TO USE DOUBTFUL BAKING POWDER. INSIST ON MAGIC. LESS THAN 1¢ WORTH MAKES A BIG CAKE!"

SAYS MISS ALICE MOIR, Dietitian of one of Montreal's finest apartment-hotel restaurants

MAGIC
Costs so little—and it gives consistently fine baking results. Actually less than 1¢ worth of this fine-quality baking powder makes a big layer cake. Don't risk failures with inferior baking powder. Bake with Magic and be sure!

Made in Canada

"CONTAINS NO ALUM." This statement up every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER
Wake Up Your Liver Bile . . . Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can get you up and at 'em quicker than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of bile into your bowels—and life certainly gets grey. The sluggish flow of bile starves digestion and stimulation and makes you "feel punk." Your stomach gets sour, you get constipated, pain. Your breath is bad and the tongue is coated, so is furry. You're sick, sour, bilious, "all in," of course, because your system is full of poisons.

Most liver pills are mere salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are just not enough to correct your sluggish intestines. You're livery and you must wake up your liver bile to be feeling right.

A good calomel substitute. The thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. You never upset you because they're purely vegetable and gentle. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills and see that you get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists.

BANKING CREDIT IS AVAILABLE

HEAD OFFICE MONTREAL

Commercial loans in Canada, it is sometimes suggested, have shown a declining trend through restriction of credit by the chartered banks. The truth is that more banking credit is available than those directing sound enterprises are able or willing to employ.

This bank has not in the past, and does not today, withhold credit for legitimate and sound purposes.

It has had, and it has today, ample resources from which it is prepared to make loans.

Enquiries are invited at any one of its 564 offices throughout Canada.

Miss Delma Kimmerly spent the week end at her home.

Owing to the disagreeable weather the Mount Pleasant Pioneer W. I. did not hold their meeting on Friday night.

Mrs. M. P. Husband is visiting her mother, Mrs. Vanalstine, Napanee.

Mr. Ross Asselstine has moved to his farm on the Selby Road, west.

Quarterly meeting will be held at this appointment, next Sunday.

The W. M. S. are holding a quilting at the home of Mrs. S. E. Winter, on Thursday. Dinner will be served by the ladies belonging to Mrs. Winter's group.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ashley and Mr. R. Minchin, spent Thursday evening at Mr. F. Husband's.

Mr. and Mrs. R. McMath and Mrs. E. English, McGillivray McMath, spent Saturday evening at the home of F. Kimmerly.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Mount Pleasant, March 5.—A number from this community are glad to see the warm spring-like weather again.

Mr. Gerald Hawley left on Sunday last to accept a position in Toronto

Mr. and Mrs. W. Woodcock were visitors on Wednesday, at Mr. A. D. Snider's.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Dejdze spent Sunday afternoon last at Mr. W. Hudson's.

Mrs. H. Stafford and Mable spent Friday at Mr. and Mrs. B. Storey's.

Glad to report Mr. C. Hawley is improving and is able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCabe visited, last Sunday afternoon, at Mr. R. Horeboom's.

Mr. Roy Stafford spent the dinner hour at his aunt's, Mrs. H. Stafford's

A number of the neighbors spent an enjoyable evening, on Friday, at the home of Mr. C. Martin.

Owing to unfavorable weather the Institute meeting was withdrawn last Friday evening, until some night this week.

Mrs. B Storey and Mrs. W. Hudson spent Thursday afternoon at Mrs. H. Stafford's and Mable's.

Miss Ruby Rickey spent the week end at her sister's home, Mrs. Fred Henderson.

Mrs. H. Stafford, Mr. Fred Stafford and Mable, called on Mr. Mike McGinness, who has been very ill, on Thursday.

SELBY

Selby, March 5. — Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Seales were surprised by their neighbours and friends on Wednesday evening, when they gathered to express their regrets and good wishes on the occasion of their departure to their new home at Grieve's Corners. As a tangible evidence of the esteem in which they were held and a reminder of past pleasant association spent in our midst, they were presented with a chair. Mr. Seales made a very fitting reply.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society, held last Thursday afternoon. The programme was in charge of Mrs. Frank Amey. At the conclusion a tribute was paid to the work and memory of the late Mrs. S. B. Cook, who gave so liberally of her time and talent in the promotion of the W. M. S. program. It was recalled that Mrs. Cook organized the first Mission Band in connection with the local work.

A gloom was cast over the community Friday morning, when it became known that Mrs. Henry Marlin, a much beloved and honoured neighbour, had passed peacefully away during the night. The funeral service, which was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Smith, Sunday afternoon, was attended by a large congregation. Sympathy is extended to her bereaved husband and the immediate relatives.

Mr. James Denison spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. B. F. Denison.

Mr. and Mrs. Datus Denison, of Newburgh, were dinner guests of their daughter, Mrs. Alex. Garrett, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James McLeod and children, of Belleville, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chambers of Little Creek, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Wood, on Sunday last.

Miss Fanny McAuley returned from Toronto on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dudgeon were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilde, one day recently.

Mr. John McConnell of Forest Mills, and family, have moved to the village.

Mr. and Mrs. James Booth spent Friday in Napanee and attended the celebration of the golden wedding of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Windover.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rikley and Billy, spent Sunday with his parents.

An interesting event for the coming week is a social evening under the direction of Miss Lucille Hudgeon, group of the Woman's Missionary Society. To one and all they extend the following invitation:—

Pör St. Patrick's evening on March twelfth.

Plaze come to the Church Hall with ten cents, yourself.

We'll have a good program and something to eat.

Don't miss this evening or you'll miss a treat.

YARKER

Yarker, March 3.—On Friday night of last week the Young People of the United Church Sunday School took their play, "The Three Pegs," over to Hartington, and presented it there. They report a very small attendance owing to the inclemency of the weather and the blocked condition of many of the roads. They experienced some difficulty in getting back to Yarker as the heavy rain had made the road heavy for cars.

We were glad to see the snow-plough come down the hill Saturday morning. It made the road passable for cars from here to Napanee, which had been blocked for over a week. During that time, the only way a car could get out of or into this village was by way of Portland. They have kept the road over there open to car traffic all winter, for which we congratulate them.

Miss Helen Shibley of Harrowsmith, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Winter.

Mr. Clinton Smith is on the sick list and has been for some time.

Mrs. Dennis Smith has been confined to her bed for the last few days.

Mrs. J. B. Anderson is in a very critical condition. Mrs. Card is much improved.

Mr. John Jane, Sr., sustained a very serious accident one day last week. He, with his two sons, were in the woods felling a tree. In the tree's descent it caught the limb of another tree, which was broken and thrown back, falling and striking Mr. Jayne on the head. He was rendered unconscious by the blow. While he received a severe wound, there was no fracture of the skull nor concussion of the brain. He is suffering considerable pain and soreness, but no serious results are anticipated.

Miss Porter, who was taken to the General Hospital over a week ago is reported to be improving from the operation she underwent.

Mr. Albert Carroll was taken to the hospital, last week.

The funeral service for the late Mrs. Almon Brown was conducted at the home on Monday of this week, at two o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Brown had been in failing health for some time and on Thursday of last week, suffered a severe stroke, from which she did not rally and died about noon, the following day. The body was placed in the vault at Sydenham, to await burial in Wilton cemetery in the Spring. Mr. Brown was buried there, some few years ago.

Bookkeeping is the silent art of not returning books borrowed.

We'll try to be crazy and happy and jolly;
Shure anything else would be greater of folly.
Come on wid yez now, about eight at the clock,
And wear something green on your coat or your frock.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, March 5. — Considerable excitement was caused for a few minutes in the village, on Thursday when a team of horses attached to a sleigh belonging to Floyd Cowdy, which had been left standing in front of the hardware store, became frightened and ran away up the street. Upon reaching the corner at the top of the hill on Main Street, the horses instead of turning one of the corners ran, one on each side of the Hydro pole at the top of the hill and were brought to a sudden stop with very little damage being done with the exception of several broken straps on the horses. Considerable damage was done to a sign attached to the pole, which advertised the hockey games.

Recently, an old resident of Enterprise, in the person of William Keech, after an absence of fifty years, paid a visit to the village to renew old acquaintance. Mr. Keech is now eighty-two years of age and has, for a number of years, been living in Cochrane in New Ontario, with his son, his wife having died some years ago. He is a brother of Amos Keech of Verona, who is now ninety-two years of age. Some fifty years ago, Mr. Keech lived in a part of the house now owned by George Conboy, which was, at that time, owned by a cousin of the late Wiley Keech, who also lived in the house at the same time. Mr. Keech found very few of the, old friends of that time, now living in the village. He called on his old friend, Truman Jackson on the morning of the day on which Mr. Jackson passed away so suddenly in the afternoon, from heart failure. He was a visitor with another old friend and relative, Edwin Lockwood. Mr. Keech was very enthusiastic in his praise of New Ontario, and the fertility of its soil. He told very interesting stories of the abundance of wild life, particularly moose, a very large one being seen quite frequently. Mr. Keech's family were of German origin, who had emigrated to America before the war of the rebellion and had come to Canada with the United Empire Loyalists.

The Enterprise hockey team journeyed to Verona on Wednesday, and in a game with the Verona team were defeated in a score of 3-2. A return game with Verona was staged for Saturday afternoon, but owing to the heavy rain on Friday night, the rink condition was so bad that the game had to be cancelled.

An exceedingly large number of logs have been drawn to the local saw mill, this winter. The very heavy wind storm which swept over this part of the country on June 28th, last blew down a large number of trees in the woods throughout this district which have been cut up into logs and drawn to the mill here to be cut into lumber.

Victor McCreer of Sydenham, who has charge of the Imperial Oil gasoline and oil tanks here, has been compelled, on account of the road conditions, to resort to a tank mounted on sleighs and drawn by horses, to supply the needs of his customers throughout this district.

Mr. V. D. Oliver, who for the past eleven years has been manager of the Royal Bank here, has received notice that he is being removed from the office here to take charge of the office of the Royal Bank at Chesco, near London, Ont. Mr. Stewart, of Toronto, is taking his place as manager here. Mr. Oliver will be very much missed here, especially among the members of St. John's Anglican Church, where he took a very active part in the activities of that church.

Mr. Adam Fingland, a well known farmer of this vicinity is, at present in rather a poor state of health. Mr. Fingland is a veteran member of Red Rose Lodge, I.O.O.F. Several years ago he received a twenty-five year veteran jewel. His many friends wish him a speedy return to health.

David Keech, a young farmer living west of the village, has been seriously ill with an attack of appendicitis, together with jaundice.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bell, who for some days was quite ill, is now much improved in health again.

John Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, of Moscow, who some time ago was operated upon for appendicitis in the Hotel Dieu at Kingston, has not, as yet, recovered sufficiently to be able to return to his home.

Mrs. F. Laughlin of Napanee, who has been spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Byron Crook, has been a sufferer of La Grippe for the past few days.

On Friday evening, a large number of the residents of Moscow, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Herrington, lately married, and spent a very enjoyable evening. During the evening the young couple were presented with a purse of twenty-five dollars.

On Monday morning, Messrs. Milo and Miles Jackson went to Chippawa with their wood sawing outfit, to saw a pile of wood for Daniel Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy evidently intends to be well prepared should the next winter be as cold as the present one, for they cut eighty loads of wood.

Lorne Wagar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Wagar, who is living at Stittsville, near Ottawa, in a recent letter to his parents, stated that for days during the past few weeks, the thermometer stood at 30 below zero and at times dropped, rising as low as 43 degrees below. The snow in the north has drifted as high as the telephone wires.

Sunday being the first Sunday in March, services were held in the United Church at Enterprise on Sunday morning at Desmond in the afternoon and Centreville in the evening, owing to the road conditions. Rev. D. M. Stinson was unable to reach the two last named places on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Burgess have moved into their new home on the farm recently purchased from O. B. Jackson.

Conway - Sandhurst

Bath, March 3.—The mild weather is being hailed with delight. Everyone seems to have had sufficient of the old-fashioned winter. At present the roads are in an uncertain condition for hauling wood and feed though many farmers are engaged at this work.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hogeboom visited at Amherst Island, last week.

Rev.- Sanders returned from Toronto on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hawley have taken up residence on the farm of Mrs. William Fitchett.

Congratulations and the thanks of the people of this mail route, are due to Mr. Franklin, the mail carrier, who, through all the cold, stormy weather and very poor roads, made his trips without fail. It has certainly been much appreciated by those who enjoy their daily paper.

Mrs. J. A. Young returned from Toronto where she spent the past week.

Misses Elizabeth Sills and Reta Brown spent the week end at their homes here.

Lenten services were held in St. Paul's Church on Wednesday night.

No child should be allowed to suffer an hour from worms when prompt relief can be got in a simple but strong remedy — Mother Graves's Worm Exterminator.

FOURTH LINE

Fourth Line, March 3.—The moderate weather at the present time is very much welcomed, and it seems as if Spring was near at hand.

A very enjoyable time was spent on Friday evening last, when a number of the Fourth Line Young People's Society went to Wilton, by sleigh, and presented the program for the young people there. Much appreciation is due the Wilton Y. P. S., for the splendid way in which they entertained the visiting society.

Miss Bessie Card is spending some time at the home of Mr. Chester Card, Odessa.

Messrs. James Baines and Ford Denyes were among those who attended the Masonic banquet in Odessa, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Smith entertained some friends on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Craig were callers at the home of William Robson, on Sunday.

Miss Helen Babcock, of Wilton, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Denyes, last week.

Aim of Central Bank Explained in Letter From J. A. Weese, M.P.

No Competition With Chartered Banks

Ottawa, Ontario,
March 9, 1934.

To the Editor,
Napanee Beaver,
Napanee, Ont.

Dear Sir:

From time to time I am requested from residents of Prince Edward-Lennox for information and an expression of my opinion upon the new Central Bank legislation, which is before Parliament at the present time.

There appears to be a great deal of confusion in the country as to what the Central Bank is supposed to be, so I thought it might be of interest to readers of your valuable paper if I were to submit a brief commentary of the outstanding features of this legislation, which will establish in the country what will be known as the Bank of Canada.

Apparently the basic idea of a Central Bank creates no discord. Mr. King, and the Opposition, approve the principle, taking care not to commit themselves on the details, which will be discussed when the Bill goes to the Special Committee. Some people believe that the Central Bank is just a competitor of the present Chartered Bank. This is not the case. To set up another Bank in competition to our present one, and operate them on the same basis, would not, to any extent, benefit anyone. The object of the Central Bank is not to be as a competitor of the present banks, instead it will supplement them. It is described as providing "leadership" for the Bank and governing the credit facilities of the country—expanding them at times like the present and applying restriction if, and when, necessary. It will act as a regulator and controller of credit and currency within the country. It also acts as a regulator of foreign exchange, and it accomplishes this end by keeping our currency in the same relationship of the world at par, with the currencies of other countries on a gold standard. This is an important fact to our importer and exporter, and the ultimate results will be no parent to everyone as the Central Bank moves to control the position of the Canadian dollar in the International Exchange.

"Public vs. Private Ownership"

Now comes the question of ownership. This question, undoubtedly will be a topic for a lively debate: "Public vs. Private Ownership." We are not setting up a privately owned institution, a bank whose stock is owned by the public. This was recommended by the MacMillan Commission, and while the Bank will be privately owned, we are setting up that is safeguarded against the dangers of private ownership. We do not want to publicly owned institution because of the danger of political interference, for we must realize the power that would be brought to bear from sectional interests upon a Government that owned a Bank. Undoubtedly, from time to time, it would be enormous. I do not need to develop this point further. We can go by the experience of other countries—of the thirty-six countries having Central Banks, only six are publicly owned.

Those who argue Public Ownership do so because they think they see a real danger in Private Ownership. These critics think that Private Ownership has certain dangers. What are the dangers? What they fear is that the Central Bank will come under the domination of the Bankers, that the Chartered Banks and financial interests will be to blame for their purposes. The proposed legislation absolutely safeguards against dangers of this kind: First, no Bank, directly or indirectly, can own a share of stock; Second, no banker, officer, director, or employee can own a share of this stock; Thirdly, no individual or corporation can own more than fifty shares of this stock, $5,000.00 worth. This means, at the least, 10,000 shareholders. In the fourth place, the profit of this Bank, after paying a dividend, absolutely limited to 6%, will go to the public treasury. Although the Government does not guaranteed that shareholders will receive the 6% on money invested if profits do not warrant this payment of dividend. This means that the management of this Bank is not being asked to make the Bank for the purpose of making large, or excessive profits for shareholders, but rather to operate on the same as a public trust in the best interests of the economic life of this country.

Appointment of Officers.

The Bank will be under the management of a Board of Directors, composed of a Governor, Deputy-Governor, Assistant Deputy Governor and seven Directors, who shall in the first place, be appointed by the Governor-in-Council. When their term expires they are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. When their terms expires they are appointed by the Shareholders, subject to the approval of the Governor-in-Council, even after first appointment and hold office for a period of six years and are retired in rotation one at the third Annual Meeting, and two at the Sixth Annual General Meeting, respectively. With these provisions we have struck a happy medium, since the middle course to free the bank from direct interference on the one hand and avoiding the danger of selfish private control on the other.

The new Bank can buy and sell gold and silver Bills of Exchange, can buy, sell or rediscount Bills of Exchange or Promissory Notes endorsed by a Chartered Bank, make loans to Private Banks, make loans to the Dominion and Provincial Governments and must act as fiscal agent of the Dominion Government without charge. It cannot enter into such commercial transactions as are now performed by the Private Banks, nor can it loan on real estate or accept deposits from firms or individuals at interest. The Bank of Canada will have sole right to issue notes intended for circulation in Canada and these notes will be Legal Tender. The note issuing privilege of the Chartered Banks will be gradually withdrawn and replaced by the Bank of Canada notes, approximately 25% the first year and 5% yearly thereafter, for a period of ten years.

Central Bank to Control Gold

The Bank of Canada notes will be redeemable in gold but not in small-er quantities than a bar containing 400 ounces worth, at present, $13,-000.00. The Government will be given power on the day the Bank commences business to require every person and Chartered Banks to turn over the gold coin and bullion to the Central Bank. This may sound like confiscation, but on analysis you will be able to justify it quite-easily. In the first place, why have the banks got their gold? Did they buy it as an investment or speculation upon which to make money? They did not. They bought it, because it was obligation of their purchaser under the terms laid down in the Currency Act. It is one of the obligations of any institution carrying on a currency or credit function to maintain a reserve of gold and legal tender against its liabilities. The Banks of Canada have been keeping what gold they have, because they knew it was necessary to carry out the public franchise which they were given by Parliament, in order to transact business. Now the Government changes the currency system by an Act of Parliament. It is the decision of the Government that has made gold worth more money and the Banks have no right to this profit, resulting from a decision made by the Government in connection with its monetary standard.

The Central Bank will commence business with 71,000,000 of gold from the Minister of Finance and a certain amount of gold from the Banks. The question has been asked: When will the Government get a profit on the gold? Probably not until they decide to revalue our gold, by amending our Currency Act and putting Canada on a new monetary standard instead of $20.67 per ounce, the value may be $35.00 per ounce. When this decision is taken, then the profit will accrue to the Government.

Trusting that these remarks may be of interest to your readers, I am, Yours faithfully,

JOHN A. WEESE.

Regular Meeting of School Board

The regular meeting of the Napanee Board of Education was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening. The chairman, Mr. Alpine Woods, presided, and the following members were present: Dr. A. C. Tummon, P. Gleeson, J. E. Miller, J. L. Boyes, E. J. Pollard, O. B. Reid, Dr. D. R. Hall, and C. E. Jamieson, W. J. Trenouth and W. F. Barrett.

The report of the school nurse, Miss L. Lauder, was received and filed. A letter from the Ontario Trustees and Ratepayers' Association was also received and filed.

The matter of taking out accident liability insurance for the schools, discussed at a previous meeting, was laid over indefinitely.

The report of the Finance Committee, re estimates for the year 1934-was received and adopted.

W. F. Barrett, the School Attendance Officer, gave his report. He had received 14 complaints from the schools. Nine of these were investigated and two children sent to school.

School Principals' Reports

Mr. Trenouth, Principal of the Public Schools, presented his report for February. It showed the total enrolment 468, with an average attendance of 415.27. The perfect aggregate was 8305½, and the possible aggregate was 8421.

Total days lost was 1054½. Absent through sickness, 840; of these 2½ days were for unlawful sickness, 46 for lawful home help, 13 for unlawful home help, parental neglect 10½, physical obstacles 7, truancy 1 and privation 1½.

The report of C. E. Jamieson, principal of the Collegiate, showed the total number of pupils in the Collegiate department, 234, with a percentage of perfect attendance of 90.6. The number in the vocational school was 90, with an attendance average of 88.

Mr. Trenouth made a request for two additional blackboards, one each for Miss Way's and Miss Parks' rooms. Request granted.

It was moved by Dr. Hall and seconded by J. E. Miller, and carried that parents be notified through the papers that no children under six years of age, will be accepted until after the summer vacation.

Dr. Hall reported that Mr. Diafiah had secured a first aid kit for the chemistry laboratory.

STAYNER YOUTH IS CLEARED OF CHARGE, MANSLAUGHTER

Barrie — Herbert Armstrong, 26-year-old Stayner, Ont., truck driver, today was found not guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Charles Everton Smith, 18-year-old Enterprise, Ont., resident of Kingston, following the jury at Toronto and Hamilton, and showed that some of these cities had received fairly substantial contribution, whilst others, which apparently had not greater natural endowments, had done ahead.

Principles of Civic Growth

He proceeded to give several principles on which true growth is based:

(1) Towns do not happen, but are built by co-operation and strong leaders are required.

(2) Nature gives towns and builders opportunities and advantages, but it is energy, enterprise, courage and intelligence of far-visioned men that will transform those opportunities to great towns.

(3) Progress and expansion originate in the minds of men. Consequently the problems arising are not only economic and commercial, but also spiritual.

(4) It is not only a town's position on the map or its natural resources that will make for commercial greatness, but the ability of its citizens to co-operate and transform its natural resources and advantages into thriving centres.

(5) In any town where there is advancement, there is also outstanding leadership.

(6) Business is the organized means of satisfying human wants.

The speaker next asked what does Napanee want? The answer is reasonable growth, industries and more business. In many things there is one thing necessary — think for Napanee — think constructively and then closing. Mr. Herity said, if the citizens would best serve Napanee, they must think, talk and work, unitedly.

Following Mr. Herity's address, excellent music was rendered by Mr. G. E. Gibbard and Mr. Victor Cowling, and passed on to the speaker by Col. Bennett.

Decide to Organize

Some discussion followed concerning the forming of a business men's organization. Mr. J. A. Carroll moved a motion, which was seconded by Mr. Marshall, and carried by the meeting, that a business and professional men's organization, be formed.

M. P. Graham and Dr. F. C. Wilson moved that chairman appoint a committee to bring in at a subsequent meeting a constitution for the organization, and nominate a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and an executive committee of nine members.

The chairman named M. P. Graham, George Howitt, P. S. Boyes, Harry Card, Robert Sinclair, J. Marshall and V. Cowling, as the committee.

Several other members of the gathering expressed their opinions concerning the type of organization which should be formed, its scope and name. Among these were J. W. Robinson, A. S. Hughson and P. S. Boyes.

Organization Planned By Local Business Men At Dinner Meeting

Addressed by Mr. Herity, of Belleville

About 150 of the business and professional men of the town of Napanee met together at a dinner in the Hotel Paisley, on Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. March 8th. The purpose of the gathering was to discuss the formation of a business men's association.

In connection with the Community Days, promoted last fall by The Beaver, a meeting of the merchants was held and a committee appointed to arrange for the same to organize a permanent association. The committee was P. A. Correll, Don. Roblin, E. G. Hooper, A. MacCrory and Joe. Marshall. At the gathering on Thursday evening, Mr. Alex. MacGregor was chairman and Mr. Owen Herity, the secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, was the guest speaker. Music was provided during the serving of the dinner, by the orchestra of St. Andrew's Church.

Mr. Herity's Address

Mr. Herity was introduced by the chairman, Mr. MacGregor. His address was listened to with keen interest and attention. It was full of sound advice and gave evidence of long experience in the field of civic organization.

Mr. Herity began by asking a few questions, which he later answered himself. He asked, "Is Napanee a small town?" Have you anything to be proud of? Are people in small towns deficient in culture, and is life sordid and dull?"

Covering the last, first, he said that the average of culture in a town such as Napanee, is distinctly above that in larger places, such as Toronto, Chicago or New York. If you will read the contributions made from smaller towns, the cities would be more average in cultural qualities than ever. In smaller towns comforts are well distributed, and these is a neighborliness and social life not possible in larger places.

The speaker thought that Napanee had much to be proud of. He had already looked upon and admired Napanee and Picton as the model county towns in Ontario.

Considering the population, Mr. Herity gave figures showing the contributions given in large places, according to Dominion census figures 1901 to 1931, which showed a reason-able increase from $463 to $497, but this connection also, he considered Kingston, Belleville, Peterboro, Toronto and Hamilton, and showed that some of these cities had received fairly substantial contribution, whilst others, which apparently had not greater natural endowments, had done ahead.

Principles of Civic Growth

He proceeded to give several principles on which true growth is based:

(1) Towns do not happen, but are built by co-operation and strong leaders are required.

(2) Nature gives towns and builders opportunities and advantages, but it is energy, enterprise, courage and intelligence of far-visioned men that will transform those opportunities to great towns.

The speaker next asked what does Napanee want? The answer is reasonable growth, industries and more business. In many things there is one thing necessary — think for Napanee — think constructively and then closing. Mr. Herity said, if the citizens would best serve Napanee, they must think, talk and work, unitedly.

Following Mr. Herity's address, excellent music was rendered by Mr. G. E. Gibbard and Mr. Victor Cowling, and passed on to the speaker by Col. Bennett.

Second Gathering Of Business Men On March 22nd

At the Men's meeting held at the Paisley House on the evening of March 8th, a Committee was appointed to bring in recommendations for the organization of a Business and Professional Men's Association, for the Town of Napanee.

The Committee met on Monday evening and among other things, it was decided to call another meeting of the men of the town, for Thursday evening, March 22, at 6:30 p.m. to receive the report of the temporary committee.

The temporary committee was instructed to bring in recommendations to a general meeting as follows: (1) To recommend a name for the organization. (2) To recommend a permanent executive for the coming year. (3) To recommend an outline of the aims and objects of the proposed organization.

The temporary committee purpose holding several meetings, in the interval, at which meetings, a number of the men from the town will be invited to meet the committee and put forth their views as to the aims and objects of an organization such as has been suggested.

Every man who is interested in the progress and welfare of the town, is cordially invited to attend the dinner, which will be held on the date mentioned above.

C. N. Railway Officials Confirm New Service

Last week officials of the Canadian National Railways were in Napanee confirming the arrangements recently mare for improved service in Napanee. They were H. P. Tilley, district passenger agent; J. A. Murphy, superintendent of transportation and C. A. Stone, superintendent of the Belleville division.

They met and conferred with the deputation, who recently interviewed railway officials in Montreal. The deputation included C. W. Hambly, M.L.A., Everton Tuttle, Reeve Hughson and G. Ernest Gibbard.

A pick-up freight service has been arranged and a rail motor car, between Belleville and Napanee, to connect with the fast evening trains between Montreal and Toronto, has been put into service.

This car leaves Napanee, daily, except Sunday at 5:00 p.m., arriving in Belleville at 5:40 p.m. to connect with fast train from Toronto arriving at 6:08 p.m. Returning to Napanee, it will leave Belleville at 6:15 p.m., arrive Napanee 6:55 pm. Again leaving Napanee at 7:10 arrives at Belleville at 7:50 p.m., to connect with fast train from Montreal.

Miss Stephanie Jarvis Presents Miracle Play In Toronto

The many friends of Miss Stephanie Jarvis will note with pleasure the following complimentary reference in Saturday Night, to her latest success in producing another Miracle Play:

"The miracle play "Resurrexit," according to a note on the announcement, is intended "less as entertainment than as a Lenten devotion," presented with deep sincerity and reverence." In other words, "Resurrexit" like all the offerings of the Seaton House Miracle Players, is concerned with the spiritual rather than with the material. It is this that gives "Resurrexit" its uniqueness and authenticity—the impulsion of the unbeliever artlessness on a dramatic form of profound traditional artistry. Nothing, in fact, could be more extraordinary than this, that in the year of Depression 1934, players who are themselves victims of a confused and difficult era could so movingly identify themselves with the simplicities and exaltations of the religious drama of the Middle Ages."

Miss Jarvis not only wrote this play but designed the costumes and took the leading part in the production upon the stage.

71st Anniversary of Marriage Observed

On Thursday of this week, March 15th, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Maybee, residents of Bloomfield, in Prince Edward County, will observe an auspicious occasion, the 71st anniversary of their wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Maybee were residents of Lennox County for more than forty years.

Mrs. Maybee is in her 90th year, while the groom of 71 years ago is in his 92 nd year. They both enjoy fairly good health and are active in the performance of household duties and any outside work needed during the winter. In summer, Mr. Maybee enjoys gardening and keeping the surroundings of his home attractive.

Mr. and Mrs. Maybee were married at Cherry Valley by the late Rev. Enoch Bell. Mr. Maybee's father, Isaac Maybee, was the son of Peter Maybee of U. E. Loyalist, who was an early settler in Athol Township. Mr. P. A. Maybee recalls, as a boy four or five years old, of seeing great heaps of fine logs piled up for burning. Those were the days when timber was very plentiful everywhere, and it was felled and burned to allow cultivation of the land

Mrs. Maybee's maiden name was Elizabeth Huycke, another old family of our country.

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Maybee lived, for a short time, in New York City and returning to Ontario they settled on a farm between Salmon Point and Cherry Valley. From there they went to Neebing, and after residing there for nearly two years, went to the village of Odessa. There, for about forty years, Mr. Maybee kept a general store. While there he was prominent in the work of the United (then Methodist) Church and was for forty Sunday school. Twelve years ago, two years, superintendent of the Sunday School. Twelve years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Maybee returned to their native county and settled near Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Maybee have one son, Stanley, who is in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Mr. Maybee is the last surviving member of a family of 12 children, and Mr. Maybee and a sister, Mrs. Cummings, of Halloway, Ont., are the last of a family of ten.

Local Men Attend Convention at Ottawa

Very Interesting Letter Describes Meetings

Mr. P. U. Laidley and Mr. H. R. Napoff, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Napanee Branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L., are in Ottawa, this week, attending the Dominion Convention of the Canadian Legion.

The Governor-General of Canada, the Earl of Bessborough, opened, officially the convention, which had its first session on Monday, at 10:00 a.m. His Excellency is Dominion Grand Master Mason of the Legion. The Governor-General was received by the Dominion President of the Legion, Major J. S. Bonner, and other Dominion officers, and delivered his address and formally declared the convention open.

Other notable speakers who are to address the convention, are the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. R. L. Bennett, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Robert Gardiner, M.P., Woodworth, Miss W. M. Kydt, president National Council of Women; Sir William Clark, High Commissioner for the United Kingdom, and representatives of Affiliated Veterans' Organizations. Messages were received from Admiral Lord Jellicoe, Grand President of the British Empire Service League, and the Prince of Wales.

Urge November 11 Legal Holiday

The Amputations Association of the Great War, who held their convention last week, in Ottawa, presented to the convention of the Legion pledged themselves to use their influence to see that Remembrance Day shall be named the National Day of Canada." The members telegraphed messages in support of the resolution to Premier H. J. Davis, member of the Ontario Legislature, delinged to make November 11, a legal holiday in Ontario.

Letter From B. E. Napolis

Mr. B. R. Napolis, one of the happy attendants, sent us the following interesting letter concerning the Amputations Association Convention:

The Editor, Napanee Beaver,
Napanee, Ontario,
March 11th, 1934.

Dear Sir:—

This afternoon I had the privilege of attending one of the most impressive functions I have ever had the pleasure to take part in. That was the 12th Convention Memorial Service of the Amputations Association of the Great War. These chaps are popularly known as "Fragments from France."

The ceremony was under the patronage of Their Excellencies, the Earl and Countess of Bessborough, and was attended by the Premier, the Leaders of the Opposition and many notables.

There are from four to five hundred members of the A. A. of the Guest Supper Served By Mission Circle Grace Church

The members of Grace United Church Mission Circle, of which Mrs. Wilfred Smith is the president, were hostesses at a guest supper, on Thursday evening.

Places were set at the tables, laid in the Sunday school room, for about 100 members and their friends. The guests presented a very attractive appearance and a delicious supper was served by the young ladies of the Circle.

Later in the evening an enjoyable programme was given, which consisted with a sing-song, led by Miss Mildred Loucks. Miss Edna Hull and Miss Mildred Loucks sang a duet. Miss Lelia Scott played a group of planoforte aslos and Mrs. Harry Williams delighted the guests with two interesting readings.

G. W. in convention, besides hundreds of delegates for the Dominion Convention of the Fom will attend which opens tomorrow, and the ball room of the Chateau Laurier was packed to overflowing this afternoon for the memorial service. The Band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards and the Ottawa South Community Orchestra, coupled with the Ottawa Temple Choir, furnished the music. The audience joined in the singing of the hymns with a vigor that left them swelling through the hotel.

I am enclosing a program which will give you an idea of the service.

The memorial address, given by the Rev. Sidney Herbert Lambert, Dominion President, himself minus a leg, was very inspiring and some of the facts may make us pause a moment to think. Among other things we were told that the "Amps" represent 1383 who have lost their right legs, 1333 who have lost their left legs and 97 who have lost both legs, being 2720 legs left behind; in addition there are 489 right arms, 327 left arms and 7 both arms, a total of 1040 arms, and one member present had lost all of his limbs. Besides these there are from one to two hundred, sightless.

Even as a veteran I did not realize these facts until they were forcibly brought to my attention, today, by this band of gallant men and each woman, who is also an amputation case. These men who have given so much for their country and who are so cheerful under their handicaps. You hear no complaints, only cheerfulness and good humor and song, but underlying it all it a hate for war, and a determination to do everything possible to prevent another war in the future.

Yours truly,

B. R. NAPOLIS.

Statistics for Year 1933 Show Accident Decrease

More Care Urged on Motorists

A bulletin of motor vehicle accidents in Ontario, recently issued by the Motor Vehicles Branch, Department of Highways, gives some interesting information concerning accidents in 1933.

There were 4,634 accidents reported during the year, which resulted in 403 fatalities, injury to 7,877 persons and property damage of $2,934,000. The figures show an increase of 5.86 per cent in number of accidents, 19.72 per cent increase in number of deaths and 16.09 per cent decrease in amount of property damage.

Decrease in Accidents in 1933.

Fatalities from urban accidents decreased from 199 in 1932 to 158 in 1933; the drop in the number of deaths from rural accidents was from 303 to 245. Approximately 43% of the victims of fatal accidents were pedestrians, in 1933. The 403 victims included 175 pedestrians; 121 passengers; 6 motorcycle riders; 6 motor car drivers; 7 persons on horse drawn vehicles and 4 motorcycle passengers. The last two years have witnessed a great increase in the number of bicycling deaths; 25 in 1933, compared with 5 in 1931.

People Do Not Need Rules

Apathy of the people generally, to the seriousness of motor vehicle accident situation, has been the greatest obstacle to-date, to the success of safety campaigns. Drivers continue to flout traffic regulations, pedestrians still dodge driving cars, still walk on rural highways with their backs to traffic and show indifference to all rules of safe behaviour.

Practically all accidents in 1933 could have been avoided if a little more care had been exercised.

Presentations Made To Bride and Groom At Athelstan

Friends of Mrs. (Rev.) P. McK. Sampson, formerly Irene Cowan, recently received a copy of the "Huntingdon Gleaner" containing an account of a reception given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sampson, at the Athelstan Presbyterian Church.

Rev. P. McK. Sampson and Miss Irene Cowan were married in Toronto during the latter part of January, and after their honeymoon proceeded to Athelstan, where Mr. Sampson is minister in charge of the Presbyterian Church.

On the evening of February 9th, the members of the congregations of Elgin and Athelstan joined at the Athelstan Church to welcome the bride and groom, and made presentations to them.

They were presented with a well-filled purse, a silver platter and entre dish, and Mrs. Sampson was also given a lovely bouquet of roses. Mr. Sampson, who has been pastor of the church for eight year, was also given an address of appreciation.

To Pay Freight on Carloads Seed Grain

The local office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture has been notified by the Agricultural Representative Branch, that in many sections of Ontario there is a shortage of seed grain and seed potatoes, and many farmers are short of available funds to pay shipping charges. In order to assist in the distribution, Hon. Thomas J. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that the Department will pay the freight on carload lots when purchased by farmers, for seeding purposes. In order to locate the areas that are short of supplies of seed grain and potatoes, and the areas with seed for sale, the Agricultural Representative Branch has been asked to make a survey.

The Department of Agriculture has forwarded a questionnaire to be filled out at the local office, and it is noted that in all probability seeding operations may start in south western Ontario within three weeks time. Essex County, it is expected, will require seed grain.

The price for the seed grain has not yet been announced. The seed grain listed for sale must beof good quality and every precaution must be taken to see that it comes up to grade. In as much as the Department is assisting in this policy, only seed grain of No. 1 grade or registered, will be considered.

Farmers purchasing seed grain and potatoes will be required to pay cash but in cases where farmers are now on relief, they may secure grain through the regular relief channels. Freight will not be paid on less than carload lots.

Never buy bees in hives, or second hand supplies, unless you are sure that they are free from disease. Welcome is free from disease, and don't feed honey from an unknown source to bees.

100 Water Services Thawed by Hydro Power To Date This Winter

800,000 Gallons of Water Pumped Each Day

The unusually severe cold experienced during this winter, has created a serious problem for those responsible for the water services in many towns in Ontario. Napanee, like other towns and cities, has been faced with this difficulty, but in many respects has been more fortunate than some places.

Up-to-date there have been about one hundred water services frozen, which required the aid of the Hydro to thaw out. There have been no freeze-ups of the mains, as the hydrants have been watched very carefully. It is a fortunate circumstance that the Hydro had suitable equipment for the purpose of thawing pipes. If the Waterous Department had been forced to dig to the pipes in order to thaw them, the cost would have been much greater and the delay much longer, for the individuals affected.

In only one instance was it necessary to dig to the pipes. It was found that the frost had penetrated to a depth of about five feet. The average water mains are laid 4½ feet from the surface.

Pumped Million Gallons Daily

In ordinary winters the pumping station has supplied about 600,000 gallons of water each twenty-four hours. But this winter, owing to the necessity for so many fires to be left running, the amount of water required has been much greater. During the severest weather, as much as a million gallons was pumped in twenty-four hours. At the present time 870,000 gallons is being supplied each day.

Another fortunate condition, this year, is the plentiful supply of water in the river and canal. A shortage of water in the canal and low water in the river would have created a far more serious and much more expensive problem.

Cost of Thawing May be Reduced

At the next meeting of the Public Utilities Commission, the question of charges for the thawing of pipes by the Hydro, will be discussed. It is hoped that the Commission will be in a position to pay a fair share of the cost in each individual case within the town limits. Some homes have required the services of the Hydro equipment as many as three times. A reduction in the usual charge would be welcomed by all concerned.

WHY THE PIPES FREEZE
By G. W. Morden

It is quite frequently stated, when referring to the freezing of water pipes during the cold spell of weather, that a thaw drives the frost down deeper. This is not correct. The following is what really happens:

When there has been severely cold weather, for a long time, such as we have had this winter, with air temperatures 35 below zero or 67 degrees below the freezing point of water, the earth, at the surface, also becomes cooled many degrees below freezing, even when protected by snow or ice. The length of time it takes before the freezing temperature reaches the earth at a depth of 4½ feet, where water pipes may lie, will vary according to the condition of the soil but it will take some weeks.

But after a time, the earth at a depth of say 3 feet, may get cooled down to zero and 32 degrees below the freezing point of water. The effect of a thaw at the surface is not felt at this depth. The moisture in the earth, at depth of 3 feet is at zero, it is gradually cooling the still deeper layers in which the water pipes are. It may take days of warm weather to stop the cooling of the earth around and below the pipes, by the layers of soil just above. In the meantime, the cooling goes on and the water in the pipes to freeze before the effect of the warm weather is felt at a depth of 4½ feet.

Death at Syracuse of Husband of Napanee Girl

The death occurred at Syracuse, N.Y., recently, of Dr. Charles A. Church, a prominent dentist of the city. Dr. Church was the husband of Dolly Demorest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Demorest, former well-known residents of Napanee.

The following notice was taken from a Syracuse paper, last week:—

Dr. Charles Arthur Church, 65, died suddenly at his home early Saturday afternoon at his home, 143 Milburn Drive. He had been ill four days. Dr. Church was born in Syracuse and had practiced dentistry here for 40 years. Death was caused by heart disease.

Surviving are his wife and a son, Lieut. Townsend Church. Dr. Church was a member of Central City Lodge 305, A.F. & A.M.

Private funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the rooms of B. C. Sanford, funeral director. Lloyd Langdon, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, officiated.

Burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN'S BANQUET

The large group who gathered, on Thursday evening, at the Business and Professional Men's Banquet, more than justified the faith of those who sponsored it. It showed the need of some permanent organization through which the men of the town may meet, periodically. Mr. Owen Herity, of Belleville, as guest speaker, was a happy choice of the Committee. Mr. Herity has had a wide experience in public organizations. He has an interesting and pleasing manner. His address on Thursday, contributed in no small measure to the success of the evening.

The original idea of the merchants was to effect an organization of business men for the purpose of fostering trade, and to combat, by combined effort, the pulling power of the large cities. The committee charged with the preparations, after several meetings, decided to enlarge the scope of its appeal. They, therefore, included in their invitation to supper, all the business and professional men. The purpose was likewise enlarged to include, not only the matter of merchandising but everything which makes for a better community spirit.

The discussion, on Thursday, centered round the name of the organization and its purpose. Some desired the name to be "Chamber of Commerce," others spoke of a "Business and Professional Men's Organization." So far as we see it, the name matters little, so long as the objects for which it is called into being are accomplished. There were those who thought what was needed most, was an organization which should set out to secure industries for the town. Speaking editorially in these columns before the meeting on this point, we said: "one thing essential to success is that any organization of business and professional men must keep close to reality and keep its feet on the ground. A great many organizations such as that proposed have been started with the sole object of trying to entice industries into the community — but any organization which has that as its sole object, is due to failure."

We see no reason for retracting that statement. An organization of business men should have the attracting of industries as an object but not its sole object. The prime necessity for our town is the fostering, and developing, of a town and community consciousness. We all, as individuals, are proud of our town—its up-to-date stores, its well-kept streets, its splendid public buildings, its Turkey Days, Driving Park and Fall Fair. The paramount need is for an organization which will co-ordinate this individual appreciation into a community loyalty; for an organization which will create and develop a spirit of civic pride and responsibility.

This has already been begun in the Community Days which The Beaver originated and carried through, and by the Annual Community Picnic, which is a unique feature of our town life. These and other efforts planned and carried out by a live representative organization, is the first necessity. These are things which can be done now. Along with that, and in co-operation with the Town Council, the organization should seek for industries which would absorb our surplus labor.

The Nominating Committee which was appointed was given wide powers, not only to suggest capable officers, but to suggest the name and purpose of the organization. The Committee is a representative one. They will have ample time to canvass the whole situation. Then, when another general meeting is called, opportunity will be given for a full and frank discussion before the officers are chosen and the constitution adopted.

NICKEL'S GOING UP

Nickel's going up, and the speculator chuckles as he thinks of the money he's making. Nickel is needed to build guns, warships and tanks—and nickel's going up.

The Vinson Bill, passed the United States Congress in record time, last week. It authorizes the immediate construction of 154 war vessels and the replacement of the whole United States fleet when the London agreement expires—and nickel's going up!

The British have entered on a programme of navy and air force expansion. Japan is embarking on the most ambitious scheme of navy building in its history. France, Germany and Italy are concentrating their feverish efforts on land engines of destruction. Russia trains a million aviators — and Nickel's going up!

OMNIBUS DRIVER TO CARELESS PEDESTRIAN

Hoi ! where d'ye think ye're goin'?
An' wot d'ye mean to do ?
A - walkin' in Piccadilly.
Wi' yer mind in Timbuctoo !

Are ye thinkin' of the Bilby ?
Are we dreamin' o' the Silos ?
Are we imitatin a Rajah ?
D'ye think ye're Prince o' Wiles ?

Are we writin' a little poem ?
'Ave ye lorst yer fahntain pen ?

Toot-toot ! — ye runs abaht now,
Like a — demented hen.

One minute ye're on the pivement:
The next ye're on the street:
Hoi ! don't trip over a taxi,
Or ye'll maybe hurt yer feet.

Toot-toot! Hoi-hoi! there. Hoi! there
Can ye neither 'ear nor see ?
The fact that ye're still a-livin'
Is thanks to the likes o' me.

Come aht from among the traffic !
The streets is meant for us.
An' be glad me brikes is workin'
An' it's me wot drives me bus.

THE TURKEY RACKET

Mr. Hougham, appearing before the Stevens Committee which is investigating the effects on the public, of mass buying, quoted of Napanee Poultry Market as an example of racketeering. Mr. Hougham produced an advertisement of November 30, 1933, on turkeys. "This announcement guaranteed fresh-killed turkeys, Government grade, at fifteen cents per pound, weights from seven to fifteen pounds." Mr. Hougham then commented: "I am informed by the most competent authorities that this kind of advertisement appears, every year, immediately after the opening of the turkey market. The turkeys come from the first Christmas market which opens at NAPANEE and which is looked upon as the barometer by which the turkey market is governed for that season.

"Now then what hannens ? The large operator sells the NAPANEE turkeys at cost or less, advertising spectacularly, and then his buyers take these advertisements around the country as evidence of the low prevailing price."

Those of us who live in Napanee and who are not conversant with the methods of big business, have often wondered about those advertisements quoting retail prices for sale keys about the same as was paid the farmer on the open market here. This revelation is on a par with the live stock racket, recently brought to light, whereby the packers are able to fix prices to their own convenience. The seller is approached by the buyer of live stock in the Toronto yards, and offered a certain rate. This rate offered is, at once, flashed to the west, where it governs the sale of live stock there. The western price is then flashed back to Toronto and quoted as the Winnipeg or Calgary price, and the farmer in Toronto is forced to sell at the rate which has been arbitrarily fixed in an office, a few hours before.

In the face of these and other facts now being brought out in the Stevens' investigation the old theory that prices were fixed by the law of supply and demand, is shattered. We who live in a rural area are particularly interested in the prices of the farm products. It is becoming clearer, day by day, that the plight of the farmer who finds it almost impossible even to make his taxes, is due, not so much to overproduction as to the arbitrary fixing of prices by the powerful monied interests in the large centres.

Time was when economists and business men held up their hands in horror at the thought of a government fixing prices. But why not ? They have been fixed for years by those who have the whip hand, and have lashed the farmer into a position of near subjection. Sooner or later the government, the unbiased custodian of the interests of the whole population, will have to fix prices in a way which will be fair and equitable to both producer and consumer.

It will be a tragedy, indeed, if the Stevens committee fails with the information it has unearthed, does not have its findings implemented by adequate legislation.

FREE SPEECH VINDICATED

On Thursday last a Toronto Jury, after deliberating seven hours, brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Rev. A. E. Smith. This trial has provoked nation-wide attention. The verdict has been received with general satisfaction by all lovers of freedom.

Mr. Smith was charged with uttering seditious words in Hygeia Hall, on January 17th, when he is alleged to have said that Hon. R. B. Bennett was responsible for the shots fired at Tim Buck during the riots in the Kingston Penitentiary, in 1932.

The main evidence against Mr. Smith was notes of his speech, taken by two members of what the defence called "the red squad" of the Toronto Police Force.

The Defense urged the difficulty of proving sedition, even though Smith had used the words allegedly spoken to him. The reason for this difficulty arose over the fact that sedition had never been clearly defined by Law.

In summing up, Chief Justice Ross gave a masterly charge to the Jury. It consisted in a highly technical explanation of what constituted sedition. The heart of his speech lay in his instructions to the effect that, before arriving at a decision, the Jury must consider the intention of the words. Unless the intention in using the words allegedly spoken was to harm the State, they could not, legally, be called seditious.

Several points emerge from this trial, which should be a guide for future procedure. The first is the highly technical character of a charge of sedition and the inability of the ordinary policeman to determine what is seditious language.

By far the most important fact, is the vindication of free speech in Toronto. It should soon dawn on the local police authorities that attempts to prevent speech by force merely results in drawing attention to the speakers on the one hand and emphasizes the futility of such efforts on the other.

Free speech is one of the most cherished possessions of the British subject; and not lightly will they relinquish it. It was too dearly bought. In Europe, during the last few years, this right has been denied the populace, in many places. But Ontario is not yet ready for the European methods of Mussolini, Hitler or Dolfuss. The twelve men who freed Smith, on Thursday, have done their City, Province and Country a commendable service, which gives new heart to all lovers of freedom in Canada.

A man saw a message and an address on an egg he got for breakfast. The message read.

"This egg was packed by a girl thousands of miles away from this land. She is supposed to be the prettiest girl in this neighborhood. and is prepared to marry the man who eats the egg."

The man cabled her: "I'll marry you."

He received a reply from the girl: "I am flattered by your proposal, but I am now married and have three children."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor of The Beaver :

Sir,—

With others who attended the banquet and meeting of business and professional men of Napanee on the 8th inst., for the purpose of organizing an Association or Chamber of Commerce, the writer was greatly disappointed at the apparent opposition that developed against the suggested organization.

In answer to the statement made by one of the speakers, "Napanee is a country town, and will never be anything else, and it is no use attempting to boost Napanee more," and that the Town Council is capable of answering and looking after any matters, and they advise "to let well enough alone."

I will say: First, as a member of both the County and Town Councils, I have no hesitation in stating that, at no time, has there been a more urgent necessity for an organization, either a Business Men's Association, or what is in the opinion of the writer, a more influential and powerful body, a Chamber of Commerce.

I cannot emphasize too strongly, the old theory that prices were fixed by the law of supply and demand, is shattered. We who live in a rural area are particularly interested in the prices of the farm products. It is becoming clearer, day by day, that the plight of the farmer who finds it almost impossible even to make his taxes, is due, not so much to overproduction as to the arbitrary fixing of prices by the powerful monied interests in the large centres.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

GIST OF IMPORTANT EVENTS

ONTARIO—

When figures showing full expenditures, for the year ending October 31, 1933, were presented, it became apparent that the provincial public debt increased by $20,000,000.

* * *

Whereas nearly 20% of Ontario's municipal debts are in default, less than 5% of Quebec's and 7% of Saskatchewan's are in this category.

* * *

The former treasurer of St. Thomas has been arrested for theft from the city.

* * *

A. E. Smith, of the Labor Defence League, was acquitted of charges of sedition, which developed from his statements about conditions in penitentiaries.

* * *

Toronto has 28,519 families on relief. There has been no material change in the number during this year.

* * *

Kingston, with 850 families on relief, expects to provide work for all now on relief. Mayor Peters is particularly active in getting work started and has, amongst other projects, one for a cold storage plant.

* * *

The Town Council of Pembroke asked for a provincial Board of Supervisors, being unable to meet its liabilities and its banks refusing further loans; the request has been granted.

* * *

The Government has proposed to cancel all municipal taxes on bridges and tunnels. Cities such as Niagara Falls and Windsor are protesting.

* * *

A petition is before Parliament, for the right to construct a bridge across the St. Lawrence, near Prescott.

* * *

Sir Alfred Balfour, speaking at the Sault, expected war this year, between Russia and Japan.

* * *

Nickel was chiefly used for armaments until after the World War. Since then it has been increasingly used for industrial purposes. With the leading nations well on the way in an armament race, the demand for this metal has increased by leaps and bounds. Canada is the large supplier and the plants at Sudbury are being enlarged.

* * *

The Ontario C.C.F. has broken up into opposing factions and will be re-organized by the rival groups. The Farmers' Party has withdrawn, meaning that Miss Agnes Macphail will no longer be a member. Mr. E. Philpott, leader of one faction, has resigned, to run in the federal election as an independent. Federation of Communists, Progressives and Farmers, has failed.

DOMINION—

Discussion in Parliament, is expected this week, on Bennett's revival of titles for Canadians.

* * *

The Senate is turning on those cities who desire abolition of the Upper House. Senators are asking that more legislation be first introduced in the Senate, as the public necessitate more representation in the cabinet. As presently arranged, the Senate is idle and will be reached, on completion of legislation by Parliament.

* * *

At Ottawa, hearings are continuing, before the Stevens Committee, on mass buying. Evidence presented favors government supervision of large organizations.

* * *

The Government stands by its provision for private shareholders for Canada's Central Bank. Liberal opinion is divided between public and private ownership.

* * *

Major Power, Ottawa liberal, demanded a sweeping probe into bank and trust companies operations and interlocking directorates with industrial companies. He asked for information as to how banks are, presently, allowed to show in their financial statements, securities at less than their market value. The Government agreed to a full parliamentary investigation.

* * *

Sir Henry Drayton has returned from a speaking tour through the West, advocating economies in governments. He has a wealth of data to show the "grotesque over-government of Canada." He favors revision of the British North American Act, so that duplication, between the Federal and Provincial Governments will be eliminated and urges no further increases in the public debt.

* * *

The Radio Commission settled the suit against it, by paying the licence fee asked for broadcasting some copyrighted songs.

* * *

The Furniture Manufacturers' Association has asked the Government's approval to effect a closed organization with minimum wages, price regulation and penalties for violation of the code.

* * *

Some Quebec members see danger in the use of the French language in the Government's bill to combine the French-English translators of all departments into one efficient unit. At present these translators work only during the session; their pay runs throughout the year.

* * *

In January the country had a favourable trade balance, of nearly $15,000,000.

* * *

Canada Packers, Limited, appeared before the Stevens Committee in defence of their buying practices and wages, but made little headway. The president of that company went to Ottawa, looking for a scrap; he found it.

EMPIRE—

Prime Minister MacDonald said that Britain will not give any Empire territory in payment of war debts; the West Indies were referred to, particularly.

* * *

Provided international agreement fails for regulation of air forces, Britain is to build fleets equal to those of any nation, within striking distance of London. A naval estimate, slightly larger than last year, has been approved.

* * *

Labor has won a clear majority in London's City Council; it is thought that this may portend a return of Labor in Parliament, as this is the first time that London has gone Labor.

* * *

French envoys are in London, for negotiations to end the British-French trade war.

* * *

DeValera has launched an intensive campaign for a larger wheat crop. He wishes the country to be self-supporting, in this commodity; Canada is chiefly concerned.

UNITED STATES—

Congress is, at the moment, primarily interested in the President's request for full authority to make foreign trade agreements, which carries with it the right to change tariffs.

* * *

Johnson, of the N.R.A., has asked those industries who can afford it, to reduce hours by 10%, with a corresponding increase in the hourly rate of pay.

* * *

Henry Ford supports Roosevelt's recovery program, but considers necessary the scheme, which he has advocated for years: that is spreading manufacture amongst a large number of small factories, located in rural areas; employees would work on the land or in the factory, according to the season and business conditions, thus absorbing the shock of seasonal work.

* * *

Three government - owned and operated banks are being formed to finance export business; one for Russia; one for Cuba, and Central and South America; one for other foreign countries.

* * *

* * *

Congress voted a raid on the treasury for a cash bonus to veterans. The President stated that he will veto it in the Senate and the action of the House is a manoeuvre for position.

* * *

The United States army is abandoning all air-mail services, on account of the large number of fatal accidents; shortly, a curtailed service will be given, with better supervision of pilots and mechanics. Negotiations are under with the private companies to again handle the business.

GENERAL—

Estonia is under martial law.

* * *

Premier Dolfuss contradicts reports of friction between his party and the Fascists, who control the Austrian home guards. Rumors of the restoration of the Hapsburgs inc6ease; undoubtedly a strong party is working for it.

* * *

At Rome, negotiations are under way for a new treaty between Italy, Austria and Hungary.

* * *

Italian night schools will, in future, teach boys, rifle shooting and the use of machine guns.

* * *

About 60,000 men are on strike, in Spain, but a pronounced movement has not developed for actual revolt.

* * *

Japan's Navy Minister has announced further additions to the fleet. Japan's finances are in poor shape, but the government seems determined to claim equality in battleships, with Britain and the United States. The country cannot afford an army and navy expenditures and maintain its credit.

* * *

Japan's newest type torpedo boat capsized during its first cruise. It was built according to secret designs and was supposed to be a wonder ship.

* * *

* * *

There are several severe strikes in Cuba and the Government, in fear of a general strike, has threatened to use the army, in their suppression.

* * *

French aviators report that they have discovered the ancient city of Queen Sheba; the location given is near the Persian Gulf, in the uninhabited desert of Arabia.

* * *

Italy has made a sweeping change in its banking set-up. In future the Government will finance all industrial loans, the banks handling only the usual commercial business.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MAR CH 18TH, 1934

MATTHEW. 15 : 21 - 31

"JESUS RESPONDS TO FAITH"

Up until the time of to-day's lesson Jesus had confined His travels, strictly, to Jewish territory, and His activities to Hebrew people. Now, along with His disciples He proceeds to a heathen land. Crossing over from Galilee, He enters Phoenicia. His evident purpose was to rest and instruct His disciples further in their calling. So bitter were the national antagonisms, that Jesus and His little group might reasonably expect to find themselves ignored by the Phoenicians, and able, therefore, to have the much needed rest and quiet. But in the face of sorrow and need these barriers were broken down. A woman, apparently a Greek, but living in Phoenicia, pleads with Him on behalf of her sick daughter. She had probably heard of His miracles from those about Tyre and Sidon. At first Jesus ignored her request. He answered never a word." He then refused her on the ground, that He was not sent but "unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel." But finally, in apparently scornful language He reproaches her with the words, "It is not meet to take the children's bread and to cast it to the dogs." In spite of this, however, the woman persisted in her demands. Love for her daughter triumphed over all differences. She saw, in Jesus, not a hated Jew, but One who held within Himself the power to help. So much are the regrets that even the little dogs may eat the crumbs from the children's table, He tells her, that her faith is great and her child is healed.

There are three people whom many find in Jesus' teaching, and His encouragement to those attempting to bring in the Kingdom of God—as soon as one evil is eradicated another raises its ugly head. But Jesus thus indicates that His followers are to go forward unafraid, undismayed by the hostility of men or the indifference of the universe. They are to go forward in the faith that, in the end, God will triumph and righteousness and love prevail.

They are to embark on a world mission, and needed to be taught not to be easily stricken by Jewish territory, and activities to Hebrew people. Now, along with His disciples He proceeds to a heathen land. Crossing over from Galilee, He enters Phoenicia. His evident purpose was to rest and instruct His disciples further in their calling. So bitter were the national antagonisms, that Jesus and His little group might reasonably expect to find themselves ignored by the Phoenicians, and able, therefore, to have much needed rest and quiet. So much are the regrets that even the little dogs may eat the crumbs from the children's table, He tells her, that her faith is great and her child is healed.

There are three people whom many find in Jesus' teaching, and His encouragement to those attempting to bring in the Kingdom of God—as soon as one evil is eradicated another raises its ugly head. But Jesus thus indicates that His followers are to go forward unafraid, undismayed by the hostility of men or the indifference of the universe. They are to go forward in the faith that, in the end, God will triumph and righteousness and love prevail.

They are to embark on a world mission, and needed to be taught not to be easily stricken by Jewish territory, and activities to Hebrew people. Now, along with His disciples He proceeds to a heathen land. Crossing over from Galilee, He enters Phoenicia. His evident purpose was to rest and instruct His disciples further in their calling. So bitter were the national antagonisms, that Jesus and His little group might reasonably expect to find themselves ignored by the Phoenicians, and able, therefore, to have much needed rest and quiet. But in the face of sorrow and need these barriers were broken down. A woman, apparently a Greek, but living in Phoenicia, pleads with Him on behalf of her sick daughter. She had probably heard of His miracles from those about Tyre and Sidon. At first Jesus ignored her request. He answered never a word." He then refused her on the ground, that He was not sent but "unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel." But finally, in apparently scornful language He reproaches her with the words, "It is not meet to take the children's bread and to cast it to the dogs." In spite of this, however, the woman persisted in her demands. Love for her daughter triumphed over all differences. She saw, in Jesus, not a hated Jew, but One who held within Himself the power to help. So much are the regrets that even the little dogs may eat the crumbs from the children's table, He tells her, that her faith is great and her child is healed.

There are three people whom many find in Jesus' teaching, and His encouragement to those attempting to bring in the Kingdom of God—as soon as one evil is eradicated another raises its ugly head. But Jesus thus indicates that His followers are to go forward unafraid, undismayed by the hostility of men or the indifference of the universe. AT PEACE WITH THE KITCHEN

Cream of Onion Soup

One quart of milk
Four onions (medium)
Two tablespoons butter.
Two egg yolks.
One quarter teaspoon sugar.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Peel and chop the onions. Heat the butter in a saucepan, add the chopped onions and cook, stirring constantly until onions are soft. Add two cups of boiling water. Simmer until all the water has boiled away and the onions are a soft puree. Add the milk, keeping out one-quarter cup. Cook for fifteen minutes. Beat the yolks with the one-quarter cup of milk, then add to the soup. Season with salt and pepper. Cook for a few minutes longer, stirring constantly.

Serve with toasted French bread.

Potato and Split Pea Soup

Small onion.
One can split pea soup

Fry a tablespoon chopped onion in one tablespoon bacon grease. Add to your leftover mashed potatoes. Slowly work in hot milk until you have a smooth, lumpless puree of potato. Season with salt and pepper. Add to this the contents of a can of split pea soup. Blend gradually and add as much more milk as necessary for the consistency you like. Simmer for minutes.

Sandwich Spread

A tasty sandwich spread is quite easily made by using half a cup of chopped left-over boiled ham, one egg yolk, half teaspoon meat sauce, one-quarter teaspoon mustard, one-eighth of a teaspoon paprika, one tablespoon vinegar. Cream the ingredients and add the egg yolk. Then work in the vinegar, beating with a spoon until the mixture is very smooth. It should be kept in a cool place. Butter and peanut butter either plain, smooth or nicely spread. Use half a cup peanut butter, chopped half a cup peanut butter, or ground fine left-overs of ham. Mix the butter with the meat or butter until smooth. Then add the sauces. It may be spread between slices of lightly-buttered bread.

Meat Fritters

One lb cold meat (minced)
Nutmeg grated to taste.
One lb bread crumbs
Peppered to taste.
Six ounces of butter.
Salt to taste.
Two finely chopped onions
Three eggs.
A little flour.

Soak three-quarters of the bread crumbs in cold water, press the water out of the bread crumbs. Fry the onions in butter for two or three minutes, now add the bread crumbs and onions to the meat and season with the salt, pepper and nutmeg, mix until the mixture is quite hot. Add two-thirds of the eggs, mix very quickly and put onto a dish to cool. Roll the mixture into the shape of small eggs or cutlets. Dust them with flour, dip them in the remainder of the egg, and then into the bread crumbs and fry them in the remainder of the butter until a nice golden brown color.

Serve with or without gravy.

Grandmother's Potato Pie

Peel and grate one large potato into a dish; add the juice and grated rind of one lemon, the beaten white of one egg, one tea-cup water, one cup of sugar. Pour this into a nice under-crust and bake. When done have ready the beaten whites of three eggs, half cup powdered sugar, flavored with lemon, spread on the pie and return to the oven to lightly brown.

Pandowdy

Butter a deep dish and put in a layer of sliced sour apples, sweeten with sugar and flavor; then add a layer of bread crumbs and bits of butter, repeat until dish is full then fill the apples are soft and fairly brown and serve with cold sauce.

Ten Household Hints

(1) To prevent silk stockings from twisting around the legs, or striking against walls, or other objects, place a clothes peg at the bottom of the stocking when it is hung up.

(2) Scraping the inside of the ticking, down the seams and at the corners, when making pillows will prevent the feathers from gradually working through.

(3) Butter papers are useful for greasing your pie dishes and for putting over your pies before they go into the oven. They are also handy when you are baking fish or chestnuts, anything covering the fish with the butter paper.

(4) When stewing apples, add a teaspoonful of golden syrup instead of sugar. This makes the juice thick and sweet.

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment is a quick, certain remedy for Hoof Rot or Thrush. Four or five applications are usually enough.

APPLE SPRAY EFFECTS

Results of the study of storage samples of McIntosh, Stark, Northern Spy, and Ribston pippin apples, showed that flavour, as palatability, is influenced by a change in the sucrose and total sugar content of the fruit. Apples of low sugar content are not as palatable as fruits of higher sugar content in the same variety. Applications of Bordeaux mixture tend to increase the sucrose and total sugar content of apples, while application of the aluminium sulphate lime sulphur mixture tend to increase the sucrose and total sugar in some varieties of apples. Lime sulphur sprays tend to depress the sugar content in some varieties. —Scientific American.

Bacon For Britain

New Regulations Effective From March 5.

The regulations passed by Order in Council on 16th September, 1933, with regard to the grading, marking, and sale of bacon Wiltshire cuts, destined for export to Great Britain, came into effect on the 5th of this month. Under these regulations the right to export Wiltshire sides of bacon directly or indirectly to the United Kingdom, is by license issued by the Minister of Agriculture upon application in writing. The applicant must satisfy the Minister that he can produce the bacon required by the provisions of the regulations, and all such bacon and the containers must be stamped, stencilled, or branded in a neat and clear manner with such data as may be required from time to time.

Each shipment of bacon is accompanied by a statement signed by the exporter showing the selections and grades and the number of packages. The statement also bears the signature of the inspector of the Health of Animals Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, who checked and supervised the shipment. The onus of grading properly will thus be on the exporter, and in the event of breach of any of the regulations, the Minister of Agriculture may suspend or cancel the exporter's license. There are three grades, A, B, and C. By these regulations it is hoped that the principle of grading which has produced such fine results in building up Canada's export trade in fruit, dairy, and other agricultural products, will effect a similar advance in the Dominion's bacon trade. Although Canada's share of the British market increased in 1933 to 305,000 cwts. from 181,000 cwts. in 1932 and 49,000 cwts. in 1931, Canada's shipments represent only 5 per cent. of the British bacon imports from all sources, and it is to be remembered that Great Britain spends on an average 3,000,000 dollars every day in imported food.

RASPBERRY PLANTATIONS

Where manure is not applied to raspberry plantations until the spring a cover crop is also advisable to prevent too late growth of cane. As the advent of mosaic disease is making it advisable to renew plantations more frequently, the grower who is unable to get large quantities of manure will find that shorter rotations lends itself more to the cover crop and mulch system, for each new plantation may be preceded for a season by a crop of clover or alsike which when turned over, will leave the soil in excellent condition for renewal, say every six years, with proper green manuring, cover crop or mulch, and adequate quantities of commercial fertilizers, will render it possible for raspberry growing to take its place beside orcharding, in being more or less independent of the failing and increasing expensive supply of manure.—Raspberry bulletin, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Asthma Victims. The man or woman subject to asthma is indeed a victim. What can be more terrifying than to suddenly be seized with paroxysms of choking which seem to fairly threaten the existence of life itself. From such a condition, Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has brought many to completely restored health and happiness. It is known and prized in every section of this broad land.

February Meeting Of U.E.L. Chapter I.O.D.E.

The February meeting of the United Empire Loyalist Chapter, I.O.D.E., presided over by the Regent, Mrs. D. R. Hall, was held on Monday afternoon, the 5th inst, in the Officers' Mess, at the Armouries.

A minute's silence was observed in respect to the memory of the late Mrs. Caldwell, who was a valued member of the Chapter.

Following the usual business, Mrs. Corkill, educational secretary, read a paper entitled, 'Canada and World Peace." In view of the present conditions, this was particularly informative.

Four new members made their affirmations.

Membership was renewed in the League of Nations Society and a substantial donation was made to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Wilton Young People Win Debate From Grace Church Y.P.

The winners in the first round of the Lennox County inter-league debates, sponsored by the Young Peoples' Leagues of the United Church, met in debate at Grace Church on Monday evening. The opposing teams were from Wilton, Miss Mildred Babcock and Fred McPherson, and from Grace Church, Napanee, Miss Vera Vanalstine and Miss Mildred Loucks.

The subject debated was "Resolved that crime news should be published in the newspapers. The decision was given in favor of the Wilton team, who had the affirmative side of the question.

The judges were Rev. J. E. Beckel, E. C. Osborne, and Mr. Neilson, of Wilton.

The Wilton team will next meet the winners of the Hastings section. This debate will likely be held at the Young People's Convention in Belleville, early in April.

In addition to the debate, a short programme was presented, consisting of a quartette, a reading by Miss Jean Clarke and a sing-song, conducted by Miss Mildred Loucks.

About two hundred people were in attendance at the meeting. Quite a large number of young people from Odessa and Wilton were present to support the Wilton debaters.

Mr. Wilfred Smith, the president of the Grace Church League, presided at the meeting.

Amusing Play Given By Ladies' Class of Trinity Church

Many an old trunk, clothes closet and attic were subjected to a thorough ransacking to provide the costumes exhibited last Friday evening, March 9th, in the play "Sister of the Ladies' Aid," given in Trinity Church school room by the members of the Ready Helper's Class.

It was remarked on all sides, that it was easily worth the price of admission, just to see the old-time dresses and hats worn by the members of the class. Hoop-skirts, bustles, bonnets, poke bonnets and lace mittens, were worn with all the grace of the lady of seventy-five years ago. Many a grandmother's and great-grandmother's wedding outfit was again exhibited in all its glory.

The play itself was an amusing farce, centering around the activities of the ladies' air, most interested in the welfare of the church. While the affairs are not directly successful, its aim was achieved in an indirect manner, which caused considerable amusement.

The parts of the various characters were well acted by Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Exley, Miss Rockwell, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. Francis, Mrs. Grey, Mrs. Parkes, Mrs. Wolfe, Mrs. Duffett, Mrs. Geo. Miller, Mrs. Sinclair, Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. R. H. Paul and Mrs. Henderson. Little Gladys Kirby as Prunella Prunes, was a captivating juvenile member of the cast, quaintly gowned in old-skirted costume, with pantalettes and pole bonnet.

During the interval between the two acts, a quartette was sung by Mrs. Frank Mills, Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Nicholson, all attired in old-fashioned gowns. Mrs. Arthur Kimmerly sang two numbers and Mrs. Harry Williams gave two readings.

Mrs. M. R. Reid, the teacher of the Ready Helpers' Class, very graciously and efficiently welcomed the large audience and gave a brief resume of the activities of the class.

What Sort of Parson ?

If I stick to my MSS. in the pulpit I shall not get away from the book.

If I preach extempore I am a gasbag.

If I doff my dog-collar and go about as other men, I am frivolous.

If I get about among my fellowmen, and try to lighten the gloom in the parish, I am not taking my calling seriously.

If I stay in my study, reading Dean Inge and Bishop Barnes to keep abreast of the times, I don't see enough of my people.

If I try to preserve the dignity of my calling and wear "the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit," I am standoffish and keep myself too much to myself.

When I invade the Mother's Meeting in any a helpful word I am "muddling about with a lot of old men."

And when I try to be a man's man and put on shorts and a sweater to kick a football, I am "making myself too cheap."

"I like a parson to be a parson," said the churchwarden, but what sort of parson ? I ask.—P. G. D., in The Chronicle (London.)

Sudden Death of Fred G. Blair

Death came with unexpected suddenness on Saturday morning to Fred Blair, a well-known resident of Napanee. He had not been in good health for some time, but recently had been able to be around the town about as usual. On Saturday morning he went into the shoe shop of Clarence Allison, where he was a frequent visitor. Mr. Ellison was not in the store at the time and Mr. Blair sat down in a chair to rest, where he was found dead, a little later, by Mr. Ellison's mother.

Frederick Gowan Blair was born in Napanee a little over 62 years ago. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Blair, old-time residents of the town. He was one of ten children. Seven sons and three daughters, of whom only one survives, Mr. Bruce Blair, of Napanee.

Fred Blair was employed, for many years in Napanee, as a plumber and tinsmith. He was well-known by a large circle of friends. In earlier life he was a singer of considerable ability. He was also a fine quality and was a welcome addition to the choir of Grace Church and at different times he was a member of male quartettes, in much demand for concert work.

Mr. Blair is survived by his widow formerly Catharine Sager; one daughter, Florence, Mrs. James Lapalma of Toronto and one brother, Ernest.

The funeral service was held in Grace United Church on Monday afternoon, with Rev. R. T. Richards in charge.

Catchwords

What is a mystic ? The word was used, not long ago, in a London newspaper in reference to a recluse who was somewhat eccentric. It has been applied also to Einstein. So if one is mentally deficient one is a mystic and if one is mentally superior, one is still a mystic.

Commenting on this loose use of words, Arthur Eimble, writing in G. K.'s Weekly, mentions a number of expressions which do not mean what they are. "We hear," he remarks, "of the rationalism of industry, which, in ordinary thinking, means asking that industry reasonable or amenable to reason, whereas the rationalisers are not remotely interested in reason but in results." Then there is "adjusted. Prices are never increased nowadays; they are always adjusted. And so with other terms: "Realism is commonly used to mean the exhibition of whatever is abominable, ugly disgusting or depressing out of all proportion to reality. Medieval is a general team of historical abuse, usually meaning insanitary.

What is the explanation of this verbal inaccuracy ? Mr. Timble finds it in snobbery: "To use a word or phrase which the majority does not understand, gives the impression of superior knowledge." But the cause is not always snobbery. Quite as often it is sheer mental laziness. A word like "psychology" comes floating along and is carelessly applied to any form of mental or emotional aberration.

Language, it has been said cynically, was invented to conceal thought. Much modern writing seems to do so much to conceal thought as to take the place of thought. — New York Post.

KNOWLEDGE

Laden with twice-read books, disconsolate,
You give no glance at what may be ahead
But fix your eyes upon the stones you tread.
And quite forget the hedgerows. 'Tis your fate
To walk the partridge skimming with his mate :
For you no furrow strews a golden seed ;
All these are trifles. You must not be late.
What are you seeking, scholar ; whither lead
These weary, dusty highways that you may not leave ?
You are dusty and worn and sick of travelling.
I sealed an orchard wall—I did indeed—
And ate red apples—found a fairy ring,
And led you by a mile at fall of eve.
—Dermot Spence, In The Bermondsey Book.

REPLACE TIMOTHY WITH RED CLOVER

(Experimental Farms Note.)

In Eastern Canada the value of hay is about 30 per cent of the value of all crops, but the proportion of timothy grown is too high and consequently too much of it is fed to young stock and milch cows. When cut late, timothy is not much better than good oat straw, and it deprives the land of fertility, while clover is a good feed and a soil improver. A field of timothy now grown could be replaced by red clover to considerable advantage, having in mind that either two crops of hay can be taken, or the first crop cut for hay and the aftermath used for pasture or allowed to go to seed.

A profitable stand of red clover has been well begun when the seed has been carefully selected according to purity, germination and source. The source of the seed is very important. At the Cap Rouge Experimental Station, during eleven years 79 strains of red clover procured from different countries were tested, and the results showed that Northern, grown strains gave higher yields and wintered with less damage than the strains grown in milder climates.

The farmer who wishes to obtain the best results with red clover must keep in mind that he should use seed grown under conditions as similar as possible to those under which it will be sown. It should be grown on well drained fairly rich soil, using lime if necessary. The first crop, as a general rule, should be cut when three-quarters full bloom and the second crop used according to requirements for silage, hay or seed.

Ontario Budget Forecasts Surplus

A surplus of $215,000.00 for the fiscal year ending October 31st next was forecast by Premier George S. Henry in presentation of the budget in the Ontario Legislature last week. In delivering the financial picture for 1934, the Premier drove a warm attack on members of the Opposition for their lack of faith at a time when Ontario is emerging from depression conditions to renewed prosperity.

"On all sides we find faith and optimism," declared the Premier. "This feeling of confidence exists because a conservative administration is in control. And despite bluster talk from opposition critics the province is sound and stable."

Crowded galleries listened in interest to the Premier's presentation, which required an hour and three quarters, stressing the surplus for the last financial year of $476,000.00, predicting another surplus despite difficult times, and accomplished without a single cent of new taxation. The Premier also pointed out that when revenues permit, taxation then will be reduced, and while a report had indicated the surplus would amount to $1,000,000 he said if that had been possible then taxation would have been reduced.

Reduction in Expenditure

The surplus for the current year is based on estimated revenues of $31,000,000 and expenditures of $30,884,100, while the surplus for the last year represents the difference between revenues amounting to $31,-360,681 and expenditures totalling $30,886,626. Last year's budget accounts show a reduction of $3,300,000 in ordinary expenditure and a $9,000,000 cut in capital expenditure from the 1932 figure ; a decreased revenue of $3,239,694 ; decreased liquor revenue to the extent of $3,-745,000 ; retirement of $15,000,000 in New York Treasury bills ; expenditure of $2,637,000 on free grants and services for public welfare ; additional Hydro reserves of $69,000,000 and continuation of all services at usual levels despite economic depression. Gross debt of the province is set at $592,000,000 with net debt of $290,000,000.

Ordinary revenues decreased $2,-892,181 from the amount collected in 1932, the chief decreases being in fines and fees under Legal Offices Inspection $58,000 ; insurance agents, brokers and adjusters licences $8,000 ; bonus and timber dues $799,000 ; corporations $402,000 ; race tracks $216,000 ; land transfer tax $52,000, etc. Revenue increases occurred in crown lands, leases and royalties $78,000 ; Mines Department assessments $140,000 ; mining licenses and recording fees $39,600 ; gasoline tax $288,000 ; motor vehicle licenses, etc $44,000 ; wine tax $36,000 ; succession duties $1,945,000, and stock transfer tax $355,000.

Premier Defends Government Loan

The Premier also defended the Government against criticism of the recent $40,000,000 loan, declaring that the Government had not favored the large corporations and investment houses. Figures showed that a good percentage of the bonds had gone into the hands of the small investor. this loan, too, had cost less than any loan floated in many years.

With a view to removing alleged unfair commission charges and other abuses in the sale of live stock, the Agriculture Committee approved a resolution asking the Stevens inquiry at Ottawa to inquire into packers' stock yards commission men and all conditions pertaining to marketing of live stock. The motion asking for the inquiry was moved and seconded by H. J. Davis and John A. Craig, Conservatives, East Elgin and North Lambton. Hogs, sheep and cattle dealings and charges are to be submitted to the committee which will present it to the Stevens inquiry. The committee also endorsed a scale of reduced commission charges.

Albert E. Waters, Conservative, North Cochrane, in speaking on the budget debate, urged the Government to have control of settlers in Northern Ontario, vested in the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and adoption of a plan to improve conditions for northern settlers so that the province would have its forests and not road menders. Mr. Waters asked that settlers be given unfair dealings and charges are to be submitted to the committee which will present it to the Stevens inquiry. The committee also endorsed a scale of reduced commission charges.

Report in Commons On Entry of Orientals

Six Chinese and 2,706 Japanese Admitted Since 1925

Ottawa — Six Chinese and 2,706 Japanese have been admitted to Canada since 1925, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons. The "peak" year for entry of Japanese was 1925, when 535 were admitted. Last year the total was 106.

Chinese immigration to Canada is limited to attaches and servants of diplomats and consular agents, children born in Canada of Chinese parents who have left the country and desire to return, merchants and students.

Japanese immigration is controlled by an agreement whereby the number admitted is limited to 150 per annum.

According to the 1931 census there were 23,342 Japanese resident in Canada and 46,519 Chinese.

In British Columbia the return says, the electoral franchise is confined to those Japanese and Chinese who served in the Great War. In Saskatchewan, Chinese only are disqualified, by reason of race, from exercising the franchise. In other provinces no such disqualifications exist where the Orientals are British subjects.

Comradeship

If it could but be grasped by all of us that we are alive in this planet for a very short time, knowing little about it or about ourselves, and that if we are to prove mankind to be higher than the other orders of life we can only do it by displaying the qualities of comradeship, most of our troubles would subside.

If we could but be convinced that the only true satisfactions are those which result from efforts to be generous and kindly, to discover and relieve the best in everybody, to treat all as we should like to be treated ourselves, almost all our difficulties would disappear.

Comradeship must begin at home and we must not be content to let it stay there. It must be world-wide. It must be international. That ideal has long existed—and has been ridiculed. Every great, thing that has come into our lives has been ridiculed—until it got there. If anyone with the events of the last ten years before him can be blind to our movement in this direction, the direction of World Comradeship, his mental sight I am compelled to believe must be defective. To me nothing is more plain.—Hamilton Fife, in the Milligate Monthly.

TO SEEK CAPTAIN KIDD'S TREASURE

A company has been formed, in Victoria, British Columbia, with a capital of $150,000 to seek for the treasure of the Captain Kidd which supposed to be buried at Oak Island, Nova Scotia. While it is doubtful whether Captain Kidd ever went so far north, it is known that other pirates often visited the neighborhood.

Previous efforts to recover pirate treasure from Oak Island have met with success, owing, it is said, to water from the sea flowing by a channel over the caches where they lie. The treasure is believed to be buried.

Presentation Made to Bride and Groom

On Monday evening, March 5th, a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christie Young to present their eldest son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Young, with a variety shower.

The numerous costly gifts showed the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. The young couple appropriately thanked their friends for the gifts. The evening was spent in dancing, and all wished the young couple many years of prosperity and happy wedded life.

Reception at Oshawa

On Saturday evening, March 3rd, a number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blakely, 245 John Street, Oshawa, to welcome the latter's brother and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Young. The evening was spent in progressive euchre, the prizes being won by Mrs. C. Scott, Mr. Perry Young, and Miss Bernice Proctor. Some lovely gifts were presented to the bride and groom at the close of the evening, after which the guests departed, wishing the young couple every happiness and bon voyage through life.

More New Books At the Napanee Public Library

LAND OF THE SPOTTED EAGLE by Chief Standing Bear. An intimate unadorned picture of the world of the Dakotas of Western Sioux. Indeed he has the last great chief of the tribe. He makes out a very strong case against the "civilization" of the white man.

THE GOLDEN BOOK, by Douglas C. McMurtrie. A fascinating history of the contributions of each great master of the craft from the clay, tablets to the modern printing press.

SEAPLANE SOLO, by Francis Chichester. The thrilling adventures of a lone airman whose achievements in many ways exceed the daring flights of Lindbergh.

THE GALLOWS OF CHANCE, by S. Phillips Oppenheim. An atmosphere of icy fascination grips the reader from the very start and releases him only when he reaches the last page.

CHISTOPHER BOND ADVENTURER, by Wyndham Martin. A book about thrills and excitement.

THE WHIP HAND, by Helen R. Martin. Charming and gay are the people portrayed in this novel, but at the same time, real modern and intensely alive to present conditions.

WATCH THE WALL, by Laurence W. Newell. A rapidly moving, trilling detective story.

Books for the Younger Readers

And now we have both entertainment and instruction for the younger readers. Their elders might also profit by reading the following books :

JIM OF THE PRESS, by Graham M. Dean. It's a fine story by a real newspaper man, who knows his job inside and outside and writes about it with romance and excitement.

SLEEPY BLACK. The story of a horse by Rose Santer, the author and illustrator of "Pooch and Cowboy."

THE SPYFLYERS, by W. E. Johns. A wonderful book of flying thrills, told by a flying officer. A real exciting story.

NANCY AT ST. BRIDES, by Dorita Fairlie Bruce, tells how a spirited girl got into serious trouble by being a little too daring.

MRS. KING BUSH, Edith Howes. A book swarming with elves, gnomes, fairies and goblins, based on the little creatures of the field. The youngsters will enjoy it.

SKIPPER, by Arthur C. Bartlett. A wonderful story of a wonderful dog tells how "Skipper" influenced the whole life of his master. Boys and girls who like dogs will like this book.

THE CRUISE OF THE CONDOR, by W. E. Johns. A wartime aviator to his own surprise, gets a lot of kick out of peace-time flying in his search for treasure in South Africa.

EASTWARD BOUND, by Lawrence B. Lourie. The adventures of two boys drawn into the web of a dangerous smuggling organization and drawn half way round the world before they are free of it. If the boys are in search of an exciting story, here it is.

THE FORGOTTEN DAUGHTER, by Caroline Dale Snedeker. The girls and boys will get a lot of useful information from this clean, fresh love story as it presents an accurate picture of the ancient Greeks and Romans. It is recommended for Collegiate Institute students, especially those who are studying classics.

Death in Pasadena Former Resident J. B. Dunham

Word was received in Napanee, last week, of the death in Pasadena, on Monday, March 5th, of William Newton Dunham, a former resident of the town.

Mr. Dunham was born in 1859 in Richmond Township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey Dunham. As a young man, he spent some years in the Yukon, later returning to Napanee, and about twenty-five years ago went to Pasadena, California, where he resided until his death.

Mr. Dunham had been in poor health for some months, but news of his death came as a decided shock to his relatives in Napanee.

Mrs. James Craig, Mrs. Ezra Pringle and Mrs. James Gault, all of Napanee, are sisters. Mr. Dunham is also survived by his wife, formerly Nellie Waring; one son, James, a graduate of Dalhousie University, and one daughter, Mary Louise, at home.

The Late Thomas F. Burley

Word of the death at Toronto of Thomas F. Burley, was received by friends in Napanee, on Friday. Mr. Burley had been in failing health for a year and his death was not unexpected.

He was born near Shannonville sixty-six years ago. For some years he lived at Deseronto, later in Western Ontario, and about fifteen years ago went to Toronto, where he lived until his death.

Mr. Burley's wife, who survives him, was formerly Margaret Tyner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tyner, Lime Lake. One daughter, Mrs. Mare. Holtze, also of Toronto, also survives.

The funeral was held in Toronto on Monday afternoon, with interment at St. John's Cemetery.

NORTHEN PAPER WILL ACCEPT EDITORIALS

Kirkland Lake — The Northern News of this town makes the following announcement :

Some two years ago brief religious editorials, written by ministers of various denominations were published in the columns of this newspaper. Judging by comments received these articles were enjoyed by a number of reads. Consequently it has been decided to publish another series, beginning with this week's issue—the Lenten season being an appropriate time for this type of article.

The Timiskaming Presbytery of the United Church is undertaking the responsibility of this series, contributions from ministers of other denominations will be welcomed by the chairman of the Church Literature Committee, Rev. J. R. Moore, Elk Lake. The only stipulation is that these articles should not exceed 700 words in length.

MULCHING MISTAKES IN ORCHARDS

Although mulching in orchards is now quite general, there are still a few common mistakes in connection with this operation to which attention should be drawn, says Mr. F. S. Browne, Dominion Experimental Station, Lennoxville, P.Q. In the first place, like fertilizer, the mulching material is seldom spread wide enough, as the greatest concentration of the roots of apple trees is usually immediately beyond the spread of the branches while comparatively few rootlets are located near the trunk. The decomposition of the material composing the mulch releases a considerable quantity of plant food which, if concentrated over a comparatively small portion of the area occupied by the feeding roots, will have much the same effect as fertilizer under similar conditions. Particularly so if the mulch is spread rather thickly, moisture and plant food may be available in objectionable quantity throughout the season. Such a condition over part of the root area may be a detrimental influence on colour development and ripening of the wood. The chief loss, however, is that the beneficial effects of the mulch are restricted to only a portion of the roots, and the tree cannot make the most satisfactory response.

Where mulch and fertilizer are used too heavily a real test winter might kill every tree. If, on the other hand, the quantities used are as recommended, the trees will, in all probability, be in better condition to withstand severe weather than if grown in sod only. Accordingly, it is recommended that mulch be spread from about two feet from the trunk of a bearing tree to a distance of two or three feet beyond the spread of the branches. The depth of the mulch under average conditions should be four to six inches of straw or the equivalent in other material. For a tree with a spread of twenty feet, about eighty pounds of straw will be found sufficient. The most satisfactory time to apply mulch is in the late fall or early winter, preferably after the first snowfall when the material can be tramped into the snow.

Mr., Mrs. C. Anderson Celebrate Golden Wedding, in West

A pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson, of Selby, at Estevan, Sask, where they have been spending the winter with their daughter, when over eighty guests met in the assembly hall, on March 5th, to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

The flowers and decorations were in golden colors, centering over the table where the relatives were seated. On the centre of the table was a wedding cake, in the shape of a golden heart, which was presented to the bride of fifty years. A programme was given, and just before the dainty lunch was served, Mr. P. B. Holmgren, ex-mayor, read an address, which had been written in an autograph book, where each guest later registered, Mrs. Holmgren presented Mr. and Mrs. Anderson with a silver tea service lined with gold and a black and gold dish, on behalf of the new friends they had met in Estevan, and expressing their appreciation for their services in the Free Methodist Church and Sunday School and especially the Bible studies given in the young people's meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were so completely surprised, words could hardly express their appreciation.

Their two daughters were present, Mrs. G. C. Richardson of Winnipeg, Man., and Mrs. Wartman of Estevan, Sask., also Rev. D. S. Wartman and Glendyne Wartman.

On Sunday afternoon, March 4th, their family, Mrs. H. S. Windover, Selby, Ont., Mrs. G. C. Richardson, Winnipeg, Man., Wm. T. Anderson, Detroit, Mich., Mrs. D. S. Wartman, Estevan, Sask., and Mrs. Frank Hall, Detroit, Mich., dedicated them a hymn, "When they ring those Golden Bells for You and Me," over radio station CJRM, Moose Jaw, Sask. The announcer, being a special friend of the Wartman family extended special greetings to them. Several gifts, messages and cards were received from friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will be leaving Estevan in the spring, visiting in Winnipeg and Detroit on their return trip to Ontario.

Wedding Bells

DOHERTY — YOUNG

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Trinity Church rectory, Shannonville, on Saturday, March 3rd, when Miss Marjorie Doherty was united in marriage to Mr. William C. Young, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Christie Young. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Alex A. Pepper.

The happy couple left for points West, to spend their honeymoon, and on their return they will reside in Belleville, where the groom is employed with the B. T. C.

OBITUARY

MRS. HENRY MARTIN

The funeral of the late Mrs. Henry Martin took place on March 4th, in Selby United Church, of which she was a devoted member. Some three weeks ago she suffered a severe heart attack, developing into pneumonia, and finally had a cerebral hemmorhage, from which she never recovered. She was in her seventy-ninth year.

Mrs. Martin was formerly Miss Emma Denison, daughter of the late Robert S. Denison and Esther Dolan and had lived in this community all her life, having retired to the village twenty-six years ago. Mrs. Martin was an active member in all the activities of the church, having been president of the W. M. S. and the W. C. T. U. since her coming to the village. She will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

Left to mourn her loss, are her husband and one son, Bert, and four brothers, Ben and James of Selby, Datus of Newburgh and Alex. of Toronto. There were also two sisters, Mrs. C. Lucas, who predeceased her sixteen years ago, and Mary, who died at the age to twelve.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

The Busy Bee Mission Band met at school on Wednesday, March 7th, with a good attendance of members and visitors.

The call to worship was given by the president, Jean Amey, and all sang the response. After singing a hymn, the minutes of the last meeting and the roll call were given by the secretary, Ralph Wilson.

During the business period, it was decided to hold the Easter Thankoffering meeting on April 11, and have an open meeting.

The Watch Tower items were then given, as follows : Koren, by Augusta Clark; China, by Arnold Clark; Africa by Vivian Craig; Temperance by Muriel Craig; Stewardship, by Sidney Wilson.

The offering was taken by Lois Paul and Wilmer Craig, after which Miss Rutherford read the Easter story. Marion Lauder taught the memory verse, from John 13 :34 and Doris Vandervoort gave a reading.

The study period was in charge of Mrs. Wales, who told the story, "The Road of Boats," and other interesting things about child life in China.

The meeting was closed by singing a hymn and repeating the Mizpah benediction.

THE UPWARD SWING

Increased business, both in the way of the number of packages handled and the revenue collected thereon, was reported during the Christmas and New Year season at some of the larger Custom ports. Reports received by the Editor, from the Collectors at Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, summaries of which are given hereunder, indicate the upward swing.

December, 1932, was a busy month at both the Customs postal branch and the Customs express branch, Montreal, with increases all along the line over the same period in 1932. Comparative figures for the respective months at the postal branch were :- Collections $66,121 ($64,616), parcels received 23,347 (21,911). During the month 9,302 sacks of registered and parcel post mail were assorted. Thousands of these packages were mailed to various ports and outports throughout the Dominion, while thousands more were stamped duty free and handed to the postal authorities to be delivered to the addresses.

At the express branch comparative figures for the first 21day period in each of the two months were as follows :—collections $128,312 ($86,259), packages received 7,848 (6,411), entries 1,610 (1,306).

Toronto also made a good showing. Business transacted at the Customs express branch in December last as compared with December 1932, was as follows ; — collections $162,818 ($156,624), packages received 15,106 (13,251), entries 2,589 (2,290). At the Customs postal branch totals for December 1933 and 1932 were : collections $59,254 ($58,639), packages received 29,790 (29,070), entries 2,376 (2,280).

The volume of business transacted at the Customs postal branch, Winnipeg, during the past Christmas and New Year season, December 15, 1933, to January 3, 1934, about equalled that of the corresponding period of 1932-33. The number of parcels received from the United States increased, while those from Great Britain and Europe declined. The rush period began with the arrival of a heavy British mail on Sunday, December 17, and continued throughout the following week. British and foreign overseas mail arrived at frequent intervals, together with an almost ceaseless flow from the United States. All business was handled expeditiously, and courteous service to the public was given by all members of the staff.

During the period under review 7,182 parcels were cleared through this branch. This number was made up of 4,680 parcels from the United States, 2,139 parcels from Great Britain and Europe and 192 registered parcels. Duty and taxes amounted to $6,115. Totals for the corresponding period of 1932-33 were :- parcels cleared 7,193, made up of 2,969 parcels from the United States, 2,940 parcels from Great Britain and Europe, and 264 registered parcels. Revenue collected totalled $6,450.

Increased business was transacted at all points at the Customs express branch, Winnipeg, in the four weeks period, December 1 to 28, 1933, as compared with the same period of 1932. Comparative figures for the respective periods were:- revenue collected $15,381 ($12,646), packages delivered 2,421 (1,897), entries 450 (422.) — National Revenue Review.

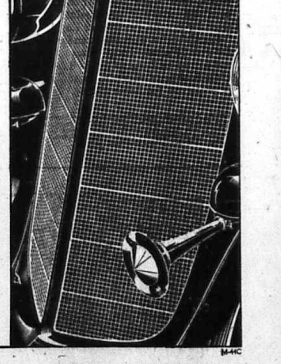
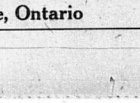
Why McLAUGHLIN-BUICK VACUUM-POWER BRAKES are Safer...



YOU ADMIRE the style of the new McLaughlin-Buick when you see it on the street. When you sink back in its big, roomier interiors, you really appreciate what Body by Fisher means. When you take the wheel, two things will amaze you! First, the Floating Ride. And second only to that—the new Vacuum-Power Brakes! They're the greatest advance in safe, easy braking since four-wheel brakes themselves. They last far longer. And McLaughlin-Buick is the only car in its price class that gives you Vacuum-Power Brakes.

The power brake mechanism is so controlled that the car is stopped easily and smoothly from any speed with only a very light pedal pressure. "Servo" action "steps up" your foot power.

Increased braking area is a great efficiency and long life feature of the new brakes. Adjustments for wear are required less frequently than formerly. And the braking action is more positive.



Cast iron brake drums of one piece design permit the use of a sufficient number of cooling fins, machined on the outside, to properly dissipate heat. This means long brake life.

THE BEST SHADE TREES TO PLANT

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The planting of shade trees is a work that is quite comparable to that of erecting a stately building to serve a specific purpose. The shade trees should be looked upon as friends of mankind whether planted in the avenues of our town or cities, along the broad highways stretching from coast to coast or around our rural homes.

Avenues of stately trees along the streets of our towns and cities offer shade from the sweltering summer sun and protect our homes from many a heavy blast of winter wind. These trees give shelter to thousands of the feathered friends of mankind, that seek a place to abide during the northern summer.

Then let us look at those avenues of beautiful stately trees, as it were on dress parade, joining city block to rural highway. Down into the valley, by the bridge, along the grass edged brook, over the hill top and near the homestead, stand these sentinels, adorning the landscape, providing shade and shelter for man and beast.

The most important of the shade trees are: Elm, oak, maple, soft or silver maple and black walnut, where climatic conditions will permit. Oak trees are also useful and beautiful and should be used. For wet or low land the willow is adapted and has quite a range of varieties. Where poor land is to be contended with, or quick growth required, the poplar may be used.

Among the evergreens there is the white pine, Austrian pine and Scotch pine. Norway spruce, native white spruce and the Douglas fir.

To grow well and show the natural beauty shade trees should have a spacing of thirty-five or forty feet.

INTERNATIONAL PAYMENTS

By F. A. Mayman, Ottawa

Canada moved from a debit to a credit position in regard to international payments during 1933. This is the outstanding feature of a preliminary review of the international balance sheet of the Dominion by the Government Statistician. The net flow of capital was towards Canada last year whereas in 1932 and 1931, it was outwards. On the balance of international payments the net credit in 1933 in favour of Canada was $162,050,000. Of this $81,500,000 is estimated to have been due to direct inflow of capital, while $40,500,000 was the balance due on trade, interest and related accounts. The balance due to Canada on commodity account was $146 millions, to which gold added about $22 millions and tourist expenditures $59 millions. The largest item on contra account was the balance of $225 millions in interest payments, the other chief debit items being freight and exchange.

Commodity trade had a favourable balance amounting to $146 millions compared with one of $30 millions in 1932. Net gold exports in terms of Canadian funds were $22 millions compared with $69 millions in 1932. This large increase was due, of course, to the heavy premium on gold. Commodity trade exports for the year were estimated at $535 millions against commodity imports of $389 millions. The commodity trade figures were corrected by the deduction of non-commercial items and ever-valuations.

Tourist trade expenditures in Canada were put at $110 millions and outside expenditures by Canadians at $50 millions. The favourable balance was thus $60 millions which compared with $155 millions in 1932. This drastic decline was due, not only to a falling off in the number of tourists but also to a lower average expenditure per tourist.

Among the items showing net debits, interest and dividend payments and receipts is the most important. The outgo is placed at $275 millions compared with incoming payments of $50 millions. The net outgo of $225 millions compares with $192 millions in 1932. The increase is accounted for by improved sources of information on interest and dividend payments, and also because of back remittances made by branch and subsidiary plants after the disappearance of the discount on the Canadian dollar.

Rise in Sterling

The recovery of the Canadian dollar on the New York market rendered the bill for exchange payments in 1933 much less than in 1932. It is estimated that there was a net debit of $9 millions on this item compared with one of $14 millions in 1932. The rise in sterling quotations in Montreal did not affect the rate in Canadian-New York exchange. While the better exchange situation was a favourable influence on the balance of payments, it should be noted that the rise in exchange was in a large measure an effect of the more favourable situation regarding international payments.

Freight payments were estimated to be adverse to the extent of $15,000,000; Government expenditures, $3,000,000; advertising by $1,500,000; motion picture earnings by $4,000,000. The flow of insurance payments showed a net credit of $4,000,000.

During 1933 it is estimated that the only net movement of securities between Canada and outside countries reached the large total of $300 millions. There was heavy buying abroad of Canadian mining stocks and Canadian Government bonds, but Canadian purchase of domestic and foreign securities reached $280 millions. In addition to the purchase of this large sum in securities by Canadians, Canadian Governments and corporations retired $40 millions in bonds owned abroad which had reached maturity in the interval. Direct investments in Canada are estimated at $1,500,000. On balance, Canada was an importer of capital to the extent of $67,500,000. This import, comparing with capital exports in the two previous years, was another important factor in easing the situation with regard to the accumulation of credits to meet international debits. The net credit balance of Canada, as already intimated, was $162 millions.

Definite Improvement In Business in South Western - Ontario

In an economic survey covering the year 1933, the London, Ontario, Chamber of Commerce is able to point to a definite upward trend of business, not only in the city itself but in the fourteen counties that comprise South-western Ontario. Some firms, the report states, are operating at or near the point where they are understaffed, while increases in prices and volume of business done have resulted in other concerns taking on more employees.

Those responsible for this instructive and moderately worded survey cite the improvement of business in London from about March 15 last, but they point out that there may be variations in the upward course owing to factors of which they could have no knowledge in advance. Those however, it is emphasized, should not affect that progress which is invariably to be noticed in communities where the proper spirit, correct mental attitude and enlightened aggressiveness are shown by the people. To-day there is evidence on all sides of a healthy attitude towards trade conditions in general; urban communities are quickly responsive to the condition of agriculture, for they know that if prices of farm produce are advancing their business may soon be expected to benefit.

In the London area in 1933, a number of industries reported overtime working and operations carried on through holiday periods. Food, textile, leather and allied trades, being among the local industries, show increases. Having their origin locally and bearing out the trend towards the smaller industrial unit, twelve new industries which made a start in London were listed during the year in Government records.

Statistics included in the economic survey show that London's industrial payroll, earned by 9,366 employees, exceeds $11,000,000 a year; the volume of business done by wholesale establishments alone exceeds $15,000,000 a year, and commercial travellers continue to report improvement in most lines and predict that increased bovine is likely to continue. In retail trade, one store's turnover exceeds $36,999,000 through its 904 shops giving employment to 3,709 people. With knowledge of the fact that stocks are depleted, that old stocks have almost been disposed of and that costs of production are increasing, shopkeepers are replenishing at to-day's prices in the expectation that consumers will also buy before further advances take place.

Because of its strategic position London benefits from the tourist trade of south-western Ontario, for it is from this centre that supplies are largely obtained. Consumers' publicity and information likely to be useful to tourists are handled in the London Chamber of Commerce offices, and many firms and individuals rely on the demands of tourists for a substantial part of their business.

World's Largest Pearl Once the Property of Marie Antoinette

The world's largest pearl, which was once the property of Marie Antoinette, is now in Delhi, India.

It came from the collection of Henry Philip Hope, the possessor of the famous Hope diamond, which brought tragedy to all its owners. How it reached Delhi is not known and all its present owner will say is that "it is a long story."

The pearl is two inches long, four and a half inches in circumference and weighs three ounces. It is encompassed by the royal crown of France in red enamel and gold, set with fine diamonds.

CHARACTER BEFORE SCHOLARSHIP

"Every business has its Book of Rules — it's by-laws, its rigid taboos, its peculiar practices and specialised data to which all students have access equally. But it does not follow that the apprentice who carries the fattest note-book and bulges at the forehead will drop into the coveted pivotal post as easily as a ripe plum falls to earth."

Scholarship is not enough. I hope you will not misunderstand my implication. It is irrefutable that a man should be master of his own field. As a youth, Lincoln said: "I will study and remember and, maybe, my chance will come." Each candidate for success might engrave the words upon his mind as deeply—if hardly so intensely—as Calais was said to be inscribed upon a certain queenly heart. The world continues to offer its prizes to the proficient, and in many businesses today success has become the reward of the technical and specialist.

Nevertheless, I suggest to you that knowledge is merely a subordinate, if not a necessary, factor in success. Knowledge is not always power. Knowledge applied by a charming and strong personality becomes a unique achievement.

There is the persistent impression that cool and colossal cheek rather than ability is responsible for many a success. I grant that sometimes the prizes fall to the vulgar rather than to the virtuous, and that the thruster occasionally triumphs over the quietly competent, but such victories are frequently ephemeral. Personality does not consist of making a noise in the world.

It may be true that a certain measure of aggressiveness is needed if we are to reach the heights, as Donne perceived when he urged that one should 'live dangerously.' But aggressiveness is best concentrated against falsehood and error, trickiness and low cunning. He is wisest who relies more upon persuasion than the force; who leads rather than drives.

Character is the factor which distinguishes a man as a personality; and character, contrary to popular belief, is not something one is born with. I few frequently in history as creations born acclaimed by those who had labored and prayed and suffered beneath grievous handicaps and exhibited no genius whatever. Clearly, there are characteristics of personality which may be acquired, as character may be developed by all who possess the will to pursue the means and the patience to subject themselves to the discipline of determined habits of thought and self-training. Effective education must proceed along a moral as well as an intellectual plane; business and vocational training should have the development of right personality as one of its primary concerns.

In particular, the personality of a man will characterise his work as a water-mark classifies a sheet of paper. Such character has its clearest expression in conduct, so the prerequisites of the successful personality are revealed in its functions. Thus, it will attract attention and inspire confidence.

Newman's definition of a gentleman as one who never inflicts pain applies unrivalled. Here a standard is set for the business man. It involves a conception of public spirited service, oils everyday transactions. The manners which indicate man and distinction to the clerk and managing director alike, they sit becomingly upon a man whatever his station in life; they secure for him confidence and goodwill. — Harold Bellman, chairman of the Metropolitan Building Societies' Association, at its Summer School, held at Cambridge.

SOWING EARLY CELERY

The first to the fifteenth of March is the usual time for sowing early celery, while sowings as late as April or early May, in a mild locality, will be found satisfactory for the late crop, says the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The seed is sown down in the field like other crops, but must be started in a greenhouse, hotbed, or window if early celery is required. The best method for the average grower is to have flats three inches deep, thirteen inches wide and 22 inches long made of thin cedar, with inner lines in the bottom to provide drainage. Fill the flats with soil—preferably well-worked loam and clay—to one inch within the top of the box, having a surface of finely sifted soil. The seed may be sown broadcast or in rows two inches apart, covering the seeds with fine soil to the depth of an eighth of an inch. A piece of wet burlap spread over the surface of the soil will hold the moisture, and subsequent waterings may be applied on the burlap, which is removed as soon as the seeds begin to germinate.

If the seed is sown in a hotbed or a greenhouse, one-quarter of a pound of seed will produce enough plants for one acre of rows spaced 3 feet apart. One ounce of seed should produce between 8,000 and 10,000 good plants.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Straw as an Absorbent

Straw when used as bedding for live stock will absorb from two to three times its weight of liquid, and if finely cut will soak up about three times as much liquid as when uncut. Further, the absorptive capacity of dry sawdust and fine shavings is from two to four times that of ordinary straw.

The Spring Seed Requirements

Farmers who desire to assure their seed supply at minimum cost are already taking stock of their spring requirements. Those who have seed of their own will be taking steps to have it properly cleaned and graded before the spring rush. Others, less fortunate, will be well advised this year particularly, to secure what they require as soon as possible, making sure that they are getting varieties which are most highly recommended for conditions such as theirs.

Buy Feeds on Guarantee

"Do not find yourself with a "good-brick" feed. Money spent and no value in return. Our feeds analysed in the laboratories of the Dominion Experimental Farms have had 3 samples from 4 to 14 per cent. of protein and from 10 to 30 per cent. of fats, meat meals of from 40 to 65 per cent. protein and phosphoric acid from 10 to 23 per cent. Therefore do not buy your feeds blindly but study the guaranteed analysis, as printed on bags or other containers so that you know of what value the feeds are for your specific purpose, and also as compared with other feeds of the same class.

Help to Make Canada More Beautiful

The unlovely things and unattractive places in Canada that displease the eye are made by man. It is time he set out to undo some of the damage that has been done. There are primrose paths for all to tread who care to make them. An ample amount of worry can be spaded under along these paths in a bright prime afternoon. Since Adam tilled the first garden many pastimes have come to relieve their thousandth purpose of toil, of which that of gardening has stood through the centuries. There must be somewhere in the Province of Ontario a few more out of the picture with flowers or shrubs this coming spring. Help to make Canada more beautiful.

Inoculating Legume Crops

When legume crops are being planned for spring seeding, consideration should be given to the question of inoculation. This is particularly recommended for such crops as alfalfa, sweet clover and soya peas, especially when seeding for the first time. Inoculation consists in adding a culture of the proper bacteria to the seed at the time of sowing. It is easy to carry out and helps to insure success with the crop.

Ontario Swine to be Tested on The Basis of Market Type

It was decided at the annual meeting of the Ontario Swine Breeders' Association that a series of feeding stations should be established throughout the province, at which the progeny of breeding pigs shall be tested on the basis of market type. The primary object in mind, is that of bringing Ontario hogs up to the level of quality obtained in Denmark. Discussing the question, George B. Rothwell, live stock commissioner of Canada, said that the Danes have set up a style. It was not necessary for the country to rebuild the stock of bacon hogs by importing special strains, but quality and uniformity of product, and a constant and even good volume, were essential on the British market.

Outlook Brighter

Completed survey of the statistics for 1933 paints a brighter picture of farming in this province than in any year since 1929. Total value of field crops jumped $8,272,000 in 1933 from the 1932 total, the final report shows, and this, despite a decreased acreage sown, and a volume of field production reduced 9.7 per cent.

Field crops harvested from a total acreage of 9,164,600 in 1933 had a value of $124,679,000, the report reveals, and a rise of 19 per cent in average prices for farm products is reported.

And the considered view of the experts indicates continued improvement. Under the guidance of Hon. T. L. Kennedy, the department is embarking upon an even more energetic program of inspection and grading of farm products, of extension of British Empire markets and of increasing domestic consumption of Ontario products.

As forecast in the Speech from the Throne, Col. Kennedy proposes measures to assist in more careful grading of products, to provide for improved livestock strains and to aid associations formed to push particular products in home and foreign markets.

Grain Feeding

In all grain feeding it must be kept in mind that the product being used is an expensive one and can under no circumstance be used in the feeding or finishing of low grade or indifferently bred animals. Not only must the animals be of approved types, but experience has clearly shown that certain kinds of farm animals greatly excel others in their ability to utilize the feeds provided. Especially is this true in connection with the feeding of grains. Poultry would probably head the list in this regard, with the pig standing a close second in its ability to manufacture feed grains into meat economically. The dairy cow, because of her ability to give off from her body immense quantities of milk during a long lactation period, would rank third, followed by beef cattle and sheep.

Weeds in Cereal and Grass Seeds

With reference to weed classification and seed grades under the Seeds Act, weeds are classified into three groups according to the seriousness of their character. The first group consists of noxious weeds, the nine members of which are couch grass, bladder campion, dodder field bindweed, Johnson grass, ox-eye daisy, perennial sow thistle, white cockle, and wild mustard. The second group is known as the secondary noxious, which includes ball mustard, blue weed, Canada thistle, chicory, field peppergrass, cow cockle, corn cockle, dock, false flax, forked catchfly, harebell, marsh or night-flowering catchfly, purple cockle, rescuegrass, common sheep sorrel, ribgrass, Russian pigweed, tickweed, stink-weed, tumbling mustard, wild carrot, wild oats and wild radish. The third group contains a long list of lesser weeds such as ragweed, lamb's quarters, cinque foil, etc.

No seeds of group one, primary noxious weeds, are allowed in grade No. 1 and No 2 for seeds of cereals and other field crops, but allowance is made in grade No. 3 of cereal and field crop seeds for five primary noxious weed seeds, or 15 primary and secondary weed seeds combined, with weed seeds of all kinds and 300 seeds of other cultivated plants per pound.

No 1 grade for seed of clovers and timothy allows no seeds of primary noxious weeds. No. 2 grade allows five primary noxious weed seeds per ounce or 20 primary and secondary noxious weed seeds combined per ounce, while No. 3 grade allows 25 primary noxious weed seeds, or 80 primary and secondary noxious weed seeds combined, or a total of 300 weed seeds per ounce. The use of seed grain that has not been well cleaned is responsible for the introduction of many new weeds and the increase of these already in the land.

A pleasant medicine for children is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, and it is excellent for driving worms from the system.

Pollenizer Apple Trees

Importance of the Dates of Blooming

There is some disagreement as to the amount of interplanting apple trees necessary for pollination. Some authorities, such as Mr. H. Hill, Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, advise at least every fourth tree in every fourth row; others claim that a full row of the pollenizer is more effective. Most people would think a full row of the pollenizer every fifth row is likely to be satisfactory. In some cases it may be necessary to interplant three varieties, owing to the fact that two varieties planted may not come into bearing at the same age, or that one of the varieties may be prone to biennial bearing. In cases where Wealthy is being relied upon as a pollenizer for McIntosh, pollination troubles may occur some years on account of the biennial bearing habit of Wealthy. However, where Melba is being planted as a pollenizer for McIntosh, the farmer may suffer for the first couple of years on account of its earlier bearing age.

When interplanting, the following conditions must be satisfied: (1) there must be a sufficient overlapping of the blooming dates. If two bloom does not exactly coincide it is preferable that the variety introduced as a pollenizer be a little earlier than that of the variety it is desired to pollinate. The variety used as a pollenizer must itself be productive and a good pollenizer. That is, the varieties interplanted must be reciprocal as far as their pollenizing abilities are concerned. (2) The varieties planted must have a good supply of pollen of high germinability, and (3)...the varieties must be cross-fruitful.

Observations were made at Abbotsford on the blooming dates of the following varieties: Duchess, Fameuse (Snow), Melba, Golden Russet, McIntosh, and Lobo. From these observations it was indicated that McIntosh should be an efficient pollenizer for Fameuse, since a considerable portion of the bloom would be past the receptive stage before McIntosh pollen was liberated. On the other hand, Fameuse pollen would be past the receptive stage before McIntosh pollen was liberated. On the other hand, Fameuse pollen would be available when McIntosh commences to bloom, it should be a good pollenizer for McIntosh. Duchess and Melba began to bloom about the same time as Fameuse and should prove good pollenizers for Fameuse and McIntosh. Wealthy and Russet were found to be suitable pollenizers for McIntosh. From observations made in one locality, it was found that Lobo began to bloom two or three days later than McIntosh, and for that reason would not prove suitable as a pollenizer.

Quick Relief for Women

Women need not endure periodic pains and headaches. They can spare themselves this suffering by taking ZUTOO TABLETS. Mrs. Allen Wright, of Fulford, who was relieved in 30 minutes of severe pain and headache, wrote saying: "Every woman in the land should know about ZUTOO TABLETS and what they will do." Just try the tablets and know for yourself how quickly they stop the pain.

Miss H. M. Paul, retired missionary, was taken seriously ill while on her way to church on Sunday night.

Many friends of Harvey J. Wood were sorry to hear of his death, after a short illness at the home of his brother, Mr. Albert Wood, in Michigan. He was 45 years old. He ceased was 72 years of age and was a son of the late Henry Wood, of Newburgh. He was born in Camden, about two or three miles north of the village. He was a resident of Newburgh in his early manhood, while learning the harness making trade with Mr. J. Wells. After working for him for a few years he started in business for himself on Main St. He and Mr. G. A. Dunnedy bought out the undertaking business from Mr. Eakins and the partnership lasted several years. He also held the agency of the Massey-Harris people. He sold out his business some twenty-two years ago to Mr. James Lochhead and moved to Saskatoon, Sask. He was a prominent and respected citizen of the village, and made many friends by his jovial personality. Deceased leaves to mourn his loss his wife (Miss Josephine Fife before her marriage), who also was a resident of Newburgh; a daughter, Mrs. Pearl Sinider, both residing in Saskatoon; and five brothers and four sisters living in the United States and one sister living in Smith Falls. We wish to convey to the bereaved family, our deepest sympathy.

Safe, Sensible, Simple Rules To End PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, Etc.

Ugly, disfiguring blotches and pimples are almost certain signs that your eliminative organs are not functioning fully in their useful task of keeping the blood stream pure. You can avoid they are—and don't be misled by apparent regularity in your daily habits. Regularity sometimes fails because regularity is not always complete.

To correct impossible elimination of body wastes eat moderately, get all the sleep your system requires, drink plenty of water, and eat each of twice each day of Ironized Yeast, a delicious, pleasant-tasting glass of Andrews Liver Salt.

What Andrews does for you is to stimulate the system to normal, healthy action. Taken at regular intervals—say twice a week—Andrews will keep your whole system pure and vigorous. Then skin imperfections will tend to disappear and you will enjoy a clear skin and a healthy, active body.

Follow these easy, sensible Andrews health rules. Get Andrews Liver Salt from your druggist. In tins at 15c and 60c. New, large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: John A. Huston Co., Ltd., Toronto.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, March, 12.— The regular monthly meeting of the W. A. of St. John's Anglican Church, met at the home of Mrs. Wellington Coulter, on Thursday, March 8. 3pm. Routine was in charge of the president, Miss Edna Clarke and was opened by the reading, in unison, of Hymn 509, and the Collect for the third Sunday in Lent, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The scripture lesson was taken from Matthew 18th chapter and was read by Mrs. Charles Graham. The roll call was answered by the members using the word "Beware." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. A communication was read from Miss Burns explaining the use made of the pledge money. Also a letter was read from Miss Hentig, reporting the meeting of the Board of W. A., which was held in Kingston in February. Miss Clarke gave a report of the different confirmation services, held by Bishop Lyons, since he became Bishop of Ontario and showed a picture of the new Anglican Church which he had lately consecrated at Bonarlaw, Mrs. Graham read a letter of recognition for letter of condolence to the bereaved society, sent to Mrs. Weller and Mrs. A. Wagar. It was decided and seconded that fifteen dollars of pledge money be sent at once, also to send our supervision fee for our members. A letter was read from the "Living Message" from Mrs. Parrabee, Dominion President, concerning our meetings and our attitude towards new members. A description was read from the Living Message, describing the consecration of Rev. Flemming as Bishop for the Arctic. The service was held in Winnipeg and was largely attended by visiting bishops and archbishops and was a very solemn ceremony throughout. It was decided to make a travelling apron to raise money for the society. It was decided that the money raised at the series of euchres go towards the pledge money. Moved and seconded that fifteen dollars be donated to the church envelopes. The meeting closed with prayer for sick members, also partners prayers and members prayer. The April meeting is to be held a the home of Mrs. Sarah Spratt, the roll call to be answered by the members using the word "Repent"

A number from here attended a meeting of Orangemen in Bath Friday evening, following a protest Entertainment, being shut out from the final chance for a try-out for the Black Cup, which was announced as being held in Napanee, following the game between them and Verona, in Kingston on Wednesday night. In the event Napanee was the winner. The protest was allowed and Enterprise is to meet Harrowsmith on the following Wednesday, March 14th, for a chance to win the cup.

On Thursday evening, a number of the members of St. John's Anglican Church, received a call at the home of V. D. Olliver, manager of the Royal Bank and presented him with an address and a fine reclining fountain pen and desk set, in recognition of his helpful services in church work during the past two years. Mr. Olliver, while taken by surprise, expressed his thanks and appreciation, very fittingly. A very pleasing lunch was served by the ladies, and after wishing him every success in his new field, the crowd departed to their respective homes. Mr. Olliver left on Saturday morning to assume his new duties as manager of the Royal Bank of Montreal, about thirty miles from London, Ont. Mr. Stewart, the new manager of the Enterprise branch arrived from Toronto on Wednesday morning, to take charge of this office.

Word was received in the village, last week, of the death at Port Colborne, of Lester Deline, an old resident of Enterprise. He was a brother of years, Mr. Deline, while living in Enterprise, was a blacksmith and by his genial disposition and the death of Mr. Deline some years ago, Mrs. Deline left the village to reside with members of her family at Port Colborne. The remains were brought to Napanee and placed in the vault, where they will rest in the family plot at Moscow United cemetery, in the spring.

Word has been received in the village of the serious illness of Rev. E. Rowland, whose pastorate charge was stationed here in charge of the United Church appointments. For several years he has been stationed at Stirling. It is understood Mr. Rowland collapsed while in charge of a Sunday service, and is now an inmate of Belleville General Hospital.

The Thrasherville-Enterprise bus was able to resume its regular trips to and from Kingston after a week or more of difficulty. The route is also making its regular trips now.

Roy McGill who is now making an assessment of the Township of Ernestown was a caller in the village, this week.

Unemployed : I see there's talk of another strike.

Wife : Yes, and if you was half a man you'd get a job and be able to walk out with the rest.

"Tommy," said the Church Visitor, "why don't you come to our Sunday-school? I am sure you would find a lot of your little friends there."

Tommy hesitated for a moment. Does a red - headed, freckle - faced chap named George Billings go to your school ?" he asked at length.

"Yes, he does," replied the visitor.

"Well, then," said Tommy, "I'll be there next Sunday. I've been wanting to have a fight with him for the last three weeks !"

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, March 12. — Crows and robins have made their appearance around the villages. Once more it reminds us that Spring is near at hand.

A successful and splendidly arranged group tea, held by the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church, was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Randell, Mill Street. The guests were received by Mrs. Randell and Mrs. Lamb, and Mrs Ross Perry, the convener of the tea. The following programme of contest was enjoyed which concluded in a tie between Mrs. McWain and Mrs. Alcombrack, Mrs. McWain winning out on a guess number. Mrs. Dr. Boyce and Mrs. C. Matthews sang in their usual pleasing manner. Mrs. Alcombrack gave a very fine reading which was followed by a piano duet by Mrs. Tunnicliff and Miss J. Aylsworth, which was much enjoyed. Lunch was served by the hostesses and another of the these successful group teas was brought to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Perry, Dundas Street, entertained the Euchre Club on Friday evening. Four tables were in play and the winners of the evening were: Ladies, Miss V. Smith, Mrs. Frank Crandall, and Mrs. S. Harvey and Mr. E. Smith. Lunch was served by the hostess and a social time was enjoyed. Mrs. Robert Moon will entertain the Club, this week

CLEAN GARDEN CULTURE

In insect control work there are many helpful steps which the gardener may take, quite apart from the actual spraying and dusting operations. Clean cultural methods, which will assist very greatly in checking the increase and development of many insects, have been found of great assistance to have all plants in a healthy and vigorous condition. Plants which are weak, diseased, particularly when the plants are small, may be thorough cultivation and the liberal use of suitable fertilizers. The use of good seed, showing a high percentage of germination, is recommended. By having strong, healthy, and rapidly growing plants it will be found that they are much better able to withstand the attacks of insects, and even at times to outgrow quite severe injury.

Membership of Mosley Fascists Increases Rapidly

London.—There will be more than 3,000,000 Blackshirts in the British Isles before the end of the year if enthusiasm for the movement continues at its present degree.

This is a rough estimate figured out by a well-informed supporter of Fascism in England. It is based partly upon the record period of enlistments in Sir Oswald Mosely's British Union of Fascists.

An average of 100 new members per day is being signed up at the headquarters branch of the Union alone. There are 60 such branches in London. The branches number well over 300 throughout the British Isles.

Accurate estimates of "B. U. F." are difficult to obtain. Officials refuse to disclose their numbers. They have been variously estimated at not less than 500,000 nor more than a million. It is agreed only that they are growing fast.

A trial organization to Mosley's, the British Fascists, claims a membership of 400,000.

The British Fascists claim to be the "original" Fascists of England. Mosley, they say, tried to join their organization two years ago when his "terms" were rejected, soon after "New Party" was claimed to have been a failure. Mosley then, according to the British Fascists, formed his own Fascist organization under the name "British Union of Fascists." The growth has astounded students of Fascism here. They attribute mainly to Mosley's ability to obtain financial support for the B. U. F. Lack of funds, on the contrary, appear to be the reason for adopting a "watchful waiting" policy by the British Fascists, an official of the organization told the United Press.

While Mosley's B. U. F. is preparing a vast organization capable of rapid day-to-day development, the British Fascists are marking time. Their activities, explained an official are restricted momentarily to propaganda by way of speeches at public meetings and the organization of chas for children, particularly in districts affected by "Red."

The British Fascists he added run games and sponsor physical training for children with the idea in their opinion he apt to be influenced to membership in the active political districts of London. These children are taught the essentials of the British Fascists who volunteer for the purpose.

In contrast to these relatively slow methods, with which the British Fascists themselves say they are forced to remain content for the moment, are the go-ahead politics of the Wealthier British Union of Fascists. Their activities include daily drilling of men, the running of oratorical classes for young men whom they are training to become public speakers, the creation of two weekly papers with wide circulations, the sale of every imaginable type of propaganda from black shirts and coats to a special brand of cigarettes called "Buff Cigarettes."

HOW ONE MAN LOST 19 lbs. FAT

Now Feels Absolutely Fit

A fat man is commonly supposed to be a good-humored, easy - going. But there is many a fat man who finds the going far from easy. The following letter describes one typical instance :—

"I began to put on weight this year, and developed stoutness in the stomach which was very ugly. I took Kruschen Salts each morning for a month, and reduced my weight 12 lbs. So I kept on, and have now reduced 19 lbs. altogether. Apart from that, it has also relieved me of headaches, and I feel absolutely fit each morning, ready for a hard day's work."— H.M.

Taken every morning, Kruschen effects a perfectly natural clearance of undigested food substances and all excessive watery waste matter. Unless this wastage is regularly expelled Nature will eventually store it up out of the way in the form of ugly fat. Once Kruschen gets into the blood you will soon see that double chin begin to go, and that too prominent abdomen begin to disappear.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. We have distributed a great many special "GIANT" packages which make it easy for you to prove our claims for yourself. Get a bottle of Kruschen from any chemist in the land. This consists of our regular 75c. bottle together with a separate trial bottle—sufficient for almost one week. Upon the trial bottle first, put it to the test, and then, if not entirely convinced that Kruschen does everything we claim it to do, the regular bottle is still as good as new. Take it back. Your druggist is authorized to return your money. Surely that is fair enough. You have tried Kruschen only at our expense. What could be fairer? Manufactured by E. Griffiths Hughes, Ltd., Manchester, Eng. (Estab. 1760). Importers: Mcmillyray Bros., Ltd., Toronto.

HANDY GARDEN INSECTICIDE

Pyrethrum, which poisons sucking insects, is obtained in the form of a pale-brown to yellowish powder and consists of the pulverized flower heads of certain chrysanthemum species which grow chiefly in Balkan countries, but are now being grown on this continent. It is commonly used on vegetables and fruits which are soon to be eaten, since, although deadly to insects, it is non-poisonous to human beings. That is its most outstanding feature. It deteriorates very quickly when exposed to air and for this reason purchasers should be sure it is fresh and has been stored in air-tight containers. It can be used as a dust, either pure or mixed with four times its weight of cheap flour. As a spray for fruit and vegetables, it is commonly used at the rate of one ounce to a gallon of water.—Vegetable Insects bulletin, Dominion Department of Agriculture

Mr. Harold Huff had the misfortune to lose his work shop by fire, on Saturday afternoon. The building was owned by Mr. James O'Mara and was located on his farm here, and Harold Huff has been using it this winter, but will now start to building and repairing furniture.

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. A high mortality among children is traceable to worms. These sap the strength of infants so that they are unable to maintain the battle for life and succumb to weakness. This preparation gives promise of health and keeps it.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, March 12.—The Young People's meeting on Friday night, was in charge of Miss Beryl Milligan and the meeting throughout was on missionary lines and was extremely interesting. After the opening hymn the following girls were called to the front, Doris Dalton, Mary York, Jean Wagar, Gertrude Richmond, Leona Huffman and Rhea Lochhead, and each, in turn, gave a reading from the Missionary Monthly, after which a hymn was sung, followed by a reading by Mrs. G. Richardson." A duet was given by Mrs. Lochhead and daughter, Rhea. Mr. E. J. Huffman provided a very interesting reading from the Missionary Monthly, by Miss Luella Rorke of Japan. This reading was of unusual interest to local people as this place was where Miss Rorke was living when she left to take up her work in the foreign fields as a missionary. Her father, Rev. Rorke was pastor of this circuit at the time and was pastor of the Methodist Church for six years previous to the union. Mrs. Rogers favored with an instrumental selection and Mrs. Dale Donovai recited in her usual pleasing manner. After a hymn had been sung and the minutes read and the business disposed of, the meeting closed with the Mispah benediction.

A very interesting event took place on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McKim. The occasion was the anniversary of Mrs. McKim's seventy-sixth birthday. A large number of friends called during the afternoon and a sumptuous lunch was served to all who called. Among many gifts received was a birthday cake, made and presented by Mrs. Stanley Marshall, with the required number of candles. Mrs. Titus Wagar, who is a very old friend of Mrs. McKim, spent the day with her and was the guest of honor at the gathering. The following ladies served during the afternoon, Miss Beryl Milligan, Mrs. Ed. Schoolcraft, Mrs. George O'Brien. Miss Marion Redden and Mrs. McKim's daughter in-law, Mrs. Randal York. During the afternoon, Mrs. McKim was heard to say, "No I'm not 76 years old I'm 76 years young," which goes to show that even at that age she is in good spirits and as jolly as many who are much younger.

Mr. Jim Youngs of the Tonto Police Force, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Youngs.

Mr. Leland Redden and sister, Marion, spent a few days, recently, with their uncle and grandmother, at the Redden farm, Kington.

Mrs. (Rev.) Brown and son, Freddie, have spent the past week with her parents, in Toronto.

Flinton, March 10. — The warm weather of the past week has been approved by all.

Miss Olive Nolan, who spent some time visiting her sister, Mrs. Claude Jerome, has returned to her home in Actinolite.

Miss Etta Marisette was a visitor in town for a week.

A number of the men from Eagle Hill, Flinton Crew, and Dagg's Hill camps are spending the week end in town.

Rev. A. P. Dowdell, of Plevna, conducted services in the Anglican Church last Sunday.

Mrs. Grace Lowery returned to Madoc, after spending two weeks at the home of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Bryden.

Miss Gladys Ruttan, of Northbrook, was renewing acquaintances in our midst.

Mr. Howard Hasler, Clerk, and Mr. C. C. Thompson, Reeve, made a business trip to Toronto the first of the week.

A number of young people of town are busy practising a play in the interests of the Catholic Church.

Messrs. Stafford Yanch and Alex. York made a business trip to Madoc last week.

Mrs. Dan. Harten is recovering from a severe attack of the "flu".

Mr. Arnold Wagar also has been on the sick list.

Mrs. Geo. Andrews had the misfortune to fall and sprain her wrist.

The March meeting of the Council of the Township of Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham was held in the Town Hall to-day.

EMPEY HILL

Empey Hill, March 12.— Mrs. Fred Kimmerly and Mrs. George Summers are visiting friends in Napanee for a few days.

Mr. Earle Penny has secured a situation in Napanee, with Mr. F. Mills.

The W. M. S. quilting was held at Mrs. S. E. Winters', and was largely attended. All spent a very enjoyable day and certainly did justice to the dinner prepared by Mrs. Winters' group.

The Four Square met on Friday evening, with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dupre, Mr. F. Kimmerly, Mr. and Mrs. R. McSmith, spent Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tucker.

The neighbours and friends of Mrs. A. Penny, Mrs. Earle and Kenneth Penny met at the home of Mr. M. P. Husband, on Friday evening, and presented them with suitable gifts, prior to their removal to Napanee. Rev. Smith read the address and Messrs. F. Husband and R. McMath made the presentation. Mrs. Penny made a very suitable reply. We are all sorry to lose them from our midst as they were excellent neighbours, but our loss will be someone else's gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kimmerly were "At Home" to their neighbours and friends on Thursday evening. All spent an enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Summers entertained Mr. and Mrs. S. Dafoe, Mr. and Mrs. R. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kimmerly, one evening recently.

The Tyendinaga East W. I. will meet at the home of Mrs. W. Wadingham, on Wednesday, for their regular meeting, and to quilt a quilt also.

BETHANY

Bethany, March 12. — These bright sunshiny days make us think Spring is just around the corner, which everyone, I think, will welcome.

Our roads are open again for cars. While the ruts are quite bad in a few places, no accidents have been reported.

Mary Rombough is staying with friends in Desoronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Miller spent Saturday in Kingston.

Miss Goodman is visiting Mrs. W. Goodman, Sr.

Don't forget the social at Bethany on Friday evening. A good program is being arranged by local and outside talent.

The stumps have not run their full course as yet, a number still being confined to the house with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Burtch took tea at Mr. E. Conger's on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peters spent Sunday at Newburgh.

Mrs. Cowle, of Schnectady, N.Y., sister of Mr. Ed. Conger, is visiting their mother, at Napanee.

Mrs. Conger, Sr., is in poor health.

The ice road, to Desoronto is very busy with loads of wood and logs. Nearly three feet of ice makes work for the fishermen cutting their nets in.

Some are preparing wood in the bush and are getting ready for the Maple season when the weather gets a little warmer.

BETHEL

Bethel, March 10. — The roads which have been blocked, several times due to the heavy fall of snow, have been opened once more for cars from Emberley's Hill east to Colebrook, but are not very good as yet, owing to the deep ruts.

Those who attended the social evening at Mr. Earl Boyce's, Colebrook East, reported a very pleasant evening.

Mrs. Percy Galbraith spent an afternoon, recently, with Miss Jennie Curran, Colebrook.

Mrs. E. McKnight and daughter, Jean, are spending the week end with her mother, Mrs. James Hill, at Godfrey.

Mr. Kenneth Freeman was sawing wood for Mr. E. McKnight on Thursday last.

Some of our farmers anticipate a good run of sap, this year, owing to so much frost in the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Knowlton who have spent the last month with Mr. and Mrs. Clark and family, have taken up residence in Moscow, where Mr. Knowlton is carrying on his barber-ine business.

The many friends of Mr. John Jaines, Sr., of the River Road, are pleased to hear he is improving from his recent accident, received while falling a tree in Arley Clark's woods, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Marlow and, and Mrs. Levi Salisbury, and the daughter, Marion, spent Friday evening at tea with Mr. and Mrs. Reid, Moscow, the occasion being the eighty fifth birthday anniversary of Mr. Geo. Salisbury, Sr.

Mr. George Jones is busy painting unlimited time, since painting and redecorating the new shop recently leased by Mr. David Kingsbury, barber.

Miss Emily Barrie, accompanied by Miss Helen McKnight and Miss Haddaman, spent the week end in Kingston.

Miss Dora Clark, who has been home from school for some weeks, through illness, is not improving as fast as hoped for, but she is some better at time of writing.

Mrs. W. Jackson returned home, last week, from Toronto, where she spent a week with her daughter, Mrs. Norris Sutton.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS

Bicknell's Corners, March 12.—The weather has been quite unsettled for the past few weeks.

Mrs. E. W. Simmons returned home on Tuesday of last week, after spending a number of days with her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Brown, and family, at Napanee.

O. A. C. President Delivers Address at Seed Fair Banquet

Urges Closer Union of Town and Country

The Eighth Annual Quinte District Seed Fair was held at the Town Hall, Napanee, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 14, 15 and 16.

The first day was occupied for the most part in judging the exhibits. There were, in all, 148 entries from the counties Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough, Hastings, Prince Edward, and Lennox and Addington. The number of entries was not quite as large as in some previous years, but the quality of the seeds exhibited was exceptionally good.

On Thursday, the Junior Farmers Judging Competition started at 10:00 a.m. About forty boys took part in the competition. Each team was accompanied by the county agricultural representative. The result of the competition is given in another column.)

During Thursday afternoon, quite a large number of local farmers were in town to view the exhibits and at 3:00 p.m. a meeting was held, at which the principal speaker was Prof. Squirrell, of the O. A. C.

PROF. SQUIRRELL'S ADDRESS

In opening his address on Thursday afternoon, Prof. Squirrell, B.S.A., of the Ontario Agricultural College, complimented the Fair Executive on having such a fine building as the Town Hall in Napanee, as the place for their exhibits. The room was about the right size, well lighted, and the seeds were properly exhibited.

He said the Seed Fair was one of the oldest agricultural institutions in the Province, and named some fairs which had been operating for practically one hundred years.

Values of the Seed Fair

There are three things to be gotten out of a seed fair: (1) To see what constitutes good seed; (2) To find out where good seed may be procured; (3) To meet friends and talk over problems.

Good seed is the foundation of success in agriculture. [illegible] sufficient emphasis is given.

The speaker said that the value of grain crops in Ontario is greater than the value of the live stock raised. He gave some figures of the value of grain crops in 1933 for the Quinte districts, a year which was not normal. Hastings $2,958,453, Northumberland $2,381,627, Durham over $2,000,000, Peterborough $1,763,427, Lennox and Addington $1,636,405, Prince Edward $1,182,953; a total of over $12,000,000.

Farmer Must Use Good Seed

The farmer is concerned in making as much out of his land as he can. To do this he must select good seed, and poor seed is dear at any price. He must have variety, and a variety suitable to his own particular needs. Prof. Squirrell dealt with varieties of different grains and named some which experiment had proved best for this district.

He spoke of the reduction in acreage of alfalfa during the last few years. He said there is no perennial grain crop which is equal to alfalfa in quantity and quality. Another crop which deserves consideration is the soya bean. It is a legume with a high percentage of protein, yielding, besides feed, soya bean oil and meal, which have many uses.

At the conclusion of his address, Prof. Squirrell answered questions asked by members of the audience.

THE BANQUET

The Annual Seed Fair Banquet was held at the Hotel Napanee on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Mr. D. Thrasher of Belleville, the president of the Quinte District Seed Fair Association, was chairman of the meeting. After welcoming the guests he called on the following men, who gave short addresses: Prof. Squirrell, G. K. Hannon and Mr. Palmer.

Mayor George J. Tustin extended a welcome to the town, to the members of the Association and the guest speaker.

Homer Jackson of Selby, gave two vocal solos and accompanied himself with the guitar.

Dr. Christie Speaks

Dr. G. T. Christie, the president of Ontario Agricultural College, at Guelph, was the principal speaker of the evening. He was introduced by Mr. C. W. Buchanan, the Lennox and Addington County representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

In the first part of his address, Dr. Christie said the exhibits at the Fair showed evidence that the farmers are working in the right direction and that there need be little fear for the quality of the crops they will raise, if such seed is used. He said evidence also that it is possible to find good seed near at home—which is the source that should be patronized. Unfortunately this is not always the case. Farmers will listen to the stranger telling "the tall story" about some seeds, which will on trial, not measure up to the home grown product.

Local men have proven the worth of their products and in the Fairs have brought together samples which will give returns in the locality where they were grown.

Urges Closer Union Between Town and County

One of the greatest achievements of the Fair, in Dr. Christie's estimation is that it brings the County and Town closer together. The agriculture of this county and others, must go forward if the country is to go ahead. Then, to make the community a success, there must be a life in all enjoy—made up of a comradeship between country and town. We must know each other and show an interest in each other.

Dr. Christie said that every town was started on someone's idea of being of service to the community. Business places, banks, doctors lawyers, all started out with the idea to serve. He urged the audience to "go away from the feeling that the town is trying to run a little show of its own." Among other things in this connection, he said: "The Town Napanee is the centre of the larger community. It goes right down to the home of the last farmer who comes to Napanee."

"This is the day when barriers which have existed between town and county should be broken down." He asked the young men who were present to think of these things in a big way. There must be co-operation, not only with the farmers but with the people in the community centre. He urged, "Know your neighbor," and added, "your neighbor is not only the man on the land, but the man down in the town."

Matter of Fertility of Farm

Turning to a more practical phase of agriculture, Dr. Christie said it is up to the man operating the farm whether the farm goes up or down. Some farmers think all they have to do is to get out and they can plough the soil. There is only a certain amount of fertility in the soil. It is there for our use, but in order to be able to continue to use it, there must be something put back into it. Some farms have impoverished their land and now have only a stumbling block. It is possible to make a farm grow in abundance and fertility, by the proper use of manures and fertility producing crops.

Concluding his address, Dr. Christie said: "Farming is no play. It requires work. It requires for the year 1934, great hard work." Some change must come about if farmers are to get a fair return for their labor and for the capital invested in agriculture. Some countries have some great plans on foot, whereby farmers are supposed to get more or less a fixed amount of return for less work. Dr. Christie's opinion was that if farmers are going to farm and live as they should live, they must work the farm for all it is worth and get a fair return. Better conditions will only be brought about by closer co-operation with those who are trying to bring about the better condition.

Routine Business Done at Town Council Session

Brief Meeting on Monday Night

At a regular session of the Town Council on Monday evening all the members were present, except Councillor Masters. Mayor Tustin was in the chair.

The Clerk read a letter from the Globe Indemnity Insurance Co., advising that their adjuster would be in town soon to take up the settling of the claims made by residents who had sustained injuries when falls on the streets.

A letter from Geo. Greer was read, enclosing claim for $5.75, for the replacement of a car spring broken on Water street. The matter was referred to the Streets Committee to investigate and report back.

In reply to a letter sent him by the Clerk, Hon. Mr. Finlayson, Minister of Northern Development, wrote that after considering the matter he was of the opinion his department could not take over the road from Erinsville to Kaladar. He understood the road went through settled country and was part of the County Road system. Mr. Grange advised that he had written the Minister for further information. Reeve Huffman told the Council that the member, C. W. Hannah, was interviewing the Minister in Toronto in the matter this week. The letter was filed.

Streets Chairman Reports

Councillor Mordon reported for the Streets Committee. Since the last meeting the total expenditure for the department was $50.36, on which $26.50 was for wages.

The report said that many storm sewers were now solid and cannot be opened until the weather turns milder. In company with the Street foreman, the Streets chairman had visited the stone quarry and found it is full of ice and water that could not be broken at present.

Reporting on the claim of Lewis Vanvalkenburg for damages done his cellar by water, the chairman advised the town was not responsible for the damage.

Mr. B. S. Vanalstine informed the Streets chairman that a hole existed on the road leading to his house and hurt himself. While he did not wish to put the town to any expense he considered the road should be fixed up.

More Old Documents Come to Light

Two old documents, which take us back to pioneer days in this county were shown us last week by Garfield Sills. One was a bill from Lasher & Stevenson, general merchants in the town of Napanee against his grandfather, William B. Sills. It was dated 1842, 92 years ago. It was for groceries and articles of clothing, purchased by Mr. Sills to the amount of two pounds, eighteen shillings and five pence.

The other was a deed for land, dated 1834, for part of the property which eventually came into the possession of the Sills family. It was a parcel of land deeded to John Smyth of Richmond, from John Dafoe.

To Survey Town Lighting

Councillor Cowling, reporting for the Fire, Water and Light Committee, said that requests for lights had been made for the yard back of Mellow's and Marsh's, and also at the rear of the Richelieu Hotel. After some discussion, he agreed to go over the lighting situation in the town with the Hydro and bring in a report at the next meeting.

Councillor Laffoon, chairman of Town Property, reported that the field back of the Acme Farmers' Dairy had been rented to Mr. Thos. Manion, until January 1st, 1935, at a rental of $15.00. Mr. Manion is to keep the fences in condition and return the land to the town at any time it may be required.

The following accounts were ordered paid:—

C. J. Maybee	$ 31.00
Vanluven & Wartman	10.00
Wallace's Drug Store	2.15
Women's Fund Ins. Co.	44.00
E. Richardson	5.00
Chas. Giles (police uniforms)	91.67
S. B. Hart & Co.	1.30
C. H. Lapum, insurance	29.00

An account of $24.85 from J. H. Fitzpatrick for meals and rooms for transients for the past two years, was referred to the Social Welfare Committee to investigate and report.

Council adjourned.

Canadian Dairy Farmers Form Organization

Ottawa, March 16.—The Canadian Federation of Dairy Farmers was organized here yesterday, following a four-day conference in which leading dairy farmers from Quebec, Ontario, the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia were represented. Representatives of milk producers' associations were also present. Over 100,000 dairy farmers and companies were represented.

To Speak for Industry

The Federation is to be the mouthpiece of the dairy industry and to confer with the Dominion and Provincial Governments on matters affecting that industry.

The conference disclosed that Canadian farmers are finding it more and more difficult to market their dairy products on the world market, due largely to the more efficient marketing methods of such countries as Australia and New Zealand, which have produce boards directing the marketing activities. The convention heard Dynes Fulton, director of the New Zealand Produce Control Board, on international problems, including the proposal emanating from the Farmers' Union in England that exports from the Dominion of dairy products should be restricted.

The Federation will shortly issue a statement of policy.

Montreal Paper Wishes Good Luck To Jack Adams

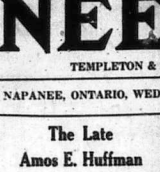
The March 10th issue of "The Puck," a Montreal sports paper, carries a full page article about Jack Adams. It is headed "Good Luck to Genial Jawn," a fine tribute to a good guy, by E. W. Ferguson.

The article starts off by saying: "Quite a number of people will be glad if the Ottawa Red Wings win the championship of the American division of the National Hockey League. They will be glad because they like pugg Jack Adams and his beaming smile of to-day, and because they like him as a game, smart and clean hockey player in his day."

The article gives a brief outline of Jack's career. It tells that he played for Port Willam at the age of 15, in the Allan Cup final against the Winnipeg Monarchs. Later he played with Peterboro and Sarnia as an amateur, before making his professional debut with the Toronto Club in 1916.

Much praise is given Jack as a man and as a shrewd constructive manager of the "Detroit Red Wings."

The Late Amos E. Huffman



On Wednesday morning early, March 14th, there passed away at his home in the vicinity of Moscow, a well known figure in the person of Amos Edmund Huffman.

For some time he had been troubled ed with a throat affection. Although while being confined to his room but a few weeks, his heart failed to respond and the end came rapidly and peacefully.

Mr. Huffman's whole life was lived practically in the neighborhood where he was born, 1858. He was the son of the late Elias Huffman and Mary A. Dennison and grand son of the late Elijah Huffman, one of the first settlers with his brother Jacob for whom Mr. and Mrs. Huffman, proud of the goodly heritage handed down to them, planned and carried out a very successful 100 year celebration at their home on June 24th, 1923, in memory of these worthy stalwart pioneers.

After a successful farming career, Mr. Huffman retired from the farm, 23 years ago, settling down in the first frame house, the original homestead, built by his grandfather, Elijah Huffman, after remodelling it into a very fine country home fitted with all modern conveniences, to enjoy the benefit of his hard-earned savings; his son taking control of the farm.

Mr. Huffman was twice married, first to Miss Eliza Milsap, daughter of the late Hicks Milsap of Moscow, by which union was born one son, Orrin and Nelles. Later, finding it advisable to marry again, he chose for a companion and helpmate Miss Luella M. Montgomery, daughter of the late Captain Montgomery, formerly of Yarker, who had one son, Donald Montgomery Huffman, now an electrician with the Ontario Power Development Company, at Island Falls, north of Cochrane.

Mr. Huffman was recognized as a keen hunter and fisherman, his one hobby being duck hunting, and for 40 years had never missed the opening day of the duck season; he was credited with being one of the best shots in the hunting district.

In religion he was a member of the United Church and in politics a staunch Conservative.

He leaves to mourn his passing, a sorrowing wife, two sons, Orrin on the farm and Donald in the north. His son Nelles predeceased him about fifteen months ago, at the time of his death was bank manager of a branch of the Merchants Bank at Alsia Craig, Ont; also one brother Milton, living at Colebrook, and one sister, Mrs. Amelia Sharpe, of Sillsville.

Mr. Huffman will be greatly missed as he was a loyal supporter of church and social activities. A very large circle of friends extend sympathy to the family, especially Mrs. Huffman, who so recently lost a sister, Mrs. H. Merriman Kingston, who died very suddenly. Mrs. R. A. McMahon and Miss Montgomery, 157 Alfred St., Kingston, are also sisters of Mrs. Huffman.

Men's Club Formed At Trinity Church

On Friday evening a men's Club was formed in Trinity Church. At 6:30 o'clock, about forty of the men of the congregation sat down to tea, which was prepared and served by a committee of men.

Following the supper, Rev. Harry Pawson, acting as chairman, explained the purpose of the proposed club. Its object is to allow the men to come into a social supporter of and to discuss the problems and projects of the church.

An election of officers followed, which resulted in the following gentlemen being chosen:

President—W. G. Cowle.
Vice-Pres.—W. D. Graham.
Sec.-Treas.—Earl Fowler.
Committee—G. Switzer, Ed. Hogarth, Tom. Webb and Geo. White.

An informal debate was the main item on the program of the evening. The men who took part were W. D. Graham, E. D. Hogarth, J. E. Robinson, C. L. Graham, D. B. Wilson, M. Reid and W. G. Cowle.

The musical part of the program consisted of two choruses by a sextette of young men's voices, and solo by Mr. E. B. Weiss. Mr. W. R. Gray was accompanist.

The club expects to hold regular meetings on the third Friday of each month

New Legislation to Be Introduced In Ont. Legislature

A stinging attack upon Opposition Members of the Legislature was made by Hon. Wm. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, in the budget debate, for following the leadership of Provincial Liberal Leader Heyburn and a policy of—it returned to power—to fire wholesale civil servants and members of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission staff. Such ugly, malicious statements as are being made by Mr. Hepburn, the Minister warned, would ultimately lead to F. A. Gaby, chief Hydro engineer, who Mr. Hepburn declared would lead a parade of dismissed employees of the Government, leaving the Hydro and entering some commercial enterprise.

Mr. Finlayson defended Mr. Gaby as an outstanding member—of the Hydro staff, and probably the greatest engineer in Hydro matters on the continent. He did not imagine that the good thinking people of the province would approve of it, neither did he believe that members of the opposition would approve of it."

Milk Control Board

The Milk Control Bill passed through committee stage of the House during which Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, indicated a board of three would shortly be appointed. The chairman, Col. Kennedy indicated, would have a full time position. The other two members per diem allowances. The fee under the bill would be nominal, he said.

An appropriation of $3,000,000 under the Northern Development Act is made in the resolution of Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, who stated that since the Act came into force in 1912, there has been ...63,000,000 appropriated under this fund.

Arthur Ellis, Conservative member for South Ottawa, made a spirited attack on Provincial Liberal leader Hepburn during the debate on the budget, charging the latter with attempting to introduce "Tammany Hall" methods into Canadian politics in advocating dismissal of thousands of civil servants if the Liberal party is returned to power. Mr. Hepburn, he declared, stated he would introduce wholesale dismissals, greater than any Orange parade ever held in Toronto.

"Mr. Hepburn is inebriated with the success of his own verbosity," said Mr. Ellis, declaring that he had been astonished that any leader of a responsible party in Ontario should threaten such action.

New Legislation Introduced

Legislation giving municipalities power to license and control public libraries with a view to banning circulation of objectionable books, will be brought in by the Government, Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests intimated when a similar bill was given first reading in the House, introduced by Fred G. McBrien, Conservative, Essex North. Mr. Finlayson informed Mr. McBrien the Government planned legislation which will go further than the McBrien bill.

An amendment to the Pawnbrokers Act introduced by Attorney-General, W. H. Price, prevents pawning of naval or military medals, decoration or orders, and also provides a fine of not less than $2g for infraction of the Act.

H. J. Davis, Conservative, Elgin, introduced legislation which aims to make Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, a legal holiday, and which will compel every municipality to observe the holiday.

Public Accounts Committee held their initial meeting under the chairmanship of Hon. W. H. Price, Conservative member for Addington, when it was ruled that matters pertaining to other years than 1933 will not be discussed. Both Liberal Leader McGibbon and K. C. Bigel, Liberal, South Waterloo, sought to bring in matters pertaining to other years, the former in regard to purchase of the Liquor Control Board, and the latter in regard to road contracts.

Washington Party Held to Honour Miss M. Milling

The following account of a party in honor of Miss Martha Milling, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. S. H. Flournoy, in Danville, California, was taken from the Courier-Journal, Walnut Creek, California:

Ladies in gay Colonial costumes with white wings and frills and fichus, then were seen at a George Washington party given by Mrs. Lynam Stoddard at her home on Camille avenue last Saturday afternoon.

The party was given in honor of Miss Martha Milling, of Canada, who is visiting Mrs. S. H. Flournoy.

"Decorations and refreshments were appropriate to the occasion, the flowers in pastel shades, yellow, pink and blue.

"Those holding high scores were Mrs. George Offenhein as Martha Washington, Mrs. E. B. Bradley of Walnut Creek, Mrs. S. H. Flournoy and Miss Mira More of Danville, and Mrs. Arthur Keys and Mrs. Noah Flint, of Alamo."

On February 22nd, Miss Milling was also a guest at a party given by Mrs. A. G. Spiller, at her home, near Danville.

Newburgh Couple Hurt In Motor Crash On Sunday

On Sunday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Casada, of Newburgh, suffered painful injuries in a motor accident, on the Kingston Highway.

They were following closely behind a motor bus. The bus slowed up to pick up a passenger and Mr. Casada's car slid into the back of the bus, when he attempted to bring it to a stop on the slippery road surface. The two vehicles came forcibly together and both Mr and Mrs. Casada were quite severely hurt, and were removed to the Kingston General Hospital.

Mrs. Casada received cuts and bruises on the face and head and Mr. Casada's chest was hurt. The force of his body striking the steering wheel broke the wheel from the driving shaft.

Besides the injuries received by the occupants, considerable damage was done to the car.

Night Constable Cook Injured in Fall On Ice

On Saturday night, while making his rounds, Night Constable Cook had the misfortune to fall on some ice and injured himself. While no bones were broken, he received a severe shaking up. On Sunday night he attempted to make his duties again, but was forced to return to his home. It is likely he will be confined to his home for some days. In the meantime his work is being looked after by Doug. Chambers, who acts as relief constable.

Leghorn Hen Lays Large Eggs

Last week, Mr. Ed. Shank was exhibiting a dozen of eggs weighing 34½ ounces, all laid by one hen, between February 27 and March 14. The hen is a White Leghorn weighing four and three-quarter pounds. She is years old, and during her pullet year laid 196 eggs.

The average dozen eggs weighs about 34 ounces.

About 125 Delegates in Attendance

On Wednesday afternoon, March 14th, the Eighth Annual Meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society convened in Trinity United Church, Napanee. One hundred and nineteen delegates from the Belleville, Napanee, Tamsworth, Prince Edward and Madoc sections of the Presbyterial, registered. The President, Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, of Newburgh, opened the meeting.

Mrs. R. T. Richards and Mrs. H. Hannon conducted the devotional exercises. Mrs. Richards led in prayer and Mrs. Pawson gave a short talk on the prodigal son. She pointed out that since God is our Father, all men are our brothers and our aim should be to "brother all the souls on earth."

The President of the Dominion Board, Mrs. C. R. Crowe, and Miss Isabelle Griffiths, the Travelling Secretary of Girls' Work were present and were introduced by Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. George Switzer gave the report of the Nominating Committee, appointed last session, and the following were chosen to serve on the Resolutions and Memorials Committee: Mrs. Albert Lewis of Camden East, Mrs. Donaldson of Belleville, and Mrs. A. D. Way of Picton.

The Courtesy Committee was to consist of Mrs. H. Hillis of Wellington, Mrs. Frank Grills of Ameliasburg and Mrs. C. W. Kingston of Tweed.

This report was accepted.

Mrs. Knox of Tweed presented the following resolution, from Madoc :—

"Whereas in a Presbyterial with an area as large as Belleville Presbyterial, the responsibility entailed upon the Nominating Committee in securing representation in the Presbyterial Executive, of all the sections, and whereas each section depends for success of its work, upon the contact with other sections, through the executive, therefore, be it resolved that a slate of officers be circulated throughout the Presbytery at least a month before the annual meeting of the Presbyterial Society."

This was handed to the Resolutions and Memorials Committee.

Address of Welcome

On behalf of the Auxiliaries of Trinity, Grace and Bridge Street United Churches, Mrs. D. B. Wilson of Trinity, extended a welcome to the delegates. Mrs. Crowe and Miss Griffiths, Mrs. Shore Loynes brought greetings from St. Mary Magdalen Church, Toronto. She said that all the churches were united by a common cause—the extension of Christ's Kingdom. Evelyn Hall, of Bridge Street, in her message from the Salvation Army Corps, said that despite the difficulty in reaching funds, they had not had to recall any of their officers. Mrs. Hall, of Napanee, represented the Belleville Presbytery, and in his greetings, said that the two organizations stood together, fighting a common evil. He asked, "why the Christian Church with all her resources and experience was losing the loyalty of her youth." The Branch President, Mrs. Smythe, then read greetings from Pembroke, and hoped the convention would be an inspiration to all in attendance, that God's will and law and make it come true in every department of their life.

Mrs. Haggerty, of Cherry Valley, responded to the words of welcome on behalf of the delegates. She said the greetings from the sister organizations exemplified the true missionary spirit.

Mrs. Harold Dennison, of Napanee, played a piano solo, and the reports were heard from the officers.

Officers' Reports

The Treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Corkill, of Napanee, reported that she had received letters, asking for a lower allocation, but this was beyond her power to grant. She reported that the convention that no officer of the Belleville Presbytery received any travelling allowance. She had spent $13.70.00 to the Branch Treasurer, a decrease of $1,330.00 from the previous year.

The Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Acker, of Picton, said she had received many inadequate reports but that many had also been fully filled out and were very encouraging. The number of members and the finances had decreased, but the attendance and interest had increased.

The Secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. R. W. Street, of Napanee, reported that the results of her department were rather disappointing. She had been asked for lower allocations. $23,200.00 was alloted to the ninety auxiliaries in this Presbyterial. As an aid to each auxiliary, in raising its share, Mrs. Street suggested that they increase their membership and give systematically.

Mrs. Anderson spoke of the absence of Miss Hannah Paul, of Newburgh, due to illness, and Mrs. Jas. Wilson of Napanee, who is ill at a short prayer for her.

In the President's address, Mrs. Anderson pointed out the importance of giving Jesus the central place in our lives. "It is the centre which makes the circumference." She said the presence of Jesus meant outgoing love to all men and that could be obtained by prayer. A prayer closed her address.

M. P. Graham Attends Child Welfare Convention

Mr. M. P. Graham, of Napanee, was in Toronto on Friday attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. Mr. Graham was representing the Napanee Rotary Club, of which organization he is chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee.

At the annual meeting there were over seventy-five representative clubs and societies doing work among crippled children.

Mr. Graham was honored by being named one of four governors of the provincial organization.

Crippled Children Week Planned

At the meeting which was held at the Royal York Hotel, plans for "Ontario Crippled Children's Week," April 8 to 14, were announced.

Reports from many parts of Ontario indicated that during the past year, 3,516 physically handicapped children were cared for by 90 service organizations Of the total, 1,593 were crippled children.

In the annual report of R. W. Hopper, Secretary of the society, it was stated: "While splendid progress has been made by the society and its member organizations during the last eleven years, there are still some 2,000 children in this Province who need treatment. It is our intention to find those children and to provide for them. This can only be done with the active co-operation of the various 'service' organizations working with us."

Informative and encouraging statements were also made by F. H. Littlefield, President of the society, by Norman R. G. Cameron of the Extension Committee, and high tribute was paid by various speakers to the doctors, nurses and hospitals of Ontario for their generous assistance in making the service to crippled children possible.

A co-ordinated effort is to be made by means of the press, radio, movies and special meetings, "to let the parents of Ontario know that there are facilities to take care of indigent cases—where crippled children can be cared for, without expense to the parents who are unable to pay." It is requested that all such cases should be reported to headquarters, 5 Queen's Park, Toronto.

Business Men's Meeting Postponed

Local Member and Warden Support Bay Front Road

Accompany a Delegation Urging Scenic Highway

Prince Edward County's delegation to press for the designation as a Provincial Highway of the Trenton-Kingston scenic route via Wellington, Picton, Glenora, and Bath, was given a friendly hearing by Premier George S. Henry at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, on Wednesday morning.

Warden Allan McDonald, Reeve Asa Bowerman, Chairman of the County Council Roads Committee, H. D. Cleminson, Reeve Robt. Zufelt, Mayor E. P. Cox, and L. B. Calnan, Secretary of the Publicity Committee, were spokesmen for the County delegation, which was introduced by Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Highways, of Lennox and Addington, presented a memorandum outlining the case for the waterfront townships of his County. Chas. W. Hannah, M.P.P., for Lennox, spoke on the matter, and Col. T. Ashmore Kidd, M.P.P., Speaker of the Legislature, supported the argument from Kingston's standpoint.

Value of the Highway

The case for the highway was presented by the delegation from three the angles of a necessary access to the markets of the east and west through having use of a through highway; as a valuable means for the promotion of tourist traffic; and a reasonable demand backed by representative delegates from each part of the County through which the road would pass; as a means of relieving the isolation and unemployment problem in rather than direct relief); as a request for a reasonable share of Provincial Highways, and of construction now planned.

Premier Henry gave courteous hearing to the delegation, pointing out that Provincial Highways must be built to a certain standard. He said that Provincial Highway mileage was being taken over as fast as it could be built, in accordance with a unified plan; and that he supposed that, due economies, further advances would permit, the proposed route would be considered a part of the Provincial Highway system, whether a delegation from that section visited the Government to ask for it or not.

For the delegation, Mr. H. S. Oliver assured that impossible things were not being asked in the way of immediate construction, but that immediate designation of the route as a Provincial Highway was strongly pressed.—Quinte Loyalist.

Rebekah Lodge Hold St. Patrick's Party

On Friday evening, March 16, the Queen of Sheba Rebekah Lodge entertained at a St. Patrick's party, in the lodge room, Bank of Montreal building.

About 200 of the members and their friends were in attendance, and for the euchre, over thirty tables were arranged. Following the cards, music for dancing was supplied by the Bamblers Orchestra. Prizes were awarded as follows: C. A. Joynt, men's first; James Douglas, consolation; Mrs. Fred Moore, ladies' first; Mrs. Shultz, lone-hand; Jean Robertson, consolation. Dance prizes went to Mrs. Les. Richardson and Margaret Gerow.

The arrangements for the evening were under the direction of the noble grand, Miss Irene Wagar. Miss Edna Hall was head of the committee in charge of the cards and dancing and Mrs. Arch Shultz had charge of the refreshments committee.

Decorations in the rooms and refreshments were in keeping with St. Patrick's Day

FARM MUTUAL INSURANCE

Yesterday at the Annual Convention of "Mutual Fire Underwriters of Ontario," held in Toronto, R. Leighton Foster, K.C., Superintendent of Insurance for Ontario, gave an address in which he emphasized the value to farmers of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Companies. The farmers of Ontario, he said, carry $625,000,000 fire insurance, of which amount 85% or $530,000,000 is carried by the Farmers' Mutual Companies. These companies are organized by farmers and managed by farmers. There are no stockholders. Altogether, there are sixty-eight of these mutual companies doing business in Ontario.

This is a fine type of farmers' co-operation. We often hear it said that the farmers will not co-operate. Well, this is one instance in which they have banded together for their mutual protection, with continued success. The oldest of these companies is seventy-four years old. Last year, these companies collected $1,713,140.80 from the farmers of Ontario and paid out, for losses, $1,817,463.83, of which less than $312,000 represented cost of management. The difference was made up by taking $81,077.87 of interest from reserves, so that the farmer paid almost exactly what the fire protection cost. An interesting regulation of these companies is the provision that if a company has a surplus in excess of twenty-five cents for every $100 of the total amount of risk, they may, with the approval of the Superintendent of Insurance, charge lower than the minimum rate. It is a splendid commentary on the integrity and honesty of the men handling these companies that, never, in Ontario, has one of them failed or had to have its affairs wound up.

We, in this county, have such an organization in the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company. It is carefully and economically managed. It is made up of approximately thirteen hundred members. There are no dividends to declare, no money to be made out of the company by anyone. The amount of insurance carried, last year, by our local company was $4,617,860. The reserves are $21,647; thirty-three people received fire losses amounting, in all, to $4,794.28.

The farmers have a right to be proud of their organization. It merits the support of all the rural citizens. It has been in existence for fifty-seven years and is one of the oldest in the Province.

Co-operation of this sort, extended to other areas of the farmers' life, would do much to relieve them of the clutches of the professional trader and profit-seeker.

TRUE TO TYPE

Mussolini was true to type in his speech on Sunday. Italy, the first of the modern states to go Fascist, is finding the need for new stimulants in order to keep the enthusiasm of the masses at a high pitch, and thus maintain their loyalty to the Government. This, the demagogy of Mussolini provides.

Mussolini has, undoubtedly, achived a measure of success in Italy. This has been accomplished by the use of force and by the astute manipulation of popular hysteria. But Il Duce is finding, as other dictators have found, that it is impossible to maintain his leadership without some new ideal, some new hope to stimulate the ambitions of the masses and to fire their zeal in some new and mighty cause. Having achieved a semblance of internal success by crushing all opposition within the state by the use of his self-assumed power, he must now find new worlds to conquer. For, the people taught to believe they were just in sight of the promised land become disillusioned and restless as they see the mirage recede with the passing years. The picture hitherto painted by Mussolini, of an Italy overflowing with happy, contented people, a picture implemented by the bonus on early marriage, large families and a tax on bachelors, is proving only a shadow picture.

Now, the scene changes and the picture Il Duce paints is not only of a contented and happy Italy but of an Italy which shall regain the ancient glory of the Roman Empire —an Italy which shall dominate the world. With its centre in Rome, its circumference shall enclose and annihilate all other than Italians. Usually they have had disastrous results upon the masses of the people, who, in every case, have to bear the brunt of battle.

There is little hope for permanent peace in the world so long as there is Mussolini in Italy, who dreams of world power, or a Hitler in Germany who is able to maintain his position by stirring the passions of the people for greater and ever greater empires.

GETTING CLOSE TO HOME

For several years now the news items of the daily press have had frequent reference to financial disasters until they have almost ceased to be news. We read of the collapse of great organizations with the attendant sorrow and suffering of shareholders, with scarcely a shudder. Ordinarily, these news items elicit our passing sympathy. But it is sympathy at long distance. After a brief moment the mind is occupied with something else and the subject is dismissed.

It is altogether different, however, when the people affected are our citizens, the men and the women we meet every day, the people who are our own friends and neighbours. Widespread sympathy is being expressed for those who hold stock in the Dairy Corporation of Canada, Limited, and a resentment against those who sponsored the company.

In Napanee, there are held, approximately, $108,000 in preferred shares in the company and about $100,000 worth of debentures, along with a considerable amount of common stock. Included among the shareholders are many widows and retired men and women, people who ought never to have been sold that type of investment. Our attention has been drawn to one investor particularly, a hard-working man and woman who invested every cent they had saved through a life-time of toil. By means of the most arduous toil, along with self-sacrificing economy, they had saved for their old age. They invested it all in Dairy Corporation.

For two years the Corporation has paid no interest and after repeated assurance to the contrary, it now becomes evident the company is in a state of grave financial difficulty. A plan of reorganization has been arranged which may enable the company to continue in existence. But the price is that the present shareholders hand over the control of the Company to some unnamed monied interests, for $500,000.

If the shareholders are to save anything from the wreck, they may have to accept the proposed plan or, at least, suggest some other that is workable. The Napanee shareholders should at once get in touch with Mr. P. U. Laidley or Mr. E. Gibbard, who are acting on behalf of all the shareholders in Napanee. By co-operating with them, an alternative plan to that suggested by the Company may be worked out, which will be more advantageous to the shareholders.

It is this sort of thing which has brought our whole capitalist system into disrepute and has dragged our economic life to the verge of collapse. It emphasizes, in a vivid way, the need for more government scrutiny and oversight over the methods and schemes of corporation financing.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE SERVICE LEAGUE

The Annual Meeting of the War Veterans known now as the "British Empire Service League," was held, last week, at Ottawa. About fourteen hundred were present, and action was taken on many questions which are vital importance to the returned soldier. One resolution which was unanimously passed had to do with the observance of Remembrance Day. The Veterans — the men who were actually at the front, who suffered privations and difficulties untold, who saw their friends and comrades snatched from them in an instant, a twinkling of an eye — these men have, in convention assembled, gone on record as saying that the eleventh of November should be observed as Remembrance Day.

It seems almost a tragedy that these men have to plead thus for so slight a token of national esteem. Year after year, they meet and pass these resolutions every November only to witness the interjection into the discussion of mercenary interests. Surely it is not too much to hope that, some day, the municipalities will take hold of this matter and insist that the eleventh of November shall be observed as Remembrance Day.

Another resolution of importance had to do with the pensions. All has not been well in the Pension Department of late developments for the last few years. In any scheme of pensions the utmost care has to be taken, lest political and other influence should wreck the purpose and intent of the act, and yet there should be a time when red tape should not be allowed to stand in the way of human need, and meritimate deserts. It was brought out at the discussions at Ottawa, that the Pension Act in itself was of the best the Veterans could wish. The difficulty had been in the administrations of the Act. One of the chief grievances of the men was that, of the case where the Government cut the pension no notice was given until the cheque was sent out. This worked undue hardship. It was recommended that, in future, sixty days notice of such a cut should be given, so that the pensioner would have time to make the necessary adjustments.

One of the resolutions which should have far-reaching importance, was presented by Colonel Drew. It was agreed that the private manufacture of arms should be discontinued. Should this prevail throughout the world much of the incentive to war would be wiped out. If manufacturers knew that there was no hope of making profit out of the manufacture of arms, they would not be so keen about it. Then the spending of millions in fomenting trouble and keeping national animosities stirred up, would cease. This would do much to eliminate the cause of war.

As an evidence of the deep interest of governments in the British Empire Service League, it is significant that Premier Bennett, Mackenzie King and J. S. Woodsworth, leaders of the parliamentary parties, visited the convention and promised their loyal support to the interests and welfare of the returned man.

Editorial Comment

CANADA TAKES THE LEAD

Canadian banking showed its heels to American banking during the depression. Not a bank failed. Not a depositor lost a penny. Now Canada takes the lead again. It plans a new, Government-controlled central bank of issue. All political parties are for it and the proposal to have the nation manage the nation's credit structure —a problem we have not even begun to face in this country. The Canadian central bank, to be called the Bank of Canada, will do precisely what a central bank should do for the United States. If we fail to follow the lead of Canada our loose Federal Reserve System, a bicycle built for twelve, will go careering from one side of the road to the other, until the next inevitable ride into the ditch.—New York Evening Post.

THE STEVENS INQUIRY

No one believes that there are prevalent in the Dominion abuses on a par with or comparable with those which have recently been disclosed in America. But the economic and financial situations in the two countries are exceedingly close, and it is suspected that big business in Canada has become in some extent infected. Hence the determination manifested by both Government and Opposition to see how far the infection has gone and to clean it out of the Dominion system. It is natural enough that this reforming zeal should have been quickened by Mr. Roosevelt's campaign against dishonest business and financial practices in the United States. The progress of his campaign has been followed nowhere more closely than in Canada, where the general sympathy felt for his aims was reflected in the recent speech of Mr. Meighen, the ex-Prime Minister, who now leads the Conservative Party in the Senate. He could not, he said, approve of all President Roosevelt's policies; but he felt that industry could not survive under the old policy of "beggar my neighbour," that a system of codes was now needed such as had been adopted in the United States. He was confident of the success of the Roosevelt experiments, from which he believed Canada had much to learn.—LondonT imes (Ld.)

CAN WE KEEP OUT OF IT?

With war clouds looming darkly over the horizon in Europe, the one question in which most of us are interested is simply, "If a new war comes in Europe, can and how can we keep out of it?" Canada in 1914 and the United States in 1917 learned that nations are called on to send their young men overseas to die in quarrels that were purely European—a quarrel in the making of which the New World had had no hand, and in the settlement of which it could expect no direct benefits. It would seem that we could keep out of it if we would only make up our mind that we would not be drawn in, no matter what might happen.—Jacksonville Journal.

AS THEY DO IT IN INDIA

In opening a colony for the benefit of unemployed, the Government of the United Provinces are embarking upon a bold experiment which will be watched with interest throughout India. The problem of unemployment among University graduates and other educated classes has become acute in recent years, owing chiefly to the trade depression. Opportunities of profitable employment having thus contracted, those who have passed middle and college are frequently compelled to lead a life of sloth, with harmful consequences to themselves and to the community. Bengal provides a striking example of the evils of enforced idleness. In the main part of their education has not equipped youths with knowledge or ability that can be put to practical use. In these circumstances the organization of a centre at Painbad for practical training in agriculture, with a view to absorbing the educated unemployed of the United Provinces, is hopefully to be commended. —Times of India.

LEARNING BY EXPERIENCE

Certainly it must be to many laymen who are not economists, that sooner or later there will have to be some measure of co-operation between the United States and the British Empire. In fact, the postwar years America was willing to export her products and manufactures to the rest of the world. But of late years America has sold to America he found the door banged, bolted and barred by high tariff walls. The financial troubles of the last few years will not have been in vain if they teach all nations that there must be some plan for international trade, that the benefits must be mutual. No one country must seek to have all the gilt on the gingerbread.—E. W. in "Overseas."

Have You Heard These?

A Scotchman, not feeling so well as usual, called on his family doctor. After examining him closely he gave some pills to be taken at bedtime. Whisky was also prescribed for his stomach's sake, as it must also be taken after each meal.

Four days later the family again called on the doctor, stating he was feeling no better.

"Have you taken the medicine exactly as I instructed?" the doctor inquired.

"Well doctor," replied the patient, "I may be a wee bit behind wi' the pills, but I'm six weeks ahead wi' the whusky."

"Aye, lad," said one Yorkshireman to another, "we're gettin' on at ahr place. I can tell tha'! We've a mayor, and we've got him a collar and a chain to fit him up like."

"Hev yo really?" exclaimed the other. "Why, we let our mayor run loose."—Tit-Bits, London.

Humor In High Places

Judges sometimes indulge in humorous remarks from the bench. This is course, they always bring a laugh from the lawyers present. Judge Darling, in England, became famous —or notorious — for alleged witticisms of that sort. This kind of thing may be called official and published humor. There is a great deal of it in private by people in high positions who would be the last to lower the dignity to be humorous before a critical audience.

Who could have expected that the Archbishop of Canterbury, for example, is capable of making a joke? Yet there is a story now going the rounds in England which shows that Dr. Lang had not been "pawky" Scotch humor when he became Archbishop.

He was discussing with a visitor some of the misgivings in the press of Dean Inge, which the Archbishop apparently considered "droll." "But," said the other, "is he not one of the pillars of the Church?" "No," vetoed who would be before the public is only one of the columns in The Evening Standard." — N. Y. Times.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 25TH, 1934

REVIEW

"THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM"

During the past three months we have been studying the Gospel of the Kingdom. Nowhere does Jesus define the term Kingdom. But he describes what it is like in numerous parables and stories. By a study of them we get to know the thought which Jesus had in mind when he spoke so frequently of the Kingdom.

Born in a humble home in a small town in Judea, he received signs of unusual ability. At twelve years of age He was found by His parents discussing the problems of the Jewish faith with the learned theologians. At twenty He joined the movement of John the Baptist and his baptism in the river Jordan. After His baptism Jesus went into the wilderness to fast and pray. It was here He makes His decision as to the Kingdom He sought to establish. The time came when He was tempted to use His Divine power to accomplish this purpose. Had He done so He would have caused an immediate sensation and undoubtedly gained many followers but would have found Himself open to the charge of using His unique power for selfish ends. In facing these temptations at the beginning of His career and overcoming them, Christ made the choice which determined for all time that if the Kingdom of God is to be established, it must come not by forceful methods but by the effective power of peace and love. The way He met and conquered His temptations has been an inspiration to thousands when faced with similarly testing times of experience.

When John the Baptist was imprisoned Christ chose a few intimate followers and began his ministry of a three-fold one of healing, teaching and preaching. These three phases of His ministry have actuated the minds of His followers ever since. Wherever the Church is vigorous and effective it carries on a mission which seeks to lead into better health, body, mind and spirit.

In the Sermon on the Mount Christ sets forth the qualifications necessary to enter the Kingdom. These qualifications are based on character alone. By that, He judges what we really are, not according to our earthly possessions, our race, or our worldly position. He expects us to love all—friend and enemy, alike. If God's Kingdom is given first place in our lives as He demands, this will not be impossible.

Jesus gave advice on practical ways of applying the principles of God's Kingdom. It can be summed up in a few words, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

Christ was full of profound sympathy for suffering, sinning humanity. Jesus healed men and forgave them their sins and for this He was strongly condemned by the Pharisees. They, likewise, criticized Him for His association with publicans and sinners and particularly for eating with them. Jesus replied that it was to the sick and sinful who needed His help, that God had sent Him.

Jesus' great work in the wonderful multitudes He was moved to pity for them and sent forth His disciples to broadcast the story of God's Kingdom and direct them in the path that would bring them the greatest happiness. The disciples for the first time had their religion put to the test. It had been a new message for them to be loyal to Christ when they were with Him, but out in the world alone, it was different. They were sent to the Jews that they might have the opportunity to accept Christ and become the channel through which the gospel would reach the rest of the world.

In the meantime John who is in prison grows impatient at Christ's methods of bring in the Kingdom. They are too slow. He cannot see enough results. Jesus replies to the messengers that the blind see, the deaf hear, the blind see, the lame walk and the poor have the gospel preached to them. These were the half marks of the new day—the signs not even John could dismiss.

Christ's theme, the Kingdom of God, was not new but with Him it received a new meaning and significance. Starting from small beginnings it depends, for its growth, on its inherent vitality and environment. It works silently but, oh, how effectively! It is a dynamic and element that may be found in some cases, unexpectedly or in others after a long period of waiting in the wonderful finder will give up everything else to possess it.

The "great year of Jesus' ministry was spent among the Jews. But because they refused to accept Him, he turns to the gentiles. A Syro-Phoenician mother appeals to Him on behalf of her sick daughter. Love overcame racial prejudice just as it can today, if given the opportunity. His delay in granting her request not only tested her faith but taught the disciples patience, not to be easily discouraged and above all that God's love knows no bounds.

Mrs. H. Stafford and Mable spent the dinner hour at Mrs. W. Hudson's, on Thursday.

The ladies gave a party in their hall on Saturday evening and was much enjoyed by those present.

Miss Enie Henderson spent Sunday afternoon at Miss Mable Stafford's.

Mr. Sherry spent an evening, recently at Mr. Frank Hudson's.

The St. Patrick's social on Friday evening, was enjoyed by all who attended.

The sun and warmer weather is wearing the ice away zone, but logs are still being hauled to Deseronto to be sawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Spencer, Nanance, spent Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spencer's.

Mrs. G. Burtch spent the week end with friends in Gananoque.

The cold weather is keeping the trappers busy to find open water or suitable places to set traps.

Feed will be a problem for many, should the winter weather continue.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Martin spent Saturday evening at the home of R. Joyce.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dean spent Sunday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Mills and son, visited at Earl Howell's on Sunday.

Good breeding shows itself most where to an ordinary eye it appears the least.—Addison.

One has never so much need of his wit as when one has to do with a fool.—Chinese Proverb.

DESERONTO

Deseronto, March 19.—Mrs. Smith and little daughter, of Barrie, are with Mrs. W. D. Perry, who is convelescing after a serious operation.

Mrs. Barnhardt is recovering nicely.

Mrs. (Dr.) Stratton was a recent guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Sager.

Rev. A. D. Waite gave an interesting address at the Home and School Club on Friday. Afternoon tea was served.

Much interest is shown in the very lucid lectures on First Aid, which Dr. Williams gives on Monday and Thursday at the home of Mrs. C. Dimmell.

A delightful St. Patrick's tea was held at the home of Mrs. Sager on Friday afternoon, under the auspices of the United Church ladies. The following afternoon the ladies of the Church of the Redeemer (Presbyterian) entertained in Mrs. James Whitton's home. On Saturday, too, the Women's Guild of St. Mark's (Anglican) Church held a tea and sale of home cooking in Miss Rixen's office. Both tea was well patronized.

Mrs. Milten Hunt is quite seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clement have returned, after several weeks' visit at their daughter's home in Arthur.

MILLHAVEN

Millhaven, March 17.—Recent rainfalls certainly made the snow disappear.

Robins and crows have been frequently seen in this district, therefore spring must be near at hand.

The ice in the Bay is rather on the unsafe side.

Mr. Edward Baker has returned home after being engaged as relieving foreman at Yarker, on the C.N.R.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hall of Petworth is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Babcock, Eatr were recent guests at R. H. Rikley's.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickson, Miss Huffman, also the Misses Evelyn and Winnie Rikley, spent Thursday evening at Mr. and Mrs. A. Young's.

Mrs. Charles Collins was a caller in this neighborhood, last week.

BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, March 19. — Now spring may be just around the corner, but the corner seem quite a distance away. Thunderstorms like those of Saturday night point to a cold, backward spring.

Some cattle have died on this circuit, through receiving too little feed. The feed problem is a very serious one for many of the farmers.

Muskrat' trappers are on the job, but there is not much ice to make much progress.

The ice has frozen to such great depths that it is a question as to how Mr. Muskrat has stood the excessive freezing.

Mrs. Laura Parks is spending a few days, this week, with friends in Deseronto.

Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Toner and family, Newburgh Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dean spent Sunday with friends in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mellow were in Kingston on Sunday, visiting Mrs. W. Mellow of Deseronto, who is a patient in the hospital in that city.

Among those in attendance at the Women's Missionary Society Presbyterial, from Gretna, last week, were Mrs. William Joyce, Mrs. E. Alkenbrack, Mrs. Arthur Dean, Mrs. Laura Parks and Mrs. George Burtch. The sessions were unusually helpful in every sense of the word.

The St. Patrick's Concert which was held in Bethany Church on Friday evening last, was a real success. The programme was of special Irish character. Two native Irishmen, in the persons of Mr. Mike Walker and Mr. Bill Oliver, presented several Irish numbers and told Irish jokes. Mrs. W. Dillenbeck sang two hopeful solos and Mr. Earl Howell and Mrs. James Clark presented readings. Everyone present enjoyed the programme. Lunch was served and a very pleasant social hour spent together. A great deal of credit is due the president, Mrs. G. Burtch, for the success of the series of social evenings.

Miss Laird, Bethany's school teacher spent the week end with friends at Wilton.

Mrs. Cowle, of Schenectady, N.Y., spent a few days last week, at the home of her brother, Mr. E. Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B Bell and family spent Sunday at Bath. Mrs. Repmon, who has been spending some weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Bell, also left on Sunday to visit her daughter at Bath.

The Hay Bay Ladies' Aid held their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Parks on Thursday afternoon last. In spite of the rain and bad roads, there was a splendid attendance. Many matters of business were transacted and a special effort is being made to complete the autograph quilt. A program of very interesting readings was given with piano solos by Mrs. W. B. Nolan. Lunch was served at the close and the visit together over the lunch hour was a very profitable experience.

Hay Bay and Sand Hill committees were well represented at the W. M. S. Presbyterial in Napanee. Here were present Mrs. Mrs. Frank Parks, Mrs. Walter Huffman, Mrs. A. C. Parks, Mrs. Peter Huyck, Mrs. James Robertson, Mrs. P. Randall and Mrs. W. Dillenbeck. They report very helpful meetings.

The Hay Bay Sunday School executive is meeting, this Friday evening, March 23rd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dillenbeck, at 8 o'clock. Every interested person is urged to attend.

The Bay West W. M. S held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. C. Parks on Friday afternoon with a very encouraging attendance. The President, Mrs. W. Dillenbeck, had charge of the business section of the meeting. A group consisted of Mrs. H. Sherman, Mrs. E. Hamaby, Mrs. W. B. Nolan, and Mrs. G. Hawley had charge of the programme and lunch. Mrs. H. Sherman had charge of the programme which consisted of three solos by Mrs. W. B. Nolan; readings by different members and the singing. And a report of the convention by Mrs. Frank Parks. In a very interesting and racy way, Mrs. Parks gave the high lights of the convention. Arrangements were made to have the April meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Dillenbeck. At the close lunch was served and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Parks for her hospitality.

Mr. E. O. McCabe continues to grow weaker, week by week, and very little hope is held out for his recovery.

The Sand Hill Ladies' Aid are holding their monthly meeting in their church on Wednesday, March 28th, at 8.00 p.m. Special program. Refreshments. Everybody invited.

The Anderson Sunday School held a very successful executive meeting at the home of the superintendent, Mr. Allan Baldwin, on Thursday evening last. Arrangements were made to have another contest this summer with Miss Jean Baird and Miss Wilma Purns as captains. It was also suggested that the Anderson Sunday School enter into a contest with the other Sunday schools of the circuit. With improved weather and roads Anderson Sunday school expects to get away with a good start for the summer months.

Remember the Bay East W. M. S. social evening at the home of Mrs. Allan Baldwin, on Thursday evening, March 22d, at 8:00 p.m.

Mrs. Edward Baird has been on the sick list for a week, but at time of writing is slowly improving.

Mrs. Samuel Walmsley of South Napanee, is slowly recovering from her recent illness.

Mr. Nelson Simmons of Rochester was a recent visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harnden, South Napanee.

Rev. J. E. Beckel is in Pembroke this week, attending the sessions of the Loyal Orange Grand Lodge.

Services will be held on the Bay Circuit, Sunday March 25th, at Sand Hill at 10:30 a.m., Hay Bay at 2:30 p.m., and Gretna at 7:30 p.m. Special Lenten services conducted by the minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Everton Peters took tea on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Williams, Camden East.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, March 19 — At time of writing, the roads are in a bad condition, but when you hear the chirp of the robin, it reminds us spring is coming.

Several have tapped their trees and report a good run of sap.

Mr. Haggerty, Post Office Inspector of Ottawa, was in the village Wednesday, and made the transfer of the post office to our new postmaster Mr. Percy Husted, on Thursday evening.

Mr. Husted moved the office to a room adjacent to Mr. R. Butterill's store.

All of the sick people of the village are improving, except George Husted, who is not at all well at time of writing.

Mr. Herbert Husted, of Deseronto, spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Husted.

The wood sawing machine is busy around the village. It keeps Mr. A Barr busy supplying the people with wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeffrey were in the village on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Virtue Edgar and baby, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence recently.

Mrs. Annie Hinch returned to her home here last week, after spending the winter months with her daughter and family.

Word has been received that T. Atkins has passed away. Mr Atkins is a former resident of this place, and his many friends were surprised to hear of his sudden death.

The W M S of the United Church will hold their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Snider, on Wednesday, March 21 at 2.30.

PLYMOUTH IS A SAFE CAR and gives a SMOOTH RIDE

PLYMOUTH IS ENGINEERED AND BUILT BY CHRYSLER

DOUBLE-SAFETY with both Hydraulic Brakes and All-Steel Body

DOUBLE COMFORT with both Independent Wheel Springing and Floating Power

THERE'S one quick and easy way to decide which among the new lowest-priced cars offers you the best buy. Just check up and you'll see that Plymouth offers four vital up-to-the-minute features not found in other cars in the very lowest priced field.

Two of them are comfort features; they mean a more enjoyable ride. Individual front wheel springing gives you a freedom from jolts and jounces, which is not possible in any conventional car with the old-fashioned, rigid front axle.

Floating Power removes the last trace of engine vibration. These engine mountings are unlike any other type. They suspend the motor in balance—free to absorb its own vibration before it reaches the frame.

These Vital Safety Features

Hydraulic brakes stop more quickly—because they always "take hold" equally on all four wheels. There is no chance of three-wheel braking, because they can't become unequalized!

As for safety-steel bodies—isn't it obvious that you're better protected by a body built of steel reinforced with steel? The builders of modern trains and steamships seem to think so!

More for Your Money

You're safer as well as more comfortable when you ride in a Plymouth. Your Plymouth dealer wants you to drive one yourself.

Visit the nearest Chrysler-Plymouth showroom—ask for a Plymouth ride and learn what your money ought to buy in a low-priced car this year.

MADE IN THESE BODY MODELS: 2-door sedan, 4-door sedan, rumble seat coupe, business coupe. De Luxe Models; 2-door sedan, 4-door sedan, convertible coupe, rumble seat coupe, business coupe.

Police Court News

During the absence from town, last week, of the magistrate, M. P. Graham, the mayor, George J. Tustin, held court on Thursday, William E. Ferguson, of Prince Edward County, appeared before the mayor, on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place. He was fined $10 and costs or 7 days in gaol, and chose the gaol sentence.

Ernest Johnston, also of Prince Edward County, charged with driving a car while intoxicated was remanded for hearing until Thursday, March 22nd.

Two young Napanee men are to appear in police court on Thursday, charged with making a disturbance in a public place.

About Girls

We find the following in an old exchange, setting forth for what the girls of the principal cities and towns in Canada are noted :—

Port Hope—Intellectual and vivacious.

Kingston—Robust and blooming.

Cobourg—Fond of music, the wharf promenade and flirting.

Picton—The most anxious to be loved.

Bowmanville—The most anxious to be married.

Brockville—Ladylike and graceful.

Toronto—The tallest and most stylish.

Montreal—The best dressed.

Peterboro—The most unsophisticated, with a weakness for skating.

Belleville—The most freckled.

Napanee—Handsome, and the most liberal entertainers.

Lindsay—Pretty, sweet tempered, and unassuming.

Whitby—Pretty and modest.

New Rector Appointed Tamworth Church

The Rt. Reverend John Lyons, Bishop of Ontario, made the appointment, last week, of the appointment of a new rector for Tamworth Anglican Church.

The new incumbent is Rev. Albert Redding of Wistport, who succeeds Rev. R. A. Penney, who recently was transferred to the mission of South Augusta.

Accidents Occur To Napanee People

Eva Murphy, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, fell on Wednesday afternoon and broke her arm. The accident occurred at her home, while the little girl was playing. She evidently slipped on the floor and fell on her arm in such a manner as to cause the fracture. The bone was set by Dr. Willoughby.

Eye Severely Hurt by Steel Chip

A rather serious accident occurred to George Wheeler on Wednesday afternoon, while working for the corporation of Napanee, on Dundas and Robert Streets, when a piece of steel from a drill struck him in the eye. He was attempting to open a drain at the corner and was pounding the drill with a hammer, when a chip from either drill or hammer was broken off and flew up striking him in the eyeball.

He was immediately taken to the Kingston General Hospital for examination and treatment.

Bert Lloyd Injured by Fall

One day last week, Bert Lloyd, who has charge of W. H. Hunter's farm, met with a painful mishap. He had gone into the haymow to throw down hay and it is thought was taken with fainting spell. He fell from the mow to the barn floor and was rendered unconscious. He sustained a slight fracture of the skull, a crushed bone in the arm, bruises and a severe shaking up.

St. Andrew's Church Men's Club Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the men of St. Andrew's United Church was held in the school rooms of the church on Tuesday. Supper was served at seven o'clock. After supper the president, Dr. Mosher, welcomed the visitors and introduced the speaker, Dr. Semple, of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

The speaker of the evening was given a hearty welcome as he rose to speak. He is an Irishman by birth and was at his best as he treated an Irish subject. The proximity of St. Patrick's Day, he said, had suggested the theme of his address.

For the next half hour or more he held the interest and enthusiasm of the men as he talked of St. Patrick and St. Patrick was not a mythical figure but Dr. Semple treated him as a historic personality, whose Christianizing influence and efforts had a far-reaching effect. He quoted many references to show how St. Patrick had been born in France, migrated to Ireland and there, at once set to work to improve the religious and social habits of the people.

The description of his work for education, for religion, and for the social conditions, were woven by the speaker, into a thrilling story of high romance. Here and there the address was enlivened by evidence of native Irish wit, which made the evening one of instruction and entertainment.

After the thanks of the group had been tendered Dr. Semple, the meeting adjourned.

Dairy Corporation Meeting Attended By Napanee Men

The Dairy Corporation of Canada held a meeting on March 6th, in Toronto. This was a meeting of shareholders called for the annual meeting to be held on March 27. Mr. A. Calder, the president, occupied the chair and about 150 shareholders were present. Mr. E. Gibbard and Mr. F. U. Laidley were there, representing a large block of shares held by people in and around Napanee.

The meeting had presented to it, a plan of reorganization. As no vote was taken the plan goes to the meeting at the annual meeting on the 27th inst. The corporation, which is in financial difficulties, is seeking a way out. The plan suggested by the management, in brief, is : (1) The bondholders will receive 80% of their present bond value, without interest for two years, and four voting common shares ; (2) The preferred shareholders will get three common shares —non-voting—for each hundred now held ; (3) The holders of Common A will get one for each 25 now held, and the Class B Common one for each five now held. The bond issue will be increased from $1,000,000 to $1,200,000, made up in part of $636,700 to the present bondholders and $500,000 to unnamed, money lenders, along with enough common shares to control the company.

Local Meeting

On Thursday, March 15th, a meeting of local shareholders was held in the Gibbard Company offices, about 35 were present. Mr. Laidley and Mr. Gibbard reported from the Toronto meeting. The group made plans to have proxies of all shareholders sent to the Napanee representatives, Mr. Laidley and Mr. Gibbard, so that they may be able to protect the interests of the Napanee people at the annual meeting on March 27th.

More New Books At the Napanee Public Library

THE PACE OF PARIS, by Harold Clunn. If one cannot afford to visit the City of Paris and personally inspect its interesting features under the direction of an experienced guide, the nearest approach to such an experience is a careful perusal of this large and profusely illustrated volume.

THE SECOND TIGRESS, by Ganpat. The scene of this novel is laid among most unusual surroundings, the great forests and little known rivers of Burma, with wild beasts and savage men forming a startling background.

RABBLE IN ARMS, by Kenneth Roberts. A realistic pen picture of the American Revolution from an American standpoint, but revealing in a striking manner the horrors of a war in which a once united people are divided in two opposing factions.

SENATOR MARLOWE'S DAUGHTER, by Frances Parkinson Keyes. The rich romance of an American girl in the swirl of royal and diplomatic life in the capitals of Europe. The book teems with breath-taking thrills of love, duty, and loyalty of the heroine to husband, child of and her native land.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN LAST, by Beverley Nichols. This author has the courage to say what he thinks and says it with such searing grace and charm that he is privileged to keep right on saying what he thinks. His amusing, sometimes amazing, and provocative reflections upon current fashion and foibles have gained for him a well-merited place among the popular writers of today.

THE MOON THROUGH GLASS, by Coningsby Dawson. This is a full and dramatic novel, electric with suspense. The author gets his hero line in a very bad mix-up with two living husbands, but skillfully extricates her in the end.

THE STATE VS. ELINOR NORTON, by Mary Roberts Rinehart. This novel is the story of the love-break and thaw of the events which lay in the way of a young woman who had been emotionally frozen by a mother who sacrificed love and happiness for her mad devotion to aristocracy.

BAD FLIGHT, by Francis and Katherine Drake. Here is a novel, hard-boiled in spots, racy in dialogue, and speedy all the way through. It's a story that races along with the zip of a nose-dive, the thrill of a tail spin, and a romance that keeps pace. Both authors are birdland enthusiasts.

THE YELLOW BRIAR, by Patrick Slater. One reviewer says of this novel : "It is the liveliest, funniest, happiest, and most delightfully interesting story of early Ontario that has yet been written". It is timely, too, in this 150th anniversary of the arrival of the Loyalists.

STEAMBOAT ROUND THE WORLD, by Ben Lucien Burman. It's an excellent yarn of boating on the lower Mississippi, in which the author appears to hold the soul of Ol' Man River in his pen.

Local Poultryman Wins Contest Prize

A well-known local poultryman, Mr. Ray P. Perry of Napanee, R. R. No. 1, won third prize in the Monarch Laying Mash Contest, which ended on December 31, 1933. His prize was ten bags of laying mash and his flock average was 184 eggs per bird during 1933.

The first prize went to William P. Walsh, Peterborough, with an average of 198 eggs, and second prize to Gordon Crocker, Mill Grove, with 187 egg average.

DORLAND

Dorland, March 17. — There had been a good deal of travel on the ice during the past week. Although air holes are quite conspicuous and a number have experienced difficulty getting on and off, as the ice is breaking in places along the shore.

Mr. Arthur White has been busy all week, moving back to Dorland, after a term of residence in the Selby burn neighborhood.

The Council held a sitting on Monday. The reeve, Mrs. J. S. ohnston was able to be present for the first since he was taken ill on Chrisamd Day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Eird and little son, Kenneth, are business trip to Kingston, on Saturday.

A few tapped their sugar bushes during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sales moved into Mr. G. Chalmers' house, from Prince Edward, recently.

Sore Back Made It Agony to Turn

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Soon Made Her Well

Mrs. A. Ivens Has Used Dodd's Kidney Pills For Twenty Years.

Williamstown, Ont., Mar. 20 (Special) "I have been using Dodd's Kidney Pills for twenty years," writes Mrs. A. Ivens, a well known and respected resident of this place. "At that time I was sick in bed with a sore back and one of Dodd's Almanacs came through the mail and I read it to see if any one else had my complaint. I got my husband to get me a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and said I would try them. I was glad I did, for before I got through the first box I was able to sit up. Before it was agony to turn around in bed. I kept right on taking Dodd's Kidney Pills until I was completely well. We all use them and always have a box in the house. I cannot write enough praise about Dodd's Kidney Pills, for when I am tired or run down I take my Dodd's Kidney Pills and am soon myself again."

Profit by the experience of others, take Dodd's Kidney Pills today.

Here are a few extracts from the sporting columns of the Peterboro and Belleville papers. You can take them for what they are worth :

From the Peterboro Examiner :—According to Bunny Morganson, who writes a lot of baseball chatter in the Tely, Yudy Elazetich, of Toronto, will pitch for the Gibbard Athletics this summer in the Senior Eastern Ontario League. And Hughie Brennan, of Riverdale Grads, will likely catch for the same team. Both have applied to the O.A.A. for transfers. Now, by "Eastern Ontario Senior League", Bunny probably means the C.O.B.L. and this is what we have been expecting for some time. In fact rumors to this effect have been pretty general all winter, and when the Napanee outfit adds three or four senior stars to the mighty good intermediate team they had last year, well, just watch their smoke in senior company. With a swell ball club to look forward to, not forgetting the great southpaw, Tommy Pointer, Manager Walter Gerow and Jobbin Gibbard be a welcome addition, we imagine, to the Central Ontario League.

And then, later, from the same paper :—Well, it looks as Napanee had bring his Napanee team into the C.O.B.L. this year, regardless of whether or not we have an intermediate league to keep the C. O. B. L. from collapsing.

So our idea is that the A's should jump to senior when, and if they have made a showing in their own class.

another infielder named Bishop, and still another new-comer, we understand. With these additions the Gibbards should be able to field a team that would do the "Furniture Town" credit in any senior loop. Then again there is a rumour about to the affect that Vinny McQuade, leading hitter of the C.O.B.L. in 1933, is slated for the Gibbards. The Napanee aggregation need little worry regarding not finishing well up in the C.O.B.L. race of 1934 with such a string of diamond celebrities to add to their present intermediate team. Incidentally the local Nationals' executive met last night and named W. J. "Peeney" Mills Secretary Harry Drew and W. E. Rowsome as official delegates to represent the locals on Saturday. By the way, have you seen the new "Ace" Bailey model Stewart-Warner radio?

There is a lot of talk around the country about the Gibbard Athletics jumping to senior company this year and pressure is being brought to bear from every quarter to have them step up. . . .

Personally we think that the idea is all wet. . . .

Why ? Here are plenty of reasons ! 1. The locals have only two or three men of senior calibre, in spite of reports.

2. The Bay of Quinte League has already been boosted to intermediate A and that is quite a jump in itself. 3. Napanee is not ready yet for senior ball and would rather see the locals on plenty in their own class than get swamped in company that is too fast for them.

4. The A's have not enough hitting strength as yet to carry them in a higher class, having only had one good year out of four, offensively.

5. Once a club jumps to senior they cannot drop back to intermediate, successfully, and a lot of ground work must be done to make Napanee a senior town.

6. If Napanee left the Bay of Quinte loop, it would likely be the end of that league, so why sacrifice both the intermediate league to keep the C. O. B. L. from collapsing.

OFF COLOUR? HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

Your liver's a very small organ, but it certainly can put your digestive and eliminative organs out of kilter by refusing to pour out its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. You may think of yourself as a "bundle of nerves," or "bilious," or "constipated," or "sluggish," or "dizzy," or "headachy," or "nauseated," or "sour stomached," or "gassy," or "underweight." When the trouble is your bowels don't try to "dope" them—and you need a liver stimulant.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon bring back the sunshine into your life. They're purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Ask for them by name. Insist on substitutes. 25c at all druggists. 48

CHICKEN HATCHERIES

Ottawa. — There are now 178 chicken hatcheries in operation under the Government's hatchery approval policy, an increase of 66 per cent., as compared with 107 hatcheries at the corresponding date last year, according to a report issued today by the Department of Agriculture. The capacity of the hatcheries is 2,050,000 eggs and the output in "approved chicks" will be about 5,000,000 the report states.

Oxford Group Officer, London, Discusses War and Peace

"Nationalism is only the fear of the individual writ large."

This statement was made to the Star by Hallen Vining, of Cambridge University and London, advance missionary of the Oxford Group Christian fellowship whose "team" is due to arrive in Montreal on March 24.

Mr. Vining, who passed through Montreal from Halifax on his way to a Group meeting in New York, expressed himself as deeply impressed by the preoccupation of Canadians with the issues of war and peace, at the moment. "The first thing that struck me on landing," he said, "was discussion of peace and war articles in the press, war photographs and such." As he was saying this, Mr. Vining's attention was drawn to a despatch indicating that Lloyds is refusing to take insurance risks against the possibility of European war within five years.

On Inward Front

"The battle for peace is on the inward front," the speaker went on, "and not on the outward front. The solution will be found not by formula but by faith. The real enemy is selfishness and greed, and the real issue is between righteousness and sin. The solution of peace lies in the conquest of those forces which lie within the life of the individual — prejudice, fear and selfishness.

"The situation of peace and war has got beyond purely intellectual discussion. But if people will enlist in the service of God there will be no need for war."

THE DANDELION

I respect the dandelion most because it is the universal flower, and its cheerful face greets worn and weary men in places where none other attempts to grow. It follows the snow line on the Andes; I have found no other flower in Tierra del Fuego; it abounds in the South Pacific Islands and brightens the gloomy desert of Gobi on the "Roof of the World." You can find it in every gorge of the Himalayas; it grows upon the Mount of Olives, and the Peak of Ararat, and reaches its largest size under the Midnight Sun in Spitzbergen and at the summit of the North Cape. It smiles upon the just and upon the unjust, sets us all a good example by doing its duty cheerfully and faithfully, regardless of climate and conditions. — William E. Curtis.

A propensity to hope and joy is real riches; one is fear and sorrow real poverty.—Hume.

SHORT COURSE FOR JANITORS

The Colorado State Teachers' College will inaugurate a course in janitor engineering. This is a fine thing, the crying need of American education, and we beg leave to submit a tentative curriculum for the first semester's work, as follows:—

Janitor Engineering

Janitation No. 1 — A broad survey course, designed to acquaint the student with basic principles. The technique of firing a furnace without producing steam, how to keep out of sight when needed, etc. Three hours a week. Open to all.

Janitation No. 2. — The Art of Promising. The aim is to give the student a thorough mastery of promises and how not to keep them. How to promise to fix spigots, radiators, windows, etc., without actually getting anything done. Collateral reading: Republican and Democratic national platforms since the year 1900. Two hours a week. Prerequisite: Janitation No. 1.

Janitation No. 3. — The Angry Tenant. An analytical study of the habits and psychoses of the tenant who threatens to call in the police, together with the more effective ways of dealing with him. Critiques will be required on "The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang," by Fontaine Fox. Prerequisite: Janitation 1 (It is suggested that the student arrange to take this course concurrently with Janitation 2. ("The Art of Promising.")

Janitation No. 4. — Advanced Course. How to design and set up the "Merry Christmas" box, the art of getting fat tips, how to make the steam-pipes go bang-bang, bootlegging, stalling the elevator between floors, how to keep the uniform from becoming clean. Original research will be required into the lives of Dick Turpin, Captain Kidd and Jesse James. Required of all candidates for the J. E. Grads. Seven hours a week, to count as five. Prerequisite: Janitation 1, 2 and 3.—New York World.

The Late Miss Hannah M. Paul

Newburgh, March 19. — Miss H. M. Paul, who passed away, after a few days' illness, on Wednesday evening, March 14th, was a daughter of the late James Paul and Hannah Moore. She was in her 74th year. She spent 34 years as a pioneer missionary of the W. M. S. of the Methodist Church, at Port Simpson, Frank, Michel, and Natal, in British Columbia. She retired about two years ago and returned to her old home town, Newburgh, where she was interested in the work of her Master, also being willing to help in all the church services, and was a regular attendant at them all. She attended the Sunday School session on Sunday, March 11th, and took part in the discussion of the Adult Bible Class, and spoke many inspiring words, which those in the class will always remember. She was on her way to the evening service in the United Church when she suffered a stroke and was carried back home, and never rallied again. Her funeral was held in the United Church on Saturday, March 17th, at 3 p.m. Her pastor, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, officiated. In his address he told of her pioneer missionary work in the W. M. S. Then the President of the Belleville Presbyterial, Mrs. Anderson, read messages of sympathy from Mrs. (Rev.) Large, whose husband was a missionary in Miss Paul's time; Mrs. W. Smythe, B.A., Pembroke, President of the Bay of Quinte Branch, and from the Belleville Presbyterial. A comforting message following. A large number of friends of the community were in attendance, especially a number of the W. M. S. from Newburgh and the community, who gathered in a body at the church to show their appreciation and sympathy. The bearers were her nephews, Messrs. Walter Paul and Percy Paul, Wesley; Mr. Clarence Paul, Newburgh; Mr. Vernon Paul, Switzerville; Mr. Ross Paul, Napanee, and Mr. Frasér Paul, Belleville. She leaves to mourn her loss, two sisters, Mrs. M. Clancy and Miss Eliza Paul, Newburgh, with whom she resided, and one brother, Mr. Joseph Paul, Newburgh. Her parents and a sister, Mrs. S. Shields, and brothers, Harvey and Wm. Paul, Wesley; Henry and Stuart Paul, of Napanee; Charley and Robert Paul, of Saskatoon, all predeceased her. A number of her nieces and nephews attended the funeral, Mrs. Fleming, Mr. Drummond Clancy of Queen's University, Mr. Albert Clancy Mrs. S. Short, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Switzer, Mr. and Mrs. C. Tedford, all of Newburgh; Dr. E. Paul and Mr. Charles McKim of Toronto, Mrs. Andrew Moore of Switzerville, besides a number of grand nephews and nieces. We wish to convey to the sorrowing ones, our deepest sympathy.

The Late Miss J. E. Clarke

Another of Napanee's oldest residents passed away, last week, when Miss Jane Eliza Clark died at her home on Thursday, March 15. Miss Clarke was in her 89th year and until a week previous to her death had been remarkably active for one of her years. On Monday, March 12th, she suffered a severe stroke from which she failed to rally.

The late Miss Clarke was born at Conway. She was the daughter of the late James A. Clarke and Miriam Thompson, and was of Irish descent. She has one of a family of nine children, all of whom had predeceased her. Until twenty-five years ago Miss Clarke had lived at Conway. At that time, with her sister, the late Mrs. Purdy, who died three years ago, she came to Napanee and took up residence on Eridge Street, where she lived until her death.

Miss Clarke was a member of the former Methodist Church at Conway and Trinity Church in Napanee, where she was a regular attendant at the Sunday services until a very few weeks before hr death.

She is survived by three nephews, Arthur, Frank and George Clarke, and one niece, Mrs. E. B. Harrison, of Adolphustown.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Harry Pawson of Trinity United Church, at her late home, on Sunday afternoon. The body was taken to Riverside cemetery vault to await interment in the spring, at Adolphustown U. E. L. cemetery.

Local And District News of Women's Organizations

ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The March meeting of the W.M.S. was held on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. John Magee. The president in the chair. Mrs. John Magee read the scripture lesson which was followed by prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. It was suggested that we hold a novelty sale, but arrangements for same were laid over till the April meeting. Easter offering envelopes were distributed.

Miss Hattitie Magee gave a reading, "An old-fashioned meeting." News briefs from China was read by Miss Annabel Magee. An interesting sketch of the life of Miss Mary Reed, missionary to the lepers, was given by Miss Margaret Magee. Two heralds reported—India, Mrs. John Magee, and Africa, Mrs. W. J. Magee.

Roll call was answered by a verse of scripture making mention of a precious stone and brought forth many beautiful thoughts from the members present.

The meeting closed with the Mizpoh benediction. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Cousins. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

MAPLE LEAF W. I.

On Thursday afternoon, March 8, Mrs. Wilt Pretis was hostess to the members and visitors of the Maple Leaf Women's Institute. The president being unable to attend, the last vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Cummings occupied the chair. The roll call, "An Irish joke or song," caused much laughter. After the few business items were discussed, everyone enjoyed a splendid programme. Miss Mabel VanKoughnet, gave an outline of the work taken at the short course, held in Napanee this winter. This proved very interesting. A vocal duet was well rendered by Mrs. Isaac Asselstine and Mrs. Will Pretis who were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. E. Smith. Miss Jean Milling gave a humorous Irish reading and Mrs. John L. Smith also gave an interesting reading.

Following the singing of the National Anthem, lunch was served.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cummings.

CAMDEN EAST W. I.

The March meeting of the Camden East Woman's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. W. Dunn, on Wednesday afternoon, March 7th, with a splendid attendance. The roll call, "A household pest and how to get rid of it," met with a splendid response. Splendid suggestions were made by the members.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Considerable correspondence was read and tabled and letters were read from the Rose family and from Mrs. Amos Huffman, expressing their appreciation for letters of sympathy in their bereavement. Other letters were of appreciation from the sick and shutins.

The financial statement of the seventh convention, which was held in Kingston last October, was read. The First Aid kits, donated to the three schools, Bethel, Bicknell's Corners and Camden East, by the W. I., are being re-furnished.

It was decided to extend an invitation to Mr. Fred McPherson of Wilton, to be a guest at the next meeting, and give a chalk talk. Mr. McPherson has, on numerous occasions, given these talks throughout the district and is very proficient in this work. He will also be asked to give a talk on "Birds" at the three schools, Bethel, Bicknell's Corners and Camden East. It was unanimously decided to have a euchre and dance after Easter week and the prizes for the euchre were donated by some of the members.

The programme for the afternoon was then proceeded with and a very interesting paper on "Starting Bulbs" was given by Mrs. W. Simmons. Mrs. Joseph Lewis contributed a pleasing vocal solo at the February meeting. The President asked all the members to bring suggestions for next year's programme and some splendid suggestions were received at this meeting. A reading Re-Potting Plants" was given by Mrs. J. Wilson and Mrs. Harry Robinson contributed an interesting paper on "Proper Introductions." Mrs. A. Lewis read a short sketch of Centennial Year, Toronto, and a reading "Something to Do," was given by Mrs. Walmsley. This reading was from the works of Nina Moore Jamieson. "Health Hints" was given by Mrs. Robert Lewis. Community singing was also enjoyed and Mrs. Hilton Robinson presided at the piano.

One new member was introduced and a very profitable session closed with the singing of the National Anthem. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. C. Smedley, on April 4th, when the roll call will be "Your maiden name and where you first met your husband."

The matter of some social activity was after discussion, left in the hands of the executive, for consideration.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

MT. PLEASANT PIONEER W. I.

The postponed meeting of Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute was held in the Institute Hall on Monday evening, March 12th, with the president, Mrs. F. Henderson, in the chair.

The meeting was opened in the usual way with the singing of the ode and the repetition of the Lord's prayer.

The matter of paying outstanding bills was dealt with and a motion carried that certain letters be written to the donors who contributed to the relief; to Mr. H. Shannon for his gift to the Institute and to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodcock, in their bereavement, the death of their sister, Mrs. Fairbanks.

Grateful acceptance of Mrs. Folnsbee's financial contribution to the Institute was made by the members of the Institute.

An interesting programme followed the business meeting. A reading by Mrs. Arthur Sexsmith in which she took special care to see there was plenty of variety and also a well-balanced diet for each day. An exhibition of hooked rugs. These beautifully made and the colors were harmoniously blended, showing the artistic touch of the maker, Mrs. Hugh Haggerty. An address on "Home Beautification," by Mrs. Alkenbrack, in which she advised the members to consult the landscape gardener at the Agricultural College of Guelph and he would send a blue print as a model, was very interesting. She also recommended growing flowers, shrubs and trees. Care should be taken to have a succession of bloom throughout the season and recommended joining a horticultural society.

Mrs. Henderson then gave an interesting reading on the potato. In it she told of many and varied uses to which the potato could be put.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A meeting of unusual interest was held by the Napanee Women's Institute on Tuesday, March 13th, in the Agricultural rooms. Mrs. Edley, president, occupied the chair and the meeting opened with the singing of the ode and repeating the creed, in unison. The minutes of the February meeting were read and approved.

Letters of appreciation were read from those receiving fruit or flowers while ill. The roll call, "A quotation from Aunt Het" received a response from nearly every member, which added much interest to this item of the programme. Current events by Mrs. Ralph Ham were of unusual interest and the condition of affairs in foreign countries, as well as in Canada, were brought before us. The splendid work of the Women's Institutes of British Columbia with the number of members and the amounts raised by all, proved most interesting. Other matters of interest to officers and workers were also given.

Mrs. T. V. Anderson, convener of the programme committee gave a demonstration of salads and salad dressings, rolled sandwich, canapes of different kinds, and displayed a number of articles very helpful to the homemaker.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Anderson.

DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

ARTIFICIAL BROODING

Brooding has started at the Central Experimental Farm and the following hints are based on the experience of the poultrymen there.

Prepare fires in the brooder stoves two or three days before hatch comes off. Have the temperature up to 98 degrees at the outer edge of the hover.

Place wire netting around the hover some two feet from outer edge, to prevent wandering. Transfer the chicks from incubator to brooder as soon as they are dry.

Give the chicks their first feed immediately after they have entered the brooder house. First feed should be of fine chick grit, followed by mash. Supply water with the chill taken off, in proper fountains or vessels. Mash may be kept in front of the chicks at all times without danger of over eating.

Clean and disinfect the feed hoppers and water vessels every day. Keep the house in a sanitary condition at all times.

The temperature of the brooder should be kept at such a degree as to avoid crowding under the hover. Enlarge the wire circle around the hover as chicks mature.

And above all remove chicks that are showing signs of disease.

MAPLE PRODUCTS

Maple products have a distinctive flavour, which is due to a mixture of complex chemical compounds which has never been entirely reproduced artificially.

The law demands that the word "maple" shall appear only on the containers of true maple products.

Official samples collected by inspectors of the Department of Agriculture are examined in the chemical laboratories of the Central Experimental Farm for genuineness and purity.

WATCH THE BEES

At last weather conditions at the Central Experimental Farm have permitted outdoor wintered bees to take a cleansing flight. In doing so, however, thousands fell to the snow and failed to return. Brilliant sunshine is apt to entice the bees out while the air is still too cool for prolonged flight. Hive entrances exposed in the full rays of the sun should be shaded to as to prevent excessive activities on the part of the bees. Examine all entrances to see that they are not blocked with ice or snow or dead bees. A dead entrance leads to the suffocation of the colony, especially if the weather is warm enough for bees to fly. If packages or new equipment are desired, order at once in order to avoid costly delays later.

The cost of growing a crop is the same whether good or poor seed is used, so why save a few cents on the seed, cost and lose dollars on the final crop?

Necessity is the argument of tyrants, but the creed of slaves. — Chatham.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Look After Ice House

At this time of the year a farmer should thoroughly inspect his ice house. Repair any little job before it becomes a big and costly job. If, for instance, a batten is rubbed off the ice house by live stock, rain will get behind the studding, and decrease the value of the insulation and start rot in the sill, studs and sheathing.

Heavy Cattle in Demand

At present, according to the Ontario Marketing Board, there is a definite demand at the Union Stock Yards for top quality heavy cattle, with strong prices prevailing. Recently a choice lot of this class sold at six and one-half cents a pound. These cattle were smooth and well finished, weighing upwards of fifteen hundred pounds.

With the surplus relieved, as a result of last year's export trade, feeders should profit by marketing properly finished cattle of this weight

Sow Thistle Menace

Determined that sow thistle be stamped out within the confines of its area, the Council of the County of Kent have had a conference with Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture.

Colonel Kennedy has offered his assistance, and has promised to prepare revisions to The Weed Act, enabling local weed inspectors to administer weed control measures more effectively. A definite organized campaign is now being prepared, consisting of newspaper publicity, special sow thistle lessons in all schools of the county, and a stringent clean-up of all waste and cultivated land during the growing season.

Henhouse Ventilation

The removal of moisture is a major problem in poultry houses. Poultry have no sweat glands, but they give off relatively large amounts of vapour in respiration and through the skin. It was found at one experimental station that maximum egg production was obtained when temperatures were not permitted to fluctuate widely. A henhouse temperature at 50 degrees F. is too high to be maintained on most farms in winter, without artificial heat. Hence, a lower temperature held uniformly would be desirable. Increasing numbers of poultrymen have had success with artificial heat properly regulated, but failure has commonly resulted when temperatures were allowed to go too high or to fluctuate widely.

Dairy Cattle Rings

A common affection of cattle at this time of the year is ringworm. This can be easily controlled if taken in time. Wash the part with soap and water to remove crusts, scraping if necessary, then dry the spot and paint with tincture of iodine, repeating the treatment daily until cured. Sulphur ointment or any good antiscurring ointment if used conscientiously will also give good results.

Beware of Weed Seeds in Manure

Weed seeds find their way to the manure pile through the digestive systems of animals and in bedding. When fresh manure is hauled out and spread on the land viable weed seeds may be spread with it. If weeds are present allow the manure to remain in the pile for at least one month before spreading and thereby avoid the danger of increasing weed infestation.

Immediate Action Advised

To farmers who have not secured their requirements of seed grain to date, I would say that immediate action is not only wise but vitally necessary."

This was the recent statement of Arthur H. Martin, Assistant Director, Crops and Markets Branch.

The shortage of seed grain, and the fact that many registered growers have exhausted their surplus, are clearly indicated by figures included in a survey made by this official of the Department.

Available supplies of registered seed grain in Ontario as of February 28, according to the survey, follow: Oats approximately; 7,800 bushels; barley some 3,600 bushels; and somewhat less than 500 bushels of spring wheat.

Pruning Should be Done During the Dormant Season

Pruning as practiced by the commercial fruit-grower should have two essential objects; first to train the shape or growth of the tree in a specific way, and second, to influence the production and quality of the fruit.

When speaking of training a fruit tree, the purpose is not to mould a beautiful or shapely object, but rather a tree that is commercially profitable and capable of carrying its crop without breakage of limbs. Furthermore, the proper pruning of a tree will facilitate other orchard operations such as spraying and picking.

Pruning may be done at any time during the dormant season, but late winter or early spring is preferable. However, the amount and type of pruning is far more important than the time at which it is done.

Current Report

Parts of Ontario are now beginning to feel the pinch of short supplies of both hay and grain due to poor crops last summer. In recent reports from agricultural representatives, it was indicated that the extreme severity of the present winter, coupled with dwindling feed supplies was lowering the vitality of stock. Bruce county mentions many cases of pneumonia among cattle due to the cold, and Muskoka and Parry Sound indicates that the live stock of the district are in poor condition, due to the long, cold winter.

Peel and Dufferin report grain and hay scarce and many dairymen not feeding for maximum production because of the high price of mill feeds. In Prince Edward county and points further east, there is every indication that a great deal of hay will be needed by cattle feeders and dairymen before the winter is through.

Practically all counties mention that any surpluses of hay are being readily snapped up by neighbors who are short and that prices range from $10 per ton in the western end of the province, to $16 and $18 on the Ottawa market, for loose hay.

Hulless Oats

Haldimand county farmers who have been making a specialty of Liberty hulless oats report growing interest in this new grain all through Ontario. Poultrymen seem to be especially interested as they can feed the grain whole without any rolling whatever and of course, there is no danger from hulls and no worry about screenings. "They make ready-made poultry feed," states Bruce Mehlenbacher, one of the largest growers at Cayuga. Hog feeders who also must be careful of fibre are finding more use for the new oats, particularly for young pigs. Growers in the Haldimand district report good yields for Liberty hulless. Though last season was by no means favorable for any kind of spring grain, Stephen Culver of Rainham Centre reports an average of 25 bushels from his ten acre field, while a neighbor, Alfred Loucks of South Cayuga had the same yield from 25 acres. These growers explain that the hulless weighed over 50 pounds to the bushel, therefore giving a return of 1,250 pounds of solid feed per acre. When the 30 to 35 per cent hull of the ordinary oat is deducted, and the difference in weight per bushel taken into consideration, these yields are equal to 50 bushels per acre for wheat. Haldimand growers also claim that the hulless oat is better than Barley and much less affected by dry summer weather.

ARBOR-VITAE FOR HEDGES

Very early spring seems to be the best time to move Arbor-vitae (cedar) In planting, the specimens with few or no branches near the ground may be set deeper than the others so as to have all the plants, when set, with good branches close to the ground. Arbor-vitae succeeds in a great variety of soils, and has another advantage, other than hardiness, in that in many places it can be readily dug up in the pastures or woodlands, costing nothing but the labour of transplantation. More than a mile of American Arbor-vitae was planted for a hedge at the Central Experimental Farm, in 1915, where it has not been injured by dense shade from overhanging trees, or from other special cause, the hedge from this planting is still in excellent condition, with living branches and leaves to the ground. It has been kept to about six feet in height and six feet across. It is undoubtedly, says the Dominion Horticulturist, the best evergreen hedge for climatic conditions such as obtained at Ottawa.

CARE OP THE FARROWING SOW

A little extra care at farrowing will often save a greater percentage of the litter. Provide some bran in the meal ration to prevent a feverish condition. A week or ten days before farrowing, place the sow in a farrowing pen that is dry, clean and free from draughts. Bed the pen with short straw. Keep a watchful eye on the sow at farrowing but do not disturb her or assist her unless absolutely necessary. Provide a warm bran slop for the sow a few hours after farrowing.

Household Hints

(1) When boiling a ham, the flavor is improved by the addition to the water of a teacup of vinegar, a teacup of brown sugar and a few cloves.

(2) To prevent white sauce from becoming lumpy see that the milk is slightly warmed before it is poured on to the flour and butter.

(3) When dates become dry, to soften tie them in a clean piece of muslin and steam for five minutes. Allow to cool before using.

(4) When your floor mop has become greasy with floor polish stand it for several hours in soapy lather, add a good handful of soda. To wash out as much of the grease as possible plunge the mop, up and down, several times before throwing the water out. Then in a fresh soapy lather, to which a teaspoonful of borax has been added, wash thoroughly. Two or even more of these washings may be necessary, and then a good rinsing before the mop is hung out in the air to dry.

(5) A box of quicklime placed in a damp cupboard will entirely absorb all moisture in a few days.

(6) To wash blankets dissolve two large tablespoonfuls of borax or a little lump ammonia in a pint of soft water, and when dissolved add to the warm soapy water in which the blankets are to be soaked. Put one blanket at a time into the liquid, and let soak for a short time. Move blanket about in the water, squeezing it between the hands, and when clean drain and rinse thoroughly in two waters, and hang up to dry. Do not wring blankets, but shake occasionally until dry.

SILVER TEAPOTS

Tea was first introduced into England in the latter part of the 17th Century; it is, therefore, not until this date that silver teapots are to be found. At that time a great novelty, tea was regarded rather as a drug than a beverage and was probably taken without the addition of sugar or cream. It is twice mentioned in Pepy's Diary; for the first time during the year 1660, when Pepys tried the new "China Drink"; secondly, in 1667, when it was ordered as an antidote for Mrs. Pepys, when suffering from a chill.

The earliest silver teapots are very small, holding barely a pint; in shape they resemble those in Oriental porcelain of the same period. In fact they are quite rare until the middle of the 18th Century, and it is not until the latter part of that century that we find the three-piece teaset, i. e., teapot, sugar basin, and cream jug to match.

During the reign of George II. (1727-1760) the English silver teapot began to change in form, becoming spherical. It is often decorated with flowers, and the same design—gradually into a pear shape. Introduced in vogue until about 1780. Henceforward, the pedestal bottom, and the entirely different form — teapots were made larger; the sugar-basin, then disappearing, and the cream or milk jug came into use. Besides those there was usually a stand for the teapot. All of these pieces being similar in design, and constituting the now popular three or four-piece tea set. Complete sets of this date are rare at the present day. In design they were oval or oblong with slightly sloped sugar basins and ewers. They continued in fashion until nearly the end of the century, shortly after 1800—a more bulbous pattern appearing. Though still oblong, or oval, the separate pieces were made much larger and the sugar basin and cream jug conformed to the shape of the teapot.

It will probably be agreed that it was during the early years of the nineteenth century that both the design and workmanship of the English silver teapot and tea set was considered most agreeable. After about the year 1820 a deterioration in style is to be observed, the fashion of the day copying ignominiously pieces belonging to the earlier periods, and to those of William IV. and Victoria. Today the simple Queen Anne teapot is practically unknown, though an oval fluted design is described by the modern silversmith as "Queen Anne."

The teapots here described are those made in London, the type made in Scotland and Ireland differing in certain ways.

Sacrament Administered

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. H. Pawson, of Napanee, and Rev. Robt. Hall of Belleville, who were assisted by Rev. J. Appelbee, Rev. R. T. Richards and Rev. J. E. Beckel, of Napanee; Rev. A. E. Oliver, of Morven; Rev. F. T. Saunders, of Adolphustown; and Rev. H. Mellow, of Ivanhoe. Rev. Robt. Hall dismissed the afternoon session with the benediction.

Those interested in Young People's work met in an informal conference to discuss problems with Miss Isabelle Griffiths of Toronto. Mrs. W. S. Gordon of Tweed, and Mrs. A. Palmatier of Picton, all of whom are leaders in girls' work. The Mission Band leaders met at supper and discussed their work with Mrs. H. Bailey, of Madoc.

EVENING SESSION

In the evening, Rev. H. Pawson, chairman of that session, Rev. R. T. Richards and Rev. A. J. Wilson, conducted the devotional service. Trinity United Church choir furnished the music.

Mrs. W. S. Gordon, in introducing Miss Isabelle Griffiths, said how delighted the women were with her work among the young girls. Miss Griffiths spoke on behalf of the young people and their need of efficient and understanding leadership. She said many adults were living in the twentieth century but had seventeenth century minds, and failed to realize that the young people to-day knew only the radio and not the sailing vessel. These young people endowed adults with the qualities they desired for themselves and must be shown more of adult work and reasons for doing it and less of the machinery. More than rules and examples were necessary, she said, for the adults must recognize that young people are growing up, and be glad of it. "I will not say to you this is our way, walk in it, but, I know there is a way for each to walk."

Between the addresses Mrs. H. Pawson rendered a pleasing solo.

Mrs. Anderson introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. C. R. Crowe, of Guelph, who is the president of the Woman's Missionary Society of Canada.

Mrs. Crowe's Address

Mrs. Crowe opened her address with the text: "For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty, through God, to the pulling down of strongholds," and proceeded to give a view of the results of the use of those weapons as far as they are known, first through the mission work of all those in many denominations, next a look at the way in which the W. M. S. is progressing, and last the projects it is trying to further.

In considering the value of missions and the need of them, she requested that the searching statements made by Jesus to the nations of the world and how they are being answered today, be considered. ... "When modern methods of agriculture are taught which result in abundant crops where starvation existed, are we not giving meat to the hungry? When wells are dug by modern methods in dry and barren lands where no water is, when irrigation is made possible for crops, do we not give drink to the thirsty? In port work, in school homes, in all community work, we prove friends to the friendless. Huge bales of supplies, clothes and bedding wherever the need is made known. In hospitals and clinics and by nursing service, the sick are visited and cared for. Those in prison have been shown that there is a hope in life greater than they had dreamed could be. Lives have been changed. Men have left these places freed in body, but better, with spirits freed from the bondage of superstition and fear."

Some Missionary Activity

In speaking of the advance of missions in the world, Mrs. Crowe pointed out how Christ's followers had increased until they are the most numerous of any religion in the world. She stated that there were 25,000,000 pupils in schools and colleges built in non-Christian lands by missionaries, and that the medical missionaries opened the first hospitals and dispensaries in many of these lands; that 8,000 doctors and nurses were at work and 12,000,000 treatments given annually; that 27,000 blind, deaf, orphans and lepers were being cared for in institutions and given vocational training by the missionaries; also that the missionaries were leaders in teaching public health, care of children, and lessening of pestilence and disease; that they introduced trade schools and training in agriculture, and that they co-operated in promoting peace. She said the missionaries deserved the credit for the freedom from social bondage and the education which the women of many countries enjoyed. The missionaries had reduced literally hundreds of languages to writing and translated the Bible in whole or part, into nine hundred of these and distributed about twenty thousand in one year. And it was the missionaries who trained the natives to become leaders of their own people.

The speaker next dealt with what the W. M. S. of the United Church is doing. She mentioned that it was the most numerous of any religion in the world. She stated that there were 25,000,000 pupils in schools and colleges built in non-Christian lands by missionaries; that 8,000 doctors and nurses were at work and 12,000,000 treatments given annually; that 27,000 blind, deaf, orphans and lepers were being cared for in institutions and given vocational training by the missionaries; also that the missionaries were leaders in teaching public health, care of children, and lessening of pestilence and disease; that they introduced trade schools and training in agriculture, and that they co-operated in promoting peace. And it was the missionaries who trained the natives to become leaders of their own people.

The speaker next dealt with what the W. M. S. of the United Church is doing. She mentioned that it was the first W. M. S. from a tiny group of women in a Syrian garden, receiving the charter from Jesus, to the large organization it now is. Since union in 1925, from there four thousand new organizations have been added and many of these are young girls' societies.

Growth of the Work

Mrs. Crowe spoke of the periodicals of the society and said the Mission-ary Monthly alone is sent to fifteen countries, including Russia. World Friends, the children's magazine, reaches thousands of children in many lands. She illustrated the influence the latter has on children with the story of a Canadian boy and his mother, meeting a Chinese boy and his mother on the street. "There goes one of my World Friends," the little Canadian was heard to remark to his mother. A proportion of the offerings on the World's Day of Prayer, along with a grant, is from W. M. S. share in providing Christian literature for other lands. Mrs. Crowe chose Chantu, in West China, as a case in point of what the W. M. S. is accomplishing. In twenty-five years the workers have increased from three to thirty-four, the schools from two with two hundred pupils, to eighty-five, with six thousand pupils. Twenty-five years ago there were no high school women graduates, but just last year ninety-two women were studying in the university. Twenty-five years ago there were no nurses in the whole area, to-day four thousand nurses, many of them graduates from the mission hospital, are at work in Chentu.

The speaker pointed out that progress was equally marked in Canada. In the ninety-one fields there are one hundred and eight missionaries and sixty engaged helpers. She said no one knew how much more than the work they are sent out to do, these people are doing. "The lives they have lived have been an open books, known and read without translation by all men and women who have come in contact with them ...wonderful women! Daughters of the King, indeed! In these places where they spend their days their names will never be forgotten, for they are written in the hearts of those who have found a new hope through their ministrations and teaching."

The whole membership of the W. M. S. Mrs. Crowe said, during the past three years, had continued to have moved forward spiritually... "It seems to have felt that what could not be given in material gifts, could be made up by gifts of time, of service and encouragement."

She spoke of the increased number whose prayers include petitions for peace in the world. "We are thinking more and more of the world as a whole. We cannot pray rot relate to the mothers of all lands." And speaking of peace, she mentioned how the cause of the League of Nations is forwarded by those who become members and pay their fee, and said, "peace cannot come to a nation till its individual citizens are willing to forgive as they hope to be forgiven. ... There is a great change by being a better neighbor."

Protest Free Sale Beer and Wine

Mrs. Crowe drew attention to the protest against the introduction of the Liquor Control Act of the Provinces. Thousands of postcards were sent to the Premier as well as a deputation in which the W. M. S. was represented, waiting upon him, to plead that the free sale of beer and wine be not granted. She asked for the co-operation of Christian women in temperance education and that no boy or girl grow to manhood's estate glass of wine or cocktail in one of these homes. "The sponsors have declared that this appetite must be cultivated in the youth, of Canada if their children are to have any future ... but for the love of God and His plan and purpose for every human life, let us keep our hands clean."

The speaker recalled God's promise, "My Word shall not return unto Me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it," and entreated us to still our doubting fears when we think of the unrest of the nation. "God could still this unrest of nations at any time if He would, but He wants peace to come on earth through men's good will to one another."

Concluding her address, Mrs. Crowe reminded them that Peter Pilgrim and Mary Reese from a mill, and their names had become immortal. But it must not be forgotten that God needs His ministers in these places as well as, from them. "God has called our ministries to go here and there to our 144 fields of work ... but he has left us here by missions for Him."

The speaker sent out this final challenge: "Shall we not let His spirit fill our hearts and their work ness may be more faithful than ever before so shall we be among the immortals."

Rev. H. Pawson closed the evening session with the benediction.

THURSDAY MORNING SESSION

Mrs. E. L. Fraser, of Trenton, and Mrs. P. Dafoe of Madoc, opened the Thursday morning session with a duet entitled "Sing, Sing Together" the Easter Story as the theme of the devotional period. She said: "If Christ had not risen from the dead our faith would have been in vain." She told the story of an old Chinese woman, who though living a Christian life, refused to be known as a Christian because she had that being a Christian to her mind, involved carrying the gospel to others and she was over 60 years old to undertake that work.

Before calling for reports from the various secretaries, Mrs. Anderson called attention to the chart she had prepared and gave a number of changes without missionary organizations and pointed out the opportunities that were for engaging Baby Bands.

Mrs. W. S. Gordon, Secretary of Work for Young Women, reported that the Mission Circles showed increased interest in their work than in other years. The givings of Bridge Street Circle, Belleville, showed an increase of over $100 dollars over the previous year, and Trinity Circle, Napanee, an increase of five dollars over 1932. Mrs. Gordon is Treasurer.

Miss Griffiths made a few suggestions for the missionary education of the young people. She agreed with Mrs. Anderson that a survey of the districts in the Presbyterial should be made and new organizations started wherever possible. She suggested that the W. M. S. and the young people's societies meet together once in a while to discuss the latter's difficulties. She also advised having W. M. S. family parties once a year when all the youngest societies would be invited and each take part in the programme. Workers' conferences were urged, not only for the purpose of getting reports, but to have methods discussed for carrying on the different departments of the work. The value of articles from foreign lands being put on display was stressed as a means of fostering a greater interest and understanding of these countries, in the young people.

Mrs. Ward Wartman, Napanee, brought greetings from the W.C.T.U. and spoke of the necessity of all phases of church work including temperance and the great need for that, at present.

The Missionary Monthly Secretary, Mrs. H. P. Herrington of Thomasburg reported that, last year, only 1151 subscriptions had been sent to her, which was a decrease of 180 from 1932. The number of subscriptions was very small when compared with the number of members in each auxiliary and the rural societies take the greater number in proportion to their members. In 1933, four hundred World Friends were taken but only 186 subscriptions have been sent in so far, this year.

Mrs. Crowe Speaks Again.

Mrs. Crowe again spoke to the convention about a few things that had come to her mind as she sat listening to the reports. First, she mentioned the allocations and said that after an allocation was made a goal to be reached if possible and the greatest effort should be put forth, for therein lay much of the good to be gained from it. She explained that increasing the membership would not mean an increase in allocation as many thought, but it would mean more to help reach it. She stressed the necessity of standing back of the missionaries on the field and not failing them. She advocated teaching systematic giving to children, as soon as they were handling money, no matter how small the amount. She told the women that prayer and worship were the true way to end worry. She closed her remarks by saying the world wanted God in a human face and "it is your face and mine that are the only faces He knows how to shine through."

At this point, Mrs. Hillis of Wellington, thanked Mrs. Crowe and Miss Griffiths for their addresses and kindness in attending the convention.

Miss Griffiths, wearing a Chinese dress, and Mrs. Ward Wartman, in a Japanese dress, were brought into the platform. Miss Griffiths explained her dress, and Miss Olive of Hamsby of Napanee, explained the Japanese costume.

Nominating Committee Report

Mrs. Crowe took charge of the election of officers and Mrs. Anderson read the report of the Nominating Committee:—

President—Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson.

Past President—Mrs. S. C. Gay.

1st Vice-President—Mrs. F. Dafoe.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. F. L. Hooper.

3rd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Geo. Hunter.

4th Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. C. Haggerty.

5th Vice-Pres.—Mrs. E. L. Fraser.

Recording Secretary— Mrs. D. B. Wilson.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. M. E. Knox.

Treasurer—Mrs. E. J. Cerkill.

Christian Stewardship and Finance— Mrs. R. W. Street.

Secretary Young Peoples' Work — Mrs. F. Herrington.

Secretary Affiliated C. G. I. T.'s— Mrs. C. B. Brethen. Mrs. W. G. Fletcher.

Mission Band Secretary — Mrs. H. Bailey.

Baby Band Secretary — Mrs. W. S. Smart.

Associate Helpers Secretary—Mrs. G. S. Sharpe, Mrs. Lorra Parks.

Supply Secretary—Mrs. O. S. Reddick.

Strangers' Secretary— Mrs. A. V. Empey.

Literature Secretary— Mrs. H. D. Williams.

Missionary Monthly and World Friends Secretary—Mrs. H. B. Herrington.

Temperance Secretary—Mrs. G. A. Ferguson.

Press Secretary—Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Peace Secretary—Mrs. F. L. Hooper.

With the exception of the two offices to be voted on, the report was accepted.

While the ballots were being cast for secretaries for the affiliated C. O. I. T. Groups and Associate Helpers, the Strangers' Secretary, Mrs. A .V. Empey, of Eldorado, gave her report. The work had been very encouraging and she said each field well repaid for her share in it. 2167 calls were made during the year besides the countless other kind acts done by this department.

Mrs. G. S. Sharpe, of Trenton, and Mrs. G. S. Sharpe of Belleville, were elected to offices named above and the following report of the Nominating Committee was accepted by the Presbyterial. The officers were installed by Mrs. Albert Lapum, of Camden East, who reminded them of the sacred trust that was being laid upon them.

Devotional Meditation Period

The meditation period was taken by Miss L. Gandier, of Napanee, who selected the verse "God is able," for her theme. She said that man had been created and gone is given his own choosing and that, that was the cause of the present unrest.

At this time, Mrs. Pawson, Napanee, contributed a solo.

Miss Gandier continued her talk, saying that God will not force His will upon us. She said "God wants you, Jim's comforting to Jack and Christ wants just what we have got? ... When our all is at His disposal His will be to the rest and all our needs be fed." She stated that evil can never overcome evil and the only force stronger than evil is love.

Mrs. Anderson closed the morning session with prayer.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON SESSION

This last session was opened by a devotional service, conducted by Mrs. F. L. Hooper, of Napanee, and Mrs. James Moore, of Belleville. The theme of the service was peace and after a prayer by Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Moore read several peace passages from the Bible. Mrs. Hooper, the Peace Secretary, reported that this was a new department with only sixty-secretaries, but considerable progress had been made. She said peace could not be obtained without knowledge and conscious effort and much had already been done along this line. A resolution had been sent to Geneva on disarmament and many books have been written on that subject. Sherwood Eddy was quoted as having said at one time that from behind the conflicting turmoil of life would come a saner thinking.

On behalf of the executive, Mrs. Haggerty expressed a word of appreciation and love for the retiring officers and welcomed the new ones.

Mrs. E. Fenwick, of Belleville, conducted a very impressive In Memoriam service for the deceased members of the Presbyterial. In speaking of death she said it was not the end of life, "I have a body but I am a soul." She called death only an event and life a sort of worship in which work is included out. Mrs. Farnsworth said, since God was with us always, going to Him is not a great journey.

A tribute was paid to Miss Hannah M. Paul, of Newfoundland, a former missionary, who passed away Wednesday evening.

As Mrs. J. B. Wilson read the names, 53 in all, Mrs. Farnsworth placed a rose in a silver vase for each deceased of each district. Mrs. Kirby of Napanee, sang "There is no Death."

Mrs. S. C. Gay, past president, sent word to Mrs. Anderson that, although she could not be present, she was praying for the success of the convention.

Further Department Reports

The first report of the afternoon was given by the Supply Secretary, Mrs. O. S. Reddick, of Napanee. She stated that during the year one hundred parcels and after forting them had been sent out chiefly to Goodfish Lake, Coe Hill, Pinnon, St. Ola, and twice to the emergency relief, at Ermsford and one at Regina.

The Temperance Secretary, Mrs. G. A. Ferguson, of Belleville, reported progress in her department and suggested that wide awake women be selected for temperance parties. She also read an example of the type of story that she found would appeal to children and at the same time teach them temperance.

Mrs. G. H. Hayes, the Associate Helpers' Secretary, reported that there were twenty-one boxes made up of 287 pieces of clothing sent to C. G. I. T. groups and missions. Mrs. Palmatier also reported that there were twenty-one boxes made up and sent to Northern, Far Western, Inter-Mountain and Interfish love, in their areas or other countries.

Mrs. H. D. Williams, Bloomfield, the Literature Secretary, mentioned the various papers and Bridge Builder material was handed out. Mrs. Williams said she had sold $47.69 worth of books.

In the absence of Mrs. J. B. Lewis of Trenton, the Baby Band Secretary, her report was read by Mrs. Percy MacMullen. The report stated that three new bands had been started.

Mrs. MacMullen, as Press Secretary, reported that there had been an increase of 93 papers over the previous year.

This concluded the reports.

Plenty Next Place of Meeting"

Mrs. Knox, of Picton, on behalf of the Picton Auxiliary, invited the next meeting of Picton, the latter part of March, 1935. The invitation was accepted.

Mrs. Knox rescinded the resolution re Memorial Windows and Memorials Committee. "Whereas in a Presbyterial with an area as large as Belleville Presbyterial, the responsibility entailed upon the Nominating Committee in regard to representation in the Presbyterial Executive, of all the settings and whereas each Presbyterial plan strengthens each of its work, upon the contact with other sections through the executive, therefore, be it resolved that a change in the present set up of the number of officers be circulated throughout the Presbyterial at least a month before the Presbyterial meeting at which the matter is brought up for the Presbyterial Society."

The resolution was passed.

The second resolution presented, was as follows: "Whereas the Liquor Traffic is a menace to the physical and moral welfare of our people and a source of degradation and the death, and whereas some life be it resolved that the members of the Belleville Presbyterial pledge themselves anew to do all in our power to safeguard our home and our land against the evils connected with the path of our youthful people." This resolution also, was adopted.

Mrs. Brent reminded the convention that a Finance Committee had been elected, and the following were appointed: The Treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Cerkill, and the Secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. R. W. Street, Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, Mrs. Laura Parks, and Mrs. H. Bailey.

Mrs. Hillis, on behalf of the Centreville Auxiliary, expressed sincere appreciation to all those who helped make the convention instructive and a success. She also thanked the Church of Napanee, who had provided the meals and opened their homes to the delegates.

Rev. H. F. Sanders closed the convention with the benediction.

This story comes from a Shawlands household. The wee lassie was being kept strictly to lessons by her grandmother, and when the time arrived she said darkly: "Thanks somebody, in this room that I don't like. It's not you, nee fat, nee ugly, nee nae wee cat, but it's just one of us three!" Glasgow South Side Standard.

OTTAWA ONTARIO

SELBY

Selby, March 19. — The annual cheese meeting was held last Monday afternoon. The officers of last year were re-elected for the coming year, which speaks well for the satisfaction of the patrons and proprietor.

The social evening held Monday evening, sponsored by group one, of the W. M. S., under the capable direction of Miss Lucille Hudgins, was very successful. A St. Patrick's Day program of unusual interest was presented by members and friends of the group, after which a number of amusing contests were engaged in. At a late hour delicious refreshments were served by the ladies of the group. A nice sum of money resulted from the effort.

Mrs. M. Behrnerhorn of Napanee spent several days, last week, visiting friends in the village.

Mrs. E. Robinson and Mrs. S. Weese called on Mrs. Luhan McCutcheon, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Weese, Claude and Roy, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Robinson, Wednesday evening.

Miss Norissa Denison, R.N., is on duty in the General Hospital, Kingston, where she accompanied a patient on Tuesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Faulk, a daughter, Perm, with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McLeod and Maurice, spent Saturday in Kingston.

A number of the ladies of the W. M. S. were in Napanee, Wednesday and Thursday, attending the sessions of the Belleville Presbyterial, held in Trinity United Church.

The St. Patrick's programme of the Y. P. S. on Friday evening, under the convenorship of Miss Marion Winter, took the form of a box social. The Sunday school room was beautifully decorated in green and white for the occasion and contributed much to the spirit of the evening. A few of the items of the program were a trio by Misses Norma Wood, Eleanor Tummon and Doris Windover; a mouth organ selection by Wallace McKnight; a solo by Dorland Jackson; a humorous reading by Dr. Smith and an instrumental duet by Miss M. Wilde and Mrs. Gen. Robinson, each of which was very much enjoyed by the members and friends of the Y. P. S.

The next meeting will be held on March 23rd and will be in charge of the Citizenship Convener, Dorland Wood.

We hear that this is sugar weather and a few of the farmers have tapped their trees.

INGLE

Ingle, March 19. — Several from this street attended the play "The Gypsy Rose," in Tamworth on the 17th inst., which was presented by the Y. P. U. of that village.

Mr. and Mrs. R. MacLachlan and Arthur, spent a recent Sunday at Mr. Nelles Allen's, Pine Grove.

Miss Myrta Young spent the week end at Miss Beryl Milligan's.

Mr. Harold Milligan, while driving a load of fat hogs to Tamworth station, on Thursday last, had the misfortune to encounter a bad piece of road. His load upset, dumping the hogs in a ditch of water. He procured help and eventually managed to get the hogs to the station on the road, it being impossible to reload them.

Miss Nellie Stinson has procured board and lodging at Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Young's home for the present, owing to an epidemic of mumps at her former boarding place.

Mrs. Cole and son, Delbert, spent a couple of days, this week, at Sillsville.

Messrs. Archie and Ambrose Kidd, Donald Young and Miss Stinson, spent a recent evening at Mr. R. MacLachlan's.

Mr. John Meagher spent Sunday evening in Marlbank.

Mrs. Isaac Harrison and son, Hugh spent Thursday at Mr. H. Killorin's.

ODESSA

Odessa, March 19.— Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Burley accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Percy Bolton, of Belleville, motored to Ogdensburg, to see their father, Mr. Henry Burley, who is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, Watertown, spent the week end with the former's father, Mr. Geo. Graham and Mrs. Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McCullough of Marysville, spent Wednesday guests of the latter's aunt, Miss Dora McDonald, and the Misses Frank and William McDonald.

Miss Dora McDonald, accompanied by Mrs. McCullough, spent a few days with her niece, Mother Superior of the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

Miss Jean Milling, Napanee, and Mrs. Clarence Sharpe, Morven, were week end guests of the former's grandfather, Mrs. J. A. Bell and Mrs. Bell.

Mrs. Jamieson who has been spening some time with her brother-in-law, Mr. Oliver Fairbanks, has returned to her home in Newcastle.

Mr. Oswald Snider is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Ernest Sharpe, Toronto.

Master Gerald Sharpe spent the week end with Harvey Sharpe, Violet.

The funeral of Thomas Askam, who passed away last Saturday in the Kingston General Hospital, after a serious illness, was held from his home, on Church street, on Monday afternoon, with Dr. Fletcher officiated, and the remains were interred in Violet cemetery. To mourn his loss are his widow and three children. The pall bearers were Roswell Henry, Harry Sharpe, A. E. Emmons, William Wright, Inman Wright and Robert Wright.

WHITE LAKE

White Lake, March 19.— Mr. H Williams of Centreville, moved here last week, on the old William homestead, which he purchased last fall from his uncle, Mr. W. H. Williams.

Mr. Joseph H. Baker spent a recent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron.

Mr. R. Williams of Ballahac spent part of this week with his brother, Mr. Herb. Williams.

Mr. D. Dwyer made a business trip to Glenvale, this week, and took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. P. Gafferley.

Mr. E. Kendall, who has spent the past eight years in the United States has been spending the winter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kendall and sister, Mrs. Roy Young.

Mr. R. Lloyd, of Marlbank, while engaged in sawing wood for Mr. H. McKliver, on Saturday morning, had the misfortune to have two fingers nearly severed from his right hand.

Miss A. McCormick of Erinsville was the guest of Miss Marion Dwyer one night this week.

The euchre party at Mr. W. H Williams on Saturday night, in aid of the Marlbank Anglican Church fund, was a social success, but owing to the rain in the early part of the night, the attendance was not near as large as expected.

Miss G. Dwyer is spending the winter with her grandparents, Mr and Mrs. J. Hayes.

Mr. Ed. Trundle, of Belleville, was the guest of Master M. McLellan, this week.

Westbrook - Woodbine

A gloom was cast over this vicinity on February 26 when death called one of our most prominent young men in the person of Harry Charles Duberry, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duberry, of Westbrooke. The young man had just passed his twentieth birthday. Death came after an illness of five days, from septic pneumonia. Harry was held in the very highest regard by all. He had been employed at the Ontario Hospital, at Portsmouth, for about three years. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence, to Cataraqui cemetery, to await interment at a later date. The funeral was largely attended by friends and neighbours and by some forty attendants from the Hospital. The many floral tributes testified to the esteem in which he was held by his many friends and relatives. The pall-bearers were the Messrs. Johnson, Fowler, Wallace, Slater, Carnie, and Shermer. The flowers were carried by Messrs. Smith, Cowan, Martin, Nichols, Mooney, Murphy, McPhail, Zavita, Babcock and Pomeroy. An address of condolence was read from the hospital staff, expressing their sympathy to those who are left behind. Regular Meeting of Children's Aid Society

At a meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Lennox and Addington, held in the Superintendent's office on Thursday, the following members were present: Mr. Alpine Woods, Chairman; Miss Josephine Leamy, Miss Olive Hambly, Mrs. Wm. Howitt, Mrs. Alpine Woods, Rev. R. T. Richards, Warden G. L. Hawley, C. L. Graham, Rev. R. G. Dumbrille, Joseph Marshall, W. J. Trenouth, and the Superintendent, W. P. Barrett.

The Superintendent's report of activity since the last regular meeting gave the following information:

Applications for children to board	12
Children brought to Shelter (not wards)	6
Children left on parole (not wards)	1
Children returned to parents	1
Children under supervision	77
Children made wards	24
Complaints	22
Investigations	20
No. miles travelled in investigations	1397
Office interviews	78
Places visited	21
Police Court attendance	1
Wards in foster homes heard from	5
Wards visited	51
Warnings	8

Mr. Barrett called to the attention of the Society the cases of children about whom complaints had been sent in, and the results of the investigations. Each individual case was reviewed and some recommendations were made. In some cases no action is being taken toward making the children wards of the Society unless future circumstances make it necessary to do so.

It was recommended that two children be taken to an eye specialist on the advice of a local optometrist.

The committee composed of Miss Hambly, Mrs. Woods, and Rev. R. T. Richards was named to act with Mr. Barrett to consider the matter of boarding homes for the wards, and to make any necessary changes.

Insufficient Evidence Is Grounds For Dismissal

On Thursday, March 22nd, Ernest Johnston, of Prince Edward County, appeared before Magistrate Graham, in Police Court, on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. The alleged offence took place on March 16th. The charge was laid by Traffic Officer Rawlins.

About two o'clock on March 15th the traffic officer had received a complaint from a motorist on the highway concerning the erratic driving of a motor truck. On investigation he stopped the accused, Ernest Johnston, about five miles east of Napanee. In the cab he found a man named William Ferguson under the influence of liquor, and considered also that Johnston was intoxicated.

Johnston was examined by Dr. Stratton, who gave evidence that he considered the accused had taken some spirituous liquor. The evidence of Provincial Officer Barrett, who was called by Officer Rawlins, showed that he had not examined the accused for inoxication.

The defence witnesses, W. R. Lake and Mr. O'Neil and Harold Post, who conversed with Johnston about the time of the alleged offence, showed they considered there was no sign of intoxication on the part of Johnston. Johnston, himself, swore that he had only one pint of beer to drink on the day in question.

After hearing the evidence the Magistrate dismissed the case on the grounds there was not sufficient evidence to convict.

K. S. Ham appeared for the Crown, and G. F. Smith for the defence.

Michael E. Kearns Killed Instantly

Michael E. Kearns, of North Fredericksburgh, was killed on Thursday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, when C. N. R. train No. 5, the International Limited, travelling west, struck the buggy in which he was driving to town, at Mooney's Crossing, on the Hamburgh Road.

Mr. Kearns, who had been living recently about five miles from Napanee, on the former Alcombrack farm, about one-half mile south of the Hamburgh Road, was coming to Napanee to make arrangements for removal to a farm in the Lonsdale district.

The road leading to the crossing runs parallel to the railroad track for a distance of about a half mile and there is every opportunity for clear vision up and down the track for a long distance. Mr. Sedore, who lives opposite the crossing, noticed just before the accident a buggy with a single horse approaching very rapidly, as if the horse was frightened and had gotten out of control. He did not see the actual crash, but saw no trace of the vehicle or horse after the train had passed. He rushed over to the crossing and found a horse lying dead in the ditch beside the road on the northwest side of the railroad track. Wreckage of the buggy was strewn down the right of way for a distance of a hundred yards. There was no sign of the occupant of the buggy.

Body Found on Engine

The train was travelling down grade at the time and was going at a high rate of speed. It was brought to a stop about one hundred yards east of the crossing, because of the golf links, a distance of about three-quarters of a mile from Mooney's crossing. The dead body of Mr. Kearns was found on the front of the engine, badly smashed, with almost every bone broken.

The train proceeded to Napanee, where the accident was reported. Coroner Dr. T. M. Galbraith and Officer Rawlins and Chief-of-Police Frank Wells rushed to the scene, as did also Dr. F. C. Wilson, the C. N. R. physician.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Masters & Verney and prepared for burial. An inquest is to be held today (Wednesday). The jury empanelled is composed of: Messrs. O. S. Davis, Andrew Ford, E. M. Joyce, Fred Tavernier, Martin Barnhart, Albert Bartley, Cyrus Miller, Frank Mellow, Frank Perry, all residents of North Fredericksburgh.

Coroner Dr. T. M. Galbraith will be in charge of the investigation and Mr. C. S. Ham, the crown attorney, will represent the crown.

Seven witnesses are to be heard in connection with the investigation.

Funeral Held Saturday

The late Michael Edward Kearns was 42 years and 10 months old. He was born in Sheffield Township, the son of the late Denis Kearns and Elizabeth Kehoe. He is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter, and two brothers, J. J. Kearns, of Tamworth, and another brother in Michigan.

The funeral took place on Saturday at St. Patrick's Church, Napanee, where Rev. Father Healy conducted a high requiem mass. The body was placed in the receiving vault, to await burial at Erinsville in the spring.

The bearers at the funeral were George Creighton, Wm. Wood, Matthew Myers, Joseph McKeown, Martin McDonald and Arthur Gault.

1934 Motor Licenses Must be Used After April 1st

"I am greatly disappointed," said Mr. Macaulay, "at the lack of cooperation shown by motorists. We extended the period for the use of 1933 markers by three months, in order that no one should be inconvenienced by the rush which must ensue when such a large number of 1934 motor licenses have to be issued in a few weeks, and so that those who might otherwise have found difficulty in making immediate payment, would have a longer time to accumulate the necessary funds. The Motor Vehicles Branch provides facilities for the issuance of over a thousand cards each day, but motorists have failed to cooperate. I am sure we cannot possibly issue a total of perhaps 600,000 permits and licenses during the few remaining business days, even with the assistance of the four branch offices operated by the Ontario Motor League."

It appears some motorists will find themselves without 1934 permits or licenses after April 1, but I cannot but feel that these individuals have only themselves to blame. It is certain that we cannot extend the use of 1933 licenses further."

Local Representatives Attend Grand Lodge of L.O.L., at Pembroke

H. B. Fetterly, Belleville, Grand Master

Five hundred men and women, representing lodges and counties of the Orange Association of Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association and Young Britons, met in the town of Pembroke, last week, with session beginning on Monday, March 19th, and continuing until the evening of March 22nd. Every county in Hastings, Halliburton on the north, Durham on the West and Ottawa on the East, was represented by grand officers, county officials and members of primary lodges.

The sessions were held in the Town Hall, Pembroke, and were presided over by Mr. H. C. Shipman, Ottawa, grand master. In his opening address, Mr. Shipman pointed out that with every other fraternal organization of the Orange Association had suffered from losses through individuals being unable to pay dues. And yet, in spite of this fact, a number had been added to the membership of the organization, by initiation. The Grand Master pointed out that the order is not so much in opposition to another body as it is an effort to secure, for all, equality of treatment and strict adherence to the principles of freedom and liberty and special privileges to none." He urged every member of the Association to be true to the tenets of the order and assist its growth and usefulness by means of a constructive programme of education.

Membership of 11,439

The Secretary of the organization, Mr. T. A. Ottawa, Kingston, reported four hundred lodges in this jurisdiction, with a membership of 11,439. In spite of these losses suffered through suspensions, there had been an increase in initiations.

The Treasurer, Mr. C. H. Wood, Kingston, reported finances in splendid shape, with a large working balance in the treasury.

Mayor Bradley of Pembroke, greeted the visitors with a very optimistic address. The local Orange Association and the Pembroke Male Quartette, composed of Miss Hambly, Mrs. Woods, and Rev. R. T. Richards was named to act with Mr. Barrett to consider the matter of boarding homes for the wards, and to make any necessary changes.

Addresses by Officials

On Wednesday afternoon, many of the provincial officials of the Order presented addresses. Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., of Tweed, spoke of the problem presented by the desire of some to change the flag. Later it was reported that action was to be done in the session of Parliament to change the flag.

Mr. T. R. Shell, M. L. A., addressed the session on the work of the Immigration and Insurance Department, urging the importance of insurance in the Orange Order. He said that, life insurance companies have better security than the banks of Canada.

Mr. W. J. McEwen of Ottawa, presented the work done by the Orange Orphanage. He pointed out that in ten years, not a death had occurred in the institution. He said the Dominion should fear is not a French Quebec, but a papal Quebec. He urged Orangemen to assist those who are being persecuted in Montreal, these days. The Queen's message was well received and his intimate stories of religious life in Quebec were interesting and instructive to all who heard him.

Degree Demonstration

Wednesday evening, a unique session was held, when teams were presented to demonstrate the Orange degree. Victoria County was represented by a team from Reaboro, while Durham West sent a team from Bowmanville. The judges had a perfect way, these teams presented the beauty and sacredness and value of the Orange degree. The judges decided that the Reaboro team were the winners of the Shipman Trophy, which has been won by the same team year.

The Orange Order have, in its ranks, many old members. Bro. McDonald, of Pembroge, is 90 years of age and has been for sixty-seven years, an Orangeman. There were others present who had been Orangemen for sixty years. The youngest member present was from Cobourg, who was but twenty years of age and had become, in that short time, a county officer. Each of these were, in turn, presented to those present and were placed in prominent places in the group picture that was taken.

The Orange Association, being a religious organization, held divine service in Calvin United Church, on Thursday morning, at 11:00 a.m. The service was in charge of the minister of the church, Rev. J. M. Allen, who presented the message of the morning on "The Heroes of the Christian Faith." Rev. J. Allen was assisted in the service, by Rev. Mr. Smart, of Kingston, Grand Chaplain, Rev. J. L. Hodgson, of City View, and Rev. G. S. Gervais, Greenwood.

The Election of Officers

On Thursday afternoon, the annual election of officers took place. The election was conducted by Judge E. H. McLean of Picton, and the new officers were installed by Mr. Harold Shipman, of Ottawa, the retiring Grand Master.

Following are the officers for the ensuing year:—

Grand Master— Mr. H. B. Fetterly of Belleville.

Deputy Grand Master—E. F. Reid, Peterborough.

Grand Chaplain—Rev. J. L. Hodgson, City View.

Grand Secretary—Mr. D. J. Sutherland, Ottawa.

Grand Treasurer — Mr. C. H. Wood, Kingston.

Grand Lecturer — Mr. E. M. Mitchell, Lindsay.

Grand Marshall — Mr. S. E. Studdon, Lindsay.

Deputy Secretary—Mr. H. P. Lester Bowmanville.

Deputy Lecturer—Mr. C. Hodgson, Haliburton.

Grand Auditors—Mr. G. M. Campbell, Deseronto; Mr. G. F. Reid, of Corbyville.

Deputy Grand Chaplains of British America—Rev. A. L. Geen, of Belleville; Rev. M. Lindsay, Cornwall.

Mr. H. B. Fetterly and Mr. W. D. J. McEwen were appointed representatives, on the True Blue and Orange Orphanage.

During the afternoon of Thursday arrangements were made to hold the 1934 - 1936 Grand Lodge meeting in the Town of Trenton.

Among those in attendance from Lennox and Addington were: Mr. Roland Baker, Forest Mills, District Master of Lennox; Mr. Robert Scilly of Newburgh, District Master of Addington; Mr. Kenneth Freeman, Colebrook L. O. L., and Rev. James E. Beckel, Napanee, County Master.

County Council Names Mr. Andrew Miller School Trustee

On the afternoon of the last day of the March session of the County Council, Mr. Andrew Miller, of Bath, was appointed a trustee on the Napanee Board of Education.

At the first session of the Council, in January, Mr. J. B. Elliott was appointed to the position. He advised the Council that owing to the fact that he was a member of a Township Council he was unable to qualify as a school trustee and consequently submitted his resignation.

Mr. Miller replaces Mr. J. W. Robinson, who was the former County appointee for several years. At the inaugural meeting of the School Board Mr. Robinson was appointed a member of the Vocational Committee.

Euchre and Dance to be Held for Relief

On Wednesday, April 4th, a progressive euchre and dance is to be held in the Napanee Town Hall, in aid of local relief.

The entertainment is being arranged by the local Welfare Committee, with Miss Josephine Leamy as convenor. On Friday afternoon a meeting was held in the Town Hall, when eighteen ladies, representing all churches and organizations in the town, discussed arrangements in connection with the benefit.

Splendid prizes for the euchre and the dance have been donated by interested citizens, and all the food for the progressive euchre has also been promised.

It is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance, to show interest in a worthy cause.

Annual Meeting Of Frontenac Reg't Officers

On Thursday evening, March 22, the officers of the Frontenac Regiment held their annual meeting at the mess room, in the Napanee Armouries.

After reports of the year's activities had been given by the various committees, the election of the officers was conducted for the ensuing year.

The election resulted as follows:—

Mess President—Major R. G. Armstrong.

Vice-President—Lieut. Sterring.ton.

Secretary—Captain E. C. Robson.

Treasurer—Capt. J. L. Murray.

Magistrate's Court New Name for Police Court

Police Courts become "Magistrates' Courts" and Police Magistrates just plain "Magistrates" under an amendment to the Magistrates' Act, presented in the Legislature last week by Attorney-General Price. The nominal connection with the police give a "mistaken idea" of the functions of the Bench and courts, said an explanatory note, which ran:

"It is desirable and in the public interest that the word 'police' be dropped. It leads to the mistaken idea that the Magistrate and his court are closely identified with the police force. The Magistrate does not function for the police, nor is he really connected with the police force. He is one of the judiciary of the Province, with authority in criminal and other matters to dispense justice."

Maple Syrup Cans Must Bear the Owner's Name

Ottawa, March 23. — Every producer of maple syrup must definitely identify the retail container with his own name and address if he intends to sell the product, an announcement from the Labor Department says today.

It has been the practice of some producers to use second-hand containers, bearing the labels of the original producer, and to correct this situation an order has been issued which reads as follows:

"Every person who, by himself or through the agency of another person, again uses, as a container for maple products, any package upon which appear any of the marks required by this section, shall cause such marks to be completely removed, erased, or obliterated."

Chief Watts Attends Court Case in Deseronto

On Friday, March 23rd, Chief Watts was in Deseronto, appearing as a witness in a case at the Magistrate's court.

Morris Beckwith of Picton, was charged with reckless driving. On the morning of March 10th, about 10:30 o'clock, he was driving a truck loaded with canned goods, through Deseronto, at a time when the firemen were engaged in fighting a fire. The fire hose was stretched across the highway and Beckwith was given a signal to stop, which he did not heed. In consequence the hose was considerable damage was done to it. Word was sent to Napanee and he was apprehended by Chief Watts.

The case was heard by Magistrate Palmer, at Deseronto. Beckwith was convicted and fined $40.00 and costs.

Chamber of Commerce Meeting Tuesday Night For Re-Organization

Officers Elected and the Constitution Changed

A dinner meeting of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce was held this Tuesday evening at the Paisley House, Mr. P. Gleeson, the president of the organization, was in the chair for the business meeting, which followed the dinner.

At a previous meeting of business and professional men of the town, held on Thursday evening, March 8, a committee composed of Messrs. M. P. Graham, Geo. Howitt, F. S. Boyes, H. Card, R. Sinclair, J. Marshall and V. Cowling, was named to draw up a constitution and name officers for the proposed business-men's organization.

Mr. M. P. Graham outlined briefly the activities of the committee since its appointment. Business and professional men representing all the classes of business in the town have been called into consultation with the committee. Their views and the purpose of the proposed organization have been heard and wherever practicable their recommendations have been incorporated in the constitution, as framed by the committee.

Draft of Constitution and By-Laws Napanee Chamber of Commerce

The draft of the constitution and by-laws, governing the new organization was read by C. L. Graham, and was as follows:—

1. This organization shall be known as the Napanee Chamber of Commerce.

2. The aims and objects of this Chamber of Commerce shall be:—(1) The promotion and encouragement of enterprise and general trade and commerce of the Town of Napanee and district. (2) The active co-operation of this Chamber of Commerce in securing new industries to locate in Napanee. (3) The promotion and fostering of a better feeling between the business and professional men of Napanee and between the Town and County.

3. The funds of the Chamber shall be expended in such manner deemed to be in accordance with the objects herein set out and in payment of such expenses as are legitimately incurred in transacting the business of the Chamber.

4. Any resident of the Town of Napanee and County of Lennox and Addington shall be eligible to become a member of this Chamber.

5. The annual membership fee shall be $1.00; said fee to be paid on or before the 1st day of April each year, and any member in arrears for more than thirty days after the 1st day of May shall automatically cease to be a member of the Chamber.

6. For the management of the affairs of the business of said Chamber there shall be an Executive Council to be called the Executive of the Chamber of Commerce, which shall consist of a President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer and six others, all of whom must be members of the Chamber. Members of the Town Council are not eligible for the Executive of the Chamber of Commerce. The Executive shall hold meetings on the first Monday in each month excepting the months of June, July and August, and emergent meetings when found necessary. The Executive may appoint such standing committees (as it deems necessary, but such committees may be revised from time to time. The minutes of the Executive shall be open to all members of the Chamber who may attend, but who shall take part in the proceedings thereat. The Executive shall direct the Secretary-Treasurer in disbursements of funds and shall have authority to execute all measures deemed necessary by it to carry to promote its objects. The Executive shall report its proceedings, at each general meeting of the Chamber.

7. The President shall have power, during the interim between the meetings of the Chamber, to appoint special committees upon such subjects as he may deem necessary, whose duty it shall be to consider the subject committed to them and to report at the next regular or special meeting of the Chamber, but with no power to take further action; the Secretary-treasurer shall collect all assessments, keep an account of all monies received and expended for the use of the Chamber, sums so expended to be in accordance with the direction of the Executive of the Chamber, and shall duly deposit the funds in an incorporated bank. His accounts shall be produced for the inspection of the members at each general meeting or at any meeting upon the demand of any member, who shall give at least three days' notice. Annually an auditor committee, appointed by the Chamber, shall audit his accounts and report to the general meeting of the Chamber. It shall be the duty of the Secretary-Treasurer to give notice of and attend all meetings of the Chamber and Executive and to keep records of their doings. To conduct all correspondence and to carry into execution all orders, votes, and resolutions not otherwise committed; to keep a list of all members of the Chamber with a record of their fees; to keep a record of the doings of all special and

Moscow Cheese Factory Enter Warble Fly Campaign

At a meeting called by the Moscow Cheese Factory Board, last Thursday evening, the directors of the factory have undertaken a campaign against the Warble Fly. C. W. Buchanan, agricultural representative, Napanee, attended the meeting and gave a talk on "The Life History of the Warble Fly," and the means of control that are best adapted for the eradication of this pest. He also spoke of the investigation work that has been done on Manitoulin Island and also the campaigns that are being carried on in two counties in particular, Oxford and Elgin, where the Live Stock Improvement Associations have taken over the work of treating every animal in these counties.

The directors of the Cheese Factory have ordered Cooper's Warble Fly powder and have appointed committees and are planning to treat some 1300 head of cattle in that area.

"A CRUCIAL TEST"

After feverish days of negotiation, the threatened strike of the automotive workers was averted on Saturday. This strike, had it been called, would have affected 100,000 workers and disrupted the whole automotive industry for months. Nation wide interest was centered in the contest as it became clear, as the negotiations progressed, that more than a strike was involved. It was a test case. The issue was the right of the workers to decide the kind of union to which they would belong. The right to collective bargaining was not challenged. The question to be settled was what constituted "collective bargaining." The manufacturers, at every stage, have protested the right of collective bargaining except by unions organized within the industry. Their contention was that they could deal more satisfactorily with men from their own factories, who had elected their own representatives, than they could with outsiders who had little first-hand information. It is well known, however, to those who have had dealings with large scale productions that the men in the shops, even when organized, have had very little influence with their employers — usually it is the case of the mouse making suggestions to the cat, as to the way in which he is to be devoured, whether head first or tail first. The main issue was not touched at all. Shop committees, when they have existed, have never had any real power. They had to be careful lest their employers should resent suggestions and discharge them. The result has been that shop committees as known in the past, have been more or less of a farce. These conditions deceived nobody. But labor was unable to make any protest because of the absolute power of the owner. Under the N. R. A., however, they saw their opportunity of emancipation from this system. They urged their right to have a union which embraced all workers of a given industry. They were anxious to have their side of the case, in all matters of wages and working conditions, within the code, carried on by the ablest men in the workers' ranks, whether they lived in Detroit or Pontiac.

The Government, in drawing up its decision made it clear that they were acting in an impartial way and were sponsoring neither one form of union or the other. But they insisted on the right of the worker to determine the kind of union to which he would belong.

To insure this and to see that no coercion or reprisals are made, the Government is now set up a Committee, with headquarters in Detroit, to deal with all complaints along these lines.

Thus, another obstacle is overcome in the progress of the Roosevelt programme. It was a test case. From now on the various manufacturers' associations must recognize the right of the workers to reorganize in any way they see fit, all of which is another victory for co-operation between worker and employer.

WHO ARE THE CONSUMERS?

The trend toward chain stores and mass production, which has held the focus of public attention for the last few weeks, raises several interesting problems. In the first place, the development of the chain store method of distribution has done a great deal to lower the price of commodities to the consumer. "The whole process" as the Financial Times recently pointed out, "was designed to turn out goods at the lowest possible price."

To this end, efficiency became an obsession. Labor costs were reduced to the lowest possible, material was bargained for in huge quantities in order to get the best price, machines were scrapped to make way for newer ones which might save a cent or two on each item of production. The whole process was designed to give to the consumer, goods at the lowest possible price. There is no doubt but that has been accomplished, and that the prices of shoes, furniture, clothing and other manufactured commodities, have been materially reduced during the last few years.

But the weak link in the whole chain was a false assumption on the part of those directing these processes. The consumer was looked on as a separate and non-attached element in the community. It was not observed that the worker is a consumer, and that when the worker loses his job, his consuming power is curtailed. What is the advantage if clothing sells at ten dollars a suit, if the men who were once workers haven't got the ten dollars. Where is the advantage in a shoe once cost ten dollars a pair can now be bought for five, if the man who used to help make them is out of a job and hasn't got the five dollars.

The irony of the situation is that the more efficient we have become, the cheaper we have been able to produce, and the less we are able to buy.

The consumer is not some separate class in the community for whom the worker produces. The workers are, themselves, the consumers. Because our leaders in industry and business have failed to recognize that, millions face poverty in the midst of plenty, at a time, too, when the products of the machine age were never so low in price as at the present time.

The capacity of the consumer to purchase goods will never be returned, so long as wages are being reduced and men being laid off. To increase the purchasing power of the community, wages must go up and more men be employed. No one group can attempt that alone under unrestricted competition; such action would be suicidal both for the manufacturer and the laborer. Hence the need of government compelling codes, towards which the Stevens investigation is pointing.

THE SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF

One of the most attractive and worthwhile exchanges which come to our desk is "The Canadian" a small eight page paper published by the Ontario School for the Deaf, at Belleville. It is under the direction of the Superintendent H.B. Fetterly, who was recently elected Grand Master of the Orange Lodge of Ontario East. The magazine is ably edited by Geo. F. Stewart, and is printed by the pupils in the school, under the capable instructor in printing, Mr. L. Q. Morrison.

Probably, not many of us know the advances which, of recent years, have been made in dealing with these physically handicapped children. There are nearly four hundred of them in the school at Belleville, where they are given an academic and practical education which will enable them to take their place among the exacting conditions of modern civilization.

In the academic department, the children are taught through individual ear phones, the various sounds they advance through that to reading and speaking. Even though not able to hear in the ordinary way, they are able to catch sound vibrations of song and music and keep perfect time and rhythm.

In the practical side of their work, the girls are taught domestic science, dressmaking, weaving and other handicrafts, while the boys work in the printing shops, in the wood working department, or other manual trades depending on their tastes and capacities.

This is a splendid feature of our educational system, of which too little is known by the average man and woman.

LABOR COMES BACK

For twenty-seven years the "Municipal Reform" Party has held an unbroken tenure of office in the London County Council. Now, Labor has secured control with a membership of sixty-nine to fifty-five. This has national significance, as it marks the advance which the Socialist Party, in Britain, is making against the heaviest sort of odds. Following the last election, when it might have appeared as though the Labor Party was wiped out, they began to set their house in order and plan for the future.

They at once declared that they will never again assume the reins of office unless they are assured of a clear majority over all. They have also announced that when they next appeal to the electorate, it will be on the basis of a thorough-going Socialist programme.

In the United States, under President Roosevelt's new deal, the attempt is being made to rebuild industry and business within the frame work of the present capitalistic system. In Great Britain, the crisis was met by putting in a government which is the undoubted champion of the status quo. We are witnessing there, the strange phenomenon of an erstwhile Socialist leader at the head of reactionary government. The result has been a slight decrease in unemployment and a betterment of business conditions. But, of any fundamental change there is little evidence. It is this reaction which is giving new impetus to the Labor movement.

Should they be elected, they will, at once, proceed to the socialization of banks, mines and transportation and the heavier industries.

It is indicative of the tenor of the British electorate to-day that having made these far reaching declarations, Labor has continued to gain in the municipal elections. The significance of the victory in London lies in the fact that this council directs housing, education, poor relief and a dozen other activities affecting the lives of five million people.

These elections have far more influence and bearing on national politics than similar elections in this country. They are watched carefully by politicians to see how the political wind is blowing. This victory will, undoubtedly, give the Labor Party new life and power, and enable them to go on with their plan for a Socialist State in the "Tight Little Isle."

THE BEER PROPOSALS

Last week, the long awaited beer proposals of the Henry Government made their appearance, sponsored by Attorney-General Price. In bringing the amendments in the Liquor Control Act, the Henry Government takes from it whatever claim it may have had as a temperance measure. The Liquor Control Act has never fulfilled the promises which were so loudly made on its behalf when it was put on the statute books. Yet there are two provisions in the act, as it now stands, which we commendation even from its opponents— one of these is the prohibition against advertising and the other is the prohibition against the sale of beer and wine in hotels and restaurants. These two provisions in the present Act, gave a certain foundation to the Government's contention that their desire was to curb the evils of the drink traffic. The prohibition against advertising was intended to show that the Government did not intend to push the sale of liquor. The refusal to permit the sale of beer in restaurants and hotels was inserted in the Act, in order to remove the temptation to habits of drinking, from the youth of our Province.

By the new provisions both of these safeguards are wiped away. Beer is to be sold in hotels and in restaurants. And advertising is to be opened. That is to say, the Government has now decided to push the sale of intoxicating liquors. They set out definitely to entice a new crop of drinkers by the appeal of the press and the radio and to supplement that appeal by increasing the facilities for the purchase of intoxicating beverages.

There has been no pronounced clamour for the new legislation. The only ones particularly anxious for the change are the brewers and the hotel keepers who are more interested in the financial return than in the welfare of our citizens. On the other hand, the temperance forces have voiced their protest to the extent of 800,000 individually signed protests. In spite of this, the Government has disregarded all protests, given no indication whence the desire for a change emanated, and refuses all information on these counts. Under the new legislation, beer will be easy to get. It will be sold in restaurants and clubs where young people forgather and the whole moral tone of the youth will be correspondingly lowered. It seems almost incredible that a Government which is supposed to have the welfare of the people as its chief concern should so disregard its obligations.

The situation, from the point of view of the voter, is made more difficult, as the Opposition have acquiesced in the measure, and refuse to make it an issue at the coming election. No matter how the election turns out, the liquor interests will come out on top.

It's a clear case of "heads I win, tails you lose."

Editorial Comment

ANGLO-CANADIAN TRADE TREATY

The whole Canadian press should mobilize its forces in support of the Anglo-Canadian trade treaty. The preference given to Canada in the British market constitutes the finest opportunity ever presented to Canadian exporters over there. It remains for our producers and exporters to profit by this opportunity on an ever-growing scale. It is surely up to every newspaper in the Dominion to preach this gospel continuously.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

THE WATERWAYS DEFEAT

From the standpoint of the waterways itself the defeat of the pact is not perhaps a disaster at the present time, except that it is doubtful if Canada will ever obtain again an agreement on such favourable terms. There is no pressing need for greater transportation facilities. But from the viewpoint of power development for hydro the defeat of the treaty is little short of a catastrophe. The St. Lawrence is the only possible source of electrical energy in Ontario left for 6Hydro. With the defeat of this projectHydro has no way it can develop more of its own power. It means that Ontario in future will have to buy its power from private sources in Quebec. In view of the attitude of the American Senate and House of Representatives, it is fortunate thing for Ontario that the Hydro Commission have made the contracts they have at such favourable rates for the purchase of Quebec power; otherwise Ontario would be faced with a shortage as soon as business comes back. — London Free Press.

WAR FOR DIVIDENDS

"If we could get rid of the approximately 100 men responsible for wars in this world, the people would enjoy peace." When Henry Ford made this remark the other day he was referring to the munition makers. And he was, of course, over-simplifying. The case against the armaments interest is too complex to state in a few words. But it is also too complex to be grasped quickly by persons who have not given serious study to the conditions on which arms peddlers thrive and to which they contribute certain dangerous elements. Someone, therefore, has to be willing to put is as Mr. Ford has: "The people in general don't want war, but it has been forced on them by scheming munition makers looking for enormous profits through the sale of arms."

THE BRIGHTER SIDE

("Hordes of wombats are ravaging the crops in Eastern Gippsland Victoria, and making it almost impossible for the farmers to grow anything."—Reuter.)

Hard the farmer's lot, for strife is Centred round his land and house;
There are those who say his life is Simply full of thousand grouse.
If it ain't the beastly weather
Or the blighters that we hoe
Lo! the makers of the law
Simply make it worse another
For to sock him on the jaw.

See him deep in regulations,
Quotas, market schemes, and grants,
While the Milk Board's operations
Kick him merrily in the pants.
Still, for all his cares and combats,
This much every farmer knows—
He's better off than wombats
Won't be added to his woes.

Not in this country, my masters,
"Hordes of wombats" are not seen;
Here "down under" such disasters
Turn the baffled farmer green.
Though the farmer's tribulations
Range from ground-hogs to M.P.'s
Wombats and their visitations
Do not worry lands like these.

Therefore let the Canadian farmer
Smile upon his happier state;
Here's a point at which his armour
Guards from all the darts of fate.
Nay, let's all rejoice that this is
One of trouble's various shapes
Which this country of dubious blisses
Unmistakably escapes.

Gentle reader, O be humble
In the face of fortune's spite—
If inclined to grouse and grumble,
Think of Gippland's present plight!
Then be grateful, and refuse all
Nothing how your chance has drawn
Bats within the beltry may be.
But no wombats on the lawn.

Einstein's Ideals

There is one thing we do know: that man is here for the sake of other men—above all for those upon whose smile and well-being our own happiness depends, and also for the countless unknown souls with whose fate we are connected by a bond of sympathy.

Many times a day I realize how much my own outer and inner life is built upon the labors of my fellow men, both living and dead, and how earnestly I must exert myself in order to give in return as much as I have received.

My peace of mind is often troubled by the depressing sense that I have borrowed too heavily from the work of other men.

The ideals which have always shone before me and filled me with the joy of living are goodness, beauty and truth. To make a goal of comfort or happiness has never appealed to me; a system of ethics built on this basis would be sufficient only for a herd of cattle.

Possessions, outward success, publicity, luxury—to me these have always been contemptible. I believe that a simple and unassuming manner of life is best for everyone, best both for body and mind.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON APRIL 1ST, 1934

EASTER

"THE RISEN CHRIST"

We turn aside from the regular series of studies, this week, and consider the Easter message, as it is contained in the Gospel of John. Around no other event in the whole Christian tradition has so much controversy raged as around the resurrection. Probably, one of the reasons for this is the differences which are everywhere evident in the evangelists' accounts of what actually happened. For example, when the disciples reached the tomb, according to Mark, Luke and the Fourth Evangelist, the stone is already taken away. In Matthew's narrative the stone is still there, and is rolled away, before the women's eyes, by an angel who descends from heaven. Again, as the visitors drew nearer to the place of burial, they saw according to Mark, a young man in white sitting outside the tomb; according to Luke, two men, inside; according to the Fourth Evangelist, Mary Magdalene sees two angels sitting, one at the head and one at the feet where the body of Jesus had lain. In Matthew and Mark, the women receive a message from the young man, or angel, bidding them tell the disciples that Jesus is going before them into Galilee, and that they shall see Him there. In Luke, no such direct message, nor does Mary Magdalene, in the Fourth Gospel. But the disciples, according to the Third and Fourth Evangelists, remain in Jerusalem and see Jesus there.

In these and a half dozen other points, there are differences in the resurrection narratives. This ought not to surprise us, however, as the death of Jesus left the little band in a confused and bewildered state. These days were days of high tension and nervous strain for all concerned. In addition, more than a generation elapsed between the telling of the stories and the earliest accounts, which we have in the New Testament. During these years, there was ample time for memory to play those tricks of which we are all familiar. Then, too, those who are accustomed to taking evidence, know full well how difficult it is even for trained observers to report the same event, accurately, in every detail. These reasons are sufficient to account for all the differences of the Gospel stories of the Resurrection.

There is no difference, however, about the essential fact. All the evangelists, and Paul, later on, were quite convinced of the central truth of the resurrection. It is impossible for us, in this generation, who are motivated almost entirely by the scientific method to study what happened. But this is certain. That something tremendous took place, of which the disciples and those with them were convinced, and that was, that the Jesus who had been crucified, now lived.

Paul, it is to be observed, makes no reference to the empty tomb. He lays all the emphasis on the various appearances of the risen Christ. This is the vital factor in each of the resurrection stories.

On no other grounds is it possible to account for the amazing power which swept over the people of that first century. From humble hamlet, from the fishernets, from the seats of customs, this motely group of men burst out with a power and zeal and enthusiasm that could be accounted for on no other grounds but that they had witnessed the real and resurrection of their Master.

Since then, this faith has ever been at the very centre of our Christian faith. We may give it one explanation or another. But the fact remains that the living, ever-present Christ is the heart of all the motive power of the Church. When that faith lags or becomes dim, just at that point does the power of Christianity as a living force to change, transform and rebuild, become weak.

The Easter message is not of any act done once for all, it is the account of a process of new birth constantly at work in the hearts of men, able to-day, to transform and change as it always has done.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, March 26. — On the evening of March 17th, (St. Patrick's Day), Mr. and Mrs. Meacheen Breault entertained a number of friends at bridge. The tables were very tastefully decorated in honor of Ireland's Patron Saint. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Wagar, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Carscallen. A very dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

It is reported that a permanent top road is to be built from Enterprise to Hannah's Corners, a distance of three miles, this coming summer. The project was brought up in the meeting of the County Council, in Napanee, during the past week, and was the subject of considerable discussion, pro and con. The Provincial Government has offered to assume eighty per cent. of the cost, and the County to pay the balance of twenty per cent. Owing to the urgent need for work to be provided for men in relief of the city, it seems too good not to be accepted.

Mrs. Ira Hagerman was a visitor on Thursday in Kingston, at the General Hospital, with her sister, Mrs. Rhoads, of Newburgh, who, with her husband, was injured in a recent motor accident while on their way to Montreal. Mrs. Rhoads's injuries were much more serious than at first reported, one leg being broken and both knee caps broken, and a very severe wound in her head which required eleven stitches to close. She will be confined to the hospital for about six weeks. Her many friends throughout this section, where she once resided, rerret very much her unfortunate accident, and hope for her speedy recovery.

A number from here attended the funeral of the late Overton Clark, which was held on Monday afternoon last at the Petworth United Church.

Mr. Fred Brown, Deputy Reeve of Camden Township Council Board, was in attendance at the meeting of the County Council, which met at Napanee during the past week.

While March 21st marked the official opening of Spring, Winter was very much in evidence, the thermometer dropping to 8 degrees below zero.

Farmers who took advantage of several days of mild weather at the first of the week to tap their sugar bushes, have, as yet, received very little sap to repay them for their trouble.

A large moving van from Toronto was in the village on Wednesday with the household goods of the new Royal Bank manager, Mr. Stewart. On its return it took the furniture of the former manager, Mr. V. D. Oliver, who has been removed to Clarence, near London, Ont.

Word has been received during the past week that Public School teachers who are now attending their fourth year and expecting it would be necessary to return this year to Normal School in order to secure their permanent certificates, have been granted a year's extension by the Department of Education.

Rev. H. Smith, Chaplain of Portsmouth, was in charge of the service in St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon. Service will be held on Easter Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, when there will be a Communion service.

Mrs. Harry Badgely and son, of Tarkins, were visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Locke, for several days.

Mrs. V. D. Oliver was in the village on Tuesday and Wednesday, superintending the removal of their household goods to their new home at Glenco.e

Simple Rules Prevent HEADACHES

The best way—in fact the only safe, sensible way—to avoid headaches is to avoid constipation. Get lots of fresh air, exercise and recreation. Avoid worry. And, once of three each week, enjoy a refreshing, pleasant-tasting glass of Andrews Liver Salt.

This last rule is extremely important. Even with the most careful living and the most regular personal habits you may still suffer from the effects of incomplete elimination of waste matter. Thousands of people suffer from this cause without suspecting it. Occasional use of Andrews helps your eliminative organs to function completely; hence Andrews helps you to new energy, more vitality, and relief in the form of freedom from headaches, a clear head, good appetite and the "Joie de Vivre."

Begin following these simple rules for health. Take Andrews once or twice each week. Then you will escape those headaches which bother you so often now—and you will enjoy the pleasure of vigorous good health.

All druggists sell Andrews Liver Salt. In tins at 35c and 60c. Now, large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: John A. Hanton Co., Ltd., Toronto.

COOKIES

Grownups, as well as the children, have a desire for sweets and wholesome home-made cookies should always be on hand. Old-fashioned cookies can be made by using one cup of shortening, 2 cups of brown sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, all creamed together. Then add ½ cup water into which has been stirred one teaspoon soda, and 2 cups of sour milk. Then add a cup of flour and one teaspoon of baking powder, 2 well-beaten eggs and lastly flour enough to roll out. Chopped nuts, raisins, currants or cocoanut may be used to make a variety of cookies. The dough should stand in a cool place at least two hours before the cookies are made. These cookies will keep a long while in a covered cookie jar and the longer they stand the better they taste.

Chimney Fire on Water Street

On Thursday morning about 11 o'clock, the firemen were called to the home of John Alcombrack, on Water street. On investigation it was found that the chimney was on fire. A considerable amount of smoke was issuing from the chimney and when the fire was put out, there was no damage was done to the building.

Easter Play, April 6th Under Auspices of V. O. N.

The Mystery Play to be presented at the Town Hall, on Friday, April 6th, will be somewhat similar in character to the one produced here a little over a year ago, being a medieval mystery play telling the story of the Resurrection.

This play was written and all the costumes were designed by Miss Stephanie Jarvis, and the play has received very favourable attention in Toronto, where the Lieutenant-Governor especially requested that it be produced on the night on which he attended the Dramatic Festival.

The beautiful costumes used in Toronto have been made available to the local people who will present this play by Miss Jarvis, who will herself act the part of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The proceeds of this presentation in Napanee will be given to the Red branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Small Quantity Anthracite Coal Now in Canada

Ottawa, March 21.—A total of 900 tons of anthracite coal was produced last year in Canada, but not until the experts in the classify anthracite as coal of a class or kind produced in this country came before the Tariff Board did National Revenue Department officials know that this was so. L. F. Jackson, chief appraiser, told the Board yesterday. The board was hearing the request presented by A. W. Neill, member of Parliament for Comox-Alberni.

The argument before the Board centred on the interpretation put by the department on section six of the Customs Act. Mr. Jackson urged that the only reasonable guide was to ascertain if the coal was produced here in "commercial quantities." Since Canada's consumption of anthracite was more than 2,000,000 tons a year, it was not reasonable for purposes of administration to regard a total Dominion production of 900 tons as establishing a basis for re-classification.

The total production of the Wheatley mine could be consumed by one-third of the population of the small town of Banff. To make the classification would bring anthracite coal into the same category as bituminous, with the result that 10,000,000 people in Canada would be penalized. Anthracite was used for domestic heating; bituminous for industrial purposes. The two were not competitive. The board reserved its ruling.

Grace United Church Father and Son Banquet

About 150 men and boys of the congregation attended the annual father and son banquet in Grace Church on Thursday evening. March 22nd. The woman's organization catered for the dinner, which was served from long, tastefully decorated tables in the Sunday School hall.

Immediately following the dinner a program of music and addresses was presented, with Mr. Fred Knapp presiding as chairman. Mr. Don Scott led community singing as the first item on the program, and Mr. F. E. Smith sang a solo. Mr. C. B. Elliott proposed the toast to the boys, which was answered by Donald Simmons, who is the local member of the Older Boys' Parliament. In his address, which was well delivered, Gerald Simmons told something of the procedure of the parliament, the session he attended at Christmas time, and explained the five point objective of the parliament.

Mr. Don. Toppin, the premier of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament was an honored guest at the banquet. Mr. Toppin is a student at Albert College, Belleville, and was elected to his present position as premier, at the last session of the parliament. His address dealt with some of the projects under consideration by the boys. It struck a high note of idealism for the youth of the country.

Rev. R. T. Richards, the minister of the church, proposed the toast to the church, which was answered by James Semple, minister of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville. Dr. Semple's theme was the relationship of men to the church and to the boys. He stressed the importance of comradeship between the fathers and the sons and the necessity for setting fine examples. He urged the men not only to see that their sons go to church, but also to go to church with the boys. Mr. F. W. Barrett proposed the toast to the ladies, and Mrs. J. M. Graham replied. During the evening the boys of Don Scott's Sunday School class gave a short skit, which was cleverly done and provoked considerable amusement.

From the standpoint of attendance and interest the banquet was looked upon as a decided success.

Busy Session at Provincial Legislature

The Henry Government scored their third overwhelming vote of the session when the House divided on carrying the budget by 79-19, this week.

In concluding the debate for the Government, Premier George S. Henry delivered a smashing defence upon opposition criticism on several issues particularly in connection with the recent $40,000,000 loan floatation. Again the Premier drew comparison with the loans floated by the Drury administration, under which the Premier charged their friends had benefited, while under this loan the Government had obtained the lowest rate of any loan floated in over twenty years.

Upon the division being registered the House went into committee of supply to consider the estimates totalling $37,467,519, which are a slight arrvance over last year. The Premier drew long applause when he announced there would be no supplementary estimates, which is the first time in 21 years this has been accomplished.

On a similar division the Government was also sustained on the issue of use of dogs in deer hunting, the division being requested by D. J. Taylor, Progressive, North Grey, thus maintaining the present law prohibiting the dogs.

Beer and Wine Amendment

Attorney-General W. H. Price introduced the Government wider sale of beer and wine bills in amendments to the Liquor Control Act. The measure provides for sale of beer and wine with meals in dining rooms in standard hotels, and at the option of the Liquor Control Board may include restaurants and clubs.

It also provides for sale of beer by the glass in refreshment rooms in standard hotels, and in veterans' and labour union clubs.

Supplementary legislation likely to be introduced will empower the Liquor Control Board, if it deems it advisable, to make it unnecessary to have a permit to purchase beer and wine, or either of them, as is carried out under the present liquor law.

The act will not be brought into force until proclamation, which is interpreted to mean not until after the Provincial election.

With a view to establishing control on the measure, the amendments lay down several drastic stipulations. Only British subjects may secure licenses as the act terms the privilege "authorities." No authority is issued to any one interested in breweries or wineries, neither will sale be permitted to any one on premises who are minors or intoxicated persons. No bars are to be erected. No packages of beer may be removed from authorized premises, and no slot machines are to be installed. "Undesirables" and "bad characters" are not permitted on premises.

The Board is given power to designate the premises to be used as refreshment rooms; where rooms are to be located; that how much beer and wine are to be sold, and the periods of the year, days and hours when they may be sold, served and consumed. Holders of permits are authorized to keep books, file returns to the Board.

Attorney-General Price in introducing the bill said that the measure is an aid to temperance and sobriety, pointing out that the free distribution of beer and wine would mean a further decrease in the consumption of spirituous liquors and an increase in the consumption of beer and light wine. It would also remove the feeling of the average working man that he has been discriminated against in not being permitted to buy a glass of beer; elimination of the home-brew menace as built up in the Province under Federal jurisdiction and authority.

Permits Liquor Advertising

The bill, Col. Price pointed out, also maintains the Local Option Clause as included in the present act, but they will be extended so that Local Option districts may vote on whether they want beer and wine in dining rooms or beer in refreshment rooms. Authority for permitting liquor advertising in newspapers and by radio and to grant permits for consumption for beer and wine at banquets is now vested in the Board.

"Liquor consumption in the Province has dropped from the peak year of 1929 from $35,000,000 to $20,000,000 in 1933," said Col. Price. "The greatest reduction has occurred in spirituous liquors, a much smaller reduction in the consumption of beer, while the consumption of wine has decreased very little. It is anticipated that with a freer distribution of beer and wine there will be a further decrease in the consumption of spirituous liquors and an increase in the consumption of beer and light wine."

"Nearly 175,000 home brew permits granted by the Federal authorities have presented a menace which had to be met" said Col. Price. "This act puts the control of the consumption of beer back in the hands of the Board and should be an aid to temperance and sobriety."

Premier Henry agreed with the resolution tabled by A. Russell Kennett, Conservative, Bracondale, that some action should be taken into the charge that practically racketeering exists in the sub-letting of contracts by contractors to the detriment of those employed. The Premier agreed that the Labour committee would be called to deal with the matter.

JOSEPH CONRAD'S FATHER

Joseph Conrad's father, Appolo Nalecz Korzeniowski, was a martyr to the cause of letters. He gave up his literary gift to the cause of his country, Poland, and though he was ably versed in other languages he refused to abandon his native tongue in the hope of self-glorification elsewhere.

And there is a silence freighted with the tragedy of denial in the attitude of Joseph Conrad to his father. The vengeful sea kept them apart, these two, and aborted the filial relation before it could flower into a more entranced silence.

While the one flourished his literary talent by its salty tang, the other flickered and died, leaving a sheaf of poems, several plays and a few translations in the wake of his pen.

The majority of Korzeniowski's verses were published in a group of Polish romances that flourished in Warsaw during the 50's and 60's. His plays, escaping the blunt wits of the Russian censorships and censors, carried a contraband message of cheer to his brethren. They came to look upon him rather as a saviour and a political hero than as an impassioned writer who had chosen the theme of patriotism. In the French metropolis they saw in Korzeniowski the spirit of the deeper vision of a poet and playwright, a man of consequence in letters, vanished from their focus.

Yet, the father of Conrad remains still unknown. His verses can not be found in the most copious anthologies of Polish poesy, and his books are scattered and forsaken. His manuscripts are probably recumbering in Cracow University, to which he bequeathed them, untouched by seeking hands.—International Book Review.

standing committees, when required to so.

8. There shall be four general meetings of the Chamber of Commerce each year, namely, in the months of February, May, September and November, on the first Tuesday in each of these months, and should this day fall on a holiday, then the meeting shall be held as directed by the Executive. The election of officers for the year shall be held at the general meeting of the Chamber, at the February meeting.

9. If any member of the Executive dies, resigns his office, or be absent for four consecutive meetings of the executive, the Chamber may at any meeting, elect an eligible member of the Chamber, one week prior to its consideration.

11. The President and Secretary-Treasurer are authorized to sign all cheques as directed by the Executive of the Chamber of Commerce.

Immediately following the first reading of the constitution and the by-law, it was moved by Messrs. Alex. MacGregor and seconded by George Howitt, that for the purpose of reorganization of this Chamber of Commerce, that all present at this meeting be invited to become members of this Chamber of Commerce and lists be circulated for signatures of all those present who wish to become members. Motion carried.

It was then moved by C. L. Graham and seconded by W. Y. Webster that the Constitution and By-laws, as read, be adopted by this meeting as the Constitution and By-laws of this Chamber of Commerce. Motion carried.

Moved by Messrs. Alex. MacGregor and seconded by George Howitt that, the Membership Committee make a canvas of the town to secure further members who are not in attendance to-night.

Moved by Messrs. Harry Card, seconded by Don. Roblin, that the Temporary Committee appoint the following as officers of this Chamber of Commerce, for the ensuing year:—

President— Joseph Marshall.

"WINDY WILLOWS" PRESENTED AT COBOURG

On Monday night, Rev. R. T. Richards and a number of young people from Grace United Church, visited Cobourg and presented their play "Windy Willows," a mirth provoking comedy in four acts, in Trinity Hall. "Windy Willows" is the name of a rural village in Iowa, and the story centred around the arrival of certain aristocratic ladies to make their home there, and of ludicrous incidents and complications that followed, flavoured with the right amount of intrigue, mystery and crime to make a most interesting and laughable comedy.

There was a large audience present, who showed appreciation by unstinted applause throughout the play and a continuous laughter. There is no place for anyone nursing a fit of the blues.

Rev. R. C. Woodger, as chairman in, opening the evening's entertainment, expressed the pleasure he personally felt, in having Mr. Richards and the young people from his former charge visit Cobourg, after which Mr. Richards, who was the director of the play, responded and introduced the characters in the cast.

Mr. Thompson of Napanee, gave a humorous reading before the play which was much enjoyed and was appreciatively applauded.

Trinity Sunday School orchestra played while the audience was assembling, and their good music was greatly enjoyed.

"Windy Willows" quartette, comprised of four Napanee gentlemen, gave several numbers between acts and judging by the applause made an appeal, all their own, to the audience. There was also instrumental music supplied by Napanee talent.

Altogether, it was a highly enjoyable evening and the Napanee entertainers received the thanks of the audience for their good work and mirth-provoking programme.

ADOLPHUSTOWN A. Y. P. A.

The fourth meeting of Adolphustown A. Y. P. A. was held in the parish hall on Tuesday evening, March 20th. The meeting was opened by prayer, led by our president, Mr. R. Daverne. The minutes were then read by the secretary and were adopted. Seventeen members answered the roll call and one visitor.

It was decided to continue with last year's play "March Ado about Detty." immediately after Lent.

A programme committee was nominated for the next meeting, and the business being settled, the meeting was adjourned.
